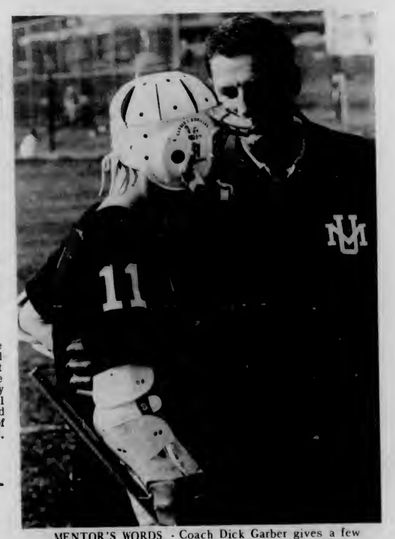
This billing is even more appropriate when you consider that the Eagles will be daring the Redmen to duplicate last year's 11-8 victory at Varsity Field.

The BC squad of a year ago started off like gangbusters winning 11 in a row before dropping nine of their last 12. But that's all in the past, and the Eagles have to be considered as legitimate threats in the Greater Boston League despite the fact that Harvard has been established as a strong favorite.

Bill Cunis, temporary coach for the Eagles, while Eddie Pellegrini recovers from an ailment, will probably go with the same lineup that beat MIT 6-0 in Tuesday's opener.

Dan Zailskas will be at first with Mike Robertson at second, Paul McKinnon at shortstop and John Somato at third. Tim Graham will be in left, Jack Abbott a promising sophomore will be in right and either John Salmon or Mike Whitney will go in center. Bob Maher, who in the past has done well in the Cape Cod League, will start at catcher.

Robertson is a man whom UMass coach Dick Berquist has a particular respect for. In his last two outings against the Redmen, he's belted two home runs. Against MIT, his two run homer sealed the verdict. Also a football and hockey player, he batted .322 last spring.



The starting pitcher tomorrow will be either Ray La Gace, Vin Campobasso or John Salmon. La Gace is a tall lefty and Campobasso has pitched in the Cape Cod League, Salmon, who can also play in center, shut out MIT on nine hits Tuesday and should be ready by tomorrow but the decision of course, is up to Cunis.

Berquist named Norm Elliott as UMass' probable starter.

Coming off yesterday's win at UConn, the Redmen are certainly in a good position to accept the Eagles' challenge. It should make for a good match. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

NORM ELLIOTT
Starting pitcher at BC

MENTOR'S WORDS - Coach Dick Garber gives a few words of advice to Co-captain Kevin O'Connor. For tomorrow's preview and more shots of the Wesleyan game, see p. 10. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Tracksters to Duel in Tri-Meet

Tomorrow, the Redman track team opens its long and grueling schedule with a tri-meet against Northeastern and Boston U. The meet opens at 10 a.m. with the hammer and javelin at Boston College and then switches to White Stadium for the remaining field events and the running events.

Co-captain Bill Wilen and Ed Arcaro will handle the hammer chores for the Redmen against the Huskies' Don Cybulsky. Wilen won the hammer throw at the tri-meet last spring. Senior Gary Wilson and sophs Bill Mahoney, and Dana Robertson will represent UMass in the javelin throw against Steve Lepre of NU and Bill Currier of BU.

UMass' Arcaro and Dave Schlatka will hookup with BU's Phil Conway in the shot and discus as the field events continue at the stadium. In the high jump, BU's defending indoor New England champ, John Winskowicz, will be the chief opposition for UMass' tough trio of Cal Carpenter, Paul Nyman, and John Ariensen.

The Redmen will be well represented in the speed events with a contingent of Walter Mayo, Dave Marble, Steve Chase, and Ed Heywood manning the 100 and 220 dashes. In the middle distance events of the 440 and 880, UMass will have experienced performers in Diego Gonzalez, Bob Hasselbaum, and Bill Donaldson. Gonzalez and Hasselbaum, both seniors, have enjoyed really strong winter seasons. Both runners were sure point scorers during the past winter campaign and are in top shape for the spring season.

The mile should prove to be a close three way battle with Ron Wayne of UMass dueling Larry Josephs of NU and Peter Hoss of BU. Peter's brother Paul will join Charlie Land and Tom Derderian in the two mile against Northeastern's Bob Fallon, Mike Small and Mike Scanlon.

Hurdling for the Redmen will be Marc Lefever and Jerry Spellman against NU captain, Jay Jellison. Spellman will come back to double in the 440 intermediate hurdles possibly along with soph Larry Paulson.

Coach O'Brien figures that the results of the meet will depend on which team can pick up the most third and fourth place points. We just got onto the track this Monday and its tough to say how we'll do. Because of the bad spring I'd say all three teams are unsure of how they can perform in this meet.
JDF

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL
TFWZ, Gamma, WBF
Untouchables 16, Ques 4
Stix 3, Roosters 1
Weasels, Bennys, 2 Forfeit
Little Fellas 14, GAK 8
KB''B'' 17, Rasputin 2
Twin Hills 24, Fish Stix 4
Avengers 22, Stat 7
SOCCER
Som 3, PLP 0
TEK 1, KS 0
Ambassadors 3, Dinks 0
Cougars 1, Commanches 0
Mags, Leopards, WBF
Panthers 1, Colt 45's 0

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 117 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, APRIL 14, 1969

Lederle Accepts Council Petition

By ROSE L. MILLER
Staff Reporter

UMass President John W. Lederle, after reconsideration, accepted the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council's petition demanding an increased number of black construction workers Friday. Lederle, however, said the existence of racial discrimination was not substantiated. The President originally had rejected the petition.

Lederle's acceptance of the petition followed a half-hour caucus by 12 student representatives, including Cindi Olken, vice-president of the Student Senate, Dave Beckwith from Project 10, Rev. Ron Hardy, chairman of the King Council board of directors, Stan Kinard, president of Afro-Am, Mike Minsky of S.D.S. and Dan Weir from the University Christian Movement. Gil Salk, Executive Secretary of the King Council, was the group's spokesman.

Lederle began the meeting at Whitmore stating that he was "glad other students (than those on the original attending list) were interested and that his original work (on the petition demands) was done more narrowly." Explaining his original rejection of the entire petition in his first statement Friday, he said, "to the University's knowledge the contractors are living up to the fair hiring practices. . . no one has called my attention to any discrimination. . . the King Council's assertion, based on a horseback study. . . may not be accurate."

Salk countered, clarifing the issue of the petition as "more than racial discrimination. . . we want the University's support in correcting the lack of minority group representation in construction jobs . . . in fact up to recently, there has been no anti-discriminatory clauses in contracts. . "the burden of proof" addition to the present anti-discriminatory clauses could be used to awaken blacks, who in the past were discriminated against and who are still not aware of the new laws. Active recruiting by the construction company would convince them that jobs are now open to them."

Salk's further clarification of the petition's meaning persuaded Lederle to reconsider his complete rejection of the petition and to recommend that Prof. Isodore Silver of the Business Department and Attorney Stanley Meyers of the Administration meet today to rewrite the petition into an acceptable version.

Today, Lederle will call on a representative of the O'Connell Construction Company to set up future talks for student representative Stan Kinard, and himself on what can be done about increasing black construction workers. A response by the company is expected by Friday.

On April 21, there will be an open meeting for all the University community to discuss what has taken place to date.

Before changing his mind, Lederle along with Attorney Meyers advised Salk to take any evidence of discrimination to the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. Lederle emphasized that if the King Council has evidence, they have not presented it to him. Although Lederle admitted there are "a limited number of blacks working on campus construction jobs," he felt it may be for reasons other than racial discrimination.

MLK COUNCIL PETITION - President Lederle met Friday with 12 student representatives to discuss the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council's petition. The petition demanded an increased number of construction workers and was accepted by Lederle. (MDC photo by Pat Lrmpart).

Senate Endorses Request For More Black Workers

The Student Senate last night endorsed, unanimously, a request to the President of the University to use his influence with state authorities to get the contractors of campus buildings to hire more blacks. Senator Kentfield stated that the President had already agreed and asked the Senate to give its moral support. The agreement came out of a meeting with university authorities on Friday.

In other business, the Seante committed to the Services Committee a bill which would allow students to remain in their rooms during vacation periods, with a pending amendment concerning eviction from rooms for conferences. Senator Staples emphasized that these conferences create a high risk for personal property and that students should have the room for the full academic year. The bill was postponed till the question of the loss of revenue from conferences and the cost of increased security are investigated.

In further action the Senate passed a resolution opposing the arrest of the demonstrators on Feb. 13. Senator Dubois stressed that it was a "tragic course in violent suppression of peaceful protest." the bill passed 45-1-2. In related business, the Senate voted to allow the student Judiciaries to enforce only those student rules passed by the Senate. It was suggested by Vice-President Olken that students would then be at the mercy of special administrative courts, and that students might be more responsible if they worked with the administration rules. Former President Silverman reminded the Senate that all administrative rules are for the undergraduates and that when action directly effects the students, students should act. The bill was in reference to differing views on the Picketing Code between the Senate and the Administration.

THE BEAR THAT ISN'T THERE - The honored sentinel of the Union lobby, which goes under no other name than "the bear", was allegedly stolen yesterday. It mysteriously disappeared after a brief blackout at 1:00 a.m. in the Student Union. It was barely gone a few hours before the police began patroling for bear tracks. (MDC photo by Ken Emery).

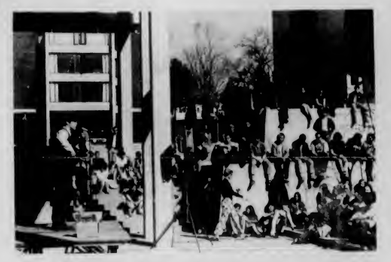
Bear Bolts Student Union Lobby

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

A funny thing happened in the Student Union early Sunday morning. The brown statue of a bear, normally the solumn guardian perched atop the main door of the Union lobby, disappeared during a short blackout.

It all happened at about 1:00 a.m. Sunday morning when, mysteriously, all the lights in the building went off. About five minutes later, when the lights came back on, the bear was gone. The cause of the blackout is still unknown.

The interesting thing about the alleged kidnapping is that the bear was bolted down to a steel platform on top of the door. (The statue was bolted down because, several years ago, the bear was stolen and later recovered in Boston) This means that, to be removed, the bolts had to be sawed off in about five minutes.



The campus police are reportedly investigating the entire situation, but, when called by the MDC last night, were not home. The campus operator explained, "They're (the police) not here - they're on patrol right now, and I don't know when they'll be back."

Meanwhile, a source with in the student body advises that the bear will return, probably as mysteriously as he left, in about a week, unharmed.

Capitol Punishment Remains State Law

BOSTON (AP) - There is no chance for abolition of capital punishment in Massachusetts during 1969, Joseph F. McCormack, chairman of the State Parole Board said Sunday night.

There is a chance, however, that one of 14 convicted murderers in Walpole Prison's Death Row may die in the electric chair this year, he added.

As part of Southwest Spring Week, the Hello Friend Coffee House was held outdoors in the central mall of the complex. Folk music and poetry were the featured entertainment. A picnic supper followed. (MDC photo by Stephan Schmidt)

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO (AP) - A 22-year-old sailor was shot to death on the stage of an empty North Side theater apparently, police said, while dancing to phonograph music with a spotlight playing upon him.

The victim in the bizarre tragedy was identified as Richard L. Levine of 40 Broadland, Brewer, Maine. Police have charged the theater manager, William P. Arndt, 39, with murder.

SAIGON (AP) - An American armored column battled a North Vietnamese force for the second time in three days northwest of Saigon, inflicting sharp losses on the enemy without suffering a single casualty.

MIAMI (AP) - A "very friendly" Bible-reading man and three companions armed with guns and a knife hijacked a Pan American World Airways jetliner to Cuba yesterday. The San Juan-to-Miami flight carried 84 passengers and seven crew members. It landed in Miami with all the passengers, except the hijackers, four hours after its forced stop in Havana.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bi-partisan group of 12 senators announced yesterday plans for legislation to establish student grants to enable more youths from middle-income families to attend college.

The present grant program, established in 1965, applies only to low-income families.

SAIGON (AP) - After years of publicly ignoring or minimizing the presence of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia, Prince Norodom Sihanouk is loudly complaining that they've invaded his country in strength.

At two news conferences in March, Sihanouk declared with alarm that substantial numbers of foreign troops were concentrated along the frontier back from the South Vietnamese border "up to regimental size, with many installations."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Draft director Lewis B. Hershey, an opponent of the so-called volunteer army, says voluntary recruitment could only support armed forces less than half as large as those the nation has now.

Present U.S. military strength is more than 3.4 million but Hershey said Sunday "I think 1.5 million is very optimistic" when he was asked how large a force could be maintained by voluntary enlistments.

By (AP) - The rising Mississippi River posed a new menace yesterday for a three-state area of the midwest already battered by flood waters that have driven thousands of persons from their homes.

Some 90 homes were evacuated and eight houses were moved to higher ground.

Class of 1971

Executive Council Meeting

SUNDAY, ARPIL 13 — SBA 120

7:00 p.m.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Elections

for the Student Union Governing Board

Primary election April 17

Election April 24

Nomination papers available in the R.S.O. office, S.U. and must be returned before 5:00 p.m. Monday, April 14, 1969.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Notices

SCI-FI CLUB
Get your copy of the Zobee now. Need more material for our next issue. Contact Adrienne Shanler or Pat Carey for info. Whoever took our Isaac Asimov tape, please return it, as it is unduplicatable.

SKI CLUB
Meeting tonite in Thompson 102 at 8 p.m. Free films, election of officers, and discussion of Tuckerman's Ravine trip.

UNIVERSITY MASS DAMES
University Mass Dames Bingo night Wed. 8:15 p.m. in Farley 4-H Club. Refreshments.

WAA EXECUTIVE ELECTIONS
Will be held Wed. and Thurs. from 8 a.m. to noon at Wope and from 12:30-4:30 at the S.U. Lists of those eligible to vote are posted in the center of each women's dorm.

APRIL 24
is not Spring Day.

PRECISIONETTES
Tryouts begin Thurs. at 7 p.m. in Boyden Main Gym. Bring sneakers. All undergraduate women welcome.

SOCIOLOGY LIAISON
Mon 8 p.m. in the Narfalk Rm. of the S.U.
"BIOCHEMISTRY OF CELLULASES"
Lecture by Dr. E.T.Reese of the U.S.Army Natick Laboratories Wed. at 4 p.m. in Rm. 51, Goessmann Lab. Coffee at 3:45.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Important meeting Tues. nite at 6 p.m. in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rms. Voting for new officers. No executive board.

WMUA
Station Meeting 7:30 p.m. Policy Board 7:00 p.m.

MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE
Tickets on sale in Dickinson Hall now for formal Mili Ball, May 10.

VOLLEY BALL CLUB
Training Tues. and Thurs. 7:30-8:30 p.m. Sat. at noon in Boyden gym.

INDIA ASSOC.
Hindi Movie "Choudhwin Ka Chand" at 6:30 p.m. on April 20 at Mahar Aud. English subtitles.

PRECISIONETTES COFFEE HOUR
Mon 7:30-8:30 in Colonial Lounge, Wed. 7:30-8:30 in Memorial Hall.

PROF JORAM LINDENSTRAUSS
Of the Univ. of Jerusalem and Visiting Prof. at Berkeley will give a talk on "A general introduction to Banach spaces" at 4:40 p.m. in the Mathematics Colloquim Rm. in Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m.

STUDENT UBLIC HEALTH ASSOC.
Open meeting Tues. at 4 p.m. in Draper 122.

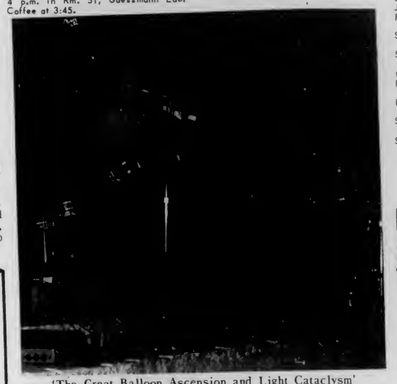
CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Testimony meeting on Tues. at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm.

YOUTH-MARCH
Youth Organized and United to Help Mass. Assoc. for Retarded Children meeting tonite in the Plymouth Rm. 7:30-9:00 p.m.

STUDENT HEALTH AND WELFARE COUNCIL
Meeting tonite 7:30 p.m. in the Berkshire Rm.

WRITE FOR PEACE COMMITTEE
Meeting for all interested in protesting the war, Wed. 8 p.m. in the corner of the new Hatch.

PROJECT TEN
Tonite at 9 p.m. Candidates for the Class of '72 will discuss their candidacies. All freshmen invited. Pierpont Main Lounge.



SENATE BUDGETS COMMITTEE
Groups wishing to apply for SATE appropriation for the fiscal year '69-'70 must contact the committee an or before Fri. the 18th. Jim Albert, Chairman. 701 Webster. 6-7207.

UNIVERSITY BANDS
Meeting tonite for election of staff. 7 p.m. in Rm. W-16 of Machmer.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - one pair of men's brown-framed glasses, between Northampton and Amherst. Reward, call 6-6285.
Lost - Brown pocketbook. Owner not interested in money just personal belongings which would be of no use to anyone else. Call 5-2304 and ask for Joan Bentz. Reward.

PINNINGS
Valerie Sano '71 Patterson to Ken Stevens '70 Baker.
Janet English '72 Melville to Eric Serafield '72 Washington Middle.
Louise Skarbek '68 Worcester State to Paul Marrier '70 APO.

ENGAGEMENTS
Maureen Maher '69 Leach to John Lacke '70 Worcester State.
Carol Podelski '69 Patterson to Noel Schaslik '69 Hills South.
Mary Dale, '70 Knowlton to Stephan Smith '70.

'The Great Balloon Ascension and Light Cataclysm' was the name of the light show that drew crowds Friday night. It was held outdoors in Southwest and featured The Corduroy Necessity, a band from Amherst College. (MDC photo by Pat Lempart).

Fellowships Are Granted To Chem. Profs

Fellowships for basic research have been granted by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation to chemistry professors on the Boston and Amherst campuses of the University of Massachusetts.

They are Dr. C. Peter Lillya, assistant professor of chemistry at the Amherst campus and Dr. Jean-Pierre Anselme, associate professor of chemistry at the Boston campus.

Dr. Lillya received his B.A. degree from Kalamazoo College in 1959 and his Ph.D. in organic chemistry from Harvard University five years ago. He was appointed to the UMass - Amherst staff in 1963 and has written articles in several research publications.

Dr. Anselme, a native of Haiti, holds a B.A. degree from St. Martial College in Haiti and a B.S. degree in chemistry from Fordham University. He received his Ph.D. from Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. Anselme has been at UMass-Boston since its inception in 1965. He has published one book and 18 pamphlets and articles.

The University of Massachusetts recipients were selected from among some 650 nominees at universities all over the nation. The two-year fellowships carry an average stipend of $8,750 a year, and are awarded to young physical scientists for research at an early stage in their academic careers.

CABOT EAST 75 Cabot St. Chicopee ● 594-6022

Take Route 116 Direct to Theatre

SUNDAY — APRIL 20 — 3 SHOWS

at 2 - 5 - 8 p.m.

"CREAM"

filmed live in brilliant color

"Farewell Concert of the Century"

plus — ON STAGE

The Swinging — Soul — Blues of

"The Bostels"

Tickets on sale now at Student Union B. O.

2 p.m. $3.00 — 5 and 8 p.m. $3.50

Limited Seating ● Order Now

SUG BOARD ELECTIONS

CLASS '72 '71 '70

APRIL 24

NOMINATION PAPERS IN RSO

Write for Peace' Committee Statement Asks Support from UMass Community

On Friday afternoon, several members of the Write For Peace Committee met in the Student Union to draft a public statement requesting support from the University community.

The committee of students, including Nick Ackerman, George Child, Eileen Goldstein, Mary Goulbisky, Gary Greenberg, Linda Harris, Steve Kramer, Ken Mosakowski, Al Peaks, Arnie Wallenstein, and Howard Young, was formed last Tuesday for the purpose of stimulating renewed legitimate means of protest against the Vietnam War.

The text of the Write For Peace Committee's statement is as follows:

PEACE IS RIGHT

The longest war in our history... over 33,000 American soldiers killed, over 215,000 American soldiers wounded. . .a cost to the taxpayers of 30 billion dollars a year.

Only Congress has the power to declare war, but Congress gave away this power over life and death the fate of our sons and brothers and husbands - to one man sitting in the White House.

Congress was too afraid to disagree or take a stand: Congress "rubber - stamped" the major votes and appropriations to send our men to Vietnam. Our present Congressmen in Massachusetts have been silent on Vietnam for too long.

It is about time we show our Congressmen that silence is not golden and that action must be taken to change our Nation's priorities.

A group of concerned University students has joined together to try to change the past and present inactions of our Congressmen. CONGRESS CAN BE MADE RESPONSIVE TO PUBLIC SENTIMENT ON THE VIETNAM WAR IF EACH CONGRESSMAN'S CONSTITU – ENTS EXPRESS THEIR DISSATISFACTION WITH THE WAR.

All those who could be interested in helping to crate a viable force for peace are welcome to attend a meeting on Wed., April 16th, at 8 p.m. in the new section of the Hatch.

ACLU Recommends a Return To Peaceful Protest Methods

NEW YORK (CPS) - The American Civil Liberties Union has called on students to "return to peaceful methods of protest," while criticizing university administrations for "stoking the fires of campus discontent."

The statement, issued by its board of directors, said that "abandoning the democratic process in the interest of 'good causes' is risking the destruction of freedom. . ."

ACLU, which issued the statement late last week, was immediately attacked by four New York attorneys, all associated with the New York branch of the nationwide organization. The four were critical of the statement's emphasis on asking students to categorically reject violence as a means of achieving goals.

Specifically, they mentioned the ACLU phrase that campus "violence will breed a counter-violence and backlash.'

'To add the voice of the ACLU to the repressive forces already at work against social change in our society,' the four continued, "seems counter-productive if not dangerous at this time." The lawyers - all of whom have defended activists in court - said it was far better to emphasis the conditions that force students to violence than to "focus on the militant response they have bred.'

The ACLU statement showed understanding of some of the problems students face, "We are aware," it said, that "dissenters are handicapped by lack of funds and of direct access to media of mass communications as well as by stubborn and often recalcitrant resistance to desirable change." ACLU also expressed opposition to legislation which would "inflame further unrest.'

The statement was sent to presidents, heads of faculty councils, student body presidents and editors at 350 "leading" colleges and universities.

MDC

SPORTS HOTLINE

5-0344

Winners of Nathaniel I. Bowditch Speaking Contest at University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Center is University senior, Linda L. Doggart of Coventry, Connecticut, a major in Veterinary and Animal Science who won third place. Left to right, David J. Carlson, Bedford, second prize winner who is also a University senior majoring in Veterinary and Animal Science; First place winner Donald R. Bridges, Peabody, a senior in the Stockbridge School of Agriculture majoring in Landscape Operation; Fred P. Jeffrey, Associate Dean, College of Agriculture and Director of the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, who presided. Prize money was furnished by the Massachusetts Society for Promoting Agriculture.

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are available now until April 18, 1969 for the following Student Senate seats:

CANCE	JAMES
COMMUTERS (2)	J.Q.A. LOWER
FIELD (1)	LEACH

FRATERNITIES (1)

Papers are available in the RSO Activities office. Completed nomination papers must be returned by 5:30 P.M. April 18. Drawings for ballot position will occur at that time.

Elections shall be April 24. Dorm elections in the dorms, 6:00 to 9:00 P.M. Commuter and Fraternity elections in the Student Union 9:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

Now on the second floor of the

STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

at

THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free

purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free

256-6667

253-7100

FREE DELIVERY

6 - 11

"Francis Albert Sinatra Does His Thing"

(One more time!)

If you missed Frank's show last Fall, take heart! We're bringing the whole Thing back for an encore ...same great Sinatra ...same great guests:

DIAHANN CARROLL and THE FIFTH DIMENSION!

And of course, same great sponsor. (But you know that.)

MONDAY, APRIL 21
CBS-TV 9-10 p.m. EST
(but check your local listing just to be sure.)

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS • NEWARK • LOS ANGELES • TAMPA • HOUSTON • COLUMBUS

Students and Faculty Seek End To Strike at Harvard University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (CPS) - All indications Sunday suggested that Harvard University's students and faculty will officially return to class this week by voting to end the strike at a mass meeting scheduled for Monday night.

The moderate student coalition seems satisfied with the faculty's nearly-unanimous vote Friday "deploring" the administration's decision to bring police on campus to end a sit-in. The main strike groups had merely demanded amnesty and moves to restruct the Harvard Corporation and a condemnation of the police. All three demands were met at least partially in the Friday faculty meeting.

The faculty had not struck, but members have been invited to attend the Monday mass meetings because of the "support" indicated in the vote.

150 of Harvard's 900 teaching fellows, not allowed in the faculty meeting, voted to strike Monday.

The 395-13 faculty vote also called for a committee to take full responsibility for disciplining the protesters and to study possible restructuring of the corporation.

At the time of the vote, school President Nathan M. Pusey said "We have lost the battle." He has been president since 1962, and there is speculation that he may announce his retirement when the current trouble ends.

The University's Oversears -- a group of 30 prominent alumni who hold theoretical but not actual control over the campus -- may meet in emergency session Monday. It would be the first time in Harvard's 333 year history that they ever assembled to deal with a particular situation. It is unclear what they consider doing and even what they actually have the power to do. Pusey's position could be jeopardized were they also -- like the faculty -- to censure his decision to bring in the police.

Harvard University's student power struggle appeared headed for the conference room and out of the streets Sunday as strike support dwindled and ad hoc strike groups began to dissintegrate.

Though SDS gained control of strike tactics and elected the entire slate of a strike steering committee late Friday, Harvard's most militant group failed to draw more than 500 persons to a rally Saturday.

Smith College Hosts Lecture By British Philosophy Prof.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. - A noted British philosopher will give two lectures at Smith College on April 15 and 16.

J. P. Corbett, professor of philosophy at the University of Sussex, Brighton, England is visiting professor at the University of Toronto this year. On Tuesday (April 15) he will discuss "Ethics and Experience," at 8 p.m. in the Browsing Room of the William Allan Neilson Library. On Wednesday (April 16) he will speak on "Irrationality in Politics," at 8 p.m. in the Conference Room of the Alumnae House.

Both lectures are under the auspices of the Lecture Committee and the department of philosophy. The public is invited to attend.

According to Professor Corbett, his second lecture will deal with "the nature of irrationality and irrationality in political conduct, as illustrated both by the political preaching of the Nazi movement and by their theories as to the nature of political activity." He will seek to show that their practices were "irrational,"...and that "their theories were unrealistic in ways that serve to illuminate some of the main features of contemporary radical agitation."

Professor Corbett's field of special interest is political philosophy and ethics. His recent book, "Ideologies," is concerned with issues connected with European unity and the division of Germany.

Professor Corbett was trained at Oxford University, where he took his degree in philosophy, politics, and economics, and later became Jowett Lecturer in Philosophy. He was a Fellow and Tutor of Balliol College from 1945 to 1961, and was visiting lecturer in 1958 at Yale University.

Since 1961 he has been professor and dean of students at one of the new universities of England, the University of Sussex.

BOLD

PLAYS AT

CHEQUERS

TUES. and THURS. 9-12

256-8189

KENNETH P. O'DONNELL

will he be the next Governor of Massachusetts?

DVP Lecture

Tonite, 8:15 p. m., Thompson 104

From the Circular File

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

A STUDENT SENATE SUB COMMITTEE on picketing and demonstrations established by the Senate's Student Matters Commitee, has announced that it will begin hearings on "the limits of premissible dissent" over the next few weeks. Specific topics to be discussed include the propriety of the Administration's response to the Witmore sit-in of February 13., the likely action of the Administration in future demonstrations and the appropriateness of the Senate's revised picketing code. The subcommittee intends to determine the need for further Senate legislation inthis area, and will announce the dates of these hearings in the near future.

****

RONALD HARDY, campus coordinator for the Valley Peace Center, reminds, "that only five Monday nights of counselling remain this semester." Hardy urges Seniors and any other students with draft problems or questions to talk with the counselors each Monday night, from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., in the lobbies of Coolidge Tower and Baker House. . .There will be an open lecture April 20 at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom by David E. Dellanger, editor of Liberation magazine. The speech is co-sponsored by the Valley Peace Center and the Martin Luther King Social Action Council.

* *************

TWENTY FACULTY MEMBERS are working on a Committee to establish a program of Soviet and Eastern European Studies at the University. Under the auspices of Acting-Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Seymour Shapiro, the faculty members are laying plans for both undergraduate and graduate programs, the establishment of a faculty seminar in this area, the further development of library holdings, and the possible broadening of the program to the Five College program.

Military Draft To be Discussed Tonight on 'Focus'

Tonight at 9:00 p.m. the subject of discussion on WMUA's "Focus' program will be American military conscription, with specific attention to the status of the conscientious objector to war.

The program will include a taped interview with Professor Jay Savereid of the University's Department of Speech, who is a draft counselor associated with the Valley Peace Center. Guests of Ken Mosakowski during the live portion of the program will be students Dick Shine, Jerry Czech, and Eric Schroeder.

EDUC Grievance Committee Outlines Procedural Guidelines

On March 13th, at its last meeting before the Spring Vacation, the English Department Undergraduate Council approved, with only slight amendments, a draft of procedual guidelines submitted by members of the newly-formed ED UC Grievance Committee. These procedural guidelines of the eight-member Grievance Committee, as amended by EDUC, are as follows:

"The option of referring to the Committee any academic grievances, regarding the English Department or a particular English course being taken during the current semester, shall be the right of any undergraduate at this university. During the Spring semester, 1969, grievances will be retroactive to January 30, 1969. In future semesters, the statute of limitations on grievances will be four weeks. (This means also that at the beginning of a new semester students may have a period, not exceeding four weeks, to call for a redress of grievances incurred late in the previous semester.)

"Grievances may be referred either to an individual Committee member, by means of a written statement; or to the entire Committee, by means of a written statement placed in the Committee mailbox (EDUC mailbox number "Y" in Bartlett Hall, third floor). A student submitting a written grievance, whether to an individual Committee member or to the entire Committee, should include the following information: plaintiff's name, address, telephone number, class, major field; specific nature of grievance. Then, if the plaintiff desires any action to be taken, he must confer with the entire Grievance Committee to discuss the nature of his grievance in greater detail. (The Committee will meet each Sunday at 7:00 p.m., in the Hatch, to discuss any grievances submitted during the previous week.)

"Should the Committee decide that the grievance is valid, after assessing all evidence which the plaintiff presents, the Committee will then either: autonomously take action upon the plaintiff's grievance, if directed toward an individual faculty member; or: refer the grievance, stated in writing, to the entire EDUC body, if the grievance is directed more generally toward Department policy.

"The Committee shall report to the entire EDUC body the nature of all those grievances which have been submitted to, and deemed valid by, a majority of the Committee members. The Committee will inform the entire EDUC body of all actions taken by the Committee."

The members of the Grievance Committee are: Rosaria D'Andrea, 627 Field House, 546-6863; Judith Krosnick, 135A Hillside Apts., Northampton, 584-2104; Lin Lamminen, 206 Emerson House, 546-7253; Michael Macmillan, Apt. 2, Colonial Village; Joan McRae, 517 Field House, 546-6825; Marilee Marchese, 10 Thoreau House, 546-7417; Kenneth Mosakowski, 382 North Pleasant Street, Amherst; and Alan Pransky, 312 Washington Lower House 546-8956.

Mr. Mosakowski, chairman of the Grievance Committee, ruges students NOT TO HESITATE in presenting academic grievances to Committee members. According to Mosakowski: "The Grievance Committee was formed by students to serve the interests of students. It is now the responsibility of discontented students to EXPRESS their discontent to the Grievance Committee."

TURN-ON . . .(radio)
TUNE-IN . . . (WMUA)
WAKE-UP WITH . .

Coffee on Campus

MONDAY - FRIDAY
7 a.m. - 12 p.m.

WMUA 91.1 FM

uptight? cool it this summer at university of rhode island

COMBINE summer study with summer fun. URI is where it's happening —outdoor classes under cool shade trees, distinguished resident and visiting faculty, the finest ocean beaches in the Northeast just minutes away, groovy folk and jazz festivals at nearby Newport, concerts, feature films, dances, sports, lecture series and other special attractions.

CHOOSE from 200 morning and evening courses in each term, beginning June 16 and July 24. EARN up to 14 semester hours of credit by attending both terms. COMPLETE up to 2 yrs. of French or Italian in 11 weeks by attending our accelerated language sessions.

COST — $20 per credit hour for most courses plus $10 registration fee for Rhode Island residents and $20 for out of state residents.

Write or call (401) 792-2107 for complete information.

uri

University of Rhode Island, Summer Session, Kingston, Rhode Island.

Clip and mail to The Dean, Summer Session, University of Rhode Island, Green Hall Kingston, Rhode Island 02881

Please send your 1969 Summer Session Bulletin and Application/Preregistration Form to:

Mr. Mrs. Miss _____

Street Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____

Your College/Univ _____ Location _____

Campus Comment

FROM OUR SIDE

Write for Peace

Last week a group of students met on Fearing Street and organized a "write for peace" campaign. Designed to pressure Massachusetts Congressmen to actively seek an end to the War through established Washington channels, the movement uses a plan of action previously ignored by peace movements.

"Demonstrations", spokesmen for the group explained, "often alienate people who would otherwise support an attempt to end the War. We hope that by urging people to write their representatives in Washington, we can bring massive public pressure on the State Congressional delegation to seek an end to the war."

Besides avoiding the "bad publicity which sometimes results from demonstrations," this movement "gives us something really constructive to do in a year without an election."

Leaders of the campaign point out that most all pressure to end the war to date has been directed toward the President and that "this hasn't gotten us very far." This movement feels that Congress has been ignored by anti-war groups, and this fact may be "one reason why the War is still going on."

"Congress is supposed to best represent the people," the campaign's formers argue, "and we must show the members of congress through a massive letter writing campaign that we want the war ended now."

Write for peace.

The Editors

Objection: Room Deposit

Although the rationale behind the Administration's newly instituted Room Security Deposit System may be just, the entire manner in which the policy came about is highly questionable.

The Office of Student Affairs explains that in order to keep the overall rent rate from rising in the coming years, it is necessary for each student who intends to live in the University's residence hall system to pay a $50 Room Security Deposit to secure a room. The $50 will be held in escrow until such time as the student legally moves out of a residence hall. The Administration says that is necessary due to the large number of empty beds (1200) in the residence hall system this semester, which in effect is being paid for by other students living in the dormitories. These empty beds must be paid for if the rent rate is to stay the same.

The main point of objection with this plan is that if a person decides to move off campus second semester next year he will forfeit his $50 even though he is legally eligible to do so. If the number of empty beds in dorms this semester is a serious problem, perhaps a better solution would be for the administration to be "less liberal" in granting special permission for ineligible freshmen, sophomores, and juniors under 21 years old to move off campus rather than penalize those students who are legally eligible.

Another potential problem is that the Administration could automatically take from this $50 held in escrow any bill sent to the student for dorm damages. This could seriously handicap the student's right for appeal.

This entire proposal has never been fully discussed on the floor of the Student Senate. It was mentioned briefly at last night's meeting. It has been discussed in the Senate's Services Committee and sent back to the Administration. We believe the Services Committee erred in not reporting this proposal immediately to the full Senate. It seems awkward that the Senate can spend hours debating over minor points in certain budgets which in the end will only cost the students a few dollars and seem to ignore this Administration proposal which will cost students $50.

Finally we would like to have explained why the $50 figure and why the May 31 date? It just isn't fair to make students "come up" with $50 the day after the last final exam.

THE EDITORS

"Hill" Children

To the editor:

My hat comes off to the small minority of the men and women of Orchard Hill for their expendable performances of the past few evenings. Those few who stood on balconies shouting obsenities at each other or make noise for the sake of disturbing the more serious minded or those trying to get much needed sleep once again demonstrates how immature, ridiculous, and inconsiderate they are. Even Spring fever does not warrent such childish behavior. I can only hope that these college students will realize the discomfort that they are causing to others.

John Krof

More on Room Deposit

To the editor:

In the mail today we received a letter from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, stating that the University of Massachusetts had instituted a room security policy that would become effective this spring. The Office of Student Affairs stated that students would pay a fifty dollar deposit to secure a room reservation and that this deposit would be held in escrow until such time as a student leaves the residence hall area.

The second page listed seven new regulations which apparently are being instituted without the consent of the other University offices or student representative bodies. The hasty notification of students and the rigid regulations do not appear to be consistent with an administrator's comment, "A bias toward you." A bias toward whom? As members of the Student Senate we resent the institution of such policies without being consulted. We further feel that it is an undue burden upon students of fixed semester budgets.

We urge all persons to contact their Area- Co-ordinators and the Office of Student Affairs along with the Student Senate Services Sub-Committee to express their support or their indignation of this policy.

Senator William Perkins
Baker House

Senator Susan Bacon
Knowlton House

Rat, or Muskrat?

To the editor:

John Kelly's photograph of a "rat" in the campus pond on page 1 of the April 11 MDC shows a perfectly healthy muskrat. The animal is obviously not a Norway rat or a black rat. The fact the muskrats live in the pond at all indicates that the water is relatively clean.

Carolyn Creswell
David Klingener
Charles Woods

U.D. Defense Fund

To the editor:

There are several matters concerning the Valentine Day Defense Fund which those of us connected with the Fund would like to share with the university community.

In the first place, the Defense Fund in its entirety will be retained until our cases are disposed of on June 6. We will not be free to respond to any requests for the use of the Defense Fund money until that time.

Secondly, should our charges be dropped and the money become available, there are some contributors and/or demonstrators who may wish to have their contributions returned. These people should register this request along with their summer addresses with us now, so that any confusion in the middle of June will be avoided.

Thirdly, should there be monies still available after the cases are disposed of and returns completed, we are open to suggestions from the campus community as to how this money should be spent. People may contact Ron Hardy, 319 Hampshire, 545-2261 or Steve Krinsky, 253-7773.

Peace,
Ronald W. Hardy

ABM I

By Mark F. Taylor - Dept. of Physics

On March 14 President Nixon announced his decision to proceed with the deployment of an antiballistic missile system (ABM), progress on which had been halted late last year in the face of mounting public protest. The Administration's decision still faces substantial Senate opposition, however, and it is possible that action by this body could suspend deployment. What is at issue today in the debate before the United States Senate is whether or not to proceed to install, one of the largest weapons systems ever devised. The ramifications of this for our country, both at home and in our relations with other nations, are so far reaching as to make it imperative that every person inform himself concerning them.

It is true that technical details, many of which are beyond the grasp of the layman or remain classified and hence unavailable for public scrutiny, are central to questions concerning the performance of the ABM when viewed purely as a military hardware system. It is nevertheless essential to understand that these questions are decidedly secondary to those related to the political, social, and psychological effects which full scale deployment of such a system would have.

In dealing with these latter issues it is necessary to adopt a broad point of view which recognizes, as the consideration of primary importance, the over-all security of this Nation within the framework of an international community. The ABM system represents the quite predictable response of the military establishment to this question - a military solution to a problem which is, in its essence, political. Such "solutions" have a way of turning into hardened policy, as our experience in Vietnam has painfully shown. For this reason it is essential that the ABM issue be critically analyzed from a point of view which goes beyond the narrow military context to a consideration of the profoundly disturbing political and social consequences likely to result from deployment.

At the outset, it is most important to recognize that the installation of the so-called Safeguard system, as recommended by the Nixon Administration, almost certainly represents just the first step in what is essentially an open-ended weapons program. Those who believe that the military people have given up on the large-scale, or "thick", ABM systems, for which they have campaigned for over a decade, are likely to be painfully surprised next year or the year after when renewed attempts are made to obtain approval of these systems. The attempts will be accompanied, as in the present debate over Safeguard, by frightening pronouncements concerning new Soviet or Chinese developments in missile weaponry and will consequently be difficult for our political leaders to refuse. Therefore, in talking about ABM deployment, it is best to think beyond Safeguard to what may lie ahead.

In succeeding articles we will discuss the implications of ABM in the following areas: arms control and disarmament, the Soviet-United States strategic balance, costs and domestic priorities, the role of the military-industrial complex in decisions affecting national security and its role in moving America toward a "garrison state" form of social organization.

The next article, which will appear here tomorrow, deals with some of the more significant technical features of antiballistic missile systems.

Mark F. Taylor
Department of Physics

"ABMs? Hell, I Thought We Were Putting In IBMs"

Editorial Policy

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content with no proof reading or censorship exercised by faculty or administration prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, student body as a whole, or the editorial board as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

All letters should be addressed "To the editor", set over 60 characters, and typed double spaced. All letters must be signed to be considered for publication. Names will be withheld upon request, if the name of the writer is known to us, otherwise unsigned letters will be discarded. We reserve the right to edit, condense, correct factual errors, and clarify points made in all letters. Because of the great volume of letters that we receive every day, it is not possible for us to print every letter that we receive, though each will be considered for publication.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bramery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Pat Flanagan
NEWS STAFF — Lou DiManaco
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — Ray Esanis
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR — Kathy Biggane
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Wayne Lillystrom, Maureen Kilroy
ADVERTISING — Sharon Raum, Terry Wanczyk

Undergraduate newspaper at the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Amherst College President Reports On Stormy Educational Community

In his report on Amherst College for 1967-68, President Calvin H. Plimpton has called on the College "to redefine its goals" and consider the possibilities of co-education, the size of the College, and improvement of dwelling units, both dormitories and fraternities.

As a part of his report, which is sent to all alumni and parents of Amherst students, Dr. Plimpton noted that for higher education the past academic year " has not been a happy year but rather one of self-dissatisfaction." One problem growing out of the year's turmoil has been that "the Trustees and the President have been losing authority with no change in their responsibilities. At the same time Faculties and Students have been gaining in authority but with no increase in responsibility."

One of the most interesting and important results of this situation, the President wrote, is the rate at which barriers are being taken down between classes, the educated and the uneducated, Blacks and Whites, and even male and female. But he warned that "an absence of walls can lead to a vast sea of conformity, a nation of sheep." Dr. Plimpton stressed that when separations are removed, distinctions become blurred - between right and wrong, knowledge and ignorance.

President Plimpton contended, however, that "we older ones" can learn from students and commended them for their eagerness to participate in shaping their education. "Such participation," he continued, "is dangerous and can wreck an institution, but without it we will provide only the safety of training and not an education. An education," he added, "cannot be given, it must be taken."

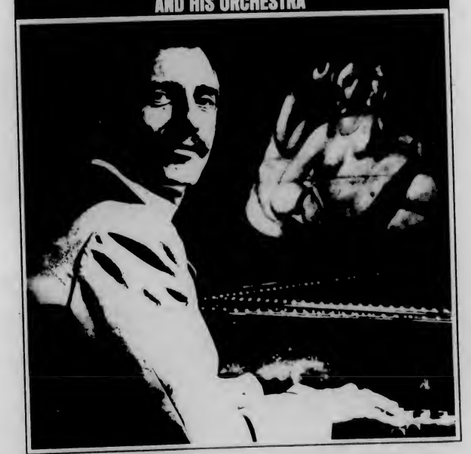
One example of student participation during the past academic year was demonstrated over the issue of recruiters on the Amherst campus. Some students felt that allowing recruiters from the armed services on the campus signified the College's complicity with the war in Vietnam. President Plimpton noted that despite the controversy over this matter, Amherst maintained and intends to continue to maintain an open campus, though not without dissent.

In considering other significant events of 1967-68, Dr. Plimpton discussed the student-faculty participation following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King which led to the creation of several Black-White Action Committees. An Afro-American Center, where Whites would be welcome, was established and a number of summer programs were proposed.

Yet in spite of the positive steps that such participation has caused, Dr. Plimpton felt compelled to comment, "In all of these gestures we have had to face the question, can we really help? Are our actions truly relevant to the disadvantaged? Might he not be better off in a technical school? If the academic community is to continue as a self-evaluating unit, it must become a much more hard-boiled and busy introspector. We will certainly learn a tremendous amount and perhaps we can also help as well," he concluded.

Grad Student Senate to Meet On Off Campus Housing Rent

The recent spate of rent raises for off-campus housing in Amherst will be among the items covered at tonight's meeting of the Graduate Student Senate, according to its president Thomas Minogue.



Though not listed on the recently released agenda, the topic will come up as a report from the housing committee.

Reports from the academic and student affairs committee will include a call for a joint study of the adoption of a university senate, the question of the role of the graduate students in the Faculty Senate's proposed crisis committee, and graduate student representation of the student affairs committee of the Faculty Senate.

Tonight's meeting will take place at 8:30 p.m. in the Worcester Room of the Student Union. It is open to the public.

FREE DRINKS
if we don't
DELIVER WITHIN AN HOUR
call
Carriage Lite Delivery
253-5832
for the BEST GRINDERS in town
6 p.m. - 12 midnight 7 days a week

IF YOU MUST HAVE...
$125.00
OR MORE WEEKLY THIS SUMMER...
Good Humor
OFFERS IT!
CAMPUS INTERVIEW APRIL 28
One of the highest paying of all summer jobs
Many students working full summer averaged above $125 weekly. One out of three made $133 or more weekly. One out of four made $139 or more weekly.
How to qualify for interview
(1) Minimum age 18. (2) Need valid driver's license and be able to drive clutch transmission. (3) Be in good physical condition. No experience necessary. Work is easily learned . . . and everything you need to succeed is supplied, free. You're your own boss . . . work in the open where people have been buying GOOD HUMOR for years.
Sign up now for interview
See your Summer Placement Director or Student Aid Officer now.
AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER (M/F)

PAUL MAURIAT
IN PERSON
AND HIS ORCHESTRA

SOPH BANQUET offers you a
STEAK DINNER
and
ENTERTAINMENT
2 Shows 5:30 & 9:00
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
$2.50 & $1.25
WED. APRIL 16

Fine Arts Calendar

Monday, April 14	The Revelers Male Quartet	Veritas Auditorium
Tuesday, April 15	Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, Michael Tilson Thomas, Cond.	Our Lady of Elms Coll 8:15 p.m./Chicopee Bowker Auditorium Univ. of Mass 8:00 p.m. Amherst
Wed., April 16	UMass Chamber Group	Buckley Recital Hall Amherst College
Thurs., April 17	Eastman Brass Quintet	8:15 p.m./Amherst Dever Auditorium Westfield State Coll.
Friday, April 18	New York Pro Musica	8:00/Westfield Holyoke High School
	Williams Baroque Consort	8:30 pm./Holyoke Griffin Hall 8:30 p.m. Williams College
Saturday, April 19	Ian and Sylvia, Folk singers	Williamstown John M. Greene Hall Smith College 8:00 pm. Northampton

"It's all happening at the Zoo"

Zeta Nu Rush

WED. APRIL 16 7:30 - 9:00

STICK WITH

BLY

PRESIDENT 1970

TONIGHT!

STUDENT LEADERS' NIGHT

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

8:00 p. m.

TAPPING: KEYS, SCROLLS, ARCONS, REVELERS, MORTAR BOARD, ADELPHIA, WHO'S WHO DISTINGUISHED SENIORS

It's going to be . . . verry innnteresting!!!

Sierra Club Blasts Hickel In California Oil Incident

The Sierra Club charged recently that Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has "fumbled a great chance to protect the Santa Barbara Channel from another oil disaster."

In a strongly worded telegram to the Secretary, the conservationists asserted that his action setting aside a 22,000 acre no-drilling reserve in the channel "degraded a good idea with faint support."

"The mammoth oil slick covered more than a million acres of the channel," Fred Eissler club director from Santa Barbara told the Secretary. "The token reserve represents a mere 2% conservation of a tragicly abused offshore area."

The conservationists urged Hickel to reconsider his decision and schedule public hearings before any final action is taken.

The Sierra Club spokesman said his organization asked the Secretary to promote a three-point program:

"Phase out oil operations in the channel by an equitable take-back of federal oil leases;

Exercise executive powers of the President to dedicate the total million acre channel wilderness, free of oil development;

And support bills in Congress for a nationwide underwater sanctuary system to save other scenic shorelines in America from oil disasters."

"A significant flow of oil continues to leak from the fissured sea bottom at Union's platform A, site of the channel oil catastrophe," the club director continued. "The oil lies in an open reservoir system in the faulted channel, and minor disturbances of the ocean floor can induce another major uncontrolled oil release."

Sirhan's Trial Goes to the Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The murder case of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is expected to go to the jury Monday for a decision on how impaired his mind was when he assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The only issue for the 12 jurors is between first-and second-degree murder. The state concedes Sirhan was mentally sick to a degree, but asks nonetheless for a first-degree verdict. The defense has argued for a finding of second-degree murder.

Boston Orchestra To Play at UMass

The Boston Philharmonia Orchestra will appear in concert, Tuesday April 15th on the campus of the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. The event will take place in Bowker Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. and will be under the direction of the gifted young California conductor, Michael Tilson Thomas.

Tuesday's program marks the first tour concert by the Boston Philharmonia and is the only orchestra appearing on the Concert Association's 1968/69 series. The program selected for this occasion will include two novelties as well as standard works such as Franz Josef Haydn's Symphony No. 60 in C "Il distratto" and J.S. Bach's Suite No. 4. Awork which Mr. Thomas has programmed and which has aroused much attention is Ruth Crawford Seeger's "Adagio for String Orchestra." The second novelty to be heard is Carl Ruggles' "Men and Mountains". Mr. Ruggles is now in his ninetieth year and lives in Bennington, Vermont. Along with Charles Ives, Ruggles' is considered one of the greatest composers this country has yet produced. The balance of the program will feature Anton von Webern's Symphony, Opus 21.

Tickets for the Boston Philharmonia's concert tomorrow at UMass are free to University undergrads and available at $2.50 to the general public and may be obtained at the Student Union Ticket Office until 4:00 p.m. and at Bowker Auditorium prior to the concert. Due to the limited seating capacity, tickets are available on a first come, first served basis. The concert is sponsored by the Fine Arts Council.

H.H.H.-'69 Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Lecturer

In a recent New York Times article Mrs. Muriel Humphrey said of her husband, "He is not what he was and he is not yet what he will be."

Hubert Horatio Humphrey five months after he was defeated for the Presidency "remains what he has always been - busy, energetic, full of goodwill, loving life and eagerly pursuing its daily adventures."

The man whose political life has been devoted to causing change rather then just talking change will deliver the 1969 Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Lecture Friday April 18 at 8 p.m. in Curry Hicks Cage.

Humphrey was born May 27, 1911 in Wallace, S.D. in a bedroom over his father's frame drugstore on Main St. In the vast prairie farmlands he attended public schools, helped out in the store, absorbed his father's love of people and politics, and watched the Great Depression engulf his world.

He was forced to leave the U. of Minnesota in 1929 when the Depression struck his family full force. In 1933 he received a Degree from Denver College of Pharmacy and for the next four years worked alongside his father in the family store. In 1936 he married Muriel Buck of Huron. A year later he was able to return to the U. of Minnesota, earning a B.A. in political science. (magna cum laude) The next year he received a Master's Degree from Louisiana State College.

In 1945, when he was 34, Hubert Humphrey was elected Mayor of Minneapolis and in 1947 was re-elected with the largest majority in the city's history. Overwhelmingly elected to the U. S. Senate in 1948 he won re-election in 1954 and 1960.

Humphrey served as Democratic Majority Whip during the Kennedy-Johnson administration and in 1964 was elected the 38th Vice-President of the United States.

In his two decades in Washington, Hubert Humphrey amassed a public record that is unsurpassed in its range, its diversity of interests and its breadth of vision.

A short look at a sample of Humphrey programs best describes the "Mayor, Senator, Vice-President, husband, father and believer in the American dream and the concept of human brotherhood."

He is no newcomer to the problems of securing and guaranteeing civil rights for all. In 1948 he risked his political career at the Democratic Convention spearheading a successful fight for a strong civil rights platform plank. The culmination for his 16 years as the chief spokesman for human rights in the Senate came when he was Floor Manager for the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

As Vice-President he coordinated all of the government's activities touching upon human rights.

In 1957 Humphrey first proposed job training for unemployed youths, today embodied in the Job Corps. He was Chairman of the President's Council on Youth Opportunity and in 1967 spearheaded a drive which found nearly one and a half million jobs for unemployed youths.

Federal aid to education has had the support of Humphrey since he entered the Senate. In 1952 he cosponsored a bill to set up a federal scholarship program for college students. His proposals on scholarships, student loans and direct grants to colleges later became part of the National Defense Education Act.

During the 1968 campaign Humphrey said "I think you demonstrate qualities of political leadership by building that which is needed. I intend to be that kind of builder, in change." Humphrey has been an innovator, a creator of imaginative programs, a voice for progress.

RJL

MDC CLASSIFIED

ROOMMATES WANTED

To live with 2 guys. Own room, in 5 room apartment. Male $60 month, or female willing to cook, $50. 5 minute walk from Campus. Call 546-6496, or 546-8497 anytime before 3 a.m. 4-14

Roommate wanted for summer (June - July - Aug.), Male, $17/mo. Call 256-8780, ask for A.J. 4-17

Two female roommates wanted for summer school to share modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment, lovely backyard, all utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 586-6616. 4-16

One male roommate — for immediate occupancy. Five room apt., three separate bedrooms, one mile from Campus, approx. $15 per month, includes electricity and phone. 1177 North Pleasant, call 549-1373. 4-15

I have a two bedroom apartment in Puffton Village — I would like two other girls to share the apartment with me for June, July and Aug. If interested please call 549-1292. 4-18

FOR RENT

3½ Room furnished or unfurnished apartment, $170 a month. Includes all utilities. Available June 1. Come to Cliffside, Apt. M6, Sunderland, Route 116 or call 665-8708 any night. 4-17

Going to school this summer? Looking for an apartment? — 3 rooms and kitchen available to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1, Colonial Village Apts., $140.00 month including utilities. Inquire 256-6918 (after 6). 4-8-11-14

3½ Room Furnished Apartment — rent includes all utilities. Available June 1. Call 253-7400 after 6 p.m. 4-15

For Rent IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apartment, $185 mo. unfurnished, $118 month furnished. 15 Mill Hollow Apts., Summer Street, North Amherst, 549-1668. 4-12

Apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept. 1, 10 min. from Campus, 5 rooms, furnished. Contact Brenda 546-5330 or Sandy 546-8334. 4-15

PERSONAL

WHO IS PAUL S. LERBAUN? Does anyone care? 4-11

HELP WANTED

COUNSELLORS for top athletic Westchester day camp. Men from Westchester, Fairfield and Rockland counties. Men and women from Manhattan. To instruct in a variety of activities. Experience preferred. A real love for kids is essential. Phone collect area code 914 - WH 9-2635, at night 914 - WH 9-6852 or write Mohawk Day Camps, Old Tarrytown Road, White Plains, N.Y. 4-9-11-14

Rock musicians needed to work weekends. Experience needed. Rhythm guitarist or organist and bass player. Call 546-6463. 4-17

Desk clerk, secretary. 7:30 - 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday. Good for student wife. Must be able to meet public. Apply Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Route 9, Hadley, 586-0111 for appointment. 4-16

Full-time and part-time waitresses wanted. English Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst. 4-18

INSTRUCTION

SPRING ART CLASSES Evenings, Beginners, Advanced. Limited enrollment. Inquire: Mr. Leander Fornas, at Moore's Corner, Star Route, Montague, Tel. (617) 544-3500. 3-17 4-7-14-21-28

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE for PRESIDENT Class of 1970 4-17

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1962 Chevy II, Nova, black convertible with red interior; 6 cylinder, automatic. Good condition. Best offer. Call 253-9147 or 545-5345 ask for Becky in 304. 4-16

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7812. 4-22

1961 Pontiac Bonneville conv., many new parts incl. trans. and brakes, battery, heater, front end. Good trans. Asking $350.00. Call 586-1053. 4-15

1963 Ford Falcon, good condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3867 after 7:00 p.m. 4-16

Rare M.G. Magnette (M.G.'s Cadillac) excellent cond., black, four speed, four door, four cyl., 1500 cc, walnut dash, red leather seats. Must sell $400, worth more, at Phi Sigma Kappa or 546-8815. 4-17

1965 Pontiac GTO. Power Windows, Steering, rear end has air sacks and load levelers, front end stabilizers, tripower, Crower HJ 210 Cam and Kit. Asking $1475. Mags extra. Call 545-0076. Ask for Dave or leave message. 4-15

FOR SALE

Kawasaki 250, 1967, exc. condition, $375. 253-9611. 4-18

Wilson Tennis Racket — top condition, Jack Kramer autograph model, too heavy for owner. Call Dorey 8-8485, reasonable price. 4-18

Mobilehome — Don't pay high rent, own your own mobilehome, 5 rms., all furnished, ready to live in. Close to Univ. and Northampton. Excellent investment. Available this summer. Call 247-5936. 4-18

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6095 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

1965 Vespa Scooter, 150 cc; 7000 mi., windshield; spare-tire rack; road condition, $119.00. Call: Jim, 256-8210 (after 5:30). 4-14

Stereo Tape Deck for your automobile. Perfect condition. Equipped with two stereo speakers and four tapes, plus cleaning tape. "Reasonable price". Call Howie, phone 545-5412, Rm. 224, leave message. 4-15

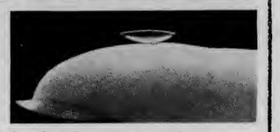
Photography: Passports, Job applications taken, 24-hour service, discount prices on film processing. Call Lang's Photo, 825 Main St., Amherst, Tel. 253-3418. 4-18

INTERESTED IN PHOTOGRAPHY — Pentax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control. FT14 Super Takumar lens, 2X lens extender and case, rotatint polarizing filter, yellow green filter, red filter, accessory shoe and cable release, 2 Mercury batteries. Worth well over $300, priced to sell, all for $250. Call Neil after 3:30 p.m. 665-3413. 4-14

Beautiful 14 kt. gold jewelry for sale. Reasonably priced. Makes a great Mother's Day present or gift for someone special. Will clean or fix your other jewelry. Call Marci 6-8286. 4-9-11-14-16-18

1957 HOUSE TRAILER, completely furn., air cond., only lived in two years. This trailer has retained its youthful complexion., 15 min. from Amherst. Asking $1295. Call 323-6781 eves. 4-17

Motorcycle — 1966 Bridgestone 350 cc, 16 hp., 5,000 miles, excellent condition, $600. Call 546-8775. 4-15



"BUGS ARE BEAUTIFUL" — vinyl, removable stickers. Volkswagens love them on their rear deck lids or bumpers. $1.00 each, post-paid. Unique Products, Dept. MDC, P.O. Box 598, Rochester, Michigan 48063 4-18

SERVICES

Available for the position of Secretary to the Class of '71 — Joan McCourt. 4-17

PHOTOGRAPHY — All types of photographic services, black and white or color portraitive prints for sale — creative photography. Can provide photographs for your thesis and term papers. Steve Thorp, UMass '69, Call 665-3167. 4-18

Give your contact lenses a bath tonight

In order to keep your contact lenses as comfortable and convenient as they were meant to be, you have to take care of them. But until now you needed two or more separate solutions to properly prepare and maintain your contacts. Not with Lensine. Lensine is the one lens solution for complete contact lens care.

Cleaning your contacts with Lensine retards the buildup of foreign deposits on the lenses. And soaking your contacts in Lensine overnight assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking case on the bottom of every bottle of Lensine.

It has been demonstrated that improper storage between wearings may result in the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and in some cases can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lensine which is sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic.

Just a drop or two of Lensine, before you insert your lens, coats and lubricates it allowing the lens to float more freely in the eye's fluids. That's because Lensine is an "isotonic" solution, which means that it blends with the natural fluids of the eye.

Let your contacts be the convenience they were meant to be. Get some Lensine, from the Murine Company, Inc.

The Busiest Man in Town. Boston St.'s Harassed Goalie

Daily Collegian Photos
By John Kelly
Senior Photographer

JOIN THE LACE-IN DEMONSTRATION

It's the movement supporting equal rights for sneakers.
Who says you can't wear them with whatever you want?
Mr. Sneekers is on your side!
Styled to look good, made for comfort and support, designed for swinging.

Get with the sneakers spirit now.
Wherever Mr. Sneekers goes, can laces be far behind?

MR. SNEEKERS

Div. of Mitsubishi Corp., 180 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10016

CONCERT ASSOCIATION PRESENTS

Boston Philharmonia Orchestra

Michael Tilson Thomas conducting

Tuesday April 15th Bowker Auditorium 8:00 P. M.

Program includes work's by Bach, Haydn, Seeger, Ruggles and Webern.

TICKETS FREE TO UMASS UNDERGRADS.

Reserved Seats for Others $2.50

Student Union Box Office Remaining Tickets at Door

Sponsored by the Fine Arts Council

Cagers Honored at Annual Team Banquet Friday Night

It was back-slapping night at the Student Union Friday as the Yankee Conference Champion UMass basketball team was honored at the annual team banquet and the one who got the biggest plaudit was Ray Ellerbrook.

The 6'1 junior from Hawthorne, N. J. was elected team captain by his teammates for the 1969-70 season. Ellerbrook was the team's high scorer the past season, and was elected to the Associated Press All New England second team, the New England Basketball Coaches third team, and was an ECAC Division 1 all-star selection. He was also voted the Sportsmanship trophy at the Evansville Christmas Tournament.

Everyone it seemed was in the line for praise, and all the speakers repeated congratulations for the 17-7 Redmen. George Richason Chairman of the University Athletic Council praised UMass for a "truly outstanding performance", and for being a "truly quality athletic aggregation."

Athletic Director, Dean Warren McGuirk listed the highlights of the past season, such as the first UMass hoop team to defend a conference title, a three year Conference record of 24-6, road wins ove r Providence, Syracuse and Navy, wins over the Fordham and Iona and a four game winning streak over Connecticut.

McGuirk concluded by praising all concerned with the basketball program from the pep band, to the co-captains, to the coaches to a certain campus radio station and stated, "It was a year with many things to remember."

Coach Jack Leaman was not outdone in lavishing compliments, bringing out the steady improvement the senior group has made in the last three years. Leaman then said, "We want to start the tradition of being number one in New England. We just missed this year, but with the best freshman team in the area, and a good captain in Ray Ellerbrook leading some fine veterans, we'll have an excellent program for the next years."

Referring to his captains Joe DiSarcina and Peter Gayeska, Leaman added, "I'm going to miss number 10 and number 50 being out there though."

Guest speaker was former UMass star and District Attorney of Bristol County George "Trigger" Burke who in his remarks warned the freshman not to take their success of the past season too seriously and to always spread the word of the university.

Awards were made to Gayeska who won the George Burke Trophy for being the most valuable UMass player and also the George Henry Richards Trophy for being the most improved player, the second consecutive year he won the award DiSarcina won the Samuel B. Samuels award for the second time, as being the leading free throw shooter on the team.

The affair concluded with the voting for the UMass all-opponent team. Boston College placed three players on the first team, guards Jim O'Brian and Billy Evans and center Terry Driscoll. They joined Ed Suidet of Holy Cross and John Fultz of Rhode Island, both forwards.

The second team included guards Jim Hayes of Boston University and Leo Osgood of Northeastern, Bill Smith, Syracuse center and forwards Greg Hill of A.I.C. and Bob Kissane of Holy Cross.

GEORGE "TRIGGER" BURKE congratulates Pete Gayeska and Joe DiSarcina. (MDC photo by Peter Pascarelli).

Netmen Dump A.I.C. 9-0

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

Spurred on by the promise of kosher dill pickles as a victory present, the UMass tennis team launched its 1969 season with a convincing 9-0 drubbing of AIC on Saturday in a dual meet that was watched by a few near-sighted lacrosse fans by the Boyden courts.

So overpowering were the Redmen, only nine games were lost during the 18 sets that were contested. Pacing the home team were rookies Nubby Gervickas at five, and Tom Babson, at six, with double wins. Both won their singles matches at love.

The UMass depth was shown by the fact that five sophs performed in the romp. Gervickas, Doug Carlson, Rene Richard, and Gun Penon all performed well in the doubles. Jon Bloom, playing at two, won his match at love.

Scott Sheppard opened his third year of varsity competition at one, Junior Mike Katz played at three, and captain Carl Clem was placed at four. The doubles pairings were Carlson and Babson, Richard and Penon, and Gervickas with junior Dave Katz.

Kosakowski made good his promise of dills after the match and praised the entire squad. Wednesday the Redmen will have to work much harder for the pickles when they meet a tough MIT team in a home match.

Focus

TONITE AT 9

American Militarism: The Draft

with

KEN MOSAKOWSKI

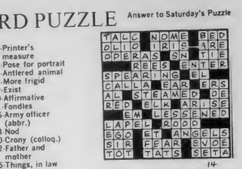
WMUA 91.1 FM

Bruins Lose In Overtime

MONTREAL (AP) - Mickey Redmond deflected Serge Savard's shot for the winning goal in sudden death overtime and the Montreal Canadiens defeated Boston 4-3 for a 2-0 lead in their best-of-7 National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoff series Sunday.

It was Savard whose goal tied the game for the Canadiens with just over one minute left in regulation time in the nationally televised contest.

The game was virtually a repeat of Thursday night's opener when Jean Beliveau tied it with 56 seconds left to play and Ralph Backstrom won it in overtime for the Canadiens.



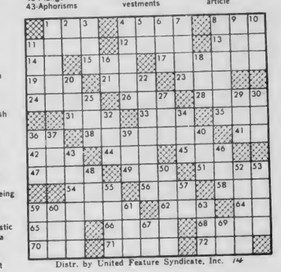
Johnny Bucyk had given the Bruins the lead with less than six minutes to play when he swept Fred Stanfield's centering pass behind Montreal goalie Gump Worsley. But the Canadiens refused to fold as Savard scored on a scramble in front of Bruins' goalie Ed Johnston, who was making his first playoff start. Johnston dove into the net after the pick as the Forum crowd went wild.

The East Division final series continues Thursday with the third game in Boston.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Hindu cymbals
4-Not so much
8-Low island
11-Supplicate
12-Send forth
13-Native metal
14-Babylonian deity
15-Shade tree
17-Articles of furniture
19-Gratuity
21-Uppermost part
23-Deity
24-Heavenly body
26-Short sleep
28-Departed
31-Sign of zodiac
33-Rodent
35-Fish eggs
36-A state (abbr.)
38-Scoffed
41-Symbol for tantalum
42-Urge on
44-Sea eagle
45-Noise
47-Pitch
49-Pigpen
51-Attitude
54-Anglo-Saxon money
56-Bishopric
58-Damp
59-Mexican dish
62-Macaw
64-Near
65-Be in debt
66-Smudge
68-Festive
70-Affirmative
71-Weakens
72-Abstract being

DOWN

1-Characteristic
2-Cooled lava
3-Caustic substance
4-Citrus fruit
5-Printer's measure
6-Pose for portrait
7-Antlered animal
8-More frigid
9-Exist
10-Affirmative
11-Fondles
16-Army officer (abbr.)
18-Nod
20-Crony (colloq.)
22-Father and mother
25-Things, in law
27-Equality
29-Negative
30-Afternoon party
32-Number
34-Man's nickname
36-Obtain
37-Time gone by
39-Bitter vetch
40-Plunge
43-Aphorisms
46-At present
48-Period of time
50-Period of time (pl.)
52-Fur-bearing mammals
53-Girl's name
55-Priest's vestments
57-Teutonic deity
59-Plaything
60-Reverence
61-Guido's high note
63-Mature
67-Above
69-Indefinite article

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 14

Hard Hitting Redman Nine Outlast B.C. in 8-5 Win

Pitching of Kitchen, Hitting of Hansen And Chinappi Prove Too Much

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

CHESTNUT HILL - John Kitchen and Norm Elliot, taking advantage of a 17 hit UMass attack, hurled the Redmen to an 8-3 triumph over the Boston College Eagles here Saturday.

Kitchen, a junior righthander, notched the victory as he turned in six and two-thirds innings of work while allowing only four hits. After the Chicope e native tired, Elliot came on to choke off a B.C. rally and nail down the sweet win.

Bob Hansen, with a booming home run and a double, Tony Chinappi and Dick Pepin, with a double and two singles apiece, were the batting heroes for the visitors. Tim Berringer, Joe Gugliotta and Tom Semino also had good days at the plate as each rapped out two hits.

Eagle starter Ray LaGace, a refugee from Bob Cousy's N.I.T. runnerups, got a quick shower in this encounter with the Redmen. After picking up the first two outs in the opening frame, the big southpaw ran into trouble. He walked Hansen and Chinappi, then got rocked for a double and two singles off the bats of Pepin, Semino and Berringer respectively. This outburst produced three runs and UMass never trailed thereafter.

B.C. countered on an rbi double by third baseman John Salmon in the bottom of the first, but Kitchen remained in complete control over the Eagle bats for the next five innings while the Redmen were adding to their lead.

The visitors picked up single markers in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames. Steve Ring scored the first of these tallies when he swept across the plate on a hook slide after coming around from second on a Chinappi single to right. The fifth inning run resulted from a walk, a single by Gugliotta, and an overthrow on a sacrifice bunt by Kitchen. Then UMass upped the advantage to 6-1 on a slicing double to left by Hansen and another Chinappi line single in the sixth.

In the top of the seventh Hansen brought the crowd to it's feet when he leaned into a Vic Campobonsa and drilled the pitch over the right field wall. The line shot was only about 20 feet off the ground, but it went out in a hurry.

Kitchen began to tire in the seventh as he walked two after a bad hop baseHit and an infield error, but Elliot came on with the bases loaded, and after giving up a ground single, struck out Salmon on three good hooks. The senior righty had little problem working throuch the B.C. lineup in the eighth and ninth, striking out three more Eagles in those two innings.

dugout chatter - Coach Bergquist's charges are now within reach of the .500 mark with a 4-5 record going into today's home opener . . . Many UMass fans turned out for the 2 p.m. contest, including Detroit Lion quarterback Greg Landry . . . B.C. head coach, Eddie Pellagrini, was unable to attend because of illness . . . The Eagles lost a good stick when captain Mike Robertson, a power hitting second baseman, separated his shoulder last Thursday against Northeastern . . . Ray Ellerbrook was a unanimous selection for the day's Anchor Award on the strength of his Size Five collar which included two broken bats . . . The junior first baseman did, however, have his usual fine day in the field and came up with another stolen base when he did get on . . . Shortstop Don McKinnon had two hits for the home team . . . B.C.'s pitching staff hasn't come around as yet. Each of the three relievers was reached by the UMass batters in addition to the job done on LaGace . . . The Redmen left 16 men stranded.

KEVIN O'CONNOR shows his style. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 117
MONDAY, APRIL 14, 1969

Tonight's Intramurals

1	6:30	Academics vs. Seagrams
2	6:30	Sportons vs. Bruisers
3	6:30	Ironmen vs. Smashers
1	7:30	Nerves vs. Rogues
2	7:30	Lobes vs. Tubes
3	7:30	Loggia vs. Cement
4	7:30	Blitzers vs. Bedsinks
1	8:30	Lions vs. Terrors
2	8:30	Senators vs. Bulldozers
3	8:30	Trojans vs. Chestnuts
4	8:30	Hi-lo's vs. Black Bears
1	9:30	Seals vs. Old Men
2	9:30	Groups vs. Old Timers
3	9:30	Dinks vs. Education
4	9:30	Ossicles vs. Chem Dept.
5	5:30	Mogs vs. Patriots
6	5:30	Cougars vs. Leopards
7	5:30	Panthers vs. Colt 45's
8	5:30	Goons vs. Dydazz
9	5:30	BV-T vs. Dicks
10	5:30	Bounders vs. Drakesters
11	5:30	Kalinkas vs. Racoons
2	4:40	WMH vs. Lil' Fellas
3	4:40	3 M's vs. Freaks
4	4:40	1 vs. 2
5	4:40	3 vs. 4
6	4:40	5 vs. 6
2	5:20	Chem Dept vs. Squares
3	5:20	APO vs. TC
4	5:20	ASP vs. KS
5	5:20	SAM vs. TKE
6	5:20	Trojans vs. SX

Lacrosse Team Smears Lowly Boston State, 29-0

By WALTER STACHURA
Senior Reporter

Displaying an overwhelming attack and control of the ball, the UMass lacrosse team rolled to a smashing 29-0 rout of Boston State Saturday on the field behind Boyden.

UMass powered to an 18-0 lead in the first half with the regulars in most of the way while in the second half almost everyone took part in the action.

The Redmen so dominated the action during the game that Boston State got only one shot o n goal in the first half and two in the second half. UMass had 30 shots on net in addition to their 29 goals.

In the first half, Kevin O'Connor, Carl Schulthesis and Tom Malone and Steve Connolly led the attack. O'Connor had four goals while the others had three apiece.

UMass rot off to a quick start as they took the opening faceoff and scored 14 seconds into the game. O'Connor got the goal as he took a pass from Schulthesis in front of the net and put it in easily.

Thirty seconds later, Connolly scored his first goal and twenty-three seconds later, Malone got his first goal giving UMass three goals in the first minute of play on their first three shots on net.

Malone added to the lead with his second goal of the quarter as he came around the corner of the goal and tucked it in. O'Connor and Schulthesis made the score 6-0 at the six minute mark.

Gary Vassar continued the rout with a goal at the ten minute mark and Schulthesis added his second a minute later. Malone and O'Connor closed out the scoring in the first quarter with UMass having a commanding 10-0 bulge.

Steve Connolly opened the scoring in the second quarter with a pair of goals in the opening two minutes and Steve Anderson notched his first goal a minute later making the score 13-0, U-Mass.

Sophomore Mike Henry tallied at the four minute mark and Schulthesis is followed up with his third goal a minute later for the fifteenth UMass goal.

Parker Simonds scored a pretty goal just seven seconds after Schulthesis' goal as he won the faceoff and ran right down the middle of the field to score.

O'Connor netted his fourth goal of the game at 10:41 with a Boston State player serving a penalty. Steve Herschcopf closed out scoring in the first half as he batted in a rebound of his own shot.

The domination of the UMass attack was evident in this half as the Redmen scored at will despite playing all three attack teams. When the first attack was sent in on power plays, it took them usually about fifteen to thirty seconds to score.

UMass opened the second half with an attack team of goalies Mark Schlossberg, John Orr and defenseman Billy Devore, while Al Ruggliano took Schlossberg's place in the net.

Simonds scored his second goal of the game two minutes into the quarter and Tom Brennan fired in the twentieth UMass goal two minutes later.

Schlossberg drew the cheers of the crowd as he came up with his first varsity goal on a shot over Boston State goalie Mike Craven's shoulder. Not to be outdone, Orr scored the next UMass goal as he swept in a rebound from the side of the cage.

Garry Diamond closed out the scoring in the third quarter with a hard shot that eluded Craven with nine seconds remaining in the quarter to give UMass a 23-0 bulge.

UMass did not let up in the final quarter as they poured in six more goals. John Gannon and Pete Vengrow paced the scoring with two goals apiece while Bob Moore and Gerry Forgit added singletons.

The twenty-nine goals was a high for the Redmen this season and set a school record. The score could have been much higher but UMass coach Richard Garber elected to sit out his starters for the second half.

This season is the second for Boston State at a varsity level and they showed a great deal of inexperience. Their defenseman allowed the Redmen to set up their plays around the net without moving out to check them.

The loss was the second in a row for Boston State while the Redmen picked up their second victory without a loss. The next game for the Redmen will be an away game at Middlebury on Wednesday with the next home game against UConn on May 3.

UMass Tracksters Second In Weekend Meet

Despite recording six first places in Saturday's tri-meet, U-Mass tacksters were only able to take second place with 65-1/2 points behind Northeastern, which tallied 90-1/2, but in front of Boston University with a point production of 25.

Lack of solid depth hurt the Redmen, who got only one less first place than the Huskies, but were solidly outpointed in the second, third, and fourth potitions. Times and distances were not up to par because this meet was the first of the season for the teams.

Leading the Redmen was the meet's only double winner, hurdler Jerry Spellman. The UMass soph took first in the high hurdles in 15.8 seconds and also grabbed first in the 440 intermediate hurdles with a time of 58.4. Spellman later came back to lead off the Redman relay with a 51.8 quarter-mile.

The strongest events of the day for the Redmen were the 220 and the two mile. In both races UMass took first, second and fourth. Steve Chase took the honors in the 220 with a time of 22.4. He was followed by Walter Mayo (second) and Dave Marble (fourth). Marble had sped to first in the 100 yard dash after Mayo fouled out.

In the two mile Charlie Lang led the parade of Redmen runners with a time of 9:19. Paul Hoss grabbed second in 9:22 and Ron Wayne was fourth in 9:40.

UMass' only first place in the field events went to Dick Dyer in the broad jump when he leaped 21.9-1/4". Dyer's teammate, Dave Canterbury placed third in the broad jump.

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 11

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Varsity Grid Candidates Begin Spring Football

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

"We are going to learn how to play football." It could have been a quote from a high school coach, or a Pop Warner league mentor. It happened to be said by one of the most successful gridiron coaches in New England, U Mass' Vic Fusia, on the eve of his squad's spring training sessions.

Fusia will welcome approximately 70 bodies to the spring practice today as the Redmen begin to dig out from the ruins of last fall's 2-8 disasters. Among the candidates for varsity berths will be about 20 lettermen and a host of freshmen from the undefeated yearling team. The two week training period will culminate with the annual squad game on May 3 in the stadium.

The UMass coach usually goes into these sessions with a list of things to be done that are a mile long, ranging from tight and spread punt formations to offense patterns and defensive maneuvers. This year is different.

JERRY SPELLMAN, winner of two races, is shown here winning the 440 hurdles. (MDC photo by Dave Evans).

"We have only two objectives this year," said Fusia. "One is to learn how to play football and secondly, bring back the old Massachusetts mystique, that feeling of confidence that was worth points for us, even before the game started."

"We have to start hitting people again. If you can't hit people, and block and tackle, then you won't win. I was embarrassed by the way we played last year."

Fusia is always emphatic about the importance of such spring practice. "This is a critical phase of a team's preparation and development. Come fall, we are concerned with mainly game preparation so this is the only time we can learn skills and offensive and defensive theory."

A highlight of this year's sessions will be the competition for many varisty spots. There is a large group of talented freshman eager to displace varsity people who are equally eager to hold on to their spots. Fusia enthused, "This is the first time since 1963 that there will be competition for virtually every spot."

This should be an agressive hard-hitting two weeks for the Redmen. Fusia is stressing the regaining of a physical emotional ballclub, something that was absent last season.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 118 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, APRIL 15, 1969

DRAW IN TODAY'S WEATHER

FORMER PRESIDENTIAL AIDE -Kenneth O'Donnell spoke before a small group in Thompson last night. O'Donnell lost a bid for the Massachusetts governorship in 1966, but has announced his candidacy for 1970. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre).

'Get Where The Action Is,' In Politics Urges O'Donnell

By RICHARD LANE
Senior Reporter

"Participatory politics" and change were the focal points of a speech given by Distinguished Visitors Program (DVP) guest Kenneth O'Donnell last night.

Speaking before a small audience in Thompson Tower, the well known Democrat stated that the United States is "a nation concerned with where it's going," and "we are faced with a brand new America today." Furthermore, he added, "America is ours, and we have a responsibility to involve ourselves with it." He urged young people to "get where the action is" in politics.

O'Donnell began the evening by speaking at length of his beginnings in politics and the changes in America which he witnessed while serving with John F. Kennedy, first as U.S. Senator from Massachusetts and then as President.

The Massachusetts Democrat stated that his political ambitions began during World War II while he served as an 8th Air Force pilot. He said that he realized that "something was wrong with society" that would allow such wars, and he was determined to do somethin g about it. And it was after he met John Kennedy that his political career started to move.

During the 1950's the role of America changed, but it became a faulty role, said O'Donnell. The country suffered three recessions and became deeply concerned about "ourselves and our allies." O'Donnell cited Kennedy's campaign charge that the United States was then "a nation adrift."

Of the Kennedy era, O'Donnell stated the key event was the Cuban missile crisis of October, 1962. He termed the thirteen day confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States as "The world turned on that hinge." The Soviet Union then learned that it must live with us and problems began with France and Britain, he said, as "Europe sought to find its own place in this world." Problems also began with Asia at that time O'Donnell added.

The great legacy of those brief Kennedy years was involvement of people in politics, especially the young, according to the DVP speaker.

The 1968 presidential election was an "unconscious expression" to change the course of events of the country by the American voters according to O'Donnell. President Johnson was "clearly repudiated as President" because he could no longer communicate with the people or run the government added O'Donnell.

He pointed to the Vietnam war and rapid technological advances of a violent nature as the reasons that America is so troubled today. Of the war, O'Donnell said, "There is a deep desire to end the conflict in Vietnam," and the United States is "wasting away in a war that does not really threaten our security."

(Continued on Page 2)

Committee Unveils Proposed Plans For Convocation, Activities Center

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

Plans for a student funded, multi-purpose Convocation and Activities Center, which will seat up to 15,000 were unveiled yesterday by the UMass Inter-disciplinary Development Committee at a Student Union press conference yesterday.

The project is subject to the approval of the Graduate and Student Senates, due to the use of student funds to float bonds for financing the project. Dean of Administration Leo F. Redfern who presided over the conference said students would not be levied the fee for the payment of the complex until the project is completed.

The project is designed to provide students with better facilities for large audience events, such as convocations, basketball, entertainment events, and conferen-

(Continued on Page 2)

BU Students Take-Over Student Affairs Office

BOSTON (AP) - Students at Boston University, for the second time in less than a week, seized an administration office yesterday in an antimilitary demonstration.

There was no violence and no immediate threat of police action.

The students, at times numbering approximately 150, took over the office of Staton R. Curtis, dean of student affairs.

After about three hours, most of the protesters left to join a rally in front of the building, the George Sherman Union. Later they returned, but no attempt was made to stop the flow of traffic or business.

University President Dr. Arland F. Christ-Janer, at his request, was authorized by the 16-member University Council and the 31-member Faculty Senate Council to appoint a special committee to handle complaints issing from the protest. The c mit-

(Continued on Page 2)

29 Collegiate Newspapers Run ROTC Editorial

Twenty-nine college newspapers across the nation today are printing a joint editorial calling for the abolition of R.O.T.C. as a "sanctioned course offering."

Citing various campus protests against R.O.T.C., the editorial outlined the philosophical and academic arguments against the program. The arguments centered on establishing the fact that R.O.T.C. does not conform with the normal criteria of college instruction.

The editorial goes on t o say that the "brutal materialism" taught by R.O.T.C. courses makes it impossible for colleges and universities to maintain their "unique role of inspiring critical thinking." Thus the college papers argue that in order to remain secure fro the non-academic traditions of the military, R.O.T.C. must be denied academic credit.

While campuses across the country have been brought to a boil over the R.O.T.C. question, the argument at UMass has generally been confined to the Student Senate.

The Senate has recommended that all lower division R.O.T.C. courses be stripped of credit until such time as they conform to accepted university teaching roles.

The R.O.T.C. editorial appears on page 4 of today's DAILY COLLEGIAN.

A Time To Be Born

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Chet Weinerman wrote the following as an editorial in April 1966 when he was editorial chairman of the COLLEGIAN. Chet has since been graduated and is attending graduate school. In keeping with last year's tradition, we are reprinting this editorial about April. MDC photo by John Kelly.)

It's April

It's beautiful

Life offers so much in April. And life is for a college student. It will never be the same after college. Never quite the same perspective; never quite the same freedom from society's restrictions; never the chance to drift so much.

Go out on the grass and lie down. Look into the water; try to see a glimmering reflection. Look up at the sky; seek to find the highest ideal. Look at the grass; see God. Think of a friend and feel trust. Think of all the people you know, all the books you've read. Talk to Conscience - have a long conversation. What might have been, what one second the other way might have done to make it all so very different for you, for your brother, for peace.

Forget classes for the day. Don't think about a cum or alcohol or cigarettes or sex or money.

Introspect. Evaluate. Count blessings and scorn apathy. Thank the dreamers and curse the pushers and Hatchers. Give to yourself, instead of constantly grabbing and pulling and taking. Then you will be giving to all mankind, because you are mankind. And what is Life's purpose? It's thinking about and interacting with mankind - constructively, positively.

Think every day, because I, Mankind, need help. So desperately.

Please?

Chet Weinerman
Editor Emeritus

15 APR 15

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon yesterday gave Congress a broad-stroke outline of his domestic program. It included boosts in Social Security benefits, intensified war on crime and a two-stage taxation reform.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senators were told yesterday by the chairman of a President's commission that dependence on jobs to solve the poverty program may be a "snare and a delusion" because many poor are unemployable.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Va. (AP) - Views were exchanged in secret yesterday by union leaders and top figures in the Nixon administration at an unusual labor-government conference.

BOLD

PLAYS AT

CHEQUERS

TUES. and THURS. 9-12

256-8189

Now is the time to stop thinking and take action!

Buy your boots while the selection is at its best!

Choose from:

VERDE
BOSTONIAN
FRYE
DURANGO

lined and unlined, cordovan, black, roughout, rawhide at

BOLLES

FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES

HUBERT IF IT'S A HOT OVEN GRINDER

or really great Pizza that has come between us, let's sally down to 65 University Drive

Bell's Pizza House

Tel. 256-8011 253-9051

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

O'Donnell Addresses Small Group

(Continued from Page 1)

After finishing his main speech, O'Donnell then took questions from the floor for about 40 minutes. On the ABM controversy the former Kennedy assistant declared that he opposes the system because it "doesn't work" and "can't afford it."

O'Donnell then addressed himself to a number of questions on problems of the Massachusetts state government. He was a former unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination of governor in 1966 and has announced his candidacy for 1970.

Concluding on student revolts, O'Donnell emphasized that "Students must choose their methods more carefully," and recent violence at Harvard by students was wrong in his opinion.

BU Students Take Over Again

(Continued from Page 1)

tee's membership would include representatives fro m both the university and faculty bodies as well as students.

The councils, following a joint meeting yesterday, issued a statement, which read in part:

"The right of peaceful protest within the university community shall be preserved. In the protection of this right, the university will exercise its responsibility to insure the safety of individuals, the protectio n of property and the continuity of the educational process."

The rally outside developed into a shouting match between members of Students for a Democratic Society, SDS, and an opposing political group, Young Americans for Freedom, YAF.

Allen Seltzer, a senior from Teaneck, N.J., and a spokesman for the SDS, said the takeover of the dean's office was planned Sunday night because the university had not acted on demands issued last Wednesday.

"Talking is the main thing we want," he said. "We want to talk; we want to educate. The issue here is not police brutality or police on campus. The issue here is the war and other wars."

Convocation, Activiities Center

(Continued from Page1)

ences, plus facilities for ice hockey and recreational activities.

Also tentatively planned is a communications center designed to be a resource facility for campus communications agencies and provide rehearsal, workshop and storage space for campus groups as well as space for a variety of sports and intramural activities.

Planning Officer H. J. Littlefield outlined the structure of the complex which is modeled on a project at Notre Dame University, in Sout h Bend, Ind. The proposal contains a main arena with 12,000 to 15,000 seats and an ice arena with 6,000. Also included will be locker facilities, rehearsal space, meeting rooms, and office space.

GENESIS I

Can you Breakfast Dance to a dirge?

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1962 Chevy II, Nova, black convertible with red interior; 6 cylinder, automatic. Good condition. Best offer. Call 253-9147 ro 545-5515 ask for Beckr in 304. 4-16

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7812. 4-22

1961 Pontiac Bonnerville conv., many new parts incl. trans. and brakes, battery, heater, front end. Good trans. Asking $250.00. Call 586-1023. 4-15

1963 Ford Falcon, good condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3867 after 7:00 p.m. 4-16

Rare M.G. Magnette (M.G.'s Cadillac) excellent cond., black, four speed, four door, four cyl., 1500 cc, walnut dash, red leather seats. Must sell $400, worth more, at Phi Sigma Kappa or 546-8815. 4-17

1965 Pontiac GTO, Power Wi lows, Steering, rear end has air sucku and load levelers, front end stabilizers, trbine power, Crower HJ 210 Cam and Kit. Asking $1475, Maxs extra. Call 545-0070. Ask for Dave or leave message. 4-15

1964 Tr. 4, new top, wire wheels, excellent condition, $1095. Call 546-9558 between 6-7 p.m. 4-15-17-21

'63 Impala Conv., new top/tires, P.S., auto., V-8, excellent condition. Leaving must sell. $795. Call Fred 546-6177. 4-17

Stereo Tape Deck for your automobile. Perfect condition. Equipped with two stereo speakers and four tapes, plus cleaning tape. "Reasonable price". Call Howie, phone 545-5417, Rm. 324, leave message. 4-15

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken, 24-hour service, discount prices on film processing. Call Lang's Photo, 825 Main St., Amherst. Tel. 253-3148. 4-18

1957 HOUSE TRAILER, completely furn., air cond., only lived in two years. This trailer has retained its youthful complexion., 15 min. from Amherst. Asking $1395. Call 323-6284 eves. 4-17

Motorcycle — 1968 Bridgestone 350 cc, 40 hp., 5,000 miles, excellent condition, $690. Call 546-8772. 4-15

"BUGS ARE BEAUTIFUL" — vinyl, removable stickers. Volkswagens love them on their rear deck lids or bumpers. $1.00 each, post-paid. Unique Products, Dept. MDC, P.O. Box 208, Rochester, Michigan 48063 4-18

'65 Honda, 305, excellent, condition plus helmet and acce. Call Marc evenings 6-6951. 4-19

SERVICES

Available for the position of Secretary to the Class of '71 — Joan McCourt. 4-17

PHOTOGRAPHY — All types of photographic services, black and white or color portraitive prints for sale — creative photography. Can provide photographs for your thesis and term papers. Steve Thorp, UMass '69, Call 665-3167. 4-18

FOR SALE

1967 Honda, CB 160, excellent con-dition, one owner, best offer. Call 253-3374 after 6 p.m. 4-17

Kawasaki 250, 1967, exc. condition, $375. 253-9611. 4-18

1966 Honda CB160, "Hi-Risers", straight pipes w/snuffs, excellent cond., all stock parts thrown in, $300. Call John 253-5193 after 5:30. 4-21

Wilson Tennis Racket — top condition, Jack Kramer aptograph model, too heavy for owner. Call Dorey 6-8489, reasonable price. 4-18

Mobilehome — Don't pay high rent, own your own mobilehome. 5 rms., all furnished, ready to live in. Close to Univ. and Northampton. Excellent investment. Available this summer. Call 247-5096.

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers. Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6095 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

1965 Honda CB 160 in good condition with two helmets. Price $200. Ask for Steve at 584-6163. 4-17

ROOMMATES WANTED

Roommate wantrd for summer (June - July - Aug.), Male, $47/mo. Call 256-8290, ask for A.J. 4-18

Two female roommates wanted for summer school to share modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment, lovely backyard, all utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 4-16

One male roommate — for immediate occupancy. Five room apt., three separate bedrooms, one mile from Campus, approx. $45 per month, includes electricity and phone. 2177 North Pleasant. call 549-1173. 4-15

I have a two bedroom apartment in Puffton Village — I would like two other girls to share the apartment with me for June, July and Aug. If interested please call 549-1292. 4-18

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
for
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970 4-17

FOR RENT

3½ Room furnished or unfurnished apartment, $120 a month. Includes all utilities. Available June 1. Come to Cliffside, Apt. 306, Sunderland, Route 116 or call 665-8768 any night. 4-1

2½ Room Furnished Apartment — rent includes all utilities. Available June 1. Call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 4-15

Apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept. 1, 10 min. from Campus, 3 rooms, furnished. Contact Brenda 546-8330 or Sandy 546-8324. 4-15

Available June 1st, 2 bedroom apt. located 1 mile from Campus. For further information call 253-9667. 4-21

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Knew where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer next-pany available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-3

Apartment to sublet, Available June 1 - August 31, 3½ rooms, $150 a month including all utilities. Call 665-3052 after 5 p.m. 4-21

Apartment to sublet for summer. 6 rooms, furnished, 3 minute walk to campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8031. 4-21

5 room apartment, for 3 people for summer months. Washer and dryer, two bathrooms, completely furnished. Call 546-7991 or 546-7953. 4-21

HELP WANTED

Rock musicians needed to work weekends. Experience needed. Rhythm guitarist or organist and bass player. Call 546-6463 4-17

Desk clerk, secretary, 7:30 - 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday. Good for student wife. Must be able to meet public. Apply Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Route 9, Hadley. 586-8114 for appointment. 4-16

Full-time and part-time waitresses wanted. Enclish Pub, 13 East Pleasant St., Amherst. 4-18

AUDITIONS for female singers for the Nexus (a Latin American Jazz cromp) Berkshire Room at the Student Union 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 16. No experience necessary. 4-16

Girls for counter work making sandwiches and cold drinks. Hours: Mon. thru Fri. — 10-2 and 5-8; Sat. — 5-6. Needed for June, July and Aug. Apply Gene's Ice Cream Shoppe, Route 9, Hadley (near Hopkins Academy.). 4-15-17-21-23-25

Student Government Association

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

April 16th 1969, 7:00 P.M.

in the Council Chambers
Student Union

IT'S AN OPEN MEETING,
SHOW AN INTEREST, AND COME!

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

TONIGHT!

STUDENT LEADERS' NIGHT

8:00 p.m.

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

TAPPING OF

"SCROLLS"

KEYS →

REVELERS

WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS AT AMERICAN COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES

DISTINGUISHED SENIORS

MORTAR BOARD →

ADEPHIA

ARCONS →

KEY NOTE ADDRESS

"A BIAS TOWARD YOU"

DR. MARK NOFFSINGER

15 APR

A Policy Editorial

R.O.T.C. Credit - A Now Dilemma

(Editor's note - The following is a policy editorial which has been endorsed by 29 major college daily newspapers.)

One of the unintended domestic consequences of the war in Vietnam has been the growing awareness of the dangers of intimate connections between the military and academic.

Perhaps the most blatant example of colleges and universities willingly performing functions that are rightly the exclusive concern of the military is the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC).

After many years of relatively tranquil existence on the nation's campuses, ROTC has come under fire of late from those who believe that philosophically and pedagogically, military training has no place in an academic institution.

In recent months such leading institutions as Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth, Harvard and Stanford have all taken steps toward revoking academic credit from their ROTC programs. Currently, many other colleges and universities are also reevaluating the status of their own ROTC programs.

The Stanford decision is especially significant because it was premised on philosophic rather than pragmatic grounds. As a member of the committee which prepared the report explained, "We began with a definition of the university and found an essential conflict between this and the concept of ROTC."

Academia's traditional function is to inspire critical thinking about man and his society aloof from partisan or superficial considerations. But it is impossible for colleges and universities even to pretend to perform this unique role if they are also subsidizing the brutal militarism of the outside world.

Some have argued that academic institutions, especially those which are publicly sponsored, have an obligation to be politically neutral and that this neutrality requires the continued support of ROTC programs on campus.

At a time when the military is an integral element in an expansionist foreign policy opposed by a sizeable segment of the population both inside and outside academia, it is clear that the ROTC program is as partisan in its own way as Students for a Democratic Society.

Thus, in a modern context colleges and universities are only politically neutral when they as institutions stand between the government and its critics. Clearly, continued academic support for ROTC would be the height of political partisanship.

Hans Morganthau wrote recently that one of the key lessons of the Vietnam War was the danger of too intimate a relationship between the campus and the government. For already, he noted, large segments of the academic community have been transformed, "into a mere extension of the government bureaucracy, defending and implementing policies regardless of their objective merits."

ROTC is not only antithetical to the ultimate purposes of higher education, but contrary to basic pedagogical principles as well.

While the development of critical thinking is an integral part of a liberal education, the teaching methods employed in ROTC programs tend to emphasize rote learning and deference to authority. This is far from surprising as critical thinking has never been a highly prized military virtue. Consequently, the ROTC program is geared to produce intellectually stunted martinets.

An example of the type of educational thinking behind the ROTC program at many universities is provided by a solemn pronouncement made last year by an ROTC officer at the University of Minnesota in a frighteningly serious echo of Catch-22 he declared, "Marching is the basic leadership program for every officer."

Equally alien to the ends of a liberal education is the unquestioning submissiveness endemic in the rigidly hierarchical structure of military education. It is hard to develop any spontaneity - much less dialogue - within the classroom when the professor is not just a teacher, but a superior officer as well.

For those congenitally unimpressed by philosophical arguments predicated on the goals of higher education, there are some equally potent pragmatic reasons why ROTC is in no way a valid academic offering.

A faculty curriculum committee at the University of Michigan stated the case clearly when it charged that ROTC course materials used in Ann Arbor were "conjectural, non-analytical, cheaply moralistic and often blatantly propagandistic."

The bulk of the ROTC program consists of technical courses often less rigorous than similar courses offered in the math, science and engineering programs of most colleges and universities.

Typical of those ROTC programs not duplicated elsewhere is an Air Force ROTC cours e entitled, "The history of the role of the Air Force in U.S. military history." Designed primarily to inculcate institutional loyalty, rather than to develop critical thinking, courses like this are clearly not history. They are not even valid military history since inter-service rivalry results in an inflation of the role of the Air Force.

The intellectual vacuity of many ROTC courses is directly related to the rather limited educational backgrounds of the preponderance of ROTC faculty.

Despite education which normally does not exceed a bachelor's degree, ROTC instructors are accorded a status comparable to professors in more rigorous disciplines. And due to the high degree of autonomy of the ROTC program, colleges and universities have little direct control over the hiring, firing or promotion of these ROTC instructors.

But objections such as these spring primarily from the form rathe r than the underlying substance of ROTC. On a substantive level, it is difficult to avoid the blunt assertion that training soldiers whose ultimate aim is to kill is totally hostile to the principles of academia.

It was the simplistic "my country right or wrong" patriotism of the First World War which spawned the original ROTC program. But one of the clearest lessons of the Vietnam tragedy is that such unquestioning support of government policy is not only morally bankrupt, but counter to the long-range interests of the nation as well as the campus.

In order to reassert the sanctity of academia as a morally and educationally autonomous institution, it is necessary to end the universities' role as the unquestioning servant of government and military. The abolition of ROTC as a sanctioned course offering would be a major step in this direction.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
University of Massachusetts, Amherst.
DAILY CALIFORNIAN
University of California, Berkeley, Calif.
THE DAILY BRUIN
UCLA, Los Angeles, Calif.
EL GAUCHO
University of California, Santa Barbara, Calif.
THE COLORADO DAILY
University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.
DAILY ILLINI
University of Illinois, Champaign, Ill.
THE PURDUE EXPONENT
Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.
KENTUCKY KERNEL
University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.
TULANE HULLABALOO
Tulane University, New Orleans, La.
THE DIAMONDBACK
University of Maryland, College Park, Md.
BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEWS
Boston University, Boston, Mass.
THE MICHIGAN DAILY
University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.
THE STATE NEWS
Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.
THE MINNESOTA DAILY
University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.
THE REFLECTOR
Mississippi State University, State College, Miss.
STUDENT LIFE
Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.
GATEWAY
University of Nebrosko, Omaha, Neb.
THE DUKE CHRONICLE
Duke University, Durham, N.C.
THE TARGUM
Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J.
THE NEW MEXICO LOBO
University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, N.M.
THE COLONIAL NEWS
Harpur College, State University of New York, Binghamton, N.Y.
THE SPECTRUM
State University of New York, Buffalo, N.Y.
THE STATESMAN
State University of New York, Stony Brook, N.Y.
THE ANTIOCH RECORD
Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio
THE POST
Ohio University, Athens, Ohio
THE DAILY PENNSYLVANIAN
University of Pennsylvania, Phila., Pa.
CAVALIER DAILY
University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va.
UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON DAILY
University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.
THE DAILY CARDINAL
University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Editorial Policy

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, student body as a whole, or the editorial board as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

All letters should be addressed "To the editor", set over 60 characters, and typed double space. All letters must be signed to be considered for publication. Names will be withheld upon request, if the name of the writer is known to us, otherwise unsigned letters will be discarded. We reserve the right to edit, condense, correct factual errors, and clarify points made in all letters.

Campus Comment

What Rat?

To the editor:

"John Kelly found this rat swimming in the pond Wednesday," and who is John Kelly to know a rat when he sees one - some noted mammologist?

Let us reflect upon the animal which appeared on the frong page of Friday's Collegian. MUS DECUMANUS, the notorious brown rat, carrier of Bubonic Plague and various other pathogens, the harbinger of filth -- or is that spring? "Spring arrived and the rats came out" - reads the caption. Since when do rats come out in the spring to swim in the pond?

If the vermin photographed on Wednesday is the same as the innocuous little rodent which I saw swimming in the pond on Friday, then Mr. Kelly is as much a mammologist as the maligned little creature in the pond is a rat.

The animal which I saw and which has been identified to me by a wildlife biologist (Mr. Edward Toth) is none other than the harmless and clean muskrat, CASTOR ZIBETHICUS, first cousin to the beaver.

We can safely assume, therefore, that Mr. Kelly is not a mammologist at all, but an MDC Senior Photographer delving into a little sensationalism. "There is a yearly complaint about the filth of the campus pond" - says the caption. Maybe the pond is polluted but the presence of a muskrat is no more an indication of pollution than the presence of the ducks. A water analysis by the Board of Health would be the type of evidence to demonstrate filth.

David Caporello

Exasperated

To the editor:

In recommending the non-reappointment of seven members of the History Department last May, Professor Quint's executive committee, in close cooperation with Dean Hunsberger, totally disregarded in some cases, the University's procedures for personnel actions as set forth by the Provost and the Board of Trustees. Provost Tippo approved the recommended non-reappointments despite obvious irregularities which were brought to his attention before he took action.

Convinced that my academic freedom and right to due process were violated in the case of my non-reappointment, I appealed for redress to the American Association of the University Tenure and Grievance Committee. However, when the Tenure and Grievance Committee supported my position, Provost Tippo refused to accept its recommendations. The Provost holds that he is not obliged to accept the recommendations of the Committee because its function at this university is merely advisory. What, one may ask, is the point of having a faculty Tenure and Grievance Committee if the Provost can accept or reject its recommendations as he chooses without having to defend his actions before any faculty body?

The national AAUP has advised Provost Tippo to implement the recommendations of the Tenure and Grievance Committee regarding my case. By refusing to accept this advice and thus to settle an AAUP case at the local level, Provost Tippo exposes the university to the possibility of a full scale AAUP investigation. The faculty must assume the responsibility for protecting itself against such an eventuality. It must possess the authority to settle personnel disputes in accordance with AAUP recommendations when the administration proves unwilling to do so. The AAUP STATEMENT ON GOVERNMENT OF COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES points out that: "Faculty status and related matters are primarily a faculty responsibility; this area includes appointments, reappointments, decisions not to reappoint, promotions, the granting of tenure, and dismissal. The primary responsibility of the faculty for such matters is based upo n the fact that its judgment is central to educational policy."

Victor R. Swenson

Leniency?

To the editor:

Apologize? Are you real or plastic?

The D.V.P. committee should apologize to the Black Community on this campus. The Senate should in no way apologize to that racist, imperialist, pig, Thurmond.

Concerning "what can leniently be called less than a courteous welcome from certain members of the community," Thurmond is fortunate that he got away from this campus uninjured! Furthermore, if the Black and White communities on campus were organized prior to that pig's appearance, he would have been informed not ever to bother showing up, least he might suffer some "unfortunate" consequences.

Richie Rashed.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER Frank Wendrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR Peter F. Pascarella '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR Jon Curley
STAFF Theresa Beckta, Sharon Twombly, Kathy Rose
EDITORIAL Michael Darman
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS Ken McIntyre, Dave Craig
SPORTS DAY EDITOR John Sullivan

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Student Sit-Ins, Demonstrations Continue Across the Country

By COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE (CPS-TELEX) - Some 6000 Harvard students and faculty members yesterday voted to continue their three-day-old strike for another three days.

The group that cast the strike vote was composed mainly of Students for a Democratic Society supporters and junior faculty members, teaching fellows, and graduate students.

The moderate undergraduates who originally called the strike are still meeting to decide whether to support the continuation.

The Harvard Corporation, the University's prime governing body said Sunday it would consider closing down the university if another building is taken over.

Last Wednesday Students for a Democratic Society took over University Hall and were evicted early Thursday in a bloody encounter with police. More moderate students then called for a strike demanding amnesty and a restructuring of the corporation.

The corporation is composed of the university president and treasurer and five elected members.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE

At San Francisco State College, acting President S. I. Hayakawa announced that he is lifting his emergency regulations, including a ban on campus rallies, but that he would continue to look at disciplinary cases on an individual basis.

Hayakawa also said Police would generally be absent from the campus although "We will not hesitate to call them if necessary." There have been only a handful of police on the campus for some time.

The agreement that ended the student strike after five months had included a proposal to lower penalties for most of the students charged with campus violations. Hayakawa has indicated, however, that he considers this only a recommendation and that he will consider cases individually. He said only part of the cases have been processed through the campus disciplinary machinery, that most punishments have been lenient, and that he would now begin reviewing them in accordance with normal procedures.

Leaders of the strike have expressed unhappiness with Hayakawa's refusal to accept the disciplinary recommendations but there is no indication that they plan any action in response.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY

Demonstrators continued a sit-in at Applied Electronics Laboratory, despite a request from the faculty senate that they leave. The students are demanding closer university control of the Stanford Research Institute (SRI) and an end to all chemical and biological warfare (CBW) research at SRI.

The students also held discussions with SRI employees on the lawn outside the SRI complex near the campus.

The school's trustees rejected a student demand that they meet to consider the demands. The trustees had earlier asked SRI not to accept any more CBW research contracts for the time being, but the students have rejected this as an insufficient compromise.

Any group wishing to apply for an SATF appropriation for the fiscal year 1969-1970 must contact the Budgets Committee on or before Friday, April 18, 1969.

Jim Albert
Chairman - Senate Budgets Committee
701 Webster 6-7207

throw your order our way
RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
253-9336
FREE DELIVERY
Saturday and Sunday
call by 3 — receive by 4:00
call by 4 — receive by 5:30
call by 5 — receive by 6:30

THREE C's
Greeting Cards for Every Occasion
Candies -- Fresh Deliveries Weekly
Finest Papetries of Every Description
Quality Gifts to Suit Everyone
Engraved Invitations and Announcements
Supplies for School and Office
Candles in Every Size and Color
191 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 9 A.M.-5:30 P.M. Daily
Rear Entrance — Free Parking in rear

SWING! THING!
WMUA 91.1 FM
MON - FRI 3 - 6 P.M.

SOPH BANQUET INVITES YOU
TO THE BEST SHOW OF THE YEAR
TOMORROW NITE
TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE

5:30 to 7:30
SLOW
Steak Dinner
with all the fixin's
CATERED AND SERVED IN A WILD FLOWERS
ATMOSPHERE
&
Old Fashion Glass Favor
Soph's $2.50 & meal ticket
Non-Soph's $3.25
$3.00 $3.75
S.U. BALLROOM

9:00 to 10:00
SLOW
SIT DOWN
POP STYLE CONCERT
Everyone!
Only $1.25!
SPONSORED BY THE FINE ARTS COUNCIL

15 APR 15

Protestors Found Guilty in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) - Thirteen men and women who joined a protest march during the Democratic National Convention were convicted of disorderly conduct yesterday.

They were fined $200 to $400 and costs each, but the penalties were stayed pending the outcome of posttrial notions. The defense planned an appeal.

Magistrate Arthur L. Dunne, who heard the case in Circuit Court without a jury, set forth in his decision:

"I firmly believe that our cities, and the residents of these cities, can and must be protected by their government from noisy, chanting, shouting, marching, threatening picketers who, under the guise of free speech, hurl pieces of brick. stones and firebombs, bent on filling the minds of men and women and children with fear and hysteria."

Forty spectators and 40 newsmen sat in funeral-parlor silence while the judge intoned his findings, one by one.

"I find defendant (name) guilty," he said 13 times. Only two defendants were present.

The defendants were in a procession of 2,000 to 3,000 persons who paraded down Michigan Avenue Aug. 29 to demonstrate against war policies and police handling of protestors earlier in the tumultuous convention week.

Gov and Soc Departments Make Joint Appointment

By DREW B. STERGIS
Education Staff

The departments of Sociology and Government have announced their joint appointment, as professor, of Dr. Hans Speier, noted scholar of war and international conflict.

Currently a member of the Research Council of the RAND Corporation, Speier has worked in the fields of political sociology, sociology of knowledge, and sociology of literature.

Speier has been on the faculties of the University of Berlin and the New School for Social Research and has held visiting professorships at the Universities of Illinois and Michigan.

He has been a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences and at the Council on Foreign Relations. Currently he is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Speier studied at the Universities of Berlin and Heidelberg. He received his Ph. D. at Heidelberg in 1928.

After coming to the United States in 1933, he became Section Chief and later Acting Chief of the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service. He has also served as Propaganda Policy Advisor to the Chief of the Overseas Branch of the OWI and associate chief of Occupied Areas, Department of State.

Speier is widely known for his breadth of knowledge and interests. The most recent additions to his long list of publications include SOCIAL ORDER AND THE RISKS OF WAR and FORCE AND FOLLY: ESSAYS ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND THE HISTORY OF IDEAS, both published by the MIT press.

INTERTRANSFERABILITY OF DINING COMMONS

On a trial basis, beginning April 15th to the end of the semester, there will be intertransferability of all dining commons.

The only procedural change that will occur is that those students assigned to Franklin and Worcester Commons who have no pictures on their meal tickets will have to show their I.D. cards when they wish to eat in a dining commons not initially assigned.

at
THE AMHERST TOWER
purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free 256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

Officer Candidate Training
for
Naval Aviation
Interviews will be conducted by navy representatives at the Springfield Holiday Inn April 16th thru 19th.
Qualifying mental examinations may be taken without obligation. Transportation is available on request.
Call 781-0900 9 A.M. to 8:00 P.M.

FREE PEPSI
WITH EVERY PIZZA
UPON REQUEST
Min. of three for delivery
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 North Pleasant St.
253-9858

LOOKS LIKE SPRING
SO DO OUR CLOTHES
UP YOUR ALLEY
"a distinctive boutique especially for girls"
THE NEWEST IN PANTS, SKIRTS, DRESSES
THE NEWEST IN BLOUSES, VESTS, JUMP SUITS
56½ MAIN ST.
next to Aubuchon's Hardware
AMHERST
256-6716
THE NEWEST IN HATS, SCARVES, SUNGLASSES

CLASS of 1970
VEALE
President

Notices

AMHERST RAILWAY SOCIETY
Meeting tonight at 7:45 p.m. in Rm. 152 Goessmann Lab. Refreshments will be served.
W.A.A.
The voting for the Women's Athletic Association officers will take place tomorrow and Thursday in the S.U. Lobby from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and in WOPE Lobby from 12-30-4:30 p.m. All women students who have particlpated in intramural or extramural activities at WOPE this year are eligible and urged to vote. Also at the voting table you will be able to pick up information concerning the W.A.A. Banquet and Desert Hour to be held in North Dining Commons on May 8 at 7 p.m. All those who are members of W.A.A. are invited to attend.
EDUC
Members interested in planning a counseling day program for English Majors will meet in the back of the Hatch at 8 p.m. tonight.
SCUBA CLUB
This week's meeting will be tonight instead of Wed. at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks. Next week's meeting will be on the usual day.
BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House Thurs. All welcome.
FINNISH CLUB
Meeting Wed. at 8 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U. Those interested in learning Finnish basic language and culture are welcome. For information call Nancy, 6-8343.
UNIVERSITY MASS. DAMES
Bingo Night, tomarrow at 8:15 p.m. in Farley 4-H Club. Refreshments.
NEWMAN CLUB
Rev. Henry Dorsch will speak on "The Role of the Priest in the Modern World" tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Newman Center.
APRIL 24 IS NOT SPRING DAY
UNIVERSITY WOMEN
Tryouts for Precisionettes will begin Thurs. at 7 p.m. in Boyden Main Gym. Bring sneakers. All undergraduate women welcome.
MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE
A Military Ball will be held Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Dress formal. Tickets on sale at Dickinson Hall for $5 a couple. Theme of the Ball is "Forward Together".
GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Important meeting tonight at 6 p.m. in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rms., S.U. It is important that all attend, we will be voting for new offices. There will be no executive board.
VOLLEYBALL CLUB
Training Tues. and Thurs. from 7:30-8:30 p.m. and Sat. at noon in Boyden Gym.
UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN
Tryouts start soon for Precisionettes Drill Team. Coffee Hour tomorrow from 7:30-8:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Come and meet this year's team and watch the MDC for more news.
SMOLT ANNOUNCEMENT
Professor Joram Lindenstrauss of the University of Jerusalem and Visiting Professor of the University of California at Berkeley. Topics and dates today - "A General Introduction of Banach Spaces", tomorrow - "On the Approximation Problem in Banach Spaces", and Thurs. - "On Absolutely Summing Operators on Lp Spaces". Lectures today and tomorrow will be in the Mathematics Colloquium Rm. at 4:40 p.m. Thursday's lecture will be in the Math. Colloquium Rm, Arnold House at 2:30 p.m. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the Math Lounge, Arnold House prior to the Tues. and Wed. lectures.

Special Coffee Hour Marks King Council Anniversary

The regular program of coffee hours with administrators has been suspended this week to allow the campus community to meet the Board of Directors of the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council. Featured guest will be Executive Secretary Gil Salk.

This special coffee hour program was scheduled to mark the first anniversary of the King Council. It began operations on April 15 last year when it received an Executive Order from Senate President Jim Collins (see story elsewhere in today's paper.)

As usual, the coffee hour will be held today in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union from noon to 2 p.m., and free coffee will be available.

For those interested, the members of the Board of Directors of the King Council include students Keith Bromery, Maryann DePietro, DeiDei Eastmond, Ken Mosakowski, Bill Smith, and Dan Weir, faculty members Putnam Barber, Isidore Silver, and Al Winder, administrators Dallas Darland, Mark Noffsinger, and Oswald Tippo, and Board Chairmar Ron Hardy.

Dorm Creates Art Corridor

This past year, for the first time, the University has had an art corridor. It has been an informal but stimulating thing; people are just interested in art, whether they paint or play an instrument or just groove art.

We pulled up the lounge rug, made the lounge a studio area and subscribed to a couple of good art magazines. In December, the corridor sponsored and organized a student - faculty art show in the main floor lounge of Emily Dickinson.

But we need more people to exist again next year. If interested in joining us, please call me: Gretchen Wichtermann, tel. 546-6701, or Mrs. Robison, housemother of Emily Dickinson, 545-2166 by April 25.

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are available now until April 18, 1969 for the following Student Senate seats:

CANCE	JAMES
COMMUTERS (2)	J.Q.A. LOWER
FIELD (1)	LEACH

FRATERNITIES (1)

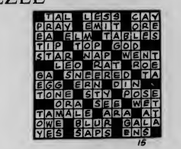
Papers are available in the RSO Activities office. Completed nomination papers must be returned by 5:30 P.M. April 18. Drawings for ballot position will occur at that time.

Elections shall be April 24. Dorm elections in the dorms, 6:00 to 5:00 P.M. Commuter and Fraternity elections in the Student Union 9:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

The English Pub
CHARLIE BRADSHAW
at the piano
Wednesday Night
Tonight —
LADIES NIGHT

— VERY IMPORTANT —
Collegian Photo Staff Meeting
Thursday, 6:30 — office

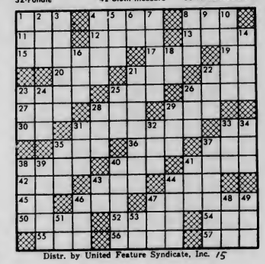
Wilson Approves Modified Budget



LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government approved a tough new budget Monday, speeded up moves to curb strikes, and prepared to face an open rebellion from the backbone of its political support, the trade union movement.

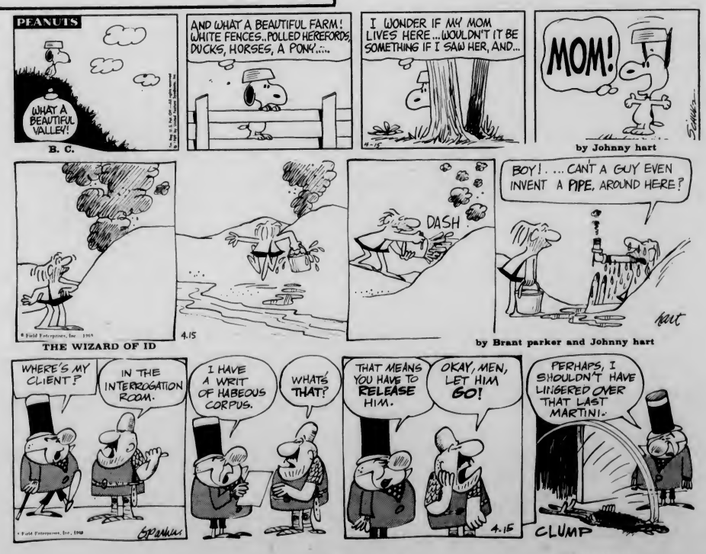
Qualified informants said the budget was approved at a Cabinet meeting Monday morning. They said the more controversial decision to hurry along strike curbs was reached at an afternoon session.

The second decision was seen as virtually certain to intensify demands from trade union leaders for a massive one-day strike May 1.



Blow Yourself To Up POSTER SIZE
2 ft. x 3 ft.
Send any Black and White or Color Photo from 2½" x 2½" to 8 x 10. We will send you a 2 ft. x 3 ft. BLOW-UP... perfect POP ART POSTER.
A $25 value for $3.50
3 x 4 Ft. Blo-Up $7.50
Add 50c for post & hdlg. EACH. No C.O.D. Add local Sales Tax
Send Check or Money Order to:
PHOTO POSTER, Inc.
210 E. 23rd St., Dept. M-47
New York, N. Y. 10010
Dealer Inquiries Invited.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS
1-Fruit seed
4-Ready money
8-Wine cup
11-Nahoor sheep
12-Aleutian island
13-Carpets
15-Mad
17-Small rug
19-Symbol for ruthenium
20-Cravat
21-Torrid
22-Insect
23-Lean-to
25-Preposition
26-Encounter
27-Brick-carrying device
28-Soak up
29-Stroke
30-Old pronoun
31-More precipitous
33-Symbol for tantalum
35-Cry of goat
36-Indefinite number
37-Swiss river
38-Brim of a hat
40-Conjunction
41-Girl's name
42-Communist
43-Sesame
44-Everyone
45-Printer's measure
46-Be ill
47-Permits
50-Unlead
52-Path
54-Number
55-Fish eggs
56-Location
57-Pigpen

DOWN
1-Greek letter
2-Hostelry
3-Experienced
4-Walking stick
5-Devoured
6-Saint (abbr.)
7-Wit
8-Skill
9-Greek letter
10-Concur
14-Fat around kidneys
16-Help
18-Near
21-Full of expectation
22-Wager
23-Timid
24-Garden tool
25-Enemy
26-Deface
28-Music: as written
29-Church bench
31-Weaken
32-Fondle
33-Hindu cymbals
34-Macaw
35-Insane
37-Apportions
38-Man's name
39-Nocturnal mammal
40-Vouchers
41-Cloth measure
43-Note of scale
44-Toward shelter
46-Imitate
47-Emmet
48-Damp
49-Vessel's curved planking
51-A state (abbr.)
53-Three-toed sloth

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 15

15 APR 15

Redmen Nine Clobbers Tufts, 29-0, in Home Opener

Strong Hitting, Pitching Jolt Jumbos

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

Don't worry about your eyes because you did read the score correctly. If you should need double reinforcement however, here it is again: UMass 29, Tufts 0.

This was the season's home opener for the Redmen and it certainly was successful. As an exhibition of baseball it was often times farcical but it does go a long way towards establishing UMass as a prime threat for the Division 1 berth in the NCAA playoffs.

UMass parlayed obviously superb hitting with fine pitching in this one to thoroughly humiliate the Jumbos.

Tufts was expected to field a fairly strong squad. They'd had a good spring in Mexico and had won both of their starts up North. They beat Amherst early last week and beat Northeastern 6-5 on Saturday, coming up with two runs in the ninth to do it.

How do you figure it? The only thing that can be said without hurting too many peoples' feelings is that the Jumbos, on an horrendous day, got UMass on a great day.

Tufts could manage but two hits all day. UMass starter Don Anderson pitched five strong innings betting into a jam only once, that coming in the second. With one out and men on second and third, he struck out Bob Karp and Paul Fitzpatrick to retire the side. Jack Bernardo came on in the seventh and Lou Colabello in the eighth to easily finish the job.

Tufts' nine errors certainly effected the outcome, but the Redmen did manage to bang out 21 hits. That total includes eight doubles, five triples and two home runs by Tom Semino and Steve Ring.

Tufts starter Bob Richardson was rocked from the beginning. In the UMass first, Bob Hansen doubled down the right field line to drive Ray Ellerbrook who had singled. Hansen, who advanced to third after Tony Chinappi grounded to second, scored when third baseman Paul Barry sustained a throwing error on Mitch Salnick's grounder. For all intents and purposes the game was over.

In the eight-run second, six hits four walks and three Tufts errors were the story. Semino hit his two run homer in this frame and it was a good shot, clearing the left field fence with ease. It raveled about 370 feet.

The Jumbos were only able to retire the Redmen in order in one inning, the fourth. Chinappi grounded to second, Pepin lined to right and Salnick lined sharply to third.

STRONG PERFORMANCE - UMass sophomore starting pitcher, Don Anderson displays the form that blanked the Tufts Jumbos for the five innings that he worked. Jack Bernardo and Lou Colabello took over for Anderson and completed the shutout.

DIAMOND DUST - Joe DiSarcina received an OK from the doctor on his wrist yesterday and should be ready to go tomorrow. . .Ellerbrook went four for four. . .Hansen three for four. . .Umass has set a tough act for itself to follow after yesterday but its a good one. . . coach Bick Bergquist's first word was "unbelievable!"

Exciting is the Word to Describe Freshman Baseball Team

By DICK BACKER
Staff Reporter

Sitting in coach Arlan Barber's office, the topic of freshman baseball was mentioned. Immediately a big smile broadened across Barber's face.

His first words were, "This is as good a bunch of boys as we ever had." Continuing with rapid fire comments, Barber concluded that this year's Little Redmen team is going to be quite exciting.

According to its pre-season showings, the team has good pitching, speed, defense and depth. The style of play will be to score one run at a time, while putting consistent pressure on the opposition. Barber hopes to employ the steal, bunt and hit and run as some of his offensive tools.

Running down his roster, Barber gave some quick comments about the frosh team. Starting with pitchers, he named left-handers Tom King, Jack Bryne and Byran Martin and right-hander Vinny Moore as his starters.

Each boy is pushing the other for the number one role. King, a fine blazer with a good curve, has pro potential; he could be a real good one. Right behind him is Bryne who has good speed with a live fast ball. Finishing out the rotation are Moore and Martin. Both have blends of speed and control, making them double threats.

Barber's bullpen is led by George Phelan, who possesses an excellent curve and is a thinking pitcher. He tries to out-wit the hitters with an assortment of pitches. Rounding out the bullpen are Ted Prifti, Tom Lauge and Bob Powers.

According to pre-season practice, the pitching has good depth and Barber feels that any boy on the staff, if he works hard, can become his number one pitcher.

Catching represents a two-way battle between Paul Archambault and Kerry Daly. Both are good hustlers with equal ability. Most likely they will split the starting assignment during the year.

First base has two potential long ball hitters, Pete Thompson and Gary DiNardi battling for the starting role.

When second baseman Jose Kelly was mentioned, Barber's smile grew wider. Barber feels this boy is going to be one of the most exciting players in the New England area.

A former Springfield Tech graduate, Kelly has speed to utilize in every area of the game. Whether gathering in a ball hit behind second or stealing a base, Kelly represents speed. Barber hopes that he will lead the frosh running offense this year by constantly putting pressure on the opposing pitchers when he is on base.

The starting shortstop position is a battle between Bob Szlosek and Jim Saracino. Szlosek is a left-handed hitter with a classic swing. Saracino is not quite as good of a hitter, but an excellent defensive player.

Third base has former Worcester Academy alumnus Alvin Huberman and freshmen basketball star Mike Pagliara vying for the starting nod. Both players give 150 per cent hustle, hit and field well, but most important they have good baseball knowledge and use it to get one step ahead of the opposition.

In the outfield five boys are battling for the three positions. As of now Mark Larussi leads in his bid for the center field berth with Kenny Bjornsen, Chris Wondolaski and Mike Lanchsky battling for the other two spots.

A surprise dark horse trying to win an outfield berth has been pitcher Martin. His bat has been stinging hits throughout spring practice and is quite the exception to the saying that pitchers don't hit. If he continues to impress the coaches with his outfield play and fine hitting, his mound duty may be limited this year. He could be the Little Redman starting right fielder.

Barber will hope to imprive on last year's 10-4 record. Barber has adequate hitting, but the fine defense of the team and its good pitching and speed will win a lot of games for him this year.

This season should be quite exciting. The first game for the little Redmen is Wednesday afternoon away against Worcester Academy , which is led by Dee Rowe. This game should be a close contest. The first home game is Satuday afternoon, April 19, against Amherst College. Starting time is 1:30.

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	Marauders vs. Heads
6	5:30	Bismarks vs. LML
7	5:30	Turtles vs. Bruisers
8	5:30	Holes vs. Bulldogs
9	5:30	Limes vs. - - -
10	5:30	Phallics vs. Panthers
11	5:30	Aces vs. Flaming A's
1	6:30	KS B vs. Stouts
2	6:30	GAK vs. Avengers
3	6:30	WhWl vs. TWH
4	6:30	Lil Fellas vs. Rasputin
1	7:30	3 M's vs. Ironmen B
2	7:30	5¢ Bags vs. Cool Can 2
3	7:30	Foul Balls vs. Band
4	7:30	Bucks vs. Rnntrs
1	8:30	Pines vs. Maples
2	8:30	Oaks vs. Grants
3	8:30	Giants vs. Eagles
4	8:30	Elms vs. Maroons
1	9:30	Broncos vs. Bruins
2	9:30	Barracudas vs. Brigade
3	9:30	Pipers vs. Hemlocks
4	9:30	Buffaloes vs. Redwoods
1	10:30	Bucks vs. 5¢ Bags
2	10:30	Rnntrs vs. 3 M's
3	10:30	Band vs. Zeppelins
4	10:30	Cool Cans 2 vs. Ironmen B
		SOCCER
2	4:40	Hi-lo's vs. Eagles
3	4:40	Elms vs. Maroons
4	4:40	Aces vs. Flaming A's
5	4:40	Redwoods vs. Pied Pipers
6	4:40	Buffaloes vs. Lemons
2	5:20	KS vs. SAM
3	5:20	PLP vs. ASP
4	5:20	Cougars vs. Leopards
5	5:20	Colt 45's vs. Mogs
6	5:20	Comanches vs. Panthers

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

Senators 4, Bulldrzers 3
Terrors 11, Lions 3
Seagrams 14, Academics 6
Bruisers 6, Sparrons 5
Ironmen 5, Smashers 3
Panthers 8, Colt 45's 7
Patriots 5, Mogs 3
Leopards 7, Cougars 5
Hi-lo's 20, Black Bears 1
Chestnuts 9, Trojans 5
Bedoinks 16k Blitzers 10
Loggia 10, Cement 7
Nerves 7, Rogues 6
Lobos 10, Tubes 8
Drakesters 15, Bounders 1
Dydoxx 7, Goons 5
Racoons 7, Kolinkas 6
Old Timers 10, Groups 8
Education 14, Dinks 6
Chem Dep't 17, Ossicles 2
Old Men's 5, Seals 2

SOCCER

TC 1, APO 0
Bruisers 1, Smashers 0
Academics 3, Seagrams 0
Terrors over Bulldozers by forfeit
WhWl 7, Lil Fellas 6
Freaks 3, 3 M's 2
Squares 3, Chem Club 0

Three Seconds Keep Crew From Sweeping Regatta

A matter of three seconds kept the UMass Crew Club from sweeping the Fourth Annual Harbaroon Regatta sponsored by Wesleyan University. The performance, marked by great freshman and J.V. races, ended on a sour note as the Redmen varsity was edged by Wesleyan in a mixup at the finish.

The J.V.'s got on the victory road early by coming from behind to upset a good Wesleyan J.V. team. Trailing by as much as a length halfway through the race, the UMass J.V.'s overcame rough waters and some difficulty in maneuvering around debris in the flood swollen river to win going away.

The UMass time was 7:17. Worcester Polytech and Rhode Island lagged far behind.

The UMass frosh left little doubt of their superiority as they completely outclassed the Wesleyan and URI freshmen. Out in front by six lengths after 1000 yards, the frosh rolled home in 7:21. URI and Wesleyan took over eight minutes to negotiate the course.

This set the stage for the varsity final. The race was rated a tossup. It was marred by confusion as to the course finish and the starting line, resulting in a false start. The boats were called back to start over again.

Wesleyan broke first from the line followed by Wrocester. Both URI and UMass had difficulty in interpreting the judges' signals and trailed badly after the first hundred yards.

UMass, rowing higher than had been planned, eventually caught Wesleyan at the thousand yard mark. From then on, UMass and Wesleyan fought on even terms.

With the finish still 400 yards away all boats began to sprint. The Redman boat apparently pulled away from the Wesleyan boat with 100 yards to go. However, the finish wasn't nearly as straight as originally expected.

The result was a shocked Redmen boat finding out that it had been beaten by less than three seconds, all the while thinking it had won going away. The final was: Wesleyan 6:59, UMass 7:02. WPI and URI trailed the pace-setters.

Varsity coach Mike Faherty criticized the amateur way in which the whole regatta was run. "We didn't run well at all, and so didn't deserve to win. However, when things like this happen it makes the loss ever tougher to take.

"We row Wesleyan again this weekend in Philadelphia. We are quite anxious to go with them again."

Frosh coach Kurt Betchick was, needless to say, pleased with his frosh combination. He did, however, take away any signs of overconfidence about the upcoming Philly regatta by putting his crew through a hard 16-mile drill on Sunday morning.

The Crew Club now has an overall record of four firsts and one second.

UMass Golfers Open Season

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

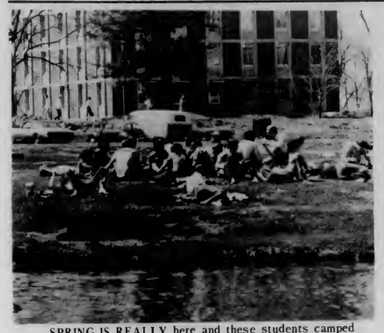
Opening its season today, the Redmen varsity golf team plays a home match against Wesleyan and Springfield, to be held at Mt. Holyoke Golf Course.

Coach Dick Page is very optimistic about this year's squad. Lettermen who are returning include captain Eric Lekberg, a senior, along with Dick Barber and Paul Johnson, both juniors. The sophomores, coming off a successful freshman team, are expected by Page to play major roles. Look for Dave Salter, Ed Puzas and Mike Minkos to provide some especially good golf.

Coach Page is still considering who will comprise his starting seven, but four of the spots will definitely be secured by Salter, Lekberg, Puzas and Minkos.

Last year, when the squad compiled a 7-7 record, they lost to Springfield but defeated Wesleyan in the first tri-match. Page is confident , however, that this year's contingent will prove very strong, mainly because of the added depth.

Salter and Puzas are capable of shooting mid-0 golf, but what's more important is that those playing in the 5th, 6th and 7th positions will also be capable of hitting sub-80. Last year, the best average on the team was 79, whereas several of this season's sophs compiled mid-70 averages as freshmen.



Today's meet with Wesleyan and Springfield is rated an "even match" by Coach Page. Although Wesleyan has already trounced Hartford and Coast Guard, they and Springfield have lost several low scorers from last year, and are not considered to have any advantage.

Page is pinning his hopes on a lineup speckled with sophomores, but states that "Salter will play better than anyone on last year's squad. And although no one will be able to score even par consistently, the lower part of the starting seven have the ability to play practically as well as the top of the lineup."

Rounding out the rest of the team are Doug Burr, Rick Aherne and Mark Mills. Because the qualifying was held last fall, several of last year's standouts were unable to compete, including John Arienson, who ran track, and Dick Starsiak, who played varsity basketball.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 119 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16, 1969

SPRING IS REALLY here and these students camped out at the pond aren't letting one ray of that precious warm sun go to waste. (MDC photo by Keith Bromery).

Student Senate Report States Open Houses are Not Disruptive

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

The Open House Subcommittee Report by the Student Matters Committee of the Student Senate was passed with amendments at a meeting held Monday night. It is expected that the report will come up for action on the Senate floor tonight.

The report is a result of an evaluation made of "reports, questionnaires and experiences gleaned from a year's experience with the present visitation policy," the report states.

The report states that the liberalization of the rules regarding the visitation policy has not been disruptive: "study conditions have . . .improved and daily visitations have been accepted as a normal part of student life. '

The University of Michigan visitation policy is cited as an example. The report estimates that UMich is about one year more advanced than UMass. The policy at Michigan allows "inter - visitation" 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"The University of Michigan policy raises one important question, that of dorm autonomy," the report says. Last fall, Dwight House brought this question into the front at UMass.

In a letter sent to then Student Senate President Paul Silverman, it was the feeling of the "Dwight Community" that their dorm was not an autonomous group. . .because we were not making our own decisions."

The report states that although the Senate "approved the visitation policy, it is well-known that this was not done freely, but rather as a compromise between what the students (the governed) wanted, and what the administration (an outside agent, not subject to the law) wished to impose."

Therefore, "an unreasonable regulation which cannot command the respect of the governed is in prima facie unenforceable," says the report. The reports sets as its goal the hope "that whatever regulation the Student Senate established would be both representative of student desires, and respected by the students whom it is to serve." The Committee then says that it "set forth to establish a new policy."

The report goes on to cite the policy at Tufts and its sister school Jackson. Summarily, there are only three restrictions on their policy: 1) overnight visits are prohibited; 2) the use of drugs or the abuse of alcohol during visits is prohibited; 3) pertains to freshmen women who are subject to curfews. In the case of UMass, the second restriction is dealt with in the Student Handbook and the third restriction is not "germaine to this report."

The provisions of the proposed student room visitation policy, which would become effective by an Emergency Act next fall, provides that "each Residence Unit shall determine through its duly elected government the procedures, if any, to be followed with regard to visitors of the opposite sex within the Unit."

Further provision is made for a referendum in the Unit regarding the policy and all votes shall be by secret ballt, A majority is necessary for passage. "Overnight" visitations by members of the opposite sex is prohibited in accordance with the provisions of the state law."

NKorea Claims It Shot US Plane Debris Sighted in Sea of Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon was confronted with a severe international challenge Tuesday when North Korea claimed it shot down a U.S. Navy electronics plane that allegedly penetrated its air space.

The plane, an EC121 reconnaissance craft, carried a crew of 31. The North Koreans said they brought it down at 1:50 p.m. Korean time Monday, 11:50 p.m. EST.

The Pentagon said the 4-propeller plane was on a routine reconnaissance track "which maintained it at a distance of at least 50 nautical miles" from the Korean coast.

Vice Adm. John B. Colwell, deputy chief of naval operations, told newsmen outside a congressional committee room where he was testifying on other matters that it was "a clearcut case of international piracy and a breach of international law."

A U. S. aircraft searching for the Navy electronic plane has sighted debris in the Sea of Japan, the Pentagon reported last night.

"This debris could be associated with the missing aircraft," a defense statement said. "No survivors have been reported."

It was the first evidence reported from the search zone off the North Korean coast that the Navy EC121 aircraft had been destroyed as the North Koreans claimed.

A defense spokesman declined to speculate on what happened to the plane, but there were reports from Capitol Hill that two North Korean MIG jets shot it down while it was conducting electronics surveillance off the Korean coast.

MDC to Publish Course Directory

The DAILY COLLEGIAN plans to publish a course directory detailing reading material, tests, papers, pre-requisites and details of courses to be offered next semester. This directory will be published prior to counseling day.

In order to be included in the directory, all departments should draw up a list of courses with their specifications, and submit it to the MDC before April 25.

Departments should include a capsule summary of the course (in a sentence) to go along with the specific details. Any courses in any department whose specifications are not given to the MDC before April 25 cannot be listed in this public service publication.

DR. MARK NOFFSINGER spoke at the Student Leaders Night last night and was also one of three winners of the Metawampe Award. (MDC photos by Mike Alpert).

Student Leaders Night Is Our Academy Awards Night

By LOUIS A. DIMONACO

The Class of 1969, in the introductory words of Wayne Thomas, presented "our version of the Academy Awards" at the Student Union Ballroom last night. Among those gathered to participate in Student Leaders' Night were President Lederle, Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Assistant Dean of Students Gerald Scanlon, and the leaders of Adelphia, Mortar Board, Arcons, Revelers, Scrolls and Maroon Keys.

Following the Who's Who Presentation by Scanlon, Noffsinger delivered the keynote address, saying that today "leadership is being severely challenged" and that "for you change is an expectation." He went on to praise the students for their "willingness to try' to comprehend, deepening recognition of the need for interdependence, and unwillingness to submit to blind authority." Noffsinger stated that the future belongs to those with most of the future ahead of them, and closed with the remark that "if you are a leader, show it."

The Distinguished Senior Awards were presented by President Lederle who praised those student leaders without whose help " the university would not have moved along as well as it did."

Neal Whitman, in presenting the Metawampe Award said that "men in diverse fields are not easy to compare and measure", thus the award went to both Assistant Professor of Government Dean Alfange, Jr. and Jules Chametzky of the English Department. The administrator who received the award was Dean Noffsinger who Whitman cited as a man of "integrity, sincerity and compassion."

The Distinguished Seniors named were Paul Silverman, Susan J. Tracy, J. Harris Dean, Susan M. Brady, Richard W. Story, Laurence Marcus, Peter Lewenburg and Jonathan Edwards.

Here are the names of the students who were initiated into Mortar Board, and on pages 3 and 5 other students and organizations are listed.

Marcia Ballard; Elaine Canter; Irene Carlson; Mary Connelly; Leslie Dierauf, Marlene Fine, Gail Geiver; Judith Gravel; Karen Heiser; Carole Hosfner; Irene Korakla; Paula Matthews; Ellen Moran; Marcia Niemiec; Cindi Olken; Dianne Perrine; Patricia Rinzler.

DR. CHAMETZKY
Metawampe Award Winner

DR. ALFANGE
Metawampe Award Winner

16 APR 16

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - The academicians at Harvard University tried to go about their business Tuesday, despite a four-day-old student strike of immeasurable effectiveness.

Most classes went on as scheduled, but it was impossible to gain accurate figures on attendance since Harvard spurns the keeping of attendance records.

Best estimates of the number of students participating in the strike were around 3,000, but some militant student leaders said as many as 5,000 were taking part.

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union today launched the 279th satellite in its Cosmos series.

An announcement said the launching was for the exploration of outer space but as usual gave no further information on the Sputnik's specific mission.

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars pledged support today for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system ABM proposed by the Nixon administration.

Richard W. Homan of Sugar Grove, W. Va., said at national VFW headquarters here that the organization is starting a campaign among its 1.5 million members to gain popular support for the ABM program.

He called the project "a sound, realistic system that will provide us with ample protection and in no way lead to an escalation of a nuclear arms race. Further, it will strengthen our hand in any negotiations with the Soviet Union."

CAREFUL to crush all smokes dead out.

Any group wishing to apply for an SATF appropriation for the fiscal year 1969-1970 must contact the Budgets Committee on or before Friday, April 18, 1969.

Jim Albert
Chairman - Senate Budgets Committee
701 Webster 6-7207

CABOT EAST 75 Cabot St. Chicopee ● 594-6022
Take Route 116 Direct to Theatre
SUNDAY — APRIL 20 — 3 SHOWS
at 2 - 5 - 8 p.m.
"CREAM"
filmed live in brilliant color
"Farewell Concert of the Century"
plus — ON STAGE
The Swinging — Soul — Blues of
"The Bostels"
Tickets on sale now at Student Union B. O.
2 p.m. $3.00 — 5 and 8 p.m. $3.50
Limited Seating ● Order Now

SOPHOMORES
VOTE
MIKE KATZ '71
for
S.U.G. BOARD

RE-ELECT
STEVEN WEISMAN
President
Class of 70

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

After a hard day at the ranch, a hot juicy PIZZA in a relaxing atmosphere is what I need.

Bell's Pizza House
Tel. 256-8011 253-9051
Open 'till 2 Friday & Saturday
Midnight rest of week

Southwest Residential College Students

FREE WEEKLY TUTORIAL SESSIONS

in the two enclosed areas of DINING COMMONS #7

MONDAY – MATH 112, CALCULUS; ENGLISH

TUESDAY – GERMAN, FRENCH, RUSSIAN, SPANISH

WEDNESDAY – CHEM 102, 112 ORGANIC CHEM.

THURSDAY – ZOO 101, ECONOMICS

Plus individual help in any additional subject by contacting the college Resident Fellow Mr. Arthur Kinney at 50626 or the College Secretary Mrs. Schnarr at 51550.

Sponsored by Southwest Assembly

MLK Marks Its First Anniversary Major Focus Has Been Education

Today marks the beginning of the second year of the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council. One year ago, the King Council received an Executive Order from Jim Collins, then President of the Student Senate, granting it permission to operate pending approval of its constitution.

The idea for the King Council was first presented April 9, 1968, by Gilbert Salk at a campus memorial Program on the day of Dr. King's funeral. In his speech, Salk pleaded for groups to try to find areas of agreement so they could work together, rather than split into factions over ideological disputes. He proposed the formation of a human relations committee made up of students, faculty, and administration, and founded by student taxes.

Salk and Collins then called together a large group of interested people for a brainstorming session. A smaller group met a few days later to draw up the constitution and establish priorities. Included in that group were Collins, Salk, Ron Hardy, Associate Dean of Students Noffsinger, and Ken Mosahowski.

The Senate accepted the constitution and voted the King Council a budget of $41,000, of which $30,000 was committed to aiding the tutoring program included in CCEBS.

During the summer, the King Council helped recruit tutors for CCEBS and counselors for a Northern Educational Services summer camp. It investigated employment discrimination in Amherst and had two meetings with local contractors to discuss minority group representation on campus construction projects. It was out of these two meetings that the intensive investigation leading up to the present construction crisis on campus began. Salk taught a non-credit course on Racism in America, dealing with the institutional aspects of racism. In addition; the Council sponsored an address by Frank Joyce, National Executive Director of People against Racism.

A major focus of the King Council has been education. Campus-wide programs throughout this academic year have attested to this. Hosea Williams of SCLC and Field Director of the Poor Peoples Campaign has spoken here twice. "Day of Awareness" held shortly before the Presidential Election, tried to bring out for public discussion some of the major issues which the candidates were avoiding. As in all King Council events, open microphones were provided to allow audience participation and to try to achieve a totality of viewpoints. An all-night teach-in called "Night of Inquiry' Student Power" drew over 2000 students, the largest crowd ever to attend a non-entertainment event held outside the cage.

The King Council also sponsored a teach-in on curriculum reform lectures by Carl Braden of SCEF and Frank Joyce of PAR; a forum on the use of State Police at the Dow Demonstration; and the Eric Anderson folk concert. It initiated the open coffee hours which are held each Tuesday from 12 to 2 in the Colonial Lounge, giving students a chance to talk directly to the top members of the administration.

When the Afro-Am group made its demands on the administration; the King Council co-operated with both groups by sending small teams of black and white students to many dorms to discuss the issues and reduce the level of hostility on campus.

Each week between 200 and 300 students travel to Springfield on a King Council sponsored bus to tutor in financially depressed areas. This program has expanded to include some students from Amherst Regional High School as well. Traveling to Springfield one day a week, each works on a one-to-one basis with assigned tutees.

Although primarily an educational organization; the King Council's also an action organization. Examples are the recent actions against employment discrimination on campus construction, which brought together such diverse groups of the Student Senate, Afro-Am, IFC, SDS, and other groups in a joint effort to deal with a problem The King Council has worked on food and clothing drives for the Poor Peoples Campaign and for selected poverty areas, and has done support work for the California grape strike.

The King Council's office is located at 207 Hampshire House. The telephone numbers are 545-0648 and 49.

BLACK ARTS FESTIVAL - This girl is looking at some of the exhibits of the Black Arts Festival which is being held this week in the Student Union. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre).

NITE SOUNDS
12 - 2 A.M. Mon. - Fri.
WMUA 91.1 FM

"It's all happening at the Zoo"
Zeta Nu Rush
WED. APRIL 16 7:30 - 9:00

The English Pub
Charlie Bradshaw
AT THE PIANO
Wednesday Night

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1962 Chevy II, Nova, black convertible with red interior; 6 cylinder, automatic. Good condition. Best offer. Call 253-9147 or 545-2515 ask for Becky in 204. 4-16

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7812. 4-22

1963 Ford Falcon, good condition, radio, heater, $775. Call 253-3067 after 7:00 p.m. 4-16

Rare M.G. Magnette (M.G.'s Cadillac) excellent cond., black, four speed, four door, four cyl., 1500 cc, walnut dash, red leather seats. Must sell $400, worth more, at Phi Sigma Kappa or 546-8815. 4-17

'63 Impala Conv., new top/tires, P.S., auto., V-8, excellent condition. Leaving must sell. $795. Call Fred 546-6177. 4-17

1965 Olds Cutlass, P.S., 4 spd., good cond., must sell, $1,000. So. Hadley 533-0939 after 10:00 p.m. 4-17

1956 Cadillac, four door hdtp., radio and heater, $100 firm. Contact Bob 546-8085. 4-23

1961 Pontiac, excellent condition, low mileage, power brakes and steering. Best offer. Call Rick 549-1733. 4-18

1965 TR-4A red ww/Michelins, radio, clutch, top, arm., exhaust, battery, all new. Perfect cond. 546-9771 after 11:30 p.m. 4-18

'59 Studebakrr, good condition. $75. Call Bob 397 Greenough. 4-18

FOR SALE

16mm Movie Camera "Pathe", practically new, same lense, never used. Price $150.00 (over $800.00 when new). Call 515-2011 between 9-11 p.m. 4-23

National Geographic, complete, 1961-1968; Natural History, 1967-1968 for sale. Call 256-8378. 4-18

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler. Perfect condition. $475.00. Call 584-2643 late evening or early morning. 4-23

1967 Honda, CB 160, excellent condition, one owner, best offer. Call 253-3374 after 6 p.m. 4-17

Kawasaki 250, 1967, exc. condition, $375. 253-9611. 4-18

1966 Honda CB160, "Hi-Riser", — straight pipes w/muffs, excellent cond., all stock parts thrown in. $300. Call John 253-5193 after 5:30. 4-21

Wilson Tennis Racket — top condition, Jack Kramer autograph model, too heavy for owner, Call Dorey 6-8189, reasonable price. 4-18

Mobilehome — Don't pay high rent, own your own mobilehome. 5 rms., all furnished, ready to live in. Close to Univ. and Northampton. Excellent investment. Available this summer, Call 247-5926. 4-18

WANTED TO BUY

Men's 3-speed English bicycle, in good condition, Phone 253-5585. 4-18

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6895 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

1965 Honda CB 160 in good condition with two helmets. Price $300. Ask for Steve at 584-6163. 4-17

Photography: Passports, job applications taken, 24-hour service, discount prices on film processing. Call Lane's Photo, 825 Main St., Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 4-18

1957 HOUSE TRAILER, completely furn., air cond., only lived in two years. This trailer has retained its youthful complexion., 15 min. from Amherst. Asking $1395. Call 253-6784 eves. 4-17

"BUGS ARE BEAUTIFUL" — vinyl, removable stickrrs. Volkswarens love them on their rear deck lids or bumpers. $1.00 each, post-paid. Unique Products, Dept. MDC, P.O. Box 506, Rochestrr, Michigan 48063 4-18

'65 Honda, 305, excellent, condition plus helmrt and accs. Call Marc evenings 6-6951. 4-19

Beautiful 14 kt. gold jewelry for sale. Reasonably priced. Makes a great Mother's Day present or gift for someone special. Will clean or fix your other jewelry. Call Marci 6-5228. 4-9-11-14-16-18

SERVICES

Available for the position of Secretary to the Class of '71 — Joan McCourt. 4-17

PHOTOGRAPHY — All types of photographic services, black and white or color portraitive prints for sale — creative photography. Can provide photographs for your thesis and term papers. Steve Thorp, UMass '69, Call 665-3167. 4-18

ROOMMATES WANTED

Two female roommates wanted for summer school to share modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment, lovely backyard, all utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6616. 4-16

I have a two bedroom apartment in Puffton Village — I would like two other girls to share the apartment with me for June, July and Aug. If interested please call 549-1297. 4-18

Roommate wanted for summer (male), own bedroom, furnished with bed, desk, chair. With it people preferred, but no dropouts. $80/mo. including utilities. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5842. 4-23

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
for
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970 4-17

FOR RENT

To subrrt June 1 to Sept. 1, Colonial Village apartments, 3½ rooms, partially furnished, all utilities included. Contact Chris 546-7536. 4-23

2½ Room furnished or unfurnished apartment, $120 a month. Includes all utilities. Available June 1. Come to Cliffside, Apt. M6, Sunderland, Route 116 or call 665-8766 any night. 4-17

Available June 1st, 2 bedroom apt. located 1 mile from Campus. For further information call 253-9667. 4-21

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9146. Be persistant. 5-5

Apartment to sublet, Available June 1 - August 31, 3½ rooms, $150 a month including all utilities. Call 665-2652 after 5 p.m. 4-21

Apartment to sublet for summer, 6 rooms, furnished, 3 minute walk to campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8631. 4-21

5 room apartrment, for 3 people for summer months. Washer and dryer, two bathrooms, completrly furnished. Call 546-7961 or 546-7965. 4-21

Available June 1st — one bedroom furnished. Call 256-6140. 4-22

"For the Summer" June 1 to Sept. 1 — 5 rm. "house", 30 seconds from Campus, 19 Phillips St. Come in person or call 549-5307. 4-23

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31, or lease for 1 year. Your choice. Call Bob 253-7042. 4-23

For Summer: ½ mile from Campus, furnished, air-conditioned, one bedroom, $130 incl. util. Call 549-3850. 4-16

Air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts, Puffton Village Apt. to sublet for the summer, $65/person, prefer two guys. Call 549-1415. 4-23

HELP WANTED

Rock musicians needed to work weekends. Experience needed. Rhythm guitarist or organist and bass player. Call 546-6463. 4-17

Desk clerk, secrrtary, 7:30 - 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday. Good for student wife. Must be able to meet public. Apply Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Route 9, Hadley, 586-0114 for appointment. 4-18

Full-time and part-time waitresses wanted. English Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst. 4-18

AUDITIONS for female singers for the Novas (a Latin American Jazz group) Berkshire Room at the Student Union 8:30 p.m. tonight. (Wed. Apr. 16). No experience necessary 4-16

Klansmen Demonstrators Say Thurmond was Allowed Freedom of Speech

By ROY MANSUR, JR.
Staff Reporter

The following is an interview with two of the Klansmen demonstrators at the Strom Thurmond lecture last month. They wish to have their feelings known.

First of all, from your point of view, what actually happened?

Klansmen #1: The first thing is the spontaniety of it, which is really important. There was no prior planning on any large scale of what took place in the cage. Rather, small groups of people got together and decided what to do. Those of us in the Klan outfits decided, and there was no more than ten of us, that we wanted to visually say something to Strom Thurmond. We wanted to be there to demonstrate our objection to his presence, to his racist ideas, to his political stance, and so forth.

We wanted to do this in such a way as not to disrupt him. We decided, before time, not to stop him from speaking and he did, in fact, finish his speech.

Klansman #2: Yes, I think that's really important. The big emphasis in the discussion has been that he was not allowed to speak, and that we didn't allow him his freedom of speech, but the fact is that he continued and we didn't physically deny him the right to speak.

#1: The black students were quite angry at this man's appearance, and in my opinion, justifiably expressed that anger. I would not feel at all upset if his speech was disrupted by the black students, simply because I consider the anger of the black students to this man more than enough to stop him from speaking.

As it happened, he was not disrupted by the black students when he came on stage. One of them took the microphone off the podium and said, "This man advocates violence," while a few others stood by on the stage. That was all they did; amongst themselves they decided to let him finish. And I think that tactically, what they did and what we did was to try not to make it a free speech issue. We tried to make the issue Strom Thurmond, the racist on campus.

Unfortunately, the spontaniety of the incident, in terms of the crowd reaction, changed it to a large extent, and more important than that, the Collegian coverage of it and coverage of the story by the local and national papers and UPI and AP, also distorted what really happened. It's too bad that the issue became one of free speech.

#2: More important than the action of the demonstrators, both black and white, was that more disruption was caused by the audience, as a whole, than by the demonstrators themselves. Most of the audience was antagonistic to Thurmond because of his racist attitudes throughout his entire political career.

Their chanting and screaming when he referred to the new bill against obscenity when five or six people started chanting obscenities, was verbal disruption. It was much more prominent that night than physical disruption of any sort. When we were walking around carrying signs, there were more people who were in favor of what we were doing than against.

People were jumping up, hollering, and laughing, treating what he said as absurdly as it should be treated, treating him as a voice of an antiquated minority. I think he was greeted well.

#1: I'm not sure that we've cleared up the bad coverage that the Collegian gave this incident. The important thing, I repeat, was that Strom Thurmond actually finished his prepared speech despite the spontaneous heckling. Although he was mocked, he was heckled, he was even physically molested in that, at one point, I went over and put my arm around him to show the solidarity between the Ku Klux Klan and Strom Thurmond, the racist senator, he finished. This issue, then, should not be one of free speech because that isn't accurate in terms of what happened.

#2: I wonder why he was invited in the first place. If you want a conservative point of view expressed in the DVP series, there are many people who would be not only more eloquent, but certainly less responsible for immoral acts against a whole race.

Interviewer: What about the effectiveness of the demonstration?

#1: Again, I think it was really too bad that the issue was obscured in favor of the free speech issue. And I think that those of us who were in the Klan outfits feel that we made a mistake in not emphasizing that fact. I wish we had made it clear to the audience, in terms of tactics, that it was not in their interest to stop the man from speaking, that the reaction to that would obscure the real issues.

In terms of the effectiveness of what went on, we came away more than satisfied that we told Strom Thurmond what we think of him. He had laryngitis and he was physically ill, but when he left, he was a little bit shook.

One of the Springfield papers headlined their article something like "Thurmond keeps his cool at UMass heckling." Yes, maybe he kept his cool and didn't hit anybody, like I thought he was going to belt me a few times, But he was sweating a lot and he was pretty upset.

But in terms of covering the events and making a statement about Strom Thurmond in the media, I think what we tried to do was obscured. I think the photographs of Strom Thurmond, who has played the political game for so many years at the expense of his constituency and the American people, with Klansmen would certainly have been enough for the kind of statement we wanted.

There was an interesting comment in the Collegian after the lecture. Assist. Dean Scanlon, who was at the Cage and was very upset about what went on, said that the radicals made a mistake because here was an opportunity to confront Strom Thurmond, to tell him what we had to say and try to convince him that he was wrong and that we were right, on intellectual terms. That's garbage. Strom Thurmond did not come to see us. His mind is not open. Thurmond has been around too long; his politics are too well set for him to listen to us.

#2: Yes, he is a successful senator. He's made enough money; he's prominent enough. He's made his place in history by being a racist. He has deprived blacks of jobs and welfare money. He has made his living on his political views. There's no reason for him to change at all. Not this late.

#1: In terms of the black students, the inability of a black man to have any say about his destiny is a frightening and frustrating situation. And after ten years of "rising expectations," what the media presents as liberalization of racial attitude, and the success of the civil rights movement, these type of things coupled with the realization that Strom Thurmond is one of the most powerful men in this country, cannot help but create a frustrating mood. How can any black man help but feel that his powerlessness is worse than it has ever been.

#2: And how can a white man, who is serious about not having people denied the freedom they should enjoy, not empathize with the black man and realize that Strom Thurmond is guilty of genocide. A white man should not just intellectualize, or invite a Southern senator to discuss rationally and objectively the good points about his actions throughout his political career.

The university is more than that. People at the university, if serious about equality, freedom, and civil rights, have got to do more than intellectualize. They must be willing to confront people like Thurmond who won't recognize the validity of their beliefs.

#1: It's a sad, liberal illusion that you can deal rationally with racism, eal rationally with Strom Thurmond. Thurmond's politics are based on power. He wheels and deals; he wields power, He controls people; he manipulates people. Somebody in the audience, a black student, made some factual statments about poverty in South Carolina. Thurmond reacted by saying that South Carolina has less poverty than any state in the Union. That's a lie. The situation in South Carolina is as bad as anywhere else in the country. The situation in South Carolina is one of the furthest things from democracy that exists in this country. White racist control the state. These things are important to understand.

(Continued on Page 7)

ELECT
VEALE
PRESIDENT
CLASS OF 1970

Hold your own.
VINYL TOTE BAG KEEPS YOUR COLT 45 MALT LIQUOR COLD. $3.95
Cool idea for boat, beach, barbecue, ballpark. This 17" tall, full color Colt 45 Malt Liquor "can" holds the real thing . . . up to 18 twelve-ounce cans. Sports an adjustable strap, heavy insulation, and zipper top.
Please send me _____ (quantity) tote bags.
I have enclosed $3.95 check or money order for each.
Name _____
College _____
Address _____
(Indicate home address if offer is void* in the state where you attend college.)
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Mail to Tote Bag, Box 1800, Baltimore, Maryland 21203.
*Offer void in the following states and where prohibited by law: District of Columbia, Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Texas, Vermont.

Ron Delsener presents
RCA VICTOR RECORDING ARTIST
Feliciano
SUN., MAY 4, at 6:30 and 9:00 p.m.
MUSIC HALL
Tickets: $3.50, $4.50, $5.50 Mail order to Music Hall, 268 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Tix available at Music Hall; Harvard Co-op; MIT Ticket Office and Out-of-Town ticket agency (Cambridge).
Phone: (617) 423-3300

THE FINE ARTS COUNCIL
and
THE DEPARTMENT OF ROMANCE LANGUAGES
presents
Le Mariage de Figaro
a film by La Comdie Francaise
APRIL 17 — 8:30
Thompson 104 FREE

FREE DRINKS
if we don't
DELIVER WITHIN AN HOUR
call
Carriage Lite Delivery
253-5832
for the BEST GRINDERS in town
6 p.m. - 12 midnight 7 days a week

A special recognition award from the Danforth Foundation has been presented to UMass senior Johathan C. Edwards, right, of Salem. He is one of 350 in the U.S. so honored as superior students who plan to study for a doctorate and are interested in a career in college teaching. He is being congratulated by H. Duncan Rollason, assistant dean of the UMass College of Arts and Sciences. Edwards is majoring in history, particularly the colonial period.

BU Protesters Felt They Accomplished As Much As Possible During The Sit-In BOSTON (AP) - About 60 protesting students gave up their stronghold on a Boston University dean's office Tuesday, but said they plan to continue their battle against ROTC in other ways.

About 150 members of Students for a Democratic Society and their supporters seized a suite of offices at the university's student union building Monday.

The demonstrators said they left the building because they felt they had accomplished all they could while maintaining the sit-in.

After leaving the office of Standon R. Curtis, dean of student affairs, the demonstrators stopped briefly outside a meeting of the school's ROTC Review Committee, chanting "ROTC must go."

SDS members said they are planning a city-wide protest march for April 26.

During its meeting the ROTC committee drafted a seven-point proposal to present to Arland F. Christ-Janer, university president. Included in the draft was a proposal that there be no academic credit given for ROTC.

The committee is composed of students, faculty and administration personnel.

Dean Curtis said he is having his staff investigate the incident and that disciplinary action will be taken.

The takeover was the second of its kind at the university in five days.

University President Arland F. Christ-Janer said "the students know they are violating university regulations.

"Soon they will interrupt the university so much that education will be threatened," he said.

The students are demanding:

- Abolition of the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program at the university.
- An end to military recruiting on campus.
- That the university take over ROTC scholarships.
- Cancellation of the university's overseas program under which military personnel and others can get graduate degrees abroad.

WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Susan J. Tracy
Wayne M. Thomas
Paul J. Silverman
Laurence R. Marcus
Lowell H. Fitch
Christine L. O'Hare
J. Harris Dean
Neal A. Whitman
Frederic P. Hartwell
Steven J. Albernaz
Susan M. Brady
Peter K. Lewenburg
Richard A. Nuccio
Jacqueline A. Wolff
Nathaniel H. Akerman
Emanuel J. White
Linda R. Waldman
Barbara Sue Wallace
Rick J. Volpe
Raymond W. Taylor
Linda S. Shriber
Charles W. Smith
Enid J. Salamoff
Richard W. Story
Susan H. Ostrander
Michael M. McArdle
Aline McDonnell
William R. King
Bradford H. Johnson
Michael Garjian
Susan R. Finneran
Jonathan C. Edwards
Joseph A. DiSarcina
Nancy M. Donovan
Martha E. Curran
Bruce R. Benwood
Lorrey J. Bianchi
Ralph E. Stoddard
Margaret L. Franson
glenn A. Briere
Patti S. Aspinwall

IMPORTANT
Collegian Photo Staff Meeting
Thursday at 6:30 in the Dukes at the S. U.

Hey There Honey, Don't Be Blue
VOTE FOR
JUDY DONAHUE
VICE PRESIDENT '72
APRIL 17 — THURSDAY

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

BOLD
PLAYS AT
CHEQUERS
TUES. and THURS. 9-12
256-8189

You don't have to be a Sophmore to enjoy the best deal of the year.
Class of '71
and
Fine Arts Council
present
TONIGHT
2 Shows
9:00 P. M. Concert
$1.25
PAUL MAURIAT AND HIS ORCHESTRA
IN PERSON
5:30 - 7:30 P. M. Steak & Glass Favor $3.25 non soph
S U BALLROOM
Tickets Available At The Door
TAKE A 2 HOUR BREAK

FROM OUR SIDE

Vote

With student officer elections just around the corner, it seems that we have again been afforded a rather unique opportunity to see just how interested the typical UMass student is in himself. Looking at the situation pessimestically, as indeed it seems we must in view of past experiences, the chances are in fact rather slim that things will be any different than they were last year at this time. We can safely expect about 10% of the student body to turn out to vote, of which probably 5% will be close friends of those running for the offices.

With this admittedly pitiful situation on our hands, it seems that something should be done to remedy it, but the $10,000 question is what? There is little in the excuse that the nonturnout is due to the insignificance of the election. After all, these people do act as spokesmen for their particular classes and, even more important to most people, they do have quite a hand in the type of entertainment that we get up here. It would seem that this alone should get most of the people out, since there seem to be so many complaints about the entertainment that we have been getting. These officers serve an important purpose in representing the views of their particular classes in the senate and elsewhere. Did your class president represent your views last year? Will the one elected this year represent your views? There is only one way that you can make sure that he does. Turn out this time and vote. There's no other way, unless of course, you want the choice to remain with the friends of those who are running.

THE EDITORS

Dining Commons

The Dining Commons, for some strange reason, is continually the brunt of tasteless jokes. In an effort to find the cause of these overdone, raw, mouldy, left-over jokes I conducted an interview with a person who had just left the Dining Commons after dinner.

"Excuse me, Sir, but why are you groaning and why are you doubled over like that with your hands on your stomach?"

"I'm meditating."

"Why are you meditating?"

"I'm meditating on whether I should vomit or not."

"Could you tell me why you feel like vomiting?"

"What do you think they served us tonight?"

"I'll bite."

"I wouldn't if I were you. Unless, of course, you like Mystery Meat."

"Oh, come on, it really isn't that bad, is it?"

"Is the grass green, does the sun shine?"

"Then why do you eat it?"

"Because I like milk."

"I don't understand."

"If I didn't eat Mystery Meat I wouldn't drink 12 glasses of milk to wash the taste away."

"I've heard from a reliable source that the dessert, I am Curious (Jello), is very good."

"Whose your reliable source? Gentle Ben?"

"Don't they give you anything good?"

"Oh sure. The forks and knives and glasses are great. And the napkins aren't bad. Come to think of it the cups and spoons aren't bad either."

"I mean to eat."

"Have you ever eaten a napkin? It's not bad."

"Do you mean to tell me the food is inedible?"

"No, it's edible, it's just not digestable."

"What do you think they could do to make the food better?"

"Well, they could stop using Minute Rice."

"Why?"

"Because they only boil it for 30 seconds. And they could stop giving exotic names like "Prime Beef Bourgundy a la Pirotette Gravy" for hamburgers."

"How do they prepare the food?"

"Do you remember those movies where the white man would be put into a big pot and the natives would dance around?"

"Yes."

"Need I say more?"

"What do you feel is the best thing they provide in the Dining Commons?"

"It would have to be the dogs who walk around the Commons looking for food or maybe relatives."

"You look very thin, have you lost weight?"

"Well, if you consider 87 lbs. to be a normal weight, then I'm in top condition."

"One last question. In your opinion, what is the most important thing an incoming freshman should learn about the Dining Commons?"

"A quick get-away."

Doug Packer

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wondrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS — Sue Gerson, Janet Hawes
EDITORIAL — Marc Landry
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Mike Alpert, Ann VerPlanck, Brad Iverson
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — Steve Shamban

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Campus Comment

ABMII

The cost of deploying "Safeguard," President Nixon's plan for protecting our strategic deterrent, is estimated to cost seven thousand million dollars. However, if the present proposal is passed by Congress, the military then has its "foot in the appropriations door," and a more expensive system might be a "critical necessity." For a "light" defense (25 cities) the proposed cost is 12.2 billion; for a "heavy" system, a blast shelter program would be needed at a price comparable to the cost of the initial deployment. The point to keep in mind is that once ANY system is in place, the expense of maintaining it is not static. The system must be improved and revamped as technology dictates. In the words of former Deputy Secretary of Defense, Cyrus Vance, "Because of the very rapid rate at which the technology changes, to maintain an effective (ABM) system one would essentially have to turn over the whole $20 billion system every few years." This means that the 10 year cost of the Safeguard system will be on the order of $30 billion, the light 25 city system $50 billion, and the heavy 50 city defense would have reached $90 billion. And these estimates are probably low, for in the words of Sec. Vance: "I think those are very low estimates and the actual costs would probably be 50%-100% of those (MORE than those), based upon actual experience with the procurement of entirely new weapons systems of the past." A more recent estimate is that of Senator Stuart Symington. He states that the full ABM deployment could cost as much as $400 billion, 16 times the yearly cost of the Viet Nam War.

Assuming we spend $30 billion on the untested Safeguard system, what are the economic and social consequences of such a commitment? Government spending in non-defense areas would have to be reduced drastically. Funds for welfare, housing, education, health, agriculture, foreign aid, and research would be reduced.

The tragedy of the situation is that programs designed to aid the cities and the poor such as head-start programs, low-tailed or eliminated in order to attempt to protect 3% of our deliverable warheads from a Russian attack. We are reacting to an external threat while ignoring internal decay. We are taking on the aspects of a garrison state in which the priorities of our society are ordered not by their benefit to the individual, but by their applicability to war and the preparation for war.

Who then is to gain from this expenditure? The defense industry and the military are the primary beneficiaries. The military would gain from ABM deployment in the form of promotions, self-esteem, and job offers from ABM contractors after retirement (Case in point: at last count, General Dynamics had 27 retired admirals and generals on its executive staff). It is the military who decides what areas Safeguard is to protect. One region selected by the Pentagon to be defended is South Carolina. Coincidentally, it is the home state of Mendel Rivers, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and Strom Thurmond, longtime friend of the ABM.

The remaining beneficiaries are the 28 corporations responsible for the ABM development. They have approximately 300 plants in 42 states and provide jobs for 1,000,000 people. Their political influence is substantial. Congressmen in favor of ABM are interested in obtaining contracts for home based corporations. These companies are interested in obtaining appropriations for their contracts from Congress. The defense corporations and the members of Congress in favor of ABM have a symbiotic relationship that has caused the decision to deploy ABM to be based on political expedience rather than national security. In the words of former Senator, Wayne Morse, "The American people desperately need to recognize, before it is too late, that we are being run, in this country today, by an industrial-military complex that makes its profits out of American blood, and jeopardizes all the future generations of American boys and girls. I do not know how we can get the American people to recognize the facts before it is too late."

Martin C. Graham
Dept. of Physics

$25,000 Profit

To the editor:

In regard to the recently-introduced $50 room security deposit system; if we assume that the University will hold $50 from each of 10,000 undergraduates (and those few grad students living in Prince House), that will make a sum of $500,000 being held in escrow. If that half million dollars were in a 90-day notice savings account, earning about 5% interest, it would be bringing in about $25,000 per year.

These figures are approximate; but there will be substantial interest being earned by this deposit money being held. We can legitimately ask what use will be made of this interest gravy - it could, if enough pressure were applied, be plowed back into student-supported accounts, for the benefit of the unwilling contributors to the escrow fund.

Suggest, through your student Senators, that the money be apportioned to the areas or to cultural enrichment.

Richard W. Story

Charges Untrue

To the editor:

"The reprehensible tradition of making untrue and unsubstantiated charges through the use of 'Letters to the editor' " has been further propagated by Senator Klayton in his letter published 10 April. I would reluctantly have recognized Senator Nims for special business, however, such action requires a two-thirds vote, and would, I think, have been very unwise. The Senate had a backlog of thirty-seven main motions that evening and such resort to special business would have unnecessarily put those off. If Senator Klayton is "neither revered nor esteemed, much less even respected in the Senate", he has only his own actions (and letters) to blame. At this point, both Senator Guyotte and Senators Klayton and Nims have motions relating to the Thurmond incident on the agenda, and now that more dispassionate discussion is possible the Senate will give due consideration to ALL motions presented, hopefully without regard to personalities.

Frederic P. Hartwell

Write for Peace

To the editor:

The Vietnam War, the longest war in American history, has now achieved the ill distinction of becoming America's fourth-bloodiest war. Since January, 1961, over 33,000 American soldiers have been killed in the conflict; over 215,000 American soldiers wounded. And the war, at last estimate, is costing American taxpayers 30 billion dollars a year.

The Congress of the United States is principally responsible for the war's continuation, since that body has voted overwhelmingly in favor of any financial appropriations for war material. Not to be outdone, the present twelve Congressional representatives from Massachusetts have been virtually unanimous in their continued support for these Vietnam Warp appropriations.

Thus if we are to protest effectively against continuance of the Vietnam War, we must address our grievances not to the President or to the Secretary of Defense, but to our Congressmen, who are specifically empowered by the Constitution to represent citizens' views on the means by which American lives and money should be expended.

All those who might be interested in helping to create a resolute, truly viable force for peace are welcome to attend a meeting on Wednesday, April 16th, at 8 p.m. in the new section of the Hatch.

Gary R. Greenberg
Mary Golubisky
Nick Ackerman
George Child
Al Peaks
Kenneth R. Mosakowski
Linda Harris
Members of the Write for Peace Committee

Editorial Policy

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, student body as a whole, or the editorial board as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

All letters should be addressed "To the editor", set over 60 characters, and typed double space. All letters must be signed to be considered for publication. Names will be withheld upon request, if the name of the writer is known to us, otherwise unsigned letters will be discarded. We reserve the right to edit, condense, correct factual errors, and clarity points made in all letters. Because of the great volume of letters that we receive every day, it is not possible for us to print every letter that we receive, though each will be considered for publication.

A UMass team placed third in the recent seventh annual Two-Man Novice Debate Tournament at Morgan State College in Baltimore, competing against college teams from many parts of the east. Left to right, Ellen McCarthy and Terry Kleinkauf, members of the first place University of Maryland team; and Paul Lamarche of Worcester and Elliott C. Margolis of Beverly, UMass team members.

APO Brothers Cheer Elderly With Easter Bunny, Baskets

Trying to bring a little cheer to some people who are generally neglected, the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega and friends prepared and delivered nearly three-hundred Easter baskets to nursing and rest homes in the area.

The brothers' purpose was to show some attention to the aged who have little contact with others except during the Christmas season when a fragile spirit prompts pity in everyones' young hearts.

A lively, fun-loving brother gally hopped about in a bunny suit handing out baskets to surprisingly receptive old folks. The rest of the group of brothers and friends mixed and chatted with the recipients.

The reactions of the basket recipients were occasionally indifferent, sometimes sad, but usually very joyful. The reactions of the basket fillers were quite similar but were coupled with a unique learning experience of bringing joy. The aged offered a large expression of life with words, tears, hand clasps, gestures, and many did much more than show their appreciation. All provided a mixed emotional experience which could be appreciated by everyone.

Xlansmen Interview. . .

(Continued from Page 6)

#2: I'd like to comment on the bit about confronting people. When you confront someone who you disagree with, you confront him both physically and intellectually. That doesn't mean you attack them. It means that you don't just talk; you take action. I think the action by the whites and the blacks was entirely within reason because we confronted him that time. We made him feel, not just know, that we disagreed with everything he's done.

And we confronted the audience - we created a situation where the audience was supported in its views by the demonstrators and then could go on to confront Thurmond.

When Thurmond got into his UMass limousine to be driven away after receiving his $1500, about 40 people were pounding on his car and shouting questions at him. This was another spontaneous thing. There was a lot of discussion after the lecture.

Interviewer: Do you have anything planned for the future?

#1: Hubert Humphrey is coming April 18th. We've been doing a lot of serious thing about what we could do when he comes. We decided not to stop him from speaking. Rather, we will try to present a visual demonstration of our objection for this rolly polly man.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
9-12
The ELYSIAN SPRING
PAUL'S CAFE
Northampton

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are available now until April 18, 1969 for the following Student Senate seats:

CANCE	JAMES
COMMUTERS (2)	J.Q.A. LOWER
FIELD (1)	LEACH

FRATERNITIES (1)

Papers are available in the RSO Activities office. Completed nomination papers must be returned by 5:30 P.M. April 18. Drawings for ballot position will occur at that time.

Elections shall be April 24. Dorm elections in the dorms, 6:00 to 9:00 P.M. Commuter and Fraternity elections in the Student Union 9:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

Miss Univ Pageant Is More than Beauty; Preliminary Competition to Start Soon

By PAULA SABLE
Staff Reporter

Many people consider the upcoming Miss University Pageant as just a show of pretty faces and figures. Actually, beauty counts as only one-fourth the total points in the Miss University competition. The contest is based on talent, which counts for half of each contestant's score; poise and beauty are each worth one-fourth. The emphasis on talent is evident in the prizes given: over $500 in scholarships will be awarded to the winner and two runners-up.

A preliminary contest for the annual Miss America Pageant held in Atlantic City, N. J., the local Miss University will go on to compete in the state finals for the title of Miss Massachusetts.

The Pageant was originated in 1921 by a group of Atlantic City business and civic leaders. Known as the Atlantic City Bathing Beauty Contest, it gathered pretty girls in swimming attire. The purpose of the Pageant was to extend the summer season for one week after Labor Day.

The contest was judged on beauty alone, for in the Twenties women were still satisfied to be "the weaker sex" and carefully concealed their brains and ambitions from "the man's world." In the prosperous Twenties the Pageant grew to become one of the most publicized events in the country. Newspapers sponsored the contest and beauty reigned supreme. The idea was novel and editors knew the public never tired of a pretty girl's picture.

The Pageant was discontinued during the depression. When it was revived in 1933, America's concept of the "All American Girl" had changed considerably. Woman had endured war and depression with equal courage to man. She was now respected for her intelligence as well as her beauty. The contest was a financial fiasco.

In 1935, the Atlantic City merchants made another try. This time they emphasized charm, poise, personality and talent. Since then, the Miss America Pageant as we now know it has grown into a national production. Over $50,000 in scholarships and other prizes are awarded each year.

The contest on the national level has become a financial success. It is sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola Co., the Toni Co., and Oldsmobile Division of General Motors. Many local pageants, sponsored by local Jaycees, are a money-raising proposition. Here in Amherst, however, the contest is only four years old and has not been a financial success.

Jake Bishop of the Amherst Jaycees, director of the Miss University contest, says last year the pageant netted a $100 profit which was evenly split by the Amherst Jaycees and the UM Class of '69 who co-sponsored the program. Bishop says most local pageants charge a higher admission fee and sell programs.

"They can afford to do this because they attract the parent-relative crowd who will pay it," he says. "Here at UMass we must consider the student's limited resources so we only charge an admission fee of $1.50 and the program is free. If we make any money at all, it is from our ad campaign."

Bishop and the others who produce the local pageant are interested in the contest from a human relations point of view.

Panhellenics Attend Banquet Exchange Views

The Student Union Ballroom was filled with the sound of female voices Monday night as the Panhellenic Council of UMass sponsored the Officers' Workshop Banquet. Once a year ten officers from each UMass sorority, including the President, Standards, Scholarship, Rush, Pledge, Trainer, Housemanager, and Social Chairman get together after a sumptuous meal to discuss common problems and new ideas involving each respective office.

This exchange of views is important in creating a strong inter-sorority feeling on campus. The discussion among the Rush Chairmen was especially important for furthering plans for an unprecedented Fall Freshman Rush set for next semester.

Dean Helene Curtis was the guest of honor, and with her at the head table sat the President of each house including: Anne Chance of Kappa Alpha Theta, Cindy Horvath of Iota Gamma Upsilon, Elaine Canter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kathy McLeavey of Alpha Chi Omega, Patricia Provoda of Pi Beta Phi, Terry Larkin of Sigma Kappa, Joan Bentz of Chi Omega, Joyce Cinanian of Sigma Delta Tau, Suzanne Thom of Lambda Delta Phi and Mary Mackin of Sigma Sigma Sigma. Heidi Hartley, President of the Panhellenic Council acted as hostess.

OPPORTUNITY TO EARN $1000-$1500

STANLEY HOME PRODUCTS

will be interviewing on campus for summer jobs

Tuesday, April 29, 1969

from 1-5 P.M.

Please sign up at the Placement Office - Whitmore Hall.

How to take a course in anatomy and stay awake in physics.

If you don't want to give up everything physical for physics, we have something for you.

NoDoz® The stimulating pill for the unstimulating morning after.

Nothing you can buy without a prescription has a stronger stimulant.

And NoDoz is not habit forming.

So after a course in anatomy has done something for your ego, take two NoDoz and do something for your grades.

NoDoz

THE 1969
MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.
MEMORIAL LECTURE

WILL BE DELIVERED BY FORMER VICE-PRESIDENT

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

FRIDAY
APRIL 18

CURRY HICKS CAGE
8:00 P. M.

RECEPTION
FOR MR. HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
OPEN TO THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY
ALUMNI MEMORIAL HALL
4—5 P. M.

Notices

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
We have a book table in the lobby of the S.U. today to sell books on various aspects of Christianity. Come by and talk to us.

EASTMAN LANE JOGGING CLUB
Meets in Knowlton Lobby on Mon., Wed., and Fri. at 5:30 p.m. for some good old fashioned exercise.

NEWMAN CLUB
Tonight at 7:30 p.m. representatives from the Peace Corps will be in classroom #1. The public is invited to meet Peace Corps workers from Africa, Asia, and Latin America.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting Thurs., April 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Color training film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump are urged to attend.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
Meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Grinnel Arena. Election of officers. Plans for the spring horse show and exhibition of Boy State Flintlock. Refreshments.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
There will be a bus going to the hospital tonight at 6:30 from the S.U. and from Patterson Lounge. Everyone urged to attend.

SOCIOLOGY 101
UMoss Development Film, "A Giant Step," will be shown in Mahar tomorrow at 9:05, 10:10, and 1:25. Visitors welcome.

WRITE FOR PEACE COMMITTEE
Meeting of all interested in protesting the war tonight at 8 p.m. in the corner of the new Hatch.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Business meeting tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm. Very important.

BRETT HOUSE
Brett House will hold a discussion and question and answer period with the Martin Luther King Council tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Brett lobby.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be tonight at 7:30 p.m. in WOPE. The budget will be discussed.

SENATE BUDGETS COMMITTEE
Any group wishing to apply for an SATF appropriation for the fiscal year 1969-70 must contact the committee on or before this Friday. Jim Albert, Chairman, 701 Webster, 6-7207.

SMOLT ANNOUNCEMENT
Professor Joram Lindenstrauss of the University of Jerusalem and Visiting Professor of the University of California at Berkeley will speak on the following topics: "On the Approximotion Problem in Banach Spaces", today at 4:40 p.m. in the Math Colloquium room; and "On Absolutely Summing Operators on Lp Spaces", tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the Math Colloquium room, Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the Math Lounge, Arnold House before today's lecture.

PEACE CORPS
Returned volunteers from the Peace Corps will discuss anything tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Coolidge 12th floor lounge.

UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN
Tryouts start tomorrow for Precisionettes Drill Team, 1969-70 at 7 p.m. in Boyden main gym. Bring sneakers. Coffee hour tonight from 7:30-8:30 in Memorial Hall. Come and meet this year's team.

APRIL 24 IS NOT SPRING DAY.

UNIVERSITY MASS DAMES
Bingo Night tonight at 8:15 in Farley 4-H Club. Refreshments.

FINNISH CLUB
Meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U. Those interested in learning Finnish basic language and culture welcome. For information call Nancy, 6-8343.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House. All welcome.

W.A.A.
Voting for the Women's Athletic Association officers will take place today and tomorrow in the S.U. lobby from 9 a.m.-12 p.m. and in WOPE lobby from 12:30-4:30 p.m. All women who have participated in intramural or extramural activities at WOPE this year are eligible and are urged to vote.

PINNINGS
Nancy Rial, '70, Dwight, to David Zucker, '70.
Maureen Gallagher, '72, JQA, to Paul Kellogg, '72, Washington.

ENGAGEMENTS
Shirley Looms, '70, Emerson, to Robert Scheurer, U.S.N., Norfolk, Va.
Darlene Pulaski, '71, Knowlton, to Robert Freitag, North Adams.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - small beagle, brown, white and black, 10 mos. old. Call 549-0234 after 6 p.m.
Lost - Account Book #3837. Whitemore; call Bob, 6-7571.
Lost - Brown pocketbook. Call 5 2304 or get in contact with Joan Bente. Reward.
Found - Gold loop earrings in North Quad. Call Joyce Carlson, 253-9163, 253-9173, 545-2516, 545-2517.
Lost - Pair of men's brown framed glasses between Northampton and Amherst. Reward. Call 6-6285.
Lost - brown notebook, Art History 115. Call Jane Cochran, 214 Mory Lyons.
Found - one wooden earring, outside S.U. Call John, 6-9734.
Found - Radio, near Southwest. Call 6-8859.

Faculty, Staff Blood Drive Says More Donors Necessary

The Faculty and Staff Blood Drive, sponsored by the University Women, will be held at the Commonwealth Room, Student Union, on Tuesday, May 6, 1969, from noon until 5:45 p.m.

Anyone in normal health between the ages of 18 and 61 may give blood. Parental permission is necessary for those under 21, unless married or in active military service. Donors are accepted only after a brief, but pertinent, medical history is done. A physician is in attendance at all times. The donation of a pint of blood is not an uncomfortable experience, and there are no harmful after effects. Our faithful donors continue their support, but we need new donors to meet the ever-increasing need for blood.

Appointments are made at 15 minute intervals; allow one hour for donating. Pre-registration is urged as a means of saving your time; however, walk-in donors will be accepted.

Donors automatically become members of the Hampshire County Red Cross Blood Insurance Program for the ensuing year. Membership entitles the donor and his immediate family to any blood which they might need during the next year anywhere in the United States.

Mrs. Robert Gage and Mrs. J. T. Clayton are Co-Chairmen of the Blood Drive.

COMPARE
CANDIDATES' CONTRIBUTIONS
VOTE
BLY
PRESIDENT 70

FREE PEPSI
WITH EVERY PIZZA
Upon Request
Min. of 3 for delivery
Mama's Pizza
103 North Pleasant St.
253-9858

Officer Candidate Training
for
Naval Aviation
Interviews will be conducted by navy representatives at the Springfield Holiday Inn April 16th thru 19th.
Qualifying mental examinations may be taken without obligation. Transportation is available on request.
Call 781-0900 9 A.M. to 8:00 P.M.

Student Government Association
CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
April 16th 1969, 7:00 P.M.
in the Council Chambers
Student Union
IT'S AN OPEN MEETING,
SHOW AN INTEREST, AND COME!
Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

TONIGHT
The Dynamic Desatations
THE HUTCH INN
Route 9, Hadley
Thursday: "BRILLIG"

It's open season... just in time for Pussy foots

the Skywatcher

Mathews SHOE STORE

16 APR 16

UMass Starts Peace Corps Intern Program for Africa

UMass has established a Peace Corps Intern Program in agriculture, one of seven in the U.S., and the only one training students for Peace Corps work in Africa.

The program is conducted by the Center for International Agricultural Studies of the UMass College of Agriculture. This first group of interns includes 15 seniors in the College of Agriculture and the School of Home Economics, plus five student wives and fiancees.

The program has been developed to fill an urgent Peace Corps need for volunteers with technical training in agriculture and home economics for assignments in developing countries. Most of the UMass group will go to Kenya to work in forestry, range management, fisheries development, and nutrition assignments. Three are scheduled to go to Malawi to teach in its new agricultural college.

Each student is taking a normal course load during his last semester before graduation and, in addition, spends some two hours per week meeting with the group learning about the culture, history and social and economic problems of Africa.

Along with the Peace Corps program the UMass Center for International Agriculture Studies also offers a five-year undergraduate program in international agriculture that includes a year of study and research in a developing country. The center also directs the UMass - AID program in Malawi, Central Africa, and the international training program for foreign agriculturalists.

The director of the center is Dr. John H. Foster, associate professor of resource economics, with Gilbert E. Mottla as executive director and campus coordinator of the Malawi project. Dr. Haim B. Gunner of the department of environmental science is research coordinator of the center.

Members of the first group of Peace Corps interns are: Kay Aldrich of Concord; Don L. Bladaes of Westboro; David A. Bonvouloir of Attleboro; Daniel Chevalier of South Hadley; Norman Cook of Methuen; Larry Dennison of Malden; Phyllis Enselek of Pittsfield; (not a student), Robert W. Finlay, Jr. of Whitman; Marianne Hennessey of Rutland; Bruce F. Ingber of Boston; Andrew O. Kress of Acton; Marvin Lehrer of West Roxbury; Robert N. McEneany of Pittsfield; Augustus Paul of New York City; Elaine Paul of Montague; Stanley Perry of Berkley; Ronald Ryan of Clifton, N.J.; F. Elizabeth Schmidt of Holliston, Gregory Sudak of Saugus and Edward Toth of Torrington, Conn.

THE UMASS CONCERT BAND will present its Spring Concert April 27 at 3 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

UMass Concert Band To Give Spring Concert

The spring concert of the University of Massachusetts Concert Band under the direction of Larry Weed will be held Sunday, April 27th at 3:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The band has existed as a concert unit for three years and has grown under Professor Weed's leadership from sixty-four members to its present one hundred and sixty members. In addition to its formal annual concert in April, the Concert Band has performed outdoor concerts for all the dorm complexes on campus.

The program for April 27th includes "The Queen of Sheba" march by Charles Gounod; "Tom-Tom Foolery" for percussion quartet by Alan Abel; Robert Russell Bennett's "Suite of Old American Dances"; "The Golden Ear" by Mariano San Miguel; Don Jacoby's "Carnival Variations" for trumpet trio and selections from "Carmina Burana" by Carl Orff.

The event is sponsored by the UMass Department of Music and is open to the public without charge.

Useless Books? Annual Booksale Needs Donations

The annual booksale of the League of Women Voters (LWV) an Amherst tradition for 21 years, will take place on the Town Common on May 2 and 3. This community event is a primary source of income for the League, supporting its programs of informed citizen participation in government.

Hard book and paperback books of various types are needed: texts, novels, children's books and reference material. In addition, LP records, sheet music and periodicals are wanted.

The LWV urges students to "use" the sale as a good way of disposing of books they no longer need or want, but can't bear to throw away.

Books may be left in the trunk outside of Rowe's Garage, 37 E. Pleasant Street from now until April 30. If this is not convenient donors may make arrangements for pick-up service by calling Mrs. William Frey at 256-6047.

Tomorrow Re-elect Experience

JOE

TABACCO

CLASS OF 1971 PRESIDENT

THE WOODROSE BALLROOM

presents

VAN MORRISON

COUNTRY FUNK

Light by Captain Video

April 18-19 8:00 P. M.

$2.50 WMAS 94.7 FM

RTE. 5, DEERFIELD, MASS.

665-8742

FREE BUS

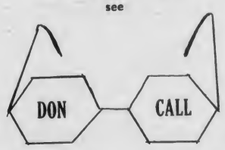
TO WOODROSE BALLROOM

Buses leave from the Student Union at 7:30 and 8:45, from Southwest at 7:35 and 8:50. Return buses leave Woodrose at 10:45 and 11:45, with stops at Southwest and the Student Union.

GO NUTS AT

THE HUTCH

TONITE



The Dynamic Desatations

THURSDAY: "BRILLIG"

Route 9, Hadley

When you want wire rim glasses, pick them up at a gas station.

But when you want GOLD FILLED FRAMES see

We have the largest selection of domestic and imported gold filled frames in the area. Stop by and see.

DAYS 56 Main St. Amherst ALpine 3-7002

NIGHTS 113 Russell Hadley 586-1138

Now on the second floor of the STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

UMass Golf Now at 1-1; Aherne Shoots Team Low

(Continued from Page 12)

productive. Just as Page had predicted, the bottom of the lineup would be capable of securing many points, and he was absolutely correct. Sixth man Rick Aherne breezed his way to a 5 and 3 decision over Wesleyan's Silvestro, and then had an especially easy time with Springfield's Shaw, winning 7 and 5. Seventh and final man Dick King also made a strong showing in downing Forbes of Wesleyan, 4 and 3, while at the same time edging Springfield's Nazurowski, 1 up.

Low medalist for UMass was Rick Aherne with a score of 75. Wesleyan, which won the overall match, ended up with three low medalists. Pete Panciera, Pat Kelly and Joe Keller all finished with 76's. Six of Wesleyan's seven players broke 80 for their best showing of the season.

The Redmen's record now stands at 1-1, while Wesleyan is 4-1, and Springfield is still looking for it's first victory, sporting an 0-2 card.

The UMass golfers get under way once again this weekend, when they meet Vermont here on Friday, and then travel to St. Anselms on Saturday.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

Bruins 30, Broncos 5
Redwoods 11, Buffaloes 7
Pied Pipers 10, Hemlocks 3
Brigade 7, Barracudas 2
Giants 7, Eagles 5
Maroons 14, Elms 3
Pines 24, Maples 6
Grants 10, Oaks 1
Hawks 7, Limes 5
Phallics 7, Panthers 1
Aces 8, Flaming A's 4
Avengers 1, Gak 0
WHWL 4, Twin Hills 2
Little Fellas 16, Rasputin 2
KS 'B' 5, Stout 0
LML 5, Bismarks 4
Bulldogs 9, Holes 6
Turtles 4, Bruisers 'B' 2
Marauders 5, Heads 4
3M's 9, Iranmen 'B' 8
Runts 6, Bucks 5
Faulballs 6, Band 2
Nickel Bags 5, Bucks 2
Band 12, Zeppelins 3
Cool Cans 13, Iranmen 'B' 11
Runts 1, 3M's 0

SOCCER

Maroons 1, Elms 0
HiLo's 3, Eagles 0
Aces 1, Flaming A's 0

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	1 vs. 2
6	5:30	3 vs. 4
7	5:30	5 vs. 6
8	5:30	Goons vs. Kolinkos
9	5:30	BX vs. Drakesters
10	5:30	Dicks vs. Racoons
11	5:30	Dydozz vs. Bounders
1	6:15	PSD vs. DC
2	6:15	BKP vs. SPE
3	6:15	TEP vs. PSK
4	6:15	QTV vs. ZN
1	7:15	SAM vs. PLP
2	7:15	KS vs. TKE
3	7:15	LCA vs. TSP
4	7:15	TC vs. APO
1	8:15	2 vs. 3
2	8:15	4 vs. 5
3	8:15	2 vs. 3
4	8:15	4 vs. 5
1	9:15	Chem Dept. vs. Dinks
2	9:15	Education vs. Groups
3	9:15	Old Timers vs. Seals
4	9:15	Old Men vs. Beadledoms
1	10:30	Spartans vs. Seagrams
2	10:30	Ironmen vs. Academics
3	10:30	Bruisers vs. Smashers
4	10:30	Bedsinks vs. Cement Freaks vs. WHWI
2	4:40	Lil Fellas vs GAK
3	4:40	Bulldozers vs. Academics
4	4:40	Terrors vs. Bruisers
5	4:40	Smashers vs. Seagrams
6	4:40	2 vs. 3
2	5:20	4 vs. 5
3	5:20	TKE vs. ASP
4	5:20	KS vs. PLP
5	5:20	PMD vs. PSK
6	5:20	PLP vs. PSK

Birds Top Red Sox, 10-5; Gibson Out

BOSTON (AP) - Don Buford drove in the tie-breaking runs with his third straight clutch single and Frank Robinson followed with a three-run homer yesterday as the Baltimore Orioles exploded for five runs in the eighth inning to defeat Boston 10-5.

The loss snapped the Red Sox' winning streak at four games.

Andy Etchebarren led off the winning rally with a bunt single. Mark Belanger walked and winning pitcher Pete Richert sacrificed.

Buford, who had hit a pair of two-out, run-scoring singles earlier, looped a ball to short right field that fell just out of the reach of second baseman Mike Andrews as both runners scored.

After Paul Blair singled, Robinson, who had doubled and tripled earlier to stretch his hitting streak to eight games, unloaded his fourth homer of the season.

Clutch hitting by Buford and Boog Powell helped the Orioles build an early 5-2 lead.

But the Red Sox tied it with a three-run rally in the sixth. Rico Petrocelli triggered the uprising with a solo homer, and Gerry Moses followed with a double. Pinch-hitter Dalton Jones singled Moses home and eventually scored on Reggie Smith's sacrifice fly.

Mike Andrews' first homer of the year gave Boston a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

Tony Conigliaro and Russ Gibson both had to leave the Red Sox lineup during the game due to leg injuries, with Gibson's apparently the more serious. The veteran catcher suffered a hamstring pull in his right leg while running the bases, and trainer Buddy Leroux said later he would be out "at least a week, possible more."

Conigliaro complained of a tightening of the muscle in back of the right knee, but the young outfielder didn't know when or how it happened. Leroux said he was a question mark for Wednesday's game but that it didn't appear he would be out too long.

Dick Ellsworth started on the mound for Boston but was ineffective, giving up eight hits and four runs before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the fourth. Ray Jarvis, Bill Landis, Fred Wenz and Juan Pizarro followed, with Landis, who had won three straight games, taking the loss.

Jim Hardin and Eddie Warr preceded Richert on the mound for the Orioles.

at

THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free

purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free

256-6667

253-7100

FREE DELIVERY

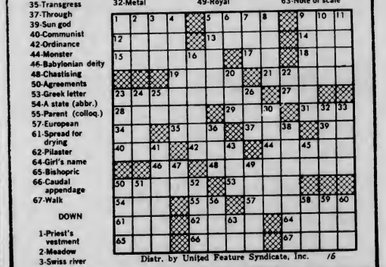
6 - 11

GENESIS I

7362 = an iron butterfly?

CROSSWORD PUZZLE Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

PLT CASH AMA
SNA ARTU PUGS
INSANE MART RU
E TUE HOT PEE
SHED FOR MERT
HOD SOP PAT
YE STEPPED TA
MAA FEW AAR
FLAP BUT ELLA
RED TIL ALL
MAAILALLOWS
DUMP LANE TEN
ROP SUTE STY



ACROSS

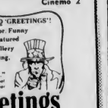
1-Word of sorrow
5-Transaction
9-Pigpen
12-Jump
13-One opposed
14-Pedal digit
15-Unproductive
17-Teutonic deity
18-Lubricate
19-South American Indian
21-Coral island
23-Walks about idly
27-Man's nickname
28-One of Columbus's ships
29-Prefix: wrong
31-Pose for portrait
34-Paid notice
35-Transgress
37-Through
39-Sun god
40-Communist
42-Ordinance
44-Monster
46-Babylonian deity
48-Chastising
50-Agreements
53-Greek letter
54-A state (abbr.)
55-Parent (colloq.)
57-European
61-Spread for drying
62-Pilaster
64-Girl's name
65-Bishopric
66-Caudal appendage
67-Walk

4-Dashes
5-Waltz
6-Printer's measure
7-Devoured
8-Unit of Italian currency
9-Backless seats
10-Labor
11-Shout
16-Involve as a necessary accompaniment
20-Limb
22-Symbol for tantalum
23-Mast
24-Military assistant
25-World organization (abbr.)
26-Drink slowly
30-Staid
32-Metal
33-Zest
36-Catch
38-Holds back
41-Period of 10 years
43-Spider's trap
45-Note of scale
47-Near
49-Royal
50-Strokes
51-Toward shelter
52-Quarrel
56-Collection of facts
58-Witty saying
59-Exist
60-Short sleep
63-Note of scale

DOWN

1-Priest's vestment
2-Meadow
3-Swiss river

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. '69



3 Theatres Under 1 Roof

Campus Cinemas

Rt. 9 Amherst 256-6411

Now Showing Cinema 2

"I ENJOYED 'GREETINGS'! Fresh humor. Funny and good-natured. A whole gallery of new, young, talented performers." Pauline Kael The New Yorker

Greetings

A comedy that takes a look at the needs and problems of contemporary American youth

Nightly ex. Fri.-Sat at 7:15-9
Fri.-Sat. 6:15-8-9:45

Cinema 1 3rd & Final Week!

— Shown Nightly at 7 & 9:15 —

Nominated for 3 Academy Awards

"Best Supporting Actress"
"Best Supporting Actor"
"Best Story & Screen Play"

JOHN CASSAVETES' FACES

Hardhitting Redman Baseballers Travel to AIC

UMass Seeks Encore; AIC Pitching Shaky

Baseball Coach Dick Bergquist's 'bombers' will ue out for Yellow Jacket this afternoon as they travel to Springfield for a game with AIC. UMass will be seeking its fourth straight win in as many games up north and sixth in the last seven.

This one shouldn't be too tough for the Redmen, who have banged out 37 hits in the last two games, as the AIC pitching has been somewhat shaky thus far this spring. However, as in any other sport you never know what can happen and this could be a close one.

AIC shapes up as a pretty solid hitting team with three of their top four men back from last year. Centerfielder Frank Capuano batted .355 and scored 22 runs. Alan Bush at second base follows him at .328 while first baseman Mike Delaney batted .309. Jeff Burgess, an agile catcher , led the squad in RBI with 19 and had two homers.

The rest of the AIC lineup has Tom Nolan at third, Chuck Hansley at short and Mike Egoroff in left. Chuck Pagliarini, rated the top pitcher, is in right when he's not on the mound. He had a 4-1 mark last year with an ERA of 4.10.

As far as the Redmen are concerned, they'll go withthe same lineup that has been so successful in recent games. Joe DiSarcina has an OK from the doctor to participate but he'll wait a few days to add further strength to his wrist. He'll probably be in the lineup for the two game Vermont series which starts Friday.

The hitting has been just short of amazing. Every one in the lineup has been contributing and for opposing pitchers, this has been nothing short of a nightmare. The pitching, somewhat doubtful a week ago, has yielded but four runs in three games.

Likely starters for UMass will be either Jack Bernardo or Lou Colabello. John Kitchen and Norm Elliott may also see action.

After Monday's 29-0 ransacking of Tufts, UMass has a tough act to follow, but they're not likely to get stung by the Yellow Jackets. Game time is 3 p.m.

FOLLOW THE BOUNCING BALL - UMass' Mitch Salnick successfully steals second in first inning of Monday's 29-0 rout of Tufts. He went to third as catcher's throw bounced into center field. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

A true rarity occurred last night in intramural softball as Jack Pitroff pitched a no hitter inleading the Avengers to a 1-0 win over G ak. Pitroff walked only one batter, the only man to reach base all night.

Netmen Meet Tough MIT; Who is The Mystery Man?

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

Coach Steve Kosakowski's tennis team will probably face its toughest challenge this afternoon when it meets highly rated MIT at the varsity courts in a three o'clock dual meet.

MIT has already played on a Southern trip and according to all reports is in mid-season form. It should be the finest home match of the season. Captain Carl Clem will start in the number one singles spot. Clem will face a mystery man who displaced MIT's top two men of last season, Bob McKinley and Bob Metcaff. Sophomore Alan Goldberg draws the number two starting assignment in his first varsity competition. Tom Johnson will play at three, Mike Katz will play at four, Scott Sheppard at five and Jon Bloom will start at six. The doubles combination will be Katz and Clem, Goldberg and Sheppard, and Johnson and Bloom. Kosakowski calls this one, "our toughest of the year." In all candor, the UMass mentor quipped, "If we win this one we're in for a hell-of-a season." Last season the Engineers walked off with a 7-2 win at Cambridge.

Thus far Kosakowski cannot complain about his charges; as he put it, "The kids have been great. They can really go a long way." During Saturday's match against AIC the second team looked overpowering.

MIT will bring nine men to Amherst and some of the second liners will be able to show their prowess in practice matches. Thus far the first six men look solid, but there are two or three on the second unit that could move up.

The Redmen will only have two more home matches following this afternoon's encounter. Tufts will visit the Redmen on Tuesday. The only thing that can be said about Tufts is that they cannot possibly be as bad as the Jumbo baseballers. Last year the Redmen swept Tufts at Medford.

The following final home match will be contested against Connecticut on April 29. Connecticut was one of the three teams that topped UMass during last year's dual competition. However, Connecticut did not appear to be that strong. If one is a tennis gourmet he should make a point to see today's match. It should satisfy his hunger for good tennis.

Golfers Split Tri-Meet

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

UMass gofers split their first triangular golf match today by outscoring Springfield College 5-2, and then losing to Wesleyan, also by a 5-2 score.

This year's outcome was just the opposite of last season's encounter with the same two schools, when the squad lost to Springfield, but defeated Wesleyan.

Playing the first spot for Coach Page's Redmen was Dave Salter, who lost to Mathews of Wesleyan 5 and 4, but came back to down Weingert of Springfield, 4 and 3. Second position was handled by Ed Puzas, who also dropped his match against the Wesleyan opponent with a close 2 and 1 decision. But like Salter, Puzas rebounded to outlast Marcinun of Springfield in another close one, winning 1 up.

Number three man was captain Eric Lekberg, who ended up with the same combination as Puzas and Salter. Lekberg lost to Kelly of Wesleyan, 2 and 1, but then charged to a 4 and 3 decision over Tolomeo of Springfield. The fourth and fifth positions for UMass, however, ran into some tough luck. Sophomore Mike Minkos lost to Wesleyan's Keller 4 and 3, and at the same time was defeated by Springfield's Johnson in a close one, 1 up. Likewise, Dick Barber dropped both his encounters, first to Forbes of Wesleyan, 5 and 4, and secondly to Hester of Springfield, 4 and 2.

The sixth and seventh spots for the Redmen proved to be the most

(Continued on Page 11)

Frosh Open

Worcester Academy will be the foe as the UMass freshman baseball team travels to that city to open its 1969 campaign. Game time is 3 p.m.

The Little Redmen are led by solid performers such as second baseman Jose Kelly, center fielder Mark Larusse and first baseman Pete Thompson. Freshman coach Arlan Barber is expected to employ Tom King as his starting pitcher.

Combining good pitching, speed, defense and depth, the frosh will be looking to initiate their 14-game schedule on a bright note. Barber promises that this freshman nine will provide its fans with an exciting style of play.

Home opener for the Little Redmen will be Saturday at 1:30 and the opposition will be Amherst.

Stickmen Vie at Middlebury Today

The annual teacher-pupil confrontation of UMass' Dick Garber and Middlebury's Joe Marrone takes place today when the Redman lacrosse team travels to the Vermont small town to meet the Panthers. This year the game takes on added interest with both teams coming into the game undefeated.

Marrone played under Garber at UMass some years back and the two have developed a spirited rivalry in the coaching ranks although they remain close friends off the field. The Middlebury coach never fails to get his boys up for the Redmen and two years ago, he got them up enough to upset UMass.

He may have the team to do it again today. Middlebury has swept through its first five games, showing an adequate offense and excellent defense. The Panthers defeated N.Y. Maritime, shutout Adelphi, 10-0, and defeated Tufts, Union and Wesleyan. Marrone has said that this is the finest Panther team he has had in nine years.

Middlebury style is similar to UMass and, like the Redmen, boasts a fine goalie in Dave Moore. The Panthers run four midfields, with a good shooter on each, creating balanced scoring. Rick Redman, Steve Sexton, and John Bruce make up the top midfield. The Panthers also have a trio of fine attackmen in French, Richman, and Staley.

UMass, in case you haven't noticed, has rolled through two straight wins andlookedoverpowering doing it. The Redmen swept a scrimmage win over Boston Lacrosse Club Sunday to continue their winning ways.

The Redmen were set back somewhat Saturday with an injury to starting defenseman Roy Condon. Condon suffered a slight shoulder separation, and will probably miss this game and theTufts game Saturday. Tom Tufts will move into Condon's crease defense position, with sophomore Al Ruggiano starting at wing defense.

Coach Garber, is worried somewhat by weather problems that can be bad in Middlebury. Two years ago it snowed and the forecast for today is rain. Garber isn't too worried about scoring. "Unless their goalie has an unbelievable game, we'll do some scoring," he asserted.

He still feels wary about Middlebury however. "They have won five so they must be doing something right. And we might be affected by the long bus ride."

But one item about today's game should give everyone a slight idea about the Redman strength. Starting in goal will be sophomore John Off, who, says Garber, "has played so well that he deserved a chance."

THIS BALL HAD EYES - Kevin O'Connor fires in one of his four goals during first half of 29-0 thumping of Boston State last Saturday. Today's opponent, Middlebury, is expected to be more of a challenge. (MDC photo by Kelly).

CHASE ENDS THE CHASE -Steve Chase hits the tape for first place in the 220 during Saturday's tri-meet. Dave Marble, who placed fourth, is in background. Yesterday's scheduled meet with Holy Cross was canceled due to a poor HC track.

Redmen on the Warpath

BASEBALL-v. AIC-away, 3 p.m.
LACROSSE-v. Middlebury-away, 3:15 p.m.
TENNIS-v. MIT-home, 3 p.m.
BASEBALL(FR)-v. Worcester Academy-away, 3 p.m.
BASEBALL(JV)-v. Worcester J.C. -home, 3 p.m.

The UMass rugby club will be at Amherst College this afternoon to resume a cross town rivalry. Game time is at 4:30 p.m. This will be an 'A' game.

Paul Mauriat and his company entertained last night at Sophomore Banquet with music ranging from French folk songs to "Love Is Blue". (MDC photo by Ara Dedekian).

Pentagon Confirms Downing of Plane By North Koreans Over Sea of Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) - After two days of studying the evidence, the Pentagon has confirmed that North Korean fighters intercepted an unarmed Navy intelligence plane Monday and shot it down over the Sea of Japan.

The Pentagon's chief spokesman, Daniel Z. Henkin, announced Wednesday that "all evidence now available to us, including North Korean claims and debris sightings, leads us to believe that the aircraft was shot down by North Korean aircraft."

Henkin said the electronics-jammed plane never violated North Korean airspace.

With the fate of the 31-man EC 121 officially resolved, the question immediately became: what will President Nixon do about it.

There was no immediate answer from the White House.

The fact that the Pentagon now was publicly announcing its conclusion - insisting the plane had a legal right to be where it was-indicated the President has made at least a tentative decision on the type of U.S. response to be made.

The commander in chief met for an hour with the National Security Council. But the White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, would only say afterward that Nixon was following the situation closely.

Ziegler declined to speculate on whether a Nixon pronouncement on what appeared to be a new international crisis might be forthcoming.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana raised a question of whether Nixon was personally aware of the intelligence activity in which the Navy plane was involved.

"I do not believe President Nixon was any more aware of the mission being carried out by this plane than President Johnson was of the patrol being made by the Pueblo," Mansfield told a reporter. He referred to the intelligence ship seized by North Korea during the Lyndon B. Johnson administration.

Mansfield said all of the various U. S. intelligence activities should be coordinated under a White House command unit reporting to the President daily.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said this is "getting to be an extremely serious matter," but he avoided recommending any immediate action.

Fulbright called for a briefing of all senators on the incident by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvil R. Laird.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 120 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1969

Constitutional Convention Retains Class and Stockbridge Senators

By KATHLEEN O'DONNELL
Senate Reporter

The business before the Constitutional Convention last night was "the amending of the Student Government Association Constitution by striking it in its entirety", Senator Woods, Chairmen of the SGA Committee, presented the new Constitution to the members of the convention.

In attendance were the members of the Senate and the class officers. The main controversy of the evening was an amendment that called for the retention of the class senators in the new document. After a lengthy debate, the amendment was passed by a vote of 50-19.

Speaking against the amendment was Senator Hartwell, former Senate Vice President. The Senator maintained that, "classes no longer serve the interest of the legislative role." However, he went on to say that to oppose this amendment was not necessarily an opposition to class government. His main contention was that " a senator at large doesn't serve a legislative interest in the student body that is not served by other people."

In defense of the amendment, Senator Kline, candidate for President of the Class of '70, said that, "We should keep the class senator within the Senate." He stressed the role of the class senator as a "liason" between the class officers and the Senate. Agreeing with Senator Kline was Steve Driscoll, Vice President of the Class of '72. Driscoll said that "because of the close union between the senator-at-large and the class officers it is important that this bridge established with the class senator be maintained or student government will suffer".

As the debate progressed, other senators felt that a class senator would constitute "double representation". Some felt that such representation would be unfair. However, the majority of the senators agreed that such representation would create a stronger voice for the students in the Senate.

Although the amendment carried, the main arguments of the night seemed to be centered around the concept of representation. Senator Marcus pointed out "I don't think that any senator is representative of anyone but himself. I don't think that classes should have a representative in the Senate if the new constitution doesn't provide for it". He went on to say that the issue of representation might have been an indication of the Senate's past vindictiveness towards the classes in a struggle for power. However, the amendment, sponsored by Senator Nims,

(Continued on Page 2)

Two Presidential Contests Dominate Today's Class Election Primaries

By Paul Anderson
Student Government Editor

The races for President for the classes of '70 and '71 are both highly contested intoday's primary. The issues center around feelings on the new Student Government Constitution, of which classes are not a part, plans for the coming year, and the rule of the classes in the University community.

THIS IS NOT A MUSKRAT - Found on campus near the pond by photographer Sue Ellen Segal, we have positively identified this creature as a "turtle", and are sure that its presence means nothing but a sure sign that warm, lazy weather is here to stay.

On the new Constitution, Dick Kline, '70 feels that classes cannot be legislatures, but can compliment the Student Senate, and that, classes should not be abolished, nor the class Senator.

Steve Weisman, the current President of the Class of '70, says he has mixed feelings: "Government was not the class role, anyway, so removing it from the government sphere won't mean a change; the class role is social". But he feels that the Senator-at-Large position should be retained for the problems a class member might have.

Belden Bly, '70, is in favor of the new Constitution since classes aren't governments, but wishes to retain the Senator-at-Large to work on class issues.

David Veale believes that classes should do something more than social activities, and favors their retention in Student Government, in order for class ro work for their constituents.

A fifth candidate for President Class of '70, Peter Rosenthal could not be contacted.

For the class of '71, another heavily contested race, President Joe Tabacco feels that class government should be strengthened not abolished. While not making the class a legislature, he feels that classes should be autonomous; meaning to be allowed to make budget changes without Senate approval, since the classes are headed by elected officers.

Harold Koltin is also opposed to the new Constitution because it would restrict Class Executive Councils in hiring talent by not being able to go into debt, which he says classes can come out of on their own. He feels that abolishing class autonomy only creates unnecessary red-tape withthe Senate.

Another candidate, Joe Piccalo, expressed no knowledge of the subject.

(Continued on Page 2)

The first general meeting of the Write for Peace Committee was held last night in the new hatch. Unofficial Chairman Nick Akerman, above, and other members of the group made plans for the letter-campaign which begins today. (MDC photo by Gunnar Myrebeck).

Write for Peace Committee Initiates Campus Campaign

By KATHY BIGGANE
Staff Reporter

The first general meeting of the newly organized Write for Peace Committee was held last night, with approximately 25 students in attendance.

The purpose of the organization, as stated by last night's spokesman Nick Ackerman, is to alert the students on this campus, and hopefully at some future date throughout the state, of the fact that the Congressmen of Massachusetts do have an influence on the nation's foreign policy, and that we can and must have an influence on them. The Committee has come up with a unique approach to this problem, but are in need of strong support to make the campaign a success. The plan of attack consists of four basic steps:

1. A massive letter-writing campaign throughout the campus community to individual congressmen;
2. Student delegations to visit Congressmen in their offices and discuss their voting record on all issues concerning the war;
3. A letter-writing campaign to all hometown newspapers asking the support of all readers in this endeavor, and
4. Contacting all college newspapers in the state to join UMass and begin similar campaigns on their campuses.

part two

The goal of the project is to present a threat to the Congressmen's seats if they continue to ignore the opinions of those members of their constituencies opposed to the war. Akerman also stated that even students who are not vet of voting age have an influence, because perhaps they can persuade their parents to vote a certain way, and because they will be of voting age very soon and will then have the power to vote these men out of office. The twelve Congressmen who represent Massachusetts, the majority of whom have alot of seniority, have continuously voted in favor of war appropriations.

(Continued on Page 2)

17 APR 17

The following is a form for course descriptions to be printed in the DAILY COLLEGIAN prior to counselling day. Faculty must turn in the completed forms for all courses to be taught next fall to the MDC before April 25. Any faculty not replying will be listed as "no reply" in this public service publication.

Department and course number_____

Title of course_____

Instructor_____

Description_____

Major topics discussed_____ Time alloted_____

Required text(s)_____

Supplementary materials_____

Prerequisites, limitations, etc._____

Number and length of papers, reports_____

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams._____

Constitutional Convention. . .

(Continued from Page 1)

was passed.

After the amendment was carried, Senator Hartwell, in order to "make it equitable", although opposed to the amendment, proposed a second amendment that called for a senator at large from Stockbridge to be represented in the University Senate. Speaking on this amendment Senator Sheehan said "they deserve a representative because they have many interests here. They work together; they are a group in name and practice therefore, their Senator should be more representative of them than the Senate."

Some debate followed and Senator Marcus sponsored an amendment to the amendment that called for this Senator to be chosen by an at large election rather than to be appointed by the Stockbridge Senate. Marcus' amendment carried 37-14.

New Leaders for Class of '72

BOB HOTTIN ..... President

HOWIE TUBER ..... Vice-President

DEBBIE GROZEN ..... Secretary

DAN BRENNAN ..... Treasurer

Don't forget to VOTE in Primary TODAY

"THE MISSION"
will present a concert at the WARE TOWN HALL — SUNDAY, APRIL 20
at 7:30 p.m.
Recording Artists — TV Appearances
Tickets at Door $2.00

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Write for Peace. . .

(Continued from Page1)

The campaign will begin tomorrow with a table in the Student Union where stationary, envelopes and stamps will be distributed, along with a rough outline of information which can be used in composing the letters. There will also be a list of Congressmen, their districts, and their voting records, and a sign-up sheet for anyone interested in joining the Committee. Below is a list of Congressmen and a partial voting record for each.

Do you know how your Congressman voted on the war?	Vote on a letter calling for bombing halt Oct. 12, 1967	Vote on Approval of Pres.'s request for $6.5 billion for war for 1968 June 11, 1967
Boland (Springfield)	No	Yes
Burke (Milton)	No	Yes
Donohue (Worcester)	No	---
Macdonald (Malden)	No	Yes
McCormack (Dorchester)	No	Absent
O'Neill (Cambridge)	No	Yes
Philbin (Clinton)	No	Yes
Bates (Salem)	No	Yes
Conte (Pittsfield)	No	Yes
Heckler (Wellesley)	No	Yes
Keith (W. Bridgewater)	No	Yes
Morse (Lowell)	No	Yes

Elections. . .

(Continued from Page 1)

An issue peculiar to the '70 race is whether or not to hold Senior Week. David Veale stated that his Class was $7200 in debt, so he would de-emphasize Senior Week activities. Dick Kline felt that a varied Senior Week "should be reinstituted", because Seniors deserve it".

Steve Weisman also felt that Senior Week was a good idea, but stressed quality not quantity. He wished to make it a last gathering of Seniors, and thus play down big, expensive entertainment. Belden Bly favors an active Senior Week, but felt it would be "opposed by commuters", which he would combat with a telephone poll of the preferences of Seniors.

On plans for next year, Joe Piccalo, '71, would cut down the size of the Executive Council, while increasing participation of regular class members. As President, he would watch committees, keep after chairmen, and do a professional job in working for the betterment of the Class.

Harold Koltin would set up a preference poll in the Student Union to guide the Executive Council in decisions on talent, and not make it a choice of the Class Officers. He did not favor a President who "gets his own will" and would counteract it with class surveys and would strengthen the Executive Council by appointing qualified people with personal interviews, thus getting diversified opinions.

President Tabacco would like to have a large allotment for a lecture series, and to bring new entertainment to campus like: "Hair" and "Fiddler on the Roof". He would have his class sponsor controversial topics, such as the Dow Debate; and he also plans to have a big Winter Carnival, lasting for a full week.

For the Class of '70, Steve Weisman plans to do something specific for the campus, some kind of service. He intends to voice what is on Seniors' minds.

Campus Organizations Honor Student Leaders

The following people were honored at Student Leaders night Wednesday evening.

Named to Adelphia: John Ayres, Leon Barron, Robert Brooks, Jules Chametzy, John Childs, Richard Kofler, William Lachman, Dario Politella, William Richards, Michael West, Seymour Shapiro, James West, Nathan Akerman, Steven Albernaz, Vincent Barry, Lorrey Bianchi, John Dean, Joseph DiSarcina, Micheal Garjian, William King, Peter Lewenberg, Paul Silverman, Ralph Staddard, Richard Story, Wayne Thomas, Richard Vail, Bruce Balboni, Donald Epstein, Richard Kline, Glenn Manfurian, Alan Marcus, Stephen Parnell, Peter Rosenthal, Sander Ross, Edward Tirrell.

Named to Arcon: Eric Berkowitz, Stephen Bradley, John Campbell, Judd Carhart, Paul Cesary, John Collins, Robert Cotosi, Loring Cook, David Cray, James Curley, Paul Dinerman, Shaun Fitzgerald, John Gannon, Joseph Hayes, James Higgins, Michael Hinman, John Lanata, Kenneth Mathias, Peter McErlain, Joseph McGovern, Michel Pancione.

Mortar Board: Marcia Ballard, Elaine Canter, Irene Carlson, Mary Connelly, Leslie Dierauf, Marlene Fine, Gail Geiver, Judith Gravel, Karen Heiser, Carole Hoefner, Irene Karakla, Paula Matthews, Ellen Moran, Marcia Niemieo, Cindi Olken, Dianne Perrine, Patricia Rinzler.

Distinguished Senior Awards: Susan Brady, J. Harris Dean, Jonathan Edwards, Peter Lewenberg, Laurence Marcus, Paul Silverman, Richard Story, Susan Tracy.

Named to Revelers: Jan Persson, Ed Boew, Jane Golden, Dale Slswick, Jane Burke, Richard Newhall, Parry Packard, Bob Twiss, Elaine Mec, Wayne Picard, Evic Kane, Dennis Donovan, Lucille Michale, John Michaelo, John Parissi, Anita Karce, Rick Walters, Nancy Clarke, Dave Vale, Paula Saprito, Dick Samuelson, Martha Driscoll, Bob Young, Jon Hospid, Glen Esser, Jane Bowlan, Fred Bleau, Karlen Bowler, Gail Egan, Ann Daney, Paula McGuire.

New Maroon Keys: Lee Deering, Paul Joy, Robert Sullivan, Paul Fiax, James Devine, Kevin Karpinger, Robert Beecy, Ernest Lapore, Jeff Tripp, Ted Andriatis, Bruce Bickbee, Arthur Lasch, Roy Jones, William DeCost, Harold Conner, Harry Mintz, Timothy Cutter, Richard Noonan, Douglas Astian, Robert McGeary, Paul Perrault, Curtis Whitely, Bruce Malinowski, Barry Rosen, James Katz.

Named to Scrolls: Wendelyn Acker, Gloria Anspach, Sally Auerbach, Debrosh Austin, Susan Babb, Denise Bellliveau, Sandra Brouck, Lynda Burack, Pat Costello, Cynthia Couson, Geraldine Critis, Karen DeGrace, Cynthia Dench, Eleen Dowd, Joanne Exzie, Judith Gantshar, Tanya Globa, Nancy Golon, Virginia Hepp, Susan Horowitz, Elizabeth Ibbeken, Karen Johnnessen, Janet Kaplan, Kathryn Kertiles, Ann Lebreck, Jean Liddy, Pam Lorite, Katherine Los, Katherine Malfa, Elinne Manion, Pam Mansback, Katherine McNertney, Paula Mele, Jane Norcross, Theresa O'Neal, Jeanne Provost, Nancy Reagan, Colleen Roche, Jdy Silva, Martha Savaria, Joanne Wombolt.

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
Delivery Special
PASTRAMI GRINDER
Thurs, Fri., Sat.
April 17, 18, 19
69¢
253-9336

As personal as your smile

Pick the Eaton's Open Stock Paper that suits you perfectly . . . use it always . . . make it yours . . . as personal as your smile.

Your Open Stock favorite tint and texture will always be available here. Paper and envelopes may be bought separately, as you need more.

Come in soon . . . and pick your paper!

EATON'S
FINE LETTER PAPERS
IN OPEN STOCK
A. J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer & Stationer
Amherst, Mass.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
9-12
The ELYSIAN SPRING
PAUL'S CAFE
Northampton

Final Exam Schedule

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE — UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS — May 1969

SPECIAL NOTE: With the exception of AST 115 and PHILO 103, all sections of a course will be examined at the same time. The time of the section meeting no longer has any bearin on the time of the examination.

CONFLICTS: Students with direct conflicts or more than two examinations in one calendar day should report to the Central Calendar Office, 160 Whitmore Administration Building, IF IN DOUBT FRIDAY, MAY 2. The Calendar Office will arrange for make-up examinations. Conflicts which are not reported ON OR BEFORE MAY 2 must be resolved by the student himself.

ROOMS: Specific examination room assignments will be made at a later date. Check with your instructor after May 1.

CODE: Day Identification: 1. Mon May 19 2. Tue May 20 3. Wed May 21 4. Thu May 22 5. Fri May 23 6. Sat May 24 7. Tue May 27 8. Wed May 28 9. Thu May 29 — Period Identification: A. 8:00-10:00 A.M. B. 10:30 A.M. - 12:30 P.M. C. 1:30-3:30 P.M. D. 4:00-6:00 P.M. — Illustration: AAF EC 206 5B = The examination in this course is scheduled for Friday, May 23, at 10:30 A.M.

AAF EC 206 5B	AIRSCI 232 1C	AST 215 2B	C E 111 8A	CH E 382 9B	COMLIT 351 2A	ECON 212 1A
368 5D	233 3B	273 9B	220 7B	384 2A	375 2A	211 5A
373 7D	367 5A	285 9B	234 7B	CHEM 102 1A	CONSCI 122 2D	222 7B
381 3B	AR SCI 220 4B	295 4A	256 2C	112 1B	131 8C	232 3B
AGRIC 100 1D	256 6B	375 8C	259 7C	111 9A	250 3A	242 2A
125 5C	308 2B	ASTRON 102 1A	260 5B	127 5A	252 5A	262 7C
126 7B	334 5C	298 4A	280 7A	160 7D	E E 111 3C	267 2D
127 2C	354 8B	344 7D	295 1B	166 1C	142 2C	282 1A
251 1C	370 7B	BIOCHM 120 1A	311 6B	215 6B	233 6D	301 3B
262 7B	372 4B	225 6A	331 8A	244 1B	261 7A	306 7B
261 1B	AMTH 103 3C	226 2A	362 6D	246 1A	268 7C	311 1B
262 8B	114 7C	BOTANY 100 2C	371 6C	262 1A	282 6C	311 9B
263 6C	220 1C	101 2A	373 9B	269 6B	298 3A	EDUC 251 4B
264 5B	260 6C	125 5C	CH E 126 7A	282 5B	299 2D	253 1A
265 5A	335 7C	126 3A	256 3A	286 3C	306 3C	261 7C
267 7D	360 6B	175 2A	258 5B	290 2D	307 7C	262 8B
272 7D	369 9A	212 4B	263 7D	COMLIT 201 6D	308 6D	263 6C
273 6D	376 3C	215 6C	278 5A	202 8D	313 8D	277 1D
276 5D	377 5C	231 6C	286 3A	203 LD	314 2A	310 2A
277 1A	ANT 115-1 9A	270 6A	376 5A	203 LB	LCON 125 3B	366 3B
278 9A	115-2 6D	293 3B	377 LD	204 LC	126 3A	ENGIN 103 5D
AIRSCI 112 8A	115-3 7B	C E 102 9A	380 LC	212 8B	128 3B	104 7D
122 6C	205 3A	111 2B	381 8C	221 7C	371 LD

FINAL EXAMINATIONS — UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS — May 1969 - page 2

ENGL 111 6B	ENT 126 2C	FRENCH 390 8D	GERMAN 270 LA	HIST 215 2C	LD ARC 272 1C	MATH 211 6D
112 6C	260 3D	GR FIN 201 2B	271 LB	216 3A	LING 201 2B	212 6B
116 1A	266 5A	203 8B	280 3D	222 5B	203 3B	221 6C
125 6B	272 9B	210 1E GOVT	100 5A	223 9A	MAS E 101 8A	233 1D
126 1A	290 LB	221 3B	150 5B	227 7A	120 1A	246 3C
127 6A	382 4C	231 LB	161 5B	230 7C	124 3D	252 4A
128 6C	HUMDES 252 7A	GRID-ED 253 7D	201 3A	236 6A	125 5D	257 7A
135 6B	FT SCI 258 1C	262 CC	208 3B	305 LB	126 8C	258 3D
136 6A	353 3C	270 9B	218 2A	321 3C	148 6D	313 8D
137 6A	361 7A	295 LA	219 LD	323 8B	271 3B	325 9B
138 6C	377 5C	360 8D	220 6D	325 5A	284 3C	326 6A
152 6A	384 2C	361 6B	236 7D	327 5C	298 1A	341 6A
153, 9A FISH 101 7D	263 6A	737 8A	237 7D	329 LD	367 3C
201 3D FOREST 112 5D	265 8A	238 3C	332 7A	266 1B	362 4C
202 3D 226 3A	270 6C	241 5D	335 1B	268 5B	371 6D
203 1C 226 9A	275 5D	254 2D	337 LD	269 LD	381 2C
205 3A 227 7D GEOG 135 5B	279 8B	342 8A	267 6A	166 1B
216 5C 232 7C 150 9A	273 8D	360 9B	270 6C	HIS PE 122 4B
222 9B 236 1D 160 6C	276 4B	HTLHTT 100 2C	278 LA	131 1B
226 6B 236 8A 281 9B	290 9A	101 5A	287 3D	153 LA
233 3B 240 1A GEOL 101 2D	291 7C	201 7A	295 LB	257 7A
236 6B 302 5B 102 7B	292 9B	202 7A	387 2C	258 7C
242 1D FRENCH 010 8C 104 1A	301 2C	300 9A	387 3D	MATH 011 8A	259 3B
252 2C 103 5D 220 5C	321 LD	301 3D	011 8B	260 8C
253 1B 110 6C 231 8D	322 6D	I E 256 7B	021 3C	264 8D
256 1A 120 5D 250 7C	323 6D	272 3C	111 LA	265 8C
259 2A 130 5D 280 1D	355 7C	354 6A	112 LD	271 8A
262 6C 133 5C 286 2C	392-01 3C	378 6D	113 1A	275 2A
263 3C 140 5D 366 7C	392-02 6B	380 2B	125 2C	355 4D
266 7D 142 5C 368 9B	392-03 1D	ITAL 110 8C	121 3C	376 2C
272 2D 161 8C GERMAN 010 5C GR SCH 120 8B	392-04 5C	120 5C	123 7B	378 6C
275 6A 162 9B 100 6C HD 270 LD	393 LC	130 3B	126 LB	382 5B
276 5A 170 5C 110 5C 379 LC	140 5B	135 LA	HPE 250 8D
280 8B 250 8C 120 5B 380 1D	150 5A	135 LA	276 7B
282 2C 256 8C 122 7A HIST 101 7A	162 7D	136 3D	377 5D
292 7C 261 1C 130 5D 151 2C	170 8B	153 LC	HST 201 2A
293 1C 262 8C 131 9C JAPAN 140 6A	173 LA	211 5B
336 3A 330 2D 140 5D JOURN 201 1D	176 5B	231 7C
337 7A 345 3B 142 5A 202 LC	210 7B	235 8C
339 6D 356 7B 252 7C 206 2B LAT AM 390 6C	186 LB	242 3C
343 3B 365 4A 258 8B 208 8B LATIN 120 8B	187 7C	342 1A
345 8A 376 2B 259 6D 209 7C 121 3A	200 LC	345 7B
346 LD 380 7D 261 3C 211 7C 122 8C	202 LB	371 6A
383 6C 391 5C 266 6C 213 3A 328 1D 205 3A	391 2D
						392 LD

More Exam Times on Page 6

Pope To Visit Geneva

GENEVA (AP) - Pope Paul VI will make an unprecedented visit in June to Geneva, the city of 16th century Protestant reformer John Calvin, to address the International Labor Organization and visit the World Council of Churches.

Official purpose of the trip is the 50th anniversary of the 115-nation International Labor Organization - ILO - but it seemed clear that a meeting with leading officials of the World Council was at least as important to the Pontiff.

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
Delivery Special
PASTRAMI GRINDER
Thurs, Fri., Sat.
April 17, 18, 19
69¢
253-9336

Blow Yourself Up To POSTER SIZE
2 ft. x 3 ft.
Send any Black and White or Color Photo (even 3x5 or 5 x 7) & We will send you a 2 ft. x 3 ft. BOAUP . . . perfect POP ART POSTER.
A $25 value for $3.50
3 x 4 Ft. Blow-Up $7.50
Add 50c for post & hdlg. EACH. We C.O.D. Add local Sales Tax
Send Check or Money Order to:
PHOTO POSTER, Inc.
210 E. 23rd St., Dept. M-47
New York, N. Y. 10010
Dealer Inquiries Invited.

GENESIS I
Raisin toast, suburbia, and mush.

Hey There Honey, Don't Be Blue
VOTE FOR
JUDY DONAHUE
VICE PRESIDENT '72
APRIL 17 — THURSDAY

THE HIP HOP

The Hip Hop to Europe on Icelandic Airlines saves you $161 flying to Luxembourg. Daily flights from New York to Iceland • Luxembourg • England • Scotland • Norway • Sweden • Denmark. See your Travel Agent or write for folder CN, Icelandic Airlines, 630 Fifth Ave. (Rockefeller Center), New York, N.Y. 10020 (212) PL 7-8585.
LOWEST AIR FARES TO EUROPE
ICELANDIC AIRLINES

Dr. Richard Woodbury Chosen To Head Anthropology Dept.

By DREW B. STERGIS
Education Staff

The Department of Sociology has announced the appointment of Richard B. Woodbury as professor and head of the newly established Department of Anthropology.

Dr. Woodbury, who will begin his duties here on September 1, is currently the curator of North American Anthropology at the Smithsonian Office of Anthropology in Washington D.C.

Other professional positions Woodbury has held include associate professorships at the University of Kentucky and Columbia University, archeologist for the United Fruit Company's Zaculeu Project in Guatemala, and several posts in the Department of Anthropology at the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Woodbury's research has included work in areas of the South and Southwest United States, Mexico, Guatemala, Libya, Egypt, Pakistan, and Israel.

Woodbury received his B.S., M. A., and Ph.D. from Harvard University. He also studied at Oberlin College and Columbia

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR RENT

To sublet June 1 to Sept. 1, Colonial Village apartments, 3½ rooms, partially furnished, all utilities included. Contact Chris 546-7536. 4-23

2½ Room furnished or unfurnished apartment, $120 a month. Includes all utilities. Available June 1. Come to Cliffside, Apt. 36G, Sunderland. Route 116 or call 665-8708 any night. 4-18

Available June 1st, 2 bedroom apt. located 1 mile from Campus. For further information call 253-9667. 4-21

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistent. 5-5

Apartment to sublet. Available June 1 - August 31. 3½ rooms. $150 a month including all utilities. Call 665-3602 after 5 p.m. 4-21

Apartment to sublet for summer. 6 rooms, furnished, 3 minute walk to campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-9071 or 546-8631. 4-21

5 room apartment, for 3 people for summer months. Washer and dryer, two bathrooms, completely furnished. Call 546-7991 or 546-7953. 4-21

Available June 1st — one bedroom furnished. Call 256-6149. 4-22

"For the Summer" June 1 to Sept. 1 - 5 rm. "house", 30 seconds from Campus, 19 Phillips St. Come in person or call 549-3097. 4-23

Unfurnished, Colonial Village. 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31, or lease for 1 year. Your choice. Call Bob 253-8942. 4-23

Air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts. Puffton Village Apt. to sublet for the summer, $65/person, prefer two boys. Call 549-1415. 4-23

3½ room furnished apartment available June 1. Five miles from Campus. $100 month including utilities. Call 665-3807. 4-24

FOR RENT IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1st - Sept. 1st, $120/month, all utilities. Call 253-7293. 4-24

2 Bedroom Apartment; 8 minutes from Campus; available June 1; married couple preferred. Call 665-3037 after 5 p.m. 4-22

HELP WANTED

Rock musicians needed to work weekends. Experience needed. Rhythm guitarist or organist and bass player. Call 546-6463. 4-17

Full-time and part-time waitresses wanted. Enfish Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst. 4-18

Girls for counter work making sandwiches and cold drinks. Hours: Mon. thru Fri. — 10-2 and 2-6; Sat. — 2-6. Needed for June, July and Aug. Apply Gene's Ice Cream Shoppe, Route 9, Hadley (near Hopkins Academy). 4-15-17-21-23-25

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
for
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970 4-17

JOE PICCOLO
for
PRESIDENT
Class of 1971 4-17

WANTED TO BUY

Men's 3-speed English bicycle, in good condition. Phone 533-8585. 4-18

SERVICES

Available for the position of Secretary to the Class of '71 — Joan McCourt. 4-17

PHOTOGRAPHY — All types of photography services, black and white or color portraitive prints for sale — creative photography. Can provide photographs for your thesis and term papers. Steve Thorp, UMass '69, Call 665-3167. 4-18

A PRESIDENT — Joe Piccolo for the Class of '71. 4-17

ROOMMATES WANTED

I have a two bedroom apartment in Puffton Village — I would like two other girls to share the apartment with me for June, July and Aug. If interested please call 549-1292. 4-18

Roommate wanted for summer (male), own bedroom, furnished with bed, desk, chair. With 11 people preferred, but no dropouts. $80/mo. including utilities. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5347. 4-23

PERSONAL

Questionnaire on Drugs: To those who filled one out many thanks. To those who have not yet done so, your cooperation would be greatly appreciated. 4-18

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Chevy 2 dr. sedan, V-8 stick, has had recent engine overhaul. Best offer. Call 549-1129, ask for Mike or leave message 4-24

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7815. 4-22

Rare M.G. Mark IIa (M.G.'s Cadillac) excellent cond., black, four speed, four door, four cyl., 1967 cc, walnut dash, red leather seats. Must sell $400, worth more, at Phi Sigma Kappa or 546-8815. 4-17

'63 Impala Conv new top/tires, P.S., auto., V-8, excel' nt condition. Leaving must sell. $795. Call Fred 546-6177. 4-17

1965 Olds Cutla-, P.S., 4 spd., good cond., must sell, $1,900. So. Hadley 533-9939 after 10:00 p.m. 4-17

1956 Cadillac, four door hdtp., radio and heater, $100 firm. Contact Bob 546-8065. 4-23

1961 Pontiac, excellent condition, low mileage, power brakes and steering. Best offer. Call Rick 549-1833. 4-18

1965 TR-4A red ww/Michelins, radio, clutch, top, exc., exhaust, battery, all new. Perfect cond. 546-9771 after 11:30 p.m. 4-18

'59 Studebaker, good condition. $75. Call Bob 282-8942. 4-23

1964 Tr. 4, new top, wire wheels, excellent condition. $900. Call 546-8658 between 6-7 p.m. 4-15-17-21

'61 Ford Galaxie 500 convertible, green, white top, black interior, new brakes, lines, shocks, springs, 289 cu. in. $1100, Call Jill — 546-8566 (be persistent). 4-17-22-23

1964 Pontiac Bonneville conv., excel. cond., must sell. Call Bill 545-2100. 4-18

FOR SALE

6 pc. Colonial liv. rm. suite — Grad student couple must relocate. All pieces excellent cond., 1 yr. old., $350.00 — phone after 3:30 p.m., 253-6755. 4-17-18-28-29-30

Motorcycle — Sears 8S., only 4,000 miles, crash bar, luggage rack, mirror, helmet, and faceplate included, $199. Call 6-7020. 4-24

1965 HONDA 50, excellent condition, barely used, $120. Call 253-7743. 4-24

Golf Irons (5-9), one set, $50; call 546-1073 in early a.m. 4-24

16mm Movie Camera "Pathe", practically new, same lense, never used. Price $150.00 (over $800.00 when new). Call 545-2014 between 9-11 p.m. 4-23

National Geographic, complete, 1961-1966; Natural History, 1967-1968 for sale. Call 256-8378. 4-18

1968 Honda 175 cc, Scrambler. Perfect condition. $475.00. Call 584-3643 late evening or early morning. 4-23

1967 Honda, CB 160, excellent condition, one owner, best offer. Call 253-3374 after 6 p.m. 4-17

Kawasaki 250, 1967, exc. condition, $375. 253-9611. 4-18

1966 Honda CB160, "Hi-Risers", — straight pipes w/muffs, excellent cond., all stock parts thrown in, $300. Call John 253-5103 after 5:30. 4-21

Wilson Tennis Racket — top condition, Jack Kramer autograph model, too heavy for owner. Call Durey 6-8380, reasonable price. 4-18

Mobilehome — Don't pay high rent, own your own mobilehome, 8 rms., all furnished, ready to live in. Close to Univ. and Northampton. Excellent investment. Available this summer. Call 247-5026. 4-18

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6095 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

1965 Honda CB 160 in good condition with two helmets. Price $290. Ask for Steve at 584-9163. 4-17

Photography: Passports, job applications taken, 24-hour service, discount prices on film processing. Call Lang's Photo, 825 Main St., Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 4-18

1967 HOUSE TRAILER, completely furn., air cond., only lived in two years. This trailer has retained its youthful complexion., 15 min. from Amherst. Asking $1795. Call 323-6784 eves. 4-17

"BUGS ARE BEAUTIFUL" — vinyl, removable stickers. Volkswagens love them on their rear deck lids or bumpers. $1.00 each, post-paid. Unique Products, Dept. MDC, P.O. Box 598, Rochester, Michigan 48063 4-18

'65 Honda, 305, excellent, condition plus helmet and accs. Call Marc evenings 6-6051. 4-18

A POST OPINION

And Now, Fair Harvard

(Editor's Note: The following is an editorial of Monday, April 14, reprinted in full from the Washington Post.)

Well, SDS has done it again. The intrepid kiddies of the New Left have disrupted another university - and this time the most prestigious of them all, Harvard itself. A mere minyan of student radicals - some 300 at the outside - occupying an administration building and forcing a confrontation with university authorities, managed, at the cost of a few bloodied heads, to evoke the sympathy and support of more than a thousand of their fellow students who are now boycotting classes and issuing ultimatums to the administration.

Actually, the accomplishment is not so wondrous. Spring is in the air even up in Cambridge; the sap is rising in saplings. Every university administration, even Harvard's, suffers from imperfections which can be cited as grievances; the vestiges of an ROTC program remain at Harvard, a relic of the time when young gentlemen escaped the worst ardors of military service by getting commissions instead of by absconding to Canada. The police in Cambridge, like the police everywhere, can always be counted upon to rough up college boys when afforded any reasonable pretext for doing so.

A little violence usually produces a lot of violence. The SDS boys like to pretend that there is no violence involved in taking over a university building and ousting the deans and other officials who have offices there; they call this nonviolence and make themselves out to be piteously aggrieved when any force is employed in response to it. They are also much given to laying down non-negotiable demands and then feeling terribly, terribly hurt when authorities decline to negotiate with them.

There are some who feel that it would have been safer of the Harvard administration to refrain from calling in the police to uphold the law, or to wait a while longer before doing so, although this did not work out very satisfactorily from the university's point of view when it was tried at Columbia. Perhaps they are right. We aren't prepared to render any clear judgement on such tactics at this distance from the campus. We are clear, however, that whether it could have been avoided or not, Harvard is now involved in a showdown which, for the sake of its future as an institution of learning, it had better win.

The Arts and Sciences faculty of Harvard convened on Friday and somewhat equivocally deplored both the SDS action and the use of force to overcome it. By a heavy majority they urged that the trespass charges lodged against the students arrested in the Univeristy Hall sit-in be dropped. Perhaps that is defensible; the charges are not very serious, anyway. But there is a handwringing quality about the faculty reaction that strikes us as ominous. The faculty is going to have to choose sides in this situation. There was much sound sense, we think, in the comment of Franklin L. Ford, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, that the "overriding issue" was the students' seizure of the building rather than the administration tactics in ending it.

The faculty voted also to establish a committee to investigate the causes of the incident and to mete out discipline in connection with it. It will be difficult but it should not be impossible to determine, through orderly and reasonable proceedings, who were the ringleaders in the riot. And these ringleaders, having betrayed the essential spirit of a university, ought to be expelled from its community. That expulsion should be discriminating and just; but it should be inexorable.

At the present time, there are reportedly some 1500 boycotters or protesters against the university administration. That is not so overwhelming a number in an institution with a student body in the neighborhood of 15,000. One of the most conspicuous characteristics of the New Left is an ardent advocacy of "rights" for themselves alongside a total indifference to the rights of others. It may be that there are those at Harvard who would rather take ROTC than go off to Canada; and why should they not be allowed to do so, so long as the program is not compulsory and is not accorded academic credit. It may be that a majority of the students at Harvard would like to get what education they can from the faculty without striving to destroy the institution or to make it over in conformity with the blueprints of the New Left.

Harvard has a responsibility to continue functioning for the students who like it as it is and for those who want to improve it gradually and by orderly processes. It has a responsibility, too, to its faculty, to its alumni and to the American public. And all these groups have a responsibility to Harvard - a responsibility entailing loyalty to what Harvard has stood for through three centuries. That loyalty may now be tested.

Writing last fall in HARVARD TODAY, an alumni publication, Dean Ford observed that faculties play an "absolutely pivotal role in dealing with student unrest. I know of no case of a major blow-up in a university," he said, "where a fraction of the faculty had not contributed to the trouble by fudging the issues, whether moral, legal or simply rational." There are symptoms of division and confusion in the Harvard faculty today - symptoms which arise, perhaps, out of individual feelings of culpability or carelessness. They are the university's chief danger.

Harvard, whatever her shortcomings, has indubitable claims to loyalty. She stood fast some years ago against the bullying of Joe McCarthy in a period of national hysteria; she will stand fast against the bullying of the New Left today in a period of national self-condemnation. The traditions of civility, or rationality, of inquiry, of hospitality to change that have long characterized Harvard, command the faith and the support of all who care for those traditions.

Campus Comment

I Smell One

To the editor:

Some people may see rats in the pond; but I smell one at Whitmore. The first thing I thought of when I heard of the $50 room deposit was "who's going to get all the interest?" I roughly calculated it at about the same amount as Mr. Story's (MDC Apr. 16) $25,000 estimate. $25,000 is a lot of money! Then one night I was listening to WMUA and a group was discussing the deposit. I called in and a spokesman for the administration laughed off my question and said, "Well, the university employees have been given pay hikes and the interest will be used for that." In short, I believe someone wants a little more bread and has been using the ruse that it's for our own good to pay $50 more so we won't have to pay more.

Ed McCabe

Oh Come On!

To the editor:

It has been brought to my attention that I used obsolete nomenclature in my letter-to-the-editor which appeared in the MDC on Tuesday of this week concerning a muskrat in the campus pond. Although the scientific names which I used for the brown rat and the muskrat are not the currently accepted terms, they are, nevertheless, specific enough for identification.

I extend my sincere apologies to Mr. Edward Toth, who identified the muskrat to me by common name ONLY. It was entirely my error in reference to the scientific name.

David Caporello

A Reaction

To the editor:

I used to think that love of truth and freedom of inquiry were still the basic principles of the campus. So long as we had a business image where the president is the head of the concern, the campus, I thought, was a very different place from, say, the hospital, whose efficient administrators rarely accumulate enough power to control the medical work of the doctors who practice in the hospital.

But the history of organized medicine shows all too clearly that doctors can repress doctors. Similarly, faculty can stifle faculty.

Because we are concerned with the lack of internal democracy in the History Department as regards tenure and promotion, we pledge ourselves to work for student representation at the ad hoc committee and departmental level in order to help prevent loss of valuable and innovative faculty over internecine departmental warfare. We would also like to deplore President Ledrie's and Provost Tippo's singular lack of communication with concerned members of the department other than those with longstanding tenure.

Any student is welcome to join us. History majors are especially needed. Please call Kent Barclay at 546-7025.

Kent Barclay, Chairman

U.S. for the real and present evils he failed to prevent.

To use the occasion of his visit to affirm one's rejection of those evils is appropriate. But that witness is not dependent upon being rude by Mr. Humphrey nor is it appropriately made by being funny.

G. P. Barber

"Oh, No!"

Editorial Policy

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content with no proof reading or censorship exercised by faculty or administration prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, student body as a whole, or the editorial board as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

All letters should be addressed "To the editor", set over 60 characters, and typed double space. All letters must be signed to be considered for publication. Names will be withheld upon request, if the name of the writer is known to us, otherwise unsigned letters will be discarded. We reserve the right to edit, condense, correct factual errors, and clarity points made in all letters. Because of the great volume of letters that we receive every day, it is not possible for us to print every letter that we receive, though each will be considered for publication.

Free Speech

To the editor:

Anyone who says that the visit to UMass by Hubert Humphrey requires such confrontation as would interfere with his free movement on campus or his ability to make his views heard is wrong.

Though I can understand the argument which leads to the conclusion, I reject the above. I think the argument fails - most clearly because it substitutes symbol for reality: the X-Vice President of the U.S. for the real and present evils he failed to prevent.

"Wonder why grownups always have enough money for killin' and never enough for livin'?"

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Egstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wendrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS — Richard Boucher, Claudia Homberg
NEWS STAFF — Brenda Gouveia, Pat Lempart
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Gunnar Myrebeck, Ara Dedekian

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

AFTER BLACK POWER, WOMEN'S LIBERATION

Once upon a time - say, ten or even five years ago - a Liberated Woman was somebody who had sex before marriage and a job afterward. Once upon the same time, a Liberated Zone was any foreign place lucky enough to have an American army in it. Both ideas seem antiquated now, and for pretty much the same reason: Liberation isn't exposure to the American values of Mom-and-apple-pie anymore (not even if Mom is allowed to work in an office and vote once in a while); it's the escape from them.

What do women want? The feminist movement is in no way connected to the Bloomingdale - centered, ask-not-what-I-can-do-for-myself-ask-what-my-husband-can-do-for-me ladies of Manhattan, who are said by sociologists to be "liberated". Nor do the house-bound matriarchs of Queens and the Bronx get much satisfaction out of reading about feminist escapades. On the contrary, the whole thing alienates them by being (a) radical and (b) young.

The women behind it, and influenced by it, usually turn out to be white, serious, well-educated girls; the same sort who have labored hard in what is loosely known as the Movement, from the Southern sit-ins of nine years ago to the current attacks on the military-industrial-educational complex. They have been jailed, beaten and Maced side-by-side with their social-activist male counterparts. (It's wonderful to see how quickly police from Selma to Chicago get over a reluctance to hit women.) They have marched on Senate committees, Pentagon hawks, their own college presidents and the Chase Manhattan Bank.

But once back in the bosom of SDS, they found themselves typing and making coffee.

"When it comes to decision-making or being taken seriously in meetings," said one revolutionary theorist from Berkeley, "we might as well join the Young Republicans."

Such grumbling noises were being made aloud at Movement meetings as early as five years ago, but women were ridiculed or argued down by men (as well as some "Uncle Tom" women). Eventually, they were assured, "the woman question" would come up on the list of radical priorities - as decided on by radical men. Meanwhile, more backstage work, more mimeographing, more secondary role-playing around the revolutionary cells and apartment-communes. And, to be honest, more reluctance to leave the secondary role and lose male approval.

Finally, women began to "rap" (talk, analyze, in radical-ese) about their essential second-classness, forming women's causes inside the Movement in much the same way Black Power groups had done. And once together they made a lot of discoveries: that they shared more problems wit h women of different classes, for instance, than they did with men of their own; that they liked and respected each other (if women don't want to work with women, as Negroes used to reject other Negroes, it's usually because they believe the myth of their own inferiority), and that, as black militants kept explaining to white liberals, "You don't get radicalized fighting other people's battles."

Discussions included the parallel myths about women and Negroes (that both have smaller brains than white men, childlike natures, natural "goodness", limited rationality, supportive roles to white men, etc.); the paternalistic family system as prototype for capitalistic society (see Marx and Engels); the conclusion that society can't be restructured. Men are kept out of the class, but it is bigger and lasts longer than any other at the school.

At the SDS Convention in 1967, women were still saying such integrationist things as "The struggle for the liberation of women must be part of the larger fight for freedom." Many Movement women still are. But members of groups like the Southern Student Organizing Committee and New York Radical Women (a loose coalition of various radical groups whose representatives meet once a month) withdrew to start concentrating on their own problems. They couldn't become black or risk jail by burning their draft cards, but they could change society from the bottom up by radicalizing (engaging with basic truth) the consciousness of women; by going into the streets on such most publically active at the mo-women's issues as abortion, free ment, has recapitulated the whole childcare centers, and a final break WLM in its short history. Women with the 19th-century definition of activists rebelled against their sub-females as sex objects whose main ordinate position, but still tried to function is to service men and their work within the Movement until a children.

All this happened not so much by organization as contagion. What has come to be known in the last two years or so as the Women's Liberation Movement (WLM) is no more pin-downable than the Black Power Movement; maybe less so, because white groups tend to be less structured, more skittish about leadership than black ones. Nonetheless, when the WLM had its first of common concern . . . our de-national conference last fall, women from 20 states and Canada showed up on a month's notice. A newsletter, VOICE OF THE WOMENS LIBERATION MOVEMENT, is published in Chicago. WLM-minded groups are springing up on dozens of campuses where they add special student concerns to their activities; professors who assume women aren't "serious" about careers; advisers who pressure girls toward marriage or traditionally feminine jobs (would-be Negro doctors are told to be veterinarians, would-be women doctors are told to be nurses), and faculties or administrations where few or no women are honored in authority.

Attendance at the workshop in Women's Liberation seems indicative of interest in this cause at UMass. (Photo by Bill Dickinson).

Quiet groups seem to be forming everywhere, from the New Women in Manhattan to The Feminists in Oceanside. Red-stockings, the peace-and-liberation protest at Nixon's Inaugural, where girls spoke and were booed by their own fellow radicals. After that moment of truth, they reformed as part of "an independent revolutionary movement, potentially representing half the population. We intend to make our own analysis of the system . . . Although we may cooperate with radical men on matters mand for freedom involves not only the overthrow of capitalism, but the destruction of the patriarchal system."

WOMEN

If all this sounds far-out, Utopian, elitist, unnecessary or otherwise unlikely to be the next big thing in revolutions, consider two facts: (1) the WLM is growing so rapidly that even its most cheerful proselytizers are surprised, spreading not only along the infrastructure of the existing co-ed Movement, but into a political territory where anti-Vietnam petitions have rarely been seen; and (2) there are a couple of mass movements, from highly organized through just restless, that the WLM might merge with, becoming sort of a revolutionary vanguard.

The older, middle-class women come first, the ones who tried hard to play subordinate roles in the suburbs according to the post-war-baby-boom-women's magazine idyll but found Something Missing, Betty Friedan, who explained their plight clearly and compassionately in THE FEMININE MYSTIQUE, named that Something: rewarding work. But when these women went out to find jobs, they found a lot of hometruths instead.

For instance, there is hardly a hierarchy in the country-business, union, government, educational, religious, whatever - that doesn't discriminate against women above the secretarial level. Women with some college education earn less than men who get as far as eighth grade. The median income of white women employed full time is less than that of white men and Negro men. The gap between women's pay and men's pay gets greater every year, even though the number of women in the labor force increases (they are now a third of all workers). Forty-three states have "protection legislation" limiting the hours and place a woman can work; legislation that is, as Governor Rockefeller admitted last year, "more often protective of men." The subtler, psychological punishment s for stepping out of woman's traditional "service" role are considerable. (Being called "unfeminine," "a bad mother" or "a castrating woman", to name a traditional few.) And, to top it all off, the problem of servants or child care often proves insurmountable after others are solved.

The middle-class, educated and disillusioned group gets larger with each college graduation. National Organization for Women (NOW) - founded in 1966 by Betty Friedan among others, "to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society NOW, exercising all the privileges and responsibilities thereof in truly equal partnership with men" - is a very effective voice of this group, concentrating on such reforms as getting irrelevant sex-designations out of Help Wanted ads and implementing Equal Employment Opportunity laws.

If the WLM can feel solidarity with the hated middle class, and vice versa, then an alliance with the second mass movement - poor women of all colors - should be no problem. They are already organized around welfare problems, free day-care centers, for mothers who must work, and food prices. For them, equal pay, unequal training and sex discrimination for jobs (not to mention the woman-punishing rules of welfare) exact a daily price: Of all the families living below the poverty level, 40 per cent are headed by women.

There is plenty of opposition to this kind of thinking, from women as well as men. Having one's traditional role questioned is not a very comfortable experience; perhaps especially for women, who have been able to remain children, and to benefit from work they did not and could not do. Marriage wouldn't go straight down the drain, as traditionalists keep predicting. Women's liberation might must hurry up some sort of companionate marriage that seems to be developing anyway.

But there is bound to be a time of, as social anthropologist Lionel Tiger puts it, "increased personal acrimony" even if the revolution fails and women go right back to darning socks. (Masculinity doesn't depend on the subservience of others, but it will take us a while to find that out.) It might be helpful to men - and good for women's liberation - if they just keep repeating key phrases like, No more guilt, No more alimony, Fewer boring women, Fewer bitchy women, No more tyrants with all human ambition confined to the home, No more women trying to be masculine because it's a Man's World . . . (and maybe one more round of "No more alimony") until the acrimony has stopped.

Because the idea is, in the long run, that women's liberation will be men's liberation, too.

Gloria Steinem

Reprinted from "New York" Magazine

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are available now until April 18, 1969 for the following Student Senate seats:

CANCE	JAMES
COMMUTERS (2)	J.Q.A. LOWER
FIELD (1)	LEACH

FRATERNITIES (1)

Papers are available in the RSO Activities office. Completed nomination papers must be returned by 5:30 P.M. April 18. Drawings for ballot position will occur at that time.

Elections shall be April 24. Dorm elections in the dorms, 6:00 to 9:00 P.M. Commuter and Fraternity elections in the Student Union 9:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
Delivery Special
PASTRAMI GRINDER
Thurs, Fri., Sat.
April 17, 18, 19
69¢
253-9336

THE FINE ARTS COUNCIL
and
THE DEPARTMENT OF ROMANCE LANGUAGES
presents
Le Mariage de Figaro
a film by La Comdie Francaise
APRIL 17 — 8:30
Thompson 104 FREE

THREE C's
Greeting Cards for Every Occasion
Candies -- Fresh Deliveries Weekly
Finest Papetries of Every Description
Quality Gifts to Suit Everyone
Engraved Invitations and Announcements
Supplies for School and Office
Candles in Every Size and Color
191 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 9 A.M.-5:30 P.M. Daily
Rear Entrance — Free Parking in rear

Officer Candidate Training
for
Naval Aviation
Interviews will be conducted by navy representatives at the Springfield Holiday Inn April 16th thru 19th.
Qualifying mental examinations may be taken without obligation. Transportation is available on request.
Call 781-0900 9 A.M. to 8:00 P.M.

Here pictured left to right are Val Sano, Lynn Russell, and Dottie Gajewski members of the Precisionettes Drill Team who were recruiting in the Student Union for their annual tryouts, to be held next week. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens).

Precisionettes Place Second In National Competition

For the second consecutive year, the University of Massachusetts' Precisionettes have returned with the second place trophy from the National Cherry Blossom Festival Drill Team Championships in Washington, D.C. Competing in the drill meet were thirty-three men's and women's teams from the continental United States and Puerto Rico. The UMass team received a 727 point rating based on a 1000 point scale giving them the second place title.

The possible 1000 points is broken down to first 500 points for the makeup of the routine itself, and then 500 points for the team's performance of the routine. Eact routine was limited to only eight minutes. The Precisionettes' routine was made up by the girls themselves and directed by Commanding Officer Regina Shepard.

Precisionettes' drill routines are unique to the drill world. Last year they introduced many new steps and types of movements which appeared in the routines of teams competing this year. Also a credit to the team is the fact that only five of the present twenty-two members were with the team last year. The appeal of the feminine drill being introduced by the group is quickly becoming the norm for women's drill.

Providing the competition for the Precisionettes were teams from Ohio State University, Utah State, third place winners Western Kentucky University (636 points), and the winning team from East Tennessee State (777 points).

On most of these campuses women's drill is a popular activity Ohio State University alone has three women's drill teams. At Western Kentucky there is an annual turnout of about 400 girls to try out for the junior varsity or varsity drill team. The Precisionettes have a twenty-two member team selected from an annual turnout of about forty girls.

The Precisionettes are a National Second Place team. More important, however, is the credit this small group of girls is giving to the University through introducing their unique trick drill, spending countless hours perfecting it, and then going on to Washington to beat more experienced teams.

Exam Schedule

FINAL EXAMINATIONS

MICBIO	1L0 2D	PTGIC	10E 2D	ANTH	260 3D	SOCIOL	270 5A	SPNISH	252 2D	ZOOL	221 LC
	2L0 9B		10L 8A		263 9A		282 1B		257 7C		223 LD
	3L0 6C		10M 5A		280 7D		286 8B		260 5A		225 7B
ENTG	201 2D		10N 3A		284 6D		292 1C		283 7C		260 1D
	211 3C		10T 5A		308 5A		295 9B		285 5C		271 7C
	212 1C		10B 2A		309 6D		296 6B		287 1D		275 7B
	219 6A		110 1A		331 1D		297 8B		289 1A		302 5C
	221 8D		112 2D		345 5A	SPAN	010 5D		289 1A		306 5D
	222 2D		11A 7D	PUB RL	125 7C		020 5D		361 3D		308 6A
	231 7A		252 3D		302 4D		110 5D		386 3C		335 7C
	236 3D		254 5A		308 7B		120 5D		387 5D		360 8B
	271 7C		256 8C		311 6B		130 3A		390 4D		370 6C
MUSIC	101-1 8D		264 1D		332 7B		140 5D	STATIS	121 3D
	101-4 4D		272 7C		317 7B		141 3B		126 4B
	112 5A		276 5C		362 4A		142 1C		251 8C
	131 6C		288 8D		372 3B		181 4B		252 7A
	202 2C		319 8D		373 5B		182 1B		366 7C
	212 6C		396 1C		380 5C		260 8D	SWEDSH	165 6C
	217 4B		187 7C		382 9A		290 8C	TCEA	123 3D
	231 7B		388 7C		384 5D		316 6C		126 6C
NF	127 5A		191 7A	REC	103 7B		330 6C		128 7C
	130 4B	FR ADM	251 3A		111 1D		372 8B		132 1B
	156 6D		266 2D		230 3A		381 1B		253 8A
	253 7A	FLPNTH	350 6A		351 5A	SPEECH	101 9B		265 9A
	351 6A	FLSOTL	100 6D	RUSS	010 5A		108 9A		266 3D
	371 8B		105 3C		120 5A		109 8D		266 2A
	373 6A		210 5C		125 6B		107 3C		279 7B
NURSE	111 7C		215 8C		140 8B		325 3A		287 7D
	201 3A		260 5D		253 2B		133 2C		388 6A
	211 2A		265 9A		251 2B		135 LC	WOTECH	202 2C
	231 3B		270 3C		257 3B		181 2D		208 6C
	302 1D	POLISH	1L0 2D		262 1C		182 3B		208 6C
PHYL	105 1D	PONT	120 5D		266 9C		201 5D		238 7C
	106 1B		1A0 3A		265 9B		202 5A	WILDLF	262 6C
	130 3C		162 5B		272 7C		203 5A	WO FR	104 1A
	135 6A	PSTCH	101 7D	SOCIOL	101 8B		206 7C		263 1C
	162 2C		102 7D		222 2B		222 2B		353 7D
	206 1C		105 5B		251 6B		225 1A		370 3D
	218 7C		215 6C		256 5C		227 5A		377 5C
	226 3B		221 8B		257 8C		228 2B		390 6D
	230 LB		233 7C		260 5B		230 7C	ZOOL	103 2B
	266 1D		235 LC		259 8D		284 5C		135 3C
	280 LC		241 1C		261 5C		286 1B		138 6C
	281 5A		253 LB		270 8B		248 1D		145 2B
	290 LD		261 8A		275 6D		251 7A		200 3D

throw your order our way
RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
253-9336
FREE DELIVERY
Saturday and Sunday
call by 3 — receive by 4:00
call by 4 — receive by 5:30
call by 5 — receive by 6:30

DUE TO A LACK OF INTEREST TOMORROW HAS BEEN CANCELLED.

Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it?
But what if everybody in this country were to throw their hands up in despair and say they don't give a hoot.
Indeed, there would be no tomorrow.
But fortunately, Americans have a way of solving their problems.
And that's just what's going to happen in these troubled times. Simply because it's always been an American tradition.
Now, how can you as one little 'ole citizen in this big, wide country of ours be of any help?
Well, think about U.S. Savings Bonds.

No, it isn't an immediate remedy for all our ills. But it helps.
If everybody were to buy Bonds, your country would be stronger economically to wipe out some of those scars we've been sporting.
Of course, everybody would be helping themselves too. If you were to sign up for Payroll Savings at work, you'd have quite a nice nest egg for yourself one of these days.
For things like college educations, that new home, or a secure retirement.
So think about U.S. Savings Bonds today.
And then go on and sign up. Tomorrow.

Take stock in America

"Fascinating, well balanced" — San Francisco Chronicle
"Persuasive . . . Exciting . . . Excruciating beauty!" —The Stanford Daily
"Joyous use of imagery, color, and spontaneity . . . Do go see these films!" — The Daily Californian (UC at Berkeley)
presents
Genesis 1
A two-hour collection of the finest experimental and documentary films being produced by exciting, new student filmmakers.
Berkshire Clubroom Monday, April 21 7:00 and 9:30 p.m.
Tuesday, April 22 7:00 p.m.
Thompson Auditorium Tuesday, April 22 8:30 p.m.
Wednesday, April 23 8:30 p.m.
Thursday, April 24 8:30 p.m.
$1.50 students — $2.00 general
Advance tickets at Student Union Box Office

MENU FOR "CHINESE NIGHT"

APRIL 17, 1969

Egg Drop Soup (Chi Tan T'ang), Chinese Egg Roll (Chi Tan Chuan), Chicken Chow Mein (Chu Jo Tsasui), Dry Noodles, Fried Rice (Cha Fan), Sauteed Broccoli/Onion Rings (Ch'ao Kai Lan Ts'ai), Cucumber Salad (Liang Pan Huang Kua), Pineapple Salad (Liang Pan Po Lo), Tossed Salad, Fortune Cookies, Sponge Cake (Gay Don Go), Tea.

To be served in all Dining Commons Thursday night.

R.N.'s and L.P.N's
NEEDED
in small, progressive, well-equipped, suburban hospital with excellent fringe benefits and shift differentials paid. Please contact:
DIRECTOR OF NURSES
Wing Memorial Hospital
PALMER, MASS. 01069
Tel. 283-7651
We invite your inspection.

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
Delivery Special
PASTRAMI GRINDER
Thurs, Fri., Sat.
April 17, 18, 19
69¢
253-9336

Get a full pint of beauty and style from
HALF PINT
Fun for day or evening, this witty little pump of rich, supple leather. Oversized tongue up front is delightfully feminine with a pert matching gosgrain bow. Beautifully comfortable, too. Black patent and bone leather.
FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES BOLLES

Notices

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Bus will be at SU. at 11 Saturday. Picnic at Quabbin Reservoir is planned. Dress rough - see signup sheet. Call 546-6421 for information.

ASSASSINATION OF GOD
There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. for anyone interested in working on the May 9th "Assassination of God: A Celebration" in Thompson 106, tonight.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Bayden Gym, tomorrow at 8 p.m. All welcome. Dances taught.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY
Very important meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U.

CHESS CLUB
All interested faculty and students who would like to participate in an exciting chess tournament may either apply to the Chess Club in person Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. in the New Hatch or call Izak Mutlu, 586-2939 during any afternoon or evening.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH
Forum: Men of Letters in the Modern World, Speaker: Richard Tehon from UCLA to speak on "Concepts of Literature. Tomorrow at 4 p.m. in SBA 120.

Lost - Pair of brown rimmed eye glasses. Reward. Call 6-6235.

Lost - One gold girl's bicycle with 3 speed grip control. Please call 253-2035 or place in S.U. bike-rack.

Found - Radio, near S.W. Call 6-8859.

PEACE CORPS
Returned volunteers from the Peace Corps will discuss anything tonight at 8 p.m. at Coolidge 12th floor lounge.

W.A.A.
Voting for the Women's Athletic Association officers will be today in the S.U. Lobby from 9 a.m. to 12 and in WOPE Lobby from 12:30-4:30 p.m. All women students who have participated in intramural or extramural activities at WOPE this year are eligible and urged to vote. At the voting table you can pick up information concerning the W.A.A. Banquet and Desert Hour to be held in North Dining Commons on May 8 at 7 p.m. All members of W.A.A. are invited.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting at 4 p.m. today in 209 Hampshire House. All welcome.

SCI-FI CLUB
Get your copy of the Zobee now, A new edition is out with a special feature on Edgar Rice Burroughs. We need more material for our next issue, coming out soon. Contact Adrienne Shanter or Pat Corey for information. Will the person who took our Isaac Asimov tape please return it as it is unduplicable.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
The program is in need of more volunteers to help the mentally retarded. A free bus will leave the S.U. at 1:15 and Patterson House at 1:20 Saturday.

APRIL 24 IS NOT SPRING DAY.

MILITARY BALL
A Military Ball will be held Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Dress formal. Tickets now on sale at Dickinson Hall, $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

INDIA ASSOCIATION
Hindi movie, "Chaudhvin Ko Chond" ("The Lover's Moon), will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sun., April 20, at Mahar Aud. English subtitles.

SMOLT ANNOUNCEMENT
Professor Joram Lindenstrauss of the University of Jerusalem and Visiting Professor of the University of California at Berkeley will speak on the topic: "On Absolutely Summing Operators on Lp Spaces" today at 2:30 p.m. in the Mathematics Colloquium Rm., Arnold House.

SENATE BUDGETS COMMITTEE
Any group wishing to apply for an SATF appropriation for the fiscal year 1969-70 must contact the committee on or before tomorrow. Jim Albert, Chairman, 701, Webster, 6-7207.

BRETT HOUSE
Brett will hold a discussion and question and answer period with the Martin Luther King Council today at 8 p.m. in the Brett Lobby.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Business meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm. today. Important.

SOCIOLOGY 101
UMass Development Film, "A Giant Step" will be shown in Mahar today at 9:05, 10:10, and 1:25. Visitors welcome.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
Meeting today at 7:30 in Grinnell Arena for election of officers, plans for the spring horse show, and exhibition by Bay State Flintlock. Refreshments.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting Thurs., April 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Color training film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump should attend.

NEWMAN CLUB
Community Mass tonight at 5 p.m. in the Chapel.

HILLEL
Friday night services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Speaker will be Steve Selby on "An Hasidic Experience". Sat. services at 9:45 in the Worcester Rm.

EASTMAN LANE JOGGING CLUB
Meets at Knowlton lobby on Mon., Wed., and Fri. at 5:30 p.m. for some good old fashioned exercise.

Lost -Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity pin. Reward. Contact Sheila, 546-6881.

INTER VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
We have a book table in the lobby of the S.U. today to sell books on various aspects of Christianity. Come and talk to us.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN
Tryouts for Precisionettes begins tonight at 7 p.m. in Bayden Main Gym. All undergraduate women welcome.

ENGAGEMENTS
Maureen Hogan, Mt. Mercy College, Iowa, to Samuel Gallo, '69, Pi Lambda Phi.
Jo-Anne Godoire, '72, Mary Lyon, to Paul Chapin, '72, Michigan State.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Black puppy with white markings. Please contact Peach Carps booth in lobby of S.U. Reward.
Lost - One green bookbag and pocketbook on route 9. Please return to Ruth, 549-2735, 253-9215.
Lost - Women's prescription sunglasses in S.W. area. Oval tortoise shell. Reward. Contact Joyce Carlson, 253 9163, 253-9173, 545-2516 545 2517.
Lost - UMass class ring with initial DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Lost - Gold cloth glasses case with prescription sunglasses and ID's. Call Fran, 205 Knowlton.

3 Theatres Under 1 Roof
Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 Amherst 256-6411
Now Showing Cinema 2
"I ENJOYED 'GREETINGS'" Fresh humor. Funny and good-natured. A whole gallery of new, young, talented performers." Pauline Kael The New Yorker
Greetings
A comedy that takes a look at the needs and problems of contemporary American youth
Nightly ex. Fri.-Sat. at 7:15-9
Fri - Sat. 6:15 - 8 - 9:45
Cinema 1 3rd & Final Week!
— Shown Nightly at 7 & 9:15 —
Nominated for 3 Academy Awards
"Best Supporting Actress"
"Best Supporting Actor"
"Best Story & Screen Play"
JOHN CASSAVETES' FACES

BOLD
CHEQUERS
TUES. and THURS. 9-12
256-8189

NOW SHOWING
Daily Riot 8:55
Co-hit 7:15
Sat., Riot 6:05 - 9:20
Sun., co-hit 4:30 - 7:40
AMHERST Cinema
'WILLIAM CASTLE PRODUCTION /RIOT/ TECHNICOLOR A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
plus Jules Dassin's "UP-TIGHT"

"A DELICATE MASTERPIECE... IT OFFERS BEAUTY, SENSUALITY, AND PERFECT TASTE!" — GENET, THE NEW YORKER
PARAMOUNT PICTURES presents a MIC BOGNO Production Supervised by MICHELE MORGAN MICHEL PICCOLI PIERRE CLEMENTI and CATHERINE DENEUVE
"Benjamin"
THE DIARY OF AN INNOCENT YOUNG BOY
DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Rte. 5 and 10 So. Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8746
also
Michael York, Jeremy Kemp
STRANGE AFFAIR
Showtime 7:30
Sun.: Benjamin 7:30

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	L	A	S	■	D	E	A	L	■	S	P	Y
L	E	A	P	■	A	N	T	■	V	O	L
B	A	R	R	I	N	G	■	E	R	I	E
■	■	I	N	G	A	■	A	T	O	L	L
S	A	U	N	T	E	R	■	A	S	■	■
P	I	N	T	■	N	I	S	■	S	I	T
A	D	■	S	I	N	■	P	E	R	■	R	A
R	E	D	■	H	A	M	■	D	E	M	O	N
■	■	S	E	A	■	A	N	A	L	Y	S	E
P	A	C	T	S	■	U	R	T	A	■	■	■
A	L	A	■	P	A	■	G	E	A	M	A	N
T	E	S	■	A	N	T	A	■	S	T	E	P
S	P	E	■	T	A	■	S	T	E	P	■	■

17

1-Edge
4-Hail
8-Girl's name
12-Fuss
13-Turkish regiment
14-Goddess of discord
15-Unit of Japanese currency
16-Subdivision of a chapter
18-Underworld
20-Fortitude
21-Hear
22-Affirmative
23-Assistant
27-Lift with lever
29-Pronoun
30-Weary
31-Three-toed sloth
32-Temporary bed
33-Metal fastener
34-Indefinite article
35-Sharpen
37-Range of knowledge
38-Nahoor sheep
39-Prophet
40-Stitch
41-Cooled lava
42-Lavish fondness on 44-Change
47-Inhabitants
51-Inlet
52-Pilaster
53-Harvest
54-Skill
55-Toll
56-Periods of time
57-Footlike part

DOWN
1-Bold
2-Mental image
3-Day of week
4-Headgear (pl.)
5-A state (abbr.)
6-Bigger
7-Falsifiers
8-Sure
9-Anglo-Saxon money
10-Tear
11-Residue
17-Enlisted man (colloq.)
19-Latin conjunction
22-Still
24-Prefix: not
25-College official
26-Girl's name
27-Free ticket
28-Ceremony
29-Jump
30-Metal
32-Friendly
33-Church bench
36-Note of scale
37-Sharper
38-Petty ruler
40-Cubic meter
41-Man's nickname
43-Hypothetical force
44-Snakes
45-Ireland
46-Rodents
47-Knock
48-Compass point
49-Music: as written
50-Chinese pagoda

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 17

Stickmen Club Middlebury, 8-3

O'Connor Nets 3 Scores Redmen Remain Unbeaten

MIDDLEBURY, VT. - Kevin O'Connor has scored big goals for three years and the UMass lacrosse co-captain got three more yesterday, and the Redmen overhauled a stubborn Middlebury team, 8-3. The win was the third straight for UMass, while the loss dropped the Panthers from the undefeated ranks to a record of 5-1.

It could have been a costly win for the Redmen however, as high-scoring Carl Schulthesis was injured in the third period and is in the infirmary with a knee injury. The seriousness of the casualty won't be known probably for a couple of days but following the injury Schulthesis did not play and was hobbling badly.

The contest was a rough physical one with a bunch of penalties being called on both sides. Middlebury, as expected, came out psyched up and were physically in control for the first minutes of the game. However O'Connor broke the ice for UMass.

The Franklin Square, N.Y. native took a feed from attack mate Gary Vassar and scored at 3:15 of the first period. Play went up and down both ends of the field for the next minutes until Redman attacker Tom Malone scored an unassisted marker at 7:20 of the first quarter to up the UMass lead to 2-0.

Middlebury, however, came back at 12:15 of the period to close the margin to 2-1 at the end of the first quarter. The Redmen then took control.

Schulthesis on a Malone assist scored in the first minute of the period. Then just minutes later, Vassar took a feed from Malone on the crease and quick-sticked the ball in and gave the visitors a 4-1 lead at halftime.

Steve Anderson got the fifth UMass goal at 3:32 of the third period off an O'Connor assist. Then on an extra man situation, Schulthesis scored at 8:56. It wa s on this play that the big junior was clipped taking his shot and did not see any further action.

Thirty seconds later, UMass scored again as O'Connor chalked up another score with help from Vassar. Middlebury came back with a score and made it 7-2 at the end of the period.

O'Connor scored the last U-Mass goal, again on a Vassar assist, while Middlebury scored in the final minutes to make the final score, 8-2.

UMass coach Dick Garber called the game "A rock 'em sock 'em contest, a real rough one." He had special praise for goalie John Orr and defenseman Al Ruggiano, both sophomores and both starting their firs t game. He also praised Tom Tufts and the entire defensive corps.

Garber said "The key to this win was the outstanding defensive play of the midfielders and defensemen. They played real well."

Offensively, the Redmen got 42 shots and as Garber said, "We should have scored more, but our shooting was off. With that many shots, we should be in the double figures.

There was a big crowd of UMass student s who made the long two hour trip and as Garber said, "They saw a real good game."

The Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 120
THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1969

Tonight's Intramurals

SOCCER

2	4:40	2 vs. 3
3	4:40	4 vs. 5
4	4:40	1 vs. 2
5	4:40	3 vs. 4
6	4:40	5 vs. 6
2	5:20	2 vs. 3
3	5:20	4 vs. 5
4	5:20	1 vs. 2
5	5:20	3 vs. 4
6	5:20	5 vs. 6

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	LML vs. Turtles
6	5:30	Bruisers A vs. Holes
7	5:30	Heads vs. Bismarks
8	5:30	Bulldogs vs. Marauders
9	5:30	Hawks vs. Flaming A
10	5:30	Lemons vs. Aces
11	5:30	Limes vs. Phallics
1	6:30	SPE vs. PSD
2	6:30	DC vs. ATG
3	6:30	ZN vs. TEP
4	6:30	PSK vs. PMD
1	7:30	TKE vs. SAM
2	7:30	PLP vs. ASP
3	7:30	APO vs. LCA
4	7:30	TSP vs. AEP
1	8:30	Giants vs. Giants
2	8:30	Eagles vs. Elms
3	8:30	Maples vs. Oaks
4	8:30	Maroons vs. Pines
1	9:30	Brigade vs. Pipers
2	9:30	Buffaloes vs. Hemlocks
3	9:30	Barracudas vs. Bruins
4	9:30	Redwoods vs. Broncos
1	10:30	Bucks vs. Foul Balls
2	10:30	Band vs. 5c Bags
3	10:30	Cool Cons 2 vs. 3 M's
4	10:30	Ironmen B vs. Zeppelins

IN YOUR FACE - UMass attackman Tom Malone (23) rifles a shot off the head of the Boston State Goalie during action last Saturday. The Redmen remained unbeaten with a win over Middlebury yesterday. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Schedules are Showered Raindrops Ruin Redmen

Rain played havoc with UMass scheduling yesterday as varsity, junior varsity and freshman baseball games were postponed and also a tennis match was cancelled.

The varsity Redmen were to play A.I.C. yesterday in Springfield, but the game was called off early in the day. A.I.C. officials were reported to be desiring a make-up game for today but that was impossible for UMass since the Redmen leave early tomorrow for weekend games with Vermont.

Tentatively, the game will be played either Sunday or Monday but nothing final was to be learned until sometime today.

The junior varsity meanwhile was rained out of their debut as was the freshmen nine. The frosh had been scheduled to play Worcester Academy.

Making the trip to Worcester, the Little Redmen suited themselves up as it was hoped that the rain would stop so that the game might be played. They arrived at the field and loosened up on the sidelines for about half an hour.

The rain, however, lingered on and the game was finally postponed, with no rescheduling date yet decided upon.

The tennis match, a big one with M.I.T. was cancelled, with the match being re-scheduled for April 23 at Boyden.

Sox Sock but Still Sink

BOSTON (AP) - Baltimore pounded out 16 hits and outlasted Boston Wednesday 11-8 in a game called by rain in the bottom of the eighth despite a spectacular debut by Red Sox rookie Billy Conigliaro, who hit two homers in his first major league start. Seven home runs were hit in the wild game.

Don Buford drove in four runs with a homer and two singles to pace the Baltimore assault. Brooks Robinson smashed a three-run homer, Paul Blair hit a sole shot and Dave Johnson contributed four straight singles.

The 21-year-old Conigliaro, playing right field because his older brother Tony was out with a muscle pull in his leg, struck out his first time up but then drilled solid shots into the left field screen on his next t two trips.

George Scott had two homers and two singles for the Red Sox, who hung in until Baltimore wrapped things up with a four-run seventh inning.

Team rosters for the co-ed tug of war are due in the intramural office today.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOCCER

Robert's 1, BX 0
Freaks 2, White Hear/White Light 0
Gak 3, Litt!' Fellas 2
PMD 1, PSK 0
Bruisers over Terrors by forfeit
Smashers 1, Seagrams 0
Bulldozers, Academics, double forfeit

SOFTBALL

LCA 6, TSP 3
TC 18, APO 12
KS 9, TKE 4
TEP 7, PSK 0
ZN 19, OTV 14
PSD 16, DC 5
SPE 11, BKP 0
Colt 45's 7, Cougars 6
Colt 45's 8, Nogs 1
Panthers 12, Leopards 0
Bulldozers 13, Lions 12
Coal Cons over Terrors by forfeit
Hickories 17, Black Bears 8
Chestnuts 17, Trojans 4
Tricky Dicks over Racoons by forfeit
BX 5, Drakesters 2
Dide's over Saunders by forfeit
Goons 8, Clinkers 1

BILLY C. CONNECTS - Red Sox rookie outfielder Billy Conigliaro celebrated his brother's leg injury by smashing 2 home runs in his startung debut. Big brother Tony is reported to be recovered a little sooner than expected.

In picture above: A SCORE FOR THE GOOD GUYS - UMass right fielder Dick Pepin slides in with one of the 29 runs scored against Tufts. The Redmen were rained out yesterday. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

To the left: BROOKS GETS BLASTED - Redman first baseman Ray Ellerbrook is about to get belted by a Tufts runner during ludicrous action Monday. UMass travels to Burlington, Vermont for weekend games with UVM. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 121 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1969

Stuffed Ballots Void '70 Election, New Primary to be Held Thursday

CLASS OFFICER PRIMARY CANDIDATES campaigned in front of the Student Union yesterday. The warm weather, besides increasing the number of people lounging near the campus pond, made yesterday's voter turn out one of the heaviest in several years. Final elections are next Thursday; primary results appear on page 2 in today's MDC. (MDC photo by Gunnar Myrbeck).

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

The Student Senate Executive Committee declared the class of '70 Presidential election void because of alleged ballot "stuffing" last night, and scheduled a new primary for that contest on Thursday, April 24.

All other class elections were valid, with the final election slated for next Thursday.

The stuffing was discovered when the senators opening the ballot box found three packets of folded ballots, the majority of which endorsed Peter Rosenthan. In addition the phone books in which juniors names were checked off when they voted were missing, and as a result it was impossible to determine either how many ballots were actually "stuffed" into the box, or how many votes Rosenthal actually got.

This according to Senate President Bruce Balboni, "In no way implies that Rosenthan had anything to do with the alleged stuffing."

The Senate Executive committee met to hear a complaint on the election, and voted unanimously to declare the election void. The new contest is set for next Thursday, the same day as the Final election for the other classes.

The class of '70 final election will be held April 27.

The Senate President stressed again his belief that Rosenthal had nothing to do with the alleged stuffing. "None of the other candidates believe that he (Rosenthal) was in any way involved, and I personally vouch for his innocence."

Charges concerning the alleged stuffing can not be brought before General Court because no one person can at this time be charged.

Senate Censures Whitmore In Late Wednesday Action

By PAUL ANDERSON
Student Government Editor

The Student Senate passed two resolutions to censure the Administration for not properly consulting students on the new Security Deposit Policy and for not acting in "good faith" on the appointment of the new Library Director, in late action Wednesday.

The motion's sponsors, Hartwell, Perkins, and Staples, felt that the action had been in violation of trust. Debate centered around the allegation that the Services Committee had only worked on the "trappings" of the policy and not the policy itself, since they felt they couldn't do anything about it. Senator Marcus, even though he disagreed with the policy, felt that the Services Committee had been adequately informed, and that the motion was misdirected.

The censure motion will come up for reconsideration at the next Senate meeting, since a move to reconsider was entered in the minutes. President Balboni criticized the action as being "rash" because Dean Noffsinger did not get to speak on the matter.

A second censure motion concerned the procedure used in the appointing of the new Director of the Library. This past Sunday

(Continued on Page 2)

The Daily Collegian will run a candidates forum next week for all contested class officers. All letters must be received in the Collegian office by Tuesday 5:00 p.m. In all the letters the candidates must answer only the following three questions:
1) What do you think the role of class goverment should be?
2) If elected, what will you do to further the role as you see it?
3) For classes of 1971 and 1972: What type of entertainment would you be in favor of for your respective class sponsored weekends? For the class of 1970: What type of Senior Week would you plan?

U.S. Walks Out Over Dowmed Plane Incident

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) - A face-to-face meeting between the United States and North Korea over the downing of a U.S. intelligence plane broke up with an American walkout yesterday.

The walkout came 46 minutes after the start of the meeting when the Communist delegate insisted on knowing the unit to which the downed U.S. Navy plane was attached.

The unarmed plane was shot down Tuesday. Two bodies of the crew were recovered in the Sea of Japan Thursday. There was little hope of finding any survivors among the 29 crewmen still missing.

Air Force Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp read out a U.S. protest to the Communist side of a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission here. The statement charged that the downing of the plane was a "calculated act of aggression."

Knapp then abruptly walked out when his North Korean counterpart, Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, persisted three times in demanding the plane's unit.

Knapp had just finished his statement when the Communist representative charged back that the United States illegally dispatched the plane for spying purposes in an act of piracy.

Lee and his aides also walked out, ending the meeting called by the Communist side.

It was one of the shortest armistice meetings since the Korean War ended in 1953.

Lee charged in his opening statement that the U.N. Command side committed 39 armed violations April 10-17, including firing into Communist territory across the demilitarized zone.

After this brief, routine statement was completed, Knapp ignored the Communist charge and began reading his statement which dealt with the reconnaissance plane.

The U.S. statement declared that the aircraft "was engaged in completely legitimate reconnaissance operations" at the time it was attacked.

"These operations," Knapp said, "are made necessary by your repeated acts and threats of aggression.

"So long as such flights are conducted outside your territorial limits you have no right to interfere with them.

"I note," Knapp continued, "that your authorities seem, in some respects, to share this view since they felt compelled to allege falsely that the aircraft was within your air space.

Sirhan Convicted Of Kennedy Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was convicted of first-degree murder Thursday for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whose bid for the presidency of the United States was ended by a bullet to the brain.

The same jury of seven men and five women who judged the 25-year old Arab guilty as charged now must determine whether he goes to prison for life or dies in the gas chamber at San Quentin. This second phase of a trial already in its 15th week begins Monday.

"I think the jury will reflect the conscience and the reactions of the community for this type of crime," said the chief deputy district attorney, Lynn D. Compton. He said the prosecution will not insist on the death penalty but will "give them the factors weighing for and against death."

Sirhan, dark-haired, 5 feet 4 and 110 pounds, heard the verdict with no display of emotion. Afterwards he was hustled out to his windowless 13th-floor cell, five floors above the courtroom.

The defense had hoped for a second-degree verdict, and had not asked anything less of the jury for the June 5, 1968 shooting of the 42 year old New York senator. Sirhan, a native of Jordan and vigorously pro-Arab, shot Kennedy in a kitchen area of the Ambassador Hotel, because he considered the senator a supporter of the Israeli cause in the Middle East.

Hubert Humphrey, shown here addressing students in a Boston Rally, will give the Martin Luther King Memorial Lecture tomorrow night. The Cage speech will climax a day of campus activity. (MDC photo by Ron Labrecque).

Humphrey to Speak And Teach Seminar On Campus Today

Hubert H. Humphrey's address in the Cage tonight, the highlight of the former Vice President's day-long visit to UMass, will be broadcast live by WFCR at 8:00 tonight.

Humphrey, who will deliver this year's Martin Luther King Memorial Lecture, is being brought to campus by the class of '70 and the Distinguished Visitors Program.

His schedule for the day includes an official greeting by President Lederle, a meeting with black students on Orchard Hill in mid-morning, a 2:30 press conference, and a 4:30 Memorial Hall reception open to the University Community. The King address is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. in the cage.

WFCR's coverage, which will begin at 7:30 and include a wrap-up of the events of the day.

17 APR 17

1 8 APR 1 8

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - The heads of 21 of the nation's top colleges yesterday blamed "a minute group of destroyers who have abandoned hope in today's society" for recent outbursts of campus violence.

The American Council on Education disclosed that the educators, along with several trustees and foundation officers, met secretly in Chicago over the Easter weekend and drew up a denunciation of campus demonstrators which has been published.

A council spokesman said the 1,400-word paper, titled "A Declaration on Campus Unrest," will be distributed to its 1,538 member colleges.

The paper refers to the campus demonstrations as "spectacular events precipitated by. . .extremists" which it says should not be permitted to obscure the accomplishments of students, faculty and administrators "who have serious interest in constructive changes in society and in the university."

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration, responding to the Senate hunger committee's Washington study, announced plans yesterday to distribute some $3 million in food to mothers and infants in the capital.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin made the announcement in the office of Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, senior Republican member of the committee which made trips into slum areas this week.

Mayor Walter Washington estimated some 45,000 persons would receive the food packets, which will be handed out to needy mothers and pregnant women at city health centers.

PRAGUE (AP) - Alexander Dubcek, the popular leader whose drive for more freedom brought Soviet tanks to Prague, was ousted yesterday as chief of the Czechoslovak Communist party.

The party's 190-member Central Committee, meeting in crisis session, named Gustav Husak, the tough pro-Moscow Slovakian party chief, to succeed Dubcek as first secretary.

Amid tension over the power shuffle, Prague radio announced a nationwide police crackdown on "criminal and antisocial elements" was carried out Wednesday night. More than 3,000 persons were questioned, it said, and 111 detained for "various criminal deeds."

Senate Endorses Academic Report, Amended Report Now Goes to Faculty

By RICHARD W. STORY
Education Editor

The Student Senate completed nearly four hours of special business consideration earlier this week by voting unanimously to accept and endorse the recent report of the Academic Affairs Committee. The report, "Education for Living: A Program for the 70s," now goes to the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences for their consideration.

Senate debate on the passage of the report was marked by detailed deliberation on several key provisions of the suggested changes in the College. In the end, only two amendments passed - each making relatively minor changes in the report.

The Senate rejected amendments which would have struck all core and distribution requirements from the proposed new curriculum. The Senate also rejected, unanimously, an amendment which would have had the effect of retaining the present College language requirement.

The Senate did finally pass a version of an amendment which lowered the proposed maximum size of permissible departmental programs from the Committee's suggested 60 credits to 42 credits. That figure of 42 credits, as a maximum which any major program may stipulate, is still above the present ceiling of 30 credits.

The Committee had recommended that wholly new provisions be developed for determining academic retention and/or dismissal. The second amendment made to the Committee report replaced the suggested provision with yet another new one, based upon revised

(Continued on Page 3)

Election Results

*denotes winners

CLASS of '70
President (VOID)
Peter Rosenthal 257
David Veale 179
Dick Kline 183
Steve Weisman 257
Belden Bly 171

CLASS OF 1971
PRESIDENT
Harold Koltin 114
*Joe Tabacco (incumbent) 168
*Joe Piccolo 266

TREASURER
*Richard Palomba 162
James S. Whittaker 98
*Jim Bouin 150
Shery Collins 112

CLASS OF 1972
VICE PRESIDENT
Judith L. Donahue 47
*Stephen Driscoll (incum.) 179
Joseph J. Pignatelli 99
*Howie Tuber 169

SECRETARY
*Linda Peruzzi (incumbent) 176
Laurie Goldstein 120
*Deborah Grozen 183

TREASURER
*Fred L. Chanowski 199
*Dan Brennan 185
Jim Foley 95

SENATOR AT LARGE
*Robert Nims (incumbent) 197
*Jerome T. Moriarty 171
Jim Devine 62
Anne Giarddina 37

Senate

night, the Senate appointed two students to an ad hoc committee to "search" for a new Director. The committee met on Tuesday and the students were presented with a "fait accompli," by which the current Acting-Director, Mr. Klayton, who has served two years, was given the appointment.

The motion, presented by the students appointees, Senator Madden and Vice President Olken, protested the token student involvement in the selection. Senator Kilmartin cast the only dissenting vote, saying that the censure motion created doubt on the qualifications of Mr. Klayton.

Bishops Vow Celibacy For Catholic Priests

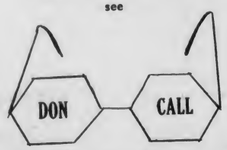
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) - The nation's Roman Catholic Bishops declared yesterday that they intend to keep celibacy the firm rule for their 60,000 priests.

The 215 bishops passed a unanimous resolution at a semi-annual meeting to retain "the heritage of priestly celibacy" - despite widening pressure to let clergy marry and despite a major surgey that the bishops will start this summer of problems in a priest's life.

The hierarchy also passed by accamation, before the three-day session of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Why should I settle for less than a delicious

HOT OVEN GRINDER



or a great

PIZZA

when it is just around the corner at

Bell's Pizza House
65 University Drive
Tel. 256-8011 253-9051

When you want wire rim glasses, pick them up at a gas station.
But when you want GOLD FILLED FRAMES see

We have the largest selection of domestic and imported gold filled frames in the area. Stop by and see.

DAYS
56 Main St.
Amherst
ALpine 3-7002

NIGHTS
113 Russell
Hadley
586-1138

FOCUS ON THE FUTURE
THIS SUMMER
Focus on your future this summer at C. W. Post where 315 lush green acres of campus are just minutes from parks, beaches, golf courses, fine theatres and museums and just an hour from the excitement of Manhattan and the Hamptons. Theatre, tennis and riding facilities are on campus as well as modern residence halls for men and women.
UNDERGRADUATE COURSE OFFERINGS
Liberal Arts and Sciences, Pre-Professional, Pre-Engineering, Business and Education.
GRADUATE COURSES under the auspices of Long Island University Graduate Faculties and Schools are offered on the Merriweather Campus.
● United Nations, Art and Theatre Workshops
● 7-Week Foreign Study Institute in France
Apply now for TWO 5-WEEK SUMMER SESSIONS
JUNE 23 - JULY 25 and JULY 28 - AUGUST 29
Day and Evening
Visiting students from accredited colleges welcome.
C. W. POST COLLEGE
MERRIWEATHER CAMPUS
LONG ISLAND UNIVERSITY
For additional information, summer bulletin and application - Phone (516) 299-2431 or mail coupon
Office of the Summer School, C. W. Post College, Merriweather Campus, P.O. Greenvale, L.I., N.Y. 11548
Please send me Summer Sessions information bulletin. CP
( ) Women's Residence Hall ( ) Men's Residence Hall
( ) Foreign Study ( ) Undergraduate ( ) Graduate
( ) Day ( ) Evening
Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State ..... Zip .....
If visiting student from which college? .....

Enjoy the beautiful spring weather with TENNIS
BALLS and RACKETS
from
A. J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer & Stationer
45 So. Pleasant St.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Faculty Senate Backs CCEBS Quest for More State Money

By ROSE L. MILLER

Passage of Prof. Isidore Silver's motion supporting the Council for the Collegiate Education of Black Students (CCEBS) efforts in gaining adequate funding from the Massachusetts State Legislature highlighted the meeting of the UMass Faculty Senate yesterday afternoon.

Prof. Silver's motion followed a progress report of Beacon Hill news by UMass Dean of Administration Leo Redfern. Redfern outlined in detail the UMass' budget for fiscal year '70, mentioning the cuts and the statue of future building plans. The Library Committee report feature d a presentation of Minority Library Report by Student Senator Daniel Madden with recommendations for equalizing library policy for students and faculty members.

Silver's motion requires the Faculty Senate to appoint a five member committee to immediately contact the administration and appropriate legislative representatives "to inform them of the Faculty Senate's serious concern that CCEBS be properly and adequately funded, and to offer its services in seeking restoration of the budget cuts."

Dean Redfern informed the Faculty Senate that UMass's budget was cut from 42,600,000 to 37, 100,000. Besides the cut in next year's CCEBS program, the personnel budget and scholarship appropriations were reduced, educational television was eliminated, library fund was sliced one million dollars. There is some hope that some money will be reinserted by Ways and Means.

Speaking on the future plans of having a Law School and Dental School, Redfern said the Committee of Education favorably re - ported both, but, in Redfern's estimation, the Massachusetts Senate was not in favor of UMass' Law School. The Dental School Bill has been referred to Ways and Means Committee of the House.

The pay rise issue for both non-professional workers and faculty members was discussed in relation to scheduled state pay raise of $20 effective July 1, 1969 and in relation to Faculty Affairs Report. A motion was passed by the Faculty Senate to have the Institute of Research Study carry out a cost of living index of faculty members to ascertain how faculty salaries compare to rise in the cost of living.

Madden addressed the Faculty explaining the proposals of Library Minority Report as falling into three general areas of borrowing, extension of library hours and making the Four College Exchange Program a reality. Sen. Madden said he felt that if the Faculty Senate wishes to be responsive to the students it must take their suggestions seriously. Madden, one of the authors of the Minority Report, sees the faculty presenting ID's in borrowing books.

In final business, the Military Affairs Subcommittee was unwilling to present its report, since Reserved Officers Corps Program at UMass has been informed by the Armed Forces that revisions of their curriculum are forthcoming.

Report Details Proposed Changes

(Continued from Page 2)

definitions of "satisfactory progress." The Committee had recommended that cumulative averages not be computed; and the new dismissal procedure substituted does not require the calculation of a cumulative average.

All other major and minor provisions of the Committee's report were left unchanged.

The report was published by the DAILY COLLEGIAN as a special issue on April 1, and faculty and students have had since that date to be reading it. The amended report will now be formally transmitted to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences for distribution to the faculty.

The work of the Academic Affairs Committee through this year, climaxed by Senate passage of the document, initiates officially the first substantial student thrust for major reform in a part of the University's over-all program. The indications from this vantage point are that, together with the serious discussions on College reorganization already underway, with the student curriculum report now passed, the College is in for some great and heady times in the immediate future.

Harvard Faculty Votes Against ROTC Credit As Course

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Harvard's principal faculty group voted overwhelmingly Thursday to further reduce the status of ROTC on campus by making it an extracurricular activity with "no special privileges" or facilities.

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences voted 285-25 to ask the Harvard Overseers and the Harvard Corporation to abide by the Faculty's Feb. 4 decision to diminish the standing of military training on the nation's oldest campus.

Students still would be allowed to take part in ROTC, under the motion, but the action left open the question of whether the armed services would continue to offer the program here.

Shannon Hall, a university building serving as headquarters and class building for the 322-student non-credit ROTC operation at the 15,000-student university would be withdrawn from use by the military under the motion.

The governing boards must confirm the faculty's vote. The faculty meeting Thursday was broadcast by the student radio station and was open to the public.

Amherst College Admits Girls

Amherst, Mass. - Next year Amherst College will accept 32 women exchange students as residents on the Amherst Campus, giving preference to girls from Smith and Mount Holyoke Col - leges.

As full members of the college community, they will be assigned a new dormitory, attend classes, eat in the commons, and take part in appropriate extra-curricular activities. Applicants will be accepted this spring for residence in either the first or second semester next year.

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares

2 FREE PEPSI'S
with purchase of every large PIZZA
THIS WEEKEND
upon request at
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 North Pleasant St. 253-9858

BOLD
playing at
CHEQUERS
4 o'clock

CABOT EAST 75 Cabot St. Chicopee ● 594-6022
Take Route 116 Direct to Theatre
SUNDAY — APRIL 20 — 3 SHOWS
- at 2 - 5 - 8 p.m.
"CREAM"
filmed live in brilliant color
"Farewell Concert of the Century"
plus — ON STAGE
The Swinging — Soul — Blues of
"The Bostels"
Tickets on sale now at Student Union B. O.
2 p.m. $3.00 — 5 and 8 p.m. $3.50
Limited Seating ● Order Now

R.N.'s and L.P.N'S
NEEDED
In small, progressive, well-equipped, suburban hospital with excellent fringe benefits and shift differentials paid. Please contact:
DIRECTOR OF NURSES
Wing Memorial Hospital
PALMER, MASS. 01069
Tel. 283-7651
We invite your inspection.

Ron Delsener presents
RCA VICTOR RECORDING ARTIST
Feliciano
SUN., MAY 4, at 6:30 and 9:00 p.m.
MUSIC HALL
Tickets: $3.50, $4.50, $5.50 Mail order to Music Hall, 268 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Tix available at Music Hall; Harvard Co-op; MIT Ticket Office and Out-of-Town ticket agency (Cambridge). Phone: (617) 423-3386

Your roommate can't sleep in the dark?
Think it over, over coffee.
The Think Drink.

For your own Think Drink Mug, send 75c and your name and address to: Think Drink Mug, Dept. N, P.O. Box 559, New York, N.Y. 10046. The International Coffee Organization.

The Forty-first Annual MILITARY and UNIVERSITY BALL
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
University of Massachusetts
SATURDAY, MAY 10 8:00 P.M.
Entertainment by —
FRAN BOTELHO — THE JEFFERSONS
Music by —
EIGHTH AIR FORCE BAND
Tickets at —
Dickinson Hall — April 7 - May 7
$5.00 Couple Black Tie

RETURNING FROM A SPECIAL MISSION TO THE MIDDLE EAST
Prof. Allan Pollack
(History, Univ. of Pittsburgh) will speak tomorrow on:
Peace In The Middle East
The Arab Point Of View
Get the information first hand.
Tomorrow 7:30 p.m.
WFCR - fm 88.5

18 APR 1968

Is This Any Way of Conducting An Election?

For several years now on campus there has been an attitude that class elections are a farce; that you only vote for the familiar name which you recognize from the pretty posters around campus. However, what happened at yesterday's class elections is certainly no farce. The process of democratically electing our class officers was seriously maligned by the apparent stuffing of the ballot box in the Class of 1970 presidential primary.

The Student Government Affairs Committee of the Student Senate is responsible for conducting class elections. The manner in which the Committee ran yesterday's election must be highly scrutinized. The Committee failed in its responsibility to conduct a fair election.

During the balloting, the ballot box and the ballots were located behind the senators who were checking ID cards. There was only open space behind the election table, no wall. The ballot box and ballots were never under the constant supervision of any election official. Is this any way of conducting an election?

Secondly, the mysterious disappearance of the telephone book used to check off the names of the students who voted raises further questions. Chairman of the S.G.A. Committee, Larry Woods, says he brought the book back to the Senate office around 6 p.m. and when he returned later it was gone. The voting lists should have been locked up and not just placed on a table. Is this any way of conducting an election?

Finally the manner in which the ballots were counted was less than desirable. Some of the senators who were counting and tabulating the ballots, who we presume were impartial election officials, were publically questioning the sincerity of one of the candidates, saying the election was rigged, while they were still counting the ballots. Also, at one point there were several dozen people literally breathing down the necks of the senators who were counting the ballots. Is this any way of conducting an election?

The competency of the S.G.A. Committee in conducting elections has been questioned. We urge Senate President Bruce Balboni to appoint a committee to fully investigate yesterday's election. The questions: who stuffed the ballot box, why was it apparently so easy to do, what happened to the voting lists, and why were so many people around the ballot counters, must be answered. The students of this University must be assured that this incident will never be repeated again.

The Editors

Wake Up

Buzzzzz . . . It's happening all over again. Every day begins the same exact way when you're on a schedule. And we're all on some sort of a schedule whether we're students, blue-collar greasers, white collar military-industrialists, or black Baptist ministers. We have a rough time falling asleep because of the passing day's pressures. But when it's time to awake and wipe the sleep from our eyes, we rely on the "Westclox Wonder", the alarm clock - and its cacophony caresses our ears with harmonic dissonances, which initiates the rise and shine - nine to five syndrome of our lives.

Then we're off and pooping into the day until we re-cycle and we're back to bed again, alone or with a group. Barf! Phooey! What a sick bag we're in - this stereotypical-personnel-automated-stimulus-response bag!

Eureka! I found a way to beat the system and still look like I'm ebbing and flowing with the tide. Instead of waking up to the tune of the alarm clock, I wake up to my mind, which seems like responding to Delius' "On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring" as compared to the "Westclox Rag-Time Shuffle".

By now, you're all on the edges of your seats with your hands on your heads and elbows digging into your knees, stomping your feet on the floor, pleading what is it? How do you do it? How can I attain this state of Nirvana? I'm going to let you in on a little secret - ready for it? All you do is wake up before your alarm clock goes off and for the rest of the day PRETEND like in the movies!

Let me give you a taste of what my remedy is like. O.K.? Monday morning's schedule is a full boat of classes from 10-6; so I usually set my alarm clock (to make it feel . that it's wanted) for 9:00 a.m. and then I fall right off into a deep sleep, knowing that I have to beat the clock. Sleep is black and beautiful with no dreams (who needs dreams - when I wake up I'll be living one). Ready, get set, 8:45 a.m. - my eyes are open, my head turns, victory! I've done it again. What excitement! what ecstacy!, to wake up before the alarm goes off! As I put my bare feet onto the Oriental rug, I feel I'm the happiest person who was ever on a flying carpet, wearing Hanes jockey-type underwear.

A breath of fresh air and it's off to an adventure trip to the bathroom. My bare explorer feet tell me of the coldness of the terrain of the 1910 linoleum, with its contemporary swastika design. I quickly reply, like John Wayne did in "North to Alaska"; "it's as cold as a witch's chest in here."

First things being first, I mosey on down a piece to the hopper, keeping the John Wayne image, and when I get there, I notice three cigarette butts floating in symmetry. They're really enemy vessels and the toilet bowl is the Tonkin Gulf. Associating this with "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo", I open fire on the remains of a Virginia Slim and drown one enemy gun boat. With one burst of urination, I deluge a destroyer (3/4's of a Marlboro). Then with a final last effort, I run out of fire power just as I am spotted by the aircraft carrier, Pall Mall. I had to pull the election lever, but at the same instant, the ocean opens up and swallows the enemy ship.

Whew! close call, I then feel like fainting, so I walk a few miles and there's a waterfall like "Shangri-la". I splash water all over my face and down my neck and under my arms. Now, I remember that my mother issued me an orange-white-and-blue tooth brush (very patriotic - she's from Rumania) so I brushed away like "Bucky Beaver."

As I wander deeper into this wonderland, I find some elves making clothes. They offer to fully outfit me, in exchange for my jockey shorts. I agree and all of a sudden, I'm dressed like Paul Newman in "Cool Hand Luke", wearing jeans, a blue fly-away collared work shirt and loafers. The elves also give me a used St. Vincent de Paul's sport jacket and apologize because that's all they had left in stock.

After thanking the elves, I find myself walking down a yellow-brick road and I meet these three characters (my roommates); one's a scarecrow, another's made of tin, and the last one's a shy lion. It turns out they're going my way to the Emerald City (UMass) in the land of Oz (Amherst).

As merrily we roll along, I begin to wonder what time it is, when I see a white rabbit with a watch. I walk over to him and ask for the time. He tells me it's five past ten. Oh! no! I'd better hurry to my 10:10 class or I'll be late for a very important date!

So I bid a fond farewell to the shy lion, tin-man, and scarecrow and run off to my class. But much to my arousal, just as I get inside the room - there it goes again; buzzzzz! Can you imagine the 60-second disappointment? Now I have to pretend the hardest game of all - being a student. Time has come to wake up!

Leon Mark

Campus Comment

Pro ROTC

To the editor:

It is quite obvious that the student radicals' ultimate aim is to remove ROTC from the campus entirely. Removal of academic credit is merely a step in this direction which will not solve the problem. Last week's Harvard riot is evidence of this. The real issue in question is not the ROTC program's worthiness of academic credit, but rather the morality of military training on campus.

Please correct me if I'm wrong, but I believe that a university should provide every feasible opportunity for an individual to prepare for a career OF HIS CHOICE. The feasiblility of ROTC is hardly questionable.

Since ROTC is voluntary, it does not interfere with other academic pursuits at the University. If an individual chooses the military as his career, it is his choice alone. Is it right for the student radicals to decide whether an individual's career choice is right or wrong? Removal of academic credit for ROTC would be discrimination against those who have chosen this career.

Frank Peluso

Con Home Ed

To the editor:

As an undergraduate in the school of Home Economics, I have found that this school is not an institution dedicated to the education of its students. It is terribly frustrating and discouraging to find no cooperation among the faculty and within the departments.

The constant bickering and the pettiness of the faculty is so evident that students keep a running score card - "what's new in Skinner Hall" is always the talk of the day. Because of the competition among the faculty and departments, there is no coordination or integration of material. And Home Economics SHOULD be the prime example of an integrated educational experience.

As a student I feel I have the right to expect educators rather then immature grown-ups (I will not call them adults) playing a very childish game which excludes any sort of feeling or interest in students. It seems that these teachers are afraid of change and therefore refuse to continue to learn.

I'm sick and tired of hearing people answer that "this is the way things are; learn to live with it." Things do not have to be this way. The learning experience cannot be a pleasant experience amidst bickering and confusion. Can the faculty of Skinner Hall be honest enough with themselves to take a good look at the situation, take on the rule of ADULT educators and do something about it?

Name withheld by request

Moderate Me

To the editor:

I might be called a "moderate" by some people who know me. But I just read the Collegian's interview (Apr. 11) with Prof. Lewy of the Poli-Sci Department and I refuse to be a "moderate" under his conditions. Granted, I abhor violence, especially in demonstrations, and don't believe that it can solve anything.

BUT, I do believe demonstrations are necessary because they (1) allow the minority to express their views, and (2) hopefully make meaningful confrontation that should lead to constructive communication. Alright, as Lewy says, "moderates must uphold rational discourse", but only when this discourse is open, fair, and everybody listens with as much enthusiasm as they talk. But I cannot "support the administration (of UMass) when it is forced to deal with disruptive groups or individuals", and does this dealing by calling in a powerful, uncontrollable, outside force as this administration did when the Dow demonstrators occupied Whitmore. The use of this force was NOT, by any reckoning, from any point of view, justified by the circumstances.

The demonstrators were peaceful and non-violent, they said it and they showed it. They were also non-destructive, one possibility that scared the administration more than the breakdown of this educational institution that night. The demonstrators harmed no one and nothing. The University didn't get its precious computers busted up.

Also, I felt, and I challenge anyone to tell me this isn't true, that the University and Amherst police were plainly in control and fully able to take care of the situation, either by protecting the property that was so important to the University, or by removing the demonstrators.

But the administration, undoubtedly under outside pressure, had to bring in 88 helmeted, fully armed and charged with fear, to carry out 33 peaceful, and in marked contrast, defenseless demonstrators. This Administration was wrong in its actions, in its cowardice, as Prof. Lewy was in his justification of this type of action. When the minority can't express themselves and assert their rights, especially in a University, then the majority is using their power in an oppressive manner a tyranny exists.

A minority in this position has to be justified in whatever actions it takes. This is why the blacks riot in the ghettos. The White establishment, because of fear and hereditary hatred, refused to give the blacks their rights and to allow them free expression and choice. Well, this University is no different in its treatment of most of its students.

I cannot support this administration as part and supporter of the White Establishment and I cannot support it when it forgets its duties and its heritage as a place where knowledge and reason and humanity must guide the hand of power, and no fear, hatred, and tradition. This University has allowed itself to forget what it should be, and has become a PUPPET of the Trustees, the Massachusetts Legislature, and the narrow-minded, hate-filled, scared people of thi s state and powers; of self-awareness, openness, honesty, respect and brotherhood, then, and only then, will I support it, with my whole soul and all my ability.

Greg Everett

Bear Award

To the editor:

After reading the Daily Collegian article on Student Leader's Night, it became obvious to us that one leader has been perpetually overlooked. This man has continuously devoted his time to aid in the solution of never-ending campus problems. Being overlooked as he was at Student Leader's Night we feel his up and comings have finally come due.

To you, Alexander Blasko, we present the Hakido Bear Award, as opposed to the Metawampe Award for continual progress, in spite of writer's cramp, in your ever persistent "Battle of the Illegally Parked Car."

To those students who are unaware of this award, it consists of a large Hakido Bear, which formerly inhabited the Student Union. The bear itself is a light eater, tame, and is being trained to respond to the name "Al" in recognition of its recipient.

The date and location of presentation, however, have not been decided, but will probably be sometime before June.

If you wish, you might send Officers Mazzie and Sinkiewocz to pick up the award before the presentation date. It can be found roaming happily through the jungles of western Massachusetts.

Name Withheld by Request

Editorial Policy

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content with no proof reading or censorship exercised by faculty or administration prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, student body as a whole, or the editorial board as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

All letters should be addressed "To the editor", set over 60 characters, and typed double space. All letters must be signed to be considered for publication. Names will be withheld upon request, if the name of the writer is known to us, otherwise unsigned letters will be discarded. We reserve the right to edit, condense, correct factual errors, and clarity points made in all letters. Because of the great volume of letters that we receive every day, it is not possible for us to print every letter that we receive, though each will be considered for publication.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR	Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER	Frank Wondrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR	Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR	Peter F. Pascoe '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Sharon Samuels
COPY EDITORS	Holly Fell, Anne Giordino, Susan Spotrick, Anne Hollerman
SPORTS	Jon Curley
EDITORIAL	Nancy Bourgoin
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS	Steve Schmidt, Bob Mangiaretti

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

S.W. Social Committee Presents Film Program

Monday through Thursday next week, the Southwest Assembly Social Committee will present a new idea in filmmaking, Genesis I, a Genesis Films Ltd. production. The idea behind these productions is to show movies made by young filmmakers at colleges and universities across the nation. Consequently, the "film making gap" between student films and audiences will emerge on college campuses everywhere. The idea was originated by Richard B. Childs, a graduate student at UCLA.

In association with other student filmmakers from coast to coast, and with the support of key motion picture industry craftsmen, Childs has put together a two-hour presentation of 15 outstanding short films made by both independent and student filmmakers.

The program consists of 15 films half color and half black-and-white. In most cases, the average film runs for 8 minutes, several for only 3 minutes, while two documentaries included in the package run for 15 minutes. One documentary, "Children of Synanon" by Howard Lester, is an engaging look at the Synanon Children's Community and school which is involved in a type of "game" therapy. The other documentary, "I Wish I Knew How It Would Feel To Be Free" by Peter Rosen, is a dramatic account of the black neighborhood in New Haven, Conn., where equality and freedom in a white society is analyzed.

Genesis I will be shown at the Berkshire Clubroom on Monday April 21 at 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., and on Tuesday April 22 at 7:00 p.m. It will also be showing at Thompson Auditorium on Tuesday , Wednesday, and Thursday April 22-24, at 8:30 p.m. Advance tickets are avilable at the Student Union; students $1.50 and general $2.00.

Vietnam Lecture Sunday

"Vietnam and the Sickness of America" will be the title of a lecture to be given Sunday evening April 20 at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom by David Dellinger, editor of Liberation magazine. Open to the public, the lecture and question period following is being sponsored jointly by the Martin Luther King Council and the United Christian Foundation with the co-operation of the Valley Peace Center.

Mr. Dellinger will direct his remarks to the phenomena of Vietnam and its relationship to the domestic crises of our country. Dellinger feels strongly that Vietnam is only a symptom of the political and social decay which has made for our revolts in the universities, our black-white confrontations and the turmoil in our cities.

The King Council, The United Christian Foundation, and the Valley Peace Center urge all persons in the university community to hear this most timely lecturer.

New Version of Hamlet Comes to UMass

"I despise Hamlet. He is a slob, a talker, an analyser, a rationalizer. Like the parlour liberal or the paralysed intellectual, he can describe every facet of a problem, yet never pull his finger out.

"Is Hamlet a coward, as he himself suggests, or simply a POSEUR, a frustrated actor who plays the scholar, the courtier and the soldier as an actior (a very bad actor) assumes a variety of different roles?

Mr. Marowitz's version of the play drastically rearranges its narrative sequence, interrupts the original time sequence, and redistributes the appearances of various characters in individual scenes. The "collage" technique is Marowitz's means of deliberately creating discontinuity--to take the language, the structure, and the narrative of the play and "discover to what extent one can juggle those elements and still maintain contact with what is essential in HAMLET."

An earlier version of The Marowitz HAMLET has been performed in London, Germany and Italy, and in a number of other countries. It has not, however, so far been presented professionally in the United States. The Premier production at the University of Massachusetts Theatre is directed by Assistant Professor Vincent Brann.

Performances are scheduled for April 23 through 26, in Bartlett Auditorium, University of Massachusetts. Box Office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on days of performance. Telephone 545-2579.

The Civil Liberties Ad Hoc Committee plans to issue a statement at the Cage before Hubert H. Humphrey's 8:00 p.m. lecture this evening. The statement is a summary of the rights of each individual student at the University to hear Mr. Humphrey's speech unimpeded by the actions of any groups. The Committee considers any actions to be an infringement on the basic right of free speech.

SPRINGFIELD'S FAVORITE ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

DAILY MATS: ALL SHOWS APRIL 19 - 27

CINEMA 1 2 3

RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD. 733-5131

2 "RESTORES FAITH IN FILMS" - Look

EVES. 8:15 MATS. 2:15 WED. SAT. SUN.

THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN

STUDENT GROUP PRICE $1.50

CHARGE TICKETS AT SEARS

TICKETS also U. of Mass. STUDENT UNION or BOXOFFICE or SHOWTIME

1 ACADEMY AWARDS THE LION IN WINTER

EVES. 8:30 MATS. 2:30 WED. SAT. SUN.

3 ACADEMY AWARDS FUNNY GIRL

EXTRA MAT. SUN 5 P.M.

EVES. 8 P.M. MATS. 2 P.M. WED. SAT. SUN.

ACRES FREE PARKING-ROCKER LOUNGES

STUDENT SENATE ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are available now until April 18, 1969 for the following Student Senate seats:

CANCE	JAMES
COMMUTERS (2)	J.Q.A. LOWER
FIELD (1)	LEACH

FRATERNITIES (1)

Papers are available in the RSO Activities office. Completed nomination papers must be returned by 5:30 P.M. April 18. Drawings for ballot position will occur at that time.

Elections shall be April 24. Dorm elections in the dorms, 6:00 to 9:00 P.M. Commuter and Fraternity elections in the Student Union 9:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

Now on the second floor of the

STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

INTRODUCING THE 1969

MISS UNIVERSITY PAGEANT

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND THE 1969 MISS UNIVERSITY PAGEANT, AN OFFICIAL PRELIMINARY TO THE MISS MASSACHUSETTS AND MISS AMERICA PAGEANTS.

THE COMPLETE PAGEANT REQUIRES THREE NIGHTS. PRELIMINARIES WILL BE HELD TUESDAY, APRIL 22 AND WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23 IN THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM BEGINNING AT 8:00 O'CLOCK. THE FINALS WILL BE HELD FRIDAY, APRIL 25 IN BOWKER AUDITORIUM BEGINNING AT 8:00 O'CLOCK.

THERE ARE 32 GIRLS COMPETING FOR THE TITLE OF MISS UNIVERSITY. THE PAGEANT INCLUDES TALENT, EVENING GOWN AND SWIM SUIT COMPETITION WITH OVER $1000 IN CASH PRIZES.

FOR AN EVENING OF ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT MAKE PLANS TO ATTEND THIS YEAR'S PAGEANT.

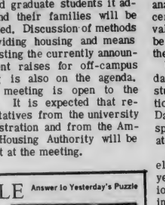
Grad Senate Will Discuss Housing

Next Fall's housing market in the Amherst area will be the main topic of discussion of the next meeting of the Graduate Student Senate scheduled for Tuesday, April 22 at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union according to the agenda released yesterday by its president, Thomas Minogue.

The housing committee will report a resolution calling for the formation of a jointly sponsored open committee on housing, according to the agenda. The purpose of the committee would be to formulate ways to provide housing adaquate for the needs of this university town. Joint sponsores of the committee would be the Faculty and Student Senates, but membership would be open to all interested groups, including town-based groups, according to the terms of the resolution.

In addition to the resolution, according to Minogue, the character of the university's responsibility for seeing to it that adaquate housing at reasonable rates is available for the faculty and staff it hires and the undergraduate and graduate students it admits and their families will be discussed. Discussion of methods of providing housing and means of resisting the currently announced rent raises for off-campus housing is also on the agenda.

The meeting is open to the public. It is expected that representatives from the university administration and from the Amherst Housing Authority will be present at the meeting.



Other items on the agenda include the proposed convocation and student activities center. President Minogue expects that the original resolution fazoring the construction of the facility will be withdrawn by one in favor of one which will favor a detailed study of such a facilty which will include analysis of the costs of putting in certain of the facilities and evaluation of the benefits which can be expected to be derived from them.

Under new business on the agenda are listed the topics of foreign student orientation and a resolution thanking the Massachusetts Daily Collegian for devoting news space to the Graduate Student Senate and to send to it $100.

Announcements concerning the election of GSS officers for next year will be made. The elections are scheduled for the meeting on Monday, April 28, 1969.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS

1-Distance measure (pl.)
6-European capital
11-Offend
12-Wipes out
14-Guido's low note
15-Devoured
16-Man's nickname
17-A continent (abbr.)
18-Openwork fabric
20-Founded upon experience
23-Cooled lava
25-Near
26-Grain
27-Naval officer
32-Speck
34-Indian mulberry
35-A state (abbr.)
36-Negative
38-Artificial language
39-Afternoon party
41-Most comely
44-Girl's name
46-Sun god
47-Parent (colloq.)
48-Tires
52-Corded cloth
55-A state (abbr.)
56-Drunkard
57-Swiss river
59-A state (abbr.)
60-Lower in rank
62-Platforms
64-Scandinavian alphabetic characters
65-Singing voice

DOWN

1-Partner
2-Pronoun
3-Meadow
4-Heraldry: grafted
5-Stalk
6-Feeling sorrow for sins
7-Sandaric tree
8-Proportion
9-Exists
10-Lawmakers
11-Play on words
13-Sodium chloride
19-Scottish cap
21-Cushion
22-Uncouth person
24-Wine cup
27-Household pet
28-Poisonous flowering shrub
29-High mountain
30-Tells
31-Decay
33-Small child
37-Gratuity
40-Fruit drink
42-Dine
43-Organ of hearing
45-Malicious burning
48-Finish
49-Ballot
50-Direction
51-Satiate
53-Without end
54-Dance step
58-Hurried
61-Greek letter
63-Proceed

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 18

Silver: 'Com. Board Needs Reform Now'

By CHRIS ENTRIKIN
Staff Reporter

The Communications Board, needs reform, according to its chairman, Professor Isadore Silver.

In order to get some idea of the original purposes of this organization, the circumstances which brought it into being should be recounted. Several years ago, the now famous Yahoo incident inflamed Beacon Hill, and (Shazam!) a special committee was soon established at the University to examine means by which a recurrence of such an epidemic of high blood pressure in Boston could be prevented.

The Communications Board came into existence at the recommendation of this committee, and it was intended to "advise" student media on the content of their organizational constitutions, to suggest prospective faculty advisors, to review the budgets of the media, and to screen candidates for the offices in such organizations.

These functions, according to Silver, are both unnecessary and impractical, and the reform he hopes to initiate would end all of the above functions while retaining the Board's role as a forum in which the differences between the administration and students involved in communications can be examined fairly.

The Board, consisting of Faculty members, representatives of the administration and students appointed by the media and the Student Senate, is according to Silver, ideally suited for such debate. It is less suited, however, for a task such as reviewing the budget of the Daily Collegian or WMUA, and Silver suggested that such a function is best handled by the Student Senate.

If Professor Silver's reform program is adopted, the University will continue to have a means where by arbitrary actions by the administration with regard to the media and irresponsible actions on the part of the media itself can be prevented, but the Communications Board will cease functioning in areas which, by its own admission, it does not belong.

MLK, Afro-Am, Sponsor Meet.

Members of the Martin Luther King Social Action Council, The Afro-American Organization, and a University Lawyer will meet with officers of the O'Connell Construction Company to discuss the demands made in a petition presented to and accepted by the administration last week. The petition called for fair hiring practices on University construction jobs.

An open meeting for the University community will be held Tuesday afternoon, in the Student Union Ballroom at 2:30 to discuss the construction company's reply to the demand. Gil Salk, Executive Secretary of the King Council explained, "We want as many students to come as possible, and we understand that the majority opinion at that meeting will guide our future actions with the O'Connell company.

Lodge Tells Cong Put Away Illusions

PARIS (AP) - The United States and South Vietnam called on Hanoi Thursday to put an end to "illusions of military victory" and to halt the stepped-up attacks that have been going on since February.

They spoke at the 13th full-scale session of the Vietnam Peace talks. Both sides repeated their conflicting stands on troop withdrawal.

The consensus: No progress.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared that the continued pursuit of victory by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong can only lead to additional loss of life and destruction.

"Peace will not come to Vietnam as a result of military operations such as those you have been concluding since the end of February," he said. "Indeed it must inevitably be hindered thereby."

GENESIS I

Will make your eyes bleed.

50¢ S U MOVIE 50¢

PIT and the PENDULUM

— Vincent Price —

SU BALLROOM

6:00 - 8:00 P.M.

Campus Cinemas

3 Theatres Under 1 Roof

Rt. 9 Amherst 256-6411

Now Showing Cinema 2

"ENJOYED 'GREETINGS'! Fresh humor. Funny and good-natured. A whole gallery of new, young, talented performers." Pauline Kael, The New Yorker

Greetings

A comedy that takes a look at the needs and problems of contemporary American youth

Nightly ex. Fri.-Sat at 7:15-9
Fri - Sat. 6:15 - 8 - 9:45

Cinema 1 3rd & Final Week!

— Shown Nightly at 7 & 9:15 —

Nominated for 3 Academy Awards

"Best Supporting Actress"
"Best Supporting Actor"
"Best Story & Screen Play"

JOHN CASSAVETES' FACES

THE WOODROSE BALLROOM

presents

VAN MORRISON

COUNTRY FUNK

Light by Captain Video

April 18-19 8:00 P. M.

$2.50 WMAS 94.7 FM

RTE. 5, DEERFIELD, MASS.

FREE BUS

TO WOODROSE BALLROOM

Buses leave from the Student Union at 7:30 and 8:45, from Southwest at 7:35 and 8:50. Return buses leave Woodrose at 10:45 and 11:45, with stops at Southwest and the Student Union.

The English Pub

John Bean

at the Guitar

SATURDAY NIGHT

Notices

INTRAMURALS
There will be no free play Sat., Sun., and Mon., 4/19-4/21.

NEWMAN CLUB
The Newman Club's annual Family Day is planned for April 27th starting with a Mass at 2 p.m. in the chapel followed by a buffet at 3 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 and are obtainable at the Newman Center this week.

CHEMISTRY CURRICULUM
Open meeting for Chem. majors and faculty to discuss possible revisions in the chemistry curriculum Tues. at 7:30 p.m. in Goessmann 152.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Bus will be at S.U. at 11 a.m. Sat. Picnic at Quabbin Reservoir is planned. Dress rough, see sign up sheet. Phone 546-6621 for information.

EASTMAN LANE JOGGING CLUB
Meets at Knowlton lobby on Mon., Wed., and Fri. for some good old fashioned exercise.

HILLEL
Friday night services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Speaker will be Steve Selby on "An Hasidic Experience". Sat. services at 9:45 in the Worcester Rm.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting Thurs., Apr. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Color training film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump are urged to attend.

SENATE BUDGETS COMMITTEE
Any group wishing to apply for an SATF appropriation for the fiscal year 1969-70 must contact the committee today. Jim Albert, chairman, 701 Webster, 6-7207.

INDIA ASSOCIATION
The Hindi movie "Chaudhwin Ka Chand" (The Lover's Moon) will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sun. at Mahar Auditorium. English subtitles.

MILITARY BALL
A Military Ball will be held Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom, formal dress. Tickets on sale at Dickinson Hall, $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
The program needs more volunteers to help the mentally retarded. A free bus will leave the S.U. at 1:15 and Patterson at 1:20 Saturdays.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH
Forum: Men of Letters in the Modern World. Speaker: Richard Tehan (UCLA) to speak on "Concepts of Literature", today at 4 p.m. in SBA 120.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Boyden Gym tonight at 8 p.m. All welcome. Dances taught.

PINNINGS
Rene Markt, '70, Lewis, to Class of '70, RSO.
Nancy Rial, '70, Dwight, to David Zucker, '70, UMass.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - checkbook from First National Bank, Amherst belonging to Joy Williams, Pomeroy Meadow Rd., Southampton. Return to Collegian Office.
Lost - a turquoise gold ring in the lobby of JQA. Contact Karen, 6-8302.
Lost - small beagle, brown, white, black, 10 mos. old. Call 549-0234 after 6 p.m.
Lost - Account book #3837. Whitemore; call Bob, 6-7571.
Lost - brown pocketbook. Please call 5-2304 or get in touch with Joan Bentz. Reward.
Lost - dark brown notebook, Art History 15. Contact Jane Cochran, 214 Mary Lyons.
Lost - pair of men's brown framed glasses between Northampton and Amherst, Call 6 6285. Reward.
Lost - gold girl's bicycle with three speed grip control. Call 253-2035 or place in S.U. bike rack.
Lost -pair of brown rimmed glasses. Call 6 6235. Reward.
Lost - UMass class ring with initial DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Lost - Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity pin in vicinity of Orchard Hill. Call Sheila, 546-6881.
Lost - gold cloth glasses case with prescription sunglasses and IDs. Call Fran, 205 Knowlton.

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Chevy 2 dr. sedan, V-8 stick, has had recent engine overhaul. Best offer. Call 549-1129, ask for Mike or leave message. 4-21

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7812. 4-22

1956 Cadillac, four door hdtp., radio and heater, $100 firm. Contact Bob 546-8065. 4-23

1961 Pontiac, excellent condition, low mileage, power brakes and steering. Best offer. Call Rick 549-1233. 4-18

1965 TR-4A red ww/Michelins, radio, clutch, fgr. exhaust, battery, all new. Perfect cond. 546-9771 after 11:30 p.m. 4-18

'59 Studebaker, good condition, $75. Call Bob 202 Greenough. 4-18

1964 Pontiac Bonneville conv., excel. cond., must sell. Call Bill 545-2160. 4-18

Hearse — 1958 Cadillac, running condition. With 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

FOR SALE

Beautiful 14 kt. gold jewelry for sale. Reasonably priced. Makes a great Mother's Day present or gift for someone special. Will clean or fix your other jewelry. Call Marcel 6-3226. 4-8-11-14-16-18

MG-A parts — rebuilt engine, engine and body parts, trans., etc. Call Steve at 584-6163. 4-23

6 pc. Colonial liv. rm. suite — Grad student couple must relocate. All pieces excellent cond., 1 yr. old. $250.00 — phone after 3:30 p.m., 585-8725. 4-17-18-22-23-30

Motorcycle — Sears 8S., only 4,000 miles, crash bar, luggage rack, mirror, helmet, and faceplate included, $190. Call 6-7059. 4-24

1965 HONDA 50, excellent condition, barely used, $120. Call 253-7743. 4-24

Golf irons (5-9), one set, $50; call 546-1073 in early a.m. 4-24

16mm Movie Camera "Pathe", practically new, same lense, never used. Price $450.00 (over $800.00 when new). Call 545-9914 between 9-11 p.m. 4-23

National Geographic, complete, 1941-1966; Natural History, 1967-1968 for sale. Call 256-8378. 4-18

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler. Perfect condition. $475.00. Call 584-2643 late evening or early morning. 4-23

Kawasaki 250, 1967, exc. condition, $375. 253-9411. 4-18

1966 Honda CB160, "Hi-Risers", — straight pipes w/mufflr, excellent cond., all stock parts thrown in, $300. Call John 253-5193 after 5:30. 4-21

Wilson Tennis Racket — top condition, Jack Kramer autograph model, too heavy for owner. Call Dorey 6-8480, reasonable price. 4-18

Mobilhome — Don't pay high rent, own your own mobilehome, 8 rms., all furnished, ready to live in. Close to Univ. and Northampton. Excellent investment. Available this summer. Call 665-3687. 4-18

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6054 (anemians) for free information. 4-24

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken, 24-hour service, discount prices on film processing, Call Lane's Photo, 825 Main St., Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 4-18

"BUGS ARE BEAUTIFUL" vinyl, removable stickers. Volkswagens love them on their rear deck lids or bumpers. $1.00 each, post-paid. Unique Products, Dept. MDC, P.O. Box 598, Rochester, Michigan 48063. 4-18

1967 Suzuki 250, excellent, condition plus helmet and accs. Call Marc evenings 6-6981. 4-19

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY — All types of photographic services, black and white or color portraitive prints for sale — creative photography. Can provide photographs for your thesis and term papers. Steve Thorp, UMass '69, Call 665-3167. 4-18

WANTED: Position of Class Secretary by Rene Markt, candidate for Secretary Class of '70. 4-24

ROOMMATES WANTED

I have a two bedroom apartment in Puffton Village — I would like two other girls to share the apartment with me for June, July and Aug. If interested please call 549-1292. 4-18

Roommate wanted for summer (male), own bedroom, furnished with bed, desk, chair. With it people preferred, but no dropouts. $80/mo. including utilities. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5842. 4-23

Roommate to share furnished apartment located five minutes from Campus, for June, July and August. $55 per mo. including utilities. Call 549-3963. Ask for Brian. 4-24

WANTED TO RENT

3 bedroom house in late August for faculty member, Write 2200-1 Patterson Drive, Eugene, Oregon, 9-7405. 4-18-25 5-2-9

WANTED TO BUY

Men's 3-speed English bicycle, in good condition, Phone 253-5085.

PERSONAL

Questionnaire on Druzs: To those who filled one out many thanks. To those who have not yet done so, your cooperation would be greatly appreciated. 4-18

Now, aren't you glad you were kind to Peter Pancrevill this week?? 4-18

FOR RENT

To sublet June 1 to Sept. 1, Colonial Village apartments, 2½ rooms, partially furnished, all utilities included. Contact Chris 546-7530. 4-23

2½ Room furnished or unfurnished apartment, $120 a month. Includes all utilities. Available June 1. Come to Cliffside, Apt. 36B, Sunderland, Route 116 or call 665-8708 anytime. 4-17

Available June 1st, 2 bedroom apt. located 1 mile from Campus. For further information call 253-9067. 4-21

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-5446. Be persistant. 5-2

Apartment to sublet. Available June 1 - August 31. 3½ rooms. $150 a month including all utilities. Call 665-3688 after 5 p.m. 4-21

Apartment to sublet for summer. 6 rooms, furnished. 3 minute walk to campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8611 or 546-8031. 4-21

3 room apartment, for 3 people for summer months. Washer and dryer, two bathrooms, completely furnished. Call 546-7901 or 546-7965. 4-21

Available June 1st — one bedroom furnished. Call 256-6149. 4-22

"For the Summer" June 1 to Sept. 1 - 5 rm. "house", 30 seconds from Campus, 19 Phillips St. Come in person or call 549-3607. 4-23

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31, or lease for 1 year. Your choice. Call Bob 253-9047. 4-23

Air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts, Puffton Village Apt. to sublet for the summer, $65/person, prefer two guys. Call 549-1415. 4-23

3½ room furnished apartment available June 1. Five miles from Campus. $100 month including utilities. Call 665-3067. 4-24

FOR RENT IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1st - Sept. 1st. $130/month, all utilities. Call 253-7393. 4-24

2 Bedroom Apartment; 8 minutes from Campus; available June 1; married couple preferred. Call 665-3067 after 5 p.m. 4-22

7 Rm. House to sub-lease from June 1 - Sept. 1, near Mt. Holyoke Campus, 4 people or less, $700 a month plus utilities. Call 532-4416. 4-23

HELP WANTED

Full-time and part-time waitresses wanted. English Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst. 4-18

School of Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan — salaries $10,000 to $13,000 (range depending on degrees held). Call Dr. Ben Rubenstein, Brattleboro, Vermont (1-802-257-7436). 4-25

DAVID DELLINGER

— Editor of LIBERATION Magazine
— Chairman of National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Viet Nam
— Member of Chicago "Conspiracy"

SPEAKS ON: "VIET NAM AND THE SICKNESS OF AMERICA"

Student Union Ballroom
8:00 P. M.

Sunday
April 20

sponsored by:
Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council and United Christian Foundation

1 8 A P R 1 9 6 9

Redman Hitting vs. Vermont Pitching This Weekend

Scoring has been no problem for the UMass baseball team as their nine runs a game and .295 team batting average can attest. The hard-hitting Redmen will have the test of solving the slants of a fine Vermont pitching staff when they travel to Burlington to meet the Catamounts in a weekend series today and tomorrow.

UMass will have tight schedule this weekend as they will be forced to return quickly from upcountry to meet A.I.C. Sunday in a makeup game for Wednesday's cancellation. Gametime in Springfield will be 2 p.m.

The Redmen have not lost since coming north sweeping through three straight. The pitching, a problem down south, has begun to come around, and the Redmen have become a more balanced squad. The improved pitching, the lusty slugging, and the impending return of Joe DiSarcina all auger well for the UMass conference hopes.

But Vermont cannot be overlooked. The Catamounts are 3-3, having defeated Fairleigh-Dickinson, Bridgeport and Columbia, while losing to Hofstra, N.Y.U., and Columbia. Hitting has been a problem for Vermont,but their pitching has been good enough to win.

Shortstop Dave Lapointe of Catamount basketball fame, with a .313 average, and center fielder George Minarsky with a .300 mark are the only two Vermont players hitting above .250. Compare this with the UMass stats showing all eight regular starters batting .250 or better with six members, Tom Berringer, Bob Hansen, Tony Chinappi, Tom Semino, Ray Elerbrook and Dick Pepin batting over .300.

The strong point of the Catamounts is their pitching, and their ace is senior Charlie Brucato. Brucato was the Conference E.R.A. champion last year, posting a brilliant 0.87 mark. He'll start over the weekend along with sophomore George Smith in the two games with UMass.

Along with LaPointe and Minarsky, Vermont will be starting catcher George Kallechey, right fielder Don Robinson, first baseman Tom Siward, second baseman Jim Rapaport, third baseman Steve Kunker and Brendan Foster in the other outfield spot.

UMass probably will go with John Kitchen and Don Anderson in starting mound duties, but this could change. The rest of the lineup will remain the same with Chinappi at catcher, Ellerbrook, Mike Marchev, Jack Guglotta and Semino in the infield, with Hansen, Mitch Salnick and Pepin in the outfield.

DiSarcina may see action, but Redman coach Dick Bergquist reported his co-captain is still experiencing some soreness in his injured wrist so his status is still doubtful.

It's a long trip to Burlington, but a couple of UMass wins could make the trip back seem a lot shorter, and put the Redmen in a commanding position for Conference honors.

SHARING MOUND DUTIES - Don Anderson (left) and John Kitchen (right) have received the nod from Coach Bergquits for the mound duties this weekend against Vermont. Both games will be played in Burlington, today and tomorrow.

Rugby Club Drops Two, Travel to Hartford

Tomorrow the rugby club will travel to Hartford, Conn., for an "A" and "B" game against the Hartford rugby club. Hartford is a new club, like UMass and the game should be a fairly even match. The UMass team will be looking to overcome some mental errors made in games this week and produce a perfect afternoon.

Last Saturday the team faced a powerful and experienced Boston Rugby club at home. UMass surprised the fans by winning the "B" game 3-0 but losing the "A" game 14-3.

The "A" game was a fine strong effort by the Redmen which just petered out. Playing good all-around ball, UMass was able to hold Boston to a 3-3 tie, but in the last 20 minutes of play Boston's offense exploded and came up with 11 points.

The UMass scrum of Don Chamberlayne, Jerry Bruen, C.C. Reider, Bill Vilkitis, Mike Meehan, Bill Frisbee, Lloyd Welch and a newcomer battled a much heavier Boston scrum evenly during ruck play and won about a fourth of the lineouts.

The battlefield played well and played with numerous changes. Paul Joy, who scored UMass' three points on a penalty kick, played at fullback. Fred Thummel stayed at scrum-half with Ken Hubbard, Richard Pulsifer and Bob Catoure playing new positions on the interior line. Perennial starters Frank Desiata and Brian Leech were at the wing positions.

The backfield worked well with the scrum for most of the time by moving the ball until late in the game when the Redmen committed errors in ball handling and line-out play.

For the "B" team, Sunday was a different story. Outsized, they managed to hold Boston scoreless while scoring three points off a defense that in their last meeting proved overpowering.

UMass scored its three points on a try by George Duffield late in the first half and proved that was all they needed. The scrum led by veteran Bob Lawrence dominated the game behind the fine performances of Toby Lyons at hooker and Bob Joyce in line-outs.

The backfield, with Jeff Freedman as captain, combined a strong consistent defense with good ball handling to come up with the victory. A good effort was put in by Duffield at wing, Rod Perry at fly-half and Claude Blanc at fullback.

Last Wednesday, UMass played at Amherst College, a team that is 5-0 on the season and winners of the spring Bermuda Rugby Tournament, for an "A" game only.

In a grueling, hard-fought contest, Amherst outlasted the UMass ruggers, 14-3. For the Redmen, it was the second game in a row lost because of mental errorrs.

With two line-up changes, Freedman in scrum-half and Duffield at fullback, the same team that opposed the Boston rugby club, battled against the Lord Jeffs.

The scrum, showing good pursuit on defense, matched Amherst ruck play, but they lost a majority of the line-outs. The Amherst backfield, however, overpowered UMass on offense. And that was the ball game.

Stickmen to Vie With Tufts, HC

It should be a rough, tough weekend for the undefeated UMass lacrosse team, as the Redmen meet two big, physical teams, Tufts, tomorrow at Medford, and Holy Cross Monday at Worcester. And to make things more difficult, they will be playing without star attack-midfielder Carl Schulthesis.

Redmen on the Warpath

BASEBALL - vs. Vermont (away, Burlington, Vt.), today, 2:30 p.m.
BASEBALL - vs. Vermont (away, Burlington, Vt.), tomorrow, 1 p.m.
BASEBALL - vs. AIC (makeup game), Sunday, away (at Springfield), 2 p.m.
TENNIS - vs. New Hampshire, away (Durham, N.H.), tomorrow 1 p.m.
LACROSSE - vs. Tufts, tomorrow, away (Medford, Mass.), 2:30 p.m.
LACROSSE - vs. Holy Cross, away (Worcester), Monday, 3 p.m.
GOLF - vs. St. Anselm's, tomorrow, away, 11 a.m.
BASEBALL (FR.) - vs. Amherst College, tomorrow, at home, 1:30 p.m.
BASEBALL (FR.) - vs. Connecticut Monday, away (Storrs, Conn.), 3 p.m.
LACROSSE (FR.) - vs. Wesleyan, tomorrow, away, 2 p.m.
GOLF (FR.) - vs. W.P.I., Monday, away, 1 p.m.
TRACK - B.C. Relays, tomorrow, away
TRACK (FR.) - B.C. Relays, tomorrow, away.

The Redmen were belted around in Wednesday's game with Middlebury, and Schulthesis was belted the most, incurring a knee injury resulting from a clip. His condition was reported not as serious as first believed, but he won't be playing this weekend, and no guesses are being made on when he can return.

Tufts always is a rough team, with a lot of size and coached by football coach Rocky Carzo. He plays lacrosse like football, which means emphasis on the body game.

Redman coach Dick Garber anticipates playing a quick moving game and is instructing his players to try and stay clear of pileups with the bigger Jumbos.

Garber will have Parker Simonds at Schulthesis' spot on second midfield and Gary Vassar moving to first attack.

Defenseman Roy Condon, injured in a Sunday scrimmage will not see action tomorrow and is doubtful for Monday. Mark Schlossberg will start in goal against Tufts, trying to extend his unscored upon streak.

UMass will meet another big team Monday in Holy Cross. The Crusaders have numerous players dotting their roster who go over six feet tall. Holy Cross has a new coach this season, Dr. Samuel Wylie and he has his team off to a good start with two victories over Georgetown and Boston College.

The big offensive weapon for the Cross is attackman Mark Doherty a junior who got 14 goals last year. Also at attack will be Kevin Tepas and Jim Bevilacqua, both veterans.

Another Crusader standout is goalie Tony Moscati who faced a lot of shots in last year's game between the two teams.

Coach Garber is looking toward two rough road games. He hopes for an improvement in the Redman shooting. They were off target in many cases against Middlebury. UMass will miss Schulthesis to be sure, but this team has enough overall depth and talent to still be the favorite in both games.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOCCER

Zoans 0, Trojans 3
ASP 2, PLP 1
KS 1, SAM 0
Colt 45's 1, Commanches 0
Panthers 3, Cougars 0
Mags, Leopards, WBF
Hillo's 2, Elms 0
Eagles 1, Oaks 0
Redwoods 2, Buffaloes 0
Pied Pipers, Lemons, WBF
Flaming A's 1, Aces 0

There will be no free play in Boyden Gym tomorrow, Sunday or Monday.

Entries for the co-ed tug-of-war have been extended to Tuesday, April 22.

Both varsity and frosh tracksters will compete in the annual BC Relays, tomorrow, on Boston College's tartan track. Above are some of the runners who will compete in tomorrow's race. (Left) Al Mangan, who will run the quarter and/or the half, is nosed out at the finish by John Vercollone of NU last Saturday. Diego Gonzalez (in the second photo) will also run the quarter and the half. In the third shot, Bill Donaldson takes a handoff from Jerry Spellman in the Northeastern meet. Alson with Gonzalez, Donaldson and Spellman in the sprint and medley relays will be Ed Heywood, Walter Mayo, Steve Chase, Dave Marble and Ron Wayne. Wayne will also be running the two mile along with UMass seniors Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss. Lang will double in the steeplechase with Tom Derderian. There will also be field event relays with UMass represented by Gary Wilson, Dana Robertson, Ed Arcaro, and Bill Wilen. Frosh running the relays besides Mangan include Arnie Morse, Don Dunsky, Vern Hatch, Ron Swasey and Jeff Scagnelli. (MDC photos by Dave Evans)

FORMER VICE-PRESIDENT HUBERT HUMPHREY addressed a capacity crowd at the Cage Friday night. About 20 demonstrators marched in an orderly fashion around the Cage. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Humphrey Urges End to Viet War; Sees '69 as 'Year to Risk Peace

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

Calling the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. an "apostle of non-violence who sought social action for social justice," former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said, "We have failed to achieve Martin Luther King's dream for America primarily because we have failed to generate the bi-partisan political commitment necessary to do the job."

Humphrey, on campus Friday to deliver the second Annual Martin Luther King Memorial Lecture, expressed his opposition to the ABM system and his desire for "open negotiations" with North Viet Nam "as soon as strategically possible."

A group of about 20 demonstrators wearing bandages which appeared to be soaked in blood, marched around the Cage in a brief, orderly demonstration. When the marchers began to come down the center aisle, Humphrey said, "Keep your eyes focused up here because here is where the action is."

Interrupting his speech to address a few remarks to the audience and the demonstrators, Humphrey said, "I appreciate the manner this is being done in. A little advocacy and a little dissent and that's the way it should be." His remarks were greeted with loud applause.

Humphrey said we must ask ourselves two questions one year after the death of King: Have we sought to make the tragedy of Dr. King's death not a time when America lost her faith, but rather the moment when America found her conscience? And, more specifically, have we faced up to the hard realities of achieving social justice in America?

"On both these counts," he said, "The answer must clearly be no."

Humphrey recommended the Kerner Commission and King's letter from his Birmingham jail cell as a "must reading for everyone." "One the first anniversary of this report (the Kerner Commission) Urban America and The Urban Coalition released a study, 'One Year Later,' which evaluated our progress to date in meeting the goals of the Kerner Commission."

In summing up this report, he scorned the American people for paying so little attention to it and said, "We have to stick to road building, putting a man on the moon, but we should also be able to provide houses and food for all."

In talking about the specific action outlined in both reports, Humphrey said, "We must understand our basic challenge: to achieve no only equity in opportunity but equity in results."

"Sometimes we need a little extra opportunit y to keep up with the equal opportunity that should be our standard," he said.

Humphrey's statement, "First and foremost the decision this country must make it to end the war in Vietnam through a politically negotiated truce," was met with strong applause. He also urged student s to cooperate with the 'Write for Peace' Campaign. Humphrey warned, "Unless we are successful now in slowing down the nuclear arms buildup, it can be predicted without qualification that our military planners will win approval of a number of oft-postponed weapons programs costing in the end, many hundreds of billions of dollars."

"And it can be predicted with equal certainty that as our military spending accelerates," he went on, "our urgent domestic needs will be shortchanged and our efforts to mobilize the country in eradicating these deprivations will fall woefully short."

Concluding this argument, Humphrey said, "I have no illusions about the difficult nature of these negotiations." He went on to say, "I know our leaders will not agree to anything that endangers our national security. And I make the same assumption about the Soviet leaders."

"We must believe, until their actions demonstrate otherwise, that the Soviets understand the compelling reasons for ending the nuclear arms spiral," he said, and "It is primarily for this reason that I have opposed the decision to proceed with a modified deployment of the anti-ballistic missile system."

"I remain unconvinced that the security of our second-strike forces requires such action at this time," he said, "especially when the small risks of postponing deployment of the ABM . . . are compared to the considerable risks of postponing urgent domestic needs which confront America."

As an alternative, the former Vice President said, "A far more prudent course . . . would be one which avoided raising spectres of massive Soviet strategic commitments until we have determined through direct talks their actual willingness or unwillingness to decelerate the arms race." He concluded, "Then we will not have to speculate on such critical matters. Then we will know."

(Continued on Page 3)

REMINDER

MONDAY'S SCHEDULE OF CLASSES WILL BE FOLLOWED TODAY.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 122 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, APRIL 22, 1969

'Hubert, you're O K!'
Humphrey Attends Sorority Party

By RON LABRECQUE Senior Reporter

Shortly after 11 p.m. last Friday at a barn in South Amherst rented for the evening by Chi Omega, a couple stood quietly talking in the large, dimly lit doorway. Inside, on an upper loft, over 100 Chi O's and their dates danced and talked as a band played.

Up to this point the party offered little to set it apart from any that may be found any weekend in Amherst. But when the burgundy Lincoln Continental drove up to the entrance followed by a backup car full of Secret Service agents, the barn became the scene of a most distinctive college town party.

A cheeful, vibrant Hubert Humphrey, elated from a day long visit to the University emerged from the vehicle with two student escorts to make a final impromptu stop to meet just a few more students.

Upon his arrival a male undergraduate walked up to the former Vice-President and said "Hubert, you're ok."

"I couldn't believe that he came to the party, he was just so nice," a Chi O remarked.

The South Amherst visit was short but characteristic of Humphrey's visit to the area. Some 12 hours earlier he began a schedule which included several receptions at which he met hundreds of students, a seminar with government students and a major address in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Student disapproval to Humphrey's presence on campus was noticeably absent. During the evening lecture, in the only incident of the day, he received a standing ovation from the crowd as ten "bloodied and bandaged" students carrying signs saying "Remember Chicago" walked in front of him. "Keep your eyes on the platform" he said, "that's where the action is."

For days before his arrival security forces worried over rumors of large scale disruptive demonstrations. They did not materialize.

Throughout the day the former Vice - President displayed an intense interest in student affairs. Shortly after his arrival on campus he met with 50 black students participating in the CCEBS program. In that private meeting he signed a petition concerned with a recent budget cut by Gov. Francis W. Sargent which will not allow the program to continue on full scale.

Humphrey's contact with students was centered on concern. In an afternoon reception he met several hundred students, reserving a personal comment for each. To a candidate for Vice-President of the Junior Class, re remarked that he might be able to "give you a few tips on the office."

On the way to South Amherst Humphrey remarked that he especially enjoyed the individual contact with young people. "My kids tell me I'm more fun than their friends." he said.

Mingling with the crowd and taking time to answer a few more questions concerning more serious matters, the former Vice-President gave an enthusiastic wave and left.

Open Meeting to be Held for Report On Hiring Black Construction Workers

An open meeting to discuss the progress made by the King Council in their talks with O'Connell Construction Company over the lack of black workers will be held today at 2:30 in the Student Union Ballroom.

All people interested in this situation should attend, according to Executive Secretary Gil Salk. "We intend to discuss fully the entire history of the problem of racial discrimination on construction jobs on this campus. We are going to assume that people not attending are not interested, and future action will be determined by a majority of those at the meeting."

After a year's research and meetings with contractors, the King Council petitioned the Administration to request that strong clauses requiring minority group representation be included in all future contracts. The petition, which was unanimously endorsed by the Student Senate, also asked that the Administraion demand that contractors presently working on campus take strong immediate steps to correct the racial imbalance that now exists.

A week ago, several campus leaders, including Gil Salk and Ron Hardy of the King Council; Stan Kinard, President of Afro-Am; Cindi Olken, Vice-President of the Student Senate; George Child, President of IFC, and Mike Minsky of SDS, met with President Lederle to discuss the petition. The President at first refused to accept the request. Salk explained that the petition was not pointing a finger at the University, but rather at the contractors, and that the issue was racial imbalance rather than proven active discrimination. He added that the Uni-

(Continued on Page 2)

"...don't build a better nation from without, but within..."

"We must understand our basic challenge: to achieve not equity in opportunity but equity in results..."

"The first and foremost decision this country must make is to end the war in Viet Nam..."

"I plead with you, President Nixon ... set aside money until ... tried and tried to stop the arms race with the Soviet Union ..."

"The real battle is whether there will be two Americas ... yours and the others." (MDC photo series by John Kelly).

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - The case of Adam Clayton Powell vs. The House of Representatives reached the Supreme Court Monday and the lawyer for the House told the court it has no right to intervene.

Bruce Bromley, defending the House said the House has exclusive and supreme power to judge its members.

Arthur Kiney representing Powell, said Bromley's argument challenged both the Constitution and the power of the court to interpret it.

(AP) - The Supreme Court ruling striking down state welfare residency requirements is expected to spur migration, particularly from the South, to states paying high welfare benefits, an Associated Press survey of welfare directors showed Monday.

About 40 states maintain some form of residency requirement, ranging from one year to as long as five. The ruling is expected to make 100,000 to 200,000 poor people newly eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

NEW YORK (AP) - The United States presently assumes that the Paris peace talks can succeed, but is preparing for the "unwelcome contingency" that North Vietnam isn't yet ready to negotiate seriously, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Monday.

Rogers also reiterated the Nixon administration's backing of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, and revealed that Russia had made new tests of "powerful offensive missiles."

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's lawyers made a last intense plea for his life Monday, asking that his mother's prayers be answered as the fate of the young Arab aasassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was placed in a jury's hands. The seven men and five women got the penalty phase of the case at 11:50 a.m.

Now, at last, the issue was a simple and solemn one - whether the 25-year-old slayer gets life imprisonment or death in the California gas chamber.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - The Harvard Corporation said Friday it will abide by a faculty resolution to reduce ROTC to an extracurricular activity.

William L. Marbury, a Baltimore, Md., lawyer and senior member of the seven-man Corporation, told newsmen he hoped the action will help settle the tension and student strike at the nation's oldest college.

He said that subject to approval by other Harvard faculties, the 365-25 vote of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences will be adopted by the corporation.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) - About 100 members of Students for a Democratic Society barricade d two U.S. Marine Corps recruiters Monday inside a Princeton University campus building.

About 25 SDS members sat on stairs leading to the office used by the recruiters. About 75 outside blocked students who wished to talk to the Marines.

AFTER THE MEETING - Humphrey emerges from Emily Dickinson after a meeting with CCEBS representatives. On the right, is Bobby Henderson, a member of that group and Afro-Am. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Humphrey Speaks on UMass Growth

By HELEN KENSICK
Staff Reporter

After a brief meeting with C.C.E.B.S. students in the Orchard Hill Friday morning, former Vice - President Hubert H. Humphrey was the guest at a reception held in Eugene Field at which he discussed the growth of UMass in recent years.

He criticized the "trimmed budgets" allotted to education by the federal government, and he stressed the need for specialized training for disadvantaged students who suffer the most from these budget cuts. "You have to pin down the money", said Humphrey, "or the funds get used in other ways".

One unnecessary expenditure, according to Humphrey, is President Nixon's ABM Program. He said he hopes Congress will dissuade Nixon from appropriating vast amounts of federal funds for this program, because, as Humphrey put it, you can then "kiss goodbye" to other needed programs. He believes the only solution to the arms race is mutual disarmament and not a unilateral agreement that only "invites trouble."

The most serious problem facing the world today is not nuclear missiles but rather the "missile of alienation", he said. The feeling of no hope for the oppressed masses is an "explosive attitude" that must be overcome. Humphrey advocated specialized educational training as one method of attacking this problem.

"The desperately needed federal funds for more extensive educational programs will only be available when this nation's foreign affairs are more successfully handled," said Humphrey. His two priorities are negotiated political settlement in Vietnam and an effective method of arms control.

He feels that when a "plateau of armament" is reached on a unilateral agreement the tendency to "take off again" to more advanced, more sophisticated, and much more costly weapons will be inevitable.

Report on Black Construction Workers

(Continued from Page 1)

versity had a moral responsibility to involve itself in this on-going problem.

In the end, President Lederle agreed to have the University attorney meet with Isidore Silver, an ACLU lawyer, to draft a strong anti-discrimination clause to be submitted for inclusion in future contracts. He also agreed to arrange a meeting between representatives of O'Connell Construction, the University, Afro-Am, and the King Council.

Last Friday, former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey indicated an interest in the situation, and said he would be willing to join the meeting if it could be switched from O'Connell's Holyoke Office to the UMass campus. The switch did not take place, and the meeting was held in Holyoke at 3 p.m. Friday.

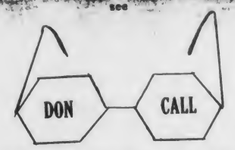
University attorney Sid Meyers and Secretary Robert McCartney joined Gil Salk of the King Council and Stan Kinard and Bob Henderson of Afro-Am in O'Connell's office.

During the two-hour meeting, O'Connell reviewed some of the efforts his company had taken to deal with what he freely admitted was a problem. He claimed that as of last Wednesday, he had 5 black men on the payroll, out of a total work force of 386 men. Various recruiting methods had been tried, and much time was spent analyzing why they had failed. Kinard gave the names of several black employment agencies, and Salk suggested that it would be helpful to establish strong contacts within the black community.

Although all participants in the discussion agreed that there was still much to be done, the student representatives expressed satisfaction with the stated attitudes of O'Connell.

Representatives of O'Connell have been invited to today's meeting, as have members of the University administration. "A step has been made in the right direction, but much remains to be done," said Salk. "We hope that the open meeting will be well-attended by faculty members as well as by students, and that many different viewpoints will be aired. We want to move powerfully and responsibly on this matter, and a hearing of all views is essential."

THE PROGRAM COUNCIL



IS ALIVE AND WELL.

SEE YOU AT SPRING WEEKEND

MAY 1-4.

STUDENT UNION
Governing Board
ELECTIONS
Classes of 1970, 1971, 1972
Thursday, April 24
S.U. Lobby

When you want wire rim glasses, pick them up at a gas station.
But when you want
GOLD FILLED FRAMES
see

We have the largest selection of domestic and imported gold filled frames in the area. Stop by and see.

DAYS
56 Main St.
Amherst
ALpine 3-7002

NIGHTS
113 Russell
Hadley
586-1138

Photography!
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on films and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
625 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

SPEAKER OF THE MASSACHUSETTS
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
David Bartley
will present a major address to an OPEN MEETING
of the STUDENT SENATE
at Bowker Auditorium, April 23, 1969 — 7:00 P.M.
ALL WELCOME, PLEASE ATTEND!
Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week.
Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 13, 1960.

'We Have Failed to Achieve Martin Luther King's Dream'

(Continued from Page 1)

"I plead with you, President Nixon," Humphrey said, " to set money aside until we have tried and tried to stop the arms race with the Soviet Union."

In urging that 1969 be set aside as the "year to risk for peace," the former Vice-President said, "The time is short to be willing to run some risk for peace. There has been enough spending on war, and it is time to call a halt." Directing his next remark to the students, Humphrey said,

"That is what the students need to ask of the government now."

Returning to his first statements about Civil Rights, Humphrey said, "We could use another memorable Freedom March for the cause of social justice in this country."

Humphrey said he was proud to have fought for the Civil Rights legislation and to have participated in the Freedom March.

"It is time, I believe, to recognize that powerful bi-partisan agregations do not rise in a vacuum. They rise in response to real issues . . . specific changes . . . concrete legislative goals," he said. "With the passage of all major outstanding civil rights laws, the civil rights coalition of the 1950s and 1960 has understandably lost much of its focus and impact."

Humphrey asked that all "those Americans who seek to honor his (King's) name and memory should rally together now to win this battle over national priorities . . . because unless this battle is won this year, the outcome of all subsequent encounters over resources for cities, for education, for health care, for jobs and housing, and for food will largely be decided even before the issues get to Congress."

He said, "We have failed to achieve Martin Luther King's dream for America primarily because we have failed to generate the bi-partisan political commitment necessary to do the job."

"We need the vision," he said, "to see a new force that addresses itself to carrying on the tasks for which Martin Luther King died."

In conclusion of his address, Humphrey said, "We should see to it that America doesn't become two Americas. Stand up individually for reconciliation and reject the course of violence."

In the question and answer period which followed the main address. Humphrey said he felt the question of granting academic credit for ROTC should be left up to the administration at each college and university, and in view of the controversy now "more could be gained from OCS, but everyone should have the opportunity to take ROTC."

When questioned about his candidacy for the presidency, Humphrey said, "I never doubted for a moment that I was fully prepared."

Talking about Senator Eugene McCarthy, Humphrey said, "We are old friends, and I won't do anything to detract from him, but I believe I put my life on the line too to clean up Minnesota, for Civil Rights and in this campaign too."

"I have paid my price," he said, "and I have no apologies to make to a man who has paid less."

Humphrey Attends Press Conference

Former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey was the guest at a press conference held Friday afternoon in Memorial Hall. When asked about the downed plane off Korea, Humphrey said that it was "good sign" the Soviets were willing to assist the U. S. in looking for debris. "President Nixon now sees the job President Johnson had in the Pueblo incident," he said.

Humphrey also said, "The peace of the world depends on United States-Soviet relationships." He expressed the belief that the ABM system would not add to the security of the U. S., but it would "jeopardize negotiations." Humphrey then reiteratied his stand for negotiations now.

In answering a query about campus disorders, the former Vice-President said, "Students are different today. They are the TV generation."

As an "effective goal" of student-administration relationships, Humphrey urged university authorities work to get student participation in the rules and administration of a university." "Destruction in the classroom means civil authority," he said, "but if the unrest is on campus, it should be handled by the university."

When asked about a volunteer army and the Sisson Case, Humphrey declined to comment on the Sisson Case, but said, "A volunteer army is an ideal." He doesn't think one can be accomplished now because of full employment, and also he felt a volunteer army would be relying for the most part on minority groups and Negroes for defense. "It is definitely wrong to hire the blacks for defense," he said.

He added though that if he could be convinced that there would a proportion amoung the volunteers, then a volunteer army would be all right." He also said, "I don't think I want a professional army."

The welfare system he said is in "a sad state of affairs." He urged some form of national standards and equalization be set up. "The present system is inadequate," he said. "I was going to do something about it, if I were president."

Prior to the press conference, Humphrey gave a brief lecture and answered questions from government and history majors who had been invited to a seminar in SBA.

Humphrey was a guest at a press conference held in Memorial Hall Friday. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Flood Waters Rise

(AP) - The Mississippi River continued its rise Monday through Iowa and Missouri while flooding in New England and the South was mostly confined to lowlands.

The Mississippi's major flood crest was at Lansing, Iowa. The river's rise was attributed to last week's rain but it did not affect towns in Wisconsin where the flood threat was most serious.

For those long treks up the side of a mountain, you want sure footing.

Bolles has the shoe that will give you solid footing with the popular

BRONCO
Dunham climbing/hiking boot.
soft leather lined and specially padded, full cushion insole single piece construction, Vibram sole and heel
Sizes 6-13, N-M-W

BOLLES
FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES

CABOT EAST
75 Cabot St.
Chicopee ● 594-6022
Take Route 116 Direct to Theatre
SUNDAY AT 2 & 8 P.M.
LIVE!! ON STAGE!!
"THE WEIGHT"
FROM FILLMORE EAST - SLIM
HARPO'S BACK-UP GROUP
"Reality Sandwich"
DIRECT FROM "THE ARK" - BOSTON
"ZU" A New Underground Sound
Lighting By "Midnight Sun," N.Y.C.
FREE PARKING - REAR OF THEATRE

WEDNESDAY
THE DYNAMIC DESATATIONS
Go Nuts at the Hutch
THE HUTCH INN

Now in Paperback

Eldridge Cleaver's
SOUL ON ICE
A DELTA BOOK / $1.95
Dell Publishing Co., Inc

APRIL 24 IS THE DAY TO VOTE
CLASS AND SUG BOARD ELECTIONS
IN THE STUDENT UNION COLONIAL LOUNGE
9:00 A.M. - 5:30 P.M.
Less than 20% of the Student Body voted in the primary.
EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT TO VOTE
(Student Senate Public Relations/SGA)

Opportunities, Experiences are Broadened In Hitch-hiking Trek Across Europe

Hitch-hiking through Europe can be as rewarding an experience as four years of college for a student. Traveling provides the opportunity to compare ideas developed in the university against personal experience.

With "Europe on five dollars a Day", a National Student Association I.D. card, and a carefully packed knapsack, the student can find food and lodging for $2 to $3 a day. Forexample, the guidebook lists that the cheapest student hotels in Rome are closest to ancient ruins and within walking distance to native-frequented restaurants.

In France, the car that stops for riders most likely will be driven by a student; older Frechmen rarely pick up hitchers. If the driver is a militant socialist, the rest of the ride provides time for him to enlighten his audience about the necessity for destroying America and Capitalism.

French Communists, British Laborites, Czechoslovak Democrats, and students in self-imposed exile become friends and companions instead of statistics memorized for a histor v exam. Lonely roads, crowded subways, thirsty hours spent looking for water and fruit, change city names and vague references in Literature into cherished memories.

And then - an insight. A man can do anything if he thinks he can. More important than all the changes in ideas is the realization for the student of what he has done. By selecting a goal, hitching through Europe, and by accomplishing it, what the student learns most about is himself.

Student Voice Bill Goes Before House

A bill that would authorize the governor to appoint students to the boards of trustees of all the state institutions of higher education has been given a favorable report by the Education Committee and will go before the House this week.

Sponsored by Rep. George Rogers of New Bedford, the bill provides for student representatives on the boards of the University of Massachusetts, the state and community colleges and the two technological institutes.

Rep. Rogers, house chairman of the education committee, said he thinks the bill has an "excellent chance" of getting passed in spite of the so-called "backlash" that has developed in some state legislatures against student protestors.

"The reason we're having these protests is that students don't have a voice," Rogers said. "If we give them a voice they may stop some of this."

Rogers noted that student leaders who recently had a student government day at the State House passed the bill unanimously.

Dean Noffsinger is Guest At MLK Coffee Hour Today

Associate Dean of Students Mark Noffsinger will be the guest at this week's regular meet-the-administrator coffee hour sponsored by the Martin Luther King Jr., Social Action Council. As usual, the coffee hour will take place this afternoon between 12 and 2 in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union.

Dean Noffsinger, this year's recipient of the Metawampee Award, recently announced that he will be leaving the University at the end of this academic year. The most easily accessible of all the administrators Dr. Noffsinger has earned the respect and admiration of the major portion of the student body.

Although he has sometimes been thrust into unpopular positions by the demands of his office, he has always maintained a strongly sympathetic ear to the needs of the students.

Among other accomplishments, he is a member of the Board of Directors of the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council, and his voice was strong in the original formation of the Council.

The coffee hour is open to the entire University community, and free coffee will be available.

Prof. of Civil Engineering Presented Lecture Friday

Dr. Jimmie E. Quon, professor of civil engineering at Northwestern University, spoke on "Coagulation of Aerosols and its Significance to Air Pollution Control," Friday, April 18, in the Engineering Auditorium.

The lecture was one of a series of seminars sponsored by the UMass department of civil engineering.

Dr. Quon in the author of approximately 40 articles and other publications in the field of environmental and sanitary engineering, particularly in the areas of air polution, thermal decomposition of wastes and solid waste disposal.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and has served on a number of national and state committees dealing with environmental engineering problems. He was voted one of the 10 outstanding young men of Chicago in 1964.

Notices

SENIOR HONORS
Open question and answer meeting with the Director of Honors, Thursday, April 24, 8:15 p.m., Hasbrouck 20.

WRITE FOR PEACE COMMITTEE
Meeting for all members of the Committee and all interested in working on it tonight at 8 p.m. in corner of New Hatch.

OUTING CLUB
Meeting Tuesday, April 22, 6:30 Bristol Room. All those interested in Lake George Trip should attend.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
There will be a Christian Science testimony meeting tonight at 6:45 in the Worcester Room. All are welcome.

DAMES CLUB
Rummage Sale, Sat. April 26, VFW on Main St., 9 a.m. til noon.

SGA COMMITTEE
April 24, in fact, has been cancelled.

PEACE CORPS
The Peace Corps placement tests will be given at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. today in Whitmore Hall, room 169. The test will last for half an hour. Those taking the test should bring their completed application forms.

ANGEL FLIGHT
Mandatory meeting -- all angels must be present or a written excuse required, tonight, Dickinson Hall, 7:30.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be a general meeting tonight, 6:30 in the Nantucket-Norfolk Rooms. Executive Board will meet at 6:00.

WMUA
Station Meeting tonight, at 7:30, to discuss amendments to Constitution. All voting members requested to attend.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be Wed. night, 7:30 in WOPE. Plans for EDSARDA will be made.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF
Important meeting, Wed., 7:30, all representatives please attend.

COLONEL'S CADRE
Meeting tonight, 7 p.m., Dickinson.

ENGLISH CLUB
Discussion of Creative Writing with Professors Joseph Longland, Thomas Auzel, Andrew Farler, and Robert Tucker; Fri., April 25, 4 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Sponsored by the English Club.

ITALIAN CLUB
Meeting tonight, 7:30 in Dukes Room. Elections for next year.

CHEMISTRY CURRICULUM
Open meeting for Chem majors and faculty to discuss possible revisions in the Chem curriculum, tonight, Goessman, 7:30.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting Thursday, April 24, 7:30 p.m. Plymouth Room. Color film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump are urged to attend.

SOCIOLOGY UNDERGRAD LIASON COMM
Thursday, April 24, at 8:30 in Norfolk Room.

MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE
A Military Ball will be held Sat., May 10, at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom. Dress -- formal. Tickets now on sale at Dickinson Hall for $5 a couple. Theme for the Ball is "Forward Together."

MAY 9
The Assassination of God -- A Celebration. Student Union Ballroom.

FINNISH CLUB
Will show a movie "Welcome to Scandinavia," and meet for class after it on Wed. at 8 in the Commonwealth Room. For info call Nancy at 6-8343.

CANCELLATION
Department of Fine Arts lecture by Professor Sekler scheduled for Wed., at 8 p.m. has been cancelled due to the disturbances at Harvard.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Film on American heritage, 6:30 p.m. Main Lounge, Prince House. Coffee hour. All are welcome.
Greek evening, Wed., April 23, at 6:30 in the Colonial Lounge. The remaining coffee hours for this semester will be held in the Colonial Lounge. Everyone welcome!

SCROLLS: 1967-68
You are cordially invited to a tea put on by the scrolls of 1968-69 and 1969-70. It will be held on April 30 from 7-8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. We are looking forward to seeing you again. If you can attend, please call Chris Sawicki, Becky Cameron or Debbie Nadeau. Thank you.

SOPH SCROLLS
Meeting at 6:30, bring room-cleaning money, bring money for pins if planning to keep them; all those going with APO - meet at Union Sat.

FRESHMEN SCROLLS
Meeting 8:00 Thurs. in Worcester Room A&B remember room-choosing; nomination for officers; money for pins, photographs Thurs. at 11:15 in S.U. Ballroom, initiation is April 30 at 8:00, tea at 7:00 - Memorial Hall.

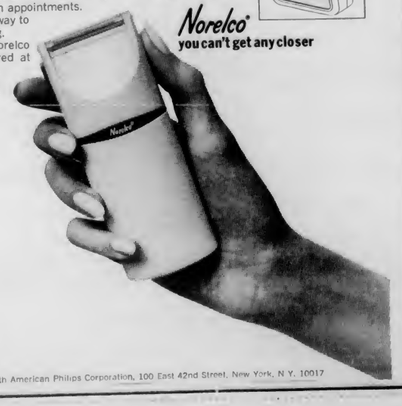
BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. E.T. Reese of Natick Lab. speaking on "Biochemistry of Cellulases" in Rm. 51, Goessmann Laboratory at 4 p.m. Wed.

R.N.'s and L.P.N's NEEDED

in small, progressive, well-equipped, suburban hospital with excellent fringe benefits and shift differentials paid. Please contact:

DIRECTOR OF NURSES
Wing Memorial Hospital
PALMER, MASS. 01069
Tel. 283-7651
We invite your inspection.

This campus is crawling with leg men



Your legs get the once-over every time you turn around. And they'd better look great. Once over with the sleek new Lady Norelco, and they will.

The rest of you will, too. Because the Lady Norelco isn't just a fast, close, comfortable leg shaver. It's a fast, close, gentle underarm shaver too. And it's even an easy-to-handle trimmer that takes off those wispy little neck strands that sneak up on Sassoons between appointments. It's a whole new way to stay great looking.

So is the new Norelco Ladyshave pictured at right. It comes in a purple and white travel purse and does a good job of pampering your legs, under arms and pocketbook.

Lady Norelco and Norelco Ladyshave. Two fabulous new ladies' shavers. For the benefit of man.

Norelco you can't get any closer

Good Housekeeping

©1969 North American Philips Corporation, 100 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017

BOLD

plays

9 P.M.

TUESDAY

AT THE CHEQUERS

256-8189

75c admission

School of Ed. Creates New Concepts Under Leadership of Dean Allen

One of the most exciting educational adventures in the country is going on in a prosaic red brick building on the fringe of the University of Massachusetts campus.

The building houses a diverse, highly unorthodox collection of people all dedicated to the proposition that much of what passes for education from kindergarten to graduate school is irrelevant, sometimes harmful and overwhelmingly dull.

They are committed to changing all that and they have begun by throwing out the entire curriculum of the School of Education and starting from scratch to build a new school that will give shape to their dream of what the process of learning can be like.

The revolution began in January, 1968, when the university hired Dwight W. Allen, an associate professor of education at Stanford University, to be the new dean of its School of Education.

Allen is not the average state university school of education dean. He is a young (37) man given to colorful shirts, bright ties and statements that challenge all the basic assumptions on which the educational establishment comfortably rests.

For instance, he cheerfully told a recent meeting of school superintendents who were worried about getting waivers for days missed during snow storms that it didn't really make much difference how long children stayed in school - they learn about the same amount regardless of time.

But Allen is not just a critic. He is one of the brightest, most creative people in education today and at Stanford helped to develop the concepts of flexible scheduling, which arranges time periods to fit educational needs, and micro-teaching, which breaks up teaching skills into bite-sized chunks that can be learned easily.

According to one of his associates, Allen told the UMass trustees who were considering hiring him, "I am not safe and I am not cheap." It is a testimony to the courage and vision of the trustees that they hired him anyway.

When Allen came to UMass he brought with him 33 new faculty members and 65 "planning doctoral" students - one of the most unlikely groups of people ever assembled to run a school of education. The group includes people from all disciplines and backgrounds - computer scientists, county government administrators and directors of ghetto community centers - people with degrees in law and Hebrew literature, in music and anthropology and people with no advanced degrees at all. Almost one-fourth of all the planning doctoral students are black.

An example of the kind of man who came with Allen to begin the revolution is Dan Jordan. A slender, dark haired young man of 36, Jordan is a former Rhodes Scholar who began his career as a concert pianist, choreographed and produced a ballet for his doctoral dissertation, went back to school for degrees in Jungian psychology and social anthropology and was director of the Institute for Research into Human Behavior at Indiana State before coming to Amherst.

Jordan's range of interest and talents is almost beyond belief. He directed the tutoring program for black student this year at U-Mass and is currently doing a study on compensatory education of disadvantaged children in Massachusetts.

He is also working on the relationship between aesthetics and cognitive development ("Did you know that music changed the blood chemisty and energy level?. . . That's why you can't do the twist for 10 minutes without music. . .") and sometimes begins his lectures by playing an etude.

Jordan is also planning to set up a center that would attempt to explore the educational implications of what is being learned about the chemistry of the brain. "Drugs that affect learning are just around the corner. There's no doubt about it," Jordan says. "Most schools of education will be 50 years behind. We hope to have a center going by 1972."

Once Allen had lured Jordan and men like him to Amherst, in September, he promptly closed the school for a week, put the whole faculty and all the doctoral students on a plane and took them to Colorado for a retreat to get to know each other and begin planning the brave new world of education.

What has begun to emerge from that session and from the planning that has gone on continuously all year is an outline for a new school that will not look like any other school of education anywhere.

It will be a school that puts much less emphasis on credentials and degrees than on performance, a school where people will move in and out easily as their educational needs dictate, where some courses will be taught in two weeks and some may take two years, where more work will be done "in the field" than in the classrooms, where subject matter will be organized around concepts like aesthetics and technology and communication rather than placed in little boxes like "Educational Psychology 301."

Above all it will be a school where, as one professor said, the question asked of all who propose new ideas will be "Why not?" rather than "Why?"

The school already has a style all its own. People talk about planning as a continuous process instead of a one-year operation. ("The catalog is a progess report," one professor says.) And they think of themselves more as a community than as a hierarchial structure of students and teachers. The school's main governing body is an assembly made up of the faculty, the doctoral candidates and representatives of the undergraduates.

Twice a year every student evaluates his professors and the faculty evaluates the deans. (Allen's rating has dropped a few points since Fall - a phenomenon that often afflicts presidents and others who assume leadership.)

One by-product of all this ferment and change is confusion. Not to say occasional chaos. From Allen on down, everyone is quick to acknowledge that there are problems. Indeed, one of the most refreshing things about the school is that people will point out problems the interviewer has not even thought of. Allen admits frankly that he is not a very good administrator and that the school suffers from this even as it benefits from some of his strengths.

Even though undergraduate programs were not changed this year some have felt the effects of the upheaval and there is dissatisfaction. "If you like order and structure this can be a very unsettling place," a professor says.

There has been grumbling too in other parts of the university and there are people who confidently predict that the whole enterprise will come crashing down soon and things will get back to normal. One of the problems is money.

The school, as Allen said, is not cheap and its 10-year projection calls for a $35 million physical plant and a yearly operating budget of $17 million. Since the school is aware that the state Legislature is less than enthusiastic about such expenditure, plans call for a campaign to get 35 to 50 per cent of its funds from outside sources, mainly government and foundations.

"The whole structure is so inter-locked you practically can't get at it," Allen says. "If we prepare more innovative teachers they go out and get frustrated. If schools try to become innovative, they can't get staff and materials. The public is not going to pay more unless they get a better job and they can't get a better job unless they pay more."

But Allen and his faculty and students are a long way from being discouraged.

"No," Allen says, "is not the right answer."

(Reprinted from Boston Globe)

President Lederle Admits Student Takeover a Success

AMHERST (AP) - "None of us likes to admit that the tactic of student takeover has been successful," says John W. Lederle, president of the University of Massachusetts, "but it has."

"Students have succeeded in forcing decisions on issues that are usually debated long and hard, but we, as university presidents, can never say that violence is justified," said Lederle in an interview on the day Harvard's University Hall was being seized by students.

"Academic administrators have to try to keep ahead of the problems that cause students to take over buildings."

"We have to get students to communicate through the normal, regular channels, but we have to also speed up the decision-making process to eliminate the need for violence."

Lederle cautions of an impending backlash to student violence.

"There is plenty of evidence around the country that legislators and alumni are demanding a hard line against student disorders," sayd Lederle.

"Older people are accustomed to the 'system' in which all change takes time. Students, on the other hand, are here for only four years and they want things to happen immediately."

"The biggest problem in looking at student disorders," says Lederle, "is that they are trying to solve real issues that are very important. In the old days the issues were panty raids, and student drinking. Today we are confronted with treatment of the Negro and the Vietnam War - issues that were swept under the rug in the past.

"What all parties to the student disorders - the taxpayers, legislators and parents - must realize is that ignoring the problem won't make it go away."

"When looking at student disorders, it must be realized that those involved constitute only a very small percentage of the entire students. Many other students are concerned about the issues, but they always allow room for negotiation."

Lederle says the confrontation, often resulting in the use of police, comes when the students make "nonnegotiable" demands.

"The Afro-American society presented a list of demands last fall. There were a few tense days, but compromise was possible. Violence was averted," he said.

Recalling the use of state police to remove the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) from the university administration building, Lederle said: "This group presented an impossible demand that military and job recruiters be barred from campus. I had no room to move. The police were the only answer."

"Many students want change," he said, "but only a very few engage in violent protest or takeover."

Operating a tax-supported university during student misbehavior often results in demands by legislators that officials take a harder line in dealing with the students.

"I wouldn't call it pressure," said the UMass president, "legislators don't like the word, and I don't like it either. But often they do call with questions and at times, suggestions.

"Legislators have every right, even a duty, to see that tax funds are being spent correctly. I have been able to work very well with all state leaders on many issues."

"And besides," he said, "presidents of private colleges have to approach alumni with hat in hand for funds after student disorders. The old grads exert far more pressure then the lawmakers."

Lederle says he is disturbed about the silent mass of students on any campus.

INTERVIEWS

for students interested in living in Orchard Hill next semester will be held

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23

to

THURSDAY, APRIL 24

from 7-12 P.M.

in Eugene Field Conference Room.

JOHN BEAN

9 - 12

WEDNESDAY NIGHT

at

Chequers

THREE C'S

Greeting Cards for Every Occasion
Candies — Fresh Deliveries Weekly
Finest Papetries of Every Description
Quality Gifts to Suit Everyone
Engraved Invitations and Announcements
Supplies for School and Office
Candles in Every Size and Color
191 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Daily
Rear Entrance — Free Parking in rear

Touring Europe in '69?

Remember CZECHOSLOVAKIA!

It's easy to go there!

Meet the young people of Prague. See the historic landmarks: Hradcany Castle, Wenceslaus Square, the little Golden Street where Kafka lived, the oldest university in Central Europe. And gorge yourself on a feast of all the arts . . . Mediaeval to multi-media. Baroque and Rennaissance. Dvorak and rock, frescoes and films.

Not more than ninety minutes from the farthest point in Europe ... Prague is one of the most exciting capitals in the world today and Bratislava, the romantic capital of Slovakia on the Danube is just an hour's drive from Vienna.

Group tours from $57 per person for 7 days, all incl.
Visas issued within 48 hours.

Contact your travel agent or write for information:

CEDOK CZECHOSLOVAK TRAVEL BUREAU
10 East 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016
Name:
Address:
City
State Zip
My travel agent is:

POSITIONS OPEN

for the following Student Senate Joint Committees:

STUDENT AFFAIRS HEALTH COUNCIL
FINE ARTS, UPWARD BOUND, STUDENT LIFE
FIVE COLLEGE COORDINATION
FACULTY SENATE SCHOLARSHIP

Applications available in the Senate Office, Student Union.

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

FROM OUR SIDE

His Own Man

Through his campaign for the Presidency, Hubert Humphrey was plagued by an image that to many Americans was one in which he was very much the same kind of person a s President Johnson and all policies of the Johnson Administration would be continued in any Humphrey Administration be they good or bad. Unfortunately for the American people this was a misconception that probably cost Mr. Humphrey the election, for this was the distinct impression many people were left with after his visit to UMass this past Friday.

Despite his association with the Johnson Administration his vehement stand against the proposed ABM system which was initially proposed during that administration is very much contrary to the position one might expect from somebody who had been in such a high position. His plea for domestic priorities in federal spending is a far cry from what was espoused by those in high places in the Johnson Administration. His pungent comments at the news conference concerning present ghetto spending stating that ghettos are not just "brick and mortar" seemed to show sincere feelings suppressed during the campaign by his wholly political image.

A summation of his feelings to the previously mentioned subjects are seemingly contained in the following statement: "And it can be predicted with equal certainty that as this military spending accelerates, our urgent domestic needs will be shortchanged and our efforts to mobilize the country in eradicating these deprivations will fall woefully short."

During his visit to UMass Hubert Humphrey conveyed an image to many very contrary to one previously held. It can only be hoped that that image is one that can be projected to more people in this country. We can only hope that future speakers are as warmly received or that any such programs are planned so well. For this, special thanks must go especially to Maragaret Franson and Christopher McGahan.

The Editors

A Hypocrite

"Mayor Daley is one of the outstanding public officials in the United States." Damn straight he is. And it's hardly inconceivable that Daley could not return the compliment, with the same vast amount of credibility of course. Of Course. For a man whose theme song should go something like:

"When I'm not with the one I love
"I love the one I'm with",

he certainly got a rousing welcome from all the inmates here in Umieland.

I thought that his presence on this campus would have been to everyone what it was to me - a mockery. But somewhere something went horribly wrong, and the result was a terrifying exhibition by young and old alike. It reminds one of the typical reaction to the late Nazi hero, our beloved Adolf Hitler.

It was a puppeteers heyday, complete with strings.
Chicago?
Viet Nam?
Lyndon Baines Johnson?
Lost in the dust covering the grave of the thinking America.
Adolf Eichmann was only following orders.
Hubert Humphrey was only following orders.
May his sentence be commensurate with his crime.

Strom Thurmond never says anything he does not sincerely believe. Hubert Humphrey is a hypocrite of the lowliest type. I doubt if, in all the world, there can be found a man with less integrity.

Kathy Biggane
Monday Day-Editor

SOME PEOPLE BELIEVE "EVERYTHING" THEY READ

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Brawery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarella '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Pat Flanagan
STAFF — Rose Miller
EDITORIAL — Michael Dorman
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Ken Stevens, Rich McIntyre, Dave Craig

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Campus Comment

A B M II

It has been said, most recently by Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee in reference to the Administration's Safeguard system, that the ABM is a defense in search of a mission. Indeed, if one recalls the bewildering array of arguments in support of the various ABM schemes, one might be permitted to wonder whether these arguments should be taken as assessments made with U.S. security in mind or as rationalizations for a system whose real strategic value remains in doubt.

Just a few weeks ago, the Defense Secretary and the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimous in their judgement that a "thin" ABM system for the protection of our general population against a small scale attack was feasible. Now, we are told by Secretary Laird that protection of our population is impossible and that we should proceed, instead, to deploy a system designed to protect our deterrent force. One should be pardoned, after all this, for suspecting that what the military wants is an ABM system-period-with the details of mission, over-all strategy, technical feasibility, etc., etc., left up to the military establishment to work out. Their past record, however, makes clear that the United States can no longer afford to indulge the military in their requests without first subjecting them to careful public inspection. In this article we shall analyze the arguments relating to strategic considerations used by Secretary Laird to support the Administration's case for deployment of the Safeguard system.

The fundamental premise of the Defense Secretary's recent presentation before the Senate was that deployment of the new, more accurate SS-9 ICBM by the Soviet Union represents an attempt on their part to attain a first-strike capability. In this situation, the reasoning goes, the Soviet Union, knowing that it can thereby prevent unacceptable levels of damage to their own population and industry, will be tempted to launch such an attack. Clearly, if either side were to achieve this so-called first-strike capability it would represent an unstable strategic configuation which would not be likely to last.

The argument of Secretary Laird for deployment of the Safeguard system comes down to these two points:

a) The Soviet's recent strides in production and deployment of ICBM's represents an attempt to achieve a first-strike capability.

b) Given a), our best response is to deploy an ABM system to protect our land-based Minutemen ICBM's and bomber forces from a Soviet missile attack.

Both of these points must be seriously questioned.

This country's response to the "Missile Gap" scare of the late fifties and early sixties resulted in a U.S. superiority in deliverable warheads of three or four to one. It should not be surprising then, if the Soviets seek to recover some sort of parity by stepping up their own ICBM deployment. This step would not be indicative of an intention to achieve a first-strike capability. In moving to install ABM it is perhaps we who are again initiating the "next round" by responding to what is essentially a Soviet response to our ICBM build up in the Sixties with a countermove to which the Soviets must inevitably respond. At the very least, it would seem wise to put off ABM deployment until serious disarmament negotiations were under way, at which time Soviet intentions might become clearer.

In support of the first-strike interpretation, Laird makes much of the fact that the newest Soviet ICBM, the SS-9, is significantly more accurate than those deployed in the past. This, he contends, indicates a clear indication of their intention to knock out our Minuteman force which, it is well known, is housed in thick concrete "silos" that can withstand anything except a direct hit. This interpretation of the meaning of the increased accuracy of the new Soviet missiles is open to criticism. While it is true that the Soviets could possibly hit our Minuteman sites with the SS-9, it is also true that in missiles, as in any other weapons system, accuracy is an asset no matter what your particular target is. It is more likely that the latest Soviet ICBM's represent simply the latest "state of the art" and not a conscious attempt to develop a first-strike force. This, in fact, is the opinion of many Pentagon experts, including Dr. Alan Enthoven, an acknowledged authority on Soviet-American strategic relationships.

Even if the new SS-9's could hit our hardened missile sites the Russian leaders know quite well what Secretary Laird himself stated at the Senate hearings: the design of the Minuteman together with the distant early warning radar system, allow us to launch our entire offensive counter-strike force in a time so short that enemy warheads would not have reached their targets. To use Laird's phrase, "we could empty our silos" before any first-strike even reached them. Thus it is clear that the essential deterrent value of our Minuteman force will not be appreciably "eroded," to again use Laird's term, by the new Soviet missiles.

Our deterrent consists of Polaris submarine launched missiles as well as the land based Minutemen. Even if the Soviet leaders did entertain the insane notion that their new SS-9's had eroded our Minuteman force to the point where it was no longer necessary to consider it an effective deterrent to attack, they would still have to recognize the existence of over six-hundred (soon to be over six THOUSAND) submarine launched missiles which their SS-9's cannot destroy and which could deliver, by themselves, unacceptable damage to the Soviet Union.

It is hard to avoid the conclusion that what we are witnessing in the testimony of the Defense Secreatary before the Senate is a series of fabricated arguments designed to obtain support for a weapons system of little or no strategic value. The case presented by Mr. Laird relies on arousing fears of a Soviet first-strike attack in the minds of the general population by selectively revealing classified information and then giving this data the most frightening interpretation possible. It is time that the American people realized the even more frightening consequences of allowing their military establishment to decide questions in which the military's own self-interest is such as to make it the least qualified to render final judgement.

Mark Taylor
Department of Physics

Juniors.

To the editor:

The elections for Class of 1970 President were not a farce but were indeed a tragedy. All of us have been forced into a position of re-evaluation. It is very important that none of us fall into the trap that has been conveniently set for us.

Those of us who know the five candidates are certain that none of them would have taken part in such an escapade; nor would any of them have ever condoned such an action. The alleged ballot box stuffing should not reflect on the character of any of the candidates. It is most tragic that Peter Rosenthal has been placed in the position of having to defend himself. Peter, as well as the other four candidates, is above reproach. We urge you all to ignore what has happened and to base your decisions on the valid issues.

Laurence R. Marcus
Sen. -at-Large 1969
Paul J. Silverman
Past Senate President

Room Fuss

To the editor:

We realize that some form of room security deposit is necessary to insure full occupancy of the dormitories for the fall semester. In general, we feel that this room deposit is in the best interest of the students. Many of us can well remember the confusion caused by students who sign up for rooms and then decide to move off campus.

However, we feel that certain changes are necessary; and therefore; would like to make the following suggestions: first of all, that the date for payment of the room security deposit be extended to July 1; and secondly, that the notification of cancellation date for rebate be extended to August 1 because students lack the funds.

Due to the many problems and decisions inherent in obtaining off campus housing, a change in the rebate date to August 1 would be most beneficial. Also, it seems unlikely that any valid listing of entering freshmen will be compiled by August 1; and therefore, an early rebate date merely inconveniences students for the sake of expediency. With the massive computer facilities available to the administration, the additional time alloted to the students by the suggested changes should leave ample time to handle all housing assignments.

James E. Kelly
James A. Manning, Jr.
Fred Thimmel

The Daily Collegian will run a candidates forum Wed. for all contested class officers. All letters must be received in the Collegian office today at 5:00 p.m. In all the letters the candidates must answer only the following three questions:
1) What do you think the role of class government should do?
2) If elected, what will you do to further the role as you see it?
3) For classes of 1971 and 1972: What type of entertainment would you be in favor of for your respective class sponsored weekends? For the class of 1970: What type of Senior Week would you plan?

UMass Awarded Ford Tutoring Grant To Increase and Support CCEBS

The University of Massachusetts has been awarded a $92,000 Ford Foundation Grant for a state-supported program to increase the number of black students at the University and in public colleges in the state. The grant helps support tutoring and guidance programs and helps pay tuition and other expenses for students. Shown is UMass President John W. Lederle presenting notification of the grant to four student representatives of the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students (CCEBS). Left to right, Stephen A. Bowden of Boston; Candace Early of Springfield; Shirley Alexander of Jamaica Plain; President Lederle; and Wayne Lucas of Dorchester.

College Christian Scientists Meet in Aug. To Discuss Constructive Social Change

Constructive social change will be the theme at one of the largest international religious conferences for college students held this year. "Building in a Revolutionary Period" is the topic for the biennial meeting of Christian Science college organizations scheduled August 28-30 at the denomination's headquarters in Boston. Students from over 30 nations will attend.

The conference will stress the need for a realistic implementing of ideas that are developed. Subtopics for the 1969 meeting have come from a set of resolutions adopted at the 1967 meeting.

The students' statement released two years ago in August named social tension, international conflict, and practical spiritual healing of mankind's crises as matters for urgent concern. Campus unrest, moral stability in society the drug problem, and academic honesty and excellence were also on the list.

Christian Scientists stress the dynamic relevance of prayer. Talks and panels can be expected to face the question of what divine reality really means to men now. Students will ask: Does God make a difference in the social arena as well a s in personal experience?

Some 5000 students attended the 1967 meeting, coming from 1100 schools in 31 countries.

Honors Program To be Extended To Class of '70

Invitations will soon be extended to members of the class of 1970 to participate in the senior honors program of the University for the coming year.

Dr. Everett Emerson, Director of Honors, has announced an open question and answer session, for all interested students, to be held on Thursday, April 24, at 8:15 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20.

Each spring rising seniors with outstanding academic records have the opportunity to become candidates for departmental honors. Department heads recommend to the Honors Office those students whom they consider capable of carrying on independent work leading to a senior honors thesis.

Typically, such students have an overall average of 3.0 or better, or show special promise in research. The Honors Office then extends an invitation to those students that have been nominated by their major departments to become honors candidates. Students who accept the invitation are assigned advisers who guide their work.

The senior honors project, when completed, earns the student six semester hours of credit; and a grade of A or B earns him graduation with honors in his major.

Many students who participate in the program find especially valuable the opportunity to undertake a serious piece of research, working with a professor with special knowledge in the area of the research.

Further information is available from the Honors Office, E-23 Machmer, or at the open meeting on Thursday.

Hatchers Number 7500 a Day Enjoy Food and Atmosphere

By ROBERT GRANT
Staff Correspondent

About 7500 students patronize the Hatch everyday, consuming 800 hamburgers, 360 hot dogs, 1000 cold sandwiches, 50 gallons of ice cream, and 8400 cups of coffee.

To serve the students is a work force of 42 full-time employees, along with 30 part-timers, and 85 students, according to R. W. Colvin, manager of the Student Union Food Service.

Although content with their hamburgers and hot dogs, many students are not aware of the many food services that the Hatch offers to the University community.

For those who are tired of "mystery meat" and jello at the dining commons, or those who have no meal ticket, six full-time cooks provide the Hatch with a wide variety of hot meals every day. Usually, Thursday night is set aside as "international night". when perhaps a selection of Mexican delicacies would be offered, or perhaps a selection of Italian meals. Colvin said that the response to "international night" has been such that it will probably be continued when the Hatch moves to the new Student Union. Another hot meal special that has had excellent response is the steak and chicken specials on Sunday.

Formally known as the Student Union Food Service, the Hatch also has a catering service on the main floor of the Student Union, where waitresses serve breakfasts, luncheons, dinners, and coffee hours. For the eight to ten daily parties the catering service can easily accomodate up to 500 guests. During the spring vacation it served up to 1000 in one day.

The Hatch also has a take-out service, where fraternities, dormitories, clubs, and other organizations can purchase bulk coffee, punch, and other beverages, along with doughnuts, pastries, and other foods, for their meetings, discussion groups, and get-togethers. The Hatch usually supplies the food, drinks, and cooking equipment for class picnics, accomodating as many as 1000.

The Hatch has been a service to the University community for thirteen years. It has only one year left before it moves to the new Student Union rising up next door, and moving with the Hatch will be the thousands of students eating those hundreds of hamburgers, and drinking those thousands of cups of coffee.

uptight?
cool it this summer at university of rhode island

COMBINE summer study with summer fun. URI is where it's happening —outdoor classes under cool shade trees, distinguished resident and visiting faculty, the finest ocean beaches in the Northeast just minutes away, groovy folk and jazz festivals at nearby Newport, concerts, feature films, dances, sports, lecture series and other special attractions.

CHOOSE from 200 morning and evening courses in each term, beginning June 16 and July 24. EARN up to 14 semester hours of credit by attending both terms. COMPLETE up to 2 yrs. of French or Italian in 11 weeks by attending our accelerated language sessions.

COST — $20 per credit hour for most courses plus $10 registration fee for Rhode Island residents and $20 for out of state residents.

Write or call (401) 792-2107 for complete information.

uri

University of Rhode Island, Summer Session, Kingston, Rhode Island.

Clip and mail to The Dean, Summer Session, University of Rhode Island, Green Hall Kingston, Rhode Island 02881

Please send your 1969 Summer Session Bulletin and Application/Preregistration Form to:

Mr. Mrs. Miss _____
Street Address _____ State _____ Zip Code _____
City _____ Location _____
Your College/Univ _____

Newman Center Holds Community Day, Guest Speakers, Awards are Featured

A community day for students, parents, and faculty is scheduled at the Newman Center, Sunday, April 27. The event will include the celebration of Mass at 2:00 p.m. in the chapel followed by a buffet dinner at 3:00 p.m. in the social hall of the Newman Center.

Dr. Randolph Bromery, chairman of the department of geology at the University will be guest speaker. Mr. Daniel Meeley, director of the University News Bureau will be Master of Ceremonies.

Also on that day, Rt. Rev. Msgr. David J. Power, Chaplain to the Roman Catholic students at UMass will present awards to senior students who have distinguished themselves in the work of the Newman Apostolate during their four years in college.

The menu will consist of roast beef, ham, meatballs and ravioli. In addition, tossed, potato and chicken salad as well as bread and rolls will be offered. Brownies and fig and raspberry squares will be served for dessert with a choice of beverage.

Tickets for the buffet dinner may be obtained at the Newman Center this week at $1.50 per person. All are invited to attend this yearly event.

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

Flying Redmen Drill Team Marches in Washington

The Flying Redmen Drill Team proudly represented the Umass in the National Cherry Blossom Festival Parade of Princesses held on 12 April 1969 in Washington, D.C. The Redmen along with teams from all over the United States including Puerto Rico competed for one of three trophies which were to be awarded to the three best marching units. Commanded by the Drill Master Mr. Brian Krutka, the Redmen received rounds of applause for their routine of alternating corkscrews, #1's, and mutilation-throws.

On the previous weekend the Flying Redmen Drill Team marched at the Manhatten College Invitational Drill Meet at Manhatten, New York, where they entered basic as well as trick drill for the first time. The Redmen finished four points out of second place in basic and seventh place in trick, giving them enough total points to win the third place trophy for overall excellence in drill. The FRDT beat Villinova's Whiskey Company, for the first time, by 52 points.

This coming weekend, the Flying Redmen will be competing in the Boston Beanpot Invitational Drill Meet on Saturday, to be held at the Commonwealth Armory in Boston. This meet will be the toughest competition of the Redmen's season but they are ready. On 21 April the Flying Redmen will represent UMass in the Patriot's Day Parade in Lexington, Massachusetts. The parade will be televised.

'Media for Education' Head Wants Humanistic Teaching

By NEAL NOVACK
Staff Reporter

David C. Coffing believes that teachers should get all the technological support they need.

"Whatever can be, should be done to allow a teacher to be a humanizer," explained Coffing, director of Media for Education of the School of Education. He was speaking about the extent of utilization of technology in education today.

Mr. Coffing, who is concerned with media interaction and the applications of media in education, pointed out that much of the work in the classroom today is clerical, and that using various technological devices, such as closed circuit television, video tape, audio recording and portable computers, would free the teacher to treat the student as an individual. "We want to make teaching much more humanistic," stressed Mr. Coffing.

His department is interested in the application of media on all levels of education, from primary school to college, and consequently offers its services to Amherst Regional High School and many other schools throughout western Massachusetts.

Mr. Coffing's personal involvement with University students includes instruction in three courses: 1) Audio Visual, a class in the hardware of audio visual; 2) Teaching With Radio and T.V., concerning various uses in education that television and radio has been or can be applied to, and 3) Fuller-McLuhan Experience a comparative course in the philosophies of Marshall McLuhan and Buckminster Fuller on the effect of media in a culture.

Mr. Coffing sees educational television in the country today as being conservative in its ability to alter its format, and as tending to be cultural television concerned with the arts. Mr. Coffing commented: "The upper middle class runs the educational tlevision station. The educational station presents programs that the upper middle class thinks the lower class should have. The lower class tends not to be interested, since these programs do not meet their needs."

The following are the results of last Thursday's Junior Class Election. The elections were void and will be held again this Thursday.

CLASS OF 1970

President ---VOID

David Veale	179
Dick Kline	183
Peter Rosenthal	257
Steven Weisman	141
Belden Bly	171
Write-ins	4
Blank	3
Void	6

1. Pipe broken?
No, I'm trying to find where I stashed some dough.

2. That's where you keep your money?
Sometimes I put it in the flower pot.

3. What's wrong with the bank?
I'd only take it right out again.

But that's what you're doing now.
Not quite. The beauty of my system is that I usually can't find where I put it.

5. I think you'd be a lot better off putting some of your dough into Living Insurance from Equitable. It not only gives you and the family you're going to have a lifetime of protection, it also builds cash values you can use for emergencies, opportunities, or even retirement.
I wonder if it could be with the french fries?

For information about Living Insurance, see The Man from Equitable. For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: Lionel M. Stevens, Manager, College Employment.

THE EQUITABLE

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States
1285 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F © Equitable 1968

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Chevy 2 dr. sedan, V-8 stick, has had recent engine overhaul. Best offer. Call 549-1129, ask for Mike or leave message 4-24

1962 Ford conv., red body, black top, body in excellent condition, power brakes and steering, radio, automatic trans., runs smooth, $450 or best offer. Call Joe at 546-7817. 4-22

1956 Cadillac, four door hdtp., radio and heater, $100 firm. Contact Bob 546-8665. 4-23

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

1964 Tr. 4, new top, wire wheels, excellent condition, $1005. Call 546-9558 between 6-7 p.m. 4-15-17-21

'61 Ford Galaxie 500 convertible, green, white top, black interior, new brakes, lines, shocks, springs, 289 cu. in. $1100. Call Jill — 546-8555 (be persistent). 4-17-22-23

FOR SALE

19" Sylvania Portable TV and stand. 1 yr. old, excell ent cond., owned by a blind man, $75. Call 253-9632. 4-24

100 lb. Sears vinyl weight set, Heath 11 watt mono amp. George Hopkins, 401 Prince, 546-1040 evenings. 4-24

1968 Volkswagen, like new, factory warranty, $1695. Call 256-6983. 4-28

1968 Triumph Trophy Scrambler, 250 cc., ex. cond., red, asking $550. Also 1964 Yamaha YHS2 250, blue and white, $200. Call Tom 6-7137. 4-24

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

MG-A parts — rebuilt engine, engine and body parts, trans., etc. Call Steve at 584-0163. 4-28

Motorcycle — Sears SS., only 4,000 miles, crash bar, luggage rack, mirror, helmet, and faceplate included, $190. Call 6-7026. 4-24

1965 HONDA 50, excellent condition, barely used, $120. Call 253-7743. 4-24

Golf Irons (5-9), one set, $50; call 546-1973 in early a.m. 4-24

16mm Movie Camera "Pathe", practically new, same lense, never used. Price $150.00 (over $500.00 when new). Call 545-2914 between 9-11 p.m. 4-23

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler. Perfect condition, $475.00. Call 584-2643 late evening or early morning. 4-23

1968 Honda CB160, "Hi-Risers", straight pipes w/snuffs, excellent cond., all stock parts thrown in. $300. Call John 253-5193 after 5:30. 4-24

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of Imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6095 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

SERVICES

WANTED: Position of Class Secretary by Rene Markt, candidate for Secretary Class of '70. 4-24

ROOMMATES WANTED

Junior girl seeking 1-2 female roommates to move off campus with next year. Want to move into 2 bedroom apt. near campus in $140/month range with kitchen. Cost to be split. If interested call 546-7486. 4-28

Roommate wanted for summer (male), own bedroom, furnished with bed, desk, chair. With 2 people preferred, but 3 dropouts. $80/mo. including utilities. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5845. 4-23

Roommate to share furnished apartment located five minutes from Campus, for June, July and August. $55 per mo. including utilities. Call 549-3963. Ask for Brian. 4-24

WANTED — Male Roommate to share large, unfurnished 2½ room apt., $60 month including all utilities and dishwasher. Available June 1. Call 665-3069. Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 4-24

ON CAPE COD: We have a large house, 5 minutes from Hyannis Center and need 3 more roommates for June, July and Aug. Call Bob, Tully, or Paul, 6-8531, 6-8415, or 5-5778. 4-28

Four serious, upperclass male roommate wanted for summer school. Share beautiful 8 room apt. in Sunderland. Own room, modern, and furnished, $40 month. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3672 after 6 p.m. 4-28

INSTRUCTION

SPRING ART CLASSES
Evenings, Beginners, Advanced. Limited enrollment. Inquire: Mr. Leander Furnas, at Moore's Corner, Star Route, Montague. Tel. (617) 544-3808.
3-17 4-7-14-21-28

MISCELLANEOUS

Who's afraid of Virginia Woolf? and Road Runner Cartoon, S.U. Ballroom. Friday, April 25, 8:00 p.m. Admission 75c. Sponsored by Flying Redmen. 4-25

PERSONAL

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

WOO, WOO, WASHINGTON — El Supremo, Sasparilla, Buzz, Lemon, Van Rudge, Tonto, Fred, Thimmel, Sam Kovich, Gumba, Camellia and Gronk. 4-22

FOR RENT

To sublet June 1 to Sept. 1, Colonial Village apartments, 3½ rooms, partially furnished, all utilities included. Contact Chris 546-7530. 4-23

Available June 1st, 2 bedroom apt. located 1 mile from Campus. For further information call 253-9967. 4-24

Eligible to live off campus next Year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-5

Apartment to sublet, Available June 1 - August 31. 3½ rooms. $150 a month including all utilities. Call 665-3052 after 5 p.m. 4-24

Apartment to sublet for summer, 6 rooms, furnished, 3 minute walk to campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-9611 or 546-9631. 4-24

5 room apartment, for 3 people for summer months. Washer and dryer, two bathrooms, completely furnished. Call 546-7991 or 546-7993. 4-24

Available June 1st — one bedroom furnished. Call 256-6149. 4-22

"For the Summer" June 1 to Sept. 1 - 5 rm. "house", 30 seconds from Campus, 19 Phillips St. Come in person or call 549-3597. 4-23

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31, or lease for 1 year. Your choice. Call Bob 253-2942. 4-23

Air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts, Puffton Village Apt. to sublet for the summer, $65/person, prefer two guys. Call 549-1415. 4-24

2½ room furnished apartment available June 1. Five miles from Campus. $100 month including utilities. Call 665-3067. 4-24

FOR RENT IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1st - Sept. 1st, $120/month, all utilities. Call 253-7293. 4-24

2 Bedroom Apartment; 5 minutes from Campus; available June 1; married couple preferred. Call 665-3057 after 5 p.m. 4-22

7 Rm. House to sub-lease from June 1 - Sept. 1, near Mt. Holyoke Campus, 4 people or less, $200 a month plus utilities. Call 535-4416. 4-25

Available June 1, 2½ room apartment, rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 5 p.m. 4-28

2 Bedroom Apartment, all utilities included in rent. $125 unfurnished, $130 furnished. Available June 1. Call 549-6686. 4-25

7 room apartment (3 bedrooms), available June 1 - Sept. 1, completely furnished, 6 miles from Campus. $120 mo. Call 665-3067. 4-28

Summer Sublet — 6/1 to 9/1, 2½ rm. furnished apt. with dishwasher, disposal, carpeting, desk and bookcase, modern, util. incl. Cliffside Apts., Sunderland, $128 per month. Call 665-3071. 4-28

8 room house in Southampton, available June 1 - Sept. 1, $125 per month. Call 586-1791 after 6. 4-28

HELP WANTED

School of Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan — salaries $10,000 to $13,000 (range depending on degrees held), Call Dr. Ben Rubenstein, Brattleboro, Vermont (1-802-257-7430). 4-25

Girls for counter work making sandwiches and cold drinks. Hours: Mon. thru Fri. — 10-2 and 3-6; Sat. — 2-6. Needed for June, July and Aug. Apply Gene's Ice Cream Sheppe, Route 9, Hadley (near Hopkins Academy.). 4-15-17-21-23-28

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
Class of 1970
President
4-24

TONIGHT. FREE INTRODUCTORY OFFER

Witness these 32 girls as they begin their quest for the title of Miss University 1969. The first preliminary night of the largest local pageant in New England. An official preliminary to the Miss Massachusetts and Miss America pageants.

This is an evening of entertainment and competition. Talent competition, swim suit competition, evening gown competition.

It all begins at 8:00 o'clock tonight in the Student Union ballroom. FREE OF CHARGE.
If you can't make it tonight, the offer is being repeated tomorrow night. Same place, same time, same price.

Reserved tickets for the Friday night finals are now available in the Student Union Box Office.

Golfers Putter? Along Sweep Weekend Matches

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

The UMass golfers came up with two impressive wins last weekend as they downed Vermont on Friday, 5-2, and rolled over St. Anselms the nex t day, 6-1.

The home match against Vermont saw top man Dave Salter defeat the Catamount's Bill Davis, 2 and 1. Two double bogies and a triple bogie kept Salter even with Davis after the first nine, but Dave rebounded with a 38 on the back side to win his match.

Second, third and fourth spots also provided points for the Redmen. Captain Eric Lekberg coasted to victory over Bruce Eckert, 6 and 5, third man Ed Puzas defeated Bob Calcagni, 2 and 1, and last week's medalist Rick Aherne breezed to a 6 and 5 decision over Rod Carr.

Vermont's only two points came as a result of Bruce Fay defeating Redman Paul Johnson, 4 and3, and Bob Bellmare edging UMass' Doug Burr in a close match, 1 up. Massachusetts came up with an insurance point, however, when seventh man Mark Mills stopped Bill McHugo, 4 and 3.

Best medal scores for the Redmen were Eric Lekberg, 76, Ed Puzas, 77, and once again Rick Aherne, who shot a 78. Vermont's low medalist was Capt. Bruce Fay, whose 78 made him the only Catamount to break 80.

Saturday's meet at Green Meadow Golf Course in Hudson, New Hampshire, was no match as UMass rolled to a 6-1 triumph over St. Anselms.

It was a raw, cloudy day, and after six holes a continual downpour made playing conditions pitiful. According to Coach Dick Page, "the conditions made it anything but ideal for golf, but in spite of this, most of the squad members played very well."

Once again, numbe r one Redman Dave Salter outscored Pete Harrity, 5 and 3, and senior Capt. Eric Lekberg came up with a surprisingly easy victory over Kevin Greaney, 8 and 6. Ed Puzas, Rich Aherne and Dick Barber continued UMass' winning ways as they posted respective triumphs over Mike Mulcahy, (6 and 5), Bob Stachowicz, (2 and 1), and Paul Bellveau, (2 and 1).

St. Anselms' lone point was scored when Jim Donahue edged Redman Mike Minkos 1 up. Seventh man Dick King provided the last point for UMass as he whipped Art Bernard, 5 and 4.

Dave Salter, with a 75, and Ed Puzas, with a 76, took the honors for low medalists of the match.

The golfers tee-off again this afternoon in a home contest against New Hampshire. The Wildcats should prove to be tough competition returning with a team stuffed with veterans. UMass, now with a 3-1 record, will have to stop such top players as Dave Barbour, Gary Bissonette, Allen Clark and Glen Harbour, if they want to keep their winning streak alive. Today's match will take place at the Orchards, beginning at 1:30.

Thursday's Intramurals

Oaks over Maples, 3-2
Giants over Grants, 7-5
Maroons over Pines, 12-4
Elms over Eagles, 8-7
Buffalo over Hemlocks, 12-0
Barracudas over Bruins, 6-5
Redwoods over Broncos, 21-0
Pipers, over Brigade, 8-6
Aces over Lemons, 6-4
Limes over Phallics, 4-1
Hawks over Flaming A's, 8-6
Bismarks over Heads, 4-2
Marauders over Bulldogs, 5-4
Bruisers over Holes by forfeit
Ironmen B over Zeppelin, 15-6
Nickel Bags over UM Band, 2-1
Rnntes over Foul Balls, 16-9
3 M's over Cool Cons, 18-7
ASP over PLP, 4-2
TKE over SAM, 10-3
DC over ATG, 8-1
PSD over SPE, 7-6
AEP over TSP, 8-2
LCA over APO, 10-8
PMD over PSK, 10-5
TEP over ZN, 8-3

Girl Booters Brawl

ALLESANDRIA, Italy (AP) - Italy's soccer playing women have proved they have taken up the game with as much fighting spirit as the men.

Police had to be called to break up a slapping brawl between two teams Sunday.

MUFFIN MUFFS ONE, BUT THEN REPENTS - UMass lacrosse loalie Mark Schlossberg can't stop them all, as is evidenced by the photo on the right. But the Redman senior is usually a tough goalie to crack. He shows his typical form on the right, as he makes a diving save. Action took place Saturday at Tufts. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Jap Jogs Jountily to Marathon Win

BOSTON (AP) - Japan's Yoshiaki Unetani, a 24-year-old physical education instructor from Hiroshima, romped to a record victory Monday in the 73rd Boston A.A. Marathon.

Unetani made a one-man race escaping an early traffic jam and then wearing everyone out in virtually sprinting the 26-mile, 385-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston course in 2 hours, 13 minutes, and 49

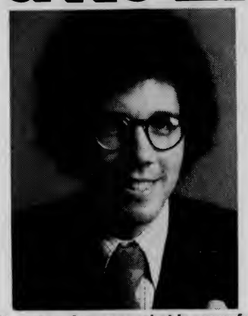
MAKE THE FRONT PAGE!

Put yourself, friends, relatives in the news! Use custom-made headlines for all occasions! Weddings! Invitations! Birthdays! Graduations! Promotions! Anniversaries! Gags! Congratulations!

Some Headlines uses:
IT'S BIRTHDAY! HOLIDAY DECLARED! QUITS SMOKING CIGARETTE STOCKS DOWN! TO BE WED MATERNITY WARDS ALERTED!

You create it—we'll print it . . . full newspaper size! Two lines; 20 letters each line—do not count spaces. $2.75 each; add'l copies (same headline) 50¢ ea. Any 2 different headlines $5.00. All orders ppd. 1 week delivery. Save this ad!

HEADLINE HOUSE, Dept. C, 303 E. 71 St., N.Y. 10021



Ladies' Night

Tuesday, 8 P. M.

at

The English Pub

BLOW UP YOUR HONEY BIG AS LIFE

2' x 3' poster of any snapshot is yours for just $1.98 with Playtex* first-day™ tampons.

Want him on your wall, giant-size, in beautiful black and white? Buy a box of 30 Playtex first-day tampons and send $1.98 plus the words "30 Super" or "30 Regular" from the front of the package, along with your snapshot.

There's no other tampon like Playtex. Outside, soft and silky, not cardboardy. Inside, so extra absorbent, it even protects on your first day. That's why we call it the first-day tampon.

In every lab test against the old cardboardy kind, the Playtex tampon was always more absorbent. Actually 45% more absorbent on the average than the leading regular tampon because of the unique way it's made. Actually adjusts to you. Flowers out, fluffs out, protects every inside inch of you.

Try it fast. And use the coupon to order your poster.

playtex tampons

Here's my $1.98, plus the words "30 Super" or "30 Regular" from the front of the Playtex tampon box, along with snapshot. My 2' by 3' poster, please.

Name _____ (please print)

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Mail coupon to: International Playtex Corporation, Dept. WV, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10001. Offer expires July 1, 1969. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

*Playtex is the trademark of International Playtex Corp., Dover, Del. ©1969 International Playtex Corp.

Frosh Baseball Team Gets Clipped, 2-1, by UConn

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Day Editor

STORRS, Ct. - Snubbed by rain in two previous attempts to pen their '69 season, the UMass freshman baseball team finally initiated their campaign here yesterday and were defeated by the U-Conn frosh, 2-1, in a low-scoring pitchers duel.

The Little Redmen were to have opened away on April 16 against Worcester Academy, and then to have started their home schedule April 19 against the Amherst freshmen. However, rain washed out both of these encounters and the frosh had to travel to Storrs to finally launch their season.

Brisk and chilly were the weather words as UMass' Tom King matched his pitching wits with three Little Huskie hurlers, Jim Belmont, Bob LaMontaine and Steve Papleau.

King went the distance for the freshmen giving up four hits and two runs. His most impressive statistic was his strikeouts; he retired 11 Little Huskies in this manner.

King only gave up three walks and pitched well enough to win on most any day. His mates, however, managed only four hits themselves off the UConn trio.

Belmont was on the mound when the visitors scored their only run. The tally, which was unearned, came in the fourth inning.

Pete Thompson led off the frame with a walk. Mark Iarussi then laid down a bunt which Belmont bobbled just long enough to allow the sacrifice to work. The next batter, Mike Pagliara, grounded out but Thompson, upon advancing to third, over-ran the base and would have been easily nabbed had not the throw been wild. Instead of being the third out, Thompson became the lone UMass scorer.

This run also represented the frosh's only lead of the afternoon, as the UConn freshman came back to tie the game in their half of the fourth and to clinch the contest in the last of the eigth.

The home team's first run came after John Slosar stole second and was rescued from that bag by a sharp single down the right field line by Bob Kaplan.

As LaMontaine and Papleau held UMass scoreless the rest of the way, UConn was finally able to push across the winning run against King in the eigth inning.

With two out and the bases empty, Art Sawyer hit a routine grounder to short but Jim Saracino's throw was over the head of first baseman Thompson, and Sawyer slid safely into second. A sharp single to left by Slosar brought Sawyer home and brought the Little Huskies a victory.

UMass' last bid to pull out the game in the final frame was frustrated by Thompson, who led off with a single down the left field line, was cut down in a double play. Bob Slosek, pinch hitting for Pagliara, grounded to second to end the contest.

DIAMOND DUST: The rained-out game against Worcester Academy has been tentatively rescheduled for May 11...A new date for the Amherst washout has not, as yet, been decided upon...Most impressive hitter on a pitcher's day was Little Huskie second baseman Gary Athenian, who was two-for-four and boasted the game's only extra-base hit, a double...Top Little Redman batsman was Thompson who collected two hits...Saracino's error in the eigth marred an otherwise superb day in the field for the young shortstop...Next tilt for the frosh is Wednesday against the Amherst freshmen on the latter's home field...Game time is 3.

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

1	6:30	Rasputin vs. WhWl
2	6:30	TWH vs. GAK
3	6:30	Avengers vs. KS B
4	6:30	Stouts vs. Fish Sticks
1	7:10	Gamma vs. Weasels
2	7:10	Benny's vs. Sticks
3	7:10	Cues vs. TF & WZ
4	7:10	Roosters vs. Untouchables
1	8:30	Grants vs. Maroons
2	8:30	Eagles vs. Oaks
3	8:30	Elms vs. Pines
4	8:30	Giants vs. Maples
1	9:30	Brig[illegible] vs. Redwoods
2	9:30	Hemloc[illegible] vs. Barracudas
3	9:30	Buff[illegible]s vs. Broncos
4	9:30	[illegible] Pipers vs. Bruins
1	10:30	Nickel Bags vs. Zeppelins
2	10:30	Foul Balls vs. Ironmen B
3	10:30	Bucks vs. Cool Cons
4	10:30	Rnntrs vs. Bands
5	5:30	LML vs. Bulldogs
6	5:30	Bruisers B vs. Bismarks
7	5:30	Holes vs. Marauders
8	5:30	Turtles vs. Heads
9	5:30	Phallics vs. Lemons
10	5:30	Aces vs. Hawks
11	5:30	Flaming A's vs. Panthers

SOCCER

2	4:40	Maroons vs. Hi-lo's
3	4:40	Eagles vs. Oaks
4	4:40	Lemons vs. Pied Pipers
5	4:40	Aces vs. Redwoods
6	4:40	Flaming A's vs. Buffaloes
2	5:20	Ambassadors vs. Squares
3	5:20	Dinks vs. Chem Dept.
4	5:20	SPE vs. DC
5	5:20	ATC vs. PSD
6	5:20	TEP vs. QTV

Lacrosse

(Continued from Page 12)

tending of Mark Schlossberg, who could have been lost in some of the holes around the net. Meanwhile the Redmen scored six goals. Malone, got two, and assisted on a Steve Chambers score, and a Vassar marker. Vassar had another in the period along with Connolly and sophomore Steve Hershcopf.

Five more UMass goals were scored in the third period, although periods were shortened in the second half by referees to ten minutes. Malone from Vassar, Tom Brennan from Malone, Hershcopf, O'Connor from Connolly, and Malone again from Vassar, plus a Tufts goal made it 20-4 after three periods.

John Gannon from Hershcopf rounded out the scoring and concluded a wet, dreary day from the Redmen.

Al Ruggiano and Chambers were shaken during the first half, but neither were hurt seriously. Fran Bositis played in Ruggiano's vacated defensive spot, which Ruggiano was filling in for Roy Condon. John Orr played the second half in goal for the Redmen.

Blow Yourself Up To POSTER SIZE 2 ft. x 3 ft.

Send any Black and White or Color Photo from 2¼" x 2¼" to 8 x 10. We will send you a 2 ft. x 3 ft. BLO-UP . . . perfect POP-ART POSTER.

A $25 value for $3.50

3 x 4 Ft. Blo-Up $7.50

Add 50c for post & hdlg. EACH. No C.O.D. Add local Sales Tax

Send Check or Money Order to:

PHOTO POSTER, Inc.
210 E. 23rd St., Dept. M-67
New York, N. Y. 10010
Dealer Inquiries Invited.

"Fascinating, well balanced" — San Francisco Chronicle
"Persuasive . . . Exciting . . . Excruciating beauty!" —The Stanford Daily
"Joyous use of imagery, color, and spontaneity . . . Do go see these films!" — The Daily Californian (UC at Berkeley)

presents

Genesis 1

A two-hour collection of the finest experimental and documentary films being produced by exciting, new student filmmakers.

Berkshire Clubroom Monday, April 21 7:00 and 9:30 p.m
Tuesday, April 22 7:00 p.m.
Thompson Auditorium Tuesday, April 22 8:30 p.m
Wednesday, April 23 8:30 p.m
Thursday, April 24 8:30 p.m

$1.50 students — $2.00 general

Advance tickets at Student Union Box Office

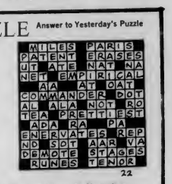
Hawk Stays Aloof

BOSTON (AP) - The Ken Harrelson trade remained snarled Monday as Cleveland officials sought unsuccessfully to contact the ex-Boston Red Sox slugger.

Gabe Paul, president and general manager of the Indians, said he tried to reach the Hawk during the day Monday but "he's not available right now. He's playing golf."

History Repeats For C's, Lakers

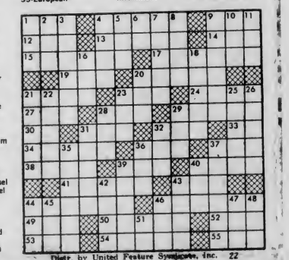
LOS ANGELES (AP) - History repeats itself with some variations starting Wednesday night when the Los Angeles Lakers and Boston Celtics open their battle for the National Basketball Association championship.



Five times since the Lakers with Jerry West and Elgin Bayler moved to the Pacific Coast, the two teams have battled their way to the final playoffs, and five times the Celtics have won.

This time, the Lakers own another superstar, Wilt Chamberlain, and they also have the home court advantage at the Forum.

At Las Vegas, bookmakers have the Lakers 11-5 favorites for the series and 4-1/2 point favorites for the opening game.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS
1-Tennis stroke
4-Tint
9-High mountain
12-Exist
13-Pertaining to the moon
14-Meadow
15-Sponsor
17-Cowboy competitions
19-Haul
20-Norse gods
21-Cook slowly
23-Existed
24-Units of Siamese currency
27-Pronoun
28-Evergreen tree
29-Malicious burning
30-Preposition
31-Stroke
32-Crafty
33-Preposition
34-Pirate flag
36-Fondle
37-Deface
38-Allowance for waste
39-Cry of goat
40-Large bundle
41-Repulse
43-Strike
44-Hunter
46-Climbing palm
49-Macaw
50-Nocturnal mammal
52-Greek letter
53-Shallow vessel
54-Sailing vessel
55-Soak

DOWN
1-Once around track
2-Anglo-Saxon money
3-Improve
4-Sluggish
5-Vandal
6-Indefinite article
7-Challenges
8-God of love
9-Puts on one's guard
10-Sign of zodiac
11-Dance step
16-Quarrel
18-Daily record
20-Swiss river
21-Stunted
22-Singing voice
23-Intellect
25-Sum
26-Breathe loudly in sleep
28-Distant
29-In music, high
31-Man's name
32-Ocean
35-European
36-Crony (colloq)
37-Substance
39-Commemorative disk
40-Tiny amount
42-Vessels
43-Musical instrument
44-Short sleep
45-Man's name
46-Spanish for "river"
47-Devoured
48-Man's nickname
51-River in Italy

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 22

Baseball Team Wins Three Games Over the Lon Weekend

UMass Sweeps Vermont, 7-6. . .

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

UMass' booming bats continued to wreak havoc upon New England pitching yesterday as the rampaging Redman nine swept a doubleheader from Vermont, 10-3 and 7-6 at varsity field. The wins put Coach Dick Bergquist's high-scoring forces in a commanding position in the Yankee Conference, while stretching their winning streak to six games.

The two games were originally scheduled for Burlington, but snow forced the games to be moved to Amherst. UMass wore visiting uniforms but neither the change in scenery nor the change in dress hurt the home forces very much.

Though the hard-hitting continued in the spotlight, it had to share the honors of the first game with sophomore right hander Don Anderson. The fireballer went the distance for his third win against no defeats, scattering ten hits and striking out ten Catamounts.

Vermont, in the first inning, actually had a good chance to take the lead, as center fielder George Minarsky tripled as a lead off man. Anderson bore down though, and whiffed three men in succession.

UMass took the lead in the second, as Dick Penin walked and sophomore center fielder Mitch Salnick came up and cracked a home run over the left fence, his first round tripper.

Anderson and his Vermont mound opponent Terry O'Leary breezed through the next couple of innings without too much damage. However, in the fifth, the Redmen iced the game. Tim Berringer, after being reprieved by a dropped foul ball on the part of the Vermont left fielder, walked and was sacrificed to second by Anderson.

First baseman Ray Ellerbrook, who has been wielding a hot stick of late, tripled in Berringer. Joe Di Sarcina back in action from a fractured wrist, singled in his basketball mate. Bob Hansen, who was walked five times by the timid visitors, in the two games, was intentionally passed. After catcher Tony Chinappi reached on an error, right fielder Dick Pepin unloaded a double driving across two runners and sending O'Leary from the mound.

Vermont got their first run in the bottom of the fifth on a walk and a triple, and the score remained 6-1 until the seventh. DiSarcina got a bloop double, and after Hansen was walked, Chinappi drew a pass loading up the bases. After Pepin hit into a double play, a wild pitch by the Vermont hurler Steve Yanagi sent Hansen home.

In the eighth inning, the Redmen got three more scores. Berringer walked and was advanced by an Anderson walk. Ellerbrook singled in Berringer. DiSarcina was hit by a pitch and Hansen walked. Chinappi was also hit driving across another tally. A wild pitch brought home the tenth Redman run.

Vermont scored twice in the ninth but Anderson finished up strong for a well-earned win.

The nightcap was a much tougher win for the Redmen. John Kitchen, UMass hurler, gave up a tainted tally in the first inning to the visitors, as his own error and a passed ball gave Vermont the lead.

The Redmen were held pretty much in check for the first two innings by crafty Charlie Brucato but in the third, after Kitchen walked and Ellerbrook sacrificed, Hansen walked. A wild pitch moved the runners up, another wild pitch scored a run and, following a Chinappi walk, Pepin lined a single producing two runs.

The Redmen padded their lead in the fourth. Tom Semino jacked a long round tripper over left field to lead off the inning. It was Semino's third homer of the young season, tying him for the team lead with Hansen. After two outs, Ellerbrook singled and stole second. DiSarcina singled home Ellerbrook, but was thrown out trying to stretch the hit into a double.

In the bottom of the fourth, DiSarcina made the play of the day, when he dove to backhand a hard hit grounder up the middle and threw Steve Kunken who had tripled out at home.

UMass got its sixth run in the fifth inning when with one out, Chinappi and Pepin walked and Semino singled in a run. However, in the bottom of the fifth, the Catamounts began to get to Kitchen who had breezed through the early innings. Vermont picked up two runs on four straight singles. Dave Lapointe drove in the runs.

Vermont got two more tallies in the seventh and it was a one run ball game going to the eighth, 6-4. However, the Redmen got what proved to be the winning run in the inning, when Berringer led off with a single. Paul Sulecki pinch hit for Kitchen and sacrificed. Steve Ring then pinch ran for Berringer and scored on DiSarcina's booming triple.

Norm Elliott, who relieved for the Redmen, got through the eighth but Vermont got a run in the ninth and had the winning run on base when Elliott finally ended the game, and saved Kitchen's second win.

WELCOME HOME! - Mitch Salnick receives warm greetings after he hit his two-run homer against Vermont. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

and Rips AIC, 16-4

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

SPRINGFIELD-UMass continued its heavy hitting Saturday pounding 16 safeties enroute to a 16-4 winover AIC. Sophomore southpaw Lou Colabello took advantage of the outburst as he hurled seven solid innings and picked up his first victory.

Junior Bob Hansen sparked the attack with a three-run homer and two singles for five rbi's. Ray Ellerbrook was three for three with three walks.

After the hometown Yellowjackets had taken a 2-0 lead on Chuck Pagliaroni's two run homer in the first, the slugging Redmen batted around in the top of the second. Five consecutive hits by Dick Pepin, Mitch Salnick, Tom Semino, Tim Berringer and the pitcher Colabello produced two runs. Then Hansen singled in two more and Tony Chinappi doubled in another duo.

AIC narrowed the margin in the last of the third picking up two tallies, one unearned.

The Redmen quickly added four more runs in the top of the fourth. Chinappi reached on an error and after two straight bases-on-balls to Pepin and Salnick, Semino unloaded a two-run double to center, driving another Yellowjacket pitcher off the mound. Berringer's sacrifice fly and a perfect squeeze bunt by Colabello made it 10 - 4.

Colabello was also having a fine day on the mound. The young lefty put the Aces down in order in the fourth inning. Then he brisked through the fifth, sixth and seventh with out any problems.

UMass, meanwhile, added four runs in the sixth, three on a home run by Hansen against the wind and the other on an opposite-field triple by Ellerbrook. Run-producing singles by Colabello and Ellerbrook in the seventh accounted for both of the final Redmen tallies.

George Andersen finished up the pitching chores for the visitors. Coach Dick Bergquist cleared his bench in the last two innings.

DUGOUT CHATTER - Joe DiSarcina returned to the lineup. . . the senior co-captain went hitless but made several fine stops in the field. . .AIC's slugging first baseman Mike Delaney ran full speed into the UMass dugout for a pop-up and had to retire from the next inning. . .The Aces went through four pitchers, but none could quell the pulverizing bats of the UMass Redmen. . .After the day was over, seven of the starters owned plus .300 averages.

Crew Team Places Second Overall in Kerr Cup Regatta

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

Over the weekend the crew team traveled to Philadelphia for the Third Annual Kerr Cup Regatta at which crews from Marist College, Georgetown, Williams, Wesleyan, UMass and the sponsor Drexel competed. Overall the club finished second.

The fosh boat finished in third place, only 1.5 seconds out of first. It was a very close race until the last 1000 meters, although the frosh never led. For the UMass frosh, this was their first defeat.

The frosh were beaten by Drexel in first and Georgetown in second, both of which have been on the water since January. UMass has only been on the water since March, but they did not row a good race. All three boats were stroked at about 35 for the body of the race.

The winning time for Drexel was a fast 6.20. Therains the day before brought the river up a little, accounting for some of the speed.

Frosh Coach Kurt Betchick, although disappointed in the race, said he is looking forward to using the same boatings again.

The UMass jayvees came up with the upset of the day by placing first, beating highly-touted Georgetown. With this race, as with the frosh race, it was essentially a three-boat race.

The jayvees stayed in the pack for the beginning of the race, but after that it was UMass, Georgetown and Drexel. With 200 yards to go, UMass, rowing at 37, made its move and sprinted out of the pack to win by a length.

The jayvees were presented with a Paul Revere Bowl, and each oarsman received a medallion at the finish line.

Coach Mike Faherty said, "They have come on faster than I really expected them to and what they lack in finesse, they compensate for in other ways. They are the most closely knit crew I have ever seen."

The varsity race was almost a toss-up from the start. Two weeks ago, Georgetown suffered its first regular season loss in three years. Georgetown broke right from the line and rowed the entire race at 37 and won in a really fast time of 5.52.

UMass, rowing at 34, understroking everyone else, made their move in the sprint to finish second in 6.04, the fastest time ever recorded by a UMass boat in Philadelphia. Wesleyan was a close third, followed by Drexel, Marist and Williams.

"Beating Wesleyan after last week's fiasco was a big boost psychologically," said Coach Faherty. "We followed our race plan to a "t". We didn't expect Georgetown to be that fast, rowing at 37."

"We were pleased with our second place finish, and when we get another chance at Georgetown at the Dad Vail in a few weeks, things maybe different."

Georgetown	16 points
UMass	15 points
Drexel	10 points
Wesleyan	7 points
Williams	4 points

Lacrossemen Crush Tufts, 21-4

By PETER PASCARELLI

MEDFORD - Tom Malone poured in five goals and five assists Saturday in an immense offensive performance to lead the undefeated UMass lacrosse team to a 21-4 win over Tufts. It was probably the easiest part of a rotten day for the Redmen.

They arrived in a vintage 1928 bus, causing speculation that if the unbeaten Redmen should ever lose a game, they may be provided bikes for road games by the ever-generous athletic department.

Meanwhile, the weather ranged from rain to rain to drizzle. Although the moisture stopped by game time, temperatures were in the 30's and field conditions were akin to the campus pond. In front of each goal was a pool ranging in depths of several inches (feet?).

Tufts was not exactly anxious to play the game, what with a little talent and only two midfields. Some of the UMass team wasn't so anxious to play either as was evidenced by an unidentified substitute's comment, "Sitting in the bench is tough in this weather. You might slip off the bench and hurt your back."

But finally, after a lengthy debate the decision was made to play. The sidelines were moved to get the goals away from the bigger pools. Finally after these ludicrous preliminaries, things got back to normal as the first period began.

UMass, playing without Carl Schulthesis, exploded for nine goals in the first period, and thus the game was over. Kevin O'Connor on a Gary Vassar assist, and Steve Anderson and Vassar from Malone assists got the Redmen up quickly. After a Tufts answer, Steve Connolly, and Malone made it 5-1. Tufts got its second marker moments later, but then Vassar from O'Connor and Malone again made it 7-1.

Tufts got a fast break goal, but O'Connor and Anderson got a couple more and it was 9-3 after the first 15 minutes.

UMass blanced Tufts in the second period, behind the fine goal-

(Continued on Page 11)

ANOTHER TALLY - Redman lacrosseman Tom Malone is shown here scoring one of his five goals against Tufts. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Lederle's Annual Report Calls for More State Funds

"Massachusetts Must Do Better," is the title and theme of President John W. Lederle's annual report on the University of Massachusetts for 1967-68, in which he makes a major analysis of the future of public higher education in the Commonwealth.

President Lederle. . .

In a special "wrap-around" section of the report President Lederle outlines facts and figures on public higher education and asks what he considers a crucial question: will Massachusetts become known as an education state or a welfare state?

The report cites the fact that there were 362,000 young men and women in the Commonwealth between the ages of 18 and 21 last year and that this number will increase to 417,000 by 1977. Pres. Lederle says, "Our private institutions will not expand a great deal over the next decade. Increasingly, quality higher education must be provided in the public sector. This means more state funds must be used for public higher education."

Despite the fact that Massachusetts ranks ninth in the nation in terms of personal income, public higher education is losing ground in the Commonwealth when compared with efforts of the nation as a whole, the report states.

Massachusetts is 50th in the nation, the report states, when states are ranked by per capita tax expense for operation of public higher education, and 50th when ranked by that expense as a proportion of personal income. The latter figure is important, according to the report, because it is not affected by either the wealth or population of the individual states. Rather, it measures the distribution of each state's financial effort for necessary services.

Based on this the President says, "Nationally the average state's proportional expenditure for higher education is almost double our own. We must work for a better balance between total expense and educational expenses."

The President states several times that higher education is an investment. He cites studies that show that a college degree is worth more than $200,000 in terms of added income in a lifetime, and that a six-year study showed that the average increase in earnings was seven percent for non-high school graduates, 13 percent for high school graduates and 30 percent for those with college degrees. He points out that 55 percent of UMass grads return to the Commonwealth to work. "The higher their educational level," he says, "the greater their potential contribution to the Commonwealth in taxes."

On the education - welfare question he says, "We must decide now whether we wish to finance our effort to educate the young today, as an investment in the future growth of the state's economy, or to provide far greater non-income-producing funds for their welfare tomorrow."

He states, "The present budget shows the average Massachusetts taxpayer contributes a total of $8.09 for the year's operation of his 29 institutions of public higher education. At the same time he pays $69.97 as his annual share of state welfare programs." The President called education "a long-term brake on the growing drain on our tax resources by the welfare system."

Admitting that taxation is never popular, the President concludes that the people of Massachusetts can afford better education. "The citizens of Massachusetts know the ser-

(Continued on Page 6)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

RAIN AGAIN!

VOL. XCVII NO. 123 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 1969

D.V.P. Committee Seeks To Avoid More Incidents

Members of D.V.P. taking the initiative Sunday to prevent future occurences of a Thurmond-like incident met with campus organizations and found that a lack of communication may have caused the emotional response.

The original intent of D.V.P. as expressed by Chairman John O'Connell and other committee representatives, was to invite controversial figures like Thurmond so that students might analyze political views in the context of the people who are a force in forming these attitudes.

In every program the following sentence appears and is representative of D.V.P.'s philosophy: ". . . the Distinguished Visitors Program seeks to stimulate critical thought and debate by presenting a balanced range of opinion with respect to a given issue."

D.V.P. further hoped to afford some students the chance to cope with different opinions and a mentality indicative of a large sector of the American population in a questioning intellectual manner.

Sunday night, nevertheless, students of the committee became more sensitive to why Strom Thurmond's speech could not be an intellectual experience to those of the black community. They feel that because Thurmond's actions in the U.S. Senate have shown him to be more than a verbal racist, black people and those who sympathize with their cause could only respond to him in an emotional and physical manner. To merely listen to and then to debate with this man of action would have been most difficult for them.

What are the implications of this exchange of motivations? Members of the groups present at Sunday's discussion must have realized that campus groups must become more sensitive and aware - IN ADVANCE - of the plans and attitudes of other organizations.

Perhaps more open forums among persons within the community in addition to discussions with external figures might help the campus to become "in tune," not only with the opinions and needs of persons from other locales, but also with individuals within our own, immediate environment.

In considering the possibility of future incidents similar to the one at Curry Hicks when Strom Thurmond spoke, the consensus of the D.V.P. Committee was that it would be their responsibility to take definite legal action to secure invited guests the right to be heard at UMass.

FALL COURSE SCHEDULE

Copies of the fall course schedule will be inserted in Thursday's DAILY COLLEGIAN. Be sure to pick up a copy, as this replaces the previous method of distribution for schedules.

Open Meeting on Campus Construction Passes Motion Demanding Five Blacks

By ROSE L. MILLER
Staff Reporter

An open meeting yesterday of some 50 students on racial imbalance in campus construction work passed a motion demanding that O'Connell Construction Company "add at least 5 black workers by May 2."

After reviewing the history of the racial imbalance issue and how meetings with the University administration and O'Connell have progressed, Gil Salk, Executive Secretary of the King Council, one of the sponsors of the petition presented to President Lederle a week ago, asked for discussion of future action.

The most recent contact with the Construction Company on Friday, was satisfactory, Salk said. During a two-hour meeting between Mr. Daniel O'Connell, his representatives, the Secretary of the University Robert McCartney, and student representatives Gil Salk, Robert Henderson, Stan Kinard, the problem of recruiting black workers was explored with focus on the company's claim that the drawback was a small black population in the University area. Salk attacked this claimed roadback in recruiting minority members by pointing out that of the 87 campus construction workers interviewed in the King Council's survey, 1/3 of those men came from Springfield.

After this point was favorably taken by O'Connell, there was an analysis of recruiting methods and suggestions for improvement. The meeting concluded with Kinard giving the construction company the names of several black employment agencies and with Salk suggesting that it would be helpful to establish strong contacts within the black community.

The first audience participator in the open meeting was a member of Sunday Morning Breakfast Club which is also interested in the racial imbalance problem in construction jobs. He said his group had met with representatives of the construction company and was told that the company was desperately trying to recruit (minority workers). The Breakfast Club member implied that the hiring problem may be wrapped up in Union practices.

The addition of the Union as part of the problem of increasing black construction led Salk to emphasize that the purpose of the petition is not to have white workers laid off. The King Council's ultimate goal is to open the Union to black and white alike.

The complete text of the motion accepted by those assembled reads: by May 2 as an act of good faith that there be an addition of at least 5 black workers and that the King Council would help in recruiting said additional workers. On May 2 there will be a meeting where proof of hiring or answer to the demand will be given by O'Connell Construction Company to the King Council.

If the demand is not met by the company, action will be taken. The nature of this action has not been released.

Harvard Accepts Proposal On Afro-Am Studies Dept.

CAMBRIDGE (A.P.) - The Harvard Faculty of Arts and Sciences accepted Tuesday almost without change proposals by an organization of Negro students to govern development of an Afro-American Studies Department.

The proposals were those of the Association of African and Afro-American Students at Harvard and Radcliffe.

A key provision accepted by the faculty was that the standing committee charged with responsibility for the black studies program should have Negro students among its membership - three chosen by AAAAS and three by students concentrating in the Afro-American studies.

Another provision accepted by the faculty grants the standing committee authority to nominate the first four to six appointments in the new department.

The Afro-American Students Association set a time schedule by requiring that the new black studies program be made available to students in the class of 1972 - those who are now freshmen.

The faculty adopted only one amendment to the black students' proposed resolution. That was offered by Harold Ames, associate professor of bacteriology and immunology in the medical school.

The amendment provided for a faculty review of the black studies program in the 1971-72 academic year. Out of this would come recommendations "as to the membership, operating rules, and responsibilities" of the permanent executive committee to have overall supervision of the program.

The campus was quiet Tuesday, in contrast to Monday when the university experienced the second occupation of its administration building in less than two weeks.

Approximately 100 members of Students for a Democratic Society moved into University Hall Monday for what became a five-hour "Mill-in".

The demonstration ended as scheduled, and university police made no move to stop the youths, who were protesting the ROTC program on campus.

An open meeting was held yesterday to discuss racial imbalance in campus construction companies. Above Gil Salk addresses the group. (MDC photo by Bob Goscimski).

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has expressed concern to the United States over the size of the American naval armada assembled off North Korea to protect U. S. reconnaissance flights.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury deliberated, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan waited, and a life or death climax to his long rial for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was prolonged Tuesday into a second day.

Defense lawyers fidgeted over the slow progress and Sirhan's chief counsel, Grant B. Cooper, told newsmen: "I'm concerned about it. Either a majority or a minority are voting for death."

NEW YORK (AP) - A ruptured air line in the suspension system sidetracked the turbo-train at the New Rochelle, N.Y., station Tuesday, the Penn Central Railroad said.

The breakdown came during the high speed train's afternoon runs from here to Boston. Passengers were transferred to an ordinary train to complete the trip.

The Penn Central said the rupture caused the ride to become very rough, but said it did not make the train unsafe.

If repairs were completed overnight, the railroad said, the train would return to its regular schedule Wednesday. It not, a backup train would be used.

MIDDLE EAST (AP) - The artillery duels along the Suez canal moved UThant to warn members of the U. N. Security Council that a virtual state of active war exists in the area. However, Thant did not ask for a council meeting.

Thant said that observance of the U.N. cease-fire has been steadily degenerating since April 8 and that as of Monday there had been major breaches daily for 12 straight days.

The United States quickly associated itself with Thant's declaration and urged the Arabs and Israelis to put an end to violations of the ceasefire in the Suez Canal area and "to avoid all actions which aggravate the tense situation."

Supreme Court Limits Police Power Upsets Mississippi Rape Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court limited Tuesday the power of police to take in people solely for the sake of investigation.

In a 6-2 decision upsetting a rape conviction in Mississippi, the Court said the Fourth Amendment shields citizens against "the harassment and ignominy incident to involuntary detention."

The ruling did not forbid police to take suspects to the stationhouse without arrest warrants. But it said they are generally required.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wrote in the majority opinion: "To argue that the Fourth Amendment does not apply to the investigatory stage is fundamentally to misconceive the purposes of the Fourth Amendment.

"Investigatory seizures would subject unlimited numbers of innocent persons to the harassment and ignominy incident to involuntary detention.

"Nothing is more clear than that the Fourth Amendment was meant to prevent wholesale intrusions upon the personal security of our citizenry, whether these intrusions be termed 'arrests' or 'investigatory detentions'."

An immediate result is to prohibit trial use of fingerprints taken "illegally" from a suspect. Since 1961 the states have been forbidden to prosecute a defendant with illegal evidence. Brennan's opinion puts fingerprint evidence taken in violation of the Fourth Amendment in this category.

Justices Hugo L. Black and Potter Stewart dissented.

Black charged the majority with "so widely blowing up the Fourth Amendment's scope that its original authors would be hard put to recognize their creation."

He added: "I think it is high time this court, in the interest of the administration of criminal justice, made a new appraisal of the language and history of the Fourth Amendment and cut it down to its intended size.

Stewart said fingerprints are not evidence in the conventional sense that weapons or stolen goods might be and should not be placed in the same constitutional category.

The ruling upset the conviction of John Davis, a 14-year-old Negro boy for the rape of an 86-year-old white woman, Mrs. E. B. Key of Meridian. He had been sentenced to life in prison.

The boy, who occasionally worked as a yardboy for Mrs. Key was one of 65 or 70 Negroes picked up or interrogated by police following the attack in December 1965.

Coalition Asks UMie Support of Troop Withdrawal

Throughout this week, the New England Student Coalition will begin the second stage of its effort to raise again the issue of American involvement in Vietnam. This week UMass students will be asked to support the Coalition's petition, which calls for the withdrawal of all American military personnel from Vietnam by June 1,1970.

The petition, drawn up by a group of 4-college students aided by Amherst's N. Gordon Levin, American Studies associate professor and William C. Taubman, instructor of political science, has been signed by student leaders of 30 New England colleges and universities.

The first week in May, a delegation of representatives from the Four-College area and a student from each of the 30 New England colleges is now planning to meet with Massachusetts Senators Kennedy and Brooke, as well as Undersecretary of State, Elliot Richardson.

At these meetings, the students will urge the Senators to advocate an end to American involvement in Vietnam and to demand that continued opposition to the war be mounted in the Congress.

All students who oppose the war are urged to sign the petition. This, according to the petition's sponsors, is the time when the Administration is setting Vietnam policy for the next four days, and is not the time to risk the cost of being silent.

OPPORTUNITY TO EARN $1000-$1500

STANLEY HOME PRODUCTS

will be interviewing on campus for summer jobs

Tuesday, April 29, 1969

from 1-5 P.M.

Please sign up at the Placement Office - Whitmore Hall.

STICK WITH

BLY

PRESIDENT '70

THURSDAY NIGHT

Charlie Bradshaw

at the piano

The English Pub

VOTE FOR

INA GOLDSTEIN

PRESENT CLASS SEC'Y.

FOR '70 V.P.

"Fascinating, well balanced" — San Francisco Chronicle
"Persuasive . . . Exciting . . . Excruciating beauty!" —The Stanford Daily
"Joyous use of imagery, color, and spontaneity . . . Do go see these films!" — The Daily Californian (UC at Berkeley)

presents

Genesis 1

A two-hour collection of the finest experimental and documentary films being produced by exciting, new student filmmakers.

Berkshire Clubroom Monday, April 21 7:00 and 9:30 p.m
Tuesday, April 22 7:00 p.m.
Thompson Auditorium Tuesday, April 22 8:30 p.m
Wednesday, April 23 8:30 p.m
Thursday, April 24 8:30 p.m

$1.50 students — $2.00 general

Advance tickets at Student Union Box Office

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?"

plus

Road Runner Cartoon

8:00 P.M.

S. U. Ballroom

Friday, April 25

75c

TONIGHT

Speaker Bartley

of the Massachusetts House of Representatives will deliver a major address to an OPEN MEETING of the Student Senate at Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall 7:00 P.M.

All Welcome — PLEASE ATTEND!

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Phi Beta Kappa to Hold Initiation Ceremonies

The UMass Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will hold initiation ceremonies on Friday, April 25, at 8:00 p.m. at the School of Education Auditorium. Initiates will assemble at 7:30.

The chapter will initiate 12 junior members, seventy-one seniors, and an alumnus member, Ellsworth Barnard, currently visiting professor of English at the University. Prof. Barnard, who is the author of several books including studies of Shelley, Edwin Arlington Robinson, and Wendell Willkie, was graduated from M.A.C. withthe Class of 1928 and received a doctorate from the University of Minnesota. He has taught at Williams College, Alfred University, the University of Chicago, and Northern Michigan University.

Professor Leo Marx of Amherst College will speak to the chapter, initiates, and guests on the subject of intellectuality and student dissent. Prof. Marx, who has been a member of the Amherst faculty since 1957, is a well known analyst of American culture, perhaps best exemplified in his book THE MACHINE IN THE GARDEN: TECHNOLOGY AND THE PASTORAL IDEAL IN AMERICA. He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard, where he also received the Ph. D. degree. He taught at the University of Minnesota before coming to Amherst. He has also taught at the Universities of Nottingham, England, and Rennes, France, and has twice been awarded Guggenheim Fellowships, in 1961-62 and 1965-66.

In preparation for the Bay State Livestock Classic, Dr. Borton of the Veterinary and Animal Science Department instructs his students on the proper techniques and correct ettiquette for showing animals. The showings will take place on April 25 from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. and April 26 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Grenell Arena. (Photo by Ara Dedekian)

UMass Professor Elected President of Speech Assoc.

Dr. Ronald F. Reid, Professor of Speech and Head of the Department of Speech at UMass, was elected President of the Speech Association of the Eastern States at their annual convention in New York City on April 19th.

Dr. Reid received his Ph. D. degree from Purdue University in 1954 after having received his Masters degree from George Pepperdine College. Last year he served as First Vice-President of the S.A.E.S.

A frequent writer and speaker on communications subjects, Dr. Reid was chairman of the committee which prepared A GUIDE FOR SPEECH, DRAMATICS, RADIO AND TELEVISION in Jefferson City, Missouri for the Missouri State Department of Education. Dr. Reid was also editor and a contributor for that committee and its publication. He was also editor of INTRODUCTION TO THE FIELD OF SPEECH published in 1965 by the Scott, Foresman Company.

TONIGHT. SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE.

YOGA FILM-MAKING MODELING ORIGINAL DRAMA SONG AND DANCE ELECTRIC GUITAR FLUTE AND PIANO RECITALS MUSICAL SKIT GYMNASTICS MODERN JAZZ

YOU CAN EXPECT AN EVENING OF VARIED, UNUSUAL TALENT WHEN 27 GIRLS COMPETE FOR THE TITLE OF MISS UNIVERSITY 1969. JOIN THEM TONIGHT AT 8:00 O'CLOCK IN THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM, FREE OF CHARGE, FOR THE SECOND PRELIMINARY NIGHT OF THE MISS UNIVERSITY PAGEANT. THE LARGEST LOCAL PAGEANT IN NEW ENGLAND WITH OVER $1000 IN CASH AWARDS. AN OFFICIAL PRELIMINARY TO THE MISS MASSACHUSETTS AND MISS AMERICA PAGEANTS.

YOU CAN'T BEAT THE ENTERTAINMENT OR THE PRICE.

Forty-First

UNIVERSITY and MILITARY BALL

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

University of Massachusetts

SATURDAY, MAY 10 8:00 P.M.

Entertainment by — FRAN BOTELHO — THE JEFFERSONS

Music by — EIGHTH AIR FORCE BAND

Tickets at — Dickinson Hall — April 7 - May 7

$5.00 Couple Black Tie

BOSS TWEEDS

play at

CHEQUERS

Thursday Night

9 - 12

50c admission

R.N.'s and L.P.N's NEEDED

in small, progressive, well-equipped, suburban hospital with excellent fringe benefits and shift differentials paid. Please contact:

DIRECTOR OF NURSES

Wing Memorial Hospital

PALMER, MASS. 01069

Tel. 283-7651

We invite your inspection.

The Southwest Assembly presents University of Massachusetts

Concert Band

under the direction of Larry Wood

In concert Saturday, April 26, 1969 at 2 p.m.

on the Southwest Mall behind D.C. No. 7.

JUNIORS!!

LISTEN TO WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING ABOUT PETER ROSENTHAL, CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF THE CLASS OF 1970

. . . as a former President of the Class of 1970 I know all of the candidates and have worked with them closely over the past 2 years. Peter has demonstrated in his work on Homecoming, Executive Council and as Chairman of Winter Carnival committee that he has the leadership qualities necessary to get class government on the move. His being chosen Adelphia is another indication of his abilities. He has made no false promises and is aware of the role of the class administration. I have studied the situation carefully and I am voting for Peter Rosenthal.

Bruce R. Balboni
Senate President

As a reporter of class government for two and a half years I have been in a position to observe carefully the class officers at work and to judge their strengths and weaknesses. Peter combines the best qualities of personality, motivation and professional expertise to make him, in my estimation, the top candidate for the Class of 1970 presidency.

Ronald J. LaBrecque
Senior Reporter and former News Editor of the MDC

Homecoming is the most important social event on this campus and without Peter as vice-chairman I don't think I could get the job done. He is imaginative, competent and excellent to work with. I feel that he is the best candidate for the office of President of the Class of 1970.

Gerry Burke
Chairman of Homecoming

We the undersigned support PETER ROSENTHAL for President of the Class of 1970.

Bruce R. Balboni, Ronald J. LaBrecque, Gerry Burke, Marvin L. Lehrer, David E. Floreen, Bob Twiss, Peter Rappo, Jill Hosner, Helen Kenalek, Roland Jolicoeur, Marcia Sobiech, Charles Leonard, Catherine Regan, Susan Scott, Alan K. Gauthier, Donald Blanchard, Thomas Barkman, Robert Ford, Ronald Cassiani, Kevin Reilly, Steven Sewall, David Michalson, Steven Spinney, Harrison Forman, Fredrick Grunin, June Seull, Jeff Halpern, Stephen Stein, Steven Durso, Robert Lewis, Bruce Reider, John Hutchison, Philip Kaplan, Mark Lefever, Gunnar Mybeck, Kathy Ursetherzer, Glen Walker, Jack Wilson, Patti Packard, Pat Sullivan, Claire M. Dilorati, Scott Thomson, Carol Cappiello, Paula Held, Florence Bryan, Ray Everett, Jody Pratt, Betsy Forman, Laurence R. Marcus, Paul J. Silverman, Joe Haney, Hubert H. Humphrey, Sandy White, Bob Smith, Beth Wood, Susann Astbury, Peggy Donohue, Kurt Petersen, Terry Melville, Don Jenkins, Greg Sherewski, Ed Henley, Pete Degre, Greg Barselom, Paul Haskell, Jim Soon, Kathy Griffin

VOTE

PETER ROSENTHAL

CLASS OF 1970 PRESIDENT

1969
APR
392

Candidates Forum For Class Elections 1969-70

Class of 70

Vice-President

To the Class of 1970:

It seems that every year there is a discussion about what the role of class government is. I think by now it is pretty much agreed that the class serves a social function. However, the word "social" covers a broad area ad cial" covers a broad area and is not limited to just providing weekends with big name entertainment.

As a candidate for Vice President for next year's Senior class, I feel that my experience in class government for the past three years as an Executive Council member and presently as class Secretary has enabled me to get a better understanding of the role of class government. It has previously been an accepted idea that the Senior Class really doesn't do anything. This I feel is quite unfortunate, for the Senior Class is in a very unique position. After having sponsored the traditional class activities for three years, the Senior class can and should enjoy the benefits of its experiences. Concerts and weekends are fine and provide necessary diversions for the campus. But as Seniors there is so much mor e tha t can be done. One suggestion I feel strongly about is having speakers come to the University to lecture on different career opportunities for graduates.

I do not offer any other specific suggestions for this proposed "new role" for the Senior class or for Senior Week. The possibilities are many and diverse. The duty of a class officer is to provide leadership - but not to dictate. It is YOUR class and YOU are the ones sponsoring these activities. One of the purposes of class government is to give to you, the members of the class, what you would like, for it is your money that is being used. Through Exec. Council meetings, open meetings, suggestion boxes, and any other means of communication, I would like to find out what YOU wan t before we start spending YOUR money.

I ask you for your support to help me try to accomplish this task. Thank you.

Ina Goldstein

Fellow students:

As a candidate for Vice President of the Class of '70, I would like to state my views of the office. To me, the Vice President is an administrator. He is the man who works behind the scenes. He serves the class president, the senior class, and the university. It is a job for a worker, not for someone who shirks responsibility. It is ajob for a leader.

I will not deceive you by stating that the Vice President can effect profound changes in the University, I do not think that a candidate for Vice President can present a platform pertaining to social, political, or academic issues, for that is the task of the presidential candidates. The Vice-President must be elected on the basis of his abilities. It is on these abilities that I consider myself qualified for the job. Most of you have received a letter from me stating my qualifications, for the office. The decision is now yours. I hope that you will evaluate the two candidates, and then vote for the better qualified. Thank you.

Mark E. Raskind

Class of 71

President

To the sophomores:

I think the role of class government should be to represent in the best way possible the actual members of the class. I do know for a fact that there are many worthwhile voices in the class that are NOT being heard. I was able to hear some of these voices last week when I visited as many dorms o n campus as possible in order to make myself available to anyone who wanted to meet with me to ask questions, offer suggestions and opinions, and hear any other information which I could provide for them. How many other candidates bothered to do this???

If elected, I would further the role of class government by attemptin g to alleviate the problems that I, as a member of the Executive Council, know exist in the current administration. As one who may go into show business myself, I would strive to improve the qualit y of the concerts to the satisfaction of the potential audience. In addition, I would advocate personal interviews for all Executive Council applicants considered promising for membership in the Council. In this way, the President would be assured that the Council be a heterogeneous organization - with members being representative of the entire class. By "representative," I mean not only good geographical representation but also appropriate representation of the various different ideas concerning talent for concerts, speakers for lectures, class trips, and other special events.

In regard to what type of entertainment I would be in favor of for Winter Carni next year, I say it shouldn't be what "I" want but rather what the CLASS wants. The Class of '71 has alloted 56 thousand dollars for Winter Carni alone. That's quite a bit of class money t o put into the hands of one person and his few friends. Thus, for Winter Carni next year, what I would do is have a table set up in the Student Union and encourage ALL members of the CLASS to participate in a poll by indicating their preferences for talent for the "biggest event of the year." The results of such a survey could then be used by the Executive Council as guide lines for the final decision.

WRITE IN and place an "X" next to KOLTIN for President of the Class of '71. Thank you.

Harold Koltin

To the sophomores:

In the past two years the Class of 1971 has attracted more than 16,000 people to it s sponsored events. Campus Chest alone this year raised a record breaking $3,000 for the Belchertown State Hospital. The Class of 1971 has engaged in a diverse number of sponsorships, ranging from SENDOFF wild wintry week, Tom Rush at the Frosh Picnic, and the four class trip to Montreal.

More important than looking back is looking to the year ahead. The Class of 1971 is the sole producer of Winter Carni 1970, a projected $55,000 week of events. I stand behind every attempt to procee the finest qualit y and fullest Carni ever at the University by using the experiences I have gained from two years in office as President of the Class. I have a proposal which would substantially reduce the price of tickets for the people of the Class of 1971, the sponsoring organization. Concerning talent for Carni, I will work for the widest range of talent from Hard rock to pop style concerts and in bringing the biggest names in the business to campus.

I believe that class government mus t take a new role in this changing campus, the days of the Junior Prom are gone. Class involvement in events of interest to the University community, such as the Senior class sponsorship of Hubert Humphrey must be enlarged.

I would be ignorant to state that I have made no mistakes in two years in office, but from these mistakes I have gained valuable knowledge. This knowledge is paramount to administer our class of 3,500 students, with a projected budget of over $75,000.

I am asking for your support to insure continued qualified leadership for the class of 1971. Please vote tomorrow, the students on this campus have few chances to express their views.

Joe Tabacco

To the sophomores:

The primary role of class government is the 'organization of class and University Social Functions; we are not the legislators of the student body, that is the role of the Student Senate.

I feel the classes have overlooked a major role they could play. It is time that the classes become active participants in helping surrounding communities. The class executive councils lie dormant much of the year. They could be organizing tutorial programs and special help to high school students in the area, working in area hospitals an d with the physically and mentally retarded. There are groups on campus now that are working on these projects, but the total class and student involvement could make them even more successful.

I plan, if elected, to solicit for the executive council as great a diversification of students and ideas as possible so that class decisions can be made by a broad based group. I do not plan on being a king or dictator; it is the class itself that should make the final decisions.

I want to involve the class government with existing service groups so that we may work together for the good of the University and its surrounding communities. I am not interested in usurping publicity from these hardworking groups, only helping them and working with them. Some of these groups are: the Northampton and Belchertown Volunteers, Gamma Sigma Sigma and Alpha Phi Omega.

Having no crystal ball, I cannot say now what talent will be here next year. I promise to make effort to obtain the best talent available with as great a variety as possible, always endeavoring to satisfy the wishes of the class. The Class of 1971 should not be working towards the biggest social events, only the best.

To reiterate, I can not state what talent will be at UMass next year, and I fail to see how any other candidate can, with sincerity and honesty guarantee anything.

Joe Piccolo

Vice-President

To the Class of 1971:

For the past four semesters I have been in a position to view every facet of class government in action. I have, while working as secretary of the Class of 1971, noticed many rough edges that need to be smoothed over in order to make class government the all-purpose, multi-interest body that it was originally intended to be. The purpose of the executive council is to represent not only the ideas of the class members, but also their varied interests. Whether these interests be social, community, national, athletic or cultural - they MUST be represented. It is then the duty of the class to present activities to the University community and its constituant s that will enhance the interests mentioned above. The class should NOT be merely a social committee that provides big weekends for the select few that are interested in particular musical groups.

To further the interests of the class, executive council should definitely be re-vamped to make it more representative. Each dorm on campus should be represented on the class executive council. Once this is done, the topics discussed in executive council can be more representative of the feelings of the class members.

A permanent Public Relations Committee should be established to publicize the activities of the classes. The secretary of the class should be a member of this committee but not the chairman since she has extensive duties. The committee will provide each representative with the necessary material for complete communication with the individual class member. It will also bring executive council closer to the class providing a sense of belonging to each individual class. Each executive council member will be made more responsible to the council and to his constituents thru a tighter control of absences and records on the council members.

Class officers are not to dictate to the council - the council is to dictate the wishes of the class members to them. It will then be the duty of the officers to see that these wishes are fulfilled thru proper organization and management, instilling a feeling of responsibility in members of the council; for they are the only voice of the class.

It will only be thru responsible representation that the role of class government can be completely carried out. The variety of events sponsored by the class depends on the variety of interests represented in the council.

The COLLEGIAN has asked all the candidates for office in the Class of '71 to present the type of entertainment which they would like to see at UMass during the 1970 Winter Carnival. I feel that a truly great weekend would be one that had events which appeal to every member of the class. A varied range of activities and talent would be most appropriate to achieve such a goal. The executive council would be responsible for discovering the interest of their constituents and presenting them to the council.

Winter Carni, however, is not only a series of concerts, dates and parties, but it also can and has contained many other activities - ranging from the Winter Olympics to movies in the Union and from night club entertainment to gift stores. As an elected representative of the class, I have been and hope to remain an advocate of a variety of activities to fit a variety of tastes during next year's Winter Carni.

Bonnie Jackson

To the Class of 1971:

In my opinion the role of class government should include the best possible management of class funds as well as bringing the best possible entertainment to the University of Massachusetts in such events as next year's Winter Carni.

As I see it, with the funds allowed by your class taxes, an attempt should be made by the class government to bring you a wider selection of entertainment to satisfy every taste. Furthermore, I feel that more people should be involved with class government - more than just the class officers and the executive council. An attempt should be made to reach more people in each of the respective classes to give them a knowledge of what the class government is doing with their funds. An attempt should also be made to bring more students to their respective class meetings.

What I would like to see for next year's Winter Carni would be a combination of Soul music, Hard Rock, and Pop style concerts. An example of the entertainment that would be provided would be a concert with Dionne Warwick Friday night, Blood, Sweat & Tears, and Steppenwolf Saturday night and a group similar to Sergio Mendes for Sunday. This is an example of the entertainment that could be provided for concerts and I will make an honest attempt to bring groups such as these to Winter Carni next year.

Al Nadler

Class of 72

President

Members of the Class of '72:

My view of class govt. can be best expressed by the old phrase, "Time s are changing" - Students are becoming more aware of many issues, both academic and political, with which class govt. has been consistently unable to concern itself. I think it's time for class govt. to change along with the times.

If elected, I would like to have a commission to study the role of class govt. I would also work to expand the power and responsibility of area govts.

As far as entertainment goes, I would just like to say that in this area also I would like to see more a reas sponsored social activities. I would try to have entertainment chosen by referendum.

Bob Hottin

Editor's Note:

Due to the large number and the length of the responses received for the Candidates Forum it has been necessary to hold over the letters from candidates for Secretary, Treasurer, and Senator at Large.

These letters will be run in Thursday's paper.

Class of 72 cont.

Fellow classmates,

Thursday April 24, is election day. As you all know, I am running for re-election as Pres. of your class. This year the class, under my leadership was successful. One of our most important achievements was the long sought abolishment of freshmen curfews. As with freshman curfews, I have worked with the Student Senate on several issues. Now pending is the redefinition of class governments on campus, which I will continue to be active in. This year your class was well represented by the largest Executive Council that the University has ever had. Some of the more outstanding freshman activitus which we sponsored were the trip to Montreal, all College Mixer, and the talent show in the Ballroom. Also the class was kept informed by newsletters and dormitory class meetings.

But we can't slow down now. Next year promises to have much in store for the class of 1972.

Freshman weekend is already organized for May 10, with ORPHEUS, YOUNGBLOODS, guest speaker JERRY RUBIN, and a host of other surprises. A better orientation program has been organized for incoming freshmen through my help.

For the coming year we are planning and organizing: 1) a class trip to Fort Lauderdale during intersession, 2) a university picnic in September, 3) Sophomore Banquet in April, 1970, with discounts for the members of the class. I am working especially hard on S.N.D.O.F.F weekend, with FIFTH DIMENSION, and THE BROADWAY MUSICAL, "HAIR" already signed up and negotiations are underway for DIONNE WARWICK.

As you know, the Campus Chest is dependent on the success of SENDOFF and we are expecting to donate a substantial amount of money to the only charity drive which we have on campus.

The above gains are only a sample of our classes' involvement in social and cultural activities. Next year at this time the list of our accomplishments will have doubled and with your help and support will have trippled. I feel that if the success and acnievement of our goals is indicative of the leadership which I have contributed to our class, I ask for your continued support - not only in the upcoming election - but also in the coming year.

THANK YOU

Ernie Lepore

Vice-President

Members of the Class of 72

It is time for the class officers to serve a function other than social programming. There is a great need for academic and other reforms and for people to institute them. The student voice of the class officers with that of the Student Senate, can greatly influence academic and area government change.

It is the job of the Vice President to aid the president and when necessary, handle completely some of the many jobs with which he is entrusted. As Vice President I will work towards these goals.

Howard Tuber

Only you can prevent forest fires.

The following questions were asked by the Collegian of the candidates for class officers for 1969-70. Some candidates did not see fit to confine their answers to these questions and therefore their replies were edited.

1) What do you think the role of class government should do?
2) If elected, what will you do to further the role as you see it?
3) For classes of 1971 and 1972: What type of entertainment would you be in favor of for your respective class sponsored weekends? For the class of 1970: What type of Senior Week would you plan?

The candidate's forum for Secretary, Treasurer, and Senator-at-large will be run tomorrow.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER Frank Wendrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS Sue Gerson, Janet Howes
EDITORIAL Marc Landry
DARKROOM TECHNICIAN Ann VerPlanck
SPORTS Jan Curley
COPY EDITOR Betsy Ibbeken

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Ron Delsener presents
RCA VICTOR RECORDING ARTIST

Feliciano

SUN., MAY. 4 at 9:00 p.m.
MUSIC HALL
Tickets: $3.50, $4.50, $5.50 Mail order to Music Hall, 268 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Tix available at Music Hall; Harvard Co-op; MIT Ticket Office and Out-of-Town ticket agency (Cambridge). Phone: (617) 423-3300

SAVE 20¢
Pepsi and small tomato and cheese Pizza - $1.00 upon request
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 No. Pleasant St.
253-9858

Young Republicans
BUSINESS MEETING
Bristol Room S.U. 6:30 P.M.
Thursday, April 24, 1969
Nomination and Election of Officers

TONITE
THE DYNAMIC DESATATIONS
Go Nuts at the Hutch
THE HUTCH INN

STUDENT UNION
Governing Board
ELECTIONS
Classes of 1970, 1971, 1972
Thursday, April 24
S.U. Lobby

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Chevy 2 dr. sedan, V-8 stick, has had recent engine overhaul. Best offer. Call 549-1129, ask for Mike or leave message 4-24

1956 Cadillac, four door hdtp., radio and heater, $100 firm. Contact Bob 546-8605. 4-23

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

'64 Ford Galaxie 500 convertible, green, white top, black interior, new brakes, lines, shocks, springs, 289 cu. in. $1100. Call Jill — 546-8555 (be persistent). 4-17-25-28

FOR SALE

19" Sylvania Portable TV and stand. 1 yr. old, excell ent cond., owned by a blind man. $75. Call 253-9632. 4-28

100 lb. Sears vinyl weight set, Heath 14 watt mono amp. George Hopkins, 404 Prince, 546-1040 evenings. 4-24

1968 Valkswagen, like new, factory warranty, $1695. Call 256-6980. 4-28

1968 Triumph Trophy Scrambler, 350 cc., ex. cond., red, asking $550. Also 1964 Yamaha YBS2 250, blue and white, $200. Call Tom 6-7737. 4-24

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

MG-A parts — rebuilt engine, engine and body parts, trans., etc. Call Steve at 584-8163. 4-25

Motorcycle — Sears SS., only 4,000 miles, crash bar, luggage rack, mirror, helmet, and faceplate included, $199. Call 6-7029. 4-24

1965 HONDA 50, excellent condition, barely used, $120. Call 253-7743. 4-24

Golf irons (7-9), one set, $50; call 546-1603 in early e.m. 4-24

16mm Movie Camera "Pathe", practically new, same lense, never used. Price $150.00 (over $500.00 when new). Call 545-2014 between 9-11 p.m. 4-23

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler. Perfect condition. $475.00. Call 584-3643 late evening or early morning. 4-23

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee Shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6006 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
Class of 1970
President
4-24

SERVICES

WANTED: Position of Class Secretary by Rene Markt, candidate for Secretary Class of '70. 4-24

ROOMMATES WANTED

Junior girl seeking 1-2 female roommates to move on campus with next year. Want to move into 2 bedroom apt. near campus in $140/month range with kitchen. Cost to be split. If interested call 546-7488. 4-28

Roommate wanted for summer (male), own bedroom, furnished with bed, desk, chair. With it people preferred, but no dresponts, $80/mo. including utilities. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus, 253-5842. 4-2

Roommate to share furnished apartment heated five minutes from Campus, for June, July and August. $55 per mo. including utilities. Call 549-3063. Ask for Brian. 4-24

WANTED — Male Roommate to share larger, unfurnished 2½ room apt., $60 month including all utilities and dishwasher. Available June 1. Call 665-3600, Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 4-24

ON CAPE COD: We have a large house, 5 minutes from Hyannis Center and need 3 more roommates for June, July and Aug. Call Bob, Tully, or Paul, 6-9351, 6-9415, or 5-2778. 4-28

Four serious, upperclass male roommate wanted for summer school. Share beautiful 8 room apt. in Sunderland. Own room, modern, and furnished, $10 each month. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3672 after 6 p.m. 4-28

MISCELLANEOUS

Who's afraid of Virginia Woolff and Road Runner Cartoon, S.U. Ballroom, Friday, April 25, 8:00 p.m. Admission 75c. Sponsored by Flying Redmen. 4-28

PERSONAL

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

FOR RENT

To sublet June 1 to Sept. 1, Colonial Village apartments, 3½ rooms, partially furnished, all utilities included. Contact Chris 546-7530. 4-23

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9416. Be persistant. 5-5

"For the Summer" June 1 to Sept. 1 — 5 rm. "house", 30 seconds from Campus, 10 Phillips St. Come in person or call 549-3397. 4-23

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31, or lease for 1 year. Your choice. Call Bob 253-2845. 4-23

Air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts, Puffton Village Apt. to sublet for the summer, $65/person, prefer two guys. Call 549-1415. 4-23

3½ room furnished apartment available June 1. Five miles from Campus. $100 month including utilities. Call 665-3907. 4-24

FOR RENT IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1st - Sept. 1st, $120/month, all utilities. Call 253-7793. 4-24

7 Rm. House to sub-lease from June 1 - Sept. 1, near Mt. Holyoke Campus. 4 people or less, $900 a month plus utilities. Call 532-6416. 4-28

Available June 1, 2½ room apartment, rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 4-28

2 Bedroom Apartment, all utilities included in rent. $125 unfurnished, $138 furnished. Available June 1. Call 549-6083. 4-23

7 room apartment (3 bedrooms), available June 1 - Sept. 1, completely furnished, 6 miles from Campus. $120 mo. Call 665-3907. 4-28

Summer Sublet — 6/1 to 9/1, 2½ rm. furnished apt. with dishwasher, disposal, carpeting, desk and bookcase, modern, util. incl. Cliffside Apts., Sunderland, $128 per month. Call 665-3671. 4-28

8 room house in Southampton, available June 1 - Sept. 1, $125 per month. Call 586-1791 after 6. 4-28

HELP WANTED

School of Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan — salaries $10,000 to $15,000 (range depending on degrees held). Call Dr. Ben Rubenstein, Brattleboro, Vermont (1-802-257-7436). 4-2

Girls for counter work making sand wiches and cold drinks. Hours: Mon thru Fri, — 10-2 and 5-6; Sat. — 5-6 Needed for June, July and Aug. Apply Gene's Ice Cream Shoppe, Route 9, Hadley (near Hopkins Academy.). 4-15-17-21-23-2

1382 APR

Lederle's Annual Report.. . .

Mass. Can Afford Better Education

(Continued from Page 1)

vices they demand cost money. Funds for higher education are more willingly given if the taxpayer knows his money is being used in a necessary and profitable investment. Our financial danger is not the increasing number of dollars needed, but the risk that our investment in education will be too small to yield the maximum economic return."

Noting that state tax funds provide only a fraction of the dollars used to operate the public higher education system, Pres. Lederle calls it "a bargain for a quality product which is fast becoming a basic necessity of modern life."

Moving on to the section dealing specifically with the State University, President Lederle called it "a year of growth and progress" at University of Massachusetts campuses in Amherst, Boston and Worcester, and directed attention to the following highlights of the 1967-68 academic year:

- A decision to support actively the establishment of a law school at the Amherst campus, the action taken by the Board of Trustees with the support of the Board of Higher Education.

- A Board of Trustees vote to establish a School of Dentistry in Worcester if so directed by the Legislature and governor.

- Programs in comparative literature, environmental engineering and anthropology were elevated to the doctoral level; new master's degree programs were approved in regional planning, comparative literature and environmental engineering.

- There were 75 departmental divisions with 55 master's degree programs and 40 doctoral programs in effect at Amherst during the year, compared with 20 master's and 11 doctoral programs six years ago.

- New overseas programs were approved for Sophia University in Japan and for a junior year in France for students at UMass Boston; an overseas program of studies was begun in Madrid for 20 students.

- Overseas programs continued at Freiburg, Germany; Bologna, Italy; and Oxford, England, and through AID contracts in Malawi and Uganda in Africa.

- A new program for admission of students from disadvantaged areas was approved.

- The College of Agriculture established a Center for International Agricultural Studies.

- The School of Engineering awarded its first doctoral degrees and made major changes in each of its six undergraduate degree programs. A second $180,000 in federal funds was granted in connection with Project Themis and a cooperative research relationship was developed between the department of electrical engineering and the Cambridge NASA Research Center.

- The School of Education, in a period of transition and reorganization under new Dean Dwight W. Allen, was selected as one of nine institutions in the nation to develop a model elementary teacher education program. The school established a Center for the Study of Educational Innovations and a Northeast Regional Media Center for the Deaf.

- The University campus at Boston expanded into three leased buildings near its 100 Arlington St. building and reached an enrollment of 2571. More than 100 disadvantaged young people were recruited.

- The School of Medicine in Worcester obtained an $18.7 million federal grant-toward the medical science building, library and research facilities. Plans were approved for a hospital which will serve as a referral center for patients from all over the Commonwealth.

The UMass precision aquatic team, the NAIADS, give their presentation of "Need For One Another" at WOPE during the International Academy of Aquatic Arts public exhibition. The exhibition, held Saturday night, concluded week long competitions which brought members from as far away as England and Quebec. (Photo by Ara Dedekian)

Students to be Consultants In History Dept. Committee

At a recent meeting of the History department's Student-Faculty Liason Committee, it was decided that the students of the board will act as a consultation committee for all History majors. The student representatives to the committee were elected by the History majors during the first semester. They are: Michael Crowe, 15 Cosby St. Amherst, 253-3527; Paul Goodwin, 802 Thompson, 545-0880; Nancy Hopkins 427 Melville 546-7409; Ellen Kaplan, 458 Pierpont, 546-2297; Candace Leavitt, 702 Dickinson, 546-6695; Matt Novak, 408 Webster, 546-7128; and Marcia Synnott, E31 Machmer, 253-2760.

Any History majors having questions or suggestions may contact one of the members or leave a note in Paul Goodwin's mailbox on the seventh floor of Thompson. The consultation committee would like any majors having specific problems or suggestions to contact them as soon as possible so that these suggestions or problems may be discussed at the next meeting of the Student-Faculty Committee meeting.

Boston Philharmonia Held Superb Concert at UMass

By GALE SAKARIS
Fine Arts Staff

The Boston Philharmonia gave a superb concert at Bowker auditorium on Tuesday, April 15, under the direction of Michael Tilson Thomas.

They opened with the Bach Suite No. 4 in D. Mr. Thomas's conducting was amazingly precise and clear. He had absolute control over the orchestra and his interpretation was flawless.

The orchestra is composed of very talented musicians whose playing is very controlled and who blend well. This was particularly demonstrated in the Seeger, ANDANTE FOR STRINGS. In this composition each section of the orchestra must be very unified and responsive in order to create the effect of answering each other.

After the Ruggles, "Men and Mountains," came the Webern Symphonie, Op. 21. This composition is very rarely played because of it's great technical and ensemble difficulties. Again the orchestra presented a very fine version of the composition and Mr. Thomas's conduction was to be commended.

They closed with the Haydn Symphony No. 60. This composition was performed with the same high level of musicianship as the rest of the program.

ISRAEL'S 21st Independance Day

Come and join us in our celebration

Tonight-8:00 P.M.

S.M.-South Terrace

(under the skies)

ISRALI Refreshments plus
Films, Slides, Songs etc.

To get into the right mood —
Listen to Israli Songs on WFCR 88.5 FM — 5:30 P.M.
If rain — Council Chamber S.U.

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
855 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

Now on the second floor of the
STUDENT UNION
GNOMON COPY
makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!
Room 214
Free collating
Open every hour the Union is open

JOHN BEAN
9 - 12
WEDNESDAY NIGHT
at
Chequers

APRIL 24 IS THE DAY TO VOTE

CLASS AND SUG BOARD ELECTIONS
IN THE STUDENT UNION COLONIAL LOUNGE
9:00 A.M. - 5:30 P.M.

Less than 20% of the Student Body voted in the primary.

EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT TO VOTE

(Student Senate Public Relations/SGA)

INTERVIEWS

for students interested in living in Orchard Hill next semester will be held

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23

to

THURSDAY, APRIL 24

from 7-12 P.M.

in Eugene Field Conference Room.

NOTICES

DAMES CLUB
Rummage sale, Sat. at VFW on Main St., 9 a.m. till noon.

SGA COMMITTEE
APRIL 24 has, in fact, been cancelled.

VOLLEYBALL CLUB
Training Tuesdays and Thursdays 7:30-8:30 p.m. and Sat. at noon.

NEWMAN CLUB
The Newman Club's annual Family Day is planned for Sun. starting with a mass at 2 p.m. in the chapel followed by a buffet at 3 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 and are obtainable at the Newman Club this week.

SENIOR HONORS
Open question and answer meeting with the Director of Honors tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in Hasbrouk 20.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be tonight at 7:30 in WOPE. Plans for EDSARDA will be made.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF
Important meeting tonight at 7:30 in the S.U. All representatives please attend.

SOCIOLOGY UNDERGRADUATE LIASON COMMITTEE
Meeting tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Norfolk Rm., S.U.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Color training film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump are urged to attend.

MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE
A Military Ball will be held Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Formal dress. Tickets now on sale at Dickinson Hall for $5 a couple. Theme of the Ball is "Forward Together".

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House. All welcome.

FINNISH CLUB
Will show a movie, "Welcome to Scandinavia" and meet for class after it tonight at 8 p.m. in the Commonwealth Rm., S.U. For information call Nancy, 6-8343.

ART DEPARTMENT
Dept. of Fine Arts lecture by Professor Sekler scheduled for today at 8 p.m. has been cancelled due to the disturbances at Harvard.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Film on American Heritage tonight at 6:30 p.m. in Prince House, Main lounge. Coffee hour. All welcome. Greek Evening is tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge. The remaining coffee hours for this semester will be held in the Colonial Lounge. All welcome.

SCROLLS
Meeting tomorrow for Soph. Scrolls. Bring roomcleaning money and money for pins if planning to keep them. All those going with APO meet at S.U. Sat. Freshman Scrolls - meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Worcester A and B. Remember the following: room-choosing, nominations for officers, money for pins, photographs tomorrow at 11:15 in ballroom, initiation is April 30 at 8, tea at 7, all in Memorial Hall.

LOCAL 1776
Special Union meeting in the S.U. April 27 at 10 a.m. All members please attend.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. E. T. Reese, U. S. Army Natick Laboratories, will speak on the topic, "Biochemistry of Celluloses" in Goessmann Lab., Rm. 51 today at 4 p.m. Coffee will be served at 3:45 p.m.

HILLEL
Israeli Independence Day Celebration tonight at 8 p.m. on S.U. South Terrace, weather permitting. Otherwise in S.U. Council Chambers. Films, slides, songs, Israeli refreshments.

ASSASSINATION OF GOD
Casting for May 9 presentation, "The Assassination of God: A Celebration" tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Thompson 106.

MATH CLUB
Coffee hour for all math majors sponsored by the Math Club. It will be at 4 p.m. in Arnold Lounge today.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
Bus going to the hospital tonight at 6:30 from the S.U. and from Patterson House. All welcome.

MLK COMMUNITY EDUCATION
Meeting at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow in 207 Hampshire House. Come and discuss future plans.

STUDENT LEADERS NIGHT
All students tapped for Student Leaders Night should plan to attend the Photo Session at the S.U. Ballroom tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. Please wear clothing appropriate for your organization.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Special business meeting tomorrow at 6:30 in Bristol Rm., S.U. Nomination and election of officers. Important.

OPERETTA GUILD
Meeting at 6 tomorrow. Important, attendance mandatory.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Rev. David Fife, pastor of North Leverett Baptist Church will speak at a campus wide meeting Fri. at 7:30 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U. Books not sold at the book table will be sold there. All welcome.

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
Meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. in Thompson 106 tonight. A movie will be shown and Richard Caneklin, Pre-Law advisor will answer questions on various law schools. All invited.

COMMITTEE TO ELECT DIANNE PERRINE SECRETARY
A Dianne for Secretary '70 rally will be held tonight at 3 p.m. in the 5th floor lounge of Melville. Free refreshments.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - ladies' gold wrist watch. Contact Nancy, 221 Van Meter. Reward.

Lost - Pair of brown rimmed eye glasses. Reward. Call 6-6235.

Lost - brown notebook, Art History 115. Notify Jane Cochran, 214 Mary Lyons.

Lost - brown packetbook. Call 5-2304, Joan Bentz. Reward.

Lost - brown checkbook - First Nat'l Bank of Amherst, belonging to Jay Williams, Pomeroy Meadow Rd., Southampton. Return to Collegian Office.

Lost - one blue checked jacket and wallet. Please return to lost and found desk.

Found - ladies' Timex watch with black band, at Morrill. Call 5-2287 or come by Zoology office.

Lost - brown wallet. Call Jack, 419 Brett, 6-9533. Reward.

Found - Pair of girl's glasses. Call Kathy 6-6335.

Lost - Notebook containing Chemand Math notes. Contact Leslie, 307 James., 6-7552. Reward.

Lost - watch with a crocked face, Timex. Call 6-9893.

PINNINGS
Ann McAllister, '70, Patterson, to Laurie Burnory, '69, PMD.
Betsy Rodgers, Patterson, to Ron Moyer, Delta Epsilon.
Jean Sheldon, '72, Van Meter, to David Marble, '70, Gorman.

ENGAGEMENTS
Pouline Ryan, '71, Dickinson, to Doug Torrey, '69, Kappa Sigma.
Mary Ellen Mackin, '70, Sigma Sigma Sigma, to Kenneth Brown, '71, AIC.
Janet Horte, '70, Coolidge, to Richard Golvin, '70, N. Amherst.
Susan Mandel, '71, Field, to Charles Schiller, '70, Grayson.
Silvia Micko, '71, Patterson, to William Smith, US Navy.
Nancy Scala, '70, Dickinson, to Robert Sawyer, '69, Delta Chi.

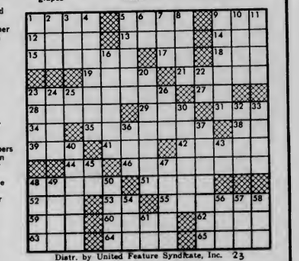
MARRIAGE
Patricia Sheehan, Springfield College of Nursing, to Konrad Rogowske, '69, Washington.

The UMass art department's annual series of thesis exhibits by master of fine arts degree candidates opens this year with an April 20-25 show by Edward McCluney.

McCluney is a printmaker from Norfolk whose work will be shown Sunday, April 20, through Friday, April 25, in Memorial Hall. The show is open to the public without charge. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

at
THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

LOG SHADE ALP
ARE LUNAR LEA
PATRON RODEOS
SOW AFIRE
STEW WAS ATTS
HER FIR AASPS
ON PAY SIN TIC
ROGER PET MAR
TRET MAA BALE
READ MET
NIMROD RATTAN
ARA TAPIR STA
PAN SCOOP RBI

ACROSS
1-Three-banded armadillo
5-Son of Adam
9-Greek letter
12-Wise person
13-Ireland
14-Part of face
15-In good taste
17-A continent (abbr.)
18-Native metal
19-Way out
21-Lassos
23-Opposes
27-Compass point
28-Hurry
29-River island
31-Pose for portrait
34-Exists
35-Food fish
38-Maiden loved by Zeus
39-Parent-teacher organization (abbr.)
41-Gratuity
42-Servants
44-Exist
46-Delays
48-Item of property
51-Soaks
52-Greek letter
53-Artificial language
55-Stage whispers
59-Be mistaken
60-Prepare for print
62-Bird's home
63-Mournful
64-Spreads for drying
65-Bristle

DOWN
1-Snake
2-Equality
3-Time gone by
4-Feels regret for
5-Eagle's nest
6-Prefix: twice
7-Bitter vetch
8-Shakespearian king
9-Runs away to be married
10-Weary
11-Imitates
16-Degree
20-One who sets traps for game
22-Preposition
23-Fragment
24-Kiln
25-Pronoun
26-Drink
30-Lures
32-Assistant
33-Hurl
36-Ventilate
37-Dried grapes
40-Ridiculous
43-Pronoun
45-College degree (abbr.)
47-Chairs
48-The sweetsop
49-Girl's name
50-Allowance for waste
54-Poem
56-River in Scotland
57-Superlative ending
58-Music as written
61-Cyprinoid fish

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 23

Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 AMHERST 256-6411
Cinema I Now Playing!
Academy Award Winner
An epic drama of adventure and exploration!
2001 a space odyssey
One performance at 8:00
Sun. Matinee at 2
Cinema II 2nd Week!
Greetings
"AN OVERGROUND SEX-PROTEST FILM!"
Nightly at 7:15 and 9:00
Fri. & Sat 6:15 - 8:00 - 9:45
Coming Soon
"SHAME"

1322
APR

Malone Leads Garber's Gorillas, 22-4, Over Holy Cross

Another easy lacrosse victory was chalked up by UMass Monday, as the unbeaten Redmen clubbed Holy Cross, 22-4. Again, it was Tom Malone who led the way.

Malone, a sophomore from Uniondale N.Y., scored six goals, giving him 11 scores in two games. He also added four assists, to give him 20 total points in two games.

Malone, as if he needed any help was given ample support by attack mates Gary Vassar and Kevin O'Connor, two seniors, who are used to bearing the whole load. O'Connor, who each game adds to his career school scoring record, had three goals and nine assists for 12 points in the game, while Vassar had five goals and three assists.

Malone got the first three goals in the first period, two on O'Connor assists and one from Steve Connolly. Malone assisted Vassar for the fourth goal and then got two more before the first quarter ended, one on a Vassar assist. UMass led after the first quarter 6-1.

UMass got seven more in the second quarter while Holy Cross managed one. Bob LaChance got number seven for the Redmen from O'Connor. The "Fox" then assisted for Bob Florin to notch the eighth marker. Florin added his second moments later unassisted.

Sophomore Steve Hershcopf, who has looked good in action, notched the tenth UMass goal on an assist from O'Connor. Steve Anderson got the eleventh score from Malone, and Malone made it an even dozen on an O'Connor feed. Anderson from Malone rounded out the first half scoring with UMass leading, 13 - 2.

Vassar got four goals in the second half, O'Connor three with Gerry Forget and Ed Sacco rounding out things as, the Redmen topped the 20 mark for the third time this season. Holy Cross scored once in each period to give them their four scores.

REDMAN RANTINGS – Mark Schlossberg and John Orr divided the goaltending chores for the Redmen, playing a half each. . .Redmen regulars are playing only about half a game as the stickmen keep taking big, early leads, allowing subs to get some valuable work. . . The work of Tom Tufts, Bill Devore and Al Ruggiano on defense continues to be strong. . .Sophomore substitute backlines Mike Hinman and Joe Smith, along with Fran Bositis have looked strong in their appearances of late. . .Roy Condon continues to sit on the sidelines with a bruised shoulder. . Carl Schulthesis, who in three U-Mass games stamped himself as an exciting and overpowering scoring threat, will be lost for the season. . Schulthesis was operated on for a severed ligament Saturday suffered in last week's Middlebury game. . .That lousy bus on Saturday, wasn't the faulty of the ever-generous athletic department, but come to find out, the sleazy Peter Pan Company. . .Sorry about that Boyden.

STICK BATTLE - The Redmen's Bob LaChance battled an unidentified Tufts player for the ball in action against Tufts last Saturday. The Redmen won (ho, hum), 21-4. Next action is against Trinity. (MDC photo by John Kelly, senior photographer.)

Little Redmen DownWesleyan, Brace for Dartmouth Today

Following in the footsteps of their big brothers, the UMass freshman lacrosse team won its opener Saturday as they defeated Wesleyan, 12-7.

The frosh, who are being coached on a part time basis by Bill Carroll, fell behind in the first 10 minutes of the game, 2-0, but then UMass came back on the wet field with four quick goals, to take a 4-2 lead after one quarter and never were headed enroute to their first win.

Leading the frosh scoring was attackman Bob Waters, who had four goals and two assists, and Pete Anzalone who had two goals. They are joined on attack by Paul Rich.

The rest of the scoring was scattered among the two starting fields. The first midfield includes Al Alessi, brother of former U-Mass all-American defenseman, Walt, Paul Schacter and Jeff Flower.

The second middies include Dana Stone, Charlie Davis, and P.J. Flaherty, who was a hockey goalie on the frosh ice team, and also Carl Lueders, who has seen action on the line.

Carroll, who has only a 22-man squad, has four defensemen vieing for the three starting berths. They are Mike Cosgrove, Jim Pietros, John Walsh and Pete Olson. Bob Lindsay, Steve Warner and Bob Vortugin also see action at defense.

In goal is hockey player Bruce Crawford with Ron Dumont backin g him up. Carroll also has two troubleshooters who can play either attack or midfield, in the persons of Dale Onussett and John Cesare.

Carroll was pleased by his team's performance saying, "We rode man, cleared the ball well and our man down defense was excellent. However, some things weren't so good including, controlling the ball, and play on offense. We need better team play on offense. But we'll get better with game experience."

The Redmen will be tested severely with a game at home with Dartmouth today and with a tough Brown team at Providence Tuesday.

Netmen Slate MIT at Home

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

Coach Steve Kosakowski is hoping to send his team into action this afternoon in a home match against MIT. This will be the second time that the Redmen will try to get the match in three days for UMass.

Monday the Redmen defeated a good New Hampshire club at Durham, 6-3. Yesterday's home match with Tufts was rained out. Kosakowski was especially pleased by Nubby Gervickas in the win over the Wildcats at UNH.

Carl Chem, Scott Sheppard, and Jon Bloom, playing at two, three, and four were all victorious for the Bay Staters. Gervickas, playing at six in singles, teamed with Tom Babson at third doubles for another win, and the second doubles pairing of Bloom and Allen Goldberg rounded out the UMass scorers.

"He really showed a lot of guts out there," was the enthusiastic appraisal of Gervickas's performance Monday. Lefty Ed Hill piled up a 6-1, 4-1 lead before the soph rallied for a 6-2,6-3 foray to take the match 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

The three losses were all caused by different factors. Soph Goldberg, playing his first varsity match at one, got off to a slow start and lost the first set 6-2. He recovered in the next two sets, but the damage had already been done. He lost 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Babson at five, led 8-6, 4-1, but ran out of gas. Joel Taylor kept his composure and eventually took the match 6-8, 8-6, 6-3. Kosakowski paired Sheppard and Clem at doubles for the first time and they were beaten in straight sets.

Today's match will be a great one, if it is played. Kosakowski will use his best in an attempt to wrest a sweet upset from the tough Engineers.

Rain Shortens BC Relays; Four Runners Finish Mara.

Rain brought a halt to last Saturday's Boston College Relays and postponed yesterday's Springfield College meet for the UMass trackmen.

In the short relays, UMass got off to a good start before the rain and hail brought the proceedings to a close. The Redman high jump and javelin teams both placed second in their specialites. Hurling the javelin for the Redmen were Bill Mahoney, Gary Wilson, and Dana Robertson. UMass' high jump trio was made up of John Ariensen, Paul Nyman and Cal Carpenter. The hammer throwing squad of Bill Wilen, Dave Schlatka, and Ed Arcaro placed fourth for UMass.

In a special two mile run, Redmen Charlie Lang finished third and Paul Hoss fifth behind Art Dulong of Holy Cross and Frank Shorter of Yale.

* * *

Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss tied for first place in the annual Lexington five mile run on Patriot's Day. (April 21).

* * *

Four UMass sophs ran the 73rd Boston Marathon Monday. Tom Derderian was the first finisher for UMass as he crossed the finish line in front of the Prudential Center in two hours and 49 minutes to place 84th. Leo Duart, not fully recovered from an illness that caused him to miss a week of training, did not run up to par finishing the Boston race in just over three hours. Dave Elben turned in a great race in his first marathon, placing 186th with a clocking of 3:05. Joel Fox, in his first marathon, was 505th in three hours 43 minutes. Of the 1,152 starters, 678 broke the four hour time limit.

Hawk to Join Tribe Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) - Ken Harrelson, "realizing what I was doing was bad for myself," reversed his decision to retire from baseball and agreed yesterday to report to the Cleveland Indians.

The decision by the Hawk was announced early in the evening after Harrelson and his lawyer, Bob Woolf, met most of the afternoon with General Manager Gabe Paul of Cleveland, General Manager Dick O'Connell of Boston, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Joe Cronin, president of the American League.

Paul made the announcement in the commissioner's office, where the meeting was held, that the slugging outfielder - first baseman would be in an Indians uniform tonight for a game against the New York Yankees in Cleveland.

Tonight's Intramurals

4	4:40	Bulldozers vs. Terrors
5	4:40	Seagrams vs. Academics
6	4:40	Smashers vs. Bruisers
2	5:20	BX vs. Roberts
3	5:20	Bulldogs vs. Zooms
4	5:20	PSD vs. SPE
5	5:20	DC vs. ATG
6	5:20	QTV vs. PMD
5	5:30	Colt 45's vs. Leopards
6	5:30	Mega vs. Cougars
7	5:30	Patriots vs. Panthers
8	5:30	Racoons vs. Drakesters
9	5:30	Bounders vs. Dicks
10	5:30	Kalinkos vs. Dydozz
11	5:30	BX vs. Goons
1	6:30	2 vs. 3
2	6:30	4 vs. 5
3	6:30	2 vs. 3
4	6:30	4 vs. 5
1	7:30	2 vs. 3
2	7:30	4 vs. 5
3	7:30	2 vs. 3
4	7:30	4 vs. 5
1	8:30	Bulldozers vs. Lions
2	8:30	Terrors vs. Coal Cans
3	8:30	Bears vs. Trojans
4	8:30	Chestnuts vs. Hickory
1	9:30	Groups vs. Beadledams
2	9:30	Dinks vs. Old Men
3	9:30	Ossicles vs. Old Timers
4	9:30	Chem Dept. vs. Education
1	10:30	1 vs. 2
2	10:30	3 vs. 4
3	10:30	5 vs. 6
4	10:30	Nerves vs. Loggia

Golfers Clobber UNH, 6-1, On Rain-Soaked Course

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

Despite the miserable weather conditions today, the UMass golfers played their best match of the season, swamping New Hampshire, 6-1. The Redmen now sport a fine overall record of 4-1 while the Wildcats are 0-1.

Dave Salter, again playing in the top spot, breezed to his fourth straight victory with a 5 and 3 decision over Alan Clark. Second and third sports likewise provided points for Massachusetts as Capt. Eric Lekberg overpowered highly rated Gary Bissonette, 4 and 2, and sophomore Ed Puzas outscored veteran Glen Harbour, 3 and 2.

Rick Aherne, manning the fourth position, lost his first match in five meets when he dropped a 3 and 2 decision to Steve Robert. This provided New Hampshire with it's one and only point of the afternoon.

Redman Dick Barber then iced the match when he defeated John Foley, 1 up. UMass' sixth and seventh men soon added to their lead as unbeaten Dick King cruised to his fourth triumph in a row with a 4 and 2 win over John O'Leary. Then Paul Johnson regained his winning stroke and posted a 5 and 4 victory over John Turner.

Although the heavy rain made playing conditions terrible, the squad played their best golf of the year with five of the seven men breaking 80. These included Ed Puzas (75), Eric Lekberg (77), Dick King (77), Dave Salter (78), and Paul Johnson (79).

The team will try for their fifth and sixth victories tomorrow when they confront Holy Cross and Boston College at Pleasant Valley Country Club, Sutton, Mass.

All of yesterday's intramural action must be rescheduled for this Friday at the same time on the same fields. This is necessary because there is no other time to reschedule the games before the end of the semester.

THE LOVE OF GRASS motivated these students to block construction on the bank of the campus pond yesterday. The students demanded the ground dug up by bulldozers yesterday be reseeded. (MDC photo by Damian Kuffler).

Students Halt Construction Work In Support of Campus Beauty

By BILL DICKINSON
Senior Reporter

Some 100 students went out on a limb yesterday to stop the tearing up of the grass by the campus pond for storage areas for construction materials.

The group halted preparation for the construction of the 28 story library for the afternoon by blocking a bulldozer and boarding it.

It began when a lone girl tried to stop workmen from removing a tree in front of South College. She was joined by 30 others. As Dean of Students William F. Field explained that the tree had to go because it was exactly on the site of the new building, a group of the protestors, lead by Student Senators Joe Kilmartin and Staff Sheehan decided it would be more effective if they stopped the bulldozer chewing up the grass by the pond.

They were soon joined on the bulldozer by 20 more students.

Delegations from the crowd of supporters were also sent to stop a front-loader removing soil and the carpenters building the storage sheds. The latter was accomplished by pulling the plug on the generator powering saws.

Meanwhile, petitions were circulated among the 500 on-lookers demanding that the University stop "infringing on the pond."

When it appeared that the students were not going to give up the tractor, a subcontractor sent his eight men home losing them half a day's pay.

Later in the afternoon a meeting was arranged with Jack Littlefield, University planning officer, to discuss construction plans.

Senator Kilmartin outlined demands that have been presented to the University:

1.) Stop infringement on the pond by any construction.

2.) Have the eight workers reimbursed for the half day lost.

3.) Have the contractor find another site for storage sheds.

Recently, the Student Senate passed a resulution calling on the administration to declare the pond area a "demilitarized zone" as far as construction is concerned.

Commented Kilmartin, "This shows how much the administration listens to the Student Senate."

"I think they're barking up the wrong tree on this one," said an administration official who wished to remain anonymous.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 124 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1969

State House Speaker Bartley Warns Sympathy Turning Against Youth

House Speaker David M. Bartley warned college students and the young people of the Commonwealth tonight that proposed amendments to lower the state's voting age to 19 and 18 are "in peril."

Addressing the student Senate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, the Democratic leader said the turmoil of the times is posing "some tremendous obstacles" in the path of legislative approval of the bids for lower voting ages.

Bartley pledged his support to a pair of constitutional amendments to lower the voting age. The first, which if approved by the 1969-70 Legislature would go on the 1970 ballot, would lower the voting age to 19. The second, which must be approved by the 1969-70 and 1971-72 Legislatures to get on the 1972 ballot, would further lower the voting age to 18.

Bartley said "Middle ground America is getting pretty much fed up with some of the things which have been going on for the past year or two on our college campuses."

"Campus militants hollering the loudest for free speech and participation in university decision making do themselves deny free speech to others.

"They clamor for their rights while trampling the rights of larger but less vocal majorities. How illiberal can these so-called liberals be? How illiberal do they want to be?" asked the Speaker.

Bartley said bitterness and disillusionment among youth has grown since the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy, as well as since the trouble at the Democratic National Convention last summer in Chicago.

Campus disorders and violence he said, have driven a wedge between the young and older Americans.

"It has been these recent Storm-Trooper tactics by a militant minority of Storm-Trooper mentality which have helped turn public sympathy against college students and youth in general."

The Speaker said that the Legislature may not meet in Constitutional Convention to consider voting age changes and other issues until 1970.

Bartley told the students, "unless things cool off on the campuses and unless students mount a massive campaign of responsibility, young people may not win even the Age 19 vote."

Provost Tippo Considers Possible Resignation

By RICHARD W. STORY
Education Editor

University Provost Dr. Oswald Tippo has announced that he is considering resigning "at the convenience of the University," he told the MDC in a special interview last evening. The disclosure was made to President John W. Lederle on Monday of this week.

Provost Tippo cited continued years of poor financial support by the state legislature as the principal reason for his considered resignation.

Provost Oswald Tippo

Tippo stressed the fact that there were no special crises. Tippo stressed the fact that there were no special crises at this particular moment prompting him to resign.

Faculty, student and administrative reaction during the past two days to the rumored resignation has been exceptionally strong and very nearly unanimous in urging Tippo to remain as Provost.

Tippo, heavily committed to other University business for the past two days, had been unavailable for comment until last evening. Interviewed by the MDC in his office in Whitmore, Tippo spoke at some length on the general situation moving him to consider offering his resignation. He cited first the lack of progress being made in expanding financial support in most categories, other than faculty salaries, in the University's budget.

The Provost talked at length of the number of new ideas and programs to which he must say no, simply for lack of money. He suggested at one point that a trained parrot might serve as well in that capacity.

Beyond the matter of the bud-

(Continued on Page 2)

Copies of the fall course schedule are inserted in today's DAILY COLLEGIAN. Be sure to pick up a copy, as this replaces the previous method of distribution for schedules.

Dean Redfern Resigns, To Take Post at Keene

Dr. Leo F. Redfern resigned as Dean of Administration at UMass yesterday, and was named President of Keene State College in New Hampshire. He will take that post August 1.

Dr. Redfern, who has been Dean of Administration here since 1964, has served in a number of capacities at UMass. As Dean of Administration, he has led the development of state and federally financed programs for several years, and has served as a liason between the University and the state legislature on the issues of finance, planning , and policy. He served as chairman of the task force that established UMass Boston in 1946.

Redfern came to Umass in 1961 as director of the Office of Institutional studies, and two years later was named acting secretary of the University. The following year he was appointed director of the UMass labor relations and Research Center.

Dr. Leo F. Redfern
Dean of Administration

For the past several years, he has been the UMass liason to the New England Center for Continuing Education, The Massachusetts Higher Education Facilities Commission, the Massachusetts Board of High Education, and the Advisary Commission to the Massachusetts board of Higher Education.

Most recently, he chaired a committee which drew up plans for a proposed Campus indoor athletic and activities facility.

Redfern received his B.A. from the University of New Hampshire in 1950, and his Masters from the same school the following year. He was a teaching fellow at Harvard from 1954 to 1956, where he received his PH.D.

UMass President John W. Lederle praised Redfern by saying, "I can't say enough about what he's done for this University, and we all wish him well in his new post."

There was no word from the administration as to a possible successor.

Miss University Continues Prelims, Pageant to be Completed Friday

The largest local franchised beauty contest in New England is underway at UMass this week with the Miss University Pageant. Featuring 27 girls and over $1,000 in cash prizes the contest is part of the Miss America Preliminary in New England, Miss University will represent the University at the Miss Massachusetts Pageant in Attleboro to be televised in color in July.

The Massachusetts winner will go on to Atlantic City for the Miss America Competition in September. Last year's Miss Massachusetts came in as first runner-up in Miss America. The pageant is sponsored by the Senior Class and Amherst Jaycees.

Close to 1000 persons attended the opening night of the Preliminary on Tuesday which featured the Swim Suit Preliminary and the Talent Preliminary. Debbie Carter won the swim suit contest and Kathy O'Hara the talent. Preliminaries were also held Wednesday night for talent. Emcees for the contest are seniors Wayne Thomas, Class President, and Neal Whitman.

This Friday the ten semi-finalists will be announced at 8:00 in Bowker Auditorium. The ten girls will compete for cash prizes in Gown, Talent and Swim Suit Competitions, from which five will be chosen and asked questions. The show is followed by an awards banquet. Miss University receives $400, first runnerup $100 and the other three girls $50.

The Most Talented Non-Finalist, two preliminary swim suit winners, and the two preliminary talent winners each receive $25. All finalists get a trophy and all contestants receive a Miss America Charm Bracelet.

THE MISS UNIVERSITY FINALS to be held tonight, are a preliminary for the Miss Massachusetts contest, and a bid in this year's Miss America contest. (MDC photo by Bob Gosciminski).

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon, mapping a $61-million war against organized crime, suggested to Congress Wednesday that Mafia chiefs can be crippled financially by the use of antitrust laws.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two of the Nixon administration's tax reform proposals appear to be aimed directly at practices of the Ford Foundation.

BEIRUT (AP) - Lebanese troops and police Wednesday fired on thousands of rioting students and Palestine refugees demonstrating in two cities of support of the Arab guerrilla movement.

HOUSTON (AP) - The world's first recipient of a total eye transplant was reported Wednesday in excellent condition.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was condemned Wednesday to die in the gas chamber for the slaying of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Living costs rose eight-tenths of one per cent in March, the largest monthly increase in 18 years, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

BOSTON (AP) - Recent demonstrations at Brandeis University are being investigated by the FBI, according to published reports Wednesday and the Waltham university has urged students to cooperate. A spokesman at the Boston office of the FBI declined comment.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) - Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Wednesday the United States must abandon its Safeguard antimissile system plans or risk a loss of faith by Western allies in its pledge to defend them all.

NEW YORK (AP) - Author Norman Mailer says he's running for mayor of New York City. Is he serious? "Watch me!" says Mailer.

RAPP'S
DELICATESSEN
FREE DELIVERY — 6 - 12 every night 253-9336

The GREATEST Rock-Soul Underground Show Ever
THE MAGIC THEATRE
THE DYNAMIC DESATATIONS
and from RCA records
THE CREATIVE IMAGE
Saturday, April 26
$2.00
The Woodrose Ballroom
ROUTE 5 SOUTH DEERFIELD
(take Rt. 116 to Rt. 5)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Slavic Department Being Formed; Guide-lines Now Being Formulated

By JEAN MCANDREWS
Staff Reporter

Students interested in Soviet and East European studies will have an opportunity to participate in an inter-disciplinary program next year leading to a certificate attesting to the student's knowledge in the area.

A six-member committee has been set up to guide the program, including Professors K.W. Ryavec (government), J. Halpern (anthropology), P. Hollander (sociology), R. Jones (history), M. Levin (Slavic), and Mr. S. Radosh (library). More than twenty faculty members are already associated with it.

The program includes a core of courses in the areas of government, anthropology, Slavic languages, history, sociology, and economics; a comparitive literature course is being considered. Studies will culminate in a research paper and an inter-disciplinary seminar to be taken in the student's senior year.

The student must demonstrate a practical knowledge of a major language in the area, the normal requirement being three years of courses in either Polish or Russian; Czech may be added later.

Professor Ryavec, one of the originators of the program, says that it will allow students to learn about East Europe and the Soviet Union "in a more structured way" and will present new ways in which they can become involved in activities relating to this area.

Some of these activities may be: a speaker's program, student-faculty seminars, proposed graduate studies, expansion into a four-college program similar to the Asian and Latin studies now at UMass, and, a distant objective: a study program abroad, possibly in Munich or Vienna.

Ryavec said that the growth of the program will largely depend on student interest, especially in the East European area. He said too that although the difficulty of the Slavic languages, as opposed to the Romance languages, may tend to scare some students off, successful completion of the program will produce a student better suited for graduate study or employment. He pointed out Robert Byrnes' argument in the ACLS newsletter of November, 1968: "... the universities must see that our main problem is not training a handful of specialists . . . but a massive effort to change the spirit and atmosphere of general education for all undergraduate and graduate students."

Interested students may contact Professor Ryavec or Professor Levin to discuss the program.

"I'd never buy my sandals at Matthews. They're too cool".
Charles DeGaulle

from $4.95 at
Matthews SHOE STORE

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Chevy 2 dr. sedan, V-8 stick, has had recent engine overhaul. Best offer. Call 549-1129, ask for Mike or leave message. 4-24

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1966 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or rarting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8857 after 5 p.m. 5-2

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $775. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-1

1968 Volkswagen, like new, factory warranty, $1695. Call 256-8980. 4-28

FOR SALE

Camera for sale. Mamiya 500 TL. 35 mm., one 50 mm. lens and one 135 mm. lens. Good condition. Only $170. Call 6-6285 anytime

19" Sylvania Portable TV and stand. 1 yr. old, excell ent cond., owned by a blind man, $75. Call 253-9632. 4-28

160 lb. Sears vinyl weight set, Heath 14 watt mono amp, Grorge Hopkins, 404 Prince, 546-1040 eveninos.

1968 Triumph Trophy Scrambler, 250 cc., ex. cond., red, asking $550. Also 1961 Yamaha YBS2 250, blue and white, $200. Call Tom 6-7737. 4-24

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

1 Pr. of Knetsel Red Stars, 2 yrs. old, in good condition, 210 cm, worth $200 new. Ask for John at 546-7547. 4-30

Motorcycle — Sears SS., only 4,000 miles, crash bar, luggage rack, mirror, helmet, and faceplate included, $190. Call 6-7809. 4-24

1965 HONDA 50, excellent condition, barely used, $120. Call 253-7743. 4-24

Golf irons (8-9), one set, $50; call 546-1973 in early a.m. 4-24

Order now for May or Sept. Delivery — complete line of imprinted Tee shirts, Sweat Shirts and Windbreakers, Club Pins, School Specialties, etc. Call 546-6005 (mornings) for free information. 4-24

MISCELLANEOUS

WOO WOO, WASHINGTON — Jan, Kris, Mary-Jane, Susan Flatz, Sara Jane Christopher Watt, Engir, Susie B. Reeth, Pam, Melvin Furd. 4-24

PERSONAL

DICK KLINE
President
Class of 1970
4-24

Larry, we know who you are, and we saw what you did. 4-24

SERVICES

WANTED: Position of Class Secretary by Rene Markt, candidate for Secretary Class of '70. 4-24

ROOMMATES WANTED

Junior girl seeking 1-2 female roommates to move off campus with next year. Want to move into 2 bedroom apt. near campus in $140/month range with kitchen. Cost to be split. If interested call 546-7486. 4-28

Roommate to share furnished apartment located five minutes from Campus, for June, July and August. $58 per mo. including utilities. Call 549-3963. Ask for Brian. 4-24

WANTED — Male Roommate to share large, unfurnished 3½ room apt., $60 month including all utilities and dishwasher. Available June 1. Call 665-3069. Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 4-24

ON CAPE COD: We have a large house, 3 minutes from Hyannis Center and need 3 more roommates for June, July and Aug. Call Bob, Tully, or Paul, 6-9351, 6-9415, or 5-8778. 4-28

Four serious, upperclass male roommate wanted for summer school. Share beautiful 8 room apt. in Sunderland. Own room, modern, and furnished, $40 month. Hurry. Call Lee 665-3072 after 6 p.m. 4-28

HELP WANTED

School of Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan — salaries $10,000 to $13,000 (range depending on degrees held). Call Dr. Ben Rabmenstein, Brattleboro, Vermont (1-802-257-7436). 4-25

COUNSELORS wanted for boys' overnight camp at Cape. Room and Board included. The only pre-requisite necessary is an interest in kids. If interested call 546-7863. Ask for Dan or Phil. 4-30

POSITION WANTED

DICK KLINE
Class of 1970
President
4-24

ENTERTAINMENT

Men, surprise your date with 2 reserved tickets to the Friday night finals of the Miss University Pageant for an evening of entertainment you'll both enjoy. RESERVED tickets are now available at the Student Union Box Office for $1.75. 4-25

DANCE — Friday, April 25th, Hill South Lounge, Free Admission, 8-12 p.m. 4-24

Who's afraid of Virginia Woolf? and Road Runner Cartoon, S.U. Ballroom, Friday, April 25, 8:00 p.m. Admission 75c. Sponsored by Flying Redmen. 4-25

WANTED

12 people looking for transportation to Newport, R.I. and back — want to rent a car (or two). Contact Barb (546-5189) or Jim (6-5399). 4-24

FOR RENT

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-5

2½ room furnished apartment available June 1. Five miles from Campus. $100 month including utilities. Call 665-3067. 4-24

FOR RENT IMMEDIATELY — 1 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1st - Sept. 1st. $109/month, all utilities. Call 253-7095. 4-24

7 Rm. House to sublease from June 1 - Sept. 1, near Mt. Holyoke Campus. 4 people or less, $200 a month plus utilities. Call 538-4416. 4-28

Available June 1, 2½ room apartment, rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7100 after 6 p.m. 4-28

2 Bedroom Apartment, all utilities included in rent. $125 unfurnished, $130 furnished. Available June 1. Call 549-6688. 4-28

7 room apartment (3 bedrooms), available June 1 - Sept. 1, completely furnished, 6 miles from Campus. $130 mo. Call 665-3067. 4-28

Tippo

(Continued from Page 1)

get, Tippo suggested that, as a general principal, new blood and fresh thinking is always a necessity in any administration. He said that he had been in college and university administration for a total of 27 years, and he felt that the time had come for him to step aside from the administrator's role.

"There is some fresh new talent out there somewhere," he suggested; if the University could find such a person they would be doing well to bring him in as Provost, said Tippo.

Tippo further argued that no one individual is really indispensible to any operation. He felt that he could be replaced without serious harm to the University's ongoing program. The Provost cited his own age as an element of his consideration - he is widely known to work more than 12 hours per day, seven days a week. Physical exhaustion is coming to take its toll on him.

The reactions of all those contacted by the MDC for statements have been virtually unanimous. President Lederle, in an afternoon discussion with concerned students, stressed the efforts that will be made to convince the Provost to reconsider the question of his possible resignation. The President had nothing but praise for the spirit and energy of the Provost in all University matters. The President laid great stress on the Provost's many outstanding contributions to the educational experience at the University.

Engineering Dean Kenneth Picha said, of the possibility of the Provost resigning, "I hope very much that he won't resign. It will be a catastrophe if he does." Acting Dean of Arts and Sciences Seymour Shapiro, said strongly that, "Tippo is the closest thing to an indispensible man as one can find. He is the cornerstone of all our progress here to date."

G. Putnam Barber, Sociology, said that Tippo "has done an admirable job with an impossible assignment. I hope he stays." Similar reactions came from many students contacted by the MDC.

Pictured in a scene from "The Marowitz Hamlet" are, left to right, Richard Gere as Hamlet, Linda Grimes as Ophelia, Larry Jakmaugh as Laertes, and Mike Prusky as the clown. (MDC photo by Pat Lempart).

UMT Presents "New" Theatre With the Marowitz Hamlet

"I despise Hamlet. He is a slob, a talker, an analyser, a rationalizer. Like the parlour liberal or the paralysed intellectual, he can describe every facet of a problem, yet never pull his finger out.

"Is Hamlet a coward, as he himself suggests, or simply a POSEUR, a frustrated actor who plays the scholar, the courtier and the soldier as an actior (a very bad actor) assumes a variety of different roles?

"And why does he keep saying everything twice?

"And how can someone talk so pretty in such a rotten country with the sort of work he's got cut out for him?

"You may think he's a sensitive, well-spoken fellow, but, frankly, he gives me a pain in the ass."

That is the opinion of Charles Marowitz, author of the "college version' of Shakespeare's HAMLET, to be presented April 23 through 26, 1969, by the University of Massachusetts Theatre.

Mr. Marowitz's version of the play drastically rearranges its narrative sequence, interrupts the original time sequence, and redistributes the appearances of various characters in individual scenes. The "collage" technique is Marowitz's means of deliberately creating discontinuity--to take the language, the structure, and the narrative of the play and "discover to what extent one can juggle those elements and still maintain contact with what is essential in HAMLET."

An earlier version of The Marowitz HAMLET has been performed in London, Germany and Italy, and in a number of other countries. It has not, however, so far been presented professionally in the United States.

The Premier production at the University of Massachusetts Theatre is directed by Assistant Professor Vincent Brann, who says of this HAMLET: "It is all too easy to condemn the "new" theatre out of hand. One ought to know what he is condemning - or praising, as the case may be.

This is a "mad" HAMLET, an experimental HAMLET, with at least a possible method to it. The script itself is its own justification for production: it is exciting, swift, challenging and vigorous - and it IS - in an uncanny way - still Shakespeare, vibrantly alive and appealing."

Performances are scheduled for April 23 through 26, in Bartlett Auditorium, University of Massachusetts. Box Office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on days of performance. Telephone 545-2579.

Hillel Annual Parent - Student Brunch

(Parent, or parents accompanied by a student come free. — All students 50c)

S.U. COMMONWEALTH ROOM, 11:00 A.M.
SUNDAY, APRIL 27

DR. ISIDORE SILVER
U.M. Sch. of Business, Adviser to SDS and Lawyer for ACLU will speak on:
NINE MONTHS AFTER CHICAGO

also: end year awards, installation of the new student administration.

Your Psychology professor lives with his mother?

Think it over, over coffee. The Think Drink.

For your own Think Drink Mug, send 75c and your name and address to: Think Drink Mug, Dept. N, P.O. Box 559, New York, N.Y. 10046. The International Coffee Organization.

MLK Council and Delta Chi Organize Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition in USA

By KATHY BIGGANE
Staff Reporter

Most Americans are aware of the dire shortage of food throughout the underdeveloped countries of the world, but the subject of malnutrition in our own country has been swept under the rug for so long that it is difficult for us to imagine even the existence of a problem here, let alone the actual extent of it.

Some students on this campus have recognized the existence of this very serious problem of poverty and especially malnutrition in the South, and have begun to work on a project called D.A.M. – Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition.

Organized by a coalition of Delta Chi Fraternity and the Martin Luther King, Jr. Social Action Council, the drive will attempt to raise $10,000, which will be taken to Washington on June 5th and given personally to Senator George McGovern, Chairman of the Senate Select-Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, by Kenneth Mosakowski of the King Council and George Child of Delta Chi. The June 5th date was chosen to commemorate the anniversary of the death of Robert F. Kennedy.

The Drive will be launched on Saturday, April 26th at 1 p.m. with an egg sale in Amherst. Members of several of the campus fraternities will go from door-to-door, asking for an egg at one house and selling it at the next, repeating this until all the houses in Amherst have been canvassed. Of course all citizens will be notified of the purpose of the egg sale, and all proceeds will go to the Drive.

This is only the first in a series of projects designed to raise funds for the Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition. May 9th at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, there will be a Living Theatre Presentation called "Assassination of God: A Celebration," a dramatization based on T. S. Eliot's "A Wasteland." It will be sponsored by the S. W. Theatre Ensemble, the MLK Council and Delta Chi Fraternity, and will be directed by Micheal Mathias, an instructor of English and an off-Broadway playwright.

At some future date there will also be a collection throughout the dormatories, as well as other fund-raising activites. Many volunteers will be needed for the various projects.

Anyone interested in working for the Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition please contact Delta Chi at 549-1271 or 549-0415, or the King Council at 207 Hampshire House. Anyone wishing to make a contribution of any amount should make checks payable to the Martin Luther King Council.

Government Appeals Decision On Draft Unconstitutionality

BOSTON (AP) - The government Wednesday filed formal notice of appeal of the decision of U. S. Judge Charles E. Wyzanski that a section of the draft law is unconstitutional because it fails to allow draft exemption for conscientious objectors on other than religious grounds.

Stanislaw R. J. Suchecki, assistent U. S. attorney, filed the appeal in the case of John H. Sisson Jr. of Lincoln, who was convicted of failure to report for induction.

Sission claimed exemption because he said he was a conscientious objector to war and killing. The draft law allows exemption only on religious grounds.

I am tired of Slur politics!
I will debate my opponent on the issues anytime, anywhere!
Why has he previously refused???
RE-ELECT - - - - - - - - - JOE
TABACCO
CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION — PRESIDENT 1971
Vote Experience and Dependability
TODAY

$2.00
3 BANDS
FRIDAY, APRIL 25
MAGIC THEATRE
FAT
RAIN
SATURDAY, APRIL 26
MAGIC THEATRE
DESATATIONS
CREATIVE IMAGE
THE WOODROSE
BALLROOM
LIGHT BY
THE ROAD
FROM THE BOSTON TEA PARTY
8 PM 665-8742
RTE. 5, DEERFIELD

Candidates' Forum for Class Elections 1969-70

Class of 70
Secretary

The role of class government has changed with the growth of our university. Its role is no longer that of a "government", but it has become a social and cultural agency. Being an active member of the Class of 70 Executive Council for the past two years, I have participated as a worker and leader in this government. During my Sophomore year on the Executive Council, I worked on the Sophomore Picnic, Sendoff Weekend and Campus Chest. This year I have worked as a co-chairman on Winter Carnival, as a subcommittee chairman on the Montreal Trip and as the treasurer of Joseph's Cloak, a coffee house sponsored by the Class of 70 and Program Council.

Through my experiences during the past two years, I have come to know the inner workings of planning and executing big weekends. By actively participating, I have become familiar with and personally known by the personnel whose services and supervision are required to execute social events. Not only have I organized these social events, but I have had the responsibility of executing them. As a leader on the Executive Council, I have delegated authority while I maintained a supervisory position. Because of my past experience and the knowledge which I have gained from it, I believe I am qualified for the office of class secretary. My past experience is the basis of my platform for candidacy and I hope that when you vote in the forthcoming elections that you will take this into consideration.

Thank you for your time.

Rene(Maureen) Markt

As a transfer student serving on class cabinets for two years and on the Executive Council at UMass for two semesters, I have had the opportunity of participating intwo different types of class government. I feel that the role of class government at UMass should be strengthened so that it encompasses the interests of more students.

By virtue of its existence, a class is an organization with which all of its members can identify. Therefore, the class should act as anorganization representing its members' views and should be a means of discussing problems relative to that particular group. Class government should serve the diverse interests of its members and should not be limited to running a big social weekend.

In order to expand the role of class government, I feel it is necessary for all four classes to meet together and work together. First of all, I believe that the Executive Councils should be made more representative of the class and should serve as spokesmen for their class members. Perhaps working in conjuction with dorm and house government in selecting members for the Council or at least in encouraging members fromeach dorm and house to apply would be one way of increasing the representation. Another possibility would be to have a permanent committee established to inform class members of the undertakings of the councils.

For Senior Week I personally favor a time reminiscent of our years at UMass., with activities centered around various themes that our class used throughout the years such as "Your Father's Mustache" and "Both Sides Now". Senior Week should be time not only to look ahead towards the future but also to look back on our past. I would also like to have as one event some kind of theatrical production, possibly the traveling company from "Hair," since a Senior Concerthas already been scheduled for the beginning of the fall semester and the Senior Lecture Series will be held throughout the year. In the final analysis, however, I feel that the students in the Class of1970 should be responsible for selecting the kind of Senior Week activities that they would enjoy the most and that it is the duty of the officers and the Executive Council to plan activities that will benefit their class members.

Dianne Perrine

Class of 71
Secretary

Dear Members of the Class of 1971:

I am a candidate for the office of Secretary of the class of 1971.

I feel it is the duty of the secretary to keep the class perfectly aware of each and every activity of its class government. Allclass records should not only exist, but should be available for all students and reports of Executive Council meetings should be posted. It is essential to the effectiveness of class government that the avenues of communication between the students and their elected officials remain open at all times. Students can not take an active part in class activities unless they are fully aware of what its officers are doing and why.

I feel it is essential that MORE students become involved in class activities and MORE students hold responsible positions - NOT because they are personal friends, as has been the case in repeated instances, but because they are students who have taken an interest in THEIR government.

It is our class that will sponsor WINTER CARNI next year with a projected budget of $75,000. This is no SMALL sum and no SMALL TASK. And not a job that should be completed by only a few.

By utilizing effective methods of communication and by keeping ALL students informed, I believe this task can be accomplished successfully. It is this role in communication that I feel a Secretary must assume.

I urge you to support me and to vote on Thursday.

Joan McCourt

To the Class of 1971

Contact with many people has assured me that sincere interest in class government is the single most important qualification. It is with this in mind that I ask you to review my class activites.

For the past two years I have remained constantly involved in the government of the class. Appointed to the Executive Council in the beginning of the Freshmen year, I have since held two chairmanships of Theme and Atmosphere and been elected to the President's Council. The Theme and Atmosphere committee of S.E.N.D.O.F.F. was responsible for the Christmas stores in the Hatch, contributing $800 toward the Campus Chest goal of $3000 (the record income for charity drives on campus). The Theme and Atmosphere committee for the Sophomore Banquet sold fifty-eight old fashion glasses for favors, making the weeks of preparation worthwhile.

I forsee a brand new role for the secretaries in the structure of class goverament. The role of communication is in the hands of the secretary. Newsletters, published minutes of the executive council meetings and personal letters to encourage new people to become active will all form the nucleus of the communication system. All of these methods are hard but effective, inclusive but personal, imperative but not common.

Class government can be a vitalic center for cultural and social activities as well as for community spirit. To deny the new face of class government would be to deny the impact of the Humphrey visit to campus.

Class government can not remain stagnated by a social role. The evolving structure of class government is dependant upon the evolving role of the people of this generation. Antiquated organizations will not stand up in an era of question - in which the establishment is wrong. The establishment is characterized by red tape; the only red tape of student government is apathy. The task is to choose the voice for YOUR government which will hear YOUR voice. Allow yourself the opportunity to choose - vote. Thank you.

Carol Lee Andrews

Treasurer

I believe that class government should not be autonomous but responsive to the needs of the entire class. Contrary to popular practice, the executive council should work for and with the class; class officers should organize and coordinate al l class activities carefully. Class governments can also work in conjunction with one another and with other organizations on campus to sponsor social and educational events. A class government should consist of a representative cross section of the class.

The class of 1971 is in sad shape. A 25% turnout at executive meetings is far from impressive and representative. I would like to help alleviate poor showings by making meetings a little less boring, by supporting a stricter policy of meeting attendance, and by asking all interested people to attend our meetings. I am in favor of surveys to find out how the class feels on particular issues. In this way, I believe the class of '71 could have avoided the Sophomore Banquet Catastrophe, which caused the class, at a conservative estimate $2000.

If elected as your treasurer, I would like to co-ordinate all money-spending activities in order to alleviate needless overspending and waste. I do not believe that an executive council of 33 adequately represents the class, to determine how the $60,000 - $75,000 Winter Carni appropriation should be spent. In order to avoid another catastrophe like Winter Carni 69, I avidly support the circulation of a survey that would list available entertainment. I will work to get the talent that you the class of '71 request.

We need some urgent reforms in class government today, otherwise I believe that class government will soon become non-existent - and rightly so. Class government is now more than a bit nebulous. Who are we fooling? Let's end the hoax right now . . .

Jim Bouin

Letter F

Members of the Class of 1971: Until now the purpose of class government has been primarily to provide a diversified program of social functions for the entire university community. And yet this program could be and SHOULD be expanded to encompass a broader scope of interests. One example of this is a program of distinguished speakers sponsored by class government.

My primary function as class treasurer will be having the responsibility of keeping track of a $75,000.00 budget for the upcoming year. The importance of this figure cannot be emphasized enough. A close system of checks and balances will be needed to make certain that your class taxes will be handled with the highest degree of efficiency. As a result of my experience as chairman of Campus Chest and this year's Montreal Trip, I have devised a working plan that will accomplish this goal. I would be more than glad to discuss this plan with any member of the class.

I n keeping with the traditional social aspect of class government, I also feel that the acquisition of the best possible talent should be our primary outlook for entertainment. Name s such as Frank Sinatra, the 5th Dimension, Sammy Davis, Jr., the Doors, and Dionne Warwick have been mentioned to me by many of our class members. I will try my best to attain the best possible entertainment as seen through the eyes of you, the Class of 1971.

Richard Palomba

Class of 72
Secretary

The class officers now serve a purely social function. However, they are in the position to help influence needed reforms in the academic and cultural areas. There are many areas in this university which could be improved with a little effort and experimentation. If elected as secretary of the class of 1972, I would work diligently along with the other officers to improve the course structure and other related fields along with providing good entertainment chosen by the student body as a whole.

Deborah Grozen

Treasurer

Firstly, I would like to thank my supporters and the people who voted for me in the primary which I won.

During the last semester I was very active in the freshman class and I have decided on what the duties of the treasurer should be. Since most of the class's activities are social ones and deal directly with the budget, I feel that the treasurer should advise the class on whether or not a certain groups contract price is feasable for the budget. The treasurer's opinion is a highly regarded one and some experience in class government is necessary. I believe I have the experience needed. As chairman of the special events committee, member of the executive council, member of the president's council, chairman of the university talent show and Xmas sing, and an active member of the S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend planning committee I have worked very closely with the class officers and expecially with the treasurer, Lee Deering, and I have the knowledge to run the budget for the classes benefit. I am not interested in radical changes I am solely interested in serving the class of 1972 which I will halp to make the best at UMass.

Fred L. Chanowski

To present one's qualifications and goals for office is not easy. "I collected milk money in the first grade" statements and "Brennan for Treasurer" posters don't give much of a picture of the candidate. Nevertheless. . .

With the increased sophomore budget of almost $40,000 it is imperative that expenditures are made wisely with the benefit of the entire class in mind. While much will go toward traditional social functions like Sendoff weekend, some money could be made available for residential area activities. These class social functions can easily be turned into profit - making events. Thus, money would become available for such new programs as a Black Affairs Council and publication of a campus information series.

Students are taking a greater interest in the things which affect them on campus, it is time to take a second look at the role of class officers in a large university. Help celebrate April 24th by voting tomorrow.

Dan Brennan

Senator at Large

It is my opinion that Class Government should let its voice be heard in social and academic aspects of campus life. Although the major job of Class Government is socially orientated it is important that class officers do not overlook the fact that their class is also interested in their ability to lead the class in academic and social reform. Class government should work hand in hand with the Student Senate in securing from the administration, the power and the voice that the students on this campus deserve. Class Government should strive to improve the communications between students and be able to unite a University behind a cause which the students are in favor.

As Class Senator, I will continue to point out to the Senate that the Class of 72 does have opinions and does want them voiced. I feel that under the present system the student senate action is ineffective in many cases because there is a lack of interest among the student body. I hope to improve the communication by using the class executive council to inform the students of what the senate is doing.

Under the new constitution the President of the Senate can rightfully be called the President of

(Continued on Page 5)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wendrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

EDITOR — Richard Boucher
SPORTS — Peter F. Pascarelli
EDITORIAL — Dave Baskin
MAKEUP — Claudia Homberg, Brenda Gouveia
DARKROOM — Gunnar Myrabeck

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

the student body. If he is to be our President, then we should have a direct voice in electing him. I intend to amend the Constitution to read just that. I plan to do my part in uniting the Student Body.

I am in favor of having three nights of diversity for SENDOFF 1969. A concert by The Fifth Dimension on Friday night, an entertainer like Bill Cosby on Saturday night and the broadway show Hair on Sunday would be my ideal SENDOFF weekend.

Bob Nims

President

To the editor:

JOE PICCOLO FOR PRESIDENT CLASS OF 1971

In announcing my candidacy for the presidency of the class of1971, I pledge to bring class government back to the members of the class. I intend to be your servant and to impliment your wishes. I intend to act neither as a king nor as a dictator over the affairs of the class.

I feel that the class executive council should be streamlined and individuals should be selected for merit and achievement not personal friendship.

My opponent, Joe Tabacco, has PROMISED you the biggest "Winter Carni" ever. HAVING NO CRYSTAL BALL I can only pledge that I will devote myself to having THE BEST "WINTER CARNI" possible, not necessarily the BIGGEST.

I urge each member of the class of 1971 to come to the Student Union this Thursday and support me in my bid to finally bring student participation into class government. Please Vote JOE PICCOLO.

Joe Piccolo

Coalition

To the editor:

We, the undersigned, are candidates for the class offices of '72 because we feel our incumbent opposition has failed to grasp the changing responsibilities of class officers. We feel that class offices should be used to their full extent to benefit class members in all areas of student life. These areas should include not only social but political and academic programs. Class officers have too long been relegated to a position concerned only with social issues.

Although the strong agent of student political and academic power on campus is the Student Senate, each class faces different problems that are likely to be overlooked by a Student Senate composed of members of all four classes. Thus, we feel that class offices should be used used to air the greivances and solve the problems of our class.

For this purpose we have devised a platform composed of the following ideas:

(1) To better meet all the needs of the members of the class of 1972, we propose to establish a committee to study the effectiveness of class government.

(2) We propose to establish a council of students, faculty and staff to be available to help any group interested in starting their own type of experimental educational environment community. This program will be of particular interest to those groups now starting in Southwest.

(3) Since the class of '72 has the largest number of black students of any class, we propose to establish a Black Affairs Council with a separate budget to establish whatever program they believe would benefit the black students and the rest of the University community.

(4) The Black Affairs Council will work with a large Cultural Committee which we feel is an essential part of University life.

(5) We propose to establish a social committee charged with the responsibility of planning the big weekends. Entertainment for these weekends should be by referendum from our constituency, so as to engage the type of entertainment our class wants. We have experienced a definite lack of consultation on these matters this year.

(6) We propose to combine in one book all the services offered by the University which are available to our class. This book would be distributed to all members of our class, along with supplements as new services become available. There will also be a person available to express one's grievances to. This person would be responsible for investigating any problems encountered by class members with University services.

(7) We propose to establish a rapport between class officers and any committee involved in academic reform. The purpose of this rapport would be to safeguard the interests of the Class of '72.

(8) In recent years there has been a drastic increase in drug usage. In light of this, we intend to work with the University health services to greatly increase their facilities to deal with this situation. We feel this program should include expanded confidential consultations on drug use, drug abuse, and the pressure to use drugs, and drug information seminars.

Finally we would like to say that we intend primarily to try to solve the problems of our class, rather than ignoring them for the sake of social events.

BOB HOTTIN-President
HOWIE TUBER - Vice Pres.
DAN BRENNAN-Treasurer
DEBBIE GROZEN-Secretary

Untrue

To the Editor:

Many Freshmen know that four members of Project 10 are running for office and fear that the Project is attempting to control the University. We think that this is untrue. The Project is merely a diverse group of freshmen like those on the rest of the campus. Many students are dissatisfied with campus life and desire to change it. This is substantiated by the establishment next year of many small experimental communities. The four freshmen candidates are merely four concerned individuals - they do not represent the Project. The fact that they happen to be from the Project dorms is superfluous to the fact that they are active, involved students.

Myna Somers
Mary Ann Higgins
Linda Kaufman

CABOT EAST 75 Cabot St. Chicopee ● 594-6022
Take Route 116 Direct to Theatre
SUNDAY AT 2 & 8 P.M.
LIVE!! ON STAGE!!
"THE WEIGHT"
FROM FILLMORE EAST - SLIM
HARPO'S BACK-UP GROUP
"Reality Sandwich"
DIRECT FROM "THE ARK" - BOSTON
"ZU" A New Underground Sound
Lighting By "Midnight Sun," N.Y.C.
FREE PARKING - REAR OF THEATRE

WANT TO BE IN TUNE WITH THE SUMMER SET?
LOOKING FOR A NEW PAIR OF SANDALS?

TRY BOLLES NEW SANDAL SHOP. It is now open with a large selection for both men and women
BOLLES
SANDAL SHOP

DANCE TO
THE DYNAMIC DESATATIONS
— A BLOCK DANCE —
in front of Hampshire Commons (#5)
FRIDAY, APRIL 25 at 8:00 P.M.
Sponsored by Crompton and J.F.K. Upper

THURSDAY NIGHT
Charlie Bradshaw
at the piano
The English Pub

The Southwest Assembly
presents
University of Massachusetts
Concert Band
under the direction of Larry Wood
In concert Saturday, April 26, 1969 at 2 p.m.
on the Southwest Mall behind D.C. No. 7.

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
255 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

R.N.'s and L.P.N's
NEEDED
in small, progressive, well-equipped, suburban hospital with excellent fringe benefits and shift differentials paid. Please contact:
DIRECTOR OF NURSES
Wing Memorial Hospital
PALMER, MASS. 01069
Tel. 283-7651
We invite your inspection.

VOTE TODAY
CLASS AND SUG BOARD ELECTIONS
in the
STUDENT UNION COLONIAL LOUNGE
9:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.
also
VACANT SENATE SEATS
DORM ELECTIONS — 6 - 9 p.m. in the Dorms
CENTRALIZED ELECTIONS — 9:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. in the Union
(Student Senate Public Relations/SGA)

Write for Peace Committee Seeks to Enlarge Campaign

By KATHY BIGGANE
Staff Reporter

The Write for Peace Committee met Tuesday night with an estimated attendance of 25 students.

Gary Greenberg announced that in the 3 days that the Write for Peace table has been set up in the Union, over 300 letters have been mailed by the Committee to State Congressmen. This is not even close to the turnout that was expected, and the group was asked for suggestions to encourage more participation.

It was decided that more tables will be set up around campus, in the Dining Commons immediately and later in classroom buildings such as Mahar and Bartlett. There will also be a fact sheet at each of the tables which will list a number of statistics and other facts which can be used in the composition of letters. There were also suggestions to contac the Student and Faculty Senate for support, and to look into pur chasing buttons with the "Writ for Peace" slogan on them.

There will be an announcemen by the Committee at the Helk Friend Folk Society concert on April 26, followed by circulation o writing paper, envelopes an stamps to be used for letters t Congressmen.

Three members of the Committee, Nick Ackerman, Gary Greenberg and Ken Mosakowski will be meeting with Project 10, tonight at 10:30 p.m. to enlist their help.

For news of the next general meeting, watch the MDC Notices.

In protest of war, Robert Kurka composed The Good Soldier Schweik Suite which will appear on the program of the Symphony Band for its concert on May 4 at Bowker Auditorium. Mr. John A. Jenkins, the band conductor, rehearses the ensemble performing the suite. (photo by Ara Dedekian).

Yale Professor Presents Lecture On Oscar Wilde

Professor Richard Ellmann of Yale, noted scholar and teacher, will present a lecture on Oscar Wilde on Friday, April 25 at 8:00 p.m. in SB 120. The lecture, sponsored by the Department of English, will be open to the public.

Professor Ellmann received his undergraduate and graduate training at Yale and also earned a B. Litt. degree at Trinity College, Dublin.

Mr. Ellmann's publications include "Yeats, the Man and the Masks," "The Identity of Yeats," and "James Joyce," which won the National Book Award for biography in 1960. "Eminent Domain," his study of literary relationships among twentieth century poets, appeared in 1967, and his edition of the critical writings of Oscar Wilde was published this month and is currently being reviewed throughout the country.

LAST APPEARANCE
Before Boston

Folk Bar Coffee Conversation DAVID & JUSTINE Bring Your Guitar

C'EST A VOUS COFFEE HOUSE
THURSDAY, APRIL 24, — 7:00 - 10:00

Quabbin Club, Rte. 9, Ware, Mass., 967-4011

THREE C'S
Greeting Cards for Every Occasion
Candies — Fresh Deliveries Weekly
Finest Papetries of Every Description
Quality Gifts to Suit Everyone
Engraved Invitations and Announcements
Supplies for School and Office
Candles in Every Size and Color
191 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Daily
Rear Entrance — Free Parking in rear

BOSS TWEEDS
play at
CHEQUERS
Thursday Night
9 - 12
50c admission

SAVE 20¢
Pepsi and small tomato and cheese Pizza - $1.00 upon request
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 No. Pleasant St.
253-9858

50¢ S U MOVIE 50¢
Walk, Don't Run
Cary Grant, Samantha Eggar
6:00 and 8:15
Student Union Ballroom

TIMES are CHANGING

Elections for class officers have too long been looked upon as a big game. Status-seeking candidates have won by balloons and promises of beer. Today you can end this game.

CLASS of '72 — VOTE

BOB HOTTIN ..... President
HOWIE TUBER ..... Vice President
DEBBIE GROZEN ..... Secretary
DAN BRENNAN ..... Treasurer

Support more area social functions.
Increase area government.
Help academic change.
Increase campus cultural events.
Stop mishandling of Class Funds

HAPPY HOUR
EVERY WED., THURS., FRI.
4 — 7
Howard Johnson's
"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"

"Fascinating, well balanced" — San Francisco Chronicle
"Persuasive . . . Exciting . . . Excruciating beauty!" —The Stanford Daily
"Joyous use of imagery, color, and spontaneity . . . Do go see these films!" — The Daily Californian (UC at Berkeley)
presents
Genesis 1
A two-hour collection of the finest experimental and documentary films being produced by exciting, new student filmmakers.
Berkshire Clubroom Monday, April 21 7:00 and 9:30 p.m.
Tuesday, April 22 7:00 p.m.
Thompson Auditorium Tuesday, April 22 8:30 p.m.
Wednesday, April 23 8:30 p.m.
Thursday, April 24 8:30 p.m.
$1.50 students — $2.00 general
Advance tickets at Student Union Box Office

NOTICES

MLK COMMUNITY EDUCATION
Meeting of the Community Education Committee today at 4:30 in Hampshire 107. Come and make plans for new activities.

GENERAL COURT
General Court selections, April 26 at 2 p.m. in Hampden Rm., S.U.

ENGLISH CLUB
Creative writing discussion with professors Joseph Longland, Andrew Fetler, Robert Tucker, Thomas Aczel in Memorial Hall at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

CHESS CLUB
Free instruction for beginners and intermediates interested in mating techniques at 7 p.m. tonight in the New Hotch.

SGA COMMITTEE
April 24 hos, in fact, been cancelled.

SENIOR HONORS
Open question and answer meeting with the Director of Honors, tonight at 8:15 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20.

SOCIOLOGY UNDERGRADUATE LIASON COMMITTEE
Meeting tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Norfolk Rm., S.U.

SPORTS PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Color training film to be shown. All members and those interested in making their first jump urged to attend.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting tonight at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House. All welcome.

SCROLLS
Sophomores - meeting at 6:30 tonight. Bring room cleaning money and money for pins. Those going with APO meet at S.U. Sat. Freshmen - meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in Worcester A and B. Remember room choosing, nominations for officers, money for pins, photographs today at 11:15 in ballroom; initiation is April 30 at 8 p.m., tea at 7 - all in Memorial Hall.

ASSASSINATION OF GOD
Casting for May 9th presentation "The Assassination God: A Celebration" tonight at 0 in Thompson 106.

MLK COMMUNITY EDUCATION
Meeting tonight at 4:30 p.m. in Rm. 207 Hampshire. Discussion of future plans.

STUDENT LEADERS NIGHT
All students tapped for Student Leaders Night should plan to attend the Photo Session at the S.U. today at 11:15 a.m. Please wear clothing appropriate for the organization.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Special business meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Bristol Rm. Nomination and election of officers.

OPERETTA GUILD
Important meeting tonight at 6. Attendance is mandatory.

SOUTHWEST
Race Relations film: "Where Is Prejudice?" tonight at 7 p.m. in Berkshire Clubroom, D.C. #9.

Boston State Blacks Demand Afro Studies

BOSTON (AP) - A group of Negro students seized the administration building at Boston State College Wednesday.

The Negroes are demanding institution of Afro studies program in the college, which is devoted primarily to training teachers.

The invading group later talked with the college president, John O'Neil, and quoted him as saying he had no power to accede to their demand for an African Studies Center.

New England Premiere
"The Marowitz Hamlet"
Hamlet Psyched Out for Now!
Thursday, April 24 — 8:30 p.m.
Friday, April 25 — Saturday, April 26 7:30 - 9:30
Bartlett Aud. Box Office 545-2579
U. of M. Theater

LATE SHOW FRIDAY at 11:30 p.m. (not part of our regular program) AMHERST Cinema
THE Adult Western - - -
"BRAND OF SHAME"
consummated in technicolor

Blow Yourself UP and then Go To Pieces
PHOTO JIGSAW PUZZLE
1 ft. x 1½ ft.
Send any Black & White or color photo. We will send you a 1 ft. x 1½ ft. Photo Jigsaw puzzle. Mailed in 40 easy-to-assemble pieces. Great gift or 98.
A $25 value for $4.50
Photo Dart Board 11 diameter $4.50
Get your own Personalized Photo Dart Board. Send any black and white or color photo. Mounted on genuine cork and comes with 3 precision darts.
Your original photo returned undamaged. Add 50c postage and handling for EACH item. Send check or M.O. (No C.O.D.) to:
PHOTO JIGSAW, Dept. C
310 East 23 St., New York, NY 10010
Dealer inquiries invited

NOW Ends Tues. Daily 7:00 - 9:00 Sat. 2:00 - 4:40 Sun. 6:50 - 9:00
AMHERST Cinema
"Artistry and Eroticism" — N.Y. Times

NEGATIVES IN COLOR RELEASED BY CONTINENTAL
NEXT WED.
Marlon Brando
"NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY"

Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 AMHERST 256-6411
Cinema I Now Playing!
Academy Award Winner
An epic drama of adventure and exploration!

2001 a space odyssey
One performance at 8:00
Sun. Matinee at 2
Cinema II 2nd Week!
Greetings
"AN OVERGROUND SEX-PROTEST FILM!"
Nightly at 7:15 and 9:00
Fri. & Sat 6:15 - 8:00 - 9:45
Coming Soon
"SHAME"

— RESERVE YOUR SEATS —
FOR THE ALL IMPORTANT NIGHT — FRIDAY NIGHT
One of 28 girls will be crowned Miss University 1969. They have already given them two nights of preliminaries to determine the 10 finalists.
FRIDAY AT 8:00 P.M. IN BOWKER AUDIORIUM
THE 10 FINALIST WILL BE ANNOUNCED and then these top 10 will bring you an exciting, enjoyable evening of entertainment and competition. They are competing for over $1000 in cash awards in New England's largest local pageant.
The evening is climaxed with the crowning of our queen, Miss University 1969.
Reserved tickets for Friday night's final are now on sale at Student Union Box Office for $1.25.
A sixty-page official Miss America Program will be given free with every ticket.
Reserved tickets guarantee you the seats of your choice.
MISS UNIVERSITY 1969
WHO WILL SHE BE???

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

APAR ABEL ETA
SAGE STAE LIP
PROPER SA OARS
ERKIN ROPES
COUNTESS NE
HASTE ALT SAT
TS SNAPPER IO
PTA TIP WALDS
BE RESPITES
ASSET REPS
RAID GO ASIDES
EAR SPIT NEST
SAD TEDS BETA

ACROSS
1-Obese
4-Word of sorrow
8-Torrid
11-French for "friend"
12-Twisted
13-Son of Adam
15-Roam aimlessly
17-Male sheep
19-Negative
20-Insect
21-Fonds
22-Conjunction
23-Barracuda
25-Indefinite number
26-Difficult
27-Pronoun
28-Title of respect
29-Weaken
30-Printer's measure
31-Bands of color
33-Symbol for tantalum
35-Declare
36-Paddle
37-Chicken
38-Move back and forth
40-Total
41-Stunted person
42-Possessed
43-Worm
44-Carpet
45-Preposition
46-Skill
47-Peril
50-Temporary shelter
52-Smooth
54-Guido's high note
55-Place
56-Lease
57-Excavate

DOWN
1-Distant
2-Wine cup
3-Material for construction
4-Competent
5-Confederate general
6-Indefinite article
7-Scatter
8-Cut of meat
9-River in Siberia
10-Singing voice
14-Nobleman
16-Wager
18-Near
21-Punctuation marks
22-Short sleep
23-Pronoun
24-Writing implement
25-Evergreen tree
26-Possesses
28-Pigpen
29-Weight of India
31-Declare
32-Cushion
33-Number
34-Emmet
35-Mournful
37-Embraced
38-Discharged a gun
39-Diminishes
40-Showy flower
41-Hurry
43-Teutonic deity
44-Rage
46-Unit of Siamese currency
47-Lair
48-Man's name
49-Tattered cloth
51-Compass point
53-Brother of Odin

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 24

Hard-Hitting Redmen Host Rhody In Key Conference Battle

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

This afternoon at Varsity Field, weather permitting, UMass will be putting its six game winning streak on the line versus URI in an all important Yankee Conference baseball game. This is the first outing of the season in conference for the Rams.

URI, coming off a mediocre 10-12-1 record in 1968, doesn't appear to be too formidable an outfit. They've lost three of last year's top players and capable replacements have been hard to find.

The Ram's season has hardly begun as they didn't go on a southern trip and have played only two games up north for a 1-1 record. That lone win came on a 1-0 shutout of Brown by lefty Barry Kleinman who will be on the mound today.

A big man in the lineup is outfielder John Sartini. The top power hitter for the Rams, he contributed four doubles, two triples and two home runs to last spring's production. Also a pitcher, team captain Sartini posted a 2-2 record with a sparkling 2.18 ERA.

The rest of the lineup will probably have Steve Beniamin at catcher, Steve Toppe at first base, Dan Pisaturo at second, Vince Sheehan at short and Harold Najarian at third. Les Goff and Henry Eickhoff complete the outfield.

The robust Redmen will be seeking to continue their heavy hitting ways. Nobody in the starting lineup is hitting under .275 and the team as a whole is batting a dazzline .299.

Six Redman starters are presently in the conference top ten with Ray Ellerbrook leading the way at .378. Dick Pepin is hitting .353 with Bob Hansen at .340, Tim Berringer at .333, Tom Semino at .327, and Tony Chinappi at .293.

The likely starting pitcher for UMass will be lefty Lou Collabello who will be seeking his second win in three decisions. Norm Elliott is also a possibility to see action.

This is an important game for the Redmen as they must bag the conference title to gain a berth in the NCAA Division I playoffs. They should not take the weak hitting Rams (.205 team batting average last spring), who posted a fine 7-3 conference record last year, too lightly. Without the title, despite whatever outside success they may achieve, the Redmen will be going nowhere.

Not too much is known about the 1969 URI squad but they are throwing their best pitcher at UMass and this could be a close one. After all, even the Red Sox have had their big bats stifled on occasion. Game time is 3 p.m.

LOU COLABELLO NORM ELLIOT
Possible Starter Hurlers for UMass

Last Night's Intramurals

SOCCER

PMD 1, QTV 0
ATG WBF DC
LCA WBF AEP
Seagrams 2, Academics 0
Bulldozers WBF Terrors
Smashers 2, Bruisers 1
BX 2, Roberts 0
Bulldogs 2, Zooms 1
3 M's 2, White Hear/White Light 1
Freaks 3, Oaks 1

All of yesterday's Intramural action must be rescheduled for this Friday at the same time on the same fields. This is necessary because there is no other time to reschedule the games before the end of the semester.

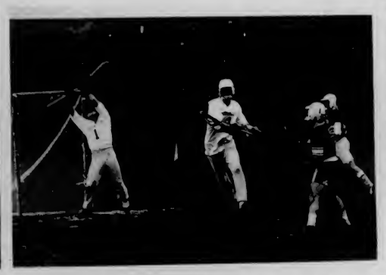
Frosh Stickmen Outlast Tough Dartmouth, 12-5

By GARRY RUBENSTEIN
Sports Day Editor

Despite being outsized by a large contingent from Dartmouth, the UMass freshmen lacrosse team won its second game in two starts, 12-5.

Relying on quickness and passing throughout the contest, Coach Bill Carroll's Little Redmen continually went by the larger and slower Dartmouth team for shots in close and turned a 2-2 first period tie into a rout. Leading the way for the frosh were attackmen Pete Anzalone, five goals, and Bob Waters, three goals and an assist. Also scoring were middies Paul Schacter with three goals and P. J. Flaherty with a goal and an assist.

UMass opened the scoring when Flaherty put one by Dartmouth goalie McGee after a nice pass from Paul Ritch at 3:10 of the first period. The lead was short-lived, however, as big Bob Bassett, who was continually giving UMass trouble, put home his first of four goals at 5:58 unassisted. Less than a minute later Waters broke in all alone on a pretty play and had an easy shot as he once again put UMass in front. But again Bassett got good position by using his size to good advantage, and tied the game with an assist from Lanius at 10:05. The first period ended in a 2-2 tie.



Although Dartmouth seemed to dominate the second period, the frosh capitalized on the few breaks they got. Anzalone got his first score of the day as he broke in alone on a pass from Walsh and made a nice move to put the ball in at 2:48. UMass was never headed after this. Waters then picked up his second goal on a nice passing play with Ritch at 8:11 and at halftime UMass led, 4-2.

The stickmen broke out quickly in the second half as Schacter, assisted by Waters, scored his first goal with only 55 seconds gone in the period. Only forty seconds later Schacter scored again, this time unassisted, making the score 6-2. Choate got one back for Dartmouth as he scored unassisted at 5:02 but Anzalone came right back at 5:57 with an assist from Flaherty to regain the four goal bulge. Waters and Anzalone each scored, sandwiched by two goals by Bassett, and the third period ended with UMass ahead, 9-5.

The final stanza was all Redmen as Anzalone scored unassisted goals at 2:40 and 11:57 and Schacter got his third at 4:43 while Dartmouth was being held in check, thus giving UMass a strong 12-5 victory.

OOPS! - UMass outfielder Dick Pepin has trouble handling fly ball. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

CLOSE BUT .... - Little Redmen attackman Pete Anzalone misses try for sixth goal against Dartmouth's McGee. (MDC photo Bob Margieratti).

GAME OF INCHES - Joe Disarcina just beats throw taken by Vermont's Lapointe in recent action. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Rain Washes Out Action

It looks like UMass and M.I.T. won't be meeting in tennis this year. Rain postponed for a second time the action between the two schools, and it is pretty definite that the match won't be rescheduled.

The Redmen were close with highly regarded Engineers when the match was halted. The UMass freshman tennis team was making its debut yesterday, and they had a good lead when action was stopped.

The showers also wiped out the freshman baseball game between UMass and Amherst.

Entries are due for Intramural co-ed golf, this Monday.

Tonight's Intramurals

2	4:40	Chem Club vs. Ambassadors
3	4:40	Squares vs. Dinks
4	4:40	TC vs. AEP
5	4:40	APO vs. LCA
6	4:40	PSK vs. TEP
2	5:20	ASP vs. KS
3	5:20	SAM vs. TKE
4	5:20	Panthers vs. Mags
5	5:20	Cougars vs. Colt 45's
6	5:20	Leopards vs. Comanchees
5	5:30	Bismarks vs. Marauders
6	5:30	Heads vs. Holes
7	5:30	Bulldogs vs. Turtles
8	5:30	Bruisers B vs. LML
9	5:30	Lemons vs. Panthers
10	5:30	Limes vs. Flaming A
11	5:30	Phillies vs. Aces
1	6:30	ATG vs. SPE
2	6:30	PSD vs. BKP
3	6:30	PMD vs. ZN
4	6:30	TEP vs. QTV
1	7:30	ASP vs. TKE
2	7:30	SAM vs. KS
3	7:30	AEP vs. APO
4	7:30	LCA vs. TC
1	8:30	Oaks vs. Pines
2	8:30	Maples vs. Elms
3	8:30	Maroons vs. Giants
4	8:30	Eagles vs. Grants
1	9:30	Barracudas vs. Broncos
2	9:30	Bruins vs. Buffaloes
3	9:30	Redwoods vs. Pipers
4	9:30	Hemlocks vs. Brigade
1	10:30	GAK vs. Fish Sticks
2	10:30	WhWi vs. Stouts
3	10:30	Lil Fellos vs. Avengers
4	10:30	Rasputin vs. TWH

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

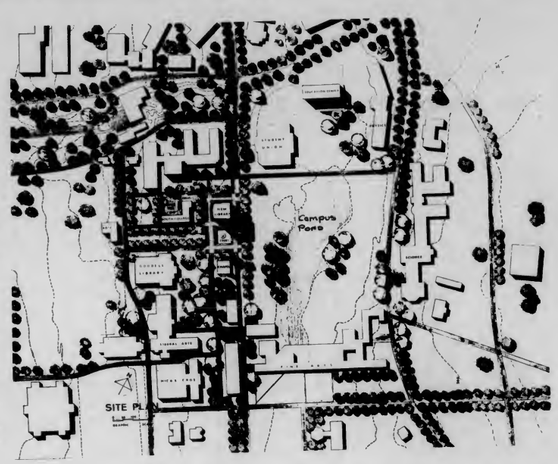
See Election Results Page 2

VOL. XCVII NO. 125 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 1969

Ideas For Better Communication On Campus Planning Aired

A "communication gap" seems to have been the cause of the emotional response evoked Wednesday over the chopping down of trees and the bulldozing of grass near the library construction site. Recognition of the problem and proposals for improving communication among the planning board, the Senates, and the student body were discussed yesterday at a meeting with Jack Littlefield, University planning officer, at Whitmore.

It was generally agreed that better communications and more discussion between the Master Planning board and Student Senate in relation to proposed construction and landscaping, together with advance public notice of construction sites and proposed projects would prevent spur-of-the-moment emotional reactions, such as that which occurred Wednesday. Construction work was halted when about 50 students occupied a bulldozer removing grass on the site near the pond.



The existence of a problem in regard to the "defacing" of the campus, however, seems to depend on point of view. Both Littlefield and Bill Lambert, University landscape architect, pointed out that the areas by the pond where grass is being removed are only being used temporarily by the construction company to house materials. Upon completion of the library, 10,000 square feet of grass will be replaced. The new building will consist of a 28-story brick tower surrounded by underground rooms with a sunken terrace in the center. Littlefield emphasized the fact that the underground architecture and total "library design respects the open spaces" around the pond.

He also pointed out that the long-range plans for construction are in keeping with the recommendations of the Master Plan of 1962, which "waxes emotional" about the preservation of open spaces around the pond. Eventual construction of Fine Arts and Life Sciences buildings will result in "some of the finest visual architecture in the country," according to Dr. Zube, head of the Department of Landscape aRchitecture. These buildings will surround the pond while retaining virtually the same vantage points for viewing it that exist now. Littlefield said: "We are genuinely operating around this concept: no one is going to do anything permanent (to change) the center of the campus. . .the trustees regard the pond and the area around it as 'sacred'."

The central location of the library site will, according to Lambert, "make it the most dominant thing on campus;" both he and Littlefield stressed the almost symbolic importance of this. Other sites discussed were rejected for one or more reasons; one factor considered was the situation of trees around the site.

Lambert explained that all trees worth saving were removed and transplanted; many of the elms cut down were already dying of Dutch Elm disease. The location of the building was shifted a few times in order to prevent the cutting down of more trees and to keep the tower as far as possible from the Old Chapel. As plans are now, the sunken terrace will be between the two. Lambert's landscaping philosophy, according to George Shifflett, training officer at the physical plant, is to "marry aesthetics with functionality," thereby "humanizing" the campus. His plans include trees, blueberry bushes, and more color in landscaping, making it more conductive for birds, as well as people, to linger and enjoy the campus.

(Continued on Page 3)

THE EVENTUAL PLAN FOR THE CENTER OF CAMPUS illustrates the Administration's promise that the campus pond will remain "a sacred space" from construction. The land taken by construction near the pond this week will be reseeded in 2-3 years, when the library will be completed.

University of Mud?

1000 Sign Petition 'Save Our Campus'

Over 1000 students showed their discontent over the destruction of the Campus Pond area by signing a petition in the Student Union yesterday. A table will be in the Student Union today with more petitions.

Stafford Sheehan, Senator from Gorman, and Mark Rosoff, freshman from Project 10, wrote a petition Thursday morning to urge a policy of student participation in the planning of campus growth.

After a meeting with Mr. William Lambert, University Landscape Architecture they learned that there was little or nothing that could legally be done to prevent the uprooting of the natural scene around the pond.

It was also disclosed that the dug-up area will soon be fenced in, a hut the size of a house built, and a 12 foot wide paved walk across the lawn outside the fence installed. It will be this way for the next two to three years.

The petition was written in hope of having this action prevented in the future. The petition reads as follows:

WE THE UNDERSIGNED DEMAND THE FOLLOWING:

1. That we have O'Connell locate its construction-material storage area at the top of the grass area to the west of the pond, perhaps along a portion of the closed-off road.

2. That the complete proposal and plans for ALL new campus construction be henceforth made available to the Student Senate for careful deliberation and APPROVAL and public meetings held.

3. That at least three months' public notice be given concerning the construction perimeter of the proposed Fine Arts and Life Sciences (Morrill West Annex) buildings.

(Continued on Page 3)

IN A MYSTERIOUS HAPPENING early last night the incompleted storage shed for library construction material collapsed. (MDC photo by Steve Schmidt.)

Senate Services Committee Sends Letter to Donahue on Minimum Wage

By DONNA WADSWORTH
Staff Reporter

In an April 17 letter to Maurice Donahue, President of the Massachusetts Senate, Mark B. Brenner, chairman of the Student Senate Services Committee, stated that the Committee did not believe the present minimum wage of $1.30/hr. for student part-time employees was a fair evaluation of student needs. The Committee asked for an increase in the minimum wage next year to $1.60/hr.

The published scheduled dates for Room Choosing for the fall semester have been delayed for one week. Room Choosing will be held from Sunday, May 4, 1969 to Friday, May 9, 1969.

The letter was in response to a $200,000 cut from the Student Wage Increase category, an action which, according to Brenner, "will in effect deny many students the opportunity to work next year."

The present rate conforms to the Federal minimum wage law for student employees, which has been increased to $1.45/hr., effective next February. In his letter Brenner pointed out that the present minimum wage for non-student part-time help is $1.60/hr. "The $1.45/hr. student minimum requirement . . . is an acknowledgement that the present policy is unfair. This 15¢ increase will not correct student wage inequality", but "an increase in the UMass minimum wage for students to $1.60/hr. will."

The letter then recommended that the state legislature not only support reallocation of the $200,000, but add to this another $200,000 to realize the $1.60/hr. goal of the Committee.

Attached to Brenner's letter was a petition with 1143 signatures. Of these signatures, gathered during an eight-hour period, the Committee commented, "We feel that this indicates some slight interest on the part of the student body as to both the desirability and necessity of the $1.60/hr. minimum wage. We believe that the State Legislature should agree to the need of this extra money . . . and act accordingly.

The letter concluded, "If a visit to the State House is required, we shall be most happy to attend."

Boston State College Quiet After Takeover

BOSTON (AP) - Peace returned to the Boston State College campus Thursday following the takeover by militant blacks of a suite of offices in the school's administration building.

The invaders, who had eight demands, among them one for weekly cash stipends for Negro students, left the offices voluntarily early Thursday after meeting for several hours with college officials.

The invaders tried to seize the entire administration building, but about 100 other students slipped through an unlocked door and later drove the Negroes into a single office suite.

The blacks departed after agreeing to submit five of their eight demands to a special committee which would report to the school's trustees May 5.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - Young Democrats, Young Republicans and the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce announced Thursday a joint effort to raise funds for Biafran relief. Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., joined in endorsing the new effort, called "Americans for Biafran Relief."

The new organization will seek funds to finance food flights to relief Biafran victims of the 22-month civil war with Nigeria.

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) - The Rev. Ralph Abernathy said Thursday night he plans a new Poor Peoples March on Washington "to claim their right to 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' "

The president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, in a speech before a Brandeis University audience, said "I am sick and tired of promises, and I am sick and tired of the realities of war, poverty and racism."

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - The Justice Department's first suit alleging discrimination under the fair housing section of the 1968 Civil Rights Act was thrown out of court Thursday by a federal judge.

A decision by U. S. District Court Judge E. Gordon West held that alleged acts of discrimination by six real estate development firms and five individuals did not violate the provisions of the law.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS — Janet Howes, Sue Gerson
MAKE-UP — Ann Giaidino, Susan Spatrick
SPORTS — Jon Curley
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Steve Schmidt

$2.00
3 BANDS
FRIDAY, APRIL 25
MAGIC THEATRE
FAT
RAIN
SATURDAY, APRIL 26
MAGIC THEATRE
DESATATIONS
CREATIVE IMAGE
THE
WOODROSE
BALLROOM
LIGHT BY
THE ROAD
FROM THE BOSTON TEA PARTY
8 PM 665-8742
RTE. 5, DEERFIELD

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

ELECTION RESULTS

Note: Asterick (*) signifies election.

Class of 1970 PRIMARY

PRESIDENT
Veale	201
*Kline	207
*Rosenthal	213
Weisman	113
Bly	191
Write-in	10
Blank	455
Void	2
VICE PRESIDENT
*Goldstein	381
Raskind	280
Write-ins	1
Blank	34
Void	1
SECRETARY
*Markt	453
Preeine	218
Write-ins	1
Blank	26
Void	1
TREASURER
*Nevins	594
Write-ins	13
Blank	86
Void	4
SENATOR AT LARGE
*Twiss	460
Write-ins	30
Blank	100
Void	4

Class of 1970 FINAL

VICE PRESIDENT
*Jackson	426
Nadler	278
SECRETARY
*McCourt	411
Andrews	283
TREASURER RECOUNT
Palumbo	321
*Bouin	361
Write-ins	14
Blank	60
Void	6
SENATOR AT LARGE
*Ackerstein	488
Write-ins	49

Class of 1971 FINAL

PRESIDENT
*Piccolo	393
Tabocco	311
VICE PRESIDENT
Tuber	373
*Driscoll	535
SECRETARY
*Peruzzi	455
Grozen	453
Write-in	1
Blank	8
Void	5
TREASURER
Brennen	420
*Chanowski	478
SENATOR AT LARGE
*Nims	523
Moriarty	378

SUG BOARD RESULTS

Class '70
*Bly	288
*Hutchinson	271
Kleiner	192
Colagnesi	167
Brickman	70
Kassay	65
Stein	47
Class '71
*Pugh	325
*Katz	303
O'Connor	276
Berckowitz	183
Ackerstein	148
Class '72
*Weisman	445
*Nims	417
Anderson	394
Applebaum	321
CANCE
*Brodmer	24
Write-In	2
FIELD
*Barry	94
Write-in	6
Void	1
JAMES
*Knopf	83
Bryant	38
Hodgson	9
Write-in	1
LEACH
*Curry	51
Write-in	3
JQA LOWER
Dickie	26
*Nesech	35

UNCHANGED IN RECOUNT

Amherst College Approves BlackStudies Faculty Introduce Beginning Courses

The Faculty of Amherst College has approved a Black Studies Program to be introduced into the curriculum next fall. A new director will be appointed for the program as soon as possible, and his appointment will be made with the approval of the Amherst Afro-American Society.

Although the specific program of the department will be established by the director, the Faculty has described Black Studies as "an interdisciplinary program drawn from the Humanities and Social Sciences that emphasizes the development, experience and achievement of Black peoples in the United States and throughout the world."

Until a director is appointed, a steering committee comprised of Dean Prosser Gifford and Professors Gordon Levin (American Studies), Lawrence Babb (Anthropology) and Jan Dizard (Sociology) are responsible for immediate academic planning.

Two new courses to be offered next year are an introduction to Black Studies - an interdisciplinary investigation of the development, experience, and achievements of Black People - and a required seminar for Black Studies majors, to be taken in their junior year.

The specific requirements for a major and for honors will be determined by the director. However, the Amherst student who begins a major in Black Studies as a freshman or a sophomore in 1969-70 may expect to take ten courses in the program, including the two new courses, and a program of eight other courses selected in consultation with the director.

The major may also expect, with the consent of the Program's director, to be able to spend one semester at another educational institution in the spring semester of his sophomore year or during his junior year.

Other courses already offered at Amherst will be considered appropriate for the Black Studies Program. Departments involved are anthropology, sociology, dramatic arts, economics, English, fine arts, history, political science, psychology, religion, and Spanish. The Faculty also recommended that a list of related courses offered at Smith, Mount Holyoke, and the University be made available for exchange students in Five-College Cooperation.

The program, proposed and drafted by the Committee on Educational Policy, was the first major step the College has taken in dealing with the proposals of the Afro-American Society, put forward on March 17 of this year.

DANCE TO
THE DYNAMIC DESATATIONS
— A BLOCK DANCE —
in front of Hampshire Commons (#5)
FRIDAY, APRIL 25 at 8:00 P.M.
Sponsored by Crompton and J.F.K. Upper

Touring Europe in '69?
Remember
CZECHOSLOVAKIA!
It's easy to go there!

Meet the young people of Prague. See the historic landmarks: Hradcany Castle, Wenceslaus Square, the little Golden Street where Kafka lived, the oldest university in Central Europe. And gorge yourself on a feast of all the arts ... Mediaeval to multi-media, Baroque and Rennaissance, Dvorak and rock, frescoes and films.
Not more than ninety minutes from the farthest point in Europe ... Prague is one of the most exciting capitals in the world today and Bratislava, the romantic capital of Slovakia on the Danube is just an hour's drive from Vienna.
Group tours from $57 per person for 7 days, all incl.
Visas issued within 48 hours.
Contact your travel agent or write for information:

CEDOK CZECHOSLOVAK TRAVEL BUREAU
10 East 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016
Name:
Address:
City
State Zip
My travel agent is:

Littlefield Sees Pond as Sacred. . .

The importance of such planning ahead to keep the campus from becoming an eyesore is evident in the growth rate of the University. Every year the campus population grows by 1500, and it is expected to reach its total capacity of 30,000 by 1980. As pointed out in the President's Report for 1967-68, the campus facilites must expand to keep up the level of education. Long-range plans have to overlook the student of today in order to provide for the student of tomorrow. As Seymour Shapiro, acting head of the College of Arts and Sciences said, students become "attached" to buildings and areas on campus, and "new students coming in will develop the same attachment to the new buildings."

Shapiro added that in the past couple of years the attitude toward conservation of campus beauty has changed; people are becoming more aware of the need for preserving trees and open spaces. John Edwards, a student member of the planning board, summed up the problem at the meeting in Whitmore as a need to "help students develop awareness" of planning and proposed construction problems.

Specific proposals for achieving this were present by student senator Jim Moran in a portion of the petition circulated Wednesday, entitled "Save Our Campus."

'Save Our Campus' Petition. . .

4. That all construction or remodelling projects in the campus-pond area be well announced to allow necessary dialogue and action.

5. That the token student representation of the Master Planning Board be increased from the present three members as soon as possible to balance that one-sided group. Some degree of realism is needed to counter the current fanatical trend of campus expansion.

6. That the University of Massachusetts Administration and Board of Trustees acknowledge that the students and alumni have a legitimate vested interest in preserving unspoiled the beauty of OUR CAMPUS by paying serious attention to complaints and suggestions and acting on them promptly.

7. Finally, 'U. of M.' does not have to stand for UNIVERSITY OF MUD. The aesthetics of this campus are obscene!

Student Senate Adds Bill of Rights Defeats Popular Election Proposal

By THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT STAFF

The Student Senate, in Constitutional Convention late Wednesday night, defeated a plan to popularly elect the Senate President, and attached a bill of rights to its present constitution.

The debate over popular election of Senate officers revolved about the contention, offered by President Bruce Balboni, that such a system would provide greater popular participation, and thus help to bridge the alledged gap between campus leadership and the student body. The Bill's opponents, led by former Vice-President Rick Hartwell, contended that it would only hinder, through increased bureaucracy, the effective functioning of the Senate. Beyond this, they argued, it would necessitate a broad redefinition of the role of the President.

When this proposal was defeated, a second was proposed, which calls for a Senate Speaker as well as a student body President. This plan was reported out by the SGA Committee for next Wednesday's meeting.

The bill of rights, which will likely be placed on a referendum in early May, provides for equal protection, due process, freedom of expression, right to privacy, right to trial by Senate-approved jury, protection against double-jeopardy, bills of attainder, presumption of innocence, protection against cruel or unusual punishments, the right to appeal, the right to peaceably assemble, and the right to be graded solely on academic performance.

After calling for these rights, the bill goes on to state that only the only regulations to be enforced by judiciary are those approved by the "appropriate levels of student government."

The bill of rights was the only part of the constitution that received final approval last night; the rest of the constitution comes up for final action next Wednesday.

Classics Program Adds New Courses Appoints New Associate Professor

The Classics program announces the appointment of Edward Phinney, Jr. as Associate Professor of Classics. Mr. Phinney will come to us in the fall from the University of Southern California where he has taught for eight years. The author of a number of important articles on ancient epic poetry, Mr. Phinney has also been one of the most popular teachers at U.S.C.

At UMass in the fall he will be teaching elementary Greek and two new courses: Classics 225/525 Mythology in the Ancient World, and Classics 265/565 Greek Drama in Translation. These courses are open to all students and require no knowledge of Greek or Latin.

Miss Betty Donley, Chairman of the Department of Classical Languages at the Amherst Regional High School, has also been appointed to the Classics program to teach a course in Latin for Secondary School Teachers. This course is for anyone considering teaching Latin or Classics on the high school level.

A new sequence of elementary and intermediate Latin courses will permit students to fulfill the language requirement in Latin in two semesters. Latin 110 will be followed directly by 140, each course meeting for three class periods and two practice sessions.

The prerequisite for Latin 140 is Latin 110 or two years of high school Latin and passing a specially prepared placement test designed to determine whether the student is capable of doing the work in Latin 140. All students who are interested should take the test at the Counseling Center, Whitmore, and should contact Mr. Lawall, 251 Bartlett, 545-2827.

Latin 161-162, Survey of Classical Latin Literature, will be available for the first time this fall as an alternative to the University-s sophomore literature requirement. Prerequisite: three years of high school Latin and demonstration of ability on a placement test. A play of Plautus, and selections from Lucretius and Vergil's GEORGICS will be read first semester. Interested students should contact Mr. Lawall.

DAVID DELLINGER, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, spoke on "The Sickness of Vietnam. (MDC photo by Steve Schmidt)

U.S. Has Shifted War Tactics To 'Probe, Withdraw, Bomb'

David Dellinger, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and one of eight indicted for participation in last August's Chicago Convention demonstration, spoke in the S.U. BALLROOM ON "The Sickness of Vietnam."

In a well-documented speech, he dwelt mainly on details of the continuing war in Vietnam, notably major changes in the land and air war about which, he remarked, the U.S. Government is keeping rather silent.

"There has been a shift in ground war tactics from a policy of 'search and destroy' to one of 'probe, withdraw, and bomb'. The search and destroy tactic has apparently failed because it had proven to be too costly in lives, thus soldiers are now sent into the jungle and are required to retreat on making contact with hostile forces, then directing a bombing attack on the area under suspect."

He also spoke about the breakdown of the "Pacification" program, originally instituted by the Johnson Administration to win the "hearts and minds of the Vietnamese people." Dellinger cited specific instances and examples of U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers looting villages and assassinating Vietcong suspects.

TODAY
4 P.M.
BOSS TWEEDS
play at
CHEQUERS
50c admission

at
THE AMHERST TOWER
purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

SAVE 20¢
Pepsi and small tomato and cheese Pizza - $1.00 upon request
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 No. Pleasant St.
253-9858

HAPPY HOUR
EVERY WED., THURS., FRI.
4 — 7
Howard Johnson's
"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"

Summer Session Program Made Integral Part of School Year

By NEAL NOVACK
Staff Reporter

Over 400 courses, listed in the University Summer Session Bulletin, will be offered for the 1969 summer session program here at the University.

William C. Venman, Assistant to the Provost and Director of Summer Session since 1962, commented on the summer program saying, "We are trying to make the summer session an integral part of the academic operation of the University."

Expecting an enrollment of some 7,000, Venman referred to them by saying, "We are trying to give the students the same quality of educational experience during the summer as they get during the regular academic year."

The summer session will be divided into two six-week terms. For the first term registration will begin on Tuesday, June 10, with classes beginning on Wednesday, June 11. The final day for adding courses will be Monday, June 16, and the final day for dropping courses without penalty will be Tuesday, June 24. Classes for the first term will end Friday, July 18.

Registration for the second term will be held on Tuesday, July 22, with classes beginning the next day, July 23. The final day for dropping courses without penalty will be Tuesday, August 5. Classes for the second term end Friday, August 29. Registration for both terms will be held in Boyden Gymnasium between 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., and 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Registration for students who have not pre-registered will be held on June 10 for the first term and on July 22 for the second term in Boyden Gymnasium.

Venman stressed the importance of students to pre-register, thus allowing adequate time for course adjustments. Course registration and scheduling will be handled on a "first-come, first-serve" basis. Pre-registration for the first term should be done prior to May 20, and prior to July 2 for the second term. Applications received later than these dates will not be processed, but returned to the student.

Students who have pre-registered must still appear on Registration Day to obtain their schedules and to sign the Certificate of Registration Form.

Application forms are included in the University Summer Session Bulletin. These booklets and other information concerning the summer session may be obtained at the Registrar's Office in Whitmore for undergraduates and at Munson Hall for graduate students.

The registration schedule to be used here will also apply for the summer session at UMass-Boston.

The normal load of courses is two in one term. Excluding special programs and seminars, regular courses will meet Monday through Friday, eac h period 80 minutes.

If a student attends the summer session both terms taking the maximum normal load of four courses, then one of those courses may be taken on a pass-fail basis. This pass-fail course may only be taken during the second term. Commenting on the pass-fail system, Mr. Venman said: "I think that the pass-fail system needs some re-examining and modification."

To make the summer session well-rounded, institutes and special programs have been incorporated into the program. Among these are a seminar at Oxford under the direction of Associate Professor Ernest Hofar of the English Department, and Study in Bologna, under the direction of Professor Quint of the History Department.

Two workshops in technical and imaginative writing will be meeting o n Nantucket Island. Professor John Mitchell and Assistant Professor Richard Kim of the Englis h Department will direct these workshops. An intensive course in Journalism concerning "The Communication Process" will be held during the first three weeks of the summer session.

Student activities will be in progress through the summer. Among these are a concert program, student and house government, movie series, intramurals and a summer newspaper.

These special programs, varied student activities, and extensive course offerings are reflective of the gradual change in the summer program which has been going on during the past seven years. In the future, Mr. Venman hopes to see offered a greater variety of upper level courses for undergraduates.

Speaking about the summer program in general, Mr. Venman expressed the view that the program has gradually improved, but there is still a great need to improve the image of summer school and clarify its status. Mr. Venman emphasized the fact that the summer session has the same standards of admission as in the regular academic year, and that more and more people consider the summer as a time to study.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $775. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-7

1968 Volkswagen, like new, factory warranty, $1695. Call 256-6969. 4-28

1963 Buick Special Conv., Black, std. trans., very good running condition. Must sell $290. Call 256-6615. 5-1

1965 Mercury Comet, excellent running cond., new tires, very economical. Call Susan 549-1805. 4-30

1962 Austin-Healey 3000, radio, heater driving lights. Price negotiable. Fred 586-6692. 5-1

1968 VW - $1650 factory warranty willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-6661 evenings; 545-0409 days.

FOR SALE

Yamaha 250, low mileage, perfect condition, see at Phi Sigma Kappa or call Russ at 545-0171. 5-1

Camera for sale. Mamiya 500 TL. 35 mm., one 50 mm. lens and one 135 mm. lens. Good condition. Only $170. Call 6-6285 anytime 4-28

19" Sylvania Portable TV and stand. 1 yr. old, excell ent cond., owned by a blind man, $75. Call 253-9632. 4-28

1 Pr. of Kneissel Red Stars, 2 yrs. old, in good condition, 210 cm, worth $200 new. Ask for John at 546-7547. 4-30

ROOMMATES WANTED

Junior girl seeking 1-2 female roommates to move off campus with next year. Want to move into 2 bedroom apt. near campus in $140/month rance with kitchen. Cost to be split. If interested call 546-7188. 4-28

ON CAPE COD: We have a large house, 5 minutes from Hyannis Center and need 3 more roommates for June, July and Aug. Call Bob, Tully, or Paul, 6-5351, 6-5415, or 5-2778. 4-28

Four serious, upperclass male roommate wanted for summer school. Share beautiful 8 room apt. in Sunderland. Own room, modern, and furnished, $40 month. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3072 after 6 p.m. 4-28

FOR RENT

Modern 2 bedroom apartment available June 1st, 1 mile from Campus. Partially furnished. Call between 5-7 p.m. 253-3864. 5-1

Furnished apartment to rent in Northampton for summer or longer. Available June 1st. Two rooms plus kitchenette and bath. Private entrance, $85/mo. includes utilities. Call 546-9048 after 6:30. 5-2

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before Mar 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-3416. Be persistant. 5-5

7 Rm. House to sub-lease from June 1 - Sept. 1, near Mt. Holyoke Campus, 4 people or less, $200 a month plus utilities. Call 532-4416. 4-25

Available June 1, 2½ room apartment, rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 4-28

7 room apartment (3 bedrooms), available June 1 - Sept. 1, completely furnished, 6 miles from Campus. $120 mo. Call 665-3867. 4-28

Summer Sublet — 6/1 to 9/1, 2½ rm. furnished apt. with dishwasher, disposal, carpeting, desk and bookcase, modern, util. incl. Cliffside Apts., Sunderland, $128 per month. Call 665-3071. 4-25

8 room house in Southampton, available June 1 - Sept. 1, $135 per month. Call 586-1791 after 6. 4-28

Summer Students — 3 room apt. in Hadley, 4 student, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Summer Students — 1 room apt. in Hadley, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Available May 1, 1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $120 including utilities, unfurnished. Sublet till Sept. 1 or also year lease. Call 253-3041. 4-30

Summer Students — 1 room apt. in Hadley, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Sublet May 30 to Sept. 7 — 3½ room unfurnished apartment for $120 a month at Univ. Pk. Apts. includes all utilities, telephone available. Call 256-8002 or visit Apt. 14. 4-28

House to sublet June - Sept., 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, family room with fireplace, garage. Very modern, good location. Call Marilyn or Peggy 545-8735. 4-30

Mobilehome, 5 rms., furnished, ready to live in, close to Univ. and Northampton. Ex. condition. 247-5026. 5-1

—2½ Rm. Apt., unfurnished, all utilities, garbage disposal, air conditioning. 6 miles from Campus. Call 665-3301 evenings. Available May 1. 4-29

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, ½ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5710 5-7 p.m. 5-2

To sublet for June, July and August — furnished 2½ room apartment, close to Campus. Very comfortable and very reasonable. Call 549-3963. 5-1

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus, starting June 1. Call 586-1168. 5-7

HELP WANTED

School of Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan — salaries $10,000 to $13,000 (range depending on degrees held). Call Dr. Ben Rubenstein, Brattleboro, Vermont (1-802-257-7436). 4-25

COUNSELORS wanted for boys' overnight camp at Cape. Room and Board included. The only pre-requisite necessary is an interest in kids. If interested call 546-7863. Ask for Don or Phil. 4-30

Girls for counter work making sandwiches and cold drinks. Hours: Mon. thru Fri. — 10-2 and 5-6; Sat. — 5-6. Needed for June, July and Aug. Apply Gene's Ice Cream Shoppe, Route 9, Hadley (near Hopkins Academy.). 4-15-17-21-23-25

SUMMER POSITION AVAILABLE in the ladies' department at the House of Walsh. Must be able to work five days a week 9 - 5:30 starting June 1 to Sept. 1. Married student preferred. Apply in person. Ask for Miss Nanarionis. 4-29

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 4-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 549-0794 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

ENTERTAINMENT

Men, surprise your date with 2 reserved tickets to the Friday night finals of the Miss University Pageant for an evening of entertainment you'll both enjoy. RESERVED tickets are now available at the Student Union Box Office for $1.25. 4-25

DANCE — Friday, April 25th, Hill South Lounge, Free Admission, 8-12 p.m. 4-25

Who's afraid of Virginia Woolf? and Road Runner Cartoon, S.U. Ballroom, Friday, April 25, 8:00 p.m. Admission 75c. Sponsored by Flying Redmen. 4-25

WANTED TO RENT

3 bedroom house in late August for faculty member. Write 2260-1 Patterson Drive, Eugene, Oregon, 9-7405. 4-18-25 5-2-9

PERSONAL

Susan Futala looking for long lost brother, Harvey. Feared eaten by alligators. 4-25

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 4 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed, Call 586-1168. 5-2

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?"
plus
Road Runner Cartoon
8:00 P.M.
S. U. Ballroom
Friday, April 25
75c

King Council To Sponsor Life Festival

A Community Life Festival will be held Saturday, April 26, in the ballroom. The event by the King Council is free of charge and it will run from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m.

It will include lights, music, body painting, jump-roping, game playing and people "doing their own thing."

At midnight there will be a half hour break for an essay in dance on the theme of loneliness and the way people wall each other out.

The purpose of the essay is to give the group a stronger sense of community. Afterwards the group will go back to doing whatever they want, with the hope that they will have a more sensitive focus on those around them.

Anyone who has a creative way of expressing himself, guitar, jug band, kazoo, living sculpture, light shows, etc. is encouraged to bring them.

The essay in dance originated with Sue Roy, a member of the University Dance Group, who is doing a study into the reactions of the students at UMass towards each other.

When asked about what she meant by reaction of the students, Sue had the following to say, "The students seem to wall each other out. They can go into groups or cliques, e.g. fraternities, dorm corridor groups, clubs, Afro-Am, SDS, SMILE, or the Ad-Hoc Committee to Protect Civil Liberties, but can't seem to get out of them.

It seems to be some kind of security thing they use to explain the fear responses they have to anyone else whose life style is different. I guess what I want to see is if there is any flexibility among Umies that would allow them to not be so distrustful and afraid of each other."

Fine Arts Council and Cultural Liberation presents the natch'l blues of
TAJ MAHAL
and UP AGAINST THE WALL
THIS SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1969 4:30 P. M.
At the Pond (by the Student Union)
(in the S. U. ballroom in case of foul climate)
TOTALLY FREE

HERE SHE IS MISS UNIVERSITY

TONIGHT ONE OF THESE 28 GIRLS WILL BE CROWNED MISS UNIVERSITY 1969. THEY'VE ALREADY GONE THROUGH TWO PREVIOUS NIGHTS OF PRELIMINARIES TO DETERMINE THE 10 FINALISTS. (DESPITE THE RAINSTORM, OVER 600 PEOPLE ATTENDED TUESDAY NIGHT'S PRELIMINARY).

TONIGHT AT 8:00 IN BOWKER AUDITORIUM, THE 10 FINALISTS WILL BE ANNOUNCED. THEN THESE TOP 10 BRING YOU AN EXCITING, ENJOYABLE EVENING OF ENTERTAINMENT AND COMPETITION. THE ELEGANT EVENING GOWN COMPETITION, THE CURVACIOUS SWIMSUIT COMPETITION AND TALENT FROM SINGING TO FILM MAKING. THEY'RE COMPETING FOR OVER $1000 IN CASH AWARDS FROM THE LARGEST LOCAL PAGEANT IN NEW ENGLAND.

THE EVENING IS CLIMAXED WITH THE CROWNING OF OUR QUEEN, MISS UNIVERSITY 1969. THE GIRL WHO WILL REPRESENT THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT THE MISS MASSACHUSETTS PAGEANT.

RESERVED TICKETS FOR TONIGHT'S FINALS ARE NOW ON SALE AT THE STUDENT UNION BOX OFFICE AND AT THE DOOR FOR $1.25. AN OFFICIAL 60 PAGE MISS AMERICA PROGRAM WILL BE GIVEN FREE WITH EVERY TICKET. RESERVED TICKETS GUARANTEE YOU THE SEAT OF YOUR CHOICE.

ANYONE WHO HAS SEEN THE PAGEANT BEFORE CAN EXPECT A LITTLE MORE THIS YEAR. FOR THOSE WHO HAVEN'T, YOU'LL BE ATTENDING THE LARGEST, MOST ENTERTAINING PAGEANT EVER SEEN IN NEW ENGLAND — — AND AT THE LOWEST PRICE.

RESERVED SEATS FOR TONIGHT'S FINALS ARE $1.25
AVAILABLE AT THE DOOR AND S. U. BOX OFFICE

52
APR
25

FROM OUR SIDE

Some People Dig Grass Just A Little Too Much!!!

From a little acorn the mighty oak tree grows, and yesterday from one girl sitting next to what will soon be a not-so-mighty sugar maple, a confrontation arose. An attempt to rescue the vanishing American, the tree, catapulted spontaneously into a number of minor confrontations resulting in the temporary stoppage of construction on UMass's twenty-eight story library.

Specifically involved in yesterday's confrontation was the future of the pond and the only spot in campus that still retains the charm of a New England college campus, the center of the campus. There is beauty in modern architecture, but there are times when a nice plot of green grass next to a pond, constructed by Mother Nature Inc., has it all over whatever D. O'Connell's Sons Inc. can come up with. Such was the case in question.

One hears rumors of a proposed library for years, and then, seemingly out of nowhere the Blitzkrieg starts. Carpenter, heavy equipment, and tree surgeons all move in at once. To stop this invasion students line up so as to make work impossible.

What can be accomplished through yesterday's demonstration? Only the world's greatest optimist could hope to have the library constructed elsewhere. Once the contract was signed the affair left the hands of the university officials and became the responsibility of the Bureau of Building Construction and the contractor, D. O'Connell's Sons. The land is now legally the property of the contractor until the university accepts the building, hopefully two years from now. Breaking the contract would mean the forfeiting of the cost of the construction, 14.2 million dollars, to the contractor. In addition, moving the proposed building but a few hundred feet would require starting again from scratch, or next to it. This would result in the loss of the federal grant of around 8 million dollars for not completing the project by the specified date. Add to this the fact that inflation increased construction costs some twenty-four percent last year, Allowing two years for delay, this would mean over a fifty percent increase in construction costs. All totaled up, this would result in probably the most expensive twenty-eight story building to grace the skies of Western Massachusetts.

Many would argue that even this would be worth it if we are to preserve the pond and surrounding area as a sunny day refuge. Many who met with the University Landscape Architect yesterday left feeling that this would not be necessary. The plans and hopes for the future imparted the idea that very little of the central area would become a concrete forest. The pond itself, would even be expanded. The problem is that the contractor needs land around the construction sight for storage of materials, eqipment, and maneuvering purposes. This is what takes up the space. This is what the bulldozers were being used for yesterday.

The question now becomes one of student cooperation. Are we willing to forgo the use of one side of the pond for the two years that construction is in progress? Or, is that asking too much of us? And then after that, future students will have to forgo the use of portions of the other side while construction on the Fine Arts Center and the Health and Science addition to Morrill are in progress. Is it worth it? The final product would seem to indicate so.

This is not to say that the students should stop now and ask no more. Meetings between representatives of the Planning Commission and the student body should be a matter of procedure with each plan for new construction. In light of the willingness to cooperate that the administration has shown on past occasions, this could be an easily won concession.

The Editors

Campus Comment

Announcement

The 1969 Commencement Task Force voted earlier this year that all seniors who have completed their degree requirements by February, 1969, or by May 31, 1969, or who will have completed their requirements by the conclusion of the 1969 Summer Session, are eligible to participate in the May 31 Commencement exercises, AND WILL HAVE THEIR NAMES INCLUDED IN THE COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM.

The latter is a new policy and was not transmitted by the Task Force to Mrs. Perry in the Records Office prior to her letter to seniors which stated that not all seniors' names would be included in the program.

Within the next week all degree candidates will receive by first class mail full Commencement information, E.G., caps and gowns, rainy day plans and tickets, invitations, time, place.

John E. Burke
Office of the Secretary

Please Open the Door

Let it be known that this letter has probably saved someone's physical neck, for I am, at this moment, very close to committing an act of violence.

At this time I had hoped to be at work in my office, located in the east wing of Machmer Hall. Unfortunately, when I arrived, I found every entrance to that edifice of learning securely fastened - no doubt to protect us from the great hordes of the unwashed. I seriously considered climbing up the side of the building into an open second story window, but unfortunately decided to go the way of "law and order" and call Campus Security. This was my big mistake, I was subsequently told by the switchboard operator that the security officer riding shotgun around campus would NOT open Machmer Hall except in an EXTREME emergency. I then prevailed upon the operator to radio the officer and tell him that this was, indeed, a state of emergency. She, however, felt differently, and denied my appeal, saying that I should have had a key. WE all know, however, that the University is quite close-fisted with keys, and that if I had had a key in my possession I wouldn't have been making crank calls to the University police in the first place.

I have, at this juncture in my life, two courses open to me: becoming a permanent resident of the Hatch; or sitting on the steps of Machmer and eventually plaguing the Infirmary with cries of pain caused by my chill blained feet.

My only source of comfort lies in the knowledge that this was probably how the Dead Sea Scrolls were so well preserved; so, maybe centuries from now, when they finally force open the door to Machmer Crypt and find my unfinished thesis.....

Jody Rosenzweig
Graduate Student
Department of Government

P.S. Please excuse any misspelling, as my dictionary is locked up as well (and the library won't open for another three hours).

Let's Replace Rumor With Fact

The only truly beautiful remnant of our campus is the tree-lined pond with its surrounding expanse of lawn. It contrasts sharply with the rest of campus which is in the main so unattractive, dug up, and muddy.

There appears to be a great and growing disregard for the basic values of beauty and nature which, in this increasingly ugly, polluted, and mechanical world, are ever more needed as sanctuaries for the human spirit. It is not at all surprising that sensitive students, enraged at the destruction of the heart of their campus, stopped the D. O'Connell Machine in its tracks.

Why was the sight of chainsaws and bulldozers in action necessary before we students could react angrily and positively!? Students clearly had little idea of the form and extent to which the new library construction was going to encroach on the pond.

A serious information gap exists between students and much of the faculty on the one hand and the University Administration and its architect-planners on the other. We all have a stake in this University and its effect on our lives, academically and aesthetically. Student sentiment concerning University expansion acknowledges its need for new facilities - but decries the needlessly ugly and destructive pattern of expedience and poor planning going into them.

We need to replace rumor with fact! RUMOR has it that Morrill Science Center is to have an addition built over North Pleasant Street and on the east lawn of the campus pond. RUMOR has it that new buildings are going up on the southwest side of the pond along Ellis Drive. RUMOR has it that the pond itself will be filled in before long.

LET'S REPLACE RUMOR WITH FACT. Preliminary plans of new building should be clearly and unmistakably presented to students and faculty in a central area of the Student Union. Those whose lives are most affected by new facilities must have a clear understanding of their intended form, location, and effect upon the present campus. In this way, through a cooperative planning venture involving students and faculty as well as Administration and architects, we can intelligently object to and modify undesirable features in future building before irreparable damage is done.

Fred Talbor, Class of '70

To Continue Excellence

A distinguished academician and educator is considering offering his resignation from his present high administrative position - a resignation which, if it were to come, would represent a serious blow to all that progress made here in the past five years. Dr. Oswald Tippo, Provost and Professor of Botany, has served the University since 1964; and the contributions which he has made to our common experience here have been invaluable.

Dr. Tippo is a man who believes in excellence in education, and he has made this quest his paramount concern during his tenure as Provost. Never a man of limited vision or narrow concern, he has consistently championed the cause of education against those who would sometimes see it seconded to merely particular aspects thereof.

Dr. Tippo is a man who believes fully in the offering of educational opportunity to all possible. He has been, since its inception, a solid supporter of our program of education for the disadvantaged - the CCEBS program here on this campus is testimony to this attribute. Dr. Tippo's deep concern over the crippling cuts made in the CCEBS program budget request, and in the request for similar money for a program on our Boston campus, is deep and genuine.

Dr. Tippo is deeply sympathetic to the problems of teaching in a university environment; and the loss for the past several years of that small amount of money requested for the support and encouragement of teaching innovation and improvement troubles him very much.

Overall, across the University, the Provost has been saddened and discouraged by the consistently inadequate financial support given the University by the legislature. It is this continuing failure to support properly quality education for Massachusetts' residents that is now threatening to drive him to resign as Provost.

Were he to step down as Provost, Dr. Tippo suggests that he would like very much to stay on at the University and get back to teaching. He would like to be able to give a course in higher education and the nature of the university, as well as work systematically at developing methods and programs for the improvement of teaching and the improvement of training in teaching for graduate students. This would surely be a wonderful thing for the University. But how much better yet would it be for him to be able to remain, for a few more years at least, in the central position which he now occupies. Given a more responsive internal University administrative organization, his influence over teaching and education could be even more effective and pervasive.

Personal appeals, to both himself and to the President, would certainly help to convince Dr. Tippo to remain as Provost. We urge that every concerned student and faculty member express himself urging Dr. Tippo to remain.

Beyond such appeals, however, the more concrete tangible restoration of that substantial amount of money cut from the University's budget request would also be a powerful inducement to the Provost to remain. For both its general and its particular merit, we strongly urge concerted action requestion and recommending the restoration of the approximately $7 million cut by the Governor from our fiscal 1970 budget. The Faculty Senate yesterday passed, unanimously, a resolve to call for the restoration of this money. We could do nothing less than to give it a hearty second.

The University of Massachusetts has benefited greatly from the strong and inspired leadership of Provost Oswald Tippo. The University is today a much better place for his influence - we could only be better yet with Provost Tippo continuing.

THE EDITORS

METAMORPHISM

Let Us . . .

This past week, trees have been cut down, and woods bulldozed, beside the pond and behind the Ed School.

Simultaneously last years woods are being turned into a garden for cars along the Mall, with curbstones, plug-in bushes, and neat three foot wide green strips.

The ugliness of a young university on the make is the ugliness of our own selves.

The University contains the humane departments of History, Politics, Literature, Philosophy, and Bilogy, and the competant departments of Engineering and Technology. It contains people who study the humane condition, artists who conceive of a better one, and people who know how to build it. Makes life harsher, more solitary and less true for its own inhabitants. How can I conceivably teach that scholarship is a guide to life, when the scholars never use their learning to criticize and redirect the quality of their own world.

How can I teach a love and respect for other, less violent creatures, when the people that employ me to teach the importance of biology destroy everything live within their grasp, and plant Uncle Tom Bushes in crystaline arrays.

I suppose it is time to do something.

I am going to try to save the old trees, and not think that a pop-up bush can replace a mature maple.

I want very much to talk to people, and to involve the faculty who can evaluate the world and the students who suffer it.

by Jerry Jenkins
Botony Dept.

Come On - Give A Little -
At The Red Cross Bloodmobile
RED CROSS BLOOD PROGRAM

Student Power

STUDENT POWER - what is it? Student power is to me also faculty power. It is students, faculty and administration working together and knowing and understanding each other by working and, perhaps, playing together. Student power is the key to community in a university - in the University of Massachusetts. The results of student power seem to be good but some will argue against it.

There is the argument that students do not have the knowledge to make a rational choice in a delicate situation such as tenure for faculty members or perhaps placement of a new library. But if students have a chance to work with faculty and administration on something such as this, I am sure that they would attain a good working knowledge of the intricacies of such a decision. Again, by working together one begins to better understand what makes other elements in this large population tick.

There is the argument that a student is only here for four years. But, a student will have the interests of future students in mind. Through concern over academic requirements and the recent library controversy students have proven that they have the interests of the future student in mind, as well as the interests of the community as a whole. Again, perhaps if the students had more understanding of the workings behind these actions there would be fewer last minute confrontations when events have become irreversible.

Student power can then make a University run better, more smoothly and make it much more of a working community than we presently have. It can also make the university much more of a learning experience. It can do this simply through promoting interaction among all members of the community. Perhaps a student will feel less inclined to get a professor side-tracked in a class if he knows that he will be able to discuss something more interesting over a cup of coffee or at an informal brainstorming meeting.

Student power promotes interest in other people's ideas - whether student, faculty or administration - simply by promoting equality. When all sit down at a table for coffee all have an equal opportunity to speak. All have an equal opportunity to throw out solutions to problems, and to build support for these solutions.

Assuming that student power is good, how does one go about gaining it, I think the primary thing is to convince others that it is good. By talking with faculty about this single issue the basic good of student power does in fact come out - communication is essential.

I feel that one of the best ideas for the promotion of community - and in fact student and faculty power - at a university is that of the unicameral University Government. It is working in other universities. I feel that it can be made to work here. It will take a concerted effort by many people. I doubt if it will come through the Student Senate, and probably not the Faculty Senate.

WATCH THE COLLEGIAN FOR MORE DETAILS ON ACTION!!!

New England Premiere
"The Marowitz Hamlet"
Hamlet Psyched Out for Now!
Friday, April 25 — Saturday, April 26 7:30 - 9:30
Bartlett Aud. Box Office 545-2579
U. of M. Theater

The Southwest Assembly
presents
University of Massachusetts
Concert
Band
under the direction of Larry Wood
In concert Saturday, April 26, 1969 at 2 p.m.
on the Southwest Mall behind D.C. No. 7.

EDUCATION CLUB

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE EDUCATION CLUB:

DURING THE PAST YEAR MANY PEOPLE HAVE CRITICIZED, INSULTED, AND, DEGRADED THE EDUCATION CLUB, BUT NO ONE HAS STEPPED FORWARD TO OFFER ANY ASSISTANCE. THEREFORE, THE CLUB HAS NOT PLAYED A VITAL ROLE OR FOR THAT MATTER ANY ROLE AT ALL IN THE FUNCTIONINGS AND ACTIVITIES OF THE NEW SCHOOL OF EDUCATION. ANY OF THE SERVICES THAT THE CLUB MIGHT HAVE PARTICIPATED IN HAVE ALL DIED BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF INTERESTED PEOPLE. IT IS ONE THING FOR THE OFFICERS OR THE MEMBERS OF THE PROGRAM COMMITTEE TO PLAN A SLATE OF INTERESTING, VARIED, AND PROFITABLE PROGRAMS BUT WITHOUT PEOPLE TO ORGANIZE, PUBLICIZE, AND DIRECT THESE PROGRAMS THE CLUB CANNOT AND HAS NOT GONE ANYWHERE. IN SHORT, THE CLUB IS NOW NOTHING.

BECAUSE OF THIS, THE OFFICERS OF THE CLUB RECENTLY DECIDED THAT IF THERE IS A CONTINUED LACK OF INTEREST THE CLUB CANNOT EVEN EXIST IN NAME, IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN THE CLUB, IF YOU WANT TO SEE IT BECOME A VITAL AND FUNCTIONING BODY OF THE NEW SCHOOL OF EDUCATION, IF YOU WANT THE CLUB TO LIVE, IF YOU WANT TO DEVOTE SOME OF YOUR TIME TO ITS REVIVAL THEN PROVE IT.

COME TO THE MEETING TO BE HELD ON MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 28 AT 8:15 IN THOM 106 AND MAKE THE DECISION:

WILL THE EDUCATION CLUB LIVE?

DO YOU CARE?

SINCERELY,
OFFICERS OF THE EDUCATION CLUB

152 APR 25

Faculty Authors to Host Creative Writing Discussion

As its first program of the year, the recently renascent UMass English Club will sponsor A DISCUSSION OF CREATIVE WRITING, 4 p.m. today, in Memorial Hall.

Several noted authors, currently members of the UMass faculty, will participate in the discussion: Professors Joseph Langland, Thomas Aczael, Andrew Fetler and Robert Tucker.

Mr. Langland, long recognized as an important American poet, has published several books of poetry. His next book is RUSSIAN UNDERGROUND POETRY 1958-1969, translations with Laszlo Tikos and Thomas Aczael , a native of Hungary, who has published several novels.

Mr. Andrew Fetler has written several novels including THE TRAVELERS. Mr. Robert Tucker is an editor of the MASSACHUSETTS.

The discussions will be open and unstructured. All are welcome.

French Corridors Film Series

Two French African Films

Black Girl and Borom Sarret

(subtitles)

MAHAR — 8 P.M. APRIL 28, 1969

75c

Wet your eyes . . . always have the look of romance with

Moon Drops

DEMI EYE MAKEUP by REVLON

COLLEGE DRUG

Now on the second floor of the

STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

Grad Student Senate Proposes Joint Committee on Housing

By ROBERT BULIVANT
Staff Correspondent

Taking aim at the critical off-campus housing situation in Amherst, the Graduate Student Senate at a special meeting Tuesday night voted to create a joint investigation committee and arrange a conference with President John W. Lederle.

It was resolved unanimously that "the Graduate Student Senate urge the Student Senate and the Faculty Senate to join the Graduate Student Senate in the creation of a joint committee on housing. The membership of this committee shall be open to all interested groups within the University, and it should work jointly with the town of Amherst in providing adequate housing for the needs of the total community."

The action is designed to counteract recent announcements that rentals for garden-type apartments in the area are being increased on an average of $15 a month. The committee has been instructed to study the university's responsibility for building additional housing on campus, especially for married students, and look into remedial efforts including low-rent housing, rent control laws and rent strikes.

Sen. Arthur Teixeira, chairman of the GSS housing committee, discussed letters sent to approximately 150 college newspapers throughout the country informing prospective UMass graduate students of the "critical housing shortage" in the Amherst vicinity.

He also presented a letter addressed to President Lederle, which said:

"The purpose of requesting a meeting with you is two-fold: first, to obtain official and thorough clarification of the University's position on married and single student housing; second, to discuss possible short-range measures which would immediately help to alleviate the increasingly critical nature of the housing problem."

During the meeting, Acting Dean Arthur Gentile of the Graduate School explained that he is "very sympathetic to your cause." In a report to the Provost, dated Oct. 8, 1968, Dean Gentile cited housing problems of married graduate students which he said are forcing them to commute from inconvenient distances and causing academic disadvantages.

"I am not sure I believe it is economically unfeasible for the university to build housing for married students," Dean Gentile replied to a question about rumors that the administration does not intend to construct any additional residences after 1970.

He noted the advantages of having the university assume responsibility for construction which include the use of land already owned by the university and no requirement to pay taxes for university-built buildings. The disadvantage, he said, would be the necessity to construct an expensive "monument" to meet fire and safety regulations so that working capital could be bonded through the state.

The problem is complicated by reports that many students do not want to live on campus in university-controlled facilities, according to Dean Gentile. An alternative solution might be for the university to increase the amount of assistantships with a cost-of-living clause so that students on the university payroll can afford higher rents, he said.

The dean questioned whether the university or individual students could be effective in repealing the announced rent increases. "You have no recourse," he said, unless a signed lease guarantees an amount of rent for a specified period or some other breach of contract has occurred.

It was explained that the reasons given for rent hikes focused on an anticipated tax increase of $7 per $1000 of property value in Amherst. However, the $15 of additional monthly rents would be about three times greater than the higher costs for apartment owners, according to one interpretation.

Spring Weekend to Feature Inexpensive Entertainment

It's that time of the year when Spring Weekends happen. This year the Program Council, part of the Student Union Governing Board, is planning a bigger than ever Spring Weekend beginning May 1 and lasting through Sunday, May 4.

This was formerly known as H.E.R. (His Economic Relief) Weekend, the format has been completely changed in order to present the campus community with a more complete and enjoyable schedule of events.

Most of the events will have a "no charge" price tag or a very small admission charge.

On Thursday, May 1, stop by the Union's South Terrace between 1 and 8 p.m. and listen to the Hello Friend Folk Society.

If it's a Broadway Musical you'd like to watch, the cast of Fiddler on the Roof will present two performances of it's play at 4 and 8:30 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The Program Council has joined forces with the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes along with DVP to bring this little bit of Broadway to the University.

Friday afternoon will see a first in the Union. The Bold will play live from the Balcony from 3:30 to 6:00 p.m.

Continuous from 7:30 p.m., W. C. Field and Road Runner movies will be shown in the Colonial Lounge, while a happening in the Ballroom will be run simultaneously. Called "A Journey Through Media", we guarantee this is one event you'll find a little different from any other happening you've ever attended.

The Corduroy Necessity will be playing out on the South Terrace all during this time, so take your pick of any one of the three events.

Saturday, May 3 is another day full of scheduled events. The Spring Picnic is on the South Terrace from 1 - 4:30 p.m.

Saturday night at 8:00 The Third World in Concert will be the featured entertainment in a Ballroom Nightclub.

The Program Council will close out it's Spring Weekend with the annual Intercollegiate Sing in the Ballroom at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday. At least eight colleges have contracted to compete their best vocal groups against one another this year.

TAJ MAHAL

and UP AGAINST THE WALL

THIS SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1969 4:30 P. M.

At the Pond (by the Student Union)

(in the S. U. ballroom in case of foul climate)

TOTALLY FREE

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares

☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

NOTICES

SOCIOLOGY 101
Sections 17, 21 and 54 will meet together on Wed. at 9:05 a.m. in Thompson 104 instead of their regularly scheduled meeting places. At this time a former writer for the Boston underground newspaper "Avatar" will speak on "The Revolution". Other interested students are invited to attend.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Initiation will be on Sat. at 3:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

CANDIDATES FOR PRECISIONETTES
Tryouts are now being held for the Precisionette Drill Team. All interested undergraduate women are still welcome. Boyden Main Gym Mon. - Thurs. at 7:30 p.m. Bring sneakers.

FINNISH CLUB
The new Finnish Table will take place in the Worcester Commons (North) on Mon. from 5-6 p.m. Finish conversationalists and others welcome.

COLLEGIAN OPEN FORUM
Thurs., May 1 in the Ballroom, S.U. at 2-5 p.m. Anyone having suggestions or criticisms please come.

STUDENT SENATE COMMITTEES
Positions open for Student Senate Committees, as follows: Services, Activities, Budgets, Public Relations, and SGA.

CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENT
Orchard Hill Concert Series presents Chamber Music for Winds and Percussion by faculty and students of the University Music Dept. Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Grayson Main Lounge. Selections by Chenoweth, Hindemith, Chavez, and Kurka.

SPRING DAY
Coming soon. Bigger and better (worse?) than ever.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Tonight in Davis Ballroom, Smith College at 8 p.m. Beginners welcome.

SCUBA CLUB
Beginners written exam and pool test will be given Wed. in Curry Hicks at 7 p.m. If you can't make it contact an instructor. Plans for the lobster bake will be discussed.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE
Committee meeting Sat., April 26 in the Committee Rm., S.W.

COMING SOON
Twenty four plus twelve.

EDUCATION CLUB
Student-teacher panel discussion with representatives and advisors from the five present Block programs. Come and hear what the Block is like Mon. at 8:15 in Thompson 106.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Rev. David Fife, pastor of North Leverett Baptist Church, will speak at a campus-wide meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U. Books not sold at the book table will be on sale there. All welcome.

ZOOLOGY 160: PRINCIPLES OF GENETICS
3 credits; Instructor: Dr. Rauch. Prerequisites: Zoo. major, Chem. 111 or 113, 1 semester Biological Science. Text: Strickburger: GENETICS. 3 hour exams. Topics: Patterns of inheritance: transmission genetics, Nature of the genetic material and its primary action, Gene control of physiological and developmental processes, Genetics of populations.

SCROLLS: 1967-68
You are invited to a tea put on by the Scrolls of 68-69 and 69-70 on April 30 from 7-8 in Memorial Hall. If you can attend, call Cris Sawicke, Jean Umano, Becky Cameron, or Debbie Nadeau.

NEWMAN CLUB
The annual Family Day is planned for Sunday starting with a Mass at 2 p.m. in the chapel followed by a buffet at 3 p.m. Tickets are 1.50 and are obtainable at the Newman Center.

DAMES CLUB
Rummage Sale, Sat. at VFW on Main St., 9 a.m. till noon.

BIAFRA RELIEF
People needed for a street collection in Pittsfield, everyone welcome. Meet in front of S.U. at 12 noon Sat.

34TH ANNUAL BAY STATE LIVESTOCK CLASSIC
Will be held tonight and tomorrow night in Grinnel Arena. The show is the culmination of three weeks activities on the University Farm. Students in Animal Science have been fitting and training various breeds of livestock to be judged in the fitting and showing portion of the Classic. Highlights will include the Coed Milking Contest tonight at 8:40 and the Parade of Farm Babies Sat. at 1:45 p.m. All welcome, no charge.

REVELERS
Meeting Sun. at 7 p.m. at Sigma Phi Epsilon.

LOCAL 1776
Special Union meeting at the S.U. Sun. at 10 a.m. All members please attend.

FILM: THE BATTLE OF CHICAGO
Mon., April 28 in Thompson 104 at 8:15 p.m. - unnarrated documentary. Anybody who was in Chicago during the convention please call Al Kamil, 545-0348.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving the Union at 1:15 and from Patterson at 1:20 Sat.

FRENCH CORRIDORS
"Black Girl" and "Barram Sarret" two French African films, will be shown at Mahar at 8 p.m. Mon.

HILLEL
Fri. night services will be at 7:15 in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Speaker will be Bruce Kabrits on "Impressions of Israel". Sat. services at 9:45 a.m. in the Worcester Rm. Brunch on Sun. in the Commonwealth Room.

UMASS SKI CLUB
The last meeting of the year will be Mon. at 8 p.m. in Thompson 102. Plans are underway for a trip to Tuckerman's Ravine, a water-skiing party, and a picnic. Free movies.

ENGLISH CLUB
Creative Writing Discussion with Professors Joseph Langland, Thomas Aczel, Andrew Fetler, Robert Tucker in Memorial Hall today at 4 p.m.

GENERAL COURT
General Court Selections, April 26 at 2 p.m. in Hampden Rm., S.U. Be active, do your share.

PINNINGS
Nancy Meneely, '70, to Paul Haebler, '70, Baker.
Beverly Nickerson, '70, Leach, to Jack Rankin, '70, Brett.

ENGAGEMENTS
Donna Frew, '69, to Ross Anderson, '69.
Nancy Scala, '70, Dickinson, to Robert Sawyer, '69, Delta Chi.
Carol Hiensani, '70, Patterson, to David Darling, '70, Hadley.
Eleanor Moe, '69, Dickinson, to James Flach, '69, Rensaleor Polytechnic Institute.

MARRIAGE
Patricia Sheehan, Springfield College of Nursing, to Konrad Rogowske, '69, Washington.

LOST AND FOUND
Women's prescription sunglasses, oval tortoise shell. Call Joyce Carlson, 5-2516, 253-9163, 253-9173.
Lost - Black pocketbook. Please return to S.U. lost and found or call Betty, 6-8140.
Lost - 3-subject notebook with Chem. 112 and Math 123 notes. Call Leslie, 6-7552. Reward.
Lost - girl's high school ring, silver with blue stone. "Wager 69" written on it. Call 6-5126. Reward.
Lost - Red plaid umbrella. Return to the S.U. lost and found.
Lost - Watch with a cracked face and a black band. Call 6-9893.
Lost - 2 notebooks. Call Ginger, 304 Johnson House.
Lost - Brown pocketbook. Call Joan Bentz, 5-2304. Reward.
Found - Man's watch. Call 6-8850, ask for Jim.

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

Hillel Annual Parent - Student Brunch

(Parent, or parents accompanied by a student come free. — All students 50c)

S.U. COMMONWEALTH ROOM, 11:00 A.M.

SUNDAY, APRIL 27

DR. ISIDORE SILVER

U.M. Sch. of Business, Adviser to SDS and Lawyer for ACLU will speak on:

NINE MONTHS AFTER CHICAGO

also: end year awards, installation of the new student administration.

Tax Bill Proposal Transfers Student Taxes to Tuition

The spark has been ignited that could end the federal income tax for the working college student. Several bills, presently in the hands of House committees, would credit the money which a student pays to the federal government to his or her tuition bill.

A committee of students at Rochester Institute of Technology has been formed to spread the word and initiate a nation-wide letter writing campaign in support of the legislation.

The main bill which the students want support for has been introduced by Rep. Edith Green of Oregon. This legislation (H.R. 9170), would take the money that the college student pays to the Federal government and credit it to the student's tuition and fees bill. To be eligible a student must pay $50 in tax. A maximum of $600 credit will be allowed.

Above: Luanne Burnside of Nikki prepares for the annual Physical Education Horse Show sponsored by the Equestrian Club to be held on Saturday May 3rd at 10 a.m. in the lower riding rings next to the baseball playing field.

Saturday, April 20th UMass students competed successfully in an Intercollegiate Horse Show hosted by Jersey City State College in Middletown, N.J.

First place ribbons and trophies were awarded UMass for both sections of Advanced Walk-Trot-Canter classes, Gymkhana, and Hunt Team. Second places were won in Horsemanship-over-fences and Advanced Walk-Trot-Canter.

It's a

HAPPENING ON THE HILL!

SATURDAY from 12 - 8 listen to the BOLD and the EYLSIAN TIME MACHINE

SUNDAY it's a folk festival with the HELLO FRIENDS FOLK SOCIETY starting at 1:00 - ?

All ON THE HILL beside Van Meter

The English Pub

John Bean

at the Guitar

SATURDAY NIGHT

GENERAL COURT SELECTIONS

Saturday April 26th 1969

2:00 P. M. HAMPDEN ROOM, S. U.

★ ★

POSITIONS OPEN FOR

TWO JUNIORS, TWO SOPHOMORES, TWO FRESHMEN, Male and Female

BE ACTIVE! DO YOUR SHARE!

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

Concert Band to Present Classical to Modern Program

On Saturday April 26 the University Concert Band will fill the air with music beginning at 2 p.m. on the mall behind Hampden Commons, the program will include a large and interesting variety of works from Franz Joseph Hayden to "Variations on a Kitchen Sink" by Don Gillis.

Opening with the "Queen of Sheba" march by Gonnod, the band will move to Abels' "Tom Tom Foolery" which features, what else but tom-toms and timpani. The next work by Robert Russel Bennett entitled "Suite of Old American Dances" will serve as an excellent lesson in music history for those who only know the Beatle Era. "The Golden Ear" by San Mignel will close the first portion of the program.

Opening after intermission with "Carnival Variations" by Don Jacoby, the work will feature a trumpet trio, Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" is next on the program followed by Hayden's "Achieved is the Glorious Work" from the "Creation" which will utilize an unusual tuba quartet.

In contemporary music it is not unusual to utilize household utensils as musical instruments. Therefore in "Variation on a Kitchen Sink" the band will use pots, pans, knives, forks and, well, just about everything but the kitchen sink. The finale will be selections from Lerner and Loewes' "Camelot."

The Concert Band, noted for variety in its programming, always presents an entertaining performance and this one should not be missed.

Concert Band presented program last Spring in the Quad.

Taj Mahal Ends Tour

This Sunday afternoon, the blues artist and graduate of UMass, Taj Mahal will be appearing in a free concert.

Direct from an engagement at the Fillmore East in New York City, Taj is completing a formidable tour of the East. In two weeks, he is going to Nashville to record his third album for Columbia Records. His second album, The Natch'l Blues, consists of striking interpretations of early country blues, shades of Otis Redding, and hard rock. Grabbing the past gently and placing it into the present, Mahal still maintains a rough, hard blues style. The performance will include his harmonica, steel body guitar, and vocals. In addition three other musicians will be appearing.

The blues will be presented this Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. by the pond across from the Student Union. There will be absolutely no admission charge. A local R and B soul-jazz-rock group, Up Against The Wall will also be appearing.

Entertainment Smith College to Offer "The Miracle Worker"

"The Miracle Worker" William Gibson's drama about the blind and deaf Helen Keller's "delivery from darkness" by her teacher, will be offered at Smith College.

Actress Anne Bancroft, who starred in both the Broadway and movie versions of the drama, Gibson, and the director for these versions have all contributed directly to the planned Smith experimental productions. Performances will be at 8 p.m. April 24-26, with an additional matinee performance at 2 p.m. April 27, in the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre at the college's new Center for the Performing Arts.

In both the Broadway and film versions, Miss Bancroft played the role of Annie Sullivan, the Irish woman who was the life-long companion and teacher of the late Miss Keller.

The actress visited the Smith campus recently and discussed with the cast and other students her experiences with the play and other stage and screen productions. Arthur Penn, who directed both the stage and film versions of the play also visited the campus to work with the cast.

The visits by Miss Bancroft and Penn were part of a "Mounting the Play" course offered this semester at the college. It has been trying to link the professional and academic theatre. Berkshire Festival Theatre artists from the group's Stockbridge, Mass., headquarters have been working with Smith students in the course, Gibson heads the Stockbridge company.

Gibson has also been consulting with the students. With Penn, he is expected to attend final rehearsals here of his play.

The dramatization of an early stage in the life of Miss Keller is being directed by Arlen Digitale, a visiting director who has come from the Loft Theatre in New York for the production.

The production is, in Digitale's worker, "an experiment." It exploits the flexible staging possible in the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre. With a minimum of scenery and props, the world of the play will be realized through the characters rather than through elaborate stage design.

All aspects of the production are in the hands of students in the course. Miss Patricia Knight a Smith senior and theatre major, whose special interest is directing, is the assistent director with responsibility for the basic concept and actual rehearsals of the production.

The unique set arrangements have been designed by Miss Patricia Rious, a junior theatre major. Costumes are by Miss Colleen Callahan, a senior major who designed the sets for "Robin Hood" early this season.

The Center for the Performing Arts box office will be open for ticket purchases or telephone reservations today (Monday, April 21) through Saturday (April 26) from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 5:45 p.m., and an hour before each performance.

CRAIG
PLAYS and SINGS COUNTRY-FOLK
at
CHEQUERS
9:30 - 12:30
FRIDAY NIGHT, APRIL 25th

Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 AMHERST 256-6411
Cinema I Now Playing!
Academy Award Winner
An epic drama of adventure and exploration!
2001 a space odyssey
One performance at 8:00
Sun. Matinee at 2
Cinema II 2nd Week!
Greetings
"AN OVERGROUND SEX-PROTEST FILM!"
Nightly at 7:15 and 9:00
Fri. & Sat. 6:15 - 8:00 - 9:45
Coming Soon "SHAME"

THEY EXPLODED THE UGLIEST RIOT IN PRISON HISTORY TO COVER THEIR DANGEROUS, DESPERATE BREAK FOR FREEDOM.
'WILLIAM CASTLE presents /RIOT/ starring JIM BROWN GENE HACKMAN
TECHNICOLOR® A PARAMOUNT PICTURE R

PARAMOUNT PICTURES presents A DINO DE LAURENTIIS PRODUCTION
JANE FONDA in BARBARELLA
PANAVISION® TECHNICOLOR® S-M-A

Deerfield Drive-In
Route 5 & 10
South Deerfield
FRI., SAT. & SUN.
April 25 - 27
Showtime 7:30
Sun.: Riot 7:30

LATE SHOW FRIDAY at 11:30 p.m.
(not part of our regular program)
AMHERST Cinema
THE Adult Western - - -
"BRAND OF SHAME"
consummated in technicolor

LOOK OUT, BLUES PEOPLE!
TAJ MAHAL
and UP AGAINST THE WALL
THIS SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1969 4:30 P. M.
At the Pond (by the Student Union)
(in the S. U. ballroom in case of foul climate)
TOTALLY FREE

Next Crew Club Opposition Undefeated Trinity College

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

With a combination of optimistic and pessimistic feelings, the crew club will journey to Hartford tomorrow for the Mason Downs Cup Race with the host Trinity and George Washington.

Trinity is ranked as the best in the east, and all three boats boast a 3-0 record. Trinity has been building up a new organization in the last four to five years. Trinity rowing has been boosted by the Friends of Hartford Rowing and the Hartford Barge Club.

With the increase in the program, Trinity has been able to attract a good coach and rowers from good prep schools. His crew now is made up essentially of oarsmen whom he has recruited and trained.

Last year, all three Trinity boats finished in the finals at the Vail. Their undefeated record has been compiled with wins over the best boat at Philadelphia, Amherst and a handy win over Wesleyan.

George Washington is the unknown quantity in this one. Last year, the GW boat was fourth in the Vail. They are an early season disappointment, but they are starting to move up and won last week.

Coach Mike Faherty has made a number of changes in boatings during the last two weeks. Junior Bob Natusch, the former junior varsity stroke, has been moved up to stroke the varsity. Jerry Aherne has been moved from jayvee coxswain to varsity coxswain.

Tom Mone, who stroked the jayvees to the win at Philadelphia last weekend, is now number two in the varsity boat, moving the other oarsmen back one seat. Glenn Chaple, number six in the varsity boat, is now stroking the jayvee boat.

Faherty will be going with the same frosh boat as in Philly. Although this boat has experienced some illness in the last week, it should not hurt their performance at Hartford.

"Needless to say," Faherty said, "we are the definite underdogs." He went on to say that the boat is a lot faster this year and they have been improving all along. "Whether we'll be fast enough," he says, "is the questions." "We can knock them off; our spirit is good," he said.

The race will be a downstream race, and Hartford has the same flood conditions as in Amherst.

OARSMEN IN ACTION - The varsity boat is shown in this picture competing against Notre Dame in the first meet of the year. Since that time, several changes have been made in boatings. This weekend, the club will travel to Trinity for a meet against that school and George Washington. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens.)

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 12

Ruggers Split Two, Play Boston Club

Last Saturday the UMass Rugby Club travelled to Hartford, Conn., to compete against the Hartford Rugby Club. Though displaying poor performances, both the UMass 'A' and 'B' teams won.

The 'A' team finished on top with an 8-3 victory. UMass went with its usual scrum lineup led by Jerry Bruen and with a backfield slightly altered because of an injury to Fred Thimmel. Both teams played sloppily, despite good playing conditions. The Redmen backfield was hampered by poor ball handling, which cost them considerable yardage on offense.

Hartford scored first on a try early in the first half, and this was their only tally of the game. A few minutes later, UMass scored on a fine broken field run by wing three-quarters Bill Frisbee and the two point conversion by George Daffield.

Midway through the second half, Kent Hubbard scored on a 20 yard sprint that topped off the Redmen's score at 8. A bright point of the game was the UMass domination in scrum play as the Redmen forwards lost only three scrumdowns all afternoon.

The 'B' game, won by UMass 5-0, turned out to be a hard fought defensive battle which saw neither team driving too often into the other's scoring territory. The scrum led by beterans Al Phillips and Paul Wiojtkowski played well on defense, but, like the A's, they were weak on ballhandling. Bob Grossman scored the sole UMass try for three points and Fred Thimmel's two point conversion brought the Redman score to 5.

Last Wednesday, the Redmen played host to the Amherst Rugby club in a 'B' game only. Battling on a rainsoaked and muddy field, the Lord Jeffs defeated UMass by a score of 5-3. Amherst, considered the best team in the Northeast, scored a try in the first minute of play and was successful in its conversion attempt, making the score 5-0 in their favor.

FINEST FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT
CHARGE TICKETS AT SEARS
CINEMA 1 & 2
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD. 733-5131
ACRES FREE PARKING
2 EVES. 8:15
SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN
MATS. 2:15 WED. SAT. SUN.
1 EVES. 8:30 MATS. 2:30 WED. SAT. SUN.
LION IN WINTER
3 FUNNY GIRL
CHILD $1.50
EXTRA MAT. SUN. 5 P.M.
DAILY MATS. APR. 19 - 27
GROUP RATES

NOW Ends Tues.
Daily 7:00 - 9:00
Sat. 2:00 - 4:40
Sun. 6:50 - 9:00
AMHERST Cinema
NEXT WED.
Marlon Brando
"NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY"
"Artistry and Eroticism" — N.Y. Times
NEGATIVES
IN COLOR
RELEASED BY CONTINENTAL

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

P	A	T	A	L	A	S	H	O	T
A	W	I	I	N	T	E	N	T	A	T	E	L
R	A	M	B	L	E	R	A	M	O	D	E
	B	E	E		P	E	T		N	O	R	A
S	P	E	E	R		F	E	W		H	A	R	D
H	E	A		S	I	R		E	A	P
E	N		S	T	R	I	P	E	S		T	A
	S	A	Y		A	D	A	R		H	E	N
S	W	A	Y		A	D	D		R	O	N	T
M	A	D		E	G	S		R	U	G
O	N		A	R	T		D	A	N	G	E	R
T	E	N	D		E	R	N		E	R	A
S	E	T		A	R	N	T		S	L	G

25

ACROSS
1-Total
4-Communist
7-Declare
12-Female deer
13-Be mistaken
14-Depart
15-High mountain
16-Urged forward
18-Paper measure
20-Number
21-Part of camera
22-Falls back
25-Hindu guitar
27-Standing room only (abbr.)
28-Chart
31-Places for combat
33-Band of color
35-Parent (colloq.)
36-Underworld god
38-Mollifies
39-Oral surgeons
41-Winglike
44-Race of lettuce
45-Country of Asia
48-Those who repent of sin
51-Anglo-Saxon money
52-Mediterranean vessel
53-Guido's high note
54-Girl's nickname
55-Wipe out
56-Stitch
57-Crafty

DOWN
1-Hebrew month
2-Apportion
3-Went away
4-Corded cloth
5-Mistake
6-Male bees
7-Caoutchouc tree
8-Narrates
9-Story
10-Smooth
11-Communists
17-Fruit (pl.)
19-Average
23-Barter
24-Carries
25-Mournful
26-Man's name
28-Errands
29-Simian
30-Footlike part
32-Because
34-Rodents
37-Rocks
39-Evaporates
40-Fiber plant
41-Part of church
42-Condescending look
43-Pilaster
46-Sea in Asia
47-Indefinite number
49-Golf mound
50-Carpenter's tool

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 25

Rain-Rested Varsity Nine to Take On URI Rams

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

The rain soaked Redmen nine finally gets to take on URI after a very soggy field forced yesterday's scheduled game to be moved up to this afternoon at 3 p.m.

For UMass coach Dick Bergquist, this week's siege of rain may prove to be both a blessing and a curse. "It will definitely help the pitchers. They haven't gone since Monday and yesterday gave them added useful rest. So, the way things look now, Don Anderson, who pitched against Vermong will probably start today. John Kitchen will probably go tomorrow against UNH."

"On the other hand," he continued, "the hitters haven't been outside since Monday also, and this could hamper their effectiveness. It's just not the same when you have to practice in the Cage. The light is different and makes seeing the ball a difficult task."

The Redmen will be facing a reputedly good pitcher in lefty Barry Kleinman today so it should be a good test.

Tomorrow's opponent, UNH, is a young team loaded with sophomores and consequently is somewhat of an unknown quantity. They are 2-1 up north, losing to UConn and defeating Maine and Northeastern, 6-5, last Monday.

Last year, the Wildcats posted a 5-16 mark with a 3-7 record in conference, and they've lost seven of their top players. Included in that total are Bill Estey, a .329 hitter, and outfielder Joe Bartlett. Both are now under pro contract, Estey with the Dodgers and Bartlett with Baltimore.

Buddy Walsh, a lefty, will tend to the mound duties tomorrow. "We faced him twice last year," said Bergquist, "and he did fairly well down here (losing 2-0) but when we got him up at Durham in relief, we did a little better." Game time tomorrow will be at 1:30 p.m.

Regarding his team's chances of taking the YanCon title and advancing to the NCAA Division 1 playoffs, Bergquist hedged but seemed optimistic. "Of course we still have to beat the other teams but our spirit and morale are high. You can't win anything on paper but as the squad sees how other opponents are doing, their confidence rises."

The next nine days are big ones for the Redmen as they'll play five conference games. At the end of that time span, things could look very bright indeed.

REDMAN DRILLS - Coach Karas gives some pointers to the fighting Redman grid team in preparation for their inter-squad scrimmage next Saturday. The sneak preview sponsored by the Varsity "M" Club, will cost only 50 cents. (MDC photo by Ara Dedakian.)

BOB HANSEN

TOM SEMINO

Fleet Track Team Hits Penn Relays

by DAVE EVANS
Staff Reporter

A rain soaked UMass track team floated it's way down to Philadelphia yesterday for the running of the Penn Relays held at the Univ. of Pennsylvania this weekend.

The Penn Relays, largest track meet held annually in the U.S. attracts over several thousand high school and college competitors every year. This two day meet features much of the best track and field talent in the country, including such powerhouse teams as Tennessee, Villanova, Michigan and Maryland. Villanova is once again expected to take it's share of first places but will undoubtedly feel pressure from several other teams.

UMass, boasting several fine sprint relay teams, plus a strong distance medley team has been severely handicapped this past week and a half by the continual poor weather, cancellation of several meets and lack of an adequate place to practice. The almost constant rain lately has made running good workouts difficult and time trials impossible. In addition, three of the four meets this season have been washed out, preventing the team from getting in much competition. At Amherst College, where the Redmen practice much of the time, due to the generosity of that school, the track has been under water a good part of the past week.

Despite all of these problems, the team is in better spirits and better shape than one might expect. The mark of the UMass trackman the past few years has been to overcome adversity, and this years group are becoming veterans at it.

Given a particularly good chance to break into the scoring column this weekend are the 440 and 880 yard relay teams. Made up of juniors Dave Marble and Steve Chase, and sophomores Walt Mayo, Ed Heywood and Gerry Spellman, this group of five sprinters is the best and largest ever brought to the University. Also expected to give the opposition trouble are the sprint medley team and the distance medley team. The sprint medley is composed of Bob Hasselbaum (440) Clarence Gaynor (220) Spellman (220) and Diego Gonzalez (880) anchoring. These men are an experienced Penn Relay group and should do well.

Possessing fine balance and strength is the distance medley team made up of seniors Paul Hoss (mile), Gonzalez (880), Hasselbaum (440) and soph Ron Wayne (1320). This is probably one of the best distance medley teams to come out of New England this year and they should finish well up at Penn. Rounding out the Redmen, running contingent is Charlie Lang who will probably compete in the 3000 meter steeplechase, having a hot season since the end of the indoor campaign. He will definitely be shooting for a place in the top five and has an excellent chance of making it.

Assistant coach Gary Schwartz feels his trio of weightmen, seniors Bill Wilen, Dave Schlatka and soph Ed Arcaro will fare well against the tough competition that can certainly be expected at Penn. Schlatka, ranked as one of the best discus throwers in New England will be entered in that event while Wilen and Arcaro go against one of the nations best hammer throwers in Dick Narcessian of U.R.I.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOCCER
Commanches over Leopards, WBF
Colt 45's over Cougars, WBF
Panthess 4, Mags 0
Ambassadors over Chem Dept. WBF
Least Squares over Pinks, WBF
ACP 3, KS 0
TKE 1, SAM 0
TEP 1, PSK 0
LCA 1, APO 0
TC 1, AEP 0

SOFTBALL
Panthers 5, Lemons 3
Flaming A's 8, Limes 7
Maroons 26, Giants 2
Pines 14, Oaks 6
Grants 3, Eagles 2
Elms over Maples, WBF
Brigade 17, Hemlocks 3
Pipers 7, Redwoods 2
Barracudas 10, Broncos 9
Bruins 12, Buffaloes 4
PMD 7, ZN 0
TEP 13, QTV 8
SPE 18, ATG 0
BKP 8, PSD 4
TKE 5, ASP 1
KS 11, SAM 2
AEP 23, APO 4
LCA 9, TC 1
Heads 6, Holes 5
Turtles 7, Bulldogs 6
Lader 17, Bruisers B 6
Rasputin 1, TWH 0
WWI 7, Stout 6
GAK 17, Fish Sticks 2

Immortals Haunt Boyden; Wilmore for UMass?

by PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

You never know who you are going to run into around Boyden these days. Yesterday, during a quick walk were seen such celebraties as football immortal (?) Hike Holovak, the illustrious Boston Patriot coaches and others too numerous to mention. But, the biggest celebraty in the building was Henry Wilmore.

Wilmore hasn't been forgotten by UMass basketball fans for his virtuoso performance with his Rockwood Academy team when they were defeated by the undefeated Little Redman frosh in possibly one of the great games ever seen on the Cage floor.

The 6'4 Wilmore, an excellent student, who scored 32 points in his head-to-head dual with Julius Erving, is visiting the campus for a couple of days. The recruiting bandwagon for Wilmore has been an active one, and from the countless offers made to the New York forward, Wilmore has reportedly narrowed it all down to UMass and the University of Michigan.

Now it isn't ethical to try and influence anyone, but let's face facts henry. The Michigan coach is an old UMass reject by the name of John Orr. Look at our beautiful campus, look at the potential of the Redman hoop program, look at the new convocation center to be built. Plus, no one knows who you are in Michigan, but not many people will forget your play against the freshmen this season.

Well, anyway, whatever his decision, good luck to Wilmore, and if you see him around the next few days, give a good welcome to a potential all-American.

* * * * *

The Varsity Club, under the stellar leadership of Tony Williams, has initiated a UMass Hall of Fame. The first annual Hall of Fame banquet will be held May 16 at the Student Union in conjunction with the Athletic Department's Annual Awards dinner.

Varsity M Club members, which number now around 3000 were asked to nominate former UMass athletes for the hall. The five finalists, from which the honored members will be chosen, are former national football scoring champion, Louis Bush Sr. '34, former hockey star, D. Lincoln Galanie '27, Harold M. 'Kid' Gore, '13, former football star and holder of the best basketball coaching percentage in school history of .604 at a head coaching post he held 15 years, and also a former football and baseball coach.

Also nominated were Justin J. McCarthy, '21, former hockey and baseball star at UMass and winner of a silver medal in the 1924 Winter Olympics for being a regular on the U.S. Olympic Hockey team that finished second and Clifton W. Morey '39, a three sport star in football, hockey and baseball.

The dinner is open to anyone interested at a price of $7. The 'M' Club, for that matter is open to anyone interested.

* * * * *

Next Saturday, the annual intrasquad football game will be played at the stadium. Over 30 lettermen and a bunch of sophomores from last year's unbeaten frosh team will display their wares. Sponsored by the 'M' club, the game will be 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

* * * * *

Though premature at this time with five conference games in the next week, the biggest obstacle to UMass' baseball hopes for a trip to the Omaha national titles trip would be Boston University, who is 11-2 right now. Of course the conference champ automatically goes to the District 1 playoffs.

* * * * *

Former UMass diamond star, John Canty, who was signed by Houston Astros, was doing well until an arm ailment cropped up. Astro officials thought so highly of the southpaw that they flew him to their specialists in Houston.

Redman Roundup

Tonight's Intramurals

2	4:40	Chem Club vs. Ambassadors
3	4:40	Squares vs. Dinks
4	4:40	TC vs. AEP
5	4:40	APO vs. LCA
6	4:40	PSK vs. TEP
2	5:20	ASP vs. KS
3	5:20	SAM vs. TKE
4	5:20	Panthers vs. Mags
5	5:20	Cougars vs. Colt 45's
6	5:20	Leopards vs. Comanches
5	5:30	Bismarks vs. Marauders
6	5:30	Heads vs. Holes
7	5:30	Bulldogs vs. Turtles
8	5:30	Bruisers B vs. LML
9	5:30	Lemons vs. Panthers
10	5:30	Limes vs. Flaming A
11	5:30	Phallics vs. Aces
1	6:30	ATG vs. SPE
2	6:30	PSD vs. BKP
3	6:30	PMD vs. ZN
4	6:30	TEP vs. QTV
1	7:30	ASP vs. TKE
2	7:30	SAM vs. KS
3	7:30	AEP vs. APO
4	7:30	LCA vs. TC
1	8:30	Oaks vs. Pines
2	8:30	Maples vs. Elms
3	8:30	Maroons vs. Giants
4	8:30	Eagles vs. Grants
1	9:30	Barracudas vs. Broncos
2	9:30	Bruins vs. Buffaloes
3	9:30	Redwoods vs. Pipers
4	9:30	Hemlocks vs. Brigade
1	10:30	GAK vs. Fish Sticks
2	10:30	WWI vs. Stouts
3	10:30	Lil Fellos vs. Avengers
4	10:30	Rasputin vs. TWH

$50 Room Security Deposit Policy Revoked

By LOUIS DIMONACO
Staff Reporter

A subcommittee of the Student Senate Services Committee held an open meeting Saturday morning which resulted in the revocation of the recently established Room Security Deposit system.

The four member committee met with Associate Dean of Student s Mark Noffsinger, James West, acting as Areas representative and John Wells of the Housing Office. In addition to revoking the Room Security Deposit policy, the committee also established itself as a planning board to conduct a long range study of University housing problems and their ramifications.

The committee met as a result of the Student Senate's censure of the $50 security deposit on residence hall rooms. Noffsinger said he was "accepting the censure motion" and starting "absolutely back to zero" in regard to residence halls policy.

The members of the Student Senate who were present at the meeting in Whitmore were: Dennis Klayton, acting chairman of the subcommittee, Mark Brenner, Leonard Johnson and Richard Staples. It was decided early in the meeting that questions of policy would be arrived at by consensus among the committee members and the constituency of the committee should include, as recommended by Noffsinger, Robert Kittle from the treasurer's office and William Starkweather from the registrar's office.

The committee felt that the problems of housing and related subjects were worthy of a year's study and agreed to establish themselves as a "permanent" planning board. Noffsinger stated it would be "no great hassle in eliminating the $50 deposit policy" and the administration "has no desire at all to compound any error. It is just stupid to ramrod things through that are short-sighted." The committee, by consensus, revoked the room security deposit. They felt the urgency to accurately predict the number of students who would occupy the residence halls was not great enough to warrent the deposit policy.

Brenner posed the question of the effect the revoked policy would have on room rent for next fall. To this Noffsinger said, "I don't think we can ascertain that." There was no garantee the room rent will not increase since there is no way of predicting pay increases. Noffsinger explained "In order to stay even with the board, we must anticipate pay increases."

The committee will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Student Union.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 126 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1969

Students Indicate Satisfaction With UMass Open House Policy

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

A vast majority of students polled on open-houses indicated they felt open house was enforced adequately and were generally satisfied with the open-house policy in their residence hall. Less than 10 per cent reported they were inconvenienced in study by open-house hours.

Entitled "The Attitudes and Opinions of 3899 University of Massachusetts Students Concerning the 1968-1969 Open House Policy", the report was prepared by Assistant Dean of Students Paul W. Brubacher, chairman of joint sub-committee of the Student Life Committee and Student Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate. The questionnaires were drawn up by this subcommittee and given out to 11,000 students, 3899 of whom returned them.

With respect to enforcement, those who felt enforcement was adequate under the present system outnumbered the percentage who felt the rules were not enforced strongly enough. A significant number of females in the Southwest high-rises felt the rules were not strongly enough enforced.

The report shows a substantial difference among the female respondents in the high-rises between the answer "not strongly enough" and "too strongly". The report says this matches our experience that it is more difficult to enforce sign-in and handle uninvited quests in women's towers where we must cope with elevators and stairwells which bypass public areas."

Responses in this category also indicated, with the exception of females living in the high-rises, that the hours were too conservative.

A slight majority of the students also report personal awareness of violations of open-house regulations in their residence halls, but a large majority of those who are aware of such violations take no constructive action to deal with them.

Six out of 10 male students and five out of 10 female students report that they personally are aware of violations of open house regulations in their residence halls, but more than two-thirds of those who are aware of such violations take no constructive action to deal with them.

Five percent of the males and 10 per cent of the females say they reported the violations to counselors in the residence units, but only eight per cent of the students indicated they had gone so far as to take the matter before the Head of Residence, the house government or the area judiciary.

The report states this attitude is "very much like that the American people", and the "attitude of the student is likely to be that the violation is a private matter and that he would be interfering in the life of another if he were to do any more than talk to the violator."

When surveyed about the current hour limits on open house visitations, most male students indicated they wanted more visitation hours Monday through Saturday, but they feel that the Sunday hour limits are about right. The majority of females reported visiting

(Continued on Page 2)

Senate Meeting Fails For Lack of Quorum

A special meeting of the Student Senate scheduled last night was called off when a quorum could not be reached. Slated to be discussed were the budgets for 10 campus organizations.

A roll was not called, and "it is impossible to ascertain who didn't come," said former Senate vice-president Frederic P. Hartwell.

Hartwell said there is a problem getting senators out for special meetings. Hartwell is circulating a petition trying to get a quorum (50) to pledge to stay at the Senate meeting scheduled for Wednesday night until all business has been transacted. So far 22 have signed the petition.

A Constitutional Convention had to be postponed two weeks ago when a quorum could not be reached. Thirty-five senators out of a required 49 were present. This special meeting had been voted on the night before.

Forty-five main motions and 10 budgets remain on the senate agenda.

Senate meetings are held every Wednesday night in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. These meetings are open to any one on campus.

FIRE RAVAGED VAN - A series of early Saturday morning fires which authorities termed "set maliciously" damaged construction materials and a trailer owned by Daniel O'Connell's Sons Inc. The fire is under investigation by the Amherst Fire Department. (MDC photo by Ron LaBrecque.)

Solons to Consider Bill To Ban Demonstrations At State Universities

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

A bill which would all but ban demonstrations on the campuses of state colleges and universities was introduced into the Massachusetts House of Representatives last week by Rep. Harrison Chadwick (R-Winchester) and sent to committee.

According to the bill, the President of any state college or university would be authorized to declare a state of emergency "in order to protect the lives and safety of the student body and the faculty,"

It also gives a school the power to expell any faculty member or student found to "have disrupted the institution" for three years without campus due process.

In addition to this, the bill provides for any person convicted of participating in a demonstration to be fined up to $5000 and jailed for up to five years in a state prison. Any person refusing to leave a building on campus when told to do so would subject to this penalty.

Chadwick explained, "If private institutions decide to tolerate violence then it's their business, but when it happens on state campuses, it's a different matter."

He went on to say "The state has a responsibility to a majority of students who are on campus for serious purposes and who do not want their academic life disrupted."

Speaker of the House and UMass graduate David Barley urged the legislature to be cautioned in considering bills of this nature. Realizing that the bill is potentially deadly to student rights, he stated, "We should not rush headlong into passing such far-reaching and serious legislation. We want to be as reasonable in changing and making our laws as we expect the students to be in attempting to change university policy."

Campus reaction to the proposed law was clear.

Student Senate President Bruce R. Balboni called the bill repressive and reactionary. He said, "This bill is entirely without cause . . . .The legislature must not deny due process to anyone for any reason."

Former Senate President Paul J. Silverman agreed. "It's probably unconstitutional", he explained. "The bill would set up two different sets of standards - one for public legislators. . .and another for students. The bill would force people who want reform underground and into radical action instead of using peaceful sit-ins as a means of expression."

DeGaulle Loses, To Resign Today

PARIS (AP) - Repudiated in a national referendum, French President Charles de Gaulle announced his resignation Monday, ending an epoch in French history.

(See story on page 2.)

Fires Damage O'Connell's Trailer

A series of fires Saturday at 4 a.m., said by authorities to be "set maliciously", caused an estimated $5000 damage to construction materials and a trailor owned by Daniel O'Connell's Sons Inc., at the site of the 28 story, $16 million library.

Partially destroyed was the floor of a workshed and a storage trailer. Earlier in the week the frames of the workshed were torn down during the night.

The fire also destroyed the rear dual tires of trailer, scorching the trailer sides which buckled from the heat. Amherst firemen were forced to pry the rear doors of the trailer to extinguish the blaze which had worked its way inside.

The construction site was the scene of a student demonstration Wednesday against damage to natural areas of the campus by construction.

The fire is under investigation by the Amherst Fire Department.

APR 28 1969

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - Approval this week by the House Judiciary Committee of a constitutional amendment calling for direct, popular election of the president will set off intense nationwide effort to see it written into law.

BOSTON (AP) - John Sharkus, 37, of South Boston died Saturday in a fire that destroyed a three-story wooden duplex that housed six families. Sharkus' wife and two children were rescued from the two-alarm blaze. There were no other injuries reported.

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) - The 600-mile-an-hour Yellowbird jets of Northeast Airlines begin flying between northern New England and the Great Lakes today.

Gov. Walter R. Peterson of New Hampshire said the new route "at last breaks a barrier that has kept us from swift and direct communications with the great American heartland."

SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnamese again attacked a U.S. Infantry patrol base near the Cambodian border Sunday and again were thrown back with heavy losses.

MIDDLE EAST (AP) - Israelis and Arabs battled north of the Dead Sea yesterday and hundreds demonstrated in Damascus against Lebanon's treatment of Arab guerrillas.

BOSTON (AP) - Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., said Saturday night the Nixon administration has made concessions without losing honor in efforts to end the Vietnam war.

Brooke said efforts are underway "in Paris and elsewhere across the world in his (Nixon's) very fervent attempt to bring an end to the war in Vietnam.

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) - Robert McKinnon, 37, of Rockland was killed yesterday while working on electric power lines.

Police said McKinnon apparently grabbed a live wire. He was dead on arrival at South Shore Hospital.

Open House

(Continued from Page 1)

hours are about right Monday through Sunday.

The great majority of students are using open-house visiting hours two days or less during the week. Sixty-six per cent of the males and 76 per cent of the females use the hours for entertaining in their own rooms on the average of two days or less. Only 14 per cent of males and nine per cent of females entertain five or more days a week.

Eighty-three per cent of males and 69 per cent of females visit opposite sex residence halls two days or less in the average week, whereas only eight per cent of males and six per cent of females make visits five or more days during the average week.

Over 90 per cent of the students feel the requirements of parental permission and guest registration are irrelevant, inconvientent or an infringement of their rights. Only eight per cent of all students regard parental permission for students under 21 years as desirable.

More than half the students think it irrelevant and one-fifth feel it is an infringement on their rights.

One of every eight males says that guest registration is desirable and one of every four females feels that way. Eighty seven per cent of the males and 73 per cent of the females are unfavorably disposed toward guest registration.

Only two per cent of the males and three per cent of females indicated they would prefer to live in a residence hall or on a corridor without open-house hours. Two per cent of males and four per cent of females reported that they would prefer to live on a corridor with no visiting hours.

Eleven per cent of males and 12 per cent of females responded that they would prefer to live with a roommate who does not take part in open-house. However, Orchard Hill males and Central Area females reported a greater desire (16 per cent and 14 per cent, respectively) for a roommate who does not participate in visiting hours. It is possible for upperclassmen, through normal room selection, to pick a roommate who shares their feelings about visiting hours.

The final question was an open-ended one in which the student was required to comment on: What effect do you feel your house visitation policy has had upon your life as a student at the University?

The most positive statements students made concerned " improved living conditions and social life", "more natural realistic, casual, relaxed relationships," and the development of responsibility and maturity. The most negative comments concerned the fact open house had been an inconvenience or infringement of privacy.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

BOLD at CHEQUERS

TUESDAY, APRIL 29th — 9 p.m.

50c admission

at THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free

purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free

(This offer good only with deliveries)

256-6667

253-7100

FREE DELIVERY

6 - 11

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $375. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-2

1968 Volkswagen, like new, factory warranty, $1695. Call 256-6080. 4-28

1963 Buick Special Conv., Black, std. trans., very good running condition. Must sell $200. Call 256-6619. 5-1

1965 Mercury Comet, excellent running cond., new tires, very economical. Call Susan 549-1895. 4-30

1963 Austin-Healey 3000, radio, heater driving lights. Price negotiable. Fred 586-6092. 5-1

Great Buy — 1965 VW, metal sliding sunroof, radio, no rust, groovy green, extremely low mileage and excellent condition. Best offer over $900. Call 549-1197 or 545-0532. 5-2

'64 F85 Olds Deluxe — well cared for, excellent condition, V8, 4-door, automatic, power steering and brakes, light blue. Must sell, make offer. Call after 6 p.m. 584-6317. 5-2

1968 VW — $1650, factory warranty. Willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-6661 evenings; 545-6400 days. 5-3

FOR SALE

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 base, all modern features, used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350, will sacrifice for $160 — case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-2

6 pc. Colonial liv. rm. suite — Grad student couple must relocate. All pieces excellent cond., 1 yr. old. $350.00 — phone after 3:30 p.m., 253-6725. 4-17-18-28-29-30

Yamaha 250, low mileage, perfect condition, see at Phi Sigma Kappa or call Russ at 545-0174. 5-1

Camera for sale. Mamiya 500 TL, 35 mm., one 50 mm. lens and one 135 mm. lens. Good condition. Only $170. Call 6-6285 anytime 4-28

19" Sylvania Portable TV and stand, 1 yr. old, excell cnd cond., owned by a blind man, $75. Call 253-9632. 4-28

1 Pr. of Kneisel Red Stars, 2 yrs. old, in good condition, 210 cm, worth $200 new. Ask for John at 546-7547. 4-30

Mobilehome, 5 rms., furnished, ready to live in, close to Univ. and Northampton. Ex. condition. 247-3926. 5-1

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

ROOMMATES WANTED

Junior girl seeking 1-2 female roommates to move off campus with next year. Want to move into 2 bedroom apt. near campus in $140/month range with kitchen. Cost to be split. If interested call 546-7488. 4-28

ON CAFE COD: We have a large house, 5 minutes from Hyannis Center and need 3 more roommates for June, July and Aug. Call Bob, Tully, or Paul, 6-9351, 6-9415, or 5-2778. 4-28

Four serious, upperclass male roommate wanted for summer school. Share beautiful 8 room apt. in Sunderland. Own room, modern, and furnished. $40 month. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3072 after 6 p.m. 4-28

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment. June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Notting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-2

Roommate wanted for summer (male) — groovy people but no dropouts. Own room with furnishings, $80/month including utilities. Phone extra. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5642. 4-30

FOR RENT

37 Phillips St., 6 rm. apt., for 5-6 people, $250/month; furn., utilities included, June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-6307. 5-2

Summer sublet, 3 rooms furnished, quiet residential section. $85 month. Would you believe? 586-2616. Grad-students preferred. 4-30

Completely furnished 3 bedroom apartment, five miles from Campus on Bay Road, Hadley. Lease available from June 1, 1969 - June 1, 1970, $150/month. Furniture includes TV, clothes washer and dryer. Call Jerry 584-4881. 4-30

Modern 2 bedroom apartment available June 1st, 1 mile from Campus. Partially furnished. Call between 5-7 p.m. 253-2864. 5-1

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-5

Available June 1, 2½ room apartment, rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7180 after 6 p.m. 4-28

7 room apartment (3 bedrooms), available June 1 - Sept. 1, completely furnished, 6 miles from Campus. $170 mo. Call 665-3867. 4-28

8 room house in Southampton, available June 1 - Sept. 1, $175 per month. Call 586-1799 after 6. 4-28

Summer Students — 5 room apt. in Hadley, 4 student, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Available May 1, 1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $120 including utilities, unfurnished. Sublet till Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call 253-3941. 5-1

Summer Students — 4 room apt. in Hadley, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Sublet May 30 to Sept. 7 — 3½ room unfurnished apartment for $120 a month at Univ. Pk. Apts. includes all utilities, telephone available. Call 256-8002 or visit Apt. 14. 4-29

House to sublet June - Sept., 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, family room with fireplace, garage. Very modern, good location. Call Marilyn or Perry 545-2735. 4-30

2½ Rm. Apt., unfurnished, all utilities, garbage disposal, air conditioning, 6 miles from Campus. Call 665-3301 evenings. Available May 1. 4-29

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, ¼ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5719 5-7 p.m. 5-2

To sublet for June, July and August — furnished 2½ room apartment, close to Campus. Very comfortable and very reasonable. Call 549-3963. 5-1

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 1 minutes from Campus, starting June 1. Call 586-1168. 5-2

Rooms for summer and/or fall — ideal, big kitchen, living room, parking, freedom and privacy. Three miles from Campus. A truly groovy idyllic abode. Call Steve 549-3569. 4-30

Furnished apartment to sublet June 1 - August 1. 2 bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, dishwasher, disposal, all utilities included $145/month. Call 665-3041. 4-30

2 Bedrooms, Presidential Apts., air conditioning, dishwasher, disposal, utilities paid, washers and dryers, basement storage, walk to Campus, $165/mo. Sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, or extend lease through 1969-70 school year. Bruce Jorgensen 549-1168. 5-2

HELP WANTED

COUNSELORS wanted for boys' overnight camp at Cape. Room and Board included. The only pre-requisite necessary is an interest in kids. If interested call 546-7863. Ask for Don or Phil. 4-30

SUMMER POSITION AVAILABLE in the ladies' department at the House of Walsh. Must be able to work five days a week 9 - 5:30 starting June 1 to Sept. 1. Married student preferred. Apply in person. Ask for Miss Nanartonis. 4-29

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 4-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 519-0794 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed. Call 586-1168. 5-2

POSITION WANTED

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

Teacher, elementary, with guidance certificate, looking for summer employment. Call 584-5924. 5-2

INSTRUCTION

SPRING ART CLASSES
Evenings, Beginners, Advanced. Limited enrollment. Inquire: Mr. Leander Fornas, at Moore's Corner, Star Route, Montague, Tel. (617) 544-3508.
3-17 4-7-14-21-28

SERVICES

Free lance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil change, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 3:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-9118. 5-2

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w., photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Wanted: Research papers or term papers on "teaching reading" especially in area of secondary school, adult or speed reading. Call Springfield 5-6 p.m 787-0160. 5-2

PERSONAL

Wanted — couple with summer apartment in Amherst needing fake address for female. Call 549-1164. 5-2

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

French Voters Reject Reform Bill As DeGaulle Resigns As President

PARIS - De Gaulle announced: "I am ceasing the exercise of my functions as president of the republic. This decision takes effect at noon today."

This brief communique was released in the capital. De Gaulle was at his country retreat at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises.

De Gaulee, 78, iron-willed ruler of France for more than a decade, had vowed he would resign "immediately" if voters rejected a reform bill on administration and the Senate.

He made the vote a question of confidence, against the advice of some of his most trusted ministers who felt the general had chosen bad terrain to fight what may prove to be his last battle.

In balloting yesterday, the French said "no" to him. It was a narrow loss, but a loss all the same.

Nearly complete Interior Ministry figures gave this breakdown:
Votes cast - 22,279,563
Against - 11,840,463 - 53.14%
For - 10,439,100 - 46.85 %

"Beginning tomorrow a new page in our history will be turned," Couve de Murville said on the state-run television network.

A De Gaulle resignation would thrust Alain Pier, president of the Senate, into the presidency to organize new elections within a period of 20 to 35 days.

"For the moment," the premier said, "The government is assuring the continuity of the public powers conforming to the constitution. It will naturally do its duty."

The trend built early in the evening and got stronger as the night pressed on.

De Gaulle called the referendum onadministrative decentralization and senate reform essential for France's destiny and vowed to resign immediately if the proposal was turned down.

Couve de Murville said: "It was of course with great saddness that I learned the result of the vote. The French people in its majority pronounced itself against the reforms which were proposed, with all the consequences that brings."

Faculty Circulates Petition on CCEBS

Dear President Lederle;

We, the undersigned faculty members, urge you to exert your utmost influence before the Massachusetts Legislature to secure the approval of the total budget allotment requested for the CCEBS program for the year 1969-70.

The proposed budget cut would eliminate altogether the planned expansion of the program and would seriously cut into the funds urgently needed for the financial support of the presently enrolled students, of whom an amazingly large percentage plans to return in the fall. One has to be aware also of the detrimental affect such a cutback would have on the morale of this year's students, who, after all, have greatly contributed to the success of the program.

We must remember that the publicly supported colleges and universities are the only places where a significant number of the state's disadvantaged youth can be given an opportunity for a higher education. Here is a group with great potential, and it is certainly incumbent upon our public institutions not to leave these tremendous reserves untopped.

We cannot stress enough that a well established, viable, and successful CCEBS program at the University gives much-needed hope to our black youth and produces a more enlightened climate and a more fruitful relationship between members of all racial and economic groups on this campus.

Kathy Koumjian Reigns As Miss University

Miss University for 1969 is Kathleen Koumjian, a 5'10-1/2" senior from Watertown. Miss Koumjian received her crown Friday night in Bowker Auditorium, before a crowd of 600 beauty enthusiasts.

The new Miss University is a major in fashion merchandising who has done some modeling and plans to work in fashion after graduation. Miss Koumjian received a $200 cash prize and an opportunity to compete in the Miss Massachusetts pageant this summer with her entry fee of $100 already paid. In addition, Miss Koumjian was given a $100 clothing allowance, a $50 management fee and an extra $25 for winning the preliminary talent contest.

Beaucamp's awarded the attractive Miss Koumjian a full color portrait of herself and the contest's emcees, Wayne Thomas and Neal Whitman who presented her with a trophy.

Eileen O'Connor was chosen first runner-up in the pageant and received a $100 award and a shiny trophy. Second runner-up Debbie Carter, third runner-up Linda McIntyre and fourth runner-up Suzanne Valasunas, each received trophies and cash prizes of $50. The title of Miss Congeniality went to Susan Scott. Most talented non-finalists were Janeen Canterano and Ruth Andrews.

Music for the contest was furnished by the band of Roger Somas and the Musigal Singers. This year's pageant was jointly sponsored by the Class of '69 and the Amherst Jaycees.

In addition to Miss Koumjian and the four runners-up, Annabelle Blanchette, Michael Marquis, Priscilla Masey, Kathy O'Hara and Linda Lee Waelde were also finalists in the Miss University contest.

French Corridors Film Series

Two French African Films

Black Girl and Borom Sarret

(subtitles)

MAHAR — 8 P.M. APRIL 28, 1969

75c

Now on the second floor of the STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4c for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

TONIGHT

S. U. BALLROOM 8 P. M.

THEODORE SORENSEN

Special Assistant to President John F. Kennedy

Author of the best selling book about the late president

APR 28 '69

FROM OUR SIDE

A Matter of Priorities: Grass or Funds?

"Woodsman, spare that tree," was the hue and cry that went up last week as indignant students marshalled themselves around the campus pond and decried the tearing up of the turf. But, alas, all was for naught. The wails of protest were drowned out by the din of chain saws and motors of the heavy destruction equipment.

Friday morning there must have been a few surprised construction workers. Mysteriously, very mysteriously, during the night, the headquarters of the desecrators was - well, dismantled. And there lie all the planks in a very neat pile on the foundation. Very neatly done, but it's also vandalism. The mysterious people destroyed someone else's property. Shame on them.

Over the weekend, again mysteriously, very mysteriously, someone tried to set fire to the van. Its side now bears a scorch mark. The match apparently didn't catch.

Not to change the subject too quickly, but something else happened last week. Tuesday to be exact. President Lederle made public his annual state of the University message: "Massachusetts Must Do Better."

The President's report makes a major analysis of the future of public higher education in this state. Last year, the report states there were 362,000 young men and women between the ages of 18 and 21. By 1977, this figure will have increased to 417,000.

These young men and women will be seeking higher education. With the spiralling costs of a college education, space will be at a premium. The doors of UMass and other state run colleges will be vibrating from the knocks of these people, who, because they cannot afford private college education, will be seeking to attend the state's colleges and university.

Massachusetts is 50th (out of 50) according to the report, when states are ranked by per capita tax expense for operation of higher public education.

President Lederle's report makes a point. Each taxpayer contributes eight times as much to supporting state welfare as it does to supporting higher education. The subtlety is there, though.

The state legislature has also cut the budget for UMass, both Amherst and Boston. One hardly needs to mention the hassle with the medical school.

So, who are the bad guys? The state legislature which cuts the budget or Daniel O'Connell and Co., which cuts down trees and tears up the lively green grass?

According to the planning office, the grass will be replaced in two to three years, and so will the trees. But how about the funds for higher public education? Will they ever be replaced? Can the damage done be repaired?

The demonstration last Wednesday was what you might call heartwarming. It showed in its spontaneity that students cared about things besides the draft and curruculum reform.

They're important issues, but so is the funding of education. Higher public education, that is. Taking for granted (and maybe one shouldn't) that we're all here for an education, it seems that perhaps the students could apply a little pressure to the state legislature.

There's an advertisement by a paper company which urges you to write to your congressman if something is bothering you. If the lack of funds for higher public education bothers you, why not take their suggestion. If that doesn't work, maybe UMass could start a fund raising drive for the legislature.

But, then again, maybe you're not concerned.

Jan Curley
Assistant Managing Editor

Campus Comment

Social Injustice

The matter of hiring black construction workers should be resolved as soon as possible. Finally there are signs that the matter is being dealt with; still there have been delays, and any further delays will not be appreciated.

The issue is not one of racial discrimination. It is rather one of social justice. The proposals asking for equitable minority representation are entirely reasonable. Although it is somewhat difficult in practice to satisy the terms of the proposals, this difficulty should in no way obscure the need for action, and does not excuse the vacillating antics of President Lederle in this matter.

When the proposals were first presented to him by the King Council, Lederle hedged and tried to avoid giving an answer. When the King Council finally met with him, Lederle rejected the proposals, dismissing the "horseback" evidence and, if his later words may be interpreted, feeling that if only the King Council was presenting the proposals, he needn't consider them seriously.

Later, a group of student leaders, including the heads of the Student Senate, King Council, Afro-American Society, and the University Christian Movement, met with Lederle. He expressed his surprise at the broad base of support given to the proposals. After he was made to understand that the University was not being accused of racial discrimination, he capitulated.

That the President should make his decision in this way does not speak well of his intentions in this matter. His misunderstanding is forgiveable, but his stalling, and his instant dismissal of the evidence is not. The King Council originally brought the matter up in October, and action was promised at that time. Lederle should have been aware of the situation, and if he was not aware, he should have at least been concerned enough to investigate the claims rather than dismiss them.

Daniel O'Connell has been very cooperative. He has hired black workers, and is in the process of hiring more. His good faith seems assured. In the future all University contractors will be required to employ a number from minority groups, so the problem is all taken care of, save for right now. We ask O'Connell to satisfy the proposals as soon as possible.

19 Short

Last Thursday, "the Massachusetts House voted by a margin of greater than 2-1 in favor of legislation providing prison terms of up to 5 years and fines up to $5,000 for participants in disturbances at state institutions of higher learning." (Boston Globe, 4/25/69)

The bill was only 19 votes short of the number needed to introduce it immediately onto the House floor, which would mean bypassing the rules Committee and thereby bypassing the normal legislative procedure, for the purpose of expediency. Some 84,000 students would be affected by this bill, as well as faculty, non-teaching staff and any "outsiders," who might see the merit in some cause and join a demonstration to express their feelings.

In effect, the passage of this law, or one similar to it, would validate the feeling that campus administrators are not capable of handling dissent in their realm, and therefore the authority to deal with such dissent must be put into the hands of a mightier authority, the government. It would also mean that students would no longer have the option of demonstrating their disapproval of university policies without the danger of being charged with a felony. Is this just?

Kathy Biggane
Editorial Day Editor

Area East Judiciary?

To the editor:

There seems to be an aura of ignorance in the minds of most students concerning the role, function and authority of Judiciaries on Campus. Perhaps the best thing to do would be to go from student to student explaining the system and stressing the importance of student-run Judiciaries. This, however, is not my present objective. I am concerned about the students in the Quad, the Central Area, and Orchard Hill - those areas governed by Area East Judiciary! I'm sure that you're all fully aware of House Judiciaries, aren't you? Area East Judiciary is an appeal board from House Judiciaries, but it does have original jurisdiction over anything occuring outside any dorm and on any University property from North Pleasant Street up towards Orchard Hill, including all buildings and their exteriors. Complaints and appeals to Area East may be filed with any member of the Board or with the Area Coordinator in any area.

The Board now consists of five members and anyone from the Classes of '70, '71 and '72 is eligible. Recently selections were held and only two people applied - pretty poor showing from about 7000 students in Area East considering there is NO APPLICATION NECESSARY.

So, now is your chance to act instead of complaining. On Tuesday, April 29, 1969, at 7:00 p.m. in the Dukes Room of the Student Union, selections will be held. If you're interested in the Campus and want to do something for Student Power, just show up for an interview. No experience necessary! All you need is a little initiative to get involved instead of squawking like the "silent masses" do to themselves. I just can't believe only 2 people out of 7000 are interested enough to apply for Student Power on Area East Judiciary. You all can see everywhere around you that Student Power does exist but only if you, the students speak loud enough to make our Power be heard.

So why don't you be the one to show me that the spirit of Student Power and responsibility is alive at UMass. Take an interest! Help students truly govern themselves! Apply to Area East Judiciary on Tuesday night!

Marshall Stein
Justice-Area East Judiciary

Poetic Justice

They're cutting down the trees near the pond.
They're cutting down memories.
Look - one of them has initials carved in it.
They'll put up a building.
Can we write on the walls --
With our souls?
Slow down - pretty soon
You won't have any more trees to cut down.
Then we'll all be out of business.
Why don't you drain the pond after that?
Everybody sits near the pond when the sun is out
And it's warm, and there's a lull in the day.
But then, somebody always has to lose, I guess.

Can we save the water in little jars and vases,
So we can remember the swans
in the pond?
I don't want the library --
Or the fine arts center.
I just want the pond back.
Please?
And I don't want the atom bomb.
And I don't want drugs.
And I don't want disease.
And I don't want poverty.
Can't we ever go back? Or stay still? Please?

Bob Arolan
Class of 1972

Did You Take My Umbrella?

To the editor:

Yesterday (April 22) I went to Franklin Commons to have lunch with the members of the Spanish Club. It was raining so I had my umbrella with me. On my way in I decided to leave it in the cloak room (that was about 11:25 a.m.). When I stopped to pick it up on my way out, at about 12:40 p.m., IT WAS GONE. It's a man's black umbrella, made in France, and it belongs to my husband, and if anyone took it by mistake I would like him (her) to please return it to me. It's value is more sentimental to me than monetary. Please leave it in Bartlett 282 as soon as possible. Thank you.

Mrs. Galvin
Spanish Dept.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER Frank Wendroy '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR Jon Curley
NEWS STAFF Lou D. Monaco
SPORTS DAY EDITOR Ray Esanis
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR Kathy Biggane
EDITORIAL STAFF Ed Bryant
DARKROOM TECHNICIAN Wayne Lilystrom
ADVERTISING Sharon Roum, Terry Wanczyk

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Health Director Assumes Presidency Of American College Health Group

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oklahoma - Dr. Robert W. Gage, Director of the University Health Service at UMass assumed the Presidency of the American College Health Association at the 47th Annual Meeting of the Association in session at the Oklahoma Motor Inn in Oklahoma City.

Dr. Gage graduated from Needham (Mass.) High School in 1934 and received the B.S. degree from UMass in 1938. His medical degree was awarded by the Harvard Medical School in 1942. Dr. Gage took his internship at Pennsylvania Hospital and was an assistant resident at Children's Hospital, Philadelphia in 1943.

Following duty in the Navy during the period 1943-46, he practiced medicine in Ulysses, Pennsylvania from 1946-1954 and in Amherst from 1954-1960. Since 1960, he has served as Director of UMass Health Services.

Dr. Gage is a member of the American Academy of General Practice and was president of the New England College Health Association during the period 1963-1965.

The American College Health association (ACHA), founded in 1920, is made up of health professionals from over 500 colleges and universities, represented in the following special interest sections: Administration, Clinical Medicine, Mental Health, Athletic Medicine, Health Education, Dental Health, Nursing, and Environmental Health and Safety.

Socialist Workers Party to Recruit

The Socialist Workers Party will be recruiting on campus Wednesday. Anyone interested in working for the party can sign up for an interview to be held in the UMass Placement Office.

The Socialist Workers Party is a Communist group cited as subversive by the Attorney General's Office. The party was prosecuted under the Smith Act in 1944 for conspiracy in the advocacy of the necessity of overthrowing the United States Government.

The Party was asked to recruit on campus by students who were interested in the possibility of working for the Party. These students are known as the Committee Against the Military Industrial Complex.

WMUA's 'Focus' to Discuss American Democracy Tonight

Tonight at 8 p.m. on WMUA's "Focus" program the subject of discussion will be: "America - Democracy or Totalitarian State?"

Ken Mosakowski's guests on this extended two-hour program will include: Sue Cobble, a member of W.I.T.C.H. (Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell); Jack Fitzpatrick, moderator of WMUA's "Action '69" program; Shawme Hutcheson, a member of the Young People's Socialist League; John Medeiros, author of THE CASE AGAINST A PRESIDENT'S WAR; astronomy student Darryl Robertson and Sue Roy, a member of Students for a Democratic Society.

The program will also include progress reports on actions by the Write for Peace Committee and the newly-launched Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition, which is jointly sponsored by the Martin Luther King Council and Delta Chi.

Your new boyfriend has a new girlfriend?

Think it over, over coffee.
The Think Drink.

For your own Think Drink Mug, send 75¢ and your name and address to: Think Drink Mug, Dept. N, P.O. Box 559, New York, N.Y. 10046. The International Coffee Organization.

AREA EAST JUDICIARY SELECTIONS

Tuesday April 29, 1969 7:00 P. M.

THE DUKES ROOM STUDENT UNION

NO PRELIMINARY APPLICATION NECESSARY!

Anyone living in the Central Area, the Quad or Orchard Hill is eligible!!!

---OPENINGS---

Both MEN and WOMEN, Classes of 1970, 1971, 1972

DON'T JUST TALK — — DO SOMETHING!!!

"BEST MUSICAL OF 1966!"

The Touring Company Production of

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF

Thursday May 1 Counseling Day

4 P.M. and 8:30 P.M.

Tickets $2.00, $2.25, $2.50

TICKETS ON SALE NOW AT STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

Sponsored by
Student Union Program Council, Distinguished Visitors Program
Classes of 1969, 1970, 1971

C 8 2 8 APR

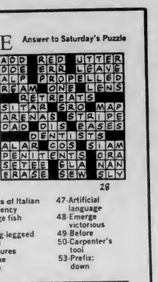
Juillard Quartet to Appear At UMass for Final Concert

The world renowned Juillard String Quartet will appear at U-Mass for its final concert of the season, tonight, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The program will include Mozart's Quartet in D minor, K.421; Druckman's Quartet No. 2; and Brahms' Quartet in A Minor, Opus 51, No. 2. The concert if open to the public without charge.

Violinist Robert Mann, violinist Earl Carlyss, violist Raphael Hillyer and cellist Claus Adam are the musicians.

The performance ends the third season of concerts presented without charge at the University by the UMass music department. The Beaux Arts String Quartet has played one season and the Juillard two.



Area East Judiciary to Hold Selections

The Area East judiciary will hold final selections this semester for the 1969-70 academic year tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Hampden Room of the Student Union.

Area East includes students living in Orchard Hill, the Quad and the Central Area. The only requirement is membership in the class of 1970 or 1971.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle

ACROSS

1-Brick-carrying device
4-Barracudas
9-Weaken
12-Female sheep
13-Man's name
14-Greek letter
15-Accounts of proceedings
17-Roof edges
19-Falsifier
20-Withered
21-Girl's name
23-Alienated
27-Wash lightly
29-Caudal appendage
30-Conjunction
31-Compass point
32-Become aware of
34-Also
35-Spanish article
36-Hebrew patriarch
37-Drinking vessel
39-Produces
42-Arrow poison
43-Island off Ireland
44-Zest
46-Country of Asia
48-Squirms
51-Fuss
52-Roman official
54-Period of time
55-Rocky hill
56-Depressions
57-Stitch

3-Refuse
4-Girl's name
5-Spanish for "father"
6-Bitter vetch
7-Preposition
8-Scoffing
9-Number
10-Devoured
11-Dance step
16-Lubricates
18-Sea in Asia
20-Heavenly body
21-Avarice
22-Passageway
24-Step
25-Web footed bird
26-Worn away
28-Raised
33-Level
34-Intertwines
36-Units of Italian currency
38-Large fish
40-Toil
41-Long-legged bird
45-Matures
46-Make lace
47-Artificial language
48-Emerge victorious
49-Before
50-Carpenter's tool
53-Prefix: down

DOWN

1-Pronoun
2-Be in debt

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 28

Dickinson House to Host Poet In Residence of Amherst College

James Kirkup, Poet in Residence at Amherst College, will speak at the University tonight at 7:30 in the lounge of Emily Dickinson House.

Kirkup has published about 12 books of poems through Oxford University Press and Dent Publishers. One of his best-known single poems, one frequently anthologized, "A Correct Compassion", deals with a heart operation. Some of Kirkup's books are A JOURNAL OF JAPAN, FILIPINESCA, A MEMOIR OF MALAYA BANGKOK, AND ONE MAN'S RUSSIA.

Translator of Simone de Beauvoir's MEMOIRS OF A DUTIFUL DAUGHTER and of two Durrenmatt plays (later performed by the Royal Shakespeare Company in London), Kirkup has also written short stories, novels and numerous B.B.C. radio and television scripts.

Kirkup is being sponsored under the Orchard Hill Week program, which started Saturday night with an outdoor movie and, yesterday, an exhibition of original prints. There are 16 other events scheduled for the week which ends May 4, including four movies. All of the events (except a Wed. night Japanese film in Mahar) will be held in one of the four Orchard Hill dormitories or in the Orchard itself.

NOTICES

SOCIOLOGY 101
Sections 17, 21 and 54 will meet together on Wed. at 9:05 a.m. in Thompson 104 instead of their regularly scheduled meeting places. At this time a former writer for the Boston underground newspaper, "Avatar" will speak on "The Revolution". All welcome.

VOLLEYBALL CLUB
Training Tues. and Thurs. 7:30-8:30 p.m. and Sat. at noon, in Boyden Gym.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Regular meeting tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rm., S.U. Exec. board meets at 6 p.m., GSS is holding a shoeshine in front of the S.U. Thurs. and Fri. from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

HONORS NIGHT
May 8 at 6 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Tickets are available in the Honors Office, Machmer E-23. Tickets may not be obtained after May 5.

STUDENT SENATE COMMITTEES
Positions open for Student Senate Committees as follows: services, activities, budgets, public relations, and SGA.

COLLEGIAN OPEN FORUM
Thurs., May 1, at the S.U. Ballroom from 2-5 p.m. Anyone having suggestions and criticisms please come.

DOWNEY SIDE, INC.
Tomorrow there will be a lecture given by Father Paul Engel on Downey Side, Inc., a community home for boys in Springfield. The lecture will include slides of the home, and will be held in SBA 120 at 8 p.m.

EDUCATION CLUB
Student-Teacher Panel Discussion with representatives and advisors from the five present Block programs. Come and hear what the Block is really like. Tonight at 8:15 in Thompson 106.

STUDENT HEALTH AND WELFARE COUNCIL
Meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Dukes Rm., S.U.

HOME EC., TCEA MAJORS
Tomorrow there will be an open counseling session for all TCEA majors in Skinner at 7 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Testimony Meeting tomorrow at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm. All welcome.

UMASS SKI CLUB
The last meeting of the year will be tonight at 8 p.m. in Thompson 102. Plans are underway for a trip to Tuckerman's Ravine, a water skiing party and a picnic. Free movies.

FRENCH CORRIDORS
"Black Girl" and "Barram Sarret", two French African films will be shown at Mahar tonight at 8 p.m.

FILM-THE BATTLE OF CHICAGO
Film to be shown tonight in Thompson 104 at 8:15 p.m. Unnarrated documentary. Anyone who was in Chicago during convention please call Al Kamil, 545-0348.

OUTING CLUB
General meeting at 6:30 in Worcester Rm., S.U. tonight.

SDS
SDS, Ad Hoc Committee to end Military Recruiting, and Leftist groups combined meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the back of the Hatch. Very important.

FINNISH CLUB
Finnish Table. Those interested please meet at North Commons line one tonight between 4:45 and 5 p.m. Get food in line one and then move to a private dining room upstairs. Call Nanci Stark for more information.

ENGAGEMENT
Carol Haniemi, '70, Patterson, to David Darling, '70, Hadley.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - woman's tortoise shell prescription sunglasses in SW area. Call Joyce Carlson, 5-2516, 5-2517, 253-9163 253-9173.
Lost - Brown pocketbook. Call 5-2304, Joan Bentz. Reward.
Lost - 3 subject notebook with Chem. 112 and Math 123 notes. Call Leslie, 6-7552. Reward.
Lost - Small silver ring with small clear stone. Call Bob, 6-9834, or Sue, 6-9553.

Ron Delsener presents
RCA VICTOR RECORDING ARTIST

Feliciano
SUN., MAY. 4 at 9:00 p.m.
MUSIC HALL
Tickets: $3.50, $4.50, $5.50 Mail order to Music Hall, 268 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Tix available at Music Hall; Harvard Co-op; MIT Tickets Office and Out-of-Town ticket agency (Cambridge).
Phone: (617) 423-3366

The Boston College Institute of Archaeology
2nd ANNUAL EXPEDITION TO TELL MEGADIM
(Followed by an Archaeological Tour of Greece)
June 15 - July 29, 1969
✦Excavating a Phoenician City of the 5th century B.C.
✦Living in a Kibbutz (collective settlement)
✦Visits to the Dead Sea and the Cave of the Scrolls
✦Tours of Israel and the West Bank of the Jordan
✦Lectures of leading American and Israel Archaeologists
✦Trips to Masada, Caesarea, Sebastia, and the Cities in the Desert
✦Living in the City of Jerusalem.
Participants in this expedition can receive six credits towards a Bachelor's or a Graduate degree.
For information and application forms, write or call:
DR. DAVID NEIMAN, DIRECTOR
BOSTON COLLEGE INSTITUTE OF ARCHAEOLOGY
Carney 408, Ext. 777 or 375

IF YOU PREFER INCLUSIVE ONE RELIGION OF BROTHERHOOD TO SECTARIANISM WHICH KEEPS RELIGIOUS PEOPLE SEGREGATED INTO SECTS, WHY NOT SEND FOR AN EMBLEM LAPEL PIN? THERE IS NO CHARGE.
JOS ARNOLD
One Religion of Brotherhood
16 GARDEN STREET
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS
02138

Frosh Nine Sweep Doubleheader, Martin, King Sparkle

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Staff Reporter

Behind the left-handed pitching of Brian Martin and Tom King, the UMass freshman baseball team swept a double-header from the Springfield College frosh by identical 4-1 scores here on Saturday.

In going the distance in the first game, Martin gave up eight hits and struck out eight men. He didn't allow any walks and was touched for his only run in the first inning.

In fact, before he gave up that run, Martin had scored the first Little Redman tally in the top half of the first, when with two outs and nobody on, he doubled down the left field line. Pete Thompson moved Martin to third when he made it safely to first on an infield error.

Chris Wondoloski was next at the plate and he lifted a routine fly ball to right field which was bobbled, allowing Martin to score and Thompson to advance to third. Before a strike out ended the inning, Springfield freshman pitcher Bob Hadler balked Thompson home and Wondolski to second.

Springfield's run came as a result of eratic Little Redman field play. The Little Chiefs' first hitter, Steve Lovett, grounded to second but his collision with Martin, who was covering first, jarred the ball loose. In a pickoff attempt, Lovett got caught in a rundown and found himself safe at third after a wild throw failed to nab him at second. He then raced home after Tom Johnston's infield grounder was thrown wildly past first.

The UMass frosh scored two last insurance runs in the fifth in the tainted fashion typical of run scoring in the first contest. Mark Iarussi started it off when he bounded to third. The throw to first was in the dirt and Iarussi was safe.

There were runners on first and second as the Springfield shortstop couldn't find the handle on Mike Lanchansky's grounder. The bunt sign was then flashed to the next batter, Jose Kelly. The bunt went straight to the pitcher, Hadler, who fielded it on a fly and whirled around in order to double up Iarussi off second. His rifle shot traveled into centerfield and Iarussi was waved home. He made it safely and so did Lanchansky as the throw was off the mark.

In the second matchup, King's control was off as he walked eight men, but his nine strike outs and some fine Little Redman fielding spelled another defeat for the Springfield frosh.

The visitors wasted little time in supporting King as Kelly led the game off with a single and promptly stole second. He went to third on a gounder to second and then scored the first run on a passed ball.

In the sixth inning, the UMass frosh loaded the bases on a single by Thompson, a walk to Stan Baker and a short infield roller by Al Hubermann. After Thompson was forced at the plate, Paul Archambault hit a grounded to the shortstop, who had no play at home, and Baker came across with the second run.

Two additional runs in the seventh, featuring Kelly's basepath antics in combination with a Martin double and a Baker single, gave King a 4-0 lead with which to pitch the last three innings.

Lovett again scored the only run for the home team in the eighth, as the UMass frosh played sloppy defense for the only time in the second fray. A beautiful double play, initiated by King, got him out of further trouble in that inning.

DIAMOND DUST: Martin batted in the third slot in the first game; he played rightfield and hit third in the second contest. . .An exceptionally good hitting pitcher, Martin had two doubles and one single in seven official trips to the plate. . .Biggest extra base hit of the day was Hubermann's triple in the fourth inning of the second game. . .The most curious observation of the day was seeing six out of the nine Springfield starting freshmen (in both games) wearing "batting" helmets while playing the field. . .With three straight wins, the Little Redmen have upped their record to 3-1. . . Next frosh opponent is UConn at home on Tuesday at 2.

UMass Crew Places Second Frosh Also Runnersup

On a 2500 meter course, with a tailwind and a current, Trinity College from Hartford was first off the line Saturday, followed by George Washington and UMass.

The UMass crew club experienced some difficulty off the line, and with 1200 meters to go UMass was a full length behind Trinity and a half length behind GW. Trinity was rowing at 38 and GW at 38 and UMass at 36 and 34. UMass moved by GW then. With 300 yards to go, it was anybody's race as all boats were within 4 seconds.

UMass upped their stroke to 39, Trinity to 41 and UMass gained on them at the end. UMass finished behind Trinity by five seats. GW finished a length beind UMass.

Times were 6.24.3 for Trinity, 6.25.6 for UMass and 6.28.8 for GW.

All three jayvee boats were even with about 1200 yards to go. Trinity made its move then, pulling out of the pack. UMass followed them and GW fell behind. All boats were rowing at about 37. Times were 6.58 for Trinity, 6.34 for UMass and 6.47 for GW.

In the frosh race, it was a race between Trinity and UMass for the whole race. Trinity gained the advantage with about 1000 yards to go and seemed to gain about a length. UMass closed fast at 37 or 38 and made up about four seconds over the last 300 yards, but it wasn't quite enough. Trinity's time was 6.31, UMass 6.34 and GW, way behind, at 6.52.

Coach Mike Faherty, trying his fourth combination in the Varsity in four weeks for speed, said, "We rowed a good race which would have been a great race if it had been a second and three-tenths faster."

This varsity boat rowed the fastest so far, and they should improve in the weeks to come. The four sophomores and five juniors in the boat are starting to mature.

"The jayvees made a lot of mistakes that should have been corrected," Faherty said, "but in the excitement of winning two races, in the last two weeks, some things were just neglected." Most of these mistakes were straightened out in an 18 mile practice Sunday morning at 8 a.m.

The Trinity frosh have a lot of experience, but "we rowed a good race," said Kurt Betchick. The two losses for the UMass frosh have been a combined total of four seconds. The Trinity frosh are undefeated. "When the championships come around," the coach said, "we should be right near the top."

Next week, the UMass crew club will host a regatta with Rhode Island, Williams and Holy Cross.

Photography!
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

SAVE 20¢
Pepsi and small tomato and cheese Pizza - $1.00 upon request
MAMA'S PIZZA
103 No. Pleasant St.
253-9858

CONCERT ASSOCIATION presents . . .
NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET
FRIDAY, MAY 2 8 p.m.
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
Tickets Free to UMass Undergrads
$1.50 others
Student Union Ticket Office

Collegian Open Forum
THURSDAY, MAY 1st
BALLROOM — STUDENT UNION
2:00 p.m. — 5 p.m.
ANYONE having SUGGESTIONS and CRITICISMS
PLEASE SHOW UP!
Sponsored by Student Senate Services/Public Relations Comm.

Why does a perfect size 7 look perfect only 21 days every month?

It has nothing to do with calories. It's a special female weight gain... caused by temporary water-weight build-up. Oh, you know... that uncomfortable full feeling that sneaks up on you the week before your menstrual period. This fluid retention not only plays havoc with your looks but how you feel as well. (It puts pressure on delicate nerves and tissues, which can lead to pre-menstrual cramps and headaches, leaves emotions on edge.)

That's why so many women take PAMPRIN*. It gently relieves water-weight gain to help prevent pre-menstrual puffiness, tension, and pressure-caused cramps.

PAMPRIN makes sure a perfect size 7 never looks less than perfect. Nor feels less than perfect, either.

0822 APR

Redmen Roll to Eight Straight, Down URI 11-5, UNH 7-2

Don Anderson Now 4-0 on Season, Kitchen Goes Route Against UNH

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

The Redmen enjoyed savory helpings of Ram and Wildcat this past weekend in defeating Yankee Conference rivals URI and UNH by respective scores of 11-5 and 7-2. These two home victories brought UMass' conference record to a dazzling 5-0 and the overall record to 10-5.

In Friday's game UMass was outhit 12-9 but managed to take advantage of four errors and 13 walks by URI.

Don Anderson was the starter and winner, pitching 6-2/3 innings, allowing four runs on 10 hits. He is now 4-0. Jack Bernardo finished the game for UMass.

The Redmen jumped off to a 5-0 lead in the second inning. Mitch Salnick led off with a triple up the alley to deep right-center. Tim Berringer followed with a walk but was thrown out stealing by Ram catcher Henry Eickhoff. At this point URI starter Barry Kleinman was replaced by Ed Tymko who walked Anderson. Salnick scored soon after beating a throw from first basema n Ed DaCruz who had gloved Ray Elterbrook's infield dribbler.

After retiring Joe DiSarcina on a pop up to third, Tymko, who couldn't find the plate all day, walked Bob Hansen to load the bases and then walked Tony Chinappi, driving in Anderson with the second run. Dick Pepin then proceeded to belt a double to right center scoring three runs.

The Redmen got two more in the third. Berringer walked, was sacrificed to second by Anderson and scored on Ellerbrook's single up the middle. Ellerbrook went to second on the centerfielder's poor throw and believe it or not, scored on an infield hit by DiSarcina.

URI got a run in the fifth on a walk, a single, an error and an infield out. UMass got another run in the fifth on Ellerbrook's single to center, plating Berringer.

Anderson ran into trouble in the seventh. He retired the first two men easily but a solid single by Les Goff, a run scoring triple by Dick Crocker and a two run homer to right by John Sartini sent him to the showers.

UMass finished up by scoring Tom Semino on two errors in the seventh and two runs in the eighth. DiSarcina walked, stole second and went to third on Hansen's infield hit. Chinappi followed with a single down the line in right which scored DiSarcina cleanly and Hansen on the rightfielder's throwing error.

John Kitchen was the big star in Saturday's game allowing just four hits for two UNH runs and a 7-2 victory. He struck out 10 in his complete game effort.

UMass scored a run in the second on third baseman Steve Stanford's RBI single through the hole in left but UNH tried to make it a game by scoring its two runs in the third.

Pitcher Buddy Walsh walked and advanced to second on Jack Kenney's single. Walsh scored as Chinappi, who attempted to pick him off second, threw the ball into center field. Bob Hodsdon then singled in Kenney. However, this was to be it for the Wildcats as UMass wrapped things up with four runs in its half of the third.

DiSarcina hit a high pop to short right center which dropped between the out-stretched arms of outfielders Bob Nalette and Phil Chesley. The speeding DiSarcina was just about into third when the ball finally hit the ground.

Hansen singled Joey D. in, Chinappi walked and Salnick singled to load the bases. Seminothen walked to drive in Hansen. This brought up Stanford who promptly ripped a double to center scoring Chinappi and Hansen.

UMass got single runs in the sixth and eighth on RBI doubles by Chinappi and Hansen.

DIAMOND DUST - Stanford, who replaced Tom Berringer at third Saturday, played a fine game, going two for four and making some nice plays in the field . . . Tomorrow UConn will provide the opposition at Varsity Field.

SUPERMAN! - This UNH Centerfielder made a good try, but the Wildcats lost, 7-2. (MDC photo by John Kelly)

Golfers Win Sixth in Row Before Loss to Rhody

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

In an awesome display of fine golf, UMass charged to it's fifth and sixth consecutive wins last Thursday by defeating Holy Cross, 8-1, and Boston College, also by a 8-1 margin.

Dave Salter continued to dominate the game by downing Bob Frank of Holy Cross, 4 and 2, and sneaking by B.C.'s John Riccardo, 1 up.

Capt. Eric Lekberg had a rough afternoon and ended up providing the UMass opposition with their only two points of the afternoon. He lost a 4 and 2 decision to Holy Cross' Bob Elliot, and was then edged by Boston's Bill Hughes, 2 and 1.

The remainder of the Redmen contingent, however, refused to allow either team the opportunity to catch up. Third man Ed Puzas trampled Frank Hession, 2 and 1, and Dennis Perrone, 4 and 2. Dick King kept his unbeaten string in tack by rolling over H.C.'s Tony D'Agata, 7 and 6, and B.C.'s Bill Crowley, 4 and 3.

Rick Aherne, Dick Barber and Paul Johnson all contributed to the drubbing by coming up with two victories apiece. Aherne toppled Holy Cross' Larry Duda, 2 and 1, and coasted to victory over Stacy Monahan, 7 and 6. And in the final position, Paul Johnson continued the trend by overtaking Rick McDermott, 3 and 2, and John Gorman, 3 and 1.

Ed Puzas was the medalist for the Redmen with a 76, but once again four men broke 80, including Eric Lekberg (79), Paul Johnson (78), and Dick King (77). UMass now sporting a 6-1 record, "played very well again," said coach Page, "with only six strokes separating the best and poorest scores on the squad."

On Friday, however, the team met it's match when it dropped a 5-2 decision to a powerful Rhode Island squad. This was only Rhody's thirty-fourth straight victory in match play competition.

Playing the first two positions for UMass, Ed Puzas and Dave Salter provided the only two Redman points. Puzas downed Dan Quigley, 2 and 1, and Salter edged Charlie Korbuskie on the 19th hole, 1 up.

From there on out, it was nothing but dismay for the UMies. Hard luck man Eric Lekberg dropped his third in a row, this time to Nick Scalera, 2 and 1. Then Dick King lost to Dick Jenkins, 1 up, and Rick Aherne fell to Ace Parmalee, 2 and 1.

The roundup of the match saw Charles Silvestro overtake Redman Dick Barber, 2 and 1, and U. R.I.'s Mark Battista roll past Paul Johnson, 7 and 6.

Ed Puzas, who once again took medalist honors with a 76, came up with a strong performance against Quigley, who had lost only thre e matches in three years of competition.

Coach Page thought that "overall, the team did not play as well in the wind as it had in the rain for it's previous three matches. Dick King had a very close match, and his loss wa s his first in freshman and varsity competition at UMass."

The golfers next opposition will be in a triangular meet against Connecticut and American International College. It will take place tomorrow at Willimantic Country Club.

DAVE SALTER has provided the big punch on this year's golf team.

Tennis Team Captures Third Match, Edges Tough U.R.I. By 5-4 Score

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

Clutch performances by senior Tom Johnson and soph Jon Bloom enabled the UMass tennis team to win its third dual match of the season by a 5-4 score over a tough URI team in a big match at Kingston on Friday.

Rhode Island, last year's Yankee Conference runner-up, decided to proclaim themselves the team to beat in the Conference. The Redmen were harassed in the Student Union, and read a great deal of material in the student paper telling of how the Rams were going to bomb the Redmen.

Unfortunately for the Rams, the Redmen were not impressed by the propaganda. The only ones to lose for Coach Steve Kosakowski were Scott Sheppard, at five, and Mike Katz, at two. Both were playing soon after recovering from illness.

Allen Goldberg, at one, beat an old adversary, Jim Connerton in straight sets. The blond soph took command early in the match and grabbed a 6-3, 5-3 lead. He faltered at that point and lost the next two games, but rallied to take the next two and the match.

Katz, at two, played Andy Yosinof in the only three setter of the day. Both players were quite spirited, and there were quite a few "Yankee Conference" calls. Katz, because of a recent illness, couldn't maintain his strength for the entire match.

Johnson, at three, played a tremendous match in downing an old nemesis, Tom Sherman. Trailing 2-5, setpoint, the Worcester native exploded for five straight games and took command. He won easily in a great second set, 6-2. The spectators were so awed by the first rate tennis that the whole match was played in church-like silence.

Captain Carl Clem, at four, played his finest match in three years. He beat Bruce Shurr 6-0, 6-1. Shurr had beaten Clem last year, but Clem turned in an awesome display of power and finesse in posting the win.

Scot Sheppard was up all night with a stomach disorder, but gamely tried to play. However, it was obvious from the outset that the classy senior was nowhere near form. Tony Rupplea had an easy time of it winning 6-0, 6-1.

Bloom crushed Ram captain Ed Barlow at six, 6-2, 6-2. The Newton native has been playing some excellent tennis for the Redmen, and turned in a fine job on Friday. Bloom surprised many by beating the battle tested Barlow.

Bloom and Sherman then teamed at third doubles for an impressive win over Yosinof and Dick Brown. The UMass pair led from the beginning and took the match 6-0, 6-1. The two were so happy with the clinching point they took a victory lap, a four mile jaunt in the direction of the ocean.

Neither Katz and Clem at one, nor Sheppard and Goldberg at two were able to get off the ground. Both were losers in straight sets.

The Redmen are now 3-0, Rhody had one four going into Friday's match. This is the third straight time UMass has pulled out a one point win against U.R.I. Last year the Redmen won both the dual meet and the Conference by that margin.

The Yankee Conference meet will be played next week end. The site has been shifted from Connecticut to Vermont. The change became necessary when officials at Storrs failed to repair the courts after a pipeline had been put in.

UConn will provide the opposition tomorrow in the final tune-up before the Conference. It will be the final home match of the season. The frosh team, a 5-1/2 - 3-1/2 winner over Winchendon on Friday will take on the Husky Pups. The match will start at three.

Tonight's Intramurals

		SOCCER
2	4:40	Chem Club vs. Squores
3	4:40	Ambassadors vs. Dinks
4	4:40	LCA vs. TC
5	4:40	AEP vs. TSP
6	4:40	QTV vs. PSK
2	5:20	Zooms vs. BX
3	5:20	Trojans vs. Roberts
4	5:20	PSD vs. DC
5	5:20	SPE vs. ATG
6	5:20	PMD vs. TEP
		SOFTBALL
1	6:30	Smashers vs. Academics
2	6:30	Spartans vs. Ironmen
3	6:30	Seagrams vs. Bruisers
4	6:30	Zeppelins vs. Band
1	7:30	Tubes vs. Loggia
2	7:30	Cement vs. Blitzers
3	7:30	Rogues vs. Lobos
4	7:30	Bedsinks vs. Nerves
1	8:30	Coal Cons vs. Bulldozers
2	8:30	Lions vs. Senators
3	8:30	Hickory vs. Black Bears
4	8:30	Trojans vs. Hi-lo's
1	9:30	Education vs. Dassicles
2	9:30	Old Timers vs. Dinks
3	9:30	Old Men vs. Groups
4	9:30	Beadledams vs. Seals
1	10:30	Gamma vs. Roosters
2	10:30	Benny's vs. TF & WZ
3	10:30	Untouchables vs. Sticks
4	10:30	Weasels vs. Cues
5	5:30	Colt 45's vs. Mags
6	5:30	Panthers vs. Leopards
7	5:30	Patriots vs. Cougars
8	5:30	Racoons vs. BX
9	5:30	Baunders vs. Kallikas
10	5:30	Tricky Dicks vs. Goons
11	5:30	Dvdazz vs. Drakesters

Frosh Win Friday Tilt

Held to only four hits in their season opener against Connecticut, the little Redmen exploded for 16 hits and 15 runs last Friday as they defeated a hapless Amherst team, 15-5.

The Redmen are now 3-0, Rhody had one four going into Friday's match. This is the third straight time UMass has pulled out a one point win against U.R.I. Last year the Redmen won both the dual meet and the Conference by that margin.

George Phelan paced the Little Redman attack with three hits while he pitched one-hit ball for six innings. Tim Logue finished up, getting the side out in order in the seventh.

The frosh scored fast and easy as they scored two in the first and second innings, and exploded for five runs in the third, quickly settling the outcome of the game.

FROSH BUNTS - The little Redmen play their next game tomorrow afternoon against Connecticut. It's a home game, so let's give them support. See you at the game!

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 7

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 127 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1969

Theodore C. Sorensen, former speech writer of President Kennedy, lectured last night in the S.U. Ballroom. (MDC photo by Dave Craig).

Theodore Sorenson Says Nixon Unwilling to Make Hard Choices

By NEAL NOVACK
Staff Reporter

"Hard choices confront President Nixon, and so far he has thus shown an unwillingness to make hard choices that will involve serious consequences . . ." These words reflect the seemingly skeptical views on the Nixon Administration expressed by Theodore Sorensen, presented by the DYP last night in the S.U. Ballroom to about 250 people.

Mr. Sorensen, served as Special Counsel under Pres. John F. Kennedy. In addition to having been the unofficial chief speech writer and political confidant, he was the youngest official in the Kennedy administration, and one of the most influential men around Kennedy.

Three main points on presidential decision-making were discussed by Mr. Sorensen in relation to the "hard choices" facing Pres. Nixon: (1) The President chooses from a set of options and his decisions are ones that are unavoidably linked with previous decisions made by previous administrations. (2) Limitations are placed upon Presidential decisions, and (3) Politics plays a role in every presidential decision because of presidential ties to a particular party, pressures from the military, congress, and public opinion.

One of President Nixon's hard choices referred to by Mr. Sorensen is the fate of the ABM System. Mr. Sorensen expressed his disapproval of the ABM System and said that "Even if it were effective, it certainly has not been demonstrated that we are measurably adding to our security . . . Mr. Sorensen questions the effectiveness of the ABM system to improve U.S. foreign policy in the long run. He also stressed the irrelevancy of the ABM system in the event of an irrational or accidental nuclear attack on the U.S. Mr. Sorensen viewed the ABM dilemma primarily as a moral question and not just as economic, military or foreign policy question. The moral question is whether the government should spend billions of dollars on this defense system or on the improvement of conditions at home. Mr. Sorensen gave strong preference for the alleviation of "miserable and ugly" conditions at home.

Concerning the limitation of a President's decisions, Mr. Sorensen confronted the Vietnam War and President Nixon confrontation with it. Mr. Sorensen pointed out that Nixon is limited in his quest to liquidate the war as a result of foreign pressures, pressures from the American people, Congress and the Pentagon. Mr. Sorensen expressed his doubt that the bargaining in Paris will be materialized. He recognizes the need for a peaceful solution to be accomplished by leaving South Vietnam to the South Vietnamese. He said that "any such escalation would leave the U.S. alone in the world and would change the role of the U.S. in the eyes of the rest of the world."

In his three points on the role of politics in presidential decisions, Mr. Sorensen talked about the need for President Nixon to put aside political interests, and pressures, and serve the people in this country who are in need of help. This help could best be afforded by not cutting the budget in such areas as the poverty program, education, hospital construction, and aid to cities. Mr. Sorensen expressed his fear that the Nixon administration may be selecting for exclusion from the budget "the parts of the country that are in the worst possible shape."

Mr. Sorensen concluded by urging the audience to fulfill their obligation to speak up to those in the government. He emphasized the point that if people are concerned about such issues as ABM, the budget and Vietnam, they should speak up and exert their influence and ability in making presidential decisions.

Provost, Trustees' Approval Awaits Coed Greenough

A proposal to make Greenough House a coed dorm next fall has been taken under advisment by dean of Students William F. Field and has been referred to Provost Oswald Tippo. However, final approval must come from both the Provost and the board of Trustees before the proposal, which has been unanimously endored by the Student Senate, becomes a reality.

The housing office has agreed not to assign any students to Greenough until June 30, and has also given students wishing to take part in the proposed program an extention in room choosing. Any students wishing to sign up for Greenough next fall may obtain details on alternate room registration from the housing office in Whitmore.

An open house will be held in the near future to acquaint prospective residents with Greenough's facilities and present residents.

In a published rationale, students backing the proposal claim that a coed dorm will be beneficial, socially and academically.

They maintain "psychological benefits will result from the interaction of the sexes in one dorm... in the present state, individuals act out the dual role of pseudo-personalities because of the difference in dorm life and integrated situations. By eliminating the necessity of the dual role, individuals would be more certain of themselves and more comfortable with members of the opposite sex."

Academically, the students argue that more vewpoints would be available for residents, and coed living would ease the study problems which present open house regulations cause.

"Socially, a friendly platonic atmosphere is likely to evolve", according to the rationale. This is based on the experience in Prince House here on campus, and at North Campus Residence Hall at Trinity College (where a coed program was recently established with sixteen girls from Vassar college).

Ultimately, the proposal attempts to create an "ultimate community", one which is clearly representative of the outside world. The rationale states that the University, with its present housing policy, does not provide for this kind of community.

The DAILY COLLEGIAN will publish a course description directory tomorrow, in an effort to provide students with more information about courses than is presented in the University's course directory.

Courses listed will include the name of the professor, the number of tests and quizzes, required texts, and subject matter to be covered.

New President Receives Powers In France

PARIS (AP) - Alain Poher, an unknown outside France, received the power of the presidency of Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic without ceremony Monday, but his only major task is to set up a presidential election.

De Gaulle remained behind the green iron gates of his country estate at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises in eastern France, where the tolling of the church clock at noon marked the end of his 10 years of rule.

Noon was the hour De Gaulle himself had selected for leaving France "to its destiny."

His resignation - the result of a sharp defeat in a referendum calling for decentralization of power and Senate reform - stirred up all kinds of guessing in Europe and around the world. Gold and currency markets encountered a new flurry of trading. The French franc hit new lows and gold new highs in Paris, underscoring the uncertainty some felt about the French economy without De Gaulle.

The British looked with renewed hope for joining the European Common Market. The West Germans and others foresaw the possibility of a more flexible France and European political unity.

Lederle Officiates in Ground-Breaking

President Lederle officially started construction of the new 28 story library as he broke ground yesterday afternoon before a small crowd of students and administrators. At the conclusion of the ceremonies a petition was presented to Dean Field by two students calling for the transfer of the "tool sheds" near the pond, to another area.

Lederle opened with a speech indicating that "This is the kind of building worthy of the kind of University we're trying to build." Lederle kept emphasizing during his speech that the pond was the center of campus and that it would always remain where it is presently located.

However, Lederle stated, a library has to be in the most accessible place to the majority of students on campus and the front of South College was just this place. The president explained that a convenient space for storage of materials was needed in the construction of any building and the pond was the most convenient place in this instance. Lederle concluded by promising that when the library was completed the students would be provided with a beautiful building surrounded by a restored pond.

The next speaker, Provost Tippo, quoting from a Yale passage said there were three essential items in a university: the students, the faculty, and the library, and of these the library was the most important. He promised to try for expanded hours for the present and future library.

Staff Sheehan, senator from Gorman, and Mark Rosoff, freshman from Project 10, presented a petition signed by 1729 students indicating their satisfaction with the sight of the pond. Sheehan made the remark that while the lawn would only be torn up for three years, the majority of students would only be here for that long.

The petition to "Save Our Campus read:

"We the undersigned demand the following -

1. That the Library construction material storage area be stretched across the top of the grass ed area to the west of the pond. A portion of the closed road area would seem desirable for this storage.

2. At least three months public notice be given as to the actual construction perimeter of the proposed Fine Arts and Life Sciences (Morrill West Annex) buildings.

3. That any other construction or remodeling projects in the campus pond area be well announced so as to promote and facilitate dialogue and necessary action.

4. That the complete proposals and plans of all new construction projects on campus be made available to the Student Senate for early deliberation and Approval. Public hearings can be held at this time.

5. That the token student representation on the Master Planning Board be increased as soon as possible to try to balance that one-sided group. Some degree of reality must be added to the current fanatical campus expanston trend.

(Continued from Page 2)

The final election for the class of '70 presidency will be held today, in the Student Union lobby. Candidates for the office are Richard Kline, Peter Rosenthal, and David Vale (on a write-in campaign).

No, the Bear hasn't returned as yet, but his pedestal in the S.U. Lobby is being temporarily occupied by a stump from one of the recently cut trees on campus. (MDC photo by Dave Craig).

Celtics Win

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics blew a 17-point lead in the third period but stormed back behind John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried for an 111-105 victory over Los Angeles Sunday and their first decision over the Lakers in the third game of the best-of-seven series for the National Basketball Association championship.

Havlicek scored 34 points and Siegfried 28 as the pair of former Ohio State stars led the charge to give Boston's defending champions a chance to tie the series on the same court Tuesday night.

Egan contributed 22 and reserve Mel Counts 18. Wilt Chamberlain connected for 16 points and grabbed 26 rebounds.

Boston Player-Coach Bill Russell, Chamberlain's long-time rival, had 11 points and 18 rebounds.

The Celtics had a 44-39 advantage in field goals and made 23 of 29 free throws. The Lakers were 27-40 from the free throw line.

1922 APR 92

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) The state of New Hampshire appealed Monday to the Supreme Court to stop construction of a nuclear power reactor on the Connecticut River.

New Hampshire said the $120 million facility would create thermal pollution that could destroy all plant and animal life.

Additionally, the state argued in a petition, the Atomic Energy Commission had violated the constitutional rights of the citizens of New Hampshire to use the river for industrial and recreational purposes.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The dock strike was blamed Monday as the government reported the U.S. foreign trade balance ran a $68.1 million deficit in the first quarter of this year - the first time it has slipped into the red since the Korean war.

"The effects of the dock strike were enormous," said William H. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affiars.

However, Chartener cautioned against reading too much into the new trade statistics. including the favorable ones.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration said Monday it was overhauling the controversial Model Cities program that now affects some six million poor people - mostly Negroes - in 150 cities.

Among key changes in the three-year-old program is more emphasis on participation by private industry, plus use of the block grant approach both campaign themes of President Nixon.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Harvard students voted 3,222 - 945 not to resume a student strike of classes, it was announced Monday.

The balloting, conducted over four days, reached fewer than one third of the 15,000 student body.

The vote had been ordered by a general meeting of students at Harvard Stadium 11 days ago to poll student sentiment on resumption of the sporadic class boycott which hit the school after 400 police arrested April 10 anti-ROTC demonstrators who had seized a campus administration building.

INDIO, Calif. (AP) - An earthquake apparently centered near the Salton Sea shook Southern California Monday afternoon, causing widespread alarm but little harm.

The 4:21 p.m. tremor set the police department radio room at this Coachella Valley community "rocking and rolling . . . boy how it was rolling and rocking," the dispatcher said.

California Highway Patrol units reported minor rockslides on state highway 74 in nearby mountains.

SCUBA CLUB

All new members, pool and written exams will be given Wednesday, April 30th in Curry Hicks at 7 P.M. If you have problems contact Bill 6-6081, Don 253-7906, or Tony 665-4472.

"BEST MUSICAL" N.Y. DRAMA CRITICS AWARD

HAROLD PRINCE presents

Fiddler on the Roof

Based on Sholom Aleichem's stories

BEST MUSICAL 10 "TONY" AWARDS

Book by JOSEPH STEIN
Music by JERRY BOCK
Lyrics by SHELDON HARNICK

Stage Production Directed and Choreographed by JEROME ROBBINS

BEST MUSICAL N.Y. DRAMA CRITIC'S AWARD

THURSDAY, MAY 1 Counseling Day 4 & 8:30 p.m
Bowker Auditorium Tickets $2, $2.25, $2.50
Tickets on sale at Student Union Ticket Office

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Lederle Officiates

(Continued from Page 1)

6. That the University Administration and Board of Trustees acknowledge that the students and alumni have a legitmate vested interest in preserving the utility and the beauty of OUR natural resources by giving serious attention to suggestions and complaints and acting on these at the earliest date.

Finally the U. of M. does not have to stand for the University of Mud. The aesthetics of this campus are now obscene. We care!"

Dean Field, in speaking for the administration read from the following text:

The University's master plan carefully provides for the protection and enhancement of landscaped, open spaces on campus. The plan to remove vehicles from the center of the campus will make the central core of the campus a totally pedestrian area and emphasize the landscaped portions adjacent to the pond. To assure the students and faculty that they will be informed about construction plans:

1. The University agrees to give a minimum of three months advance public notice of the proposed construction perimeter of any new building.

2. The University agrees to increase communication about construction plans in the college pond area, including any proposals that will affect the land area impinging on the pond.

3. The University will make open campus presentations and will conduct review sessions on proposed construction when preliminary studies have been completed for any proposed building. In addition, a master plan will be prepared for continuous display in a public place (probably the Campus Center) and will be updated as changes in plans occur.

4. The administration suggests that the Student Senate and student members of the Master Planning Committee formulate a more formal means of communicating the University's construction plans to the campus such as an annual or semi-annual report by students to the Student Senate.

5. The administration will consult with library contractor about the possibility of relocating facilities within the staging area of the library project.

6. The University will provide an opportunity for all segments of the campus to express their views before the Master Planning Committee about construction after preliminary studies have been completed.

Preliminary talks will be conducted this week between Sheehan, Rosoff, Dean Field and representatives of O'Connell construction company.

Taj Mahal and his group presented a free concert by the pond Sunday afternoon. (MDC photo by Roland Joli-coeur).

Faculty Sign CCEBS Petition

The following petition concerning the CCEBS program was circulated on campus. Within four days, 445 signatures were collected from faculty members of the various Schools of the University, showing an overwhelming support for the program. In addition, there were some 70 signatures by graduate students, who, on their own initiative, wished to join the petition.

The text of the petition reads as follows:

Dear President Lederle:

We, the undersigned faculty members, urge you to exert your utmost influence before the Massachusetts Legislature to secure the approval of the total budget allotment requested for the CCEBS program for the year 1969-70.

The proposed budget cut would eliminate altogether the planned expansion of the program and would seriously cut into the funds urgently needed for the financial support of the presently enrolled students, of whom an amazingly large percentage plans to return in the fall. One has to be aware also of the detrimental effect such a cutback would have on the morale of this year's students, who, after all, have greatly contributed to the success of the program.

We must remember that the publicly supported colleges and universities are the only places where a significant number of the state's disadvantaged youth can be given an opportunity for a higher education. Here is a group with great potential, and it is certainly incumbent upon our public institutions nat to leave these tremendous reserves untapped.

We cannot stress enough that a well established, viable, and successful CCEBS program at the University gives muchneeded hope to our black youth and produces a more enlightened climate and a more fruitful relationship between members of all racial and economic groups on this campus.

Applications Available
FOR SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

- INTRAMURAL SUPERVISOR
- LIFEGUARD
- EDITOR, SUMMER NEWSPAPER
- BUILDING SUPERVISOR
- PART-TIME ASSISTANTS

For job descriptions and more information contact: Miss Sheila McRevey or Mrs. Lois Frey, Student Activities Office, Student Union.

Application Deadline: MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3158

Suffering from tired, hot feet?

Bolles Sandal Shop is now open with a large selection of both men's and women's sandals.

BOLLES SANDAL SHOP

Did You Know There Were
POSITIONS OPEN
for Student Senate Committees?

such as, Services, Activities, Budgets, Public Relations, and S.G.A.

Committee brochures and applications available in Student Senate Office, S.U.

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations

An Open Letter From the Dean

CAS Curriculum Revision Continues

For more than three years the College of Arts and Sciences has been engaged in a comprehensive review of its curriculum. The work so well started by the Cook Committee is now on the verge of moving into the final stages. From its beginnng students have shown opposition to the continuation of the present foreign language requirement. This opposition was forcefully voiced in the recent released comprehensive report of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate regarding the College's curriculum. In addition, this College's Foreign Language Instruction Committee recommended in its recent report that a foreign language requirement be continued, but with a wider variety of means for satisfying it.

I now invite you - as I have separately invited the College faculty - to attend a discussion of a possible alteration of the College's requirement for the study of foreign languages at a meeting to be held on Thursday, May 1, 1969 at 7:30 p.m. in 104 Thompson Hall.

In order to provide a unifying core for the discussion I offer the following two propositions, each of which might be considered a reasonable alternative to the present College requirement. The first is based on the recommendations of the Foreign Language Instruction Committee and the second has been devised by my staff on the basis of other materials and information acquired in the process of the review of this problem.

These propositions will not be voted on at the meeting. They are simply statements of positions for purposes of discussion, designed to bring out the widest possible range of pros and cons on this important issue.

Proposition I. That the present requirement that all students must demonstrate intermediate proficiency in a foreign language be retained, but that it may be satisfied by any of the following options (others may be presented for approval later): by attaining an approved standard score on a CEEB foreign-language test taken in the senior year of high school; by attaining a comparable score on a University - administered placement or proficiency test taken no later than the seventh semester; or by completing one of the sequences of foreign - language courses recommended by the College's Committee on foreign Language Instruction.

Proposition II. That the present College requirement be discontinued and replaced by a system under which students would be required to study a foreign language only as part of a major program in which command of a foreign language is recognized as an academic necessity (such a requirement to be satisfied by any of the means listed in Proposition I) with all other students being encouraged to elect the study of a foreign language.

A limited number of copies of the Foreign Language Instruction Committee's report and of a statement setting forth the reasons for Proposition II are available in my office in South College.

I hope that it will be possible to arrange a vote of the College faculty on the future of the language requirement before the end of this term. The form of the propositions to be voted on will be determined, in part at least, by the outcome of the May 1 meeting. At any rate, your ideas and your opinions will play a vital role in the eventual disposition of this problem.

Seymour Shapiro
Action Dean

TONIGHT!
AREA EAST
JUDICIARY SELECTIONS
HAMPDEN ROOM, S.U. 7:00 P.M.
For Classes of 1970 and 1971

A Mother's Day gift that will last forever.

Engrave this beautiful pewter goblet and make it a gift your mother will remember and cherish forever.
Only $7.50
at
Winn Jewelers

AREA EAST JUDICIARY SELECTIONS

Tuesday April 29, 1969 7:00 P. M.

THE DUKES ROOM STUDENT UNION

NO PRELIMINARY APPLICATION NECESSARY!

Anyone living in the Central Area, the Quad or Orchard Hill is eligible!!!

---OPENINGS---

Both MEN and WOMEN, Classes of 1970, 1971, 1972

DON'T JUST TALK — — DO SOMETHING!!!

UMass Students Sponsoring Children's Summer Camp

A group of UMass students have begun work on plans for a student-run summer camp for Pioneer Valley area children, and the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council has decided to sponsor the group, which plans to present the proposal to the administration, in hopes of acquiring an option to use University land for the camp.

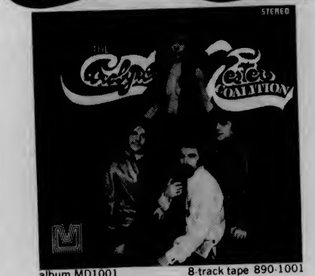
The first organizational meeting will be held at 4:00 today in the Student Union Nantucket Room, and is open to all interested students and faculty. Discussion at the meeting will center around the camp philosophy and structure, and the setting up of various research groups.

At present, James Fox, Gil Salk, Peter Thiffault, Irwin Thall, and Dawn Dudash are working on the project. They have emphasized all plans formulated are extremely flexible, and open to suggestions.

There will be no charge for the campers, who will be comprised of all types of socio-economic backgrounds, as the group plans to seek Federal and private grants, and personal contributions. Counseling jobs will be open to all University students, with the possibility of attaining work-study positions. Also, the group has contacted University departments, hoping to gain approval for giving academic credit for all who work at the camp.

Informal talks have been carried out with the administration, and the possibility for acquiring the land seems favorable. The camp will be of value to the surrounding community, and the entire University as it will emphasize harmonious living of divergent groups.

STUDY IN CUERNAVACA
SPRING TERM 1970
ALTERNATIVES IN EDUCATION
A THREE MONTH TERM



Twelve seminars on the practice and ideology of schooling, especially in Latin America, and the investigation of alternative educational possibilities. The aim is to develop a fundamental critique of existing and alternative educational systems.

Seminars are scheduled to accommodate students from U.S. Colleges (Quarter or Semester Plan) and can be combined with Intensive Spanish and other courses at CIDOC

Write:
CIDOC-SPRING 1970
APDO.479, Cuernavaca, Mexico

"...a new kind of music — not folk, not rock, not jazz but indebted to all three."
Worcester Daily Telegram

THE Carolyn Hester COALITION

album MD1001 8-track tape 890-1001

METROMEDIA RECORDS

If not available locally, you may order The Carolyn Hester Coalition album or 8-track tape cartridge by filling out the coupon below and enclosing a check or money order (please no cash or stamps) for the sum required—album $4.98, 8-track tape $6.98 (price includes postage and handling charges).

TO: METROMEDIA RECORDS
P.O. BOX 570
RADIO CITY STATION
N.Y., N.Y. 10019
Dear Sir:
Please send me The Carolyn Hester Coalition
☐ album at $4.98 ☐ 8-track tape cartridge at $6.98
I have enclosed a check or money order for the sum required.
NAME_____
ADDRESS_____
CITY_____ STATE_____ ZIP CODE_____

FROM OUR SIDE

N.E. Student Coalition for Peace

The VIETNAM War is now the longest war in American history. The fighting has raged for more than eight years. More than 33,000 Americans and countless Vietnamese have died. America's critical domestic needs have been neglected. Yet, in the spring of 1969, the war seems as far as ever from settlement.

By November 5, 1968, both major Presidential candidates were pledged to the swift and honorable settlement of this war. Both had promised that this goal would be the first priority of their administration. The results of that election committed America to peace. But peace has not come.

The New England Student Coalition believes in this nation's committment to peace. Many of them worked through political channels trying to bring it about. Since the election they have been silent, hoping for a reorientation of our national priorities and an end to our involvement in Viet Nam. The coalition fears that their silence and the silence of others in positions of prominence has been misinterpreted. They now feel compelled to raise their voices again, to reassert their continuing concern and increasing frustration as the course of the war and the negotiations remains the same.

The Paris talks have been in session for nearly a year. They have produced no tangible results. The Johnson-Nixon strategy seems to expect Hanoi and the National Liberation Front to capitulate on essentials while the United States can no longer be equated with the fortunes of the Saigon military government.

This is no way to a swift and honorable settlement. Such a settlement can only come when the United States ceases to impose its will on the Vietnamese by military force, only when it permits the Vietnamese nation to determine its own political destiny. The interests of the United States can no longer be equated with the fortunes of the Saigon military government.

Therefore the coalition proposes that the United States:

1. With draw 100,000 American troops by July 1, 1969.

2. Withdraw all American military personnel by June 1, 1970.

3. Cease bombing Laos immediately and refrain from bombing North Vietnam.

4. Immediately cease all search and destroy operations and all other offensive operations.

5. Encourage the South Vietnamese government to negotiate a political settlement with the NLF which would create a government broadly representative of all elements of South Vietnamese society. The precise character of this settlement is for the South Vietnamese to arrange, spurred to action by the certain knowledge that the propof American military support will soon be gone.

The NewEngland Student Coalition to end the war in Vietnam is circulating a petition with the above clauses throughout 30 colleges and universities in the New England area. Their goal is to get 70% of each school's student body to sign the petition.

On the weekend of May 2 and 3rd, two student representatives from each university will meet in Washington for appointments with senators and congressmen among whom are Senator Brooke and McCarthy.

We urge all students to support this movement by signing the petition in the Student Union Lobby. It is our belief that silence goes to justify. Don't justify the Viet Nam war by your silence, unless, of course, you agree with our present policy in Viet Nam.

THE EDITORS

Candidates Forum

Class of 70

President

Remember: VOTE AS IF EVERY-THING IN YOUR SENIOR YEAR DEPENDED ON IT.

Dick Kline

My concept of the role of student government has been outlined in the positive, forward-looking platform upon which I seek the office of President of the Class of 1970.

I have pledged a thorough examination of the class tax and all student fees. The class president and other officers should be the liaison for any problems (personal or academic) between students and administration and should be available for this at all times.

To further the role of class government, I feel the class officers should be involved in consultation with the administration on major policy decisions, including any action taken on demonstrators. I will also press for a system of fewer requirements with more emphasis on individual student choice of curriculum.

I will also press for the establishment of a foul weather class cancellation procedure. I will work to improve and expand parking facilities (since all seniors may register a car on campus) and to investigate the towing and ticketing procedures on campus.

I will make a concerted effort to gain the best possible speakers for the Class of 1970's commencement exercises and work for the re-establishment of an entire week of senior activities and entertainment at the end of our senior year.

I wish to thank all who voted for me in the primary and ask that you cast your ballot for me and my program today in the final election

Dear Juniors,

The role of our class government is social. This point has been belabored to the point where it is now a cliche. It is pointless for a candidate to pledge academic and social reforms unless he is running for the Senate. In the social realm the class can sponsor concerts, movies, everats by the pond and a variety of other interesting provacative and extertaining programs.

To further this role it will be my intention to extend our cooperation with DVP in bringing speakers to the campus, to hold a Fall Concert, to establish special representative committees, in conjunction with the Executive Council to decide on plans for commencement and Senior Week.

One area that the class government could involve itself in is to aid tutorial programs with funds and volunteers and to run programs for patients at Belchertown and Northampton State Hospitals.

I t is my belief that there would be a Senior Week and I am looking forward to working with the Senior Week Committee in setting it up. And this point is crucial - the officers should lead, but at all times should attempt to represent and reflect the opinions of the class and this is done through committees and open meetings. By employing this "open" system, I hope to arrive at a program of events of which we all can be proud.

A primary is to narrow the field of candidates down to two. Whether the margin be six or six-hundred it is a decision of the voters and it should be honored. Conditions such as weather, long lines, and some friends not voting affected each candidate equally; I urge you to accept the decision of last Thursday's primary.

I wish to thank all of you who voted for me on Thursday in the primary and I now ask you to once again place your trust in me.

I feel that I am qualified to hold this office through my experience on Executive Council and the Homecoming Committee. I have a program, and a desire to implement it. I ask for your support in today's election. Thank you.

Peter H. Rosenthal

Letter to Editor

In last Thursday's (April 24) Presidential primary I came in third place with 201 votes. The second place finisher was only six votes ahead of me and the first place finisher was just six votes ahead of him. Since only the first two candidates are officially selected to go into the finals, my name will not be on the ballot.

I can not honestly say that this primary gave any clear mandate to those two official candidates. The weather, the confusion at the polls, the long lines and other circumstances prevented many from voting.

Many people have come up to me since the primary and have urged me to run again with a write-in campaign.

I want this office, not for the prestige, but instead for the reforms I feel I can make in Class Government. I have been a member of the Executive Council for three years and I am tired of it being just a social committee. Class government has never done anything for its constituency - the class members.

Many students feel that class government is JUST a social committee. I ran and an still running on a platform to change class government into something that helps the class members.

I urge all those who want reform in their class government to write-in my name on the ballot in the final elections on Tuesday, April 29th.

At least vote. An apathetic constituency results in an apathetic government.

Dave Veale

Campus Comment

No Grass!

In regard to the mysterious disappearance of the grass around the campus pond, and the grass on the campus:

I say fine! A little concrete never hurt anybody! Besides, there are numerous advantages to a concrete campus. First, the administration could sell all of its lawn mowers. No one would get stuck with that horrendous job of mowing the grass (on, blasphemy!) on a hot summer day. Second, there should be a notable disappearance of mud. Third, there would be no problem with snow removal; it would be like plowing a huge parking lot. Fourth, since trees do not make a habit of growing on concrete, there would be a termination of the problem caused by fallen and dead leaves. Fifth, there would be no need for students to decide which tree to lie under on a sunny day. The fewer decisions students have to make, the less chance there is for student unrest. Sixth, the administration would have no need to worry about sit-ins; who wants to sit-in on concrete? Seventh, the students could roller skate to classes, cutting the time between them and putting us on a tighter schedule. Eighth, since the object of the administration is to increase the size of the student body, the budding city of Amherst would have no problem drawing from towns on the East Coast like Boston. And just imagine, no more campus pond to cr[illegible] arguments over rats or muskrats!

As for future plans, the Chapel should be the next to go. Then Stockbridge, South College, and Draper Hall, To hell with tradition! If it clashes with concrete, it has to go!

Of course there would be a need for some sort of off-grey uniforms for the students. After all, why destroy the symmetry? And each student could have his very own, personal student number on his back.

Then, of course, there are some disadvantages to a concrete campus. The Infirmary would be swamped with an epidemic of scraped knees. Unfortunately, Stockbridge would no longer exist. Who wants to learn how to till concrete? And the winter would bring a campus of Ice.

So, in the light of the facts, it seems that there are more advantages then disadvantages for a concrete campus here on the terrace of UMass. Therefore, I urge the student body to unite, and stick to their guns. Concrete forever! Long live the Concrete Bloc!

Ted Nahil

Moulded?

To the editor:

Yes, truly it is a wonderful world we live in, and the Universlty a mirror of it. Architects, preparing for the new era, garnish their work with granite pyramids, barren altars for the bloody sacrifices to come. Planners, keeping pace with their times, build a circular road going nowhere, all flat, near, and efficient. They call it a Mall. Funny, I would have put a building there to save the pond. Now it seems even the swans will become displaced persons - hapless victims of urban renewal. Where will they resettle them? But who would expect a society which stands unmoved by war and death to care about hundred year-old trees. Put up concrete towers instead; all the green must go. Pack more and more people into less and less space. Each one alike; moulded to fit its place. The great fear - disruption. Too many people to care about grass. Is this living? I'll not stick around in a world like that: I'll take a trip out. And when I'm gone, they can give my heart to the next 53 year-old insurance executive that needs one.

Susan Condraski

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR Pat Flanagan
STAFF Sharon Twombly, Kathy Ross
EDITORIAL Michael Darman
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS Ken Stevens, Rich McIntyre, Dave Craig
ADVERTISING Kris Mackey, Jan Palmbach

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Notices

SMILE
Socialist's Freak's Party to form on Mayday in front of the S.U.

FIRST AID
First Aid Course leading to standard and advanced Red Cross First Aid certificate. Required for Life Guards and at some summer camps. Short course. Contact Roger Gamache, 6-9021.

LECTURE ON CARICATURE AND CARTOONING
Draper Hill, author of several books on political caricature and cartooning will give an illustrated lecture tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. His topic will be "English Cartooning, from Gillray to Low." Open to all.

TBS
Important meeting of Tau Beta Sigma Thurs., Counseling Day at 11 a.m. in Rm. D, Old Chapel. Elections for next year's officers will be held.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting Sun., May 4 at 2:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers for volunteers and the Exec. Committee. All welcome. For information call Lorna Maynard at 6-6634. Sun. night volunteers from the Biafra Relief Services Foundation will be collecting in the dorms.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CHOIR
Auditions for Women's Choir (Music 165) April 30-May 6. Call Mr. Harler, 5-0532 or 5-2227 for appointment.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Celine Tung, Grad. student, will speak on "Chemical Transmission at 4 p.m. in Goessmann 51. Coffee at 3:45 p.m.

FINNISH CLUB
Slides on Finland will be shown tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Class will follow. Members please bring dues of 50c. For information call Nancy, 6-8343.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Picnic at Look Park will be Sat., May 3 at 1 p.m. Lunch (a cookout) will be provided and transportation from Whitmore parking lot at 1 p.m. Four college participation.

MILITARY BALL
Military Ball will be Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Formal dress. Tickets on sale at Dickinson Hall for $5 a couple.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Testimony meeting tonight at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. All welcome.

SCHOOL OF HOME EC: TCEA MAJORS
Open counseling session tonight at 7 p.m. for all TCEA majors in Skinner.

SCROLLS
Old Scrolls, meeting tomorrow at 6:45 in Memorial Hall, bring pins. Sign up for the Scroll you want to initiate before then.

CAMPAIGN FOR BLACK POWER CANDIDATE
Anyone interested in campaigning for local black power candidate in Newark, N.J. on weekend of May 2 or May 9, call Tony, 253-3076. Housing provided.

SCUBA CLUB
Beginners written exam and pool test will be given tomorrow in Curry Hicks at 7 p.m. If you can't make it call an instructor. Plans for the lobster bake will be discussed.

SPRING DAY
Coming soon. Bigger and better (worse?) than ever.

COLLEGIAN OPEN FORUM
Thurs., May 1 in the Ballroom, S.U. at 2-5 p.m. - Anyone having criticisms or suggestions please come.

COMING SOON
Twenty four plus twelve.

STUDENT SENATE COMMITTEES
Positions open for Student Senate Committees as follows: Services, Activities, Budgets, Public Relations, and SGA.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Regular meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rm., S.U. Exec. board meets at 6 p.m.

SOCIOLOGY 101
Sections 17, 21 and 54 will meet together Wed. at 9:05 a.m. instead of their regularly scheduled meeting places. A former writer for the Boston underground newspaper "Avatar" will speak on "The Revolution". All welcome.

WIPUO, AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
Meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Radio Rm. in the Computer Center election, budget, activities.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Coffee Hour in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. Mr. Sang Seek Park a grad. student in Gov't., will speak on Korea. All welcome.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be in WOPE tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

PINNINGS
Marie Pereira, '71, IGU, to Charles Lanzillo, Jr., '71, Sig. Ep., MIT.
Carole Hyman, '71, Crampton, to Michael Katz, '71, UMass.
Patricia Foley, '71, Patterson, to David Horne, '70, Washington.

ENGAGEMENTS
Nancy Unger, '69, Pe Beta Phi, to Eric Lekberg, '69, Delta Chi.
Donna Heiry, S. Pittsburg, Pa., to Daniel Kelly, '72, Wheeler.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Norwich University pin. Call Kathy, 112 Van Meter.
Lost - UMass class ring with initial DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Lost - Small silver ring with clear stone. Call Bob, 6-9834 or Sue, 6-9553.
Lost - 3 subject notebook containing Chem. 112 and Math 123 notes. Call Leslie, 6-7552. Reward.
Lost - Brown pocketbook. Call Joan Bentz, 5-2304. Reward.
Lost - Woman's prescription sunglasses, oval tortoise shell in SW area. Call Joyce Carlson, S-2516, S-2517, 253-9163. 253-9173.

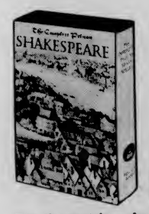
MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Amherst College Greets New Personnel Officer

Amherst College has recently announced the appointment of David F. Howland to the newly created position of Personnel Officer for the College. In this capacity Mr. Howland will be responsible for all matters relating to non-academic personnel and for the fringe benefit program of trustee appointed personnel.

Mr. Howland comes to Amherst with many years of experience in personnel matters, having been Assistant to the Corporate Director of Personnel at Sanders Associates, Personnel Advisor at Hamilton Standard and founder of Pilgrim Associates Personnel Service. He attended St. Lawrence University and graduated from Hofstra University on Long Island.

Mr. Howland has been active in community affairs such as town planning and zoning, conservation commissions and charitable drive organizations. He is also interested in restoring old homes and collecting antiques and is a member of the Heath Historical Society. During World War II he served with the U. S. Army in the European theatre of operations.



Mr. Howland is married to the former Margaret Clapp of Floral Park, New York and resides at 20 Columbia Drive, Amherst with their two children, David 19, and Martha, 16.

Draft Debates Held

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether draft boards can order college students into the armed forces for turning in their draft cards as a Vietnam war protest.

The court had been urged by the Justice Department to reject out of hand claims that the draft delinquency regulations are being used to stifle outspoken opponents of the war.

"What you do still betters what is done."
The Winter's Tale.

ANNOUNCING... THE COMPLETE PELICAN SHAKESPEARE

The thirty-eight softcover volumes that comprise the Pelican Shakespeare form one of the most highly praised and best-selling editions of Shakespeare's works ever published. The series was recently completed under the general editorship of Professor Alfred Harbage of Harvard, with individual plays edited by leading Shakespearean scholars.

Now, to fill the need for an outstanding, one-volume collection, the thirty-eight books in the series have been brought together in THE COMPLETE PELICAN SHAKESPEARE—with a new General Introduction, new forewords, full bibliographies, and a simplified system of notes. This new hardcover volume is beautifully designed and illustrated, and is packaged in an attractive protective slipcase.

THE COMPLETE PELICAN SHAKESPEARE is the one-volume Shakespeare to read and refer to . . . and to give for important occasions. Your bookstore has copies now.

Special pre-publication price
(to December 31, 1969) . . . $12.50

PENGUIN BOOKS INC
7110 Ambassador Road
Baltimore, Md. 21207

BOLD
at
CHEQUERS
TUESDAY, APRIL 29th — 9 p.m.
50c admission

THE FALL OF THE HOUSE OF USHER
and
THE RAVEN
Vincent Price
Peter Lorre
Boris Karloff
CARTOONS
SPORT SHORTS
HORROR FILMS
Wed. April 30
8:00 P.M.
Adm. 25c
S.U. Ballroom
WE DARE YOU TO COME!!
Sponsored by '72

Collegian Open Forum
THURSDAY, MAY 1st
BALLROOM — STUDENT UNION
2:00 p.m. — 5 p.m.
ANYONE having SUGGESTIONS and CRITICISMS
PLEASE SHOW UP!
Sponsored by Student Senate Services/Public Relations Comm.

Miss University

Last weekend from this group of University co-eds.....

were chosen 5 finalists including.....

Photos by Ken Stevens

.....runner-up Eileen O'Connor.....

.....and a winner....

Miss Kathy Koumjian

LAYOUT BY KEN EMERY

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8357 after 6 p.m. 5-5

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $375. Call 253-3567 after 7 p.m. 5-7

1963 Buick Special Conv., Black, std. trans., very good running condition Must sell $300. Call 256-6019. 5-1

1965 Mercury Comet, excellent running cond., new tires, very economical. Call Susan 549-1800. 4-30

1963 Austin-Healey 3000, radio, heater driving lights. Price negotiable. Fred 586-0992. 5-1

Great Buy — 1965 VW, metal sliding sunroof, radio, no rust, green/green, extremely low mileage and excellent condition. Best offer over $900. Call 549-1197 or 545-0537. 5-2

'64 F85 Olds Deluxe — well cared for, excellent condition, V8, 4-door, automatic, power steering and brakes, light blue. Must sell, make offer. Call after 6 p.m. 584-6317. 5-2

1968 VW — $1650, factory warranty. Willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-5961 evenings; 545-0400 days. 5-3

FOR SALE

12 string guitar and case, excellent condition. Call 586-2144 after 6. 5-2

Pentax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F/1.4 lens, Lens shade, 2X lens extender, rotating polarizing filter, red green filter, cable release and accessory shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-5

Mobilehome, 8 rms., furnished, ready to live in, close to Univ. and Northampton. Ex. condition. 247-3296. 5-1

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 bass, all modern features, used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350, will sacrifice for $160 — case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-2

6 pc. Colonial liv. rm. suite — Grad student couple must relocate. All pieces excellent cond., 1 yr. old., $350.00 — phone after 3:30 p.m., 323-6755. 4-17-18-28-29-30

Yamaha 256, low mileage, perfect condition, see at Phi Sigma Kappa or call Russ at 549-6174. 5-1

1 Fr. of Kosinsci Red Stars, 2 yrs. old, in good condition, 210 cm, worth $200 new. Ask for John at 546-7547. 4-30

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment. June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Nutting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-2

Roommate wanted for summer (male) — grocery people but no dropouts. Own room with furnishings, $60/month including utilities. Phone extra. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5842. 4-30

One female roommate wanted for Summer school to share my modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment. Lovely back yard. All utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

Would you like to live off Campus next year? I have a beautiful, modern, completely furnished two-bedroom apartment, and am looking for two nice, quiet female roommates. All utilities included. Close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

2 Roommates to share an apartment in Amherst Center June 1 - Aug. 30 — $77.50/month. Call 546-6647 between 10:30 and 11:00 pm. 5-5

FOR RENT

6 Room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1, 3 minute walk to Campus, Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8031. 5-5

37 Phillips St., 6 rm. apt., for 5-6 people, $250/month; furn., utilities included, June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-8307. 5-2

Summer sublet, 3 rooms furnished, quiet residential section, $85 month. Would you believe? 586-3016. Grad-students preferred. 4-30

Completely furnished 3 bedroom apartment, five miles from Campus on Bay Road, Hadley. Lease available from June 1, 1969 - June 1, 1970, $150/month. Furniture includes TV, clothes washer and dryer. Call Jerry 584-4881. 4-30

Modern 2 bedroom apartment available June 1st 1 mile from Campus. Partially furnished. Call between 5-7 p.m. 253-5864. 5-1

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-5

Summer Students — 5 room apt. in Hadley, 4 student, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Available May 1, 1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $120 including utilities, unfurnished. Sublet till Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call 253-3641. 5-1

Summer Students — 4 room apt. in Hadley, available June - August. Call 586-6418. 4-30

Sublet May 30 to Sept. 7 — 3½ room unfurnished apartment for $130 a month at Univ. Ph. Apts. Includes all utilities, telephone available. Call 256-6002 or visit Apt. 14. 4-29

House to sublet June - Sept., 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, family room with fireplace, garage. Very modern, good location. Call Marilyn or Peggy 549-2735. 4-30

3½ Rm. Apt., unfurnished, all utilities, garbage disposal, air conditioning, 6 miles from Campus. Call 665-3301 evenings. Available May 1. 4-29

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, 5½ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5719 5-7 p.m. 5-2

To sublet for June, July and August — furnished 3½ room apartment, close to Campus. Very comfortable and very reasonable. Call 549-3963. 5-1

Furnished apartment to sublet June 1 - August 31, 2 bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, dishwasher, disposal; all utilities included $140/month. Call 665-3044. 4-30

2 Bedrooms, Freudential Apts., air conditioning, dishwasher, disposal, utilities paid, washers and dryers, basement storage, walk to Campus, $165/mo. Sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, or extend lease through 1969-70 schol. year, Bruce Jorgensen 549-1188. 5-2

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus, startiar June 1. Call 586-1160. 5-2

Rooms for summer and/or fall — ideal, big kitchen, living room, parking, freedom and privacy. Three miles from Campus. A truly groovy idyllic abode. Call Steve 549-3509. 4-30

Unfurnished Apt., Colonial Village, 2 bedroom to sublet from June 1 to Aug. 31 or lease for 1 year, Call Jean 253-7459. 5-1

Apartment June 1, 2 bedroom furnished apartment in Colonial Village, $140/month, including utilities. Sublet to Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call after 5 253-5355. 5-2

Desperate — summer sub-let, Colonial Village, 2 bedroom furnished for 3 people, all utilities, $140/month. Call 253-2940 anytime. 5-5

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $130 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-5

Two furnished rooms for rent 3 miles from U.M., one $45 and one $45 a month for summer semester. Kitchen privileges if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-5

HELP WANTED

COUNSELORS wanted for boys' overnight camp at Cape. Room and Board included. The only pre-requisite necessary is an interest in kids. If interested call 546-7863. Ask for Don or Phil. 4-30

SUMMER POSITION AVAILABLE in the ladies' department at the House of Walsh. Must be able to work five days a week 9 - 5:30 starting June 1 to Sept. 1. Married student preferred. Apply in person. Ask for Miss Nanarfonis. 4-29

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 6-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 549-9794 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed. Call 586-1168. 5-2

POSITION WANTED

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

Teacher, elementary, with guidance certificate, looking for summer employment. Call 584-5924. 5-2

SERVICES

Free lance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil change, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-6118. 5-2

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Theiry, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Wanted: Research papers or term papers on "teaching reading" especially in area of secondary school, adult or speed reading. Call Springfield 5-6 p.m. 787-6109. 5-2

PERSONAL

Wanted — couple with summer apartment in Amherst needing fake address for female. Call 549-1164. 5-7

ELECT
DICK KLINE
PRESIDENT
Class of 1970
4-29

Crisci and the Rock have made peace. 4-30

WANTED

Traveling companions to Seattle, Washington. Late August or early September. Call H. Young at 549-9413 or 549-1271. 5-5

Riders wanted for leisurely trip to California, leaving around June 6. Share expenses and driving. Call Mark at 549 North Pleasant, phone 5-6171 or 256-6863. 5-5

Area Recreation is Subject of Meeting

Area residents will have a chance to get first-hand information about the proposed Connecticut River National Recreation Area when the authors of the proposal appear at a public meeting at the Amherst Regional High School tonight at 8:00 p.m.

The proposal, published last summer by the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and introduced as legislation in the Senate last week, recommends the preservation of several areas in the Connecticut River Valley for recreation and scenic purposes. The Mt. Tom - Mt. Holyoke region is included, and Tuesday evening's program will focus on this area as well as the Bureau's recommendations for the entire Valley. Roland B. Handley, Regional Director of the Bureau, and Jack Hauptman, principal author of "New England Heritage - the Connecticut River National Recreation Area Study", will present the Bureau's proposal in a program using maps, slides, and tapes. Questions from the attending public will be invited.

Magazine to be Available in SU

The editors of a student organization which may not be called YAHOO announced this morning that the second issue of the campus humor magazine will be released in the lobby of the Student Union Thursday, MAYDAY morning.

No deliveries will be made directly to dormatories or other houses that are officially considered part of the campus. Interested students are advised to flock to the heart of campus early before apathetic students make off with the entire supply of this semester's humor.

IFC Drive Raises Money with Sales

The latest fund-raising drive on the campus, the Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition (DAM) was initiated this past Saturday with a door-to-door egg sale in Amherst. Members of various fraternities and sororities joined in the collection, which netted approximately $250. The fraternities represented were Delta Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Gamma Alpha Kappa, Phi Sigma Delta, Sigma Alpha Mu, and Alpha Epsilon Pi; the sororities were Lambda Delta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

This total figure includes $50-$60 dollars collected at two Saturday afternoon concerts in Southwest.

In the future the main emphasis of the drive will be on the campus community. Other areas of the campus, outside of the Greeks, will be organized into collection groups which will canvas the dorms. Other fund raising projects will be held within the next few weeks, for example "The Assassination of God: A Celebration," in an attempt to reach the previously set goal of $10,000.

Contributions of any size are greatly appreciated. Please make checks payable to Martin Luther King Council, in 207 Hampshire House. Volunteers are also needed; anyone wishing to work please call Delta Chi at 549-0415.

Newly Created History 185 Uses Different Methods of Teaching

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

Some different news has emerged from the much belabored history department. The MDC has learned that the historians have created a new course, Hist. 185, bravely titled "New Approaches to the Study of History."

Designed as an introductory course, Hist. 185 will be launched in the fall of 1969 by Professors Stephen Nissenbaum and Paul Boyer, who hope to show students the way historians actually WORK, rather than what they have written. According to the two instructors, the fall semester will be divided into two or three units of study, each focused on a single event in American history.

"This course stresses thinking, not the mechanics of library use or proper footnote form," Boyer declared. "We will provide a carefully annotated bibliography of the relevant sources, and make them as accessible as possible. Important documents that are difficult to obtain will be distributed in mimeographed form."

Hist. 185 will meet in two sections of no more than 20 students for a two-hour period weekly, with an additional lecture hour available when needed. It is hoped that students in the fall semester will participate in the selection and formulation of topics for the spring semester. While Hist. 185 welcomes both history majors and honors students, enrollment is not restricted to members of either group.

"The course will abandon the century-a-week, cook's tour approach to history," Nissenbaum explained. "It encourages students to ask their own questions and to pursue the answers as far as they wish. You might compare it to a laboratory course in the natural sciences, in which the student actually learns the techniques of investigation for himself, instead of just studying passively the conclusions reached by other investigators."

Both instructors indicate that they are anxious to answer questions about Hist. 185, on Counselling Day or at any other time.

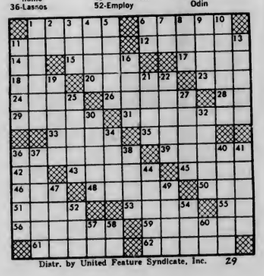
International Club
PICNIC
at
LOOK PARK
MAY 3 1 P.M.
Four College Participation Lunch (cookout) Free
Transportation: from Whitmore — 1 P.M.

CHEQUERS
presents
John Bean
for your listening pleasure
WEDNESDAY NIGHT

CONCERT ASSOCIATION
presents . . .
NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET
FRIDAY, MAY 2 8 p.m.
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
Tickets Free to UMass Undergrads
$1.50 others
Student Union Ticket Office

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



HOD SPETS SAP
EWE AARON ETA
RECORDS CAVES
LIAR SERE
GAIL ESTRANGE
RINSE TAIL OA
ESE LEARN TOD
EL LEVI CLASS
DELIVERIES INLIE
ARAB TANG
TIBET WIGGLER
ADD EDILE ERA
TOR DENTS GIM

ACROSS

1-South American animal
6-Pertaining to the cheek
11-Jumped
12-Pieces of dinnerware
14-Conjunction
15-Spreads for drying
17-Cried
18-Doctrine
20-Singing voice
23-Conjunction
24-Underground part of plant
26-Rages
28-Sun god
29-Gastropod mollusk
31-Punishment
33-Exact
35-Rockfish
36-Feels indignant at 39-Proceeds on
42-Conjunction
43-Satiated
45-Harvest
46-Equality
48-Evaluates
50-Mahoor sheep
51-Brother of Jacob
53-Shut noisily
55-Enlisted man (collog.)
56-Feels
59-Football team
61-Vapor
62-Hinder

DOWN

1-Instruction
2-Note of scale
3-Likely
4-Encounter
5-Snake
6-Member of Parliament (abbr.)
7-Man's nickname
8-Ordinance
9-Solar disk
10-Rumor
11-Dens
13-Wander
16-Break suddenly
19-Protective ditches
21-Above
22-Renovate
25-Wearies
27-More rational
30-Pertaining to the moon
32-Paths
34-Girl's name
36-Lassos
37-Wipes out
38-Places
40-Peril
41-Country of Europe
44-Erased
47-Rags
49-Transaction
52-Employ
54-Encountered
57-Babylonian deity
58-Symbol for samarium
60-Brother of Odin

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 29

1969
APR
29

Eyeing Ninth Straight Win, Redmen Host UConn

Huskies 4-11 Suffer Bad Year With Poor Hitting and Fielding

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

Shooting for their ninth straight win today, the Redmen will conclude their season's series with UConn at 3 p.m. on Varsity Field. UMass defeated the Huskies 4-1 in the northern opener.

Things haven't been going well this year for the defending Yankee Conference champs. The Huskies went 0-7 on their southern trip and are 4-4 up north - not a great showing. Their hitting has not been up to par and their fielding has not been exceptional either.

Despite all this, they do have some good pitchers who have shown well. Captain Bill Hogerty threw a no hitter at Norwich last week and this past Sunday mighty Brian Bach pitched the Huskies to a 4-1 victory over Vermont. He struck out eight, walked only two and scattered seven hits in garnering his second victory. Bach was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals last fall but spurned their offer to stay in school.

Probably pitcher for UConn today will be Bruce Drummond, the senior right hander who faced UMass in the opener. In that game he limited the Redmen to only six hits but was the victim of a three run double by Tony Chinappi.

The rest of the Husky lineup will have Bill Fiorentino at first base, Richie Friedman at second, Fred Malan at third and Jack Melan at short. Jeff Filmer will be in left, Howie Gura in center and Dale Endris in right. Ron Romaniello will don the tools of ignorance.

UMass continues to pound the cover off the ball. The team average is a robust .301 with six starters above 304. Ray Ellerbrook is swinging at a .377 clip with Bob Hansen close behind at .373. Joe DiSarcina, batting .286 a week ago, is now up to .357. His speed has proved to be a tremendous asset as he's beaten out a few infield taps for hits.

Tim Berringer follows at .321, Dick Pepin at .317, and catcher Tony Chinappi at .304. Tom Semmino and Mitch Salnick round out the starters with marks of .290 and .276 respectively.

Hansen leads the squad in RBI's with 19, runs with 19, and hits with 22. Ellerbrook is the stolen base leader with eight in ten attempts.

Don Anderson, who previously defeated UConn in the opener is the probably starter. He beat URI last Friday and should be ready by this afternoon. Lou Colabello and Norm Elliott may also see action.

UConn is the only northern team that has given the Redmen any semblance of a challenge thus far this spring. They still have a chance, however slim, of successfully defending their conference championship but they'll have to start today by beating UMass. It won't be an easy task for the Huskies, but if Drummond is on to past form, the Redmen may have their hands full.

SAFE OR OUT???-The umpire has not yet made his decision on this play from last weekend's action. (MDC photo by Gunnar Myrebeck.)

Lacrossemen Oppose Trinity Today, Seek to Remain Unbeaten

By WALT STACHURA Senior Reporter

TOM TUFTS
Redmen defensive anchors set sights on Trinity.

BILL DEVORE

Looking to extend their unbeaten streak to six, the UMass lacrosse team travels to Hartford, Conn. today to take on the Trinity Bantams in a 3:30 game.

Garber's gorillas have not played since their 21-4 rout of Holy Cross eight days ago and should be in fine shape to take on the always dangerous Bantams.

Trinity has not seen much action since returning from their southern trip. They lost a heartbreaker to Amherst, 10-9, in the last minutes of the game and bombed Nichols College, 12-4.

The close attack of the Bantams is their main strength, according to UMass coach Dick Garber. The spearhead of the offense is Charley Prentice who Garber calls "an excellent shooter."

Other high scorers for Trinity are Stowell and Wills, who have done the majority of the scoring with Prentice.

Garber expects Trinity to throw a zone defense at the Redmen to stop their powerful attack. A zone defense permits the attackers the chance to control the game but prevents them from getting many good shots at goal.

In last year's meeting between the two squads, the Redmen mounted an early 7-0 lead and cruised to a 15-5 triumph. Overall, the Redmen hold an 8-3 edge in the series between the two teams.

Statistically, the Redmen have looked very impressive at this halfway point in the schedule. In their five official games, UMass has piled up 98 goals, almost 20 per game average, while holding the opposition to 15 goals. These totals do not include a 26-10 exhibition victory over RPI at the start of the season.

The team has an added edge in winning this game because a victory will give Garber 99 wins as a UMass coach and give the team a chance to get the 100th victory before the home fans on Saturday, when the Redmen take on the UConn Huskies in a 2 p.m. game.

UMass Rugby Club Loses To Beacon Hill, 12-3, 8-3

BOSTON - Opposing the Beacon Hill Rugby Club this weekend, the UMass Rugby Club lost two contests; the A's were defeated 12-3 and the B's bowed 8-3.

For the A's it was a game full of mistakes. Due to a large number of injuries, the replacements playing for the A's did not work smoothly until late in the second half when the game was all but over.

The scrum, led by Jerry Bruen and Don Chamberlayne, showed superior strength in rucks but lost a majority of both rucks and lineouts.

The backs, with Fred Thimmel calling plays, showed good defense but a lack of scoring. Poor ball handling caused many Redmen scoring opportunities to fail in a missed pass or dropped ball.

UMass was held scoreless until wing Bob Coutore, playing for the injured Brian Leach, ran 25 yards down the sideline for a try. The conversion attempt failed, leaving the Redmen with three points. Redmen kicking was weak as they missed all five of their penalty kicks.

The "B" game was almost a repeat of the "A" game. The scrum led by Al Phillips and Bob Laurence, lost most of its ruck and lineouts. The backs with scrumhalf Dave Wade calling signals, passed well but were unable to move very far against a strong Beacon Hill defense.

Strong efforts were put in by Paul Joy at fullback and Larry Cox at flyhalf while the rest of the backfield remained untested due to the Redmens' inability to gain control of the ball.

On May 3, UMass will send seven players to the Harvard Business School Seven-Man Tournament. That same afternoon the Redmen will oppose the Newport Rugby Club in a home game at 1.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL
Academics 14, Smashers 13
Ironmen 9, Spartans 6
Seagrams 2, Bruisers 1
Tubes 7, Loggia 6
Blitzers 15, Cement 6
Lobos 4, Rogues 0
Nerves 12, Bedoinks 4
Bulldozers 20, Cool Cans 4
Lions 19, Senators 8
Black Bears 2, Hickory 1
Hi-lo's 16, Trojans 7
Education 3, Oaxicles 0
Old Timers 12, Dinks 9
Group 16, Old Men 6
Seals 18, Beadledams 4
Colt 45's 9, Mags 1
Leopards 8, Panthers 6
Patriots 5, Cougars 4
BX 13, Racoons 3
Pounders 12, Kolinkos 1
Moans 6, Tricky Dicks 3
BX 4, Tricky Dicks 3
Drakesters over Dydoxz by forfeit.
SOCCER
TSD 2, DC 0
PE over ATG by forfeit.
LCA 2, TC 0
TSP 3, AEP 2
PMD 1, TEP 0
SK over QTV by forfeit.
EP 1, QTV 0
BX 2, Zooms 0
Trojans over Roberts by forfeit.
Squares over Chem Dept. by forfeit.
Embassadors 4, Dinks 0

Frosh Lacrosse Team Bows to Brown

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN Staff Reporter

PROVIDENCE, R.I. - Meeting their first really tough test of the season, the UMass freshman lacrosse team was defeated here last Saturday by a very powerful team from Brown, 13-8. It was just a matter of the Little Redmen tiring in the second half and allowing the Brown offense to penetrate their defense.

Although the frosh led by as much as 6-2 in the first half, they were outscored 9-4 in the second half and 7-1 in the fourth quarter.

Coach Bill Carroll expected a tough game as Brown entered the contest with a 5-0 record and impressive wins over Princeton, Harvard, and Yale. Brown simply outlasted the Redmen who were possibly affected by the long bus trip.

Brown opened the scoring in the game as Nicholson put one in at 3:03 of the first period with an assist from Harper. It was the sixth straight time that Brown had scored the first goal of their game. Paul Ritch got it back quickly for the frosh as he maneuvered the Brown goalie out of position and scored unassisted at 4:20.

UMass took the lead as Bobby Waters got his first of three goals when he faked out his man and went around him for an easy score at 8:40. Waters increased the lead to two as he intercepted a pass at 12:3 2 and had an open net, putting the Little Redmen out in front 3-1. Just before the end of the first period, Dana Stone scored on a long shot and UMass left the field in good position with a 4-1 lead.

The second period seemed to be a battle between UMass' Pete Anzalone and Brown's Pearson as they were the only scorers. Pearson scored first with an assist from Defrance at 3:34, but Anzalone came back at 11:44 with an assist from Waters and at 12:06 unassisted, as he broke by a defenseman and went in alone. Pearson, however, got two more back at 13:31 from Dougherty and at 14:17 from Owens. At the half the score was 6-4 with UMass on top.

The second half was all Brown. Even though Brown completely dominated the third period they only outscored UMass 2-1 with Dougherty scoring for Brown at 4:10 with an assist from Cleere. At 9:34 Harper scored unassisted and it was obvious that Brown was coming back. But Anzalone scored his third at 6:24 from Waters so that UMass still had a shot at winning the game.

The fourth period, however, was no contest as Brown completely overwhelmed the Little Redmen. Brown scored six straight goals to open the period and from there on it was all over. Scoring for Brown were Owens, with two, Defrance, Dougherty, with two, and Pearson. By 8:31 of the fourth period the score was 12-7 in favor of Brown.

The frosh didn't give up however as Waters got his third of the game at 10:20 with an assist from Ritch when Brown was two men down. Brown was too far gone, though, and Van Collie ended the scoring at 12:02 with an assist from Harper and the game ended with Brown on top, 13-8.

Despite the score, goalie Bruce Crawford played a strong game in the nets for the Stickmen. He continually thwarted scoring bids by Brown, even after he sustained a shoulder injury in the second half. His status for today's game at Trinity is doubtful and if he is unable to play Coach Carroll will probably call on Ron Dumont to open in the nets.

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL
5 5:30 Marauders vs. Bruisers
6 5:30 Bulldogs vs. Heads
7 5:30 Holes vs. LML
8 5:30 Turtles vs. Bismorks
9 5:30 Limes vs. Aces
10 5:30 Flaming A's vs. Lemons
11 5:30 Panthers vs. Hawks
1 6:30 Lil Fellas vs. TWH
2 6:30 Avengers vs. WhWI
3 6:30 Stouts vs. GAK
4 6:30 Fishsticks vs. KS B
Bandd vs. Bucks
1 7:30 Cool Cans 2 vs. Foul Balls
3 7:30 Ironmen B vs. 5e Bags
4 7:30 Zeppelins vs. 3 M's
1 8:30 Pines vs. Eagles
2 8:30 Maples vs. Maroons
3 8:30 Elms vs. Gronts
4 8:30 Giants vs. Oaks
1 9:30 Broncos vs. Hemlocks
2 9:30 Bruins vs. Redwoods
3 9:30 Buffaloes vs. Brigade
4 9:30 Barracudas vs. Pipers
SOCCER
2 4:40 Oaks vs. Maroons
3 4:40 Hi-lo's vs. Elms
4 4:40 Lemons vs. Aces
5 4:40 Buffaloes vs. Pied Pipers
6 4:40 Flaming A's vs. Redwoods
2 5:20 TKE vs. ASP
3 5:20 KS vs. PLP
4 5:20 Panthers vs. Cougars
5 5:20 Comanchees vs. Mags
6 5:20 Leopards vs. Colt 45's

Announcements

A meeting for anyone interested in announcing sports for WMUA will be held Wednesday, April 30 at 7:30 p.m. in that station's studios in the Engineering Building. Students who will be sophomores or juniors in the fall are urged to attend.

Intramural Coed Golf Entries will be accepted until Wednesday.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 128 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1969

HANDOUT TIME AGAIN at yesterday's Class of 1970's Presidential Elections. (MDC photo by Bill Dickinson).

Veale Defeats Kline and Rosenthal By Write-in In '70 Class Elections

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

Write-in candidate David Veale was elected President of the class of '70 yesterday, defeating the candidates who beat him in the primary last Tuesday. The victory, as a write-in, is unprecidented in University history.

Veale received 280 votes, Richard S. Kline 258, and Peter Rosenthal 208. There were three blank and four void ballots.

The winner was "very, very happy." "Everyone told me that running as a write-in would be really hard," he told the MDC last night," and I didn't think that I'd do as well as I did...win by as many votes as I won by."

Veale said the key to his administration would be involving all the members of his class in senior activities next year.

"I don't believe that the President should run the class entirely by himself', he went on to say. "I'll discuss plans with the other class officers and members of the executive council, and I'll try to set up a program which will interest and involve all seniors."

Veale expressed his intention of making "class government more than just a social organization."

"I want to institute some programs to help members of the class...things like a placement or counceling night when people can come and discuss problems with departmental advisors."

"Also, I want an excellent Martin Luther King Memorial program....something more than just one talk. I want something or someone all students can take part in, listen to, and meet. Finally, I want an exciting Senior week next year, something which will interest all members of the graduating class."

Weak Franc May Shake World Monetary System

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Charles de Gaulle's resignation has raised fears of a devaluation of the French franc that could shake the world's whole monetary and trading system.

Bankers and governments are worried that some of their devices for holding the international economic situation in line have not been working as well as they should.

A flood of currency speculation, followed by devaluation and trade restrictions would hit business and employment. The increasing freedom of international exchanges, carefully cultivated since World War II, would be set back.

In November, De Gaulle refused to devalue the franc.

Since then, the French situation has grown worse. Reserves of gold and foreign currency are down, despite tough controls. Imports have continued to outpace exports. Prices have risen and so have interest rates. Without De Gaulle the government will find it harder to resist pressure for higher wages.

'Write for Peace' Continues Petition Signatures Sought

By ROSE L. MILLER
Staff Reporter

Silence is not golden for some college students as peace has not come in Vietnam and the war seems as far as ever from settlement. With this fact in mind, members of the campus Write for Peace Committee and the New England Student Coalition are asking UMass students to take pen in hand in writing "pointed letters to their Representatives in Congress" and in signing a petition asking for a troop withdrawal.

In a meeting Thursday with Project 10 to enlist their help, Ken Mosakowski, one of the members of the Write for Peace Committee, pointed out that though the two groups' ends were the same, the means are different. He said that it was a "happy coincidence that the campaigns started about the same time."

The chief difference between the two groups rises from the fact that the Write for Peace Committee plan involves extensive pressure on a local political level with students sending letters to their district representatives, while the Student Coalition petition drive will culminate in Washington May 2, with 30 New England college representatives meeting with Sens. Edward Kennedy, Edward Brooke and others, who will be given the petition signatures.

The purpose of the signature drive is summed up in the petition statement which was drawn up by a group of 4-college students aided by Amherst's N. Gordon Levin, associate professor in American Studies and William C. Taubman, instructor of political science. It reads in part, "We students believe in this nation's commitment to peace. Many of us worked through political channels trying to bring it about. Since the election we have been silent, hoping for a reorientation of our national priorities and an end to our involvement in Vietnam. We fear that our silence and the silence of others in positions of prominence has been misinterpreted. We now feel compelled to raise our voices

(Continued from Page 2)

WOULD YOU BELIEVE this is the Campus Pond? The Woodsmen Team was out there yesterday practicing for this weekend's meet at Nichols College. (MDC photo by Rich McIntyre).

Views on Student Protest. . .

Students War With Hypocrisy Says UMinn. President

(EDITOR'S NOTE - the following is the first of a two part story on the motivation behind student protest, and is reprinted from the New York Times)

By TOM WICKER

WASHINGTON- Whatever happened to Frank Merriwell and Joe College? What became of the peaceful campus and the happy fraternity house and the senior prom? How did it come about that the university suddenly finds itself whelmed by angry demonstrations and by students determined to have a voice in its governing and direction?

This new and volatile campus situation seemed to many Americans to have reached a shocking climax last week in the disclosure that black students who had seized a building at Cornell had later armed themselves, and in the Harvard faculty's decision to yield to militant black students virtually an equal voice in the selection of teachers for a new black studies program. But if the extent of the unrest was becoming ever more clear, there was still no general agreement on its rights, wrongs, motivation and prospects.

Robert Finch, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, pointed out that many universities had brought their troubles on themselves, through rigid administration, outmoded attitudes, privileged faculties, too little attention to students and too much subservience to the demands of government and business.

That view is coming to be widely accepted; but many who concede much of what Mr. Finch said still argue that radical methods of effecting change have no place in the university. President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard, speaking out after two weeks of crisis on the most prestigious American campus, declared "categorically and as emphatically as I can say it that disruption and coercion have absolutely no place in this process on this campus or elsewhere."

Then Dr. Pusey put a vital question: "Do you or do you not believe in the free and open university where the governing considerations must be reason and civility?"

Another respected academic voice - Malcolm Moos, president of the University of Minnesota - unintentionally responded. Speaking elsewhere on the same day, he said that universities themselves "fuel the destructive notion that disruption is the path to reform, by moving under the threat of chaos and doing business as usual when tensions seem low.

As for the demands of students, Dr. Moos said that when the older generation stopped to listen to what the younger was saying, "we discover quickly that our youth are at war with hypocrisy - that this is, in fact, an honest generation."

Jerome Bruner, the Harvard professor of psychology saw the student upheavals deriving not only from the university itself, but from "the nature of the society in which universities can exist." Student rhetoric, he said, "is about stopping things - R.O.T.C., the (Harvard) Corporation expansion into the ghetto. But for many students there is a new sense of starting things - a better university - a better community - a new way of taking a hand in things for one's self."

Obviously, Dr. Pusey's insistence on "reason and civility" at all odds could have little deterrent effect on an "honest generation" which in its determination to improve society generally is at "war with hypocrisy." For all too often, as today's students see things, "reason and civility" merely cloak hypocrisy and cynicism and they aim to "strike through the mask."

Student rhetoric suggests, for instance, how profoundly student movements have been affected by the undeclared and what many regard as an "immoral" war in Vietnam, and by the struggle for racial equality in America. In both cases, strong convictions have developed that the democratic processes of rational debate and majority voting have not worked, at least not well or swiftly enough.

(Continued tomorrow)

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - A constitutional amendment calling for the direct popular election of the president in place of the present system of allotting electoral votes by states won overwhelming approval Tuesday in the House Judiciary Committee.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) - A rent strike in this college town threatens to spread to other college locations next fall as students explore a method of fighting what has long been a frustrating aspect of college-high rent for tight quarters.

About 1,200 University of Michigan students are withholding rent from private landlords, depositing the money in a bank at Windsor, Ont., Detroit's Canadian sister city.

BELFAST (AP) - Capt. Terence O'Neill, making his farewell address as prime minister, appealed Tuesday night for an end to Northern Ireland's ancient feuds and warned that a government based on Protestant ascendancy must fail.

The 54-year-old former army officer blamed the defeat of his six-year efforts at bridge-building between Protestants and Roman Catholics on "the machinations of wicked men who have preached and practiced hatred in the name of God."

PARIS (AP) - Former Premier Georges Pompidou announced Tuesday he will run in the interest of continuity for the presidency abandoned by Charles de Gaulle. He received quick Gaullist support.

De Gaulle himself, however, has decided to remain neutral during the campaign to choose his successor, informed sources said.

at
THE AMHERST TOWER
purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

SPRING WEEKEND

THURSDAY, MAY 1
"Fiddler on the Roof"
4:00 P.M. Matinee
8:00 P.M. Eve Performance

FRIDAY, MAY 2

3:30 "THE FLIGHT"
7:30 Ballroom Happening 10¢
W. C. Fields & the Great Road Runner in Colonial Lounge 5¢
The Corduroy Necessity

SATURDAY, MAY 3

1-4:30 P.M. Spring Picnic
South Terrace
Painting & Sculpture Contest
Food & Beverages
THE FLIGHT
8:00 P.M. The Third World in Concert
Ballroom Nightclub
SUNDAY, MAY 4

2:00 P.M. Intercollegiate Sing
S. U. Ballroom

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Unite for Peace

(Continued from Page 1)

again, to reassert our continuing concern and increasing frustration at the course of the war and the negotiations," . . . Therefore, we propose that the United States:

1.) Withdraw 100,000 American troops by July 1, 1969.
2.) Withdraw all american military personnel by June 1, 1970.
3.) Cease bombing Laos immediately and refrain from bombing North Vietnam.
4.) Immediately cease all search and destroy operations and all other offensive operations.
5.) Encourage the South Vietnamese government to negotiate a political settlement with the NLF which would create a government broadly representative of all elements of South Vietnamese society. The precise character of this settlement is for the South Vietnamese to arrange, spurred to action by the certain knowledge that the prop of American military support will soon be gone.

--The New England Student Coalition.

Linda Zimlicki, UMass' Student Coalition representative, explained at the meeting with Project 10 that the petition is not a finality in itself, but a basis to work from.

The Write for Peace Campaign was endorsed by former Vice President Hubert Humphrey in his DVP speech.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

CHEQUERS
presents
John Bean
for your listening pleasure
WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Forty-First
UNIVERSITY and MILITARY BALL
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
University of Massachusetts
SATURDAY, MAY 10 8:00 P.M.
Entertainment by — FRAN BOTELHO — THE JEFFERSONS
Music by — EIGHTH AIR FORCE BAND
Tickets at — Dickinson Hall — April 7 - May 7
$5.00 Couple Black Tie

Hello Friend Will Hold Last Show of the Year

Hello Friend Folk Society will present its final performance of the year on Thursday, May 1, Counselling Day, at what remains of the campus pond. The concert, featuring members of the Society, will begin at one o'clock and will continue throughout the afternoon. The show will include folk music, poetry, and jug band music.

Throughout the year Hello Friend has traveled to many different locations on campus as well as off, bringing to the four college area the best in folk entertainment.

"Journey Through Media"

A journey through Media. A journey by way of media. Media surround us, entrap us, threaten to engulf us, perhaps they will save us, unite us.

To travel beyond the walls of illusion which we have come to define as reality, to reach a new level of consciousness, to live, to love, to experience what this, this totality of existance, the universe, to experience what it is. Or at least try.

Hopefully you will journey within you through media without you. Our task is to provide the Media.

How you program your consciousness is up to you. How far you travel will be determined by your honesty-with yourself.

Meditate on the word, "come" repeat it quietly to yourself one hundred and eleven times. And then, join us. Student Union Ballroom, Friday, May 2, 1969, 8:00 and 10:30 P.M.

Administrations Anti-Crime Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - A drive against the use of gambling profits to infiltrate legitimate businesses will be a key part of the administration's anticrime program.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois reported this Tuesday after an advance look at the crime message President Nixon will send to Congress Wednesday.

Dirksen told newsmen legislation will be sought to permit the government t o proceed against public officials at any level who conspire with or have other illegal dealings with gamblers and racketeers.

Congress also will be asked, he said, to pass a bill granting limited immunity in an effort to obtain testimony from reluctant witnesses.

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 AMHERST 256-6411
CINEMA I — 2nd Week!
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
An epic drama of adventure and exploration

2001 a space odyssey
ONE PERF. NIGHTLY AT 8:00
SUN. MATINEE AT 2:00
CINEMA II — NOW PLAYING!
A FILM FROM INGMAR BERGMAN
SKAMMEN SHAME
Nightly at 7:15 & 9:00

Collegian Open Forum

THURSDAY, MAY 1st
BALLROOM — STUDENT UNION
2:00 p.m. — 5 p.m.
ANYONE having SUGGESTIONS and CRITICISMS
PLEASE SHOW UP!
Sponsored by Student Senate Services/Public Relations Comm.

Massachusetts Daily Collegian Descriptive Course Guide, Fall 1969

PREFACE

The MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN is pleased to be able to publish herewith its first Descriptive Course Catalogue, covering University course offerings for the fall semester, 1969.

All of the individual course descriptions included in these pages were written by the separate faculty members teaching the courses; and represent the faculty member's own statement of what his course (or particular section of a course) will be.

This listing of courses is incomplete, as far as coverage of all courses actually offered is concerned. The DAILY COLLEGIAN has printed only those replies received by the deadline (Friday, 25 April). These descriptive paragraphs have not been edited for content - there is some variation in what is (and is not) said about each course. The DAILY COLLEGIAN has attempted only to make the general typographic format of each course description reasonably consistent.

Further, we have not, in general, printed what appeared to be merely standard course syllabi - preferring to leave these for general distribution within individual courses. In those cases where descriptions were supplied which went beyond the brief official catalogue statement, however, we have published the expanded course description.

For several reasons, primarily that of space and financial constraints, we have been unable to publish the few graduate course descriptions which were received. This directory was conceived as an undergraduate directory. We appreciate those graduate responses which did come in - we regret that it was not announced earlier that graduate listings would not be published.

The one major omission from this course listing is the School of Engineering. This should not be construed as reflecting poorly upon that School - it does, instead, reflect an editorial decision that had to be made regarding the amount of material which could be published. The constraints of space and budget alluded to earlier did make it necessary to delete; and with the knowledge of the School of Engineering, we, reluctantly, deleted their course offering descriptions (so kindly supplied last week). The lack of Engineering listings is the work of the COLLEGIAN, then, rather than the fault of no response from the School of Engineering.

We must emphasize that this descriptive catalogue is not an, or the, official publication of the University. It must not be used to replace the official Undergraduate Catalogue or the pre-registration book issued last week. The official description of each course is still contained in the University Catalogue; and the official list of courses to be offered next semester is last week's pre-registration booklet. This present descriptive course catalogue is, however, a complement to the two preceding documents; and should be used to supplement the information contained therein.

Provisional courses (labeled PROV) are subject to final approval by the Board of Trustees; and may not necessarily actually be offered in the fall of 1969.

In the compilation and preparation of this descriptive guide, the staff of the DAILY COLLEGIAN has received much help and encouragement from many individuals - we appreciate very much this assistance. We wish to make particular thanks to those individuals who wrote letters in our behalf; and to those sociology students who gave so much of their Sunday morning to help us put this thing together.

Mark Silverman
News Editor
Richard W. Story
Education Editor

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Agriculture & Food Economics

AGRICULTURAL AND FOOD ECONOMICS 235
Business Management Economics
Deane Lee

Topics: About one week is used for each of the following topics: economic principles, records and accounts, budgeting, credit, size of business, land and buildings, labor and equipment, livestock production, adjusting production to change business risks, income tax, business operation, and business analysis. A business management game is used during the second half of the semester to give each student an opportunity to apply the concepts presented in the course in a decision making context.

Examinations: Three. Short-answer questions.

AGRICULTURAL AND FOOD ECONOMICS 341
Price Theory
Dr. Christensen

Comments: The course covers the essentials of price theory in agricultural production and marketing. Emphasis is placed on the integration of economic theory, graphic analysis, and quantitative techniques in practical problems of individual and business decision making.

Topics to be Considered: Basic price theory - approximately 7 weeks; Mathematics of price theory - approximately 4 weeks; Quantitative tools of analysis - approximately 4 weeks.

Required texts: Not decided at this date (April 25, 1969).

Supplementary Materials: Mimeographed materials will be distributed throughout the course.

Prerequisites: None. Economics 125 and 126 or equivalent desirable. A knowledge of basic algebra is also desireable.

Papers: Variable

Examinations: About three hour exams and an equal number of quizzes. Homework is also assigned. Most are essay and problems. No multiple choice or true-false exams.

AGRICULTURAL AND FOOD ECONOMICS 352 (652)
Agricultural Policy
Dr. David A. Storey

Comment or remarks: The course objective is to provide a structured discussion of current policy issues relating to agriculture and the rural economy. The course is a combination of lectures, seminar type discussions and formally organized debates.

Topics: Farm price and income support programs, programs for alleviation of rural poverty and food trade and aid policies are the major topics discussed.

Required texts: Last year, Willard Cochrane, CITY MAN'S GUIDE TO THE FARM PROBLEM was the major text.

Supplementary materials: A number of supplementary materials are handed out or made available on reserve.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): No prerequisites, but Economics 125 and 126 and Agricultural and Food Economics 206 recommended.

Papers: Class members prepare short position papers on debate topics on days when they are not debating. The number of debates depends on the size of the class.

Examinations, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): Two essay type exams. No quizzes.

Agricultural Engineering

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING 261
House Planning
Curtis A. Johnson

Comments: Virtually all people prefer a home of their own; providing this planning capability widely necessary to most young adults - may well help them to become more satisfied with their building designs, as well as save money for them in their choices.

Topics Considered: A. Traditional and contemporary achitectural designs. B. Site selection and plot plans. C. Building funcitions - foundations; framing; strength of components and fastenings, and materials; relating these to functions to be served. D. Environmental control - of temperature and humidity and what structural elements are normally required to achieve such control. E. Electrical, plumbing, heating and cooling systems - components and system designs. F. Cost analysis of the total system, financing and code and zoning problems related to buildings. (A,B,and F - about 1/4 class and lab time, C,D and E - about 3/4 of class and lab time.)

Text Materials Required: (student purchase) 1. How to Plan a House - Townsend, Dalzell & Battenberg. 2. Study Guide for "How to Plan a House" - Battenberg.

Supplementary Materials: Leaflets, bulletins and other publications on related topics occasionally supplied, as needed.

Prerequisites: None

Papers: Two sets of drawings are normally done: 1. Plans for a vacation home (providing some practice for the second set). 2. Plans for a permanent residence make up the laboratory activity - each student to make his own concepts of his preferences for living facilities, the basis for his design. Normally, 7 or 8 drawings required to accomplish such a description - of various views and details.

Examinations: Usually 2 or 3 per semester-made to cover material (to date from the previous exam.) Normally combinations of filling in blanks, short discussions and problems related to topics.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING 281
Food Service Facilities Planning
S. W Fletcher

Remarks: This course is involved with the concepts involved in the design and equipping of a commercial food service system.

Topics: Programming and Planning the system 5%; Heating and Cooling Concepts in the Kitchen 10%; Area Layout 20%; Space Requirements 10%; Equipment selection 10%; Elements of comfort- Lighting, Heating, Ventilation, etc. 15%; Misc: Decoration, Fire Protection, Landscaping, Structural Material selection 10%; Basic Architectural Design Procedures 20%.

Required text: None

Supplementary Materials: Numerous handouts by instructor. Library references.

Prerequisites: None

Papers: Special Problem involving the layout of a commerical kitchen. (Drawings involving 12-14 hours). Homework problems.

Examinations: Three 1-hour exams consisting of short answer questions and problems. 6 announced quizzes, 10-15 minutes long.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING 361
Structures and Related Equipment
R.G. Light

Comment or remarks: The course covers the design of physical plants for agricultural production systems including the integration materials handling systems and waste handling. Special emphasis is given to dairy, poultry and greenhouse production systems.

Topics to be considered, with aproximate time for each: 1. Materials handling principles and equipment - 2 periods 2. Structural systems and elementary design - 10 periods 3. Environmental control - 6 periods 4. Dairy housing systems design - 5 periods 6. Greenhouse systems design - 4 periods 7. Waste handling - 4 periods 8. Utilities - 2 periods

Required texts and materials: Farm Service Buildings, Gray

Supplementary materials: Bulletins, leaflets, plans supplied by instructor. Supplemental library reading.

Prerequisites and limitations: None

Papers: Two design problems required.

Examinations, quizzes, etc: Three 2-hour exams given to cover specific course segments. Combination short answer, essay and computation.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING 381/681
Unit Operations in Food Engineering
Instructor: S. W. Fletcher

Remarks: This course involved with the fundamental engineering principles involved in the processing of biological materials.

Topics: Heat Transfer 45%; Mass and Energy Balances 15%; Psychrometry 5%; Properties of fluids and solids 15%; Fluid Flow 20%

Required text: Unit Operations in Food Processing, Earle.

Supplementary materials: Handout material by instructor. Library references.

Prerequisites: Some prior background in Math and Physics

Papers: Eight laboratory reports, 3-5 pages long. Homework problems

Examinations: Three 1-hour exams consisting of short answer questions and problems. 8 announced quizzes, 10-15 minutes long.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING 390
Instrumentation for Biological Scientists
E. A. Johnson

Remarks: To have a major problem facing research scientists in many fields is the one of chosing and applying instruments for measuring variables and controlling environmental conditions.

This problem is of special concern to biological scientists, who generally do not have the time to acquire comprehensive knowledge of complex instrumentation systems.

The Agricultural Engineering Department is offering a course designed to meet the needs of biological scientists. The course, Ag. Eng. 390, Section 1, will enable the student to evaluate instruments so that he can logically chose them to serve his purpose.

Laboratory excercise will provide practical experience with instruments.

Topics: Measurements 4 periods; Instrumentation Systems 2 periods; Physical Measurement with mechanical instruments 3 periods; Electricity and electronics 8 periods; Electrical transducers 7 periods; Signal Conditioners 6 periods; Detectors 5 periods; Controllers 4 periods;

Required texts: Cerni and Foster, Instrumentation for Engineering Measurement. (Wiley) Offner, Electronics for Biologists. (McGraw Hill)

Supplementary Materials: Brown, Instrumentation with Semi Conductors (Thomas) Platt and Griffiths, Environmental Measurements and Interpretation (Reinhold) Newman, Instrumental Methods of Experimental Biology (MacMillan)

Prerequisites: Mathematical and Physical background assumed to be nominal. Permission of instructor required.

Papers: None

Examinations: Problems and essay

Entomology

ENTOMOLOGY 126
General Entomology
T. Michael Peters and Edmund J. Wilk

Entomology 126 may be used to fulfill the E core curriculum requirements. Lectures are organized to study the insect as a fuctioning unit composed of organ systems as well as an individual reacting to its surroundings. Labs stress work with living insects.

Introduction and Evolution (4), Insect Mechanics (3), Organization and Operation of Internal Systems (3), Reproduction and Development (2), Ecology and Behavior (4), Systematics (5), Economic Entomology (3), Ross, H.H. A Textbook of Entomology, 3rd Edition; Wigglesworth, V.B. The Life of Insects.

Scientific American Reprints, The Living Cell, How Cells Transform Energy, The Genetic Code II,

No term papers required.

The hour exams and a final. Questions are primarily essays, but with some short answer types included.

ENTOMOLOGY 290
Evolution
John F. Hanson

Remarks: This course is designed primarily for Arts and Humanities students to give them a philosophical perspective on the whole universe from subatomic particle to man. The emphasis is on concepts, the integration of academic disciplines, and the how and why of things, not just on things and facts. It is a course in realistic scientific philosophy; we think the broadest such course in the world.

30 APR 003

Topics: Slightly more than half the course on life forms, highlighting a biological evolutionary look at human behavior. The remainder of the course is roughly equally split between the origin and evolution of the elements and the cosmos, the solar system and the earth, the continents and their geological formations.

Reading material: 3 paperbacks ORIGIN OF SPECIES by Darwin, STARS AND GALAXIES by Page, HOW LIFE BEGAN by Adler; a dozen Scientific American offprints and Life educational reprints on a wide variety of subjects; usually a number of timely magazine or journal articles appearing while the course is in progress.

Prerequisites: None. Impossible to have prerequisites in a course covering the whole universe: each student will have an advantage over other students in his particular area of interest or background and, therefore, no student should be at any great disadvantage. If there is a requirement, it is that you be prepared to think and look at knowledge in new perspectives.

Papers: None

Examinations: 5 (one take home). All are essentially essay exams with one question in each reverting back to old material to be sure that you continually tie the material of the whole course together in your mind. Since every exam essentially covers the course material up to that point, the final exam need count only as another hour exam.

ENTOMOLOGY 355
Classification of Insects.
Dr. Marion E. Smith

Laboratory practice in identification of adult and immature Orthoptera, Hemiptera, Coleoptera, and related groups; named collections required; lectures on taxonomic principles and insect groups studied; several written and practical hour exams.

Texts: Borror and Delong, Introduction to the Study of Insects; Chu, How to Know the Immature Insects.

Prerequisites: Entomology or Zoology; for non-majors, permission of instructor.

ENTOMOLOGY 380 and 680
Insect Control
John H. Lilly, Instructor

This is a basic course in the fundamentals, rather than the details, of modern pest insect control.

The course will be divided about equally between physical, cultural, legal, and integrated control on the one hand, and chemical control on the other.

Text: Metcalf. C.L. W.P. Flint and R. L. Metcalf, "DESTRUCTIVE AND USEFUL INSECTS". Latest Edition.

No special materials required.

Prerequisites: Entomology 126 or permission of instructor.

No more than one short paper will be required,

Three 50-minute examinations plus laboratory quizzes; all short-answer type.

ENTOMOLOGY 385
Special Problems in Aquatic Entomology
Dr. Marion E. Smith

Field collection of aquatic insects of various habitats; laboratory identification; lectures on aquatic insects, procedures for study, etc,; written and practical hour exams; individual project, named collection, and project report.

Text: Usinger, Aquatic Insects of California.

Prerequisites: at least a year of biological sciences, AND permission of instructor.

Food Science and Technology

FOOD SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY 365/665
Unit Operations
D. J. Hankinson

Comments: Two hours of lecture and one two-hour laboratory per week, 3 credits. Of possible interest, besides food science majors, to environmental engineers, chemical engineers, public health, food and nutrition and animal science majors.

Topics: Operations customarily employed in a modern dairy manufacturing plant, many of which are also utilized in other industries for modifying or treating products. Time about equally divided between centrifugation, homogenization, high temperature and ultra high temperature pasteurization, vacuum treatments, drying, freezing, automation cleaning, and fermentation processes.

Required text and materials: No text book required, no materials to be purchased. Several specific references to the above ject matter will be consulted for laboratory reports.

Prerequisites and Limitations: No prerequisites, although general chemistry, some algebra, and an interest in mechanical functions are helpful.

Papers: None

Examinations: Several short quizzes plus final exam, plus grades on laboratory reports establish student's standing.

Forestry

FORESTRY 223
Silvics
Dr. Donald L. Mader

Comments: Forest ecology as a basis of silviculture and forest management.

Topics/(periods): Introduction/1, Solar radiation/2, Light and tree growth/2, Temperature and tree growth/2, Atmosphere/1, Climate/1, Soil moisture and tree growth/1, Nutrient cycle/1, Nutrition and tree growth/1, Site concepts/1, Site factors and tree growth/1, Influence of forest on site/1, Growth and development of trees/3, Growth of forest stands/1, Regeneration of forest stands/2, The forest community/1, Succession/2, Forest classification/1, Status of forest ecology/1.

Required texts: Forest Ecology - Spurr, Ronald Press

Papers: Two, length approximately 2500 words.

Examinations: Two hour-exams, final, 4-5 quizzes. Quizzes - short answer.

Exams: combination, mostly essay.

FORESTRY 229
Forest Protection
Herschel G. Abbott

Comments: This course stresses the principles pertaining to protecting North American forests against fire, insects, disease, weather and animals. One-third of the course is devoted to fire behavior, prevention and suppression. The remaining two-thirds of the semester is concerned with the other four groups of harmful agencies.

No texts or other materials are needed although a camera is a desirable asset.

There are no prerequisites or limitations. Enrollment by non-forestry majors, especially those in social sciences, is invited.

There are no quizzes. Two hour exams and a final are normally given.

A major requirement of the course is a paper of approximately 2500 words, written in the form of a manuscript to be submitted for publication in a professional journal. Papers are edited by the instructor and returned to the student for revision prior to final grading. Special concern is given to permitting the individual student to select a subject of his own choosing and to investigate it thoroughly by library or field research.

Wildlife Biology

WILDLIFE BIOLOGY 261/561
Principles of Wildlife Management
Mr. Greeley

Comment: Taken principally by students in Forestry, Fisheries and Wildlife but open to others. At least basic biological background advised.

Topics to be considered: Three broad topics are considered with about equal emphasis; (1) development and management of wildlife habitat, (2) population structure, dynamics and exploitation; (3) history of wildlife resources and wildlife habitats.

Required text: Dasmann, R.F. 1964. Wildlife Biology John Wiley & Sons.

Supplementary materials: Leopold, A. 1949. A Sand County Almanac. Oxford Univ. Press, Paperback Edition 1968.
Smith, R.C. 1966. Ecology and Field Biology. Harper and Row 1966.

Prerequisites: none although most participants have taken basic Zoology and Botany.

Papers: none

Examinations: 2 1-hour, plus final-short answers, short essay.

Wood Technology

WOOD TECH 201
Wood Anatomy and Identification
Instructor: R. Bruce Hoadley, Assistant Professor, Wood Science & Technology

Remarks: Course is designed to provide a basic understanding of the anatomy of wood at the macro, micro and molecular levels. Commercially important timber species are considered and emphasis is on characteristics which relate to the technology of conversion of these engineering material products and to the intelligent use of these products.

Topics: (number of lecture): Origin of Wood (1), Tree Growth (1), Gross features (1), Woody plant cell (2), Minute Anatomy-conifers (5), Minute Anatomy-hardwoods (6), Variability of structure (1), Figure in wood (1), Defects and abnormalities-Natural, Manufacturing and biological (5), Wood as an engineering material (1), Review (1).

Required text: Panshin and DeZeeuw. 1964. Textbook of Wood Technology, Vol. I, McGraw Hill.

Supplementary materials: 10x Hand lens: knife or razor blades.

Prerequisites: Botany 100 (or special permission)

Papers: None

Exams and quizzes: Lecture: 3 hour exams, 8 10-minute quizzes (all types of questions). Laboratory: 3 quizzes (practical) 7 lab exercises (ungraded)

Park Administration

PARK ADMINISTRATION 160
History & Philosophy of Parks
Hugh C. Davis

A general review of the park and conservation history of this country. The concentration is on public government agency resource and land policy from 1700 to the present. Development of the national parks and forests and major natural resource legislation is treated in detail. No prerequisites or limitations. Mid-term and final essays. Two quizzes are short answer types.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCE 110
PLANT PROPAGATION
George B. Goddard

A detailed study of the propagation of plants. In lecture, emphasis is placed on the principles and concepts of sexual and asexual propagation. Laboratories deal with the practices involved that ramify the lecture discussions through the propagation of a wide variety of plant material.

Topics to be covered are: Structures (1 week), environmental requirements, (1/2 weeks) cuttage, (2 1/2 weeks) layerage, (1 week) graftage and buddage, (2 1/2 weeks) seedage, (4 weeks) dormancy, (1 1/2 week).

Required text: Hartmann & Kester. Plant Propagation, Principles and Practices. Assigned readings from reference materials. Each student will be expected to provide a pocket knife.

Prerequisites: Introductory botany or being taken concurrently.

Papers: One term paper, length determined by student.

Exams and quizzes: Two hour exams and a final (Essay) Unannounced quizzes (2-3 minutes in length)

Final Grade Determination: Exams and Quizzes 1/2, Labs 1/2.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 200
Deciduous Orchard Science
Mr. James F. Anderson

Topics considered in this course are: Environmental and economic factors relating to the establishment and operation of deciduous orchards; planning the orchard; propagation, rootstocks and planting stock, nutritional requirements and fertilizer practice, Orchard soil management; flowerbud formation, pollination and fruit-set; thinning and alternate-bearing; temperature effects on fruit trees; preparing the orchard for winter; study of the important tree fruit varieties.

Required Text: Modern Fruit Science, 4th Edition, N.F. Childers. Research and extension bulletins and scientific journals are used for supplementary reading assignments.

Exams and quizzes: All examinations and quizzes are announced. Both essay and short answer questions are employed.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCE 205
Small Fruit Technology
James F. Anderson

Fruits discussed in the course include blueberries, cranberries, currants gooseberries, grapes, raspberries and strawberries.

Topics considered in the course are: Environmental and economic factors relating to the establishment and operation of a small-fruit planting; propagation and selection of planting stock. Planting plans and factors affecting their choice; soil management systems, nutrient requirements and fertilizer practice; weed control; pruning and training; temperature effects; major prolbems; varieties and harvesting.

Required Text: Modern Fruit Science, 4th Edition, N.F. Childers. Several other books and various experiment station publications are used for supplementary reading assignments.

Prerequisites: There are no prerequisites, but an interest in the subject is desirable.

Exams and Quizzes: All examinations and quizzes are announced. Both essay and short answer questions are employed.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCE 230/530
Plant Nutrition
Dr. Donald N. Maynard

Topics to be considered: The uptake (30%), transport (10%), distribution (10%), mechanism of action (50%) of plant nutrients.

Required texts and materials: Sutcliffe-Mineral Salts, Absorption in Plants, Steward - Plant Physiology - Vol. III.

Prerequisites: Bot. 2il or equivalent

Papers: Term paper

Examinations: Essay hour exams (3).

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 235-535 (1)
Taxonomy of Economic Plants
Alfred W. Boicourt

Remarks: "Short-cuts" to the identification of useful plants. Accurate plant identification is essential for scientific plant research, for food crops and medicine, for landscape planting and conservation. Students are given the opportunity to dry and mount plant specimens in their own field of interest using the department's facilities.

Topics: Thirty-five plant families are stressed. Time for each family depends on majority interest of the class.

Required Texts: L. H. Bailey's "Manual of Cultivated Plants" recommended. Substitutes will be allowed.

Supplementary Materials: Students making large herbarium collections must provide mounting paper.

Prerequisites: None.

Papers: None.

Examinations: 3 plus final (both essay and short answer).

Quizzes: Weekly identification.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 255/555
Agrostology (Study of Turf Grasses)
Dr. Joseph Troll

Topics: 1. Turf grasses and their adaptations, identification, soil relationships, propagation and maintenance (35%). 2. Insect, disease and weed problems of turf grasses and their control (35%). 3. Golf course design, architecture and construction (30%).

Text: Musser - Turf Management.

Prerequisites: Introductory Botany.

Papers: One term paper.

Examinations: Essay hour exams (2 or 3).

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 260/560
Ecology and Control of Weeds
Jonas Vengris, Associate Professor

Topics: I. Definitions, weed classification, identification, reproduction, ecology, economics (4 weeks). II. Preventive, mechanical and biological means in weed control (1 week). III Chemical weed control: physiology aspects, common herbicides (5 weeks). IV. Special weed control problems: field crops, horticultural crops, brush control, woody plants, highways, turf, aquatics, specific noxious perennial weeds (4 weeks). V. Weed control equipment (1 week).

Text: Klingman, G.C. Weed Control: As A Science or Crafts, A.S., AND W.W. Robbins, Weed Control.

Required: One term paper (3-10 pages in content)

Exams: Three quizzes, weed identification exam, three 1-hour exams, final

Remarks: Detailed syllabus available upon request.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 265/565
Soil Formation and Classification
Dr. Martin Weeks

Topics: 1. Soil as a concept and physical entity. 2. The nature of the soil profile. 3. Soil capability classes. 4. Soil forming factors and processes. 5. Soil classification.

Reference texts: G.W. Robinson -Soils, Their Origin and Classification. C.F. Marbut - Soils, Their Genesis and Classification. Soil Survey Manual - U.S.D.A. Handbook No. 18. K.D. Olinka - The Soil Group of the World. J. Joffe - Pedology.

Prerequisites: Introductory Soils.

Papers: One term paper.

Examination: Essay hour exams (2 or 3).

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 275-575
Soil Chemistry
J. H. Baker

Topics: Chemical properties of soil clay minerals, 6 Lec. Hour, Cation-exchange properties of soils, 4 Lec. Hour, Soil Acidity, 4 Lec. Hour, Phosphate reactions in soils, 4 Lec. Hour, Oxidation-reduction reactions in soils, 2 Lec. Hour, Trace element, 2 Lec. Hour, Chemical reactions of pesticides with soils, 2 Lec. Hour.

Required text: None.

Supplementary materials: None.

Prerequisites and limitations: Plant and Soil Sciences 265, Chen. 127.

Papers: None.

Examinations: Two "hour exams" and final exam - essay.

PLANT AND SOIL SCIENCES 280
Soil-Plant Nutrition
Mack Drake

Comment or remarks: 2 lectures, 2-hour lab/wk.

Topics to be considered: Historical development, Liebig's Law of Minimum, Physi-chem properties of soil colloids, Mgt. acid, saline, alkaline soils; Nitrogen, Phosphorus, Potassium; Calcium, Magnesium, role, availability, deficiency symptoms; Micro nutrients Mn, Cu, B, Zn, Fe, Mo, etc. Use of plant analysis in diagnostic technique to improve crop yield and quality.

Required texts and materials: Black, Soil-Plant Relationships.

Supplementary materials: Assigned references.

Prerequisites and limitations: General Chemistry; Plant and Soil Sciences 105

Papers: 1 term paper, approximately 20 pages.

Examinations, quizzes: 2-hour exam, 5-7 quizzes (10 minutes.

Plant Pathology

PLANT PATHOLOGY 251 (551)
Plant Pathology
George N. Agrios

Comment: Plant Pathology is a 3-credit course with one 1-hour lecture and two 2-hour lab periods per week. The course deals with the study of the nature of plant diseases, the kinds of pathogens that cause disease in plants, the mechanisms by which diseases are induced and develop, and the methods of control of plant diseases. Representative diseases from each group are studied in detail in the laboratory.

Topics covered: a) In lecture: Parasitism and disease development, Variability in pathogens. How pathogens attack plants (Enzymes, Toxins, Growth regulators, Polysaccharides). Pathogen effects on plant physiological functions (Photosynthesis, Translocation, Respiration). How plants defend themselves against pathogens (structural and biochemical defense mechanisms). Genetic controls of plant resistance and of pathogenic virulence. Effect of environment on plant diseases. Control of plant diseases (Regulatory, Biological, Cultural, Physical, Chemical).

b) In lab: Plant diseases caused by fungi. Plant diseases caused by bacteria. Plant diseases caused by parasitic higher plants. Plant diseases caused by viruses. Plant diseases caused by nematodes. Environmental factors that cause diseases in plants.

Text: Plant Pathology, by George N. Agrios, Academic Press, New York. 629 pp. 1969.

Prerequisite: One course in Botany. Term Paper: One paper on a disease or plant pathological topic of interest to the student. 6-12 pages.

Examinations: Three half-hour examinations plus final. All exams essay-type.

PLANT PATHOLOGY 269 (569)
Forest and shade tree pathology
Walter M. Banfield

This course consists of studies of the principal diseases of forest and shade trees in North America. The first ten days is spent in studies of the major classes of fungi, since practically all the diseases of trees are caused by fungi. This is followed by an exploration of environal deficiency diseases, the diseases of forest nursery stock, root follar, and stem diseases of conifers and broad leaved trees. The interplay of environment, insects, and man's activities that have led to the rapid spread and extreme destruction brought about by such diseases as Chestnut blight, White pine blister, Dutch elm disease, and Oak will are considered in detail. The course terminates with a survey of wood decay in standing timber, but does not consider the individual rots in detail.

The material is first presented in lectures based on assigned reading, which is then supplemented by actual study of the diseases in the laboratory, using specimens, prepared microscope slides and display charts, after which there is a brief weekly review and discussion period followed in turn by a 20 minute quiz concerning the subject matter covered in the preceding week. This evaluation procedure is supplemented by an hour examination each month and the usual two hour final examination.

The laboratory work is supplemented by field observations and study wherever diseases material is near enough to make this practicable. A written report is required only for subject matter studied in the field. The textbook used is "Forest Pathology", a McGraw Hill publication by John S. Boyce.

Restaurant and Hotel Administration

HOTEL AND RESTAURANT
Administration 100
Introductory.
D. E. Lundberg

The course is for students who think they may want to major in Hotel and Restaurant Administration. It provides an understanding of the development and scope of the hotel and restaurant field, emphasis on the period after 1900. One lecture each week by a person prominent in the field, the lecture selected to illuminate a particular aspect of the field such as resort management, large city hotel management, the specialty restaurant, club management, international hotel keeping, economic feasability studies, the motel, industrial food service, school and college food service, hotel sales, restaurant market studies, wine production and service, electronic data processing for the food service field, creole cookery, the frozen meal, the development of a food product, and similar topics. Two additional lectures weekly by the instructor. The text book is a new book, THE HOTEL AND RESTAURANT BUSINESS. Biographies of Ellsworth Statler and Ernest Henderson are also assigned. By-weekly quizzes, three examinations of the objective type. No papers.

Veterinary and Animal Science

ANIMAL SCIENCE 353
Poultry Management
Mr. Grover

Course is designed to aid in the application of technology to the role of management in the agribusiness firm. Emphasis is on decision-making principles using the poultry industry as the model. Best suited to Animal Science majors in Junior or Senior Year. Term paper relates to the organization and development of a firm associated with the poultry industry. Essay-type examinations. Field trip to observe the organization and operation of firms having integrated production, processing and marketing responsibilities.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCE

Comparative Literature

LITERATURE 201
Modern European Literature, I
Mr. Deaver

Examinations: Midterm, No; Quizzes, No; Final Exam: Yes; Term Paper: Yes (1 10-12 pages)

Texts: THE WILD DUCK, THE CHERRY ORCHARD, MISS JULIE, THE BALCONY, WAITING FOR GODOT

LITERATURE 202
Modern European Literature, II
Mr. Moebius

Not recommended for beginners in literature)

Examinations: Midterm: Yes; Quizzes: No; Final Exam: Yes; Papers: 2 or 3 (one 2500 words, others shorter)

Texts: Readings in: D.H. Lawrence, Thomas Mann, Marcel Proust

LITERATURE 203
The European Novel: Man and Society (C)
Mr. Levine

Examinations: Midterm: No; Quizzes: No; Final Exam: Yes; Term Paper: One, (20 pages)

LITERATURE 211
European Literature of the Middle Ages I (C)
Mr. Schroeder

Examinations: Midterm: No; Quizzes: No; Final Exam: Yes; Term Paper: 2 or 3 (5-8 pages)

Texts: PENGUIN BOOK OF FRENCH VERSE, PENGUIN BOOK OF GERMAN VERSE, LYRIC POETRY OF THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE, TRISTAN and others.

LITERATURE 231
Modern African Literature (C)
Mr. Cassirer

LITERATURE 241
The Chinese Literary Tradition I (C)
Mr. Miller

Texts: ANTHOLOGY OF CHINESE LITERATURE, THE PENGUIN BOOK OF CHINESE VERSE, APPROACHES TO THE ORIENTAL CLASSICS, A SHORT HISTORY OF THE CHINESE PEOPLE, AN INTRODUCTION TO CHINESE LITERATURE, THREE WAYS OF THOUGHT IN ANCIENT CHINA.

LITERATURE 243
Japanese Literary Tradition I (C)
Mr. Naff

Texts: Main text to be selected, JAPANESE COURT POETRY, THE TALE OF GENJI, THE MANYOSHU, TRANSLATIONS FROM EARLY JAPANESE LITERATURE and others.

LITERATURE 251
Chinese Literary Genres I (C)
Mr. Miller

Texts: ANTHOLOGY OF CHINESE LITERATURE. LAO TZU: TAO TE CHING. THE WAY OF THOUGHT IN ANCIENT CHINA, THE ANALECTS OF CONFUCIUS and others.

LITERATURE 321/621
Renaissance Perspectives
Mr. Levine

Examinations: Midterm; No; Quizzes: No; Final Exam: Yes; Term Paper: One (20 pages)

LITERATURE 331
The Enlightenment (C)
Mr. Fleischmann

Examinations: Midterm: Yes; Final Exam: Yes; Term Paper: Yes

Texts: SELECTED POETRY AND PROSE, GULLIVER'S TRAVELS AND WRITINGS, RASSELAS, POEMS, AND SELECTED PROSE, THE CONFESSIONS, CANDIDE, and others.

LITERATURE 352
Modern Drama (C)
Mr. Moebius

Examinations: Midterm: No; Quizzes: No ; Final Exam: Yes; Papers: Two (one 2500 words or more, one 1500 words)

Texts: Readings in: Dada, Surrealist, and Absurd Drama

Linguistics

LINGUISTICS 201/501
Introduction to Linguistics
D. C. Freeman

An introduction to modern descriptive linguistics. Introduction to articulatory phonetics; syntactic analysis; phonology. Linguistic theory and its relevance to cognitive psychology and philosophy of mind.

Texts: Langedoen, THE STUDY OF SYNTAX (Holt, Rinehart & Winston); Harms, INTRODUCTION TO PHONOLOGICAL THEORY (Prentice-Hall); Langacker, LANGUAGE AND ITS STRUCTURE (tentative) (Harcourt, Brace & World); Chomsky, LANGUAGE AND MIND (Harcourt, Brace & World).

No prerequisite (Graduate course). A short term paper (8-10 pages). Two hour exams and a final, mostly essay questions.

LINGUISTICS 203/503
Syntax
Mr. Binnick

Comment: An introduction to the abstract principles underlying human language behavior, from the standpoint of transformational grammar. Two texts are required: ASPECTS OF THE THEORY OF SYNTAX by N. Chomsky, and ENGLISH TRANSFORMATIONAL GRAMMAR, by R. Jacobs and P. Rosenbaum.

Anthropology

ANTHROPOLOGY 102
Introduction to Archaeology
Dr. Donald Proulx

Remarks: An introduction to the history theory and methods of archaeology with an outline of the main characteristics of the prehistoric record throughout the world.

Topics to be considered: History of archaeology, 1 week; Concepts of time, space and culture, 2 weeks; formation of sites; stratigraphy; material culture and preservation; site survey, 2 weeks; The excavation of a site, 1 week; Classification and typology; Seriation; Reconstruction and interpretation, 2 weeks; Theoretical considerations, 2 weeks; Survey of Old World Prehistory, 3 weeks; Survey of New World Prehistory, 2 weeks.

Required texts: To be determined

Prerequisites: none

Papers: none

Examinations: 2 hour exams and a final

ANTHROPOLOGY 105
Introduction to Linguistic Anthropology
Zdenek Salzmann

Comment or remarks: Designed to acquaint students with the fundamentals of language structure and some of the methods of linguistic analysis; and to explore the nature of language in the context of communication and of culture as a whole. (Revised to favor anthropological content.)

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Culture, communication, and language defined--1week; biocultural roots of language--1 week; language structure (and linguistic analysis)--5 weeks; language history and prehistory--2 weeks; concept of linguistic relativity--1 week; covariation of language and society--1 week; linguistics and cultural anthropology: concepts and methods compared--1 week; methods of fieldwork in linguistic anthropology and trends of current research--1 week; ethnosemantic (campus or community) field study--1 week.

Required texts and materials: Chao, Yuen Ren, LANGUAGE AND SYMBOLIC SYSTEMS (London: Cambridge University Press, 1968; paper), Gleason, Henry Allan, Jr., WORKBOOK IN DESCRIPTIVE LINGUISTICS (New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1955; paper), Greenberg, Joseph H., ANTHROPOLOGICAL LINGUISTICS: AN INTRODUCTION (New York: Random House, 1968; paper).

Supplementary materials: Selection of representative books and periodical articles on library reserve; manuscript chapters by instructor for discussion and critique in class.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): None.

Papers (length and number): Paper (topic to be approved) accepted in lieu of final examination if submitted before final examination date.

Examination, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): Two short-answer tests (30 minutes each); two tests involving linguistic analysis (full period each); final examination (or paper; see above).

ANTHROPOLOGY 234/534
Primitive Art
Mrs. Carol Jopling

Remarks: A survey of the aesthetic and cultural aspects of the visual arts of primitive societies in sub-Saharan Africa, Oceania and North America. Emphasis will be given to the function and meaning of art in society.

Required texts: to be determined

Prerequisites: Anthropology 104 or Art 115 or permission of the instructor

Papers: to be determined

Examinations: to be determined

ANTHROPOLOGY 375/675
South American Archaeology
Dr. Donald Proulx

Remarks: A survey of the pre-Columbian cultures of South America and their development, with special emphasis on the Andean area.

Geographical Background ; History of Geographical Background; History of archaeological work in South America, 2 weeks; Early Man in South America, 1 week; Peruvian Archaeology, 5 weeks; Colombian Archaeology, 1 week; Ecuadorian Archaeology, 1 week; Bolivian Arccaeology, 1 week; Chilean Archaeology, 1 week; Venezuelan Archaeology, 1 week ; Lowland Archaeology, 2 weeks.

Required Texts: to be determined

Pprerequisites: Anthropology 102 or permission of instructor

Papers: Voluntary

Examinations: 2 hour exams plus a final.

Biochemistry

BIOCHEMISTRY 220
Elementary Biochemistry
Robinson

Topics: Aqueous solutions 1 wk; Carbohydrates 2 wks; Lipids 2 wks; Amino Acids and Proteins 2 wks; Nucleic acids 1 wk; Enzymes, energy 3 wks; Control mechanisms 1 wk.

Required text: Undecided as yet.

Laboratory (required for undergraduates) One 3-hour period per week; 7 laboratory reports per semester; laboratory counts for 1/4 of total grade.

Prerequisites: Completion of organic chemistry (263, 264 or 160; most students have had 160)

Papers: None except for laboratory reports.

Examinations: Three hour examinations, mostly short answer. Final Examination covers the whole course.

Remarks: While there is no separation into quiz sections, the third lecture hour is used for discussion, review, ungraded quizzes, etc, Enrollment is expected to be about 50 undergraduates and 15 graduate students. The majority of the undergraduates are majors in Medical Technology with an additional sizable group from Home Economics. Grades last year were 2 A's, 10 B's, 40 C's, 13 D's, and 3 F's.

BIOCHEMISTRY 223(523) General Biochemistry
H. N. Little

Comments: The course is designed to give a thorough grounding in the fundamentals of biochemistry. It is required for students majoring in biochemistry and is recommended for those students whose professional objectives require an intensive training in the field (e.g. graduate work in closely allied areas). The class in past years has had about an equal enrollment of graduate and undergraduate students. It is the first semester of a two semester sequence. Completion of both semesters is essential for a comprehensive training, although students may register for only the first semester. The more qualitative and descriptive aspects of the subject are emphasized in the first semester whereas the quantitative and physical aspects are emphasized in the second semester. Physical chemistry is required for the second term. Topics: Protein and enzyme chemistry 1/3. Carbohydrate chemistry and metabolism 1/3. Lipid chemistry and metabolism 1/3. Texts: Probably White, Handler and Smith: Principles of Biochemistry. Prerequisites: Solid foundation in quantitative chemistry and organic chemistry (two semesters). Physical chemistry helpful. Papers: None, some problem sets. Examinations: Three or four hr. exams and final.

30 APR 03

Botany

BOTANY 121
Plants and Environment
R. B. Livingston

Comments: Course relates to man's impact on his environment, as well as mankind's limitation by the World's environments.

Topics to be considered: One field trip or lab per week to display environmental effects on plants and plant communities. 2 lectures per week deal with environment-plant-man interactions, including problems of population, food production and possible famine, as man destroys his environment.

Required texts: Two paperbacks - Billings, Plants and Environment, and Johnston, Social and Natural Biology.

Supplemental materials: 10 Science and Scientific American reprints.

Prerequisites and limitations: Any Intro. Biology course. Capacity - 24 to 30 Non-Science students.

Papers: None.

Exams: 3 combination essay and short answer for 90%. 10% for individual participation.

BOTANY 125
The Plant Kingdom
Dr. H. E. Bigelow

This course surveys the life histories and structures of representative organisms in most of the major plant groups. The bacteria, slime molds, fungi, algae, mosses, ferns, and conifers are among those treated. Lectures supplement the text and include the role of various plants in the affairs of man. Laboratory work emphasizes the structures and relationships of organisms. These are studied by demonstration and individual work with a microscope. Living specimens, preserved or dried material, and microscope slides are used, and emphasis is on the regional flora. Students are expected to record their laboratory observations in a notebook. A field trip to observe plants in their habitats is included in one lab period.

Text: "Morphology of Plants" by H. C. Bold.

Laboratory Materials: Notebook cover, drawing paper, 4H pencil (specimens and laboratory tools furnished).

Supplementary readings in "Scientific American".

Prerequisites: Botany 100 or 101.

Examinations: Two 1 hour exams (mixed short answer and essay). Final (short answer). Three laboratory quizzes.

149
BOTANY 303- 304
Plant Morphology

First Semester: Fld. trips 2*; Fungi, Lichens 7; Algae 10; Bryophytes 5.

Second Semester: Fld. trips 3; Non-seed bearing vascular plants 9; Gymnosperms 6; Angiosperms 6.

*Each period - 4 hours.

Instructors: Biehorst, Bigelow, Schuster, Wilce.

Comments: The course is designed to give students a working knowledge of various plant groups and the dynamics of their evolution at a more comprehensive level than the one semester course in the Plant Kingdom. It will be taught at an advanced undergraduate level.

Prerequisites: Introductory Botany or permission of instructor.

Examinations: About 6 per semester, some lab practicals, some lecture type.

Texts#: Alexopoulos, C. J. & H. C. Bold. Algae and Fungi. Parihar, N. S. Bryophyta. Foster, A. S. & G. M. Gifford, Comparative Morphology of Vascular Plants.

#for both semesters.

Chemistry

150
CHEMISTRY 101
"General Chemistry for Non-Science Majors"
Members of General Chemistry Staff

Comments: Chemistry 101, 102 is designed for the humanities and social science majors, but is appropriate for others. This sequence can be used to satisfy the University core requirement and the College of Arts and Sciences requirement ONLY if BOTH Chemistry 101 AND 102 are satisfactorily completed. Chemistry 102 will satisfy the prerequisite requirement for Chemistry 160 (Organic), Biochemistry 120 (Introduction to Biochemistry), and Biochemistry 220 (Elementary Biochemistry). It does not meet the entrance prerequisite for Chemistry 127, 261, 281, or any of the other advanced chemistry or biochemistry courses. If there is a question as to which of the three General Chemistry sequences the student should enroll in, the student's major department should be consulted.

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Matter and Energy, Atomic Theory, Atomic Structure, Periodic System, Forces between Atoms, Nucleonics - 11 class hours. Origin of the Universe - 2 class hours. Energy effects and some physical properties of solids, liquids, and gases - 3 class hours. Some Quantitative Aspects of Chemistry - 4 class hours. Solutions - 4 class hours.

Required texts and materials: Textbook - not yet chosen. Chemistry 101-102 Workbook. Chemistry Laboratory Notebook.

Prerequisites: None.

Limitations: See above under "Comments."

papers: None required.

Examinations and Quizzes: The grade in Chemistry 101 will be calculated approximately as follows:

2 hours exams at 100 pts. each	200 pts.
Approximately 8 quizzes	140 pts
Notebook and judgment grade	100 pts.
Miscellaneous	40 pts.
Final Examination	150 pts.
Total	630 pts.

A student having 530 points would have the equivalent of 530/630 - 84% which would be converted to a B on a letter grade system. The staff reserves the right to fail any student who has not completed all of the work in the course. Hour exam dates are announced at the beginning of a semester, and a detailed announcement listing material covered and room assignments will be posted on the course bulletin board approximately ten days prior to each examination. Quizzes are not announced, but should be anticipated at every quiz meeting. Students are not required to make up the first quiz missed during a semester. The missed quiz will not be counted in determining the course grade. Students who do not miss a quiz will have their lowest quiz grade dropped in determining the course grade. The notebook and judgement grade for Chemistry 101 is arrived at by the demonstration-quiz instructor on the basis of attitude, aptitude, and participation and the notebook writeup. The notebook writeup of demonstrations and experiment is as important an item of written work as are the hour exams, quizzes, and final examination. It is the original record of the results of the experimental work. The same honesty rules as apply to the writing of an examination apply to the notebook writeup. Though the student may frequently profit from discussion of the work with fellow students, it is recommended that help be normally obtained from the instructor. Hour exams normally consist of numerical problems and short-answer questions.

CHEMISTRY 111
GEN
General Chemistry for Science Majors
Staff

Comment or remarks: Designed for students who will take additional chemistry.

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Atomic and Molecular Structure - 5 weeks. Gas State - 2 weeks. Solutions - 2 weeks. Acid-Base Theories - 1 week. Thermodynamics - 3 weeks.

Required texts and materials: Text (undecided), General Chemistry Workbook and Laboratory Manual.

Supplementary materials: Lab notebook, slide rule, safety glasses.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): None.

Papers (length and number): None.

Examinations, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): 2 hour examinations, 1 final examination, weekly quizzes, laboratory grades. The system used for compiling grades is the same as that described for Chem 101 except that the lab instructors determine the lab judgement grade.

CHEMISTRY 113
General Inorganic Chemistry
Staff

Comments or remarks: Oriented toward chemistry & chem engineering majors; quantitative with emphasis on problem solving.

Required texts and materials: Mahan's "University Chemistry"; General Chemistry Workbook and Laboratory Manual.

Supplementary materials: Lab notebook, slide rule, safety glasses.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): High School chemistry.

Papers (length and number): None.

Examinations, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): Weekly quizzes, 3 hour examinations, 1 final examination, laboratory grades. Variety of short-answer and problem solving. Grades compiled same as for Chem 101 & 111.

CHEMISTRY 160
Organic Chemistry,
G. W. Cannon

A one-semester course in organic chemistry.

Required text: Hart and Schuetz, ORGANIC CHEMISTRY, 3rd ed., Hart and Schuetz, LAB MANUAL FOR ORGANIC CHEMISTRY, 4th Edition.

Prerequisites: Chemistry 102 or 112.

Papers: none

Examinations: Short quiz each week, four hour exams.

CHEMISTRY 165
Organic Chemistry (Majors)
Earl McWhorter

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Material in Chapt. 1-14 of text

Required texts and materials: Morrison and Boyd, "organic Chemistry" 2nd ed.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): Prerequisite: Chem 112or 114; Concurrent enrollment in Chem 166

Papers (length and number): Probably none.

Examinations, quizzes, &c. (short-answer or essay, &c.): 3 or 4 hour exams: Occasional quizzes (mostly short answer)

CHEMISTRY 246
Theoretical Inorganic Chemistry
O.T. Zajicek

The following is a reasonably detailed description of the course as it will be taught in the Fall, 1969. For each topic there is indicated the percentage of the semester to be devoted to the topic; these times are indicative, only, for the emphasis is often adjusted to suit the needs of a particular class.

I. Electronic Nature of the Atom (13%). A brief development of atomic theory, through wave mechanics and the Schroedinger equation. This is followed by a detailed description of electronic microstates and the significance of the several quantum numbers. Spectroscopic term symbols for atoms and ions are developed and applied.

II. Chemical Bonding (80%). A. Ionic Substances. 1. Crystalline Solids: Presentation of the common types of crystal structures and associated physical parameters of interest. For example, the meaning and interrelationships between ionic, univalent, and crystal radii are explored. The energy relationships in ionic solids are discussed, leading to a development of crystal lattice energy. The Born-Haber cycle is used to illustrate the energy interplay in crystals and the solution process; these energy considerations allow one to predict and/or explain trends, especially seeming anomalies. 2. Acids and Bases: Within the context of ionic materials, electrolytes (usually weak ones) are treated. The several acid-base concepts are given, compared, and their utility (and shortcomings) illustrated. The energy relationships in acid-base systems are discussed to enable one to understand trends in acid and base strengths. Covered are neutral protonic acids (and bases), cationic protonic acids, oxo-acids, and the aqua acids (i.e., hydrolysis). Included is a brief, but complete, discussion of how to calculate the equilibrium concentrations of all species present in acid and base systems, simple and complex.

B. Covalency. The nature of the covalent bond is explored in the light of the several theories which have been advanced, namely, valence bond, molecular orbital, and crystal field theory. The predicting molecular shapes are presented and illustrated. The above bounding theories and principles are illustrated and applied to some selected elements, including transition metals and complex inorganic compounds; with the latter, the ligand field theory is presented and discussed.

III. Isomerism in Inorganic Chemistry (7%). A brief but comprehensive tour through the types of isomerism encountered in inorganic compounds. Included is a section on the nomenclature of inorganic compounds.

Text: Cotton and Wilkinson, ADVANCED INORGANIC CHEMISTRY, 2nd Ed. This text is as good, or better, than any available, but is very expensive; accordingly, it is not required. It is, however, a good reference work.

Examinations: Usually two hour-exams and a final. These are a combination of objective (calculate) and short answer (define, explain, compare, etc.) questions, are are comprehensive. They are not cumulative.

CHEMISTRY 281/581 Elementary Physical Chemistry
Mr. Stengle

This course is designed to introduce physical chemistry to students majoring in fields other than chemistry. The first semester deals with classical theory, while the second semester is spent on modern concepts. Chemical thermodynamics will be covered during the first half of the semester, and the rest of the time will be spent on electrochemistry and chmical kinetics. The text is "Principles of Physical Chemistry" by Maron and Prutton. The prerequisites are a year of college math at the calculus level, and a year of college physics and chemistry. There will be three hour exams and a final exam in the course.

CHEMISTRY 285
Physical Chemistry
Professors Brandts and Smith

Primarily for juniors (chemistry and chemical engineers. Topics: (I). Properties of Gases and Kinectic Molecular Theory (3 weeks), (II). Introduction to atomic and molecular structure (4 weeks), (III), Thermodynamics (5 weeks), (IV). Free energy and chemical equilibria (3 weeks). Required texts and materials; Physical Chemistry (2nd Ed., McGraw Hill), Barrow. Supplementary materials: problem book. Prerequisites and limitations: math 186 or 174; physics 104 or 106. Corequisites chemistry 210 or 127. Papers: none. Examinations: three hours exams, final exam (derivations, problems, short-answer, discussions).

CHEMISTRY 290/590
Advanced Physical Chemistry
W. J. MacKnight

Aimed at seniors or first-year graduate students in chemistry or chemical engineering. Can also be successfully handled by junior physics majors. Provides an introduction to the more modern aspects of physical chemistry. Topics: (I) Quantum Chemistry (2/3 semester) - single one dimensional problems, the hydrogen atom, the hydrogen molecule ion, variation and perturbation theory, the Pauli and description of electronic microstates and the significance of the several quantum numbers. Spectroscopic term symbols for atoms and ions are developed and applied.

11. Chemical Bonding (80%). A. Ionic Substances. 1. Crystalline Solids: Presentation of the common types of crystal structures and associated physical parameters of interest. For example, the meaning and interrelationships between ionic, univalent, and crystal radii are explored. The energy relationships in ionic solids are discussed, leading to a development of crystal lattice energy. The Born-Haber cycle is used to illustrate the energy interplay in crystals and the solution process; these energy considerations allow one to predict and/or explain trends, especially seeming anomalies. 2. Acids and Bases: Within the context of ionic materials, electrolytes (usually weak ones) are treated. The several acid-base concepts are given, compared, and their utility (and shortcomings) illustrated. The energy relationships in acid-base systems are discussed to enable one to understand trends in acid and base strengths. Covered are neutral protonic acids (and bases), cationic protonic acids, oxo-acids, and the aqua acids (i.e., hydrolysis). Included is a brief, but complete, discussion of how to calculate the equilibrium concentrations of all species present in acid and base systems, simple and complex.

B. Covalency. The nature of the covalent bond is explored in the light of the several theories which have been advanced, namely, valence bond, molecular orbital, and crystal field theory. The predicting molecular shapes are presented and illustrated. The above bounding theories and principles are illustrated and applied to some selected elements, including transition metals and complex inorganic compounds; with the latter, the ligand field theory is presented and discussed.

III. Isomerism in Inorganic Chemistry (7%). A brief but comprehensive tour through the types of isomerism encountered in inorganic compounds. Included is a Private economic decisions and their social consequences (microeconomics) - 6 weeks. The International Economy - 2 weeks. Public Economic decisions and their social consequences - 2 weeks. An application of the above: the urban economy. (Poverty, race, and the ghetto; housing and urban renewal; municipal finance; urban transportation) - 4 weeks.

Required text: Section 1 - Dooley, Elementary Price Theory (paper) Sections 2-4 to be chosen.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: None.

Number and length of papers, reports: Some written problem solutions required. No term papers.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Two mid-terms, one final; mostly problems and short essays.

ECONOMICS 127
Honors Section of Elements of Economics (Economics 125)
George Treyz

Description: The determinants of employment, prices and national income are examined with a view toward arriving at prescriptions for appropriate government policy.

Major topics discussed and time alloted: Background and a simple model of national income determination - 4 weeks. Money and banking - 1 week. Synthesis of monetary and income analysis - 2 weeks. Affluence and poverty - 1 week. The economic role of government - 2 weeks. International economics - 1 week. Current economic stabilization policy - 2 weeks.

Required text: Samuelson, Paul A. ECONOMICS.

Supplementary materials: Buckingham, Walter, AUTOMATION: ITS IMPACT ON BUSINESS AND PEOPLE. Friedman, Milton, CAPITALISM AND FREEDOM. Galbraith, John Kenneth, THE AFFLUENT SOCIETY. Heller, Walter W. (ed.), PERSPECTIVES ON ECONOMIC GROWTH. Treyz, George, COMPUTER PROBLEM KIT FOR ECONOMICS.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Permission of instructor.

Number and length of papers: One paper (optional). A few problems.

Number and kind of exams: Two essay exams.

ECONOMICS 210
Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
George Treyz, Kenneth Gordon

Description: Resource allocation and income distribution.

Major topics discussed and time alloted: Determinants of demand - 2 weeks. Production and costs - 3 weeks. Product pricing under different market structures - 3 weeks. Resource pricing and income distribution - 3 weeks. Conditions for maximizing social welfare - 2 weeks. The theory of allocation in non-market economies - 1 week.

Required text: Not selected yet.

Supplementary materials: Outside reading not yet selected.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Economics 126.

Number and length of papers, reports: None.

Number and kind of exams: 2 hour exams and a final. All exams are essay.

ECONOMICS 211
Money, Banking and Credit
Robert Hinckley

Description: The use of monetary policy to achieve economic and social goals. Monetary theory and institutions in historical and political perspective.

Required text: Text not yet selected.

Supplementary materials: Readings on reserve, mimeograph materials. A lot of reading.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: None.

Number and length of papers, reports: 2 exams or 2 10-15 page (optional choice) papers.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Essay.

ECONOMICS 214
Macroeconomic Theory
Thomas Love, Robert Hinckley

Description: (See Major Topics below).

Major topics discussed and time alloted: Contemporary macroeconomic theory and policy within the modern political and social setting. Two-thirds of course devoted to economic models and one-third to political economy.

Required text: A standard text not yet chosen, plus one or two paperbacks.

Supplementary materials: Mimeograph handouts, readings on reserve.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: None.

Number and length of papers, reports: 2 or 3 exams or papers.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Essay.

ECONOMICS 221
The International Economy
Norman D. Aitken

Description: An historical and analytical study of the international economy with emphasis upon current problems.

Major topics discussed and time alloted: History of the world economy - 4 weeks. The balance of international payments and exchange rate systems - 2 weeks. Problems of the international monetary system - 2 weeks. Trade problems of emerging nations - 2 weeks. Regional integration and The Common Market - 2 weeks.

Required text: Ellsworth, P.T., The International Economy, 4th Edition plus two paperbacks not selected yet.

Supplementary materials: A few articles on reserve.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc: Economics 125.

Number and length of papers, reports: None.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: One hour exam and a final. Essay and short answer.

ECONOMICS 231
Social Control of Business
Marshall C. Howard

Major topics discussed and time alloted: Antitrust issues: Collusion, mergers, patents, exclusive dealing, price discrimination - 45%. Public utility regulatory problems: Electric power, TV and radio, natural gas, holding companies - 25%. Controls over competition: Consumer protection, cartels, fair trade, government op-

Required text: C. Wilcox, "Public Policies Toward Business".

Supplementary materials: Current articles and cases on socially relevant subjects.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: None.

Number and length of papers, reports: One report - approximately 5-6 pages.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Two hour exams - essay type.

ECONOMICS 232
The Structure of American Industry
Bradley T. Gale

Description: The Structure of the American Industry.

Major topics discussed and time alloted: INTRODUCTION: Industrial organization and economic theory - 10%. Structure, Conduct, and Performance of firms and industries - 30%. Input-output structure of the U.S.: New Industrial state. Military-industrial complex; defense and disarmament - 30%. Industry case studies and current issues - 30%.

Required text: Three paperbacks: Roger E. Bolton (ed.), Defense and Disarmament. Richard Caves, American Industry: Structure Conduct, Performance. John Kenneth Galbraith, The New Industrial State.

Supplementary materials: Several articles.

Number and length of papers, reports: 1 report: 5-10 pages.

Number and kind of exams: 2 exams, 1 final. Essay and short answer.

ECONOMICS 241
Labor Problems
Thomas M. Love

Description: Survey of American labor problems with emphasis on current issues and policy.

Major topics discussed: The labor movement: theory, history, institutions. Collective bargaining: the process, issues and public policy. Labor legislation. Employment, technological change and manpower economics. Social security, welfare, and poverty.

Required text: Probably one hard cover.

Supplementary materials: Extensive reserve readings.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Economics 125.

Number and length of papers, reports: None.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: 2 hour exams and final exam. Essay, multiple choice, short answer.

ECONOMICS 261
European Economic History
Robert Eagly

Description; Major topics discussed; Time Alloted: Analysis of economic development and institutional change in Western Europe since the Middle Ages. The course examines interpretations and theories of the growth process in the light of qualitative and quantitative evidence drawn primarily from the experience of Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia. Attention will also be given to the economic background of class conflict, social movements, syndicalism, and imperialism.

Two hours of lecture plus one hour of tutorial (on selected topics).

(Course outline will be ready about August 1 and will be mailed on request.)

Required text: No required text. Readings will be assigned.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: None.

Number and length of papers, reports: One term paper.

Number and kind of exams: Two hour exams plus final. Essay.

ECONOMICS 266
Economic Development
Bruce R. Morris

Description: Study of problems of underdeveloped countries.

Major Topics discussed: Past Theory - 3 classes. Problems of sectors of the economy, e.g. agriculture, industry labor, population - 8 classes. Social & cultural factors - 2 classes. Financing development - 2 classes. International trade - 2 classes. Decisions & policies - 7 classes.

Time alloted: Classes 1-1/4 hours.

Required text: Morris, Economic Growth and Development.

Supplementary materials: Library reading.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Economics 125 or consent of instructor.

Number and length of papers, reports: 1 term paper, 15-20 pages.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: 2 mid-term and 1 final exam. All essay.

ECONOMICS 271
Comparative Economic Systems
Arthur Wright

Remarks: This course is a revised version of the course taught last year.

Major topics discussed and time alloted: An analytical framework for comparing economic systems - 4 weeks. The evolution of economic systems over time - 6 weeks. Comparisons among economic systems (Central planning the market mechanism, and combination of the two) - 4 weeks.

Required text: No textbook; a reading list and mimeo material by the instructor will be used.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Economics 126 is recommended.

Papers: Student papers will be the primary graded work.

Exams: Undecided at this time.

ECONOMICS 281
Regional Economics
James Kane

Description: Introduction to the study of regional economics. Emphasis will be placed on relating classroom discussions to current regional economic problems by reviewing recent studies which incorporate the theories and methods of analysis discussed in class.

Major topics discussed: First part of course: The theory of plant location and industrial location patterns. Transportation costs and market areas. City systems and spatial equilibrium. Second part of course: Economic base analysis. Differential growth analysis. Interregional flows: (a) Input-Output, (b) Capital flow.

Required text: Nourse, "Regional Economics: A study in the Economic Structure, Stability, and Growth of Regions.

Supplementary materials: Outside reading will be assigned occasionally.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Economics 126, Economics 201 would be helpful.

Number and length of papers, reports: A detailed research design identifying a regional economic problem and the students method of analysing the problem.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: One mid-term, one final. Part I-short answer; Part II-essay, Part III-problem.

ECONOMICS 312
Public Finance
Cadwell Ray

Description: Problems and issues in financing the social sector of our economy.

Major topics discussed: Equity in Taxation. Types of Taxes. Expenditure Problems. Fiscal Policy.

Required text: Herber, Public Finance.

Supplementary materials: Recommended reading list.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Mid-term and final examination - essay.

ECONOMICS 362
Technology in Western Civilization
Ben Seligman

Description: (Catalogue description) Origins and impact of the industrial revolution, technological changes on work and society. Social and economic effects of automation.

Major topics discussed: Not available.

Required text: Not available.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc: Not available.

Number and length of papers, reports: Not available.

Number and kind of exams: Not available.

English

ENGLISH 111
Professor Walker Gibson and staff of 80-90

Comment: This course is concerned with uses of language in the student's life and in the life of the world around him. By inviting him to "compose" in a variety of styles, in a variety of assigned situations, the course aims to enlarge and refine the student's linguistic resourcefulness. There is emphasis on "role-playing" through language, and on appropriate stylistic choices dictated by constant changes in subject matter, situation, audience, and the writer's stance, persona, or voice.

Topics and texts. At this writing (mid-April), a committee is still at work making textbook selections, and these will to a degree influence an order of topics. But whatever the order and whatever the texts, the central procedures of the course will reflect the point of view expressed in the recent "Report of the Dean's Committee on Rhetoric in the College Curriculum" (January 1969). To quote from that document, "the basic method of the course is to invite students both to analyze critically and to generate in a disciplined way many different uses of English according to an established theoretical framework."

Supplementary materials: Dictionary. Typewriter recommended.

Prerequisites and limitations: none.

Papers: approximately eight or ten, of 400-500 words each, for a minimum total of 4,000 words. At least one of these papers will involve the use of reference materials in the library.

Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Individual instructors may occastonally impose short quizzes or classroom exercises, and two or three of the regular assigned papers are to be written in classtime. The final examination is in no sense a test of information stored and regurgitated; it merely asks of the student one more exercise in linguistic perception and flexibility, and if "counts' no more than one of his later papers composed during the course.

ENGLISH 125
Masterpieces of English Literature
Barnard

There is a general syllabus, which I follow. I require two prepared papers - informal critical discussions - of 4 or 5 pages each. I also give two hour tests (discussion questions) and a final examination (discussion questions covering the whole semester's work.

ENGLISH 135 Section 8
Masterpieces of Western Literature
Readings in Homer, Sophocles, Aeschylus, Euripides, Plato, The Bible, Dante, Shakespeare.

Course method: Dialogue and discussion. Emphasis on student participation. Mid-term, final examination (essay questions). One paper, a critical essay, 1000 to 1500 words on a topic chosen by the student from any primary text read in the course. Grade bases on class participation plus papers, exams. Improvement an important factor.

Mr. Junkins

ENGLISH 151
Forms and Sources of Modern Lit.: Epic and Novel
Mr. Aho

This course fulfills the soph lit. requirement. We will read and discuss 8 narratives: (1) The Odyssey (5-6 meetings) (or the Iliad). (2) Beowulf (3-4 meetings) (plus some short OE poems). (3) Njals Saga (3-4 meetings). (4) Gawain and the Green Knight (3-4 meetings). (5) Don Quixote (8-9 meetings). (6) Dream of the Red Chamber (5-6 meetings). (7) Robinson Crusoe (5-6 meetings). (8) Joseph Andrews (3-4 meetings).

No supp. materials, no prerequisites, no limitations.

Much discussion, often arising from short quizzes. Two or three short papers (4-5 pp. each) on specific aspects re narrative techniques in the works read. One final exam.

ENGLISH 151
Epic/Novel: Forms and Sources: A Study in the development of narrative
Charles Moran

Topics: The epic: its form, its function; The epic as social document: the shape, the values of the epic society; Myth in the epic: its relation to contemporary myth; Romance: narrative as tapestry and the need for form; The rejection of romance: DON QUIXOTE; The beginnings of the novel: epic and romance in Fielding's TOM JONES.

Required Texts: ODYSSEY, tr. Fitzgerald, BEOWULF, tr Raffel, Genesis (Selections from the Bible, ed Frank) SIR GAWAIN AND THE GREEN KNIGHT, tr. Borroff, DON QUIXOTE (tr. Starkie), TOM JONES (Penguin)

Papers: three. Length: 750-1000 words. Options available.

Testing: no quizzes; essay-type final.

30 APR

ENGLISH 203 (503)
English Bible as Literature
Prof. Sanders

Mixed undergraduate, graduate course. Various Biblical literary genres: myth, legend, history, prophetic oracle, prophetic vision, MASHAL, gospel, apocalypse. Text: Bates (ed.), The Bible Designed to be Read as Living Literature. Additional reading on reserve. Graduate students: one in-class report, to be worked into a paper; also long research paper. Undergraduates: one 1500-word paper, "creative response." Both: spot passages test at end of course; final exam.

ENGLISH 221-222:
Shakespeare
Bernard Spivack, Russell Alspach, William O'Donnell, Charlotte Spivack, Normand Berlin, Betty Hunt, John Hunt

This course examines Shakespeare's dramatic art and leading ideas through close consideration of about a dozen plays each semester. Typically the students writes a couple of short essays as well as a mid-term and final exam. Whether the course is lecture or discussion, or a mixture of both modes, depends largely on the caliber of the students and the disposition of the instructor. The main text for the course is THE COMPLETE WORKS OF SHAKESPEARE ed. G. B. Harrison. There are also several pieces of supplementary reading for the sake of the student's b e t t e r understanding of Shakespeare's age and stage. There is no pre-requiste, but the course is intended mainly for juniors and seniors. Either semester or both may be taken for credit.

ENGLISH 221
Shakespeare (section 9)
Kathleen Swaim

This section will include the textbook, optional supplementary readings, plays, general subject matter, and prerequisites agreed upon by the various teachers of the course. The emphasis is on reading Shakespeare rather than on surveying Shakespeare, on the dramatic artistry and themes rather than on the historical and biographical contexts of the ten or eleven plays covered. Sessions will consist of class discussions rather than lectures. There will be two or three short papers, of about 5 pages each possibly one hour examination, and a final.

ENGLISH 225
The Renaissance in England
Mr. Kinney

"Pricking o'er the plain" of the sixteenth century, English 225 examines the Age of Shakespeare by looking at the relevant intellectual, political, and social debates of the time as reflected in the work of his most significant contemporaries, among them More, Marlowe, Sidney, and Spenser, as well as some of his own works.

Topics: The Age of Revolutions; the Rise and Decline of Humanism; Early English Fiction and the Beginning of the Novel; the Golden Age of Lyric Poetry; the Restitution of Order. The course traces a world in upheaval and the works of poets and prose writers who attempt to order the chaos around them. The course ends with the twin attempts at synthesis made by Sidney's DEFENSE OF POETRY and Spenser's FAERIE QUEENE, Book II. Some attention given to important comparative literature of the period: Machiavelli, Ficino, Erasmus, Rabelais, Petrarch, and Cervantes.

Tentative text: Rollins and Baker, RENAISSANCE IN ENGLAND (Heath).

Supplementary materials: More, UTOPIA: Erasmus, PRAISE OF FOLLY; Rabelais, GARGANTUA AND PANTAGRUEL (selections); Lawliss, ELIZABETHAN PROSE FICTION; Cervantes, DON QUIXOTE (selections).

No prerequisites and limitations.

One paper (five to eight pages). Two hourlies and one final (probably take-home). No quizzes; no reports. 3 credits.

ENGLISH 233
Seventeenth Century Poetry
Prof. Dan S. Collins

English 233, a study of aims and accomplishments of English poets of the late Renaissance (1600-1660), seeks to cultivate an appreciation of the English lyric at the height of its early maturity. Special emphasis is placed upon the writers of classical sensibility (Ben Jonson, Herrick) and metaphysical or mannerist sensibility (Donne, Herbert, Marvell), with briefer attention given to the "cavalier" poets (Lovelace, Suckling, Carew)and to the baroque and mystical religious poets (Crashaw, Vaughan, Traherne). Students write two fairly brief critical papers (1,500 word average) on topics concerning the classical group and the metaphysical group and will, if possible, lead a discussion of one of the later poets of the period, preferably Marvell. (Heavy registration may require the substitution of a third paper for the discussion assignment.) Two hour tests will require the student to write cogent essays on fairly general topics, often involving more than one author. Significant passages from poems may also be presented for brief comment and analysis. With new textbooks becoming available there will probably be a change from texts used in recent years but the final selection has not yet been made.

ENGLISH 236
Milton
J. J. Teunissen

The complete poetry and selected prose of John Milton, approximately 4/5 of the course time to be spent on the poetry.

Text: THE COMPLETE POETRY AND SELECTED PROSE OF JOHN MILTON, ed. Merritt Y. Hughes, Odyssey Press, 1957.

My motto is, "this is no book, who touches this touches a man." My aim is through continuous detailed analysis and (hopefully) participative discussion of Milton's work to present the completest possible picture of one of England's three great poets and her most heroic man of letters as he wrestles with the problems of his art, and how through his art he finds himself as a man and defines for us what it is to be a man. Milton's milieu, his biography, his "puritanism" in conflict with his profound sensuousness, his desire to be the sayer in conflict with the growing necessity that he become the doer, all will be considered as part of his development as a poet.

The student will be given the option of writing two term papers and a "serious" final examination OR of writing a journal in which he records his responses to his reading of Milton, to the class, and to a world in which the study of Milton may or may not have relevance. Students who exercise the journal option will sit the final examination as well but they will be expected to comment on the personal effectlivness or non-effectiveness of the journal approach.

Since I am an extremely biased individual, I propose further occasionally to invite an outsider to present positions and opinions which will almost certainly be at odds with my own.

ENGLISH 243
Eighteenth Century Novel: Defoe/Austen
Charles Moran

Topics: The novel as form, The novel and society: fiction as sociological document. The psychology of fiction.

Required Texts: Defoe, MOLL FLANDERS, Richardson, CLARISSA, Fielding, JOSEPH ANDREWS, TOM JONES, Sterne, TRISTRAM SHANDY, Smollett, HUMPHRY CLINKER, Jane Austen, EMMA.

Supplementary materials: Ian Watt, THE RISE OF THE NOVEL

Papers: three, 750/1000 words. Options available.

Examinations: final (essay)

ENGLISH 251.
The Romantic Poets
Barnard

The poets studied are Blake, Burns, Wordsworth, and Coleridge. Texts will be paperback selections from each poet, probably the following: Blake (Penguin), Burns (Riverside); Wordsworth (Riverside); Coleridge (Rinehart). There will be a term paper (8-10 pages), two hour tests (discussion questions covering the whole semester's work).

ENGLISH 251 Section 2
English Romantic Poets I
Prof. Thomas Lombardi

Coleridge, Blake, Wordsworth: equally

Texts: Wordsworth (Riverside Paperback) Black (Crafts Paperback)

Supplementary: Harold Bloom THE VISIONARY COMPANY; H. Lindenberger WORDSWORTH'S PRELUDE

Limitations: The ability to read is desirable.

Term paper: One, an exhaustive explication of a single poem selected by the student and approved by the professor Examinations: One after completion of the study of each poet's works. The final examination involves only Wordsworth's PRELUDE.

Conferences: The professor lunches Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 12 noon in the Commonwealth Room with any members of this class who wish to do so. He is also available for conferences in his office on these days and hopes his students will feel free to visit with him, particularly early in the semester.

Emphasis: Emphasis is placed on developing the student's and the professor's ability to read English Romantic poetry with understanding, the professor believes that an undergraduate course should stress poetry and introduce criticism.

Comments: "Thanks to the human heart by which we live, Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears, To me the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears."

ENGLISH 251
Romantic Poets
R. Haven

Topics: Blake, Coleridge, and Wordsworth.

Texts: Selected paperbacks

Papers: Four short (600 word) critical exercises.

Examinations: Essay type final

210
ENGLISH 253
The English Novel from Scott through Hardy
David Paroissien

The course will treat one work by each major nineteenth century British novelist. The primary focus will be an intensive examination of eight novels. In view of the length of the novels, most of the class meetings will be spent discussing the works themselves, although the instructor will present biographical, historical, political, and religious background information insofar as it is relevant to certain novels. There will be no supplementary materials since the novels themselves present a great amount of reading. For this reason, paper topics will be designed so that they do not necessitate outside research. Three short papers (four pages) will be required. There will be no quizzes. The final examination will probably be a two hour essay in which the students are asked to write generally about the problems and crises examined by the nineteenth century novel.

Texts: Scott, ROB ROY, Dickens, TALE OF TWO CITIES, Hardy, TESS OF THE D'URBERVILLES, Thackeray, HENRY ESMOND, Trollope, BARCHESTER TOWERS, Bronte, E. WUTHERING HEIGHTS, Gissing, NEW GRUB STREET, Eliot, G. ADAM BEDE.

ENGLISH 264,
Mod. European Drama in Translation
Arthur R. Williams

Comments or Remarks: Some twenty plays -- short and long -- are read. The focus in . the course is very much on student - response, a sharing of the experiences of reading differing plays. Students who wish to be 'told' what they have read and what they should think about it should NOT enroll. Nor should students who do not care to join in classroom discussion.

Topics to be considered...Nature of modern drama and of realism, expressionism, etc. Time spent on these: as needed.

Required texts: probably Block and Shedd's MASTERS OF MODERN DRAMA.

Supplementary materials: probably none, though possibiy an inexpensive paperback or two.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): see above, under Comments or Remarks. It is traditionally a junior-senior course in which many kinds of majors have enrolled in the past.

Papers (length and number): few, probably optional; short to moderate-length

One hour-test. Final exam. Both will be about 80 % essay questions, with 20% short answer.

ENGLISH 276, 576
Major American Writers

Selected major American writers of the 19th and 20th centuries Melville: MOBY DICK. ed. Kazin. Riverside, Houghton Miffin; BILLY DUDD, SAILOR and other stories. Penguin. Thoreau: WALDEN AND CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE, Norton. Whitman: LEAVES OF GRASS. Norton. Twain: HUCKLEBERRY FINN. Norton. Crane: RED BADGE OF COURAGE. Narcourt Brace and World. Steinbeck: GRAPES OF WRATH. Viking. Dreiser: AN AMERICAN TRAGEDY. Signet NAL.

Course method: dialogue and discussion. Intelligent, forthright discussion by students an important factor in final grade. Also improvement. Mid-term exam, final exam. One paper for undergraduates, 1000 to 1500 words: a personal critical essay on a topic chosen by the student from any primary text discussed in the course. Two papers for graduate students. Essay exams.
Mr. Junkins.

ENGLISH 280
Introduction to Folklore
Miss Campbell

An illustrated (recordings, etc.) study of folklore, beginning with the ballad as a nucleus for other gemes such as prose tales, proverbs and riddles, and the craft and other supernatural beliefs, folk customs, folk heroes. Relationships of folklore to life, past and present.

Texts: Friedman, Albert, FOLK BALLADS OF THE ENGLISH SPEAKING WORLD and Rusgoff, Milton, HARVEST OF WORLD FOLK TALES. Two or three other paperbacks to be chosen in view of class interest that develops.

Prerequisites: None
Papers: to be determined.
Examinations: To be determined

ENGLISH 281
American Folklore (C)

A study of oral traditions in America with special emphasis on surviving British lore, American Indian lore, Negro lore, and recent folk materials. Folklore courses are interdisciplinary in nature; the recently increased interest in interdisciplinary cooperation is a reflection of the felt necessity of making education more socio-culturally relevant. It is in the connections, for example, that the student sees between history, sociology, literature, anthropology, and psychology that academic materials become humanly relevant. Folklore as a field of study has historically been concerned with making manifest just such connections.

ENGLISH 282
"Literary Criticism: Classic and Neo-Classic"
Professor J. William Hunt

An introduction to meanings and methods of literary analysis and judgment; chief emphasis on major philosophical critics of the classical period (Plato, Aristotle, Horace, Longinus: 9-10 weks,) and later neo-classic critics influenced by the classical ideal (Sidney, Dryden, Johnson: 4-5 wks.); designed to further two objectives; (1) clarify understanding of how literature works and how it is related to other human activities, (2) increase ability to handle the techniques of literature and judge its value.

Requirements: two papers, each 7-10pp., (1) mid-term, evaluation of principles at work in one of the critical texts under review, (2) end of term, application of principles to a literary text of the student's choice.

Exam: one (final).

Texts: J.H. Smith & E.W. Parks, THE GREAT CRITICS; P.M. Cornford, PLATO'S REPUBLIC. Gerald F. Else, ARISTOTLE'S POETICS, Rene Wellek & Austin Warren, THEORY OF LITERATURE, David Daiches, CRITICAL APPROACHES TO LITERATURE.

ENGLISH 282
Literary Criticism: Classic and Neo-Classic (C)

An introduction to literary criticism; chief emphasis on the major philosophical critics from Plato to Aristotle to the nineteenth century. A course in that area of literary criticism which is sometimes called "Theory of Literature." Designed to introduce students of English to those philosophical critics who have given the most systematic accounts of the relation of literature to other human activites and lines of development he becomes interested in. Attention will be paid to bibliographical critical, and periodical sources of information, sufficient to aid the student in finding what he wants to find.

ENGLISH 273
Nineteenth Century American Literature (C)

An overview of significant expository prose, fiction, and poetry, with attention to the emergence of an American literature. Selections (most of no great length) from authors who helped establish our American literature in the 19th century. The student will be expected to read afield, following lines of development he becomes interested in. Attention will be paid to bibliographical, biographical, critical, and periodical sources of information, sufficient to aid the student in finding what he wants to find.

ENGLISH 274
Twentieth Century American Literature (C)

Movements, modes, and representative voices in prose, fiction, and poetry. A continuation of English 273, but may be elected independently. Largely specimens (most of no great length) of representative twentieth-century authors. The student will be expected to read afield, following lines of development he becomes interested in. Attention will be paid to bibliographical critical, and periodical sources of information, sufficient to aid the student in finding what he wants to find.

ENGLISH 275
Major American Writer:
Prof. Raymond D. Gozzi

Classes will consist of informal lectures on the technique and content of eight significant American works. Students will have opportunities to comment.

Eight paperback books required.
Two 500-600 word papers.

some nineteenth-century critics, in order that it may more effectively serve as a companion to the course in the philosophical critics from classical times to the nineteenth century (English 282). The course will help English majors and other students interested in literature to know not only literary texts but also various possible critical approaches, and to have some practice in applying these.

ENGLISH 323
The Study of the Native Language

Historical backgrounds for the teaching of English; comparative analysis of modern theories of grammar; the uses of English; dialect and register; the language of literature. Somewhat similar to both English 312 and English 321, but primarily concerned with problems in linguistics, philology, dialectology, lexicography, and sociology as these eventually confront the high-school teacher of English.

ENGLISH 337 (sections 3 and 4)
Advanced Expository Writing
Dr. Dario Politella

The course is designed to introduce the student to the theory and practice of writing FACT articles.

Instruction and practice in the mechanical process of writing five types of pieces and a research report. The types are: basic exposition in sharing information (like a newsstory), a piece reflecting human interest, a piece resulting from interviewing, an essay (formal or informal) and an opinion piece.

Lectures are involved with the mechanics of writing, relating the primordial laws of nature to stimulation of reader interest, determining the readability of writing, laws of copyright, the writing market place, etc. Each piece is written twice - once for criticism and a second time for application of criticism. All pieces must be submitted for publication to area media.

Text: THE PREVALENT FORMS OF PROSE by Winchester and Weathers.

Supplementary materials will be provided by the instructor.

Prerequisites: Only students who are interested in this type of writing may register with permission of instructor. No fiction writers!

Papers average 4-500 words each.

No quizzes. Final exam is a term project that is the report of research conducted during the term and written during independent study week.

ENGLISH 341
Creative Writing
Andrew Fetler

Comment: This is an introductory workshop in creative writing. In MR. FETLER'S SECTIONS the emphasis is on fiction. You learn by doing. Your short stories are mimeographed and distributed to the class for study, then critically discussed in class. While this is not a theoretical course, questions of form and technique arise naturally in class discussions as they relate to specific problems in your work.

Recommended text: Gordon & Tate, THE HOUSE OF FICTION, 2nd ed., Scribner's.

Prerequisites: Instructor's permission, Bartlett Hall, Room 389. Students from all disciplines are welcomed. Not recommended for students before their Junior year. Class limited to 15.

Papers (length and number): Relative. A story dictates its own length, and the number of stories you write depends on the problems they present. Some stories may require several major revisions, some may succeed in relatively few drafts, some may have to be scrapped and new ones started.

Examinations: These take the form of private conferences with instructor throughout the semester and end-of-semester reviews of your work. The course grade is determined by the quantity and quality of your work.

ENGLISH 345
Creative Writing (Fiction).
Andrew Fetler

Comment: See Comment for Mr. Fetler's section of English 341. English 345 is primarily for students who have done well in English 341 and wish to continue their writing efforts on a more ambitious level. But English 341 is not a prerequisite for this course. Exceptionally gifted students may repeat English 345 once.

Recommended Text: Gordon & Tate, THE HOUSE OF FICTION, 2nd ed., Scribner's.

Prerequisites: Instructor's permission, Bartlett Hall, Room 389. Students from all disciplines are welcomed. Juniors and Seniors only. Class limited to 15.

Papers (length and number): Relative. See Mr. Fetler's section of English 341.

Examinations: These take the form of private conferences with instructor throughout the semester and end-of-semester reviews of your work. The course grade is determined by the quantity and quality of your work.

ENGLISH 346, Section I
Creative Writing, Poetry

Text: NAKED POETRY, RECENT AMERICAN POETRY IN OPEN FORMS, edited by Stephen Berg and Robert Mezey. Bobbs Merrill.

Class Method: Dialogue and discussion of individual poems. Emphasis on revision. Supplementary personal conferences. Final course requirement: Selection of student's best 10-15 poems written during the semester.

Permission of the instructor.
Mr. Junkins

ENGLISH 382
Individual British Authors: Charles Dickens
Mr. Meckler

A critical reading of eight or ten novels with attention to Dicken's life, his times, and especially the development of his craftsmanship and his world-view.

ENGLISH 383
Section 1.
Significant themes in American Litefature: Black Literature in America and its Cultural Roots.
Mr. Thelwell

A study of the cultural traditions of West Africa and their adaptation to the American situation in the black slave communities of this country. A critical approach to the forms of literary and cultural expressions of the balck community and their adaptation and use in a written literature. Includes an examination of "major" black American authors from this critical perspective.

ENGLISH 383 (2)
The Young American Hero
Mr. Plumstead.

The course will examine the general concept of a "hero" for a culture, and will attempt to form some observations about the young hero, 15-25 years old, as he emerges historically in selected classics in American literature--in his reactions to love, war, Europe, slavery, nature, government and business. The course willbegin with Emerson's "The Young American" and Melville's REDBURN, and proceed through HUCKLEBERRY FINN, James' THE AMERICAN, THE EDUCATION OF HENRY ADAMS, Crane's THE RED BADGE OF COURAGE, and selected stories by Sherwood Anderson, William Faulkner (THE BEAR), Willa Cather, Steinbeck, Hemingway's IN OUR TIME, and F. Scott Fitzgerald, concluding with a black autobiography, probably Cleaver's SOUL ON ICE. The class will meet once a week, Tuesday, 3:30-6 pm.; there will be 14 meetings, one author and his work (s) each meeting. Students will have the option of writing 2 short papers (4-5 pages typed) on their own ideas, or one longer paper (10-12 pages) involving outside critical reading. There will probably be two short, 20 minute, in-class exercises; and there will be the inevitable final exam. Students registering for the course should pick up some material for the first class, before they leave the campus for the summer, from Mr. Plumstead.

ENGLISH 384
Individual American Authors: Henry James and Stephen Crane
Mrs. Priscilla Hicks

Discussion of a series of Jame's short novels, representative of phases of his development, and of most of Crane's fiction, with the primary aim to illumine each individual case and the kinds of controversy concerning his achievement. Some comparative emphasis to explore whether there are similarities between the two artists, in addition to the notable contrasts, on such points as: their kinds of "realism" and "impressionism"; their materials and views of their situation as American writers. (One report, one paper on student-initiated topic. Stress on contribution to analytic discussion of the works.)

ENGLISH 390-1
Normand Berlin
Description of TRAGEDY

The course will confront "the tragic view of life" and elements of tragic form by investigating specific plays and specific utterances on tragedy. Most of the plays selected will come from Greek Dramas, Elizabethan Drama, Modern Drama. Most of the critical statements will come from books and articles written within the last two decades-- although such "classical" writers on tragical theory as Aristotle, Hegel, and Nietzsche will be an important part of the course.

The students will deliver brief oral reports and will present a long paper (20 pages?) entitled "Toward a Definition of Tragedy".

There will be no examination
Permission of instructor necessary.
Limit: 15 students.

ENGLISH 390 Section 2
Literature and Culture in America
Mr. Turner

Art in a middle-class republic: can it (the art and the middle-class republic) survive? Materials toward an answer will be taken from the Colonial period through Henry Miller.

ENGLISH 390 Section 3
Hardy and Conrad
Mr. Nelson

The seminar will focus upon the major prose fiction of both Hardy and Conrad: approximately eight works will be read in all, with particular attention paid to the various aesthetic strategies of each work. The course will attempt to determine the individual meanings of the works themselves rather than emphasize literary history.

ENGLISH 390 (4)
Browning and the Twentieth Century
Meredith B, Raymond, Assistant Professor

Texts: Modern Library Ed. of ROBERT BROWNING; THE SITUATION ETHICS DEBATE, ed, H. Cox; THE HONEST TO GOD DEBATE, ed. D. Edwards: THE ART OF LOVING, E. Fromm.

Topics: Browning and Unconventional Morality, Browning and the Abnormal Personality, Browning and Self-identity, Browning and Modern Theology, Browning and the Theory of Creative Evolution, Browning and the Problem of Communication, Browning and Psychological Biography.

Approximately two weeks on each topic.

Requirements: One longer paper in which the student investigates one of the topics (or a tonic of related interest) in depth.

Instead of quizzes and examination, students will be asked to bear direct responsibility for initiating the discussion of the readings and topics.

ENGLISH 390-5 (Seminar)
Psychological Studies in Shakespeare
Simon O. Lesser

Topics to be considered: The course will be largely devoted to intensive studies of five or six plays, tragedies in the main, directed in particular to uncovering latent levels of meaning and unconscious motivations. The first week or two will be devoted to a discussion of basic psychoanalytic concepts likely to be generally useful. Thereafter such concepts will be introduced only as relevant to discussions of particular works.

In addition to trying to dig below the surface of the plays, the course will seek to foster skill in textual analysis and disciplined use of literary inference.

Required texts and materials: In addition to the plays which will be studied, the following books are to be read, in whole or in part, before or during the course:

Brenner, Charles, AN ELEMENTARY TEXTBOOK OF PSYCHOANALYSIS (Anchor A 102); Freud, Sigmund, A GENERAL INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOANALYSIS, Parts I and II (Washington Square Press, 47643) ; Freud, Sigmund, JOKES AND THEIR RELATION TO THE UNCONSCIOUS (Norton, N 149); Jones, Ernest, HAMLET, AND OEDIPUS (Anchor A 31); Lesser, Simon O., FICTION AND THE UNCONSCIOUS (Vintage, V 97).

Prerequisites: Some knowledge of depth psychology is essential for profiting from the seminar and enjoying it. (In certain cases students whose knowledge is inadequate will be admitted if they can do a fair amount of reading over the summer.) Among students who have a knowledge of depth psychology, preference will be given to those who have taken at least one of the basic Shakespeare courses (221 and 222).

Papers and examinations: Present plans call for two papers of 2,000 to 2,500 words. A third paper, analyzing a work not to be discussed in the seminar, may be asked for in lieu of an examination.

Journalism

JOURNALISTIC STUDIES 202
Language and Communication
Emmart

The course introduces several approaches to the study of language and its effects on the very nature of communication; for example, why it is impossible to say certain things in Indo-European languages which are quite simple in other languages. Basic readings in Miller's LANGUAGE AND COMMUNICATION, Cherry's ON HUMAN COMMUNICATION, Whorf's LANGUAGE, THOUGHT and REALITY and Smith's COMMUNICATION AND CULTURE. Three papers, an hour examination and a final.

JOURNALISTIC STUDIES 208
Mass Communication Theory.
Instructor: Emmart

An empirical study of the peculiar qualities of mass communications in particular and any mediated communication in general; the main subject will concern the spread of news and information by mass media.

Texts: Wright's MASS COMMUNICATIONS, Stephenson's THE PLAY THEORY of MASS COMMUNICATIONS, readings in Schramm's MASS COMMUNICATIONS. A reading knowledge of statistics helps. Three papers (length negotiable), an hour and a final examination.

Geography

GEOGRAPHY 155
"Introduction to Human Geography"
Mr. Nostrand and Mr. Wilkie

Comment s or remarks: Course description to appear in future catalogues: Examination of the spatial attributes of human societies: population, cultural characteristics, settlement and economic activity, considered systematically and illustrated by selected regional case studies. 2 class hours. 1-2 hour laboratory and field trips. Credit: 3.

Required texts and materials: Text: Broek & Webb A GEOGRAPHY OF MANKIND McGraw-Hill 1968. Paperbacks: Zelinsky PROLOGUE TO POPULATION GEOGRAPHY Prentice Hall. Chisholm RURAL SETTLEMENT & LAND USE, Wiley. Sopher A GEOGRAPHY OF RELIGION, Prentice Hall. Thoman & Conkling GEOGRAPHY OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE, Prentice Hall. Hill THE CHANGING LANDSCAPE OF A MEXICAN MUNICIPIO: VILLA LAS ROSAS, CHIAPAS, U. of Chicago. Selected Chapters: Haggett LOCATIONAL ANALYSIS IN HUMAN GEOGRAPHY, St. Martin's.

Topics to be considered; with appropriate time for each: Introduction: Fundamental Concepts; The Region - 2 lectures. Population: Growth, Numbers, Distribution; Races of Mankind; World Migration Streams - 3 lectures. Cultural Characteristics: Language; Religion; Political Regions; Social Organization - 4 lectures. Under-developed Rural World: Settlement Patterns; Agricultural Modes; Agricultural Locations; Internal Migration - 4 lectures. Developed Urban World: Central Place Theory, City Growth & Hinterlands; Internal Structure of Cities; The Industrial Factor; World Trade Flows - 6 lectures. Regional Case Studies: Latin America; Anglo-America - 4 lectures.

Supplementary materials: None.
Prerequisites: None.
Papers: None.
Examinations and quizzes: No quizzes. Three hourly short-answer essay exams and a short-answer essay final exam.

GEOGRAPHY 205
"Historical Geography of the United States"
Mr. Nostrand

One-two lectures on each of the following topics: Introduction: Historical Geography; Exploration and the Environment; Spanish Colonization; French Colonization; English Colonization; New England; Middle Colonies; The South; Colonial America; Appalachia and the Westward Movement; Ohio Country; Down-river Country; Inland Waterways and Railroads; The Great Lakes; The Middle West: Wisconsin and Minnesota; The Great Plains Barrier; Santa Fe Trail and New Mexico; Texas and the Cattle Kingdom; Mining Frontiers: Colorado; The Oregon Trail and Oregon Country; Mormons and the Great Basin ; California and the Gold Rush;

Required texts and materials: Required: Ralph H. Brown, HISTORICAL GEOGRAPHY OF THE UNITED STATES (1948) Recommended: GOODE'S WORLD ATLAS, Twelfth edition (or some suitable atlas).

Supplementary materials: Additional readings will be assigned.
Prerequisites: None
Papers: One term paper, 10 pages in length (maximum.)
Examinations and quizzes etc.: No quizzes, Two hourly exams and a final exam Exams mostly essay, but also terms to identify and place location questions.

GEOGRAPHY 220
Latin America
Mr. R. Wilkie

Comments and Remarks: This course is a survey of the way the various culture groups in Latin America have organized and used their space and environment. Special emphasis is given to the processes of change which constantly reshape and create problems in the rural-urban structures.

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Preliminary Consideration - 4 ; The Environmental Structure - 4; Pre-Columbian Patterns and Impact of 16th Centruy Spanish - 4; The Impact of European Immigration - 2; Culture Regions of 20th Century Latin America- 4; Spatial Distribution and Problems of: Rural Areas 8, Urban Areas 8; Case Studies in Depth: Mexico and Argentina - 8;

Required Texts and materials: Glenn Beyer, THE URBAN EXPLOSION IN LATIN AMERICA (1967), James Wilkie, THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION: FEDERAL EXPENDITURE AND SOCIAL CHANGE SINCE 1910 (1967) Ricardo Pozas, JUAN THE CHAMULA--paperback (1962)
Prerequisites: None
Paper: One, from ten to fifteen pages
Examination: Three (short answer and essay)

GEOGRAPHY 255
Economic Geography
Mr. Burke

The couse will be concerned with the spatial attributes of economic activity with attention divided approximately equally between agricultural, manufacturing, and service activities. The emphasis will lie on the "Why's" of spatial distributions and associations rather than on the facts of distributions themselves.

Student competencies will be assessed by two hour examinations, a term paper and a final. The examinations will all require essay or short-essay answers.

The required texts will be Alexander ECONOMIC GEOGRAPHY, Wagner THE HUMAN USE OF THE EARTH, and Zelinsky PROLOGUE TO POPULATION GEOGRAPHY.

GEOGRAPHY 385
(Special Problems) SOUTH AND EAST ASIA
Mr. Hafner

This is a new course which will focus on the human geography of selected regions and cultures in South and East Asia, with particular emphasis on their economic patterns and problems of development.

Mr. Hafner, who will be joining the faculty in September, has recently had some four years of field experience in the region, working for two years as the Director of the Geography Transportation Project (University of Michigan) in Thailand.

Geology

GEOLOGY 219 Mineralogy
Albert B. Nelson

Topics to be considered: 1. Crystallography (Crystal systems, morphological relations, Miller Indices) 2. Chemistry of Minerals (Interpretation of analyses and principles of crystal chemistry). 3. Physics of Minerals (Density, hardness, color and streak, cleavage and fracture magnetic properties). 4. Determinative Mineralogy (Use of spectroscope, physical and chemical tests). 5. Balance of time (lectures and laboratory) will be devoted to the study of the important groups of minerals and their identification. Typical hand specimens are also used for purposes. 6. The last three weeks of the course is devoted to the use of optical methods (petrographic microscope).

Required text: Elements of Mineralogy by Mason and Berry

Examinations: Two or three of the essay type in addition to the final examination

Prerequisites: Chemistry 111 and 112

Field Trip: A visit to the Mineralogy Section of the Harvard Museum (Cambridge).

Dutch

DUTCH 126 (I)
Mr. Beekman

Accelerated Elementary Dutch: Grammar, reading, composition and conversation.

6 class hours & 1 lab. hour.

Purposes: to get as quickly as possible a solid foundation of the principles of the Dutch language, so that we can start reading original texts in the original. The Program in Dutch Letters and Language is geared toward literature. And a fascinating terra incognito of great literary texts is awaiting curious students.

(NOTE: 2d semester: Accelerated Intermediate Dutch, which consists of grammar review, conversation and composition when it comes up in the course of reading short works of original writing in the language.

as well as DUTCH 267: MODERN DUTCH MASTERPIECES IN TRANSLATION.)

Text: William Z. Shetter, INTRODUCTION TO DUTCH. A PRACTICAL GRAMMAR.

No prerequisites or limitations, except the desire and willingness to learn a "different" language, with an eye on reading a new literature in the original.

Quizzes, examinations, etc. to judge student's proficiency.

German

GERMAN 130, German 138

German 130 is an intermediate language course in which the 4 skills of language learning - understanding, speaking, reading, and writing - are equally stressed.

German 138 is an intermediate reading course, especially designed for students who primarily want to develop a reading knowledge in the language.

German 130 will be followed by Herman 140 in the spring. Herman 138 will be followed by Herman 148. Both sequences lead to fulfillment of the language requirement.

Government

GOVERNMENT 100
American Government
Profs. Gordon, Steeper, Sulzner, Reid, Burke, Mainzer

An introduction to American political institutions and processes.

Outline: (order will vary with each instructor, as will specific assignments) Government in a Democratic Society, Theory and Practice; The Constitution and the American Political System, Federalism, Separation of Powers, Checks and Balances; Political Parties and Interest Groups; The Congress; The Presidency; The Judiciary: First Amendment Freedoms, Civil Rights, Representation; The Government in Action - the economy; The Government in Action - foreign policy

Texts: A selection of 8-10 paperbacks,

Supplemental readings on reserve

Prerequisite: None

Papers: Depends on professor

Examinations: Varies from professor to professor; generally, two hour examinations and one final. Combination of multiple choice and essay questions.

GOVERNMENT 100
Sections 1-12 and 25-36
American Government
Gordon and Sulzner

Comment or remarks: The course emphasizes American National Government, with attention devoted to the problem of how governmental officials and the institutions they work for relate to current political problems.

Topics to be considered and time: "Democratic Theory" - one wk.; "The Constitution" - one and one/half wks.; "Civil Liberties" - two wks.; "Civil Disobediance" - two wks.; "American Political Parties" - one wk.; "American Political Interest Groups" - one wk.; "The Presidency" - one wk.; "The Congress" - two wks.; "The Courts" - two wks.; "Foreign Policy " - two wks.

Texts: William Golding - LORD OF THE FLIES; Walter Lippman - THE PUBLIC PHILOSOPHY; Fred Greenstein - THE AMERICAN PARTY SYSTEM AND THE AMERICAN PEOPLE; Clinton Rossiter - THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY

(In addition , perhaps five more monographs which have not been selected at this time.)

Supplementary materials: Undecided

Prerequisites: None

Papers: Probably none.

Examinations and quizzes: Two hour examinations and a final examination. They will be a combination of objective and essay questions. Quizzes will be given if it is thought they are needed by the instructors.

GOVERNMENT 160
Introduction to Government
Mr. Gerard Braunthal

A study of democratic political systems (United States, Great Britain, France) on a topical basis

Topics: The Decision - makers (3 weeks) The Formal Structure of Authority and Policy Process (3 weeks); Political Parties and Elections (3 weeks); Interest Groups and the Political Process (2 weeks); Contemporary Challenge to Democratic Systmes (3 weeks)

Texts: Christoph, James, CASES IN COMPARATIVE POLITICS, Donovan, John THE POLITICS OF POVERTY, Lazer, Harry, THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM IN TRANSITION, Macridis, Roy and B. E. Brown, COMPARATIVE POLITICS, Pierce, Roy, FRENCH POLITICS AND POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS, Verney, Douglas, BRITISH GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS plus supplementary readings

Prerequisites & limitations: maximum enrollment 45

Papers: One research paper: 10-12 pages long

Examinations: One mid-semester and one final; essays

GOVERNMENT 161
Introduction to Politics
Professor Edward E. Feit

The purpose of this course is to draw students attention to the kinds of problems which political scientists consider important and how, in practical politics, men set out to solve them. The range of subjects to be considered is broad, being both theoretical and practical. Among them are such things as the way work is divided in a political system, the kinds of symbols men hold dear, and the way in which a society divides its resources through politics.

This course is an "enriched" course, and is only suitable for students with an interest in politics and and government who are willing to give it the time demanded. There is one text but a number of readings. INDEPENDENT work in a project to be decided between the student and instructor is not only encouraged but required. This being an introductory course, the only prerequisite is enthusiasm.

There will be one paper, in effect the independent project, one mid-term and a final. The mid-term consists of one essay question, given students in advance, and some short answer questions. The final consists of much the same thing.

GOVERNMENT 161 (OH) Issues of World Politics
Luther A. Allen

Comment: This experimental introductory course is offered under the rubic of Government 161 (Introduction to Politics) as a possible alternative to Government 150 (European Government) NO section of which will be offered on Orchard Hill next fall.

Topics: Theories of the nature and role of power and law in the world arena(1/4th); comparative foreign policies of the United States, Soviet Russia, and selected other states (3/8). Particular crisis issues (Vietnam, the nuclear arms race, the Middle East) will serve as focal case studies deriving from current developments(3/8).

Texts: In the process of being determined.

Prerequisites: This course is open to all undergraduates for Social Science Distribution credit. The Government Department has approved that it may be substituted for Government 150 (European Government) as part of the reuglar requirements for Government majors. Although the location is on Orchard Hill, non-Orchard Hill students may be accepted. Enrollment will be allowed to fifty sutdents.

Forms & Exams: There will be two full meetings of the class (Tuesdays and Thursdays) plus one of several small discussion meetings to be arranged evenings in 234 Noah Webster. There will be one hour examination, one class presentation (on a panel), and one term paper as well as a final examination. There will be guest lecturers from time to time.

GOVERNMENT 218 Section 2
Political Parties and Elections
Professor Sheldon Goldman

Description: The American Political process with emphasis on party organization, party functions, and electoral behavior.

Topics considered: I. (Week 1) Introduction to basic concepts. II. (Weeks 2-4) Setting of American Politics: Party origins and party history; characteristics of the American party system; party competition, regionalism, and one partyism. III. (Weeks 5-7) Parties and the Electorate: electoral participation; party voting; the voting decision. IV. (Weeks 8-9) Party organization: local, state and national party organizations; party activists. V. (Weeks 10-14) Principal functions of parties: party nominations and the direct primary; presidential nominations; party campaigning and party finance; party in the government; issues of party reform.

Text: Frank J. Sorauf, PARTY POLITICS IN AMERICA with supplementary texts and readings to be assigned.

No prerequisite.

One REQUIRED research paper.

Three examinations with objective AND essay questions.

GOVERNMENT 237, 537
Professor Franklin W. Houn
Government and Politics of China & Japan

A brief description of the course: An analysis of the political ideologies, party movements, governmental institutions, and major domestic and foreign policies of contemporary China and Japan. Special emphasis will be given to Chinese affairs including the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolutions and its implications.

Required Texts: Franklin W. Houn, CHINESE POLITICAL TRADITIONS, Washington, D.C., Public Affairs Press, 1965. Franklin W. Houn, A SHORT HISTORY OF CHINESE COMMUNISM , Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1967 (paper back edition).

Supplementary materials: Supplementary reading materials will be placed in the reserve book room of the Goodell Memorial Library.

Special Assignments for Graduate Students: Each graduate student in the class in required to read the following additional materials which are available in the Goodell Memorial Library: A. Doak Barnett, CHINESE COMMUNIST POLITICS IN ACTION. Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1969. (A paperback edition is available at bookstores) John W. Lewis, LEADERSHIP IN COMMUNIST CHINA. Ithaca, N.Y.: Cornell University Press, 1963 (A paperback edition is available at bookstores). Chapters 1, 2, and 3. James R, Townsend, POLITICAL PARTICIAPATION IN COMMUNIST CHINA. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1967.

Papers: Undergraduate students are NOT required to write any term paper, but each graduate student shall write a 15-page term paper on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor.

All graduate students are also urged to familiarize themselves with such source materials and important periodicals as the PEKING REVIEW, the CHINA QUARTERLY, SURVEY OF CHINA MAINLAND PRESS, SELECTIONS FROM CHINA MAINLAND MAGAZINES, CURRENT BACKGROUND, CURRENT SCENE, ASIAN SURVEY, JOURNAL OF ASIAN STUDIES, CHINA NEWS ANALYSIS, PACIFIC AFFAIRS, CHINA RECONSTRUCTS, PROBLEMS OF COMMUNISM, FOREIGN RADIO BROADCAST DAILY REPORTS, UNION RESEARCH INSTITUTE SERIES and etc. These materials are available either in the periodicals room or in HILC of the Library.

GOVERNMENT 242
The Politics of Sub-Saharan Africa
Professor Steeper

Designed as "a first course on Africa," this introduction concerns "the organization and processes of African politics, centering on the general political problems facing contemporary African governments."

Outline: I. Introduction (1 week). A. Physical environment. B. The Africans. 1. History. 2. Traditional Social Structures. 3. Value Systems. 4. Tribal Governments.

II. The Impact of Europe (2 weeks). A. Colonial Patterns. B. Tribalism and Territoriality. C. Economic Change and Social Development. D. Social Change and Social Problems.

III. Political Change and the Development of Nationalism (2 weeks).

IV. African Political Theories and Ideas (2 weeks). A. The Rise of Nations, Nationalism. B. The Problems of Independence. C. Politics and Government. D. Socialism, Negritude, Pan-Africanism. E. Political Instability and Military Ruse.

V. African Political Systems (3 weeks).

VI. Africa in World Affairs (2 weeks).

VII. The Future of African Unity (1 week).

Texts: Reader: McEwan and Sutcliffe, MODERN AFRICA. A number of paperbacks, including: Dodge, D., AFRICAN POLITICS IN PERSPECTIVE; Oliver and Fage, A SHORT HISTORY OF AFRICA; Zolberg, A., CREATING POLITICAL ORDER; Extensive bibliography with additional references on Library Reserve.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor. Student s should already have had Government 150 and, preferably, Government 254.

Papers: One topical term paper, approximately 20 pages in length.

Examinations: One midterm; one final - mostly essay with some short answer identifications.

GOVERNMENT 254 Section 1
International Relations
Ferenc A. Vali

SHORT OUTLINE OF COURSE:

I. The State System: Historical evolution, Multiple State System, Bipolar State System, Meaning of Sovereignty.

II. Basic Power Factors: Geography, Population, Nationalism, Ideology.

III. Limitations of Power: Balance of Power, Role of Diplomacy, International Law, International Organizations, Morality and Public Opinion.

IV. Conflicts and their Solution: Classes of conflicts, Peaceful Settlement, War, Disarmament, Arms Control, Integration, Federation.

V. Some Contemporary International Problems.

Required Texts: still under consideration because of new publications.

Prerequisites: Government 150 or 160-161; History 101, or consent of instructor.

Papers: Hour Exams, One Term Paper, Final Exam. (Essay and Identification Questions).

GOVERNMENT 254 Sec. 2
International Relations
Luther A. Allen

Topics: Bodin, Machiavelli, Grotius; the Western State System; Power and its elements; Balance of Power; Diplomacy; War and Nuclear Weapons; Communism; Nationalism; Imperialism; International Law and Organization.

Texts: Morgenthau, POLITICS AMONG NATIONS, Schuman, INTERNATIONAL POLITICS (7 th ed.); Spanier, WORLD POLITICS IN THE NUCLEAR AGE.

Suppl. : to be selected on Vietnam.

Prereqi: Hist. 101 or Govt. 150 or consent of instr. Bracketed (limit about 45)

Paper: Major Term Project: The Impact of Communism on International Relations (length left up to student).

Exams: one hour exam, Final.

GOVERNMENT 277
Armies and Political Policy
Professor Edward E. Feit

The profound effects that armies have on the politics of their nations has often been overlooked. It is only recently that terms such as "military-industrial complex" have become the common coin of discourse. The aim in the course is to examine the political effects that armies have on their countries, and to raise some pertinent questions.

The course will primarily be comparative with emphasis on countries OTHER than the U.S.A. In particular attention will be paid to France, Germany, Spain, Japan, and the developing world.

This being a Junior-Senior course, there are no "texts" only required readings. These are too many to list, especially as the list will be divided so that each student reads only part.

There will be no mid-term, but there will be an essay type final. A fairly lengthy term-paper (say 25-30 pages) will be required of all students.

GOVENMENT 290
Constitutional Law
Alfange

Remarks: This course requires day-to-day preparation, as all students will be expected to be able to contribute to class discussion each period. Student s who will be unable, because of the pressure of other commitments, to prepare for class on a day-to-day bais, would be well advised to consider the election of other courses.

Topics to be considered: a. The Supreme Court in American history (5 weeks) b. Separation and scope of federal powers (6 weeks) c. Some constitutional problems of the federal system (2 weeks)

Texts: a. Cushman and Cushman, CASES IN CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, b. Pritchett, AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES, c. McCloskey, THE AMERICAN SUPREME COURT

Prerequisites: Government 100 (American Government)

Papers: None

Examinations: Two hour examinations and a final examination, all essay type.

GOVERNMENT 291
Civil Liberties
Alfange

Remarks: This course requires day-to-day preparation, as all students will be expected to be able to contribute to class discussion each period. Students who will be unable, because of the pressure of other commitments, to prepare for class on a day-to-day basis would be well advised to consider the election of other courses.

Topics to be considered: A. Freedom of speech (5 weeks), B. Freedom of religion and separation of church and state (2 weeks) C. The Bill of Rights and criminal procedure (4 weeks) D. Racial equality (2 weeks)

Texts: A. Cushman, CASES IN CIVIL LIBERTIES B. Pritchett, AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES

Supplementary materials: Article reprints and mimeographed copies of Supreme Court decisions.

Prerequisites: Government 100 (American Government) Government 290 (Consitutional Law) would be helpful, but it is not necessary.

Papers: None

Examinations: Two hour examinations and a final examination, all essay type.

GOVERNMENT 292
Politics, Law, and Judicial Behavior
Professor Sheldon Goldman

Description: The federal judicial system with emphasis on the participants, the process of judicial decision-making, and the impact and import of judicial policies and the responses they produce.

Topics Considered: I. (Weeks 1-2) Introduction: the nature of law; the judicial function; systems theory and the federal system.

II. (Weeks 3-5) Participants: judges-selection and backgrounds; governmental and private lawyers; litigants and interest groups; juries; other participants.

III. (Weeks 6-7) Supports and Demands.

IV. (Weeks 8-10) Judicial decision-making: traditional approaches; legal realism; the social science approach; attitudes and values; small group analysis; social backgrounds and decision-making; fact pattern approach; judicial role analysis.

V. (Weeks 11-12) Output: judicial policies; some current policy trends.

VI . (Weeks 13-14) Feedback: impact and compliance; the lower courts; the media; the legal profession; Congress; the executive branch; other public officials.

Texts: Jahnige & Goldman, THE FEDERAL JUDICIAL SYSTEM with supplementary texts and readings to be assigned.

No prerequisite.

Optional research paper in lieu of mid-term examination.

Mid-term and final examination consisting of both objective and essay questions.

GOVERNMENT 321
The American Presidency
George T. Sulzner

Topics and Length of Consideration: "The Roots of the Presidency" (2 weeks) "The Selection Process for the Presidency" (4 weeks), "The Decision-Making Resources of the Presidency" 3 weeks. "The President in Action" 4 weeks. "The Presidency: A Comparative Perspective" 1 week.

Required Texts: Donald B. Johnson and Jack L. Walker, THE DYNAMICS OF THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY, Norman Mailer, MIAMI AND THE SIEGE OF CHICAGO, Richard Neustadt, PRESIDENTIAL POWER, Tom Wicker, JFK and LBJ. (Perhaps two other items which have not been elected as yet)

Supplementary Materials: None

Prerequisites and Limitations: None

Papers: None

Examinations: Two essay examinations and a Book Review which will be part of the Final Examination.

GOVERNMENT 324/624
Metropolitics
David A.:Booth

Course Description: The structure, problems, poutics, protests, and political processes of selected metropolitan areas in the United States, Canada and Great Britain

Required Texts & Materials: To be announced later

Prerequisites & Limitations: None

Papers: Three Short bibliographical essays One full length research paper

Examinations: One mid-term (short answer & essay) One final (short answer & essay)

GOVERNMENT 391, Section II, (Senior Seminar)
Professor Franklin W. Houn
Chinese Foreign Policy

A Brief Description of the Course: This course is designed to acquaint the student with the geographical, historical, ideological, economic, military, and other determinants of Communist China's foreign policy since its inception in 1949. It will also examine Peking's actual relations with various countries and its positions on major international issues such as people's war; control of nuclear weapons; the reorganization of the United Nations; the national liberation movements in Asia, Africa, and Latin America; economic development and economic aid; imperialism and neo-colonialism; and peaceful vs. violent transition from capitalism to socialism. Special attention will be given to Sino-American relations including such issues as the war in Vietnam; the future of Taiwan; American recognition of Peking; China's membership in the United Nations, American containment of "Chinese expansionism;" and "Washington-Moscow collusion to dominate the world."

Required Texts: A. Doak Barnett, COMMUNIST CHINA AND ASIA. New York: Harper & Brothers, paperback edition, 1963 (?). A.M. Halpern, editor, POLICIES TOWARD CHINA. New York: McGraw-Hill Book Co., paperback edition, 1965. Tang Tsou, editor, CHINA IN CRISIS, Vol. II: CHINA'S POLICIES IN ASIA AND AMERICA'S ALTERNATIVES, Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1968, Harold Hinton, COMMUNIST CHINA IN WORLD POLITICS, Boston; Houghton Mifflin Co., 1966.

Supplementary Materials: Supplementary reading materials will be placed in the reserve book room of the Goodell Memorial Library.

Prerequisites and Limitations: The course is open to seminars regardless of major fields.

Papers: Each member of the class will be asked to write a 10-page (approximate) term paper on a subject chosen in consultation with the instructor.

Examinations: There will be a written examination on the texts and the supplementary reading materials. The examination will consist of short and long essays.

History

HISTORY 115
Asian Civilization
Mr. Drake

Study of East Asian history, culture, and civilization can introduce new perspectives to broaden a student's world-view. The culture and civilization of China and Japan, from the beginnings to 1945, will be presented over two semesters by this introductory course. Two lectures per week will offer structures and interpretations of East Asian history, while a third meeting with small numbers of students will stress discussion of readings and problems.

Because there is a natural gap between learning about an alien civilization and actually experiencing it, this course will aim at reducing that gap by providing visual images of East Asia past and present with slides accompanying lectures, as well as with full-length feature films several evenings throughout the year. Peking the Great Wall, the Grand Canal, the ancient capital of Kyoto, modern Tokyo--these must be seen in the mind's eye as the loci of historical action.

Although the origins and development of Chinese and Japanese civilizations will be delineated within an historical framework, readings will focus not only on historical materials but also on materials from literature, art, and philosophy. This approach will add beginning students to understand East Asian Thought, to appreciate a culture area radically different from that of Europe and America, and to comprehend some of the salient aspects of modernization processes in one of the most important regions of the non-Western world. Finally, it is hoped this course not only will prepare students to have a more realistic grasp of contemporary problems in East Asia, but also will lead some to more advanced study of China and Japan.

HISTORY 150
Professor Dean Albertson

Topics: This is a survey course in American history from Jamestown through the Civil War. Those aspects of this period of history which are most relevant to our own time will be dealt with at greatest length.

Required Texts: John N. Blum, et. al., THE NATIONAL EXPERIENCE, 2nd ed; Quint, Albertson & Cantor, MAIN PROBLEMS IN AMERICAN HISTORY, Vol. I, 2nd edition.

Supplementary Materials: To be assigned - approximately one paperback every three weeks.

Papers: Optional

Examinations: Two mid-term examinations, one final examination, all essay.

HISTORY 152
Mr. Quint

This honors course is limited to specially qualified students selected by the Department of History. It is expected that students enrolled in this course subsequently will take History 153 in the spring semester. The aim of the course primarily will be to scrutinize the historical bases of such contemporary problems as war, imperialism, racism and alienation. There are no required texts and no course examinations. There will be two or three papers, one of them of approximately fifteen pages. The course will be conducted by seminar discussion method.

HISTORY 185
New Approaches to the Study of History (American)
Boyer, Nissenbaum

Remarks: A "laboratory" introduction to history: in-depth investigation of two historical episodes, using original sources. Weekly two hour seminar meetings, occasional lectures.

Topics: 1. Salem witch trials (7 weeks). 2. Shays' Rebellion (7 weeks). (Student participation in selection of future topics).

Required materials: Original documents; paperbacks and mimeographed handouts.

Supplementary materials: Microfilm, etc.

Prerequisites: NONE; this is an INTRODUCTORY-LEVEL course, both for majors and non-majors.

Papers: Short papers approximately every other week.

Exams, quizzes: None.

HISTORY 200/500
Ancient World to Graeco-Persian War
Mr. Kirk

I. Prehistoric Man, hunter and food-gatherer.

II. Evolving agriculture and techniques in S. W. Asia, from 10,000 years ago.

III. Literate urban civilization in Mesopotamia and Egypt, 4,000-2,500 B.C.

IV. "Imperialism", acculturation, and international relations to 1200 B.C.

V. Israel, from tribal confederacy to petty kingdoms: the prophets of ethical monotheism.

VI. Emergence of Greek politics and science to 500 B. C.

HISTORY 202/502
Early Middle Ages (300-1100)
Mr. Ware

The time span of this course is roughly from the third to the eleventh century. The continuing subject is the cultural transformation and reorientation of European Civilization during these centuries. Some specific topcs are: the disintegration of the Roman World, the Germanic migrations rise and expansion of Christianity (with particular attention to the Papacy and to Monasticism), the Age of Charlemagne, and the origin and development of feudal and manorial institutions. There is also some consideration of the worlds of Byzantium and Islam and their impact upon European historical evolution.

Required reading amounts to approximately one hundred pages a week in addition to whatever is necessary to prepare a paper of ten to fifteen pages. There is one hour examination at mid-term and a final examination. Graduate students are held to a higher standard of performance and their written work is more substantial.

HISTORY 205/206 505/506
Age of Renaissance and Reformation (1300-1600)
Mr. Ilardi

A study of the canges in European thought and institutions during the development of humanism and the Protestant and Catholic Reformations. History 205 deals with the institutions of the church, the empire, the national monarchies, the Italian city states, the early contributions of Italian Humanism. and the development of Renaissance art. History 206 deals with 16th century Italian and northern humanism, the new political realism in the age of Machiavelli, the growth of royal absolutism, Protestant thought, and Catholic renewal. The emphasis is on problems of intellectual history. Either semestor may be elected independently, but students are encouraged to take both semesters even in reverse order if necessary.

HISTORY 207
Europe in the Enlightenment
Professor Louis S. Greenbaum

The period of the 18th Century Enlightenment was one of the momentous epochs in world civilization. It was an age of revolutionary radicalism, daring ideas, courageous dissent, and a determination to rebuild an abusive society based on feudalism, absolute monarchy, social and economic privilege, religious intolerance, and intellectual authoritarianism on human dignity, common sense, and freedom. It is no accident that this movement culminated in the American and French Revolutions of 1776 and 1789, whose effects are still being felt all over the world.

History 207 is basically a course in civilization whose fundamental concerns are ideas and man. The readings emphasize the innovations of the 18th century: the secular state, constitutional liberalism; democracy and popular representation, social justice and equality, freedom of inquiry and expression, religious equality and toleration, public and progressive education, humanitarianism, social relief, free trade, and modern history writing - to mention the most important. The structure of the "Leviathan State", corporate society, and the traditional church are studied, as are the revolutionary ideas of Locke, Montesquieu, Voltaire, and Rousseau which proved destructive to them. The import of the Cartesian-Baconian-Newtonian Scientific Revolution is evaluated alongside advances in natural and political history. Also studied is the massive reform movement of the "Philosophers" from Bayle to Jefferson, men who defiantly set out to change existing conditions of society and life, and in the process endowed history with a body of thought and culture unprecedented in its magnitude, richness and diversity (several like Voltaire, Rousseau, Diderot and Franklin are examined in depth). The vast collaborative enterprise of knowledge and criticism, the Encyclopedia, which involved a hundred leading geniuses of Europe, is examined. So, too, are other distinctly Enlightenment movements: cosmopolitanism, sensibility, enlightened despotism, physiocracy. Considerable time is devoted to the aesthetic civilization of the Age of Reason through the medium of literature, drama, architecture, painting and music (readings, tapes, records, slides). Throughout the course an attempt is made to define "consciousness"---to understand the cultural dynamics of an age acutely conscious of its uniqueness and objectives; to question the "faith", the values and presuppositions of the 18th century; and to establish their relevance, if any, for us.

HISTORY 207/507
Europe in the Enlightenment
Mr. Greenbaum

The period of the 18th Century Enlightenment was one of the momentous epochs in world civilization. It was an age of revolutionary radicalism, daring ideas, courageous dissent, and a determination to rebuild an abusive society based on feudalism, absolute monarchy, social and economic privilege, religious intolerance, and intellectual authoritarianism on human dignity, common sense, and freedom. It is no accident that this movement culminated in the American and French Revolutions of 1776 and 1789, whose effects are still being felt all over the world.

History 207 is basically a course in civilization whose fundamental concerns are ideas and man. The readings emphasize the innovations of the 18th century: the secular state, constitutional liberalism, democracy and popular representation, social justice and equality, freedom of inquiry and expression, religious equality and toleration, public and progressive education, humanitarianism, social relief, free trade, and modern history writing--to mention the most important. The structure of the "Leviathan State", corporate society, and the traditional church are studied, as are the revolutionary ideas of Locke, Montesquieu, Voltaire, and Rousseau which proved destructive to them. The import of the Cartesian-Baconian-Newtonian Scientific Revolution is evaluated alongside advances in natural and political history. Also studied is the massive reform movement of the "Philosophers" from Bayle to Jefferson, men who defiantly set out to change existing conditions of society and life, and in the process endowed history with a body of thought and culture unprecedented in its magnitude, richness and diversity (several like Voltaire, Rousseau, Diderot and Franklin are examined in depth). The vast collaborative enterprise of knowledge and criticism, the Encyclopedia, which involved a hundred leading geniuses of Europe, is examined, So, too, are other distinctly Enlightenment movements: cosmopolitanism, sensibility, enlightened despotism, physiocracy, Considerable time is devoted to the aesthetic civilization of the Age of Reason through the medium of literature, drama, architecture, painting and music (readings, tapes, records, slides). Throughout the course an attempt is made to define "consciousness"---to understand the cultural dynamics of an age acutely conscious of its uniqueness and objectives; to question the "faith" the values and presuppositions of the 18th century; and to establish their relevance, if any, for us.

HISTORY 210/510
Europe 1870-1918
Mr. VanSteenberg

30 APR 03

History 210 is an upper level survey of the politics of the major powers between 1570 and 1914. Assuming no knowledge of European history beyond a Freshman Survey course, it discusses the nature of the European state system about 1870, and seeks to relate major problems of domestic and international affairs. About half the course is spent on European developments up to 1890, while the second half of the course is concerned with the changes in European politics which result from new overseas interests and political alignments of these states. This is essentially a lecture course; readings involve a text and a number of supplementary paperbacks. There are two examinations and on occasion a term paper is expected.

HISTORY 212/512
European Intellectual History in the 19th Century
Mr. Johnston

A SURVEY of philosophers and social theorists in England, France, Germany, and Russian 1789-1900. Response by thinkers to the Enlightenment and to the French Revolution will be stressed. Two lectures and one discussion per week will treat the widest possible range of thinkers and movements.

HISTORY 214/514
History of Russia
Mr. Jones

Beginning with the origins of the Russian state in the ninth century, this course traces the historical evolution of the Russian nation to the beginning of the nineteenth century. Primary emphasis is placed on the political evolution of the Russian state towards a centralized, autocratic form of government unlimited in its control over the nation and its people. The political tradition of Russia, so different from the Anglo-Saxon political tradition with which Americans are far more familiar, is examined in terms of historical development, like English constitutional history with a completely different outcome.

Secondary emphasis is placed on Russia's political and cultural confrontation with the West. Finding western culture alien but more advanced, Russia and the Russian people were torn between rejection and adoption of that culture. The result was a culture that was neither "western" nor "non-western" but "westernized", in which there was constant tension between the Western and the natively Russian aspects of Russia's heritage. Thus Russia is treated as the first "emergent" or "developing" nation, beset by problems of modernization in a situation where modernization means the adoption of a foreign culture.

Economic and intellectual developments are given extensive treatment within the context of these two central themes.

Required reading amounts to 100 to 200 pages per week. No term paper is required.

HISTORY 216/516
The Russian Revolution
Mr. McNeal

An intensive study of the origins, course, and impact of the Bolshevik revolution.

HISTORY 218/518
Early Modern Germany
Mr. Levy

An introduction to the political and intellectual history of the German states from the end of the Thirty Years' War to the defeat of Napoleon. Lectures will trace the development of major German states, with special attention to the rise of Brandenburg-Prussia, its internal history and foreign relations. Weekly discussions will examine the classics of German literary art, philosophy, and music.

Reading: a basic text plus weekly paperback assignments for discussion.

Papers: still under consideration.

Examination policy: mid-term and final of the take-home variety worth approximately 1/3 and 1/2 of the final grade; class-performance will account for the remaing 1/6 of the student's grade.

HISTORY 229
Social History of Early Modern Europe
Mrs. Chrisman

Comment: The course will involve itself in a description of analysis of the social structure and social institutions of Europe from 1550-1789. It will also examine the growth of social thought and social criticism and the question of the social causes of revolution. The course will fulfill the history department requirement for early modern history.

Topics to be considered: The Social Structure of Spain, Holland, France, Prussia & England 1550-1660 (roughly 4 wks.), Social Criticism in this period (roughly 2 wks.) The Social Elements of the English Revolution (roughly 1 wk.) Major Social Groups in 18 th Century Europe: The Mobility, the Bureaucracy; the Military, the Bomgeorsie, the Working classes (3-4 wks.) Social Thought & Criticism - 18 th Century (2 wks.) Social Elements in the French Revolution.

Required Materials: George Clark - THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY; Max Beloff - THE AGE OF ABSOLUTISM; Albert Goodwin - EUROPEAN MOBILITY IN THE 18 TH CENTURY; E. Barbour - THE BOURGEOLSIC OF THE 8TH CENTURY: Gwyn Williams - ARTISANS & SANS-CULOTTES; R.E. Foster - EUROPEAN SOCIETY IN THE 18TH CENTURY.

Course Work: The major work of the course will be an independent project by each student presented as a paper or as a class report on a topic of his or her own choice. This will involve use of primary sources where possible. There will be no quizzes. One hour exam and the final will be given an take-home exams.

HISTORY 230/530 - Modern Italy
Mr. Sarti

Surveys Italian history from the early eighteenth century to the present. The pre-unification period is covered in approximately four weeks. Developments in Italy during the pre-unification period are considered in the context of such international phenomena as the Enlightenment, the French Revolution, the Restoration, the rise of liberalism and nationalism. The discussion of Italian nationalism centers around the relationship between moderates and radicals in the movement for national unification, and on the international and domestic implications of Cavour's diplomacy.

The remainder of the course (approximately nine weeks) deals with the following four areas of Italian history since the unification: a) the consolidation of political unification, with particular reference to Church-State relations and the problem of the South; b) the period of stepped-up modernization, 1890-1914 (including the rise of socialism, organized labor, and Giolittian democracy); c) the rise and consolidation of fascism; d) the Second World War and after (including the recent "opening to the left").

HISTORY 231/531 English History Survey

This course will cover English history from the era of the Anglo-Saxon invasion until the Revolution of 1688. Emphasis will definitely on post-Conquest history, with greatest concentration on England in the early modern period, i.e. from the late fifteenth century until the Revolutionary Settlement of 1688/89. For the medieval period, emphasis will be on the inception and growth of governmental and legal institutions - Privy Council, Common Law, etc. - while for the early modern period emphasis will be on the complex of social and political changes which underlay the English civil war. English history will be emphasized rather than British, although constant reference will be made to the European - wide aspects of English institutions and movements.

There will be two lectures and one discussion section each week. A text will be recommended, as well as supplementary reading. There will be a mid-term and a final exam.

HISTORY 234/534 Tudor-Stuart England
Mr. Shipley

This will actually be a full-year course, with a semester devoted to each period, i.e. 1485 to 1603 in the first semester, 1603-1714 in the second.

The study of Tudor England will, of necessity, begin with an extensive review of late medieval England, from the failure of strong monarchy and the advent of plague and economic stagnation in the fourteenth century to the reversal of these trends in the late fifteenth. All major aspects of Tudor hisory will, of course, be considered, but religion and, in particular, social change will be emphasized.

The course will be conducted through lectures and discussion groups. A survey book and supplementary reading will be assigned. Except in special circumstances, students would be most ill-advised to take Stuart England without having had the survey of Tudor England.

HISTORY 236/536
18th Century Britain
Mr. Wickwire

The course will cover five of the basic features of 18th-century Britain: (1) its domination by the aristocracy; (2) the difficult material conditions of the mass of the people; (3) steady constitutional growth; (4) fluctuating empire; and (5) material and ideological revolutions.

With regard to the first of these features the course will examine the aristocracy, its domination of society and politics, and its amusements. These amusements, in turn, set the cultural standards of Britain and attention will be given to the theatre, music, literature, painting, parks and watering places, and court life.

In contrast ot the aristocracy and their cousins the gentry were the mass of the people living in the country or clustered in a few large cities. Attention will be given to the difficult material conditions under which they lived, their occupations, and the harsh laws governing their lives (including the treatment of debtors and felons). At the same time the course will note the rise of philanthropic and religious movements (Methodism) which concentrated on the needs of the masses.

The eighteenth centruy is also a period of steady constitutional growth, wherein there first appears, in anything like modern form, the Cabinet and the Prime Minister. The course will cover the Settlement of 1688-1689; the changing status of Parliament; the emergence of the Cabinet and Prime Minister; and the gradual erosion of the power of the King. The two Acts of Union, that with Scotland in 1707 and with Ireland in 1801, which created first the Kingdom of Great Britain and then the United Kingdom will also be discussed.

During the eighteenth century the British lost one empire, the 13 colonies of North America. But in the same century the British created a second, much larger empire, which encompassed Canada, India, and Australia, and was tentatively extending itself into Africa and parts of Asia other than India and Australia. The course will treat of these developments, stressing the Utrecht Settlement and the early wars for Empire as well as the American Revolution and the Napoleonic Wars.

Finally, Britain felt the impact of material and ideological revolutions in the eighteenth century that would profoundly influence its and European development generally in the nineteenth century. The course will discuss the beginnings and impact of the two material revolutions--the Indistrial and Agricultural Revolutions--and the two ideological ones--the American and French Revolutions.

HISTORY 237/537 Modern Britain
Mr. Hernon

This course covers the period from 1815 to 1905. It deals with such questions as the political response to industrialization, the problems of urbanization and welfare, the evolution of classical liberalism, the foreign policy of a world power, the "Imperial Idea", the growth of Irish nationalism, the decline of the Liberal party and the rise of labour. Each student will be expected to give at least one class report and write a paper of ten to fifteen pages in length. There will be one hourly and a final exam.

HISTORY 304/604
History of Gran Colombia

Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador from colonial settlement to the present.

HISTORY 316/616 American Colonial History to 1763
Mr. Bernhard

In broad outline the course is concerned with the evolution of a new society in English North America from the early 17th Century to the end of the Seven Years' War in 1763. Focusing on key issues of the era, History 320 is planned to give students ample opportunity to discuss and interpret historical elements, and to increase their historical perspective. An integral part of the course is utilization of available research materials such as Colonial newspapers, pamphlets, correspondence, and documents.

Among specific topics to considered will be European invasion of the New World, homogeneity and diversity in Colonial society, Puritanism, Quakerism and Anglicanism as determinants in Colonial life, and American derivatives of European intellectual movements.

HISTORY 319/619
Jacksonian America
Mr. Richards

The course will have two general purposes. The first is to introduce the general student to the social, political, and economic problems of the period. The second is to introduce the specialized student to some of the standard secondary works on the Jacksonian period, as part of his preparation for advanced work in history.

The course will consist of lectures and discussions, an hour test, a term paper, and a final exam. The term paper will treat some serious problem in the interpretation of the Jacksonian period, and it will be about 20 pages long. Examinations will be subjective.

HISTORY 320
American Colonial History to 1763
W. Bernhard

Comment: This course emphasizes the evolution of a new society in North America from the 17th Century to 1763. For history and other majors.

Topics: Europeans in the New World Environment 3 lectures Evolution of Planter and Puritan Societies, 6 to 7 lectures, The Colnies Within the Empire, 17-18 Centuries 6 to 7 lectures, 18th Century Colonial Society-Structure, Ideals, and Intellect 6 to 7 lectures.

Reading materials: no required text. David Hawke's COLONIAL EXPERIENCE is recommended. Extensive readings in various original sources, monographs, and articles, in paperback editions or on library reserve.

Prerequisites: Background of previous U.S. history courses desirable.

Papers: 1 paper on a special project, minimum of 15 pages.

Exams: Mid-term and final, both essay type.

HISTORY 324/624
Progressive Age
Mr. Thompson

History 324 begins by considering the political, economical, and ideological forces that were responsible for bringing about a reform ethos by 1900. It also attempts to understand why certain individuals and groups were inclined toward change. There is a heavy emphasis on national, political, and economical institutions, and the influence of T. Roosevelt and W. Wilson constitutes a major part of the course. There is no text. The reading consists of eight paperbacks and if the student hopes to make an A he must do a term paper. There is one hour exam and a final.

HISTORY 326
American Thought and Culture
Mr. Cantor

This course deals with the various strands that have gone into the shaping of the American mind from Puritanism to pre-Civil War manifest destiny. Students will be required to read seven or eight paperbacks, and a dozen Reserve Room volumes that treat of such themes as religion, political ideology, nationalism, romanticism, art, reform movements, slavery and anti-slavery thought from the outset of settlement to the 1850's.

HISTORY 326/626
American Thought and Culture
Mr. Boyer

This course examines the role of ideas in American history from the early Colonial period through the Civil War. While attention is given to Puritanism, Transcendentalism, etc, as intellectual systems deserving study in their own right, emphasis is also placed upon the ideologies, attitudes, prejudices, and fears which worked powerfully at the popular level in this period. Notice is given, for example, to revivalism; the varieties of Utopian thought; frontier humor; art and literature; and attitudes toward slavery, Europe, Immigrants, the West, Indians, and women. Reflecting the broad approach, the reading includes John Winthrop, Johnthan Edwards, Jefferson, Calhoun, Tocqueville, Emerson, and Thoreau, as well as such secondary works as Edward D. Andrews, THE PEOPLE CALLED SHAKERS; Morton and Lucia White, THE INTELLECUAL VERSUS THE CITY; and William Stanton, THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS (attitudes toward race).

In addition to the midterm and the final, there will be a 15-20 page paper exploring the ideas of some significant figure of the student's choice.

HISTORY 328
U. S. Const. Hist. to Civil War
Mr. Cantor

This course carried American legal and constitutional development to the Civil War years. It examined, among other topics, the transmission of legal culture from the Old World, emergent political thought, federal and state constitutional developments, the Marshall and Tacey courts, the states rights movement, and presidential power. Course assignments will be drawn from a textbook, supplemented by a few paperbacks to be purchased by the student, and readings drawn from Reserve Room volumes.

HISTORY 330/331/631-630
Social History of the United States
Mr. De Pillis

American society, defined sociologically, is the subject matter of this two-semester course. The first semester covers 1607-1830 and the second semester 1830-present.

This is not "pots-and-pans" social history of the old school. Nor is it a tendentious examination of present-day social problems. The subject matter emphasizes what is known of the causes of social change and most of the lectures and readings deal with different periods (and regions), the place of women in society, the acculturation of children, the family, class structure, the emergence of regional patterns of culture, ethnicity in American life, internal migration, and historical theories of social change. Religion is considered only in so far as it is a symptom of social change (e.g., sects), or an instrument of socialization (inculcating values, sanctions), or as a framework for social organization.

This kind of social history is entirely new and there are no convenient readings. Since no adequate textbook is available, Carl Degler's OUT OF OUR PAST serves as a substitute. The readings change each year as better materials become available.

HISTORY 333/633
American Westward Expansion
Mr. De Pillis

This one-semester course attempts to hit the highlights of the "West" or "the frontier"--defined as the social and intellectual process of settlement from the age of exploration to the early 20 century. It is thus not a "cowboy-and-Indian" course. But since the approach of the lectures is somewhat unorthodox, the instructor has bent over backwards trying to construct a syllabus that will give students the opportunity to gain a good foundation in traditional topics of frontier history (pioneers, cowboys-and-Indians). Thus, the textbook is the orthodox, neo-Turnerian colume of R. A. Billington. Also there are three fairly complex map problems which require the writing of accompanying texts and documentation. There is a lengthy supplementary reading list that includes all the popular and classic works, such as those of Parkman and DeVoto.

Typical lecture topics are the detailed medieval background (in cosmology and cosmography) of exploration and settlement, the comparative history of colonial settlement, the comparative analysis of Angolo-American indian relations, and analysis of particular frontier social types such as pioneer farmer, cattleman, speculator, and goldminer.

HISTORY 334/634 - 335/635 Diplomatic History of United States
Mr. Hart

This two-semester course concentrates on events relative to American diplomatic practice from the Revolution to the current date. The breaking-point between the two semesters is 1900. In addition to events, critical attention is given to habits, principles, and traditions which have influenced diplomatic practice. In each semester students can expect to read from eight to ten monographs and collections of articles in addition to a textbook.

HISTORY 337/637
The City of Modern United States
Mr. Tager

The prime concern of this course is to understand the ORIGINS of the social, political and spatial dimensions of the modern urban environment. The history of particular cities will be avoided, and emphasis will be placed on the study of the common factors which engendered the modern industrial metropolis. Simply put, two themes will dominate: the urbanization of the United States due to industrialization and the affects of the rise of the city; the 20th century response of Americans to the complex problems of urban life.

Topics to be studied will range from comparisons of pre-industrial and industrial cities; the delineation of the small town, presentation of the factors stimulating urbanization, such as the rural-urban migration and technological change, and consideration of the problems created by city growth such as congestion, lack of housing, poor sanitation, inadequate transportation facilities, the breakdown of municipal government, and the creation of the Black ghetto. In studying the response of Americans to the new conditions of urban life, subjects will include: city planning and architecture; new forms of municipal government; social and political reform movements; the growth of new concepts of urban social control--ecologists, garden city regionalists, metropolitan planners, new towns movement, urban renewal and the lure of suburbia--and civil disorders in the cities and the rise of megalopolis.

HISTORY 340/640 Civilization of Islam
Mr. Kirk

I. The Middle East before Islam, geography and sociology. II. Muhammad, prophet and statesman, A.D. 610-32; the "revolutionary idea" of Islam. III. Arab expansion and internal disunity, A.D. 634-750; establishment of the Baghdad caliphate. IV. The "Golden Age" and decay of the Abbasid caliphate. V. Consolidation of Sunni Islam, 11th-13th centuries A.D. VI. Rise of the Ottoman Empire, 13th-15th centuries A.D. VII. Ottoman administration and society. VIII. Stagnation of the Islamic Empire and 18th-century enroachment of Europe.

HISTORY 386 - Ireland Under the Union
Special Problems-Topics (Irish History)
Mr. Hernon

This course covers the period from 1800 to 1922. It deals with such topics as the Act of Union of 1800, Daniel O'Connell and Catholic Emancipation, the Repeal Movement, the Irish Famine, Young Ireland and the Fenians, Irish emigation, Irish-American nationalism, the Home Rule Movement, the fall of Parnell, the Irish literary renaissance, the Easter Rising of 1916, and the role of intellectuals before and during the Revolution of 1916 to 1921 and their disillusionment after independence. Each student will be expected to give two class reports and write a fifteen-page paper based on primary sources.

HISTORY 395
Senior Seminar
Mr. Johnston

Study of principal European sociologists since 1800. Works by Marx, Comte, de-Tocqueville, Durkheim, Max Weber, and Pareto will be examined in detail. The term paper may be written on any social theorist since 1800.

Mathematics

Final text selections and teaching assignments for most of the mathematics and statistics courses have not yet been made. As soon as texts have been determined, orders will be placed with the University Book Store, and they will then be listed by title and course number in the book list that they maintain.

MATHEMATICS 100
Mathematics in the Modern World (E)

This is a non-technical course intended for students in the humanities and similar fields of study, which will give the student an opportunity to learn something of the spirit of mathematics and its relationship to non-scientific disciplines. The course will be idea-oriented as opposed to skill oriented, i.e. with emphasis on the conceptual aspects of mathematics rather than on development of technical skills. There are no prerequisites to this course. 3 credits.

MATHEMATICS 110
Elementary Techniques of Mathematics. (E)

A course devoted to some basic techniques of mathematics and their application. The topics covered will include sets, logic, counting, probability, functions and graphs, and a review of the real number system. This course is intended to replace Math 111 and 112 eventually, and students cannot receive credit for Math 110 in addition to either Math 111 or Math 112. There are no prerequisites to this course. 3 credits.

MATHEMATICS 116
Calculus for Business and Social Sciencesl

Sets, real numbers, inequalities, relations and functions, sequences, series, limits, differentiation and applications. No prerequisite. 3 credits. This course is designed primarily as a requirement for students in the School of Business Administration, and as an elective for the Social Sciences. Math 116 and 117 together will comprise a two-semester calculus sequence. Beginning with the class of 1973 all students in SBA will be required to take Math 116 and 117 instead of 112 and 113. A student will not receive credit for more than one of 113,116,123,135.

MATH 135
Engineering Calculus I
Pre-Requisites: Trigonometry
Co-Requisites: None
Most recent text used: Thomas: Calculus, 4th edn.

MATH 136
Engineering Calculus II
Pre-Requisites: Math 135
Text used: Thomas: Calculus, 4th edn.

MATH 185
Engineering Calculus III
Most recent Text used: Thomas: Calculus, 4th edn.

MATH 186
Engineering Calculus IV
Pre-requisites: Math 185
Most recent text used: Thomas: Calculus, 4th edn.

MATH 187
Differential Equations for Engineers
Co-Requisites Math 185
Most recent text: Rainville: Differentail Equati

Statistics

STATISTICS 125
Stat 121 for Quantitative Methods
STATISTICS 126
Stat 121 for SBA

These are experimental sections of Statistics 121. Stat 125 will have 1 year of calculus as a prerequisite. Both are intended for School of Business students only. For more information, contact Professor Kaczka in the School of Business.

STATISTICS 231/531
Introduction to Statistical Inference I

Random experiments and probability models, independence, conditional probability, sampling, random variables, date representations, special distributions, deduction and inference.

Prerequisite: Math 011 or equivalent. 3 credits. This course is intended as a requirement for students in areas that reply on statistical tools but do not require deep mathematical insight.

STATISTICS 315
Introduction to Mathematical Statistics
Kleyle

Stat 315 is designed to be a first course in probability and statistics for students with a mathematical background. Stat 315 is the first half of a two semester sequence, and consists mainly of some basic mathematical probabilistic concepts. A discussion of statistical inference is postponed until the spring semester (Stat 316).

Topics: Set functions, Probability set functions, Random Variables, Distribution and Density functions, Mathematical expectation, Moment generating functions, Chebyshov's Inequality, Conditional probability, conditional distributions, stochastic independence, Special distributions (binomial, poisson, normal, gamma), Sampling distributions (distribution of functions of random variables).

Also if time permits: Distribution of order statistics, Interval estimation.

Text: INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS by Hogg and Craig

Prerequisites: Math 174 and some elementary matrix algebra.

Examinations: Three hour exams and final. All exams will involve problem solving, and all will be open book.

Music

MUSIC 102
Literature of Music
Dr. Charles Lehrer

Music of the Middle Ages, Renaissance,/ Baraque Era,/ Classism, Romanticism,/ and Twentieth Century: A study of style and literature through critical listening.

Text: Ratner, Leonard Music: THE LISTENER'S ART.

Some knowledge of the Standard Literature (Late Baroque to the present) is helpful. Course restricted to music majors.

Four listening exams given at the end of the divisions listed above. These of the divisions listed above. These cover recognition of styles and/or specific works.

MUSIC 128
Flute
Professor Joseph Contino; private instruction limited to music majors.

MUSIC 130
Clarinet
Professor Joseph Contino
Private Instruction-limited to music majors.

MUSIC 132
Saxophone
Professor Joseph Contino
Private instruction - limited to music majors.

MUSIC 223
Instrumental Techniques (Flute)
Professor Joseph Contino
Instruction in performance and methodology (limited to music education music majors.)

MUSIC 225
Clarinet Techniques (Clarinet)
Professor Joseph Contino
Instruction in performance and methodology (limited to music education music majors.

398
MUSIC 162
University Chorus
Mr. Harler

Remarks: A large choral group specializing in the preparation and concert performance of oratorios and other large choral works with orchestra. Open to all students. Two rehearsals a week. One credit (counts toward Humanities requirement). Major work for Spring, 1969 - Mozart VESPERS with orchestra. No text, no prerequisites, no papers, no examinations!

MUSIC 165
Women's Choir
Mr. Harler

Remarks: A select choir specializing in performances of accompanied and unaccompanied choral literature for women's voices. Audition required. Two rehearsals a week. One credit (counts toward Humanities requirement). Major work for Spring, 1969 - Benjamin Britten CEREMONY OF CAROLS with harp accompaniment. No text, no prerequisites, no papers, no examinations!

MUSIC 167
Madrigal Singers
Mr. Harler

Remarks: A small vocal ensemble specializing in music of the Renaissance. Audition required. Three rehearsals a week. One credit (counts toward Humanities requirement). For audition phone 545-0532.

MUSIC 365
Choral Conducting
Mr. Harler

Remarks: Rehearsal techniques and conducting of vocal ensembles. Required purchase of choral music packet, approx. $2.50. Written and applied conducting examinations. Two class hours, two credits.

Prerequisites: Conducting 363.

Philosophy

PHILOSOPHY 390
Seminar
Professor Bruce Aune

Comments or remarks: Topic: KANT'S CRITIQUE OF PURE REASON

Required materials: Text: Modern Library Edition of Kant's Critique of Pure Reason.

Prerequisites: two semester courses in philosophy, at least one numbered above 250 (or permission of instructor).

Papers: Two short papers, 5-10 pages.
Exams: Mid-Semester and Final

Astronomy

ASTRONOMY 101
Elementary Astronomy
Irvine (MWF-0:05), Dent (MWF-2:30), Taylor (T-Th-1:00)

Comments: For students wishing a general not overly mathematical background in what astronomy is about.

Topics: History of Astronomy (Greeks to Middle Ages) (2 wks). The rise of science and laws of planetary motion (2 wks). The earth and its atmosphere (1 wk). Light, what it is, how astronomers use it (1 wk). The moon (1 wk). Tides and Eclipses (2 wks). The Solar system and the planets (3 wks). Comets and meteors (2 wks).

Supplementary materials: Shklovski & Sagan, INTELLIGENT LIFE IN THE UNIVERSE.

Prerequisites: none
Papers: none.
Examinations: 3 one hour evening exams.
Lab: 1 one hour discussion session per week.

ASTRONOMY 122
Introductory to Astronomy and Astrophysics
Strong (T-Th-1:25-3:00)

Comments: Similar to 101-102, but for science majors. An in depth course.

Topics: Black Body radiation, Gas laws, Stellar positions and magnitudes, binaries, spectra, galaxies and cosmology.

Text: Swihart, Astrophysics . . .

Supplementary materials: Observing sessions and lab exercises.

Prerequisites: Math 123, Physics 104, or consent of instructor.
Papers: none.
Examinations: 2 - midterm and final.

ASTRONOMY 231
Space Science
Army (MW-2:00-4:00)

Comments: A more detailed discussion, but with limited mathematics, of a limited set of topics of current interest in astronomy. To be given at Amherst College.

Topics: Cosmic Rays, Infrared and Radio Observation, Exploding galazies, Exploding Stars, Cosmology, Origin of Life.

Supplementary materials: Scientific American readings.

Prerequisites: 1 semester of Astronomy or consent of instructor.
Papers: None.
Examinations: 3 hourly exams.

ASTRONOMY 237
Observational Astronomy
Adler (T-Th-2:00-4:00)

Comments: An introduction to Observational Astronomy for physical science majors. To be given at Mt. Holyoke.

Topics: Photography, variable star observations, spectra of stars, solar observing, positional astronomy.

Prerequisites: Physics 105 or equivalent, Astronomy 101 or 102.
Papers: None.
Examinations: 2 - essays and problems.

ASTRONOMY 343
Astrophysics
Harrison (MF-1:30)

Comments: For Juniors and Seniors with a good background in physics or math.

Topics: Gravity, hydrostatic equilibrium, transfer and generation of energy, structure of stars.

Text: STRUCTURE AND EVOLUTION OF THE STARS, Schwarzschild.

Supplementary materials: Journal articles.

Prerequisites: Math 186, Physics 256.
Papers: 1 - 5-10 page.
Examinations: 1 - essay and problems

Physics

PHYSICS 100
An Introduction to Physics.
Arthur R. Quinton

A course intended for the student who wishes to test his or her interest in a physical science at the college level. There are no prerequisites or laboratory exercises. Credits from this course can be used to satisfy, partially, core curriculum requirements. A student stimulated by this course could enter the sequence Physics 105, 106, 107 subsequently (new numbers Physics 161, 162, 163). The major purpose of this course is to attract students into a new program for physics majors terminating with the bachelor degree. New courses at the junior and senior level will be established as the demand arises. Such a major might be interested in the teaching of physics at the secondary level, for example.

Topics: The scientist's view of the world. Elementary particles and conservation laws. Mathematics and physics. Special theory of relativity. The key ideas of quantum mechanics.

Text: Either Basic Physics - K.W. Ford - Blaisdell OR An introduction to the Meaning and Structure of Physics - L. N. Cooper - Harper and Row

The intention is to work closely with up to 25 students. About four problem sets are demanded with student cooperation encouraged. A few 10 minute quizzes and a final examination round out the course.

PHYSICS 116H* Relativity
R. Krotkov

Remarks: Course mainly intended for Honors Students.

Topics: Aim of the course is to discuss relativity. Necessary aspects of general physics will be covered. Philosophical and historical aspects of relativity will be discussed if there is interest among those enrolled.

Prerequisites: None

Limitations: Permission of Honors Program Director needed.

* New course

PHYSICS 117
Nuclear Energy

A one term course (Spring 1970 and probably alternate years thereafter) designed to introduce the general student (non-majors) to the ideas of nuclear physics, nuclear energy, and the impact of these ideas on governmental problems. No prerequisities, 3 class hours, 3 credits. Professor David R. Inglis, a senior physicist active in governmental and political affairs, will be joining our faculty this fall and will be teaching the course in the spring.

There is also the strong possibility that Professor Janice Button-Shafer will teach a new 3 credit course on Physics and Music in the Spring 1970. It will have no prerequisites and will be designed primarily for music majors, although all students will be welcome.

PHYSICS 118
Elements of Quantum Physics
L. F. Cook

Comment or remarks: This is a new course and is designed to introduce students in the Humanities and Social Sciences to contemporary Physics without excessive prerequisites.

Topics: (tentative) 1. Introduction to Classical Physics Conservation Laws, Measurement, Continuity, 2 weeks; 2. Structure of Atoms, Bohr, Lack of Continuity 2 weeks; 3. Measurements, Destruction of Classical Physics, intrinsic uncertainty, probabilities, models, 3 weeks; 4. Hierachy of Forces, Weak, Strong and Electromagnetic forces, Nuclear models, radioactivity, 2 weeks; 5. Spin, Internal quantum numbers, space quantization, parity non-conservation, 2 weeks; 6. Particles, Lack of Definition of Elementary, Symmetries, "Particle Democracy"

Required Texts and Materials: No additional materials, text not chosen as yet.

Supplementary materials: Perhaps supplementary paperbacks.

Prerequisites and Limitations: None other than high school algebra and trigonometry.

Papers (length and number): Not clear as yet, but not larger than 3-4 papers each of 2-3 pages in length.

Examinations: Probably a Midterm and a Final. Type of test will depend on the number of students.

PHYSICS 121 (formerly 101), 122 (102)
Concepts of Physics
William H. Ross, graduate assistants in all but one lab.

Topics: Mechanics, heat, electricity and magnetism, light, spectra, atomic and nuclear structure. Relative time not settled. New text not yet selected. Required materials: one textbook, one lab report book. Supplementary materials: Some 300 paper backs are supplied by the instructor. Seven Feynman "Messenger Films" given at Cornell University on "The Nature of Physical Law" and other films will be shown. Prerequisite: Admission to the University. Limitations: Two lecture sections with a total capacity of 250, no more. Papers: One OPTIONAL outside reading report which counts half the final IF chosen by the individual student. This past year reports on five of the Feynman Films were also optional but IF chosen counted one-half of the final.

Examinations: 3 hour exams each semester; a two hour final except for those who did both the outside reading and the movie. Quizzes: none. A problem set or a critique is due at practically every lecture period. All assigned laboratories must be performed and written up in order to pass the course. Some discussion sessions may be substituted for labs, either by SECTION or by STUDENT MAJOR, if advance notice is given. The exams are varied: There are problems, essays, define, derive, a few true-false, usually a "make up a question of your own" on some topic you feel you have prepared but which was not covered.

PHYSICS 141 (formerly 103)
Introductory Physics,I
M. M. STERNHEIM

Comments: The first of two noncalculus courses designed mainly for science majors, premeds, etc.

Topics: Mechanics, Electricity and Magnetism, Waves. (142 will cover relativity, quantum mechanics, nuclear physics, elementary particles.) Heavy emphasis on historical and logical development of the fundamental concepts of contemporary physics.

Tentative Text: "An Introduction to the Meaning and Structure of Physics", by Leon Cooper. (This is an exciting new text)

Papers: None
Exams: Machine graded short answer.

PHYSICS 161 (formerly 105)
General Physics I
Phillips R. Jones (lecture and recitation), S. Steven Yamamoto (lab), A. H. Mathieson and Gerald Meisner (recitation).

Comment: Intended particularly for engineering students, but suitable also for students interested in physics, chemistry, or mathematics. 2 lecture hours per week, 2 recitation hours, 2-hour laboratory in alternate weeks, 4 credits.

Topics Covered: Vectors (one lecture); Particle Kinematics (2 lectures); Particle Dynamics (3); Mechanical Work and Energy (3); Linear Momentum and Collisions (3); Rotational Motions, Dynamics, Rigid Body Motion, and Angular Momentum (5), Simple Harmonic Motion (1); Gravitation and Planetary Motion (1); Mechanical Waves (1); Heat (1).

Required Text: Physics (Part I or Combined Edition), by Halliday & Resnick, (Wiley).

Supplementary Materials: Laboratory data notebook (bound), Physics Laboratory Report covers.

Prerequisites: Mathematics 135 previously or concurrently with permission.

Papers: None.

Homework: Usually 6 problems per week.

Exams: Three one-hour exams plus 2-hour final exam. Quizzes in recitation at discretion of recitation instructor.

PHYSICS 162
General Physics II, H. M. Goldenberg; new course number of Physics 106, and 2nd in a three-term sequence of introductory physics for Engineering majors.

Topics: basic electricity and magnetism with calculus.

Text: HALLIDAY & RESNICK: PHYSICS

Supplementary materials: A two-hour laboratory meets every second week.

Prerequisites: Physics 161 (Physics 105) and introductory calculus.

Papers: none

Examinations: Three one-hour tests plus the final

PHYSICS 163 (Formerly 107)
General Physics III
Claude Penchina

Comments or remarks: Lecture hour 9 AM instead of reported 8 AM

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Optics 2 wks. Relativity 2 wks, Atomic Physics 4 wks. Nuclear Physics 3 wks. General Topics in Modern Physics 3 wks.

Required texts and materials: Not yet final

Supplementary materials: Outside Reading

Prerequisites (if any): Physics 106 Math 136 or equivalent

Papers (length and number): None

Examinations, quizzes, & c. (short-answer or essay, &c.): 2 hour exams - 1 final Short answers and problems.

Physics 181 (formerly 111) Introductory Physics for Majors I.
K.S.R. Sanstry, E. Golowich, N. Ford, R.L. Gray

Remarks: Limited to physics and astronomy majors and others interested in an introductory course at an advanced level.

Topics: Vector analysis, laws of mechanics, conservation laws, rigid bodies, complex numbers, wave motion.

Prerequisite: Math 123 or equivalent; consent of Department

PHYSICS 183 (formerly 113)

Introductory Physics III, for Physics Majors, Mr. Hertzback; three class hours, one two-hour laboratory; intended for physics majors, but may be taken by other interested students with the appropriate background.

Topics: laws of electricity and magnetism (electrostatics, electric field and potential, magnetic field, induction, feidls in matter), the Maxwell equations in integral form, applications to D.C. and A.C. circuits, special relativity and electro magnetic waves.

Text: not yet determined.

Prerequisite: Physics 181, 182 (111,112) or equivalent,

Corequisite: Mathematics 173, 174 or equivilent,

Examinations: Two or three 1 1/2 hour evening exams and final. Exams primarily contain problems with occasional short answer or essay questions.

PHYSICS 251
Electricity and Magnetism
G. A. Peterson

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each Vector Calculus (2 wks.) Electrostatics, Solutions of Laplaces Equation (4 wks.), Dielectrics, Energy, Currents, Magnetic Fields, Maxwell's Equations, (8wks.)

Required Texts and materials: REITZ AND MILFORD (tentative).

Prerequisites and limitations (if any. Physics 142, or 162, or 184 Math 174 or 186

Papers (length and number): None

Examinations, quizzes, &c. (short-answer or essay, &c.): 2 exams plus final; text)

PHYSICS 255
Professor A. R. Hoffman

Comments: This course is fundamental to much of advanced physics. Course emphasizes problem solving as means of achieving desired proficiency with course material.

Topics to be considered: (a) Review of Required Mathematics; (b) Newton's Laws of Motion: (c) Statics (Particles, Rigid bodies); (d) Dynamics of Particles; (e) Work, Energy, Stability of Equilibrium; (f) Gravitational Attraction; (g) Oscillatory Motion in Linear and Nonlinear Mechanical Systems; (h) Motion of a System of Particles; (i) Motion of a Rigid Body in a Plane; (j) Central-force Motion.

Required Texts: "Classical Dynamics of Particles and Systems," J. B. Marion.

Supplementary Materials: None.

Prerequisites: Physics 104 or 106 or 114; Mathematics 174 or 186. It is recommended that the student have taken, or be taking, a course in differential equations.

Papers: None.

Examinations: 3 semester exams and a final exam (Problem solving).

PHYSICS 391
Undergraduate Seminar
Mr. Hertzbach

One meeting per week (one to two hours).

Topics: chosen by student speakers in consultation with the instructor.

Text: None

Prerequisites: Physics 181-184 (111-114) or equivalent.

Exams: none; each student is expected to present a one-hour seminar talk on a suitable subject in the realm of modern physics or astronomy and be prepared to answer questions from others. Each student is expected to do some reading for background each week.

Psychology

PSYCHOLOGY 141
Psychological Methods
Professors Berger, Chumbley, and Well

Psychological Methods (currently labeled Psych 105) is a second course in psychology required of all psychology majors and of possible interest to prospective psychology majors. The goal of the course is to provide students with a basic knowledge of the scientific methods as applied in studying human and animal behavior.

Lectures during the semester will be on the types of research strategies and problems in social psychology, human and animal learning, and perception. Approximately a third of the semester will be devoted to each of these subject areas, throughout the semester an emphasis will be placed on the use of the experimental method, designing and reporting experiments, and the interpretation and evaluation of research findings. Laboratory exercises and reports will be utilized to provide the student with experience with research procedures.

The exact texts to be used have not been selected at this date. The required texts and materials will include a short introduction to research in psychology (e.g., Hyman, THE NATURE OF PSYCHOLOGICAL INQUIRY), an introduction to statistical concepts (e.g., Elzey, A FIRST READER IN STATISTICS), possibly a laboratory manual, and either a book of readings or set of reprints of journal articles.

Introductory Psychology, Psychology 101, or an equivalent course, is a prerequisite for the course.

There will be three or four laboratory reports required. They are to be written in psychological journal format and are usually from six to fifteen pages in length.

Midterm and final exams will be administered. The midterm has been a multiple-choice exam of about 50 questions. The final is half multiple-choice and half long essay. These exams are graded on the normal letter grade basis. A third exam over statistical concepts is graded on a Pass-Fail basis and students may take it several times if necessary.

PSYCHOLOGY 145
Statistics in Psychology
Dr. Himmelfarb

Comment: An introductory course in statistical analyses applied to psychological data. Course provides a fundamental understanding of statistical inference as background for advanced work in statistics at the graduate level.

Topics: Measures of Central Tendency, Variation, and Correlation; Probability Theory and the Binomial Distribution; Sampling Distributions; Testing Hypotheses about Single Population Parameters; Testing Hypotheses about Differences between Population Parameters; Statistical Power; Regression; Chi-Square.

Required Texts: Undecided, but there will be one.

Supplementary Materials: None

Prerequisites: None

Papers: None

Examinations: Two 1-hour examinations and final exam of short-essay and problems variety. Quizzes and homework assignments in one hour lab. per week.

PSYCHOLOGY 220
Learning and thinking.
Mr. Ayres

Comment: This course deals with both animal and human learning. However, the extent to which animal or human research is emphasized depends on the instructor's interests and experience. This semester there will be somewhat more emphasis on the animal than on the human literature.

Topics: Operant and classical conditioning, their applications, acquisition of meaning by stimuli (classical-operant interactions), two process theory, application to personality, nature of reinforcement, stimulus generalization, discrimination, transfer.

Probable required texts: (1) Kimble, G.A. HILGARD AND MARQUIS' CONDITIONING AND LEARNING, 2nd ed. Appleton-Century Crofts. (2) Reynolds, G.S. A PRIMER OF OPERANT CONDITIONING. Scott Foresman.

Supplementary materials: Outside readings.

Prerequisites: Psychology 101

Papers: None.

Exams: Three exams, partly essay, partly objective with ratio varying with size of class.

PSYCHOLOGY 222
Animal learning laboratory
Mr. Ayres

Comment: This is an entirely new lab. Initially, the instructor will attempt to emphasize and demonstrate operant conditioning procedures using steady-state (Skinnerian) designs with rats and hopefully pigeons and blue jays. Later the choice of problem, design, apparatus and species will inso far as possible be left up to the student. We hope to be able to completely automate most of these experiments using simple electromechanical switching circuitry.

Topics: Acquisition, extinction schedules of reinforcement, generalization, discrimination, aversive control.

Texts: Same as Psychology 220 with addition of Catania, A.C. CONTEMPORARY RESEARCH IN OPERANT BEHAVIOR. Scott, Foresman.

Prerequisites: Psychology 101, 141, 220. May be taken concurrently with Psych 220, but this is not the best procedure.

Papers: Three lab reports, maximum.

Exams: Two essay exams.

PSYCHOLOGY 230
Motivation
Dr. Jay A. Trowill

This course emphasizes the behavioral and physiological bases of Motivation, Emotion and Reward. The aim of the course is to provide the students with a framework for understanding these topics as real phenomena of life, in addition to their relevence to understanding laboratory behavior. Students should be prepared to think and to express their thoughts.

Topics: 1. On defining motivation and emotion (4 weeks), 2. Drive, reward and incentive (3 weeks) 3. Behavior and physiology of fear (1 week), Attack and defense (1 week), Sleep and consciousness (1 week), Reward (1 week), Hunger (1 week), Thirst (1 week), Sex (1 week) 4. General conclusions (1 week)

Text: Cofer and Appley, MOTIVATION: THEORY AND RESEARCH

Supplementary materials: none

Prerequisites: Psychology 101

Papers: None

Exams: 3 medium-answer essays. Generally thought, rather than content or fact, oriented.

PSYCHOLOGY 231
Laboratory in Motivation
Dr. Trowill

An intense laboratory experience in which a number of undergraduates will be trained in the techniques of investigating Motivation, Emotion and Reward from an animal behavioral-physiological point of view. Students will be expected to join with and participate in an active research laboratory. The aim will be to expose the students to the excitement of working and creating within a psychological laboratory. Limited to 10 interested students.

Topics: To depend on the progress within our laboratory research program between now and September.

Texts: Probably none

Supplementary materials: None

Prerequisites: Psychology 230, Zoology 135 may be helpful but is not required.

Papers: Probably one

Examinations: Probably none.

PSYCHOLOGY 250
Physiological Psychology
Dr. Neil Carlson

Basic Anatomy of the nervous system, Physiology of nerve cells and synapses, Experimental methods of physiological psychology, Neural mechanisms of learning and memory, Neural mechanisms of sleep and arousal, Neural mechanisms of regulation, Function of the limbic system in motivation and species-specific behavior.

Text: Thompson, FOUNDATIONS OF PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY.

Prerequisites: Psychology 101. Zoology 135 recommended.

Exams: Probably 3, excluding final. Mostly short answer questions.

PSYCHOLOGY 260 Child Behavior and Development
Daehler

Comments: Primarily for psychology majors. Three class hours. Psychology 261 may be taken concurrently, but is not required.

Topics: This course will cover child development from infacy to late childhood and will emphasize both the development of cognitive skills within the infant and child and socialization of the child by the parents and the culture. Reference to adolescence and abnormal child behavior will be made to illustrate principles of child development, but in depth coverage of these areas will not be included. Both theories and data will be discussed.

Required texts: Mussen, P.H., Conger, J.J., and Kagan, J. CHILD DEVELOPMENT AND PERSONALITY. New York: Harper & Row, 1969. Third Edition.

Supplementary materials: Some reading from primary sources will be assigned.

Prerequisites: Psychology 101

Papers: none

Examinations: Both multiple choice and essay questions will be included on exams. There will be two midquarters and the final exam.

PSYCHOLOGY 261: Laboratory in Child Psychology
Drs. Daehler and Willoughby

Topics: Laboratory is designed to permit interaction with children in interview sessions, to observe and record children's behavior, and to conduct formal laboratory research with children from several age levels. Emphasis in laboratory is on developmental comparisons of children in social, cognitive, and learning tasks.

Texts: Primary source material.

Prerequisites: Psychology 260 (can be taken concurrently).

Papers: Summaries of laboratory exercises are required, in traditional format.

Examinations: Exam content consists of designing studies, evaluation of research designs, interpretation of research data. Final grade based heavily upon quality of research reports, and presentation of student's research project to class.

PSYCHOLOGY 280 (580)
Social Psychology
Dr. Himmelfarb

Comment:

Course provides a survey of contemporary social psychological theory and research concerned with the influence of other people on the behavior of the individual. Though social problems are discussed, the course is not in applied social psychology or race relations.

Topics:

Social perception and learning; Attitudes and opinions; Communication and persuasion; Interpersonal attraction; Social power, cooperation - competition; Conformity; Group communication, leadership, and productivity; Prejudice.

Required Texts: Undecided, but there will be one.

Supplementary Materials: Some readings of research articles.

Prerequisites: Psychology 101

Papers: None required, except for graduate students

Examinations: At least two 1-hour exams and a final of the multiple-choice and short-answer variety.

PSYCHOLOGY 281

Laboratory in Attitudes and Opinions
Alice H. Eagly

Topics: Psychology 281 is a laboratory course in attitude change and social influence. The semester will be devoted primarily to carrying out experiments. One or two experiments, carried out in the first half of the semester, will be organized as class projects. In the second half of the semester, each student will design and carry out his own experiment.

Texts and other materials: Text is undecided. Probably a short text on attitude change will be assigned and additional readings will be chosen from articles in psychological journals.

Prerequisites and limitations: Enrollment is limited to 20 students. Psychology 101 AND 105 (currently 141) are prerequisites. A necessary prerequisite. Psychology 280 (Social Psychology) must be taken either concurrently or in an earlier semester. The instructor somewhat prefers that students have taken Psychology 280 in an earlier semester, but concurrent enrollment is acceptable.

Papers: Reports on experiments will be required.

Examinations: At most one examination will be held. Grades will be based primarily on laboratory work, rather than on examinations.

PSYCHOLOGY 305
History and contemporary theories
Robert S. Feldman

Comments: This course attempts to provide an historical foundation for the establishment of the science of psychology, and shows the development of the science through the contemporary period. Though the formal requirements are minimal, the course is designed to serve psychology majors and upperclassmen who have had more than a few courses in the subject.

Topics to be considered: The philosophy of science, prescientific psychology, British empiricism, structuralism, functionalism, behaviorism, gestalt, and psychoanalysis.

Required texts: (Probable) Schultz: a history of modern psychology Heidbreder: Seven Psychologies

Supplementary materials: None planned

Prerequisites: Psych 101 or 105 (see comments above)

Papers: One contemplated, approximately 10-15 pages

Examinations: 2 hour exams, final; short answer and essay.

PSYCHOLOGY 325 Abnormal Psychology
Dr. Morton G. Harmatz

Description: Disturbed behavior is viewed as being initiated, maintained, and modified by the same mechanism as "normal" behavior. Emphasis is placed on sociopsychological variables operating in the contemporary culture. This behavioral model is continually contrasted with traditional approaches stressing intro-psychic causality. Topics to be considered are:
I. Foundations of Abnormal Psychology: Defining abnormality, diagnostic labeling, historical perspective, Freud and psychoanalysis, other views of causation, the roots of behavior modification, a working model of psychopathology, behavior change techniques.
II. Varieties of Psychopathology: "Psychoneurotic" disorders (hysteria and dissociative behavior, phobia, obsessive-compulsive disorder, other psychoneurotic disorders), transient situational personality disturbances, psycho-physiologic reactions, the "Psychoses" (schizophrenia, affective reactions), personality disorders (paranoid personality, psychopathic personality, sexual deviation), addictive behavior (alcoholism and drugs), brain disorders, childhood psychopathology, retardation.

Required texts and materials: Coleman, ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY AND MODERN LIFE, Greene, I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN, Keesy, ONE FLEW OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST

Prerequisites: Psychology 101

Papers: none

Examinations: Mid-term and final, both short answer.

Classics

CLASSICS 225-525
Mythology in the Ancient World
Mr. Phinney (MWF 9:05)

The structural affinities between Greek myth and earlier or contemporary myth from the ancient Near East; the influence of these traditional modes of mythic thought on the religions, society, and literature of Western civilization. No knowledge of Greek or Latin necessary. 3 class hours. Credit, 3.

CLASSICS 265/565
Greek Drama in Translation
Mr. Phinney (MWF 11:15)

Thematic analysis of selected Greek tragedies and comedies; typal characterization, cultural, political, and social values as expressed in the plays. No knowledge of Greek or Latin necessary. 3 class hours. Credit, 3.

Greek

GREEK 110
Elementary Greek
Mr. Phinney (MTWTF 2:30)

An introduction to the ancient Greek language. 3 class hours, 2 practice sessions. Credit, 3.

This is an intensive course in the elements of the Greek language. Readings from the GOSPEL OF ST. JOHN and Xenophon's ANABASIS will be introduced as early as possible. The textbooks are Chase and Phillips, A NEW INTRODUCTION TO GREEK and Paine, BEGINNING GREEK, A FUNCTIONAL APPROACH. Upon completion of this course, student s will be ready for Greek 140, Intermediate Greek Readings.

Latin

LATIN 110
Elementary Latin
Mr. Goar (MTWTF 3:35)

An introduction to the Latin language. 3 class hours, 2 practice sessions. Credit, 3.

This is an intensive course in the elements of the Latin language. Readings of selected passages from Classical Latin authors will be introduced as early as possible. The textbook, Wheelock's LATIN: AN INTRODUCTORY COURSE BASED ON ANCIENT AUTHORS will be completed by the end of the term. Students will then be ready for Latin 140, Intermediate Readings in Latin Prose and Poetry, or Latin 141, Intermediate Readings in Medieval Latin Literature.

LATIN 140
Intermediate Latin Readings
Mr. Goar (MWF 10:10-class hours) and TTh 11:15-practice sessions)

Readings in a variety of Latin authors such as Plautus', Catullus, Horace, Livy, and Cicero. Prerequisite for this course in the fall of 1969: Latin 120 or Latin 121 or a minimum of two years of high school Latin and a satisfactory score on the placement test. Satisfies the foreign language requirement of the College of Arts and Sciences. 3 class hours, 2 practice sessions. Credit, 3.

The placement test may be taken at the Counseling Center, 243 Whitmore.

LATIN 161
Survey of Classical Latin Literature
Mr. Lawall (MWF 1:25)

Representative selections from Latin literature, which may include a play of Plautus, selections from Lucretius' DE RERUM NATURA, selections from Vergil, passages from Livy, Sallust, and Tacitus, readings in the Latin novel, and a play of Seneca or satires of Juvenal. Readings in English will supplement the readings in Latin. Lectures on Roman history, art, religion, and philosophy, and a field trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Prerequisite: Latin 140 or a minimum of three years of high school Latin and a satisfactory score on the placement test. May be followed by Latin 162 in the spring term to satisfy the University's literature requirement. 3 class hours. Credit, 3.

LATIN 310/610
The Teaching of Latin in Secondary Schools
Miss Donley (TTH 4-5:15)

Examination and evaluation of various methods of teaching Latin in secondary schools accompanied by actual experience teaching in the classroom and discussion of special problems. Prerequisite: at least two semesters of Latin above the 140 level and permission of the instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors, seniors, and graduate students. Credit, 3.

LATIN 325/625
The Latin Political Tract
Mr. Goar (MWF 11:15)

Selections from Sallust and Caesar accompanied by an historical and literary analysis of their works. Prerequisite: Latin 140 or a minimum of four years of high school Latin and a satisfactory score on the placement test. 3 class hours. Credit, 3.

This course deals with revolutionary politics in the last age of the Roman Republic. Latin texts are the CATILINE of Sallust and the CIVIL WAR of Julius Caesar. The former is a stirring account of the conspiracy of 63 B.C. that tried, unsuccessfully, to overthrow the decaying social order championed by Cicero; the latter treatise is a detailed description of Caesar's successful assault upon that same system, defended by Pompey the Great (49-45B.C.). English readings in Plutarch's LIVES, Cicero's ORATIONS AGAINST CATILINE, Caesar's LETTERS, and Lucan's THE BATTLE OF PHARSALUS will supplement the Latin reading, in an attempt to give a rounded picture of a social and political conflict that was ultimately resolved by force of arms.

LATIN 385
Latin Prose Composition
Mr. Lawall (Tu 1-2:15)

Review of grammatical forms and syntactical patterns. Translation from English to Latin, accompanied by close study of the prose styles of representative Latin authors. Prerequisite: Latin 140 or equivalent. 1 class meeting. Credit, 1.

French

FRENCH 010-110
Elementary French
Staff

Comments or remarks: Course develops three skills: reading, understanding, speaking. Lab attendance required (2 hours).

Required texts and materials: PAROLE ET PENSEE, Y. Lenard, Harper & Row.

Supplementary materials: PAROLE ET PENSEE, Y. Lenard, Harper & Row, Lab Manual.

Prerequisites: None

Papers (length and number): At the discretion of the instructor.

Examination, quizzes, etc. (Short-answer or essay, etc.): Regular weekly quizzes. 2 midsemester hour exams, final.

FRENCH 020-120
Elementary French (2nd semester)
Staff

Comments or remarks: Continues development of three basic language skills: reading, speaking, understanding. Lab attendance required (2 hours).

Required texts and materials: Same text as for French 110.

Supplementary materials: Same text as for French 110.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): French 110 or its equivalent.

Papers (length and number): at the discretion of the instructor.

Examination, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): 1 weekly quiz, 2 midsemester hour exams, the final.

FRENCH 126
Intensive Elementary French
R. Tedeschi

Comments or remarks: This course covers in one semester the scope of French 110 and 120. It meets Monday through Friday for 1 class hour, M-W-F for 1 lab hour. The lab will be conducted live by the instructor, mostly without the use of tapes. This is a 6 credit course. The course's primary advantage is that it allows motivated students to take French 130 in the Spring semester, thus avoiding the harmful first/second year gap usually caused by summer vacation and thus allowing students to complete the language requirement in three semesters.

Required texts and materials: Benamou & Ionesco, Macmillan Company.

Supplementary materials: Lab manual for same as above.

Prerequisites and limitations (if any): Interested students only.

Papers: At discretion of the instructor.

Examination, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc): Weekly quizzes, 2 midsemester exams and the final.

FRENCH 130
Intermediate French
Members of the department. N. Lamb: head of section

Comments or remarks: This course is designed as a general review of grammar seen in literary context and by initiation in the techniques of reading French as a foreign language as a preparatory course for French 140. Emphasis will definitely be on reading and writing French.

Required texts and materials: Since the entire course is being restructured, the members of the department are in the process of choosing both texts and reading materials.

Prerequisites and limitations: French 110-120 or a high school course of similar nature.

Examination, quizzes, etc.: Two hour exams, final, 10-15 quizzes.

FRENCH 130
Intermediate French for honors and majors
Members of the department

Comments or remarks: This course for majors and honors students is a course which combines a rapid review of essential grammar readings in French literature and discussions on relevant topics, chosen by the students. The students in sections limited to 15 or less, are encouraged to express themselves in both oral and written French. They are also encouraged to participate directly in determining the orientation of the course itself.

Required texts and materials: A review grammar, several reading texts yet to be chosen.
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): A good background in French and a strong motivation.
Papers: Number and length determined by the students and instructors together.
Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Two hour exams, short papers and translations, few fill-in exams to check grammar points, and any project useful to the group.

FRENCH 133
Intermediate remedial French
Members of the department

Comments or remarks: This course is designed as a course paralle to French 130 with essentially the same orientation: i.e. a general review of grammar seen in literary context and by initiation in the techniques of reading French as a foreign language, as a preparation for French 140. It will be taught at a slower pace with more opportunity for remedial work, additional explanations, exercises, etc.
Required texts and materials: Since the entire course if being restructured, the members of the department are in the process of choosing texts and reading materials.
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): French 110-120 or a high school course of similar nature.
Examinations, quizzes, etc. Two hour exams, final, 10-15 quizzes.

FRENCH 161
Great works of French Literature (Novel and Poetry)
Comments or remarks: An indepth study of COMPLETE works, plus training in the literary analysis of EXPLICATION DE TEXTE.
Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: About 8 weeks devoted to novels, and five weeks to poetry.
Required Texts: Poetry: DECOUVERTE DU POEME, et. Dufau and D'Alelio, TRISTAN (Bedier edition), LA PRINCESSE DE CLEVES (Mme de Lafayette) RENE, (Chateaubriand), BOULE DE SUIF (Maupassant) LA SYMPHONIE PASTORALE (Gide), LE CHUTE (Camus), L'ENFANCE D'UN CHEF (Sartre)
Supplementary materials: at discretion of individual instructors.
Prerequisites and limitations: French 140 or equivalent.
Papers: one 607 page paper, or several short ones
Examinations, quizzes, etx: regular quizzes, 1-2 oral reports, 2 hour examinations plus a final.

FRENCH 162
Great works of French Literature (Theater and Essay)
Comments or remarks: an indepth study of COMPLETE works, plus training in the literary analysis of EXPLICATION DE TEXTE.
Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: about 7 weeks devoted to plays, and 6 to essays.
Required texts and materials:
Essays: Montaigne: "An lecteur", "De l'experience"; Descartes: "Discours de la methode"; Pascal: PENSEES; Rousseau: CONFESSIONS (Introd. Books I, IV) Sartre: L'EXISTENTIALISME EST UN HUMANISME
Plays: either LE JEU D'ADAM or LA FORCE DE MAITRE PATHELIN, PHEDRE (Racine), HORACE (Corneille), L'AVARE (Moliere), LE JEU DE L'AMOUR ET DU HASARD (Marivaux,) LORENXACCIO (Mussel) EN ATTENDANT GODOT (Beckett)
Supplementary materials: at discretion of instructor
Prerequisites and limitations: French 140 or equivalent
Papers: one 6-7 page paper, or several short ones
Examination, quizzes, etc.: regular quizzes, 1-2 oral reports, 2 hour examinations, one final.

FRENCH 182
Oral French
Smith, Chen, et ales
Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: study of French Phonemes: 1/2, controlled Oral Production: 1/2
Required texts and materials: Yaldman & Salzar, A DRILL BOOK OF FRENCH PRONUNCIATION & WORKBOOK.
Supplementary materials: at the discretion of instructor and students
Prerequisites and limitations: completion in principle, limited to French majors.
No papers
Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Oral examinations: Two formal exams per semester, Oral exposes (10'-12') to be given by individual students.

FRENCH 255
Composition and Stylistics
Smith, De LaFontaine, et ales.
Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Handling of concepts of time, space, quantity, etc., in terms of the structure of French and English
Required texts and materials: Darbelnet, PENSEE ET STRUCTURE, & WORKBOOK
Supplementary materials: at the discretion of the instructor
Prerequisites and limitations: completion of 140; in principle, limited to French majors
Papers(length and numbers): 6 compositions of about 750 words.
Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Two formal examinations, (short answers, translations, compositions). Daily assignments to be completed orally in class.

FRENCH LITERATURE 17th Century
G.E.de La Fontaine
Comments: Major authors of the 17th Century (less theatre). Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: @ CLASSES FOR EACH POET (Malherbe, Regnieu, La Fontaine, etc.) or writer (Pascal, La Fayette, La Bouyire, etc.)
Required texts and materials: 17th Century Anthology
Supplementary materials: particular works by the authors studied (not necessarily to be bought.
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): good oral command of French
Papers (length and number): 2 papers of 4 or 5 pages (maximum) in French Examination,: 2 exams- one at midterm, one final. Participation to discussion in class important. All classes in French.

FRENCH 355
French Novel: 1800-1850
M. Marc Hanrez
Major novelists of the first part of 19th Century with emphasis on: 1) Chateau - briand, ATALA (1801), RENE (1802) 2) Senancour, OBERMAN (1804) 3) Stendhal, ARMANCE (1827) 4) Hugo, NOTRE DAME de PARIS (1831) 5) Balzac, LOUIS LAMBERT (1831) 6) Dumas, LES TROIS MOUSQUETAIRES (1844) 7) Sand, LA MARA au DIABLE (1846)
Castex et Surer, MARUEL DES ETUDES LITTERAIRES FRANCAISES, XIXe siecle, or Lagarde et Michard, TEXTES ET LITTERATURES, vol. 5, XIXe siecle Van Tieghem, Ph., LE ROMANTISME FRANCAIS, coll. Que sais-je?
Course will alternate between general introductions, analysis of texts, and focusing discussions (2-3 class hours per book)
Adequate reading, writing, and oral knowledge of French.
One paper (12-15 pages) due at the beginning of December
Appraisal of class work
Examination at the end of semester

FRENCH 357
10th century French Poetry
Dr. Gugli
Required tests: XIX eme Siecle, Lagarde et Michard, Collection Bordas.
Prerequisites: Proficiency in French required.
Examinations, quizzes, etc: one-hour mid-semester and two-hour final. Short quizzes to meet the needs of the class as they become apparent.

FRENCH 360
French Theatre of the Twentieth Century
Agnes G. Raymond
Course to be conducted in French with written work (exams and paper) in French. Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Representative works of a dozen different playwrights.
Required texts and materials: ANTHOLOGY OF 20TH CENTURY THEATRE, Paris Book Center, 1967.
Supplementary materials: Montherlant - LA MAITRE DE SANTIAGO. Feydeau- FEU LA MERE DE MADAME.
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): Background in 17th, 18th or 19th Century theatre.
Papers: one ten page paper and one ten minute oral expose.
Examination, quizzes, etc. (short-answer or essay, etc.): Two hour exams and a final exam. Essay questions.

FRENCH 390
Senior Seminar: La Fontaine and other poets of the 17th Century
G. E. de La Fontaine
Comment or remarks: The course (or seminar) is essentially based on students' participation in class. Its aim is to have the students acquire a good grasp of 17th Century lyric poetry.
Topics to be considered with approximate time for each: one half the time on La Fontaine, one half on other lyric poets: Tristan , Theophile, Malharberbe, etc.
Required texts and materials: Anthology of lyric poetry, and an edition of La Fontaine's works.
Supplementary materials: particular works by the poets studied (not necessarily to be bought).
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): good oral command of French
Papers (Length and number): 2 papers of 5 or 6 pages in French.
Examinations, quizzes, etc.: No exams. But class participation in class very important!

Italian

ITALIAN 126 I, 146 II (146c)
Dr. Tillona
Intensive Elementary and Intermediate Italian for students with no previous creditable training in Italian. Two semesters of study to replace the traditional 110-120, 130-140, four semester sequence. Training in all language skills, readings in cultural texts and modern Italian literature. 5 class hours. 3 laboratory hours, Credit, 6 hours.
The class will meet with the instructor both for class and laboratory sessions and each semester will be divided into two marking periods, each grade to be recorded on the student's record. For purposes of computing quality points, each grade will be multiplied by 3. Upon completion of 146 the student should possess at least intermediate proficiency and would be exempt from all further language study. He will also be qualified to enter the advanced college level content courses in language or literature - e.g. 161-162, 181-182, etc., if he should wish to do so.

ITALIAN 161 Introduction to Italian Literature
Mr. Terrizzi
A close reading of representative works in Italian Literature. Training in the techniques of literary analysis of the main forms. Conducted in Italian.
Mid-term and final

ITALIAN 181 - Oral Italian
Mr. Terrizzi
Oral aspect of the language; pronunciation, vocabulary building, discussions. Prerequsite, Italian 140 or permission of department.
Mid-term and final

Spanish

SPANISH 140
Intermediate Spanish
Instructors: Not decided
Comment or remarks: Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Readings in Spanish & Spanish American 20th Century Literature
Required Texts and materials: not decided
Supplementary materials: none
Prerequisites and limitations (if any): Spanish 130 or equivalent
Papers (length and number): Short compositions in Spanish (5 or 6 per semester)
Examinations, quizzes, &c. (short-answer or essay, &c.) - 2 hour exams & final. Class quizzes , short-answer & essay

SPANISH 181
Oral Spanish
Professor Wexler (and others)
Oral aspect of the Spanish language, pronunciation, vocabulary building, speeches, discussions, debates. Grammatical eleven is required for correct and fluent use of American and Peninsular Spanish. Topics: (I). Aspect s of life everywhere , for U.S. and Spanish-speaking people, (II). "Relevant" topics of today's world - e.g., student life, politics, economics, etc. Texts: Nason and Campbell, CHARLES REPSANDO, Oxford University Press, and Cassell's SPANISH DICTIONARY, Funk and Wagnalls Company. Supplementary materials: Spanish-language run papers and Spanish edition of LIFE. Prerequisites and limitations: Completion of Spanish 140 or equivalent; maximum size per section - twelve students. Papers: two. Exams: weekly quizzes, two hour exams, final exam.

Russian

RUSSIAN 110
Staff
Elementary Russian: introduction to fundamentals of Russian.
Texts: SIMPLIFIED RUSSIAN GRAMMAR, Fayer & Pressman.
Prerequisite: None.
Paper: None.
Exams: Quizzes, midterm & final.

RUSSIAN 119
Mr. Stawiecki
Russian Reading Course: intensive study of Russian with aim of developing reading ability.
Texts: READING AND TRANSLATING CONTEMPORARY RUSSIAN, Dewey & Mersereau.
Prerequisite: None.
Paper: None.
Exams: Quizzes, midterm & final.

RUSSIAN 130
Staff
Intermediate Russian: continuation of elementary Russian, aiming at further development of basic skills.
Texts: INTRO. RUSSIAN GRAMMAR, Stilman & Harkins.
Prerequisite: R 120.
Paper: None.
Exams: Quizzes, midterm & final.

RUSSIAN 251
Mr. Pressman
Introduction to Russian Literature: survey of Russian literature, conducted in Russian.
Texts: Penguin Book of Russian Verse. Koramzin: POOR LIZA. Fonvizin: THE MINOR. Gogol: THE INSPECTOR-GENeral; DEAD SOILS. Griboedov: WIT WORKS WOE. Lermontov: HERO OF OUR TIME. Fushkin: EUGENE ONEGIN; CAPTAIN's DAUGHTER. Turgenev: HUNTSMAN'S DAUGHTER: GENTRY'S NEST.
Prerequisite: Proficiency in Russian.
Paper: Short compositions.
Exams: Midterm & final.

RUSSIAN 254
Mr. Tikos
Tolstoy: historical and literary background. Close text analysis of major works.
Texts: Simmons: VOL. I & II OF TOLSTOY. Tolstoy: CHILDHOOD, BOYHOOD, YOUTH SHORT STORIES; SEBASTOPOL STORIES; WAR AND PEACE; ANNA KARENINA; LAST DIARIES; SIX SHORT MASTERPIECES; THE COSSACKS AND THE RAID; RESURRECTION.
Prerequisite: Junior standing.
Paper: Paper required.
Exams: Mid-term and final.

RUSSIAN 261
Mrs. Kosinski
Advanced Russian Grammar: detailed study of Russian grammar, word building, composition and reading.
Texts: Pul'Kina: UCHEBNIK RUSSKEGO YAZYKA. Vasys, A. RUSSIAN AREA READER.
Prerequisite: R 140.
Paper: None.
Exams: Quizzes, mid-term and final.

RUSSIAN 265
Mr. Levin
Structure of Russian: descriptive analysis of morphology of contemporary standard Russian with additional emphasis on selected problems of word-building.
Texts: Material furnished by instructor.
Prerequisite: Proficiency in Russian.
Paper: None.
Exams: 2 exams and final.

RUSSIAN 271
Mr. Pressman
Russian Conversation: development of ability to speak and understand.
Texts: Maltzoff: ADVANCED RUSSIAN CONVERSATION.
Prerequisite: R 140.
Paper: None.
Exams: Mid-term and final.

RUSSIAN 281
Mrs. Kosinski
Russian Stylistics: systematic study of the style of Russian literary works.
Texts: To be announced.
Prerequisite: R 262.
Paper: None.
Exams: Quizzes, mid-term and final.

RUSSIAN 319
Mr. Ivask
Pushkin: most important works of Pushkin, prose and poetry.
Texts: To be announced.
Prerequisites: Proficiency in Russian.
Paper: Paper required.
Exams: Mid-term and final.

Sociology

SOCIOLOGY 101
Introduction to Sociology
Mr. Barber, Mr. Wilkinson, and Staff
This course provides the student with an introduction to several of the central elements of the sociological perspective by contemporary American society. (Two lectures and one discussion section per week.)
Major Topics to be covered, Approx. Time on Each Topic: Social Structure: Ghetto riots, 2 wks.; Comparison of primative with urbanized society, 2 wks. ; The Civil Rights Movement, 2 wks. Socializations: Defiant Subcultures, 1 wk.; Agents of socialization (High schools & colleges) 3 wks.; The Sociological Tradition, 2 wks.
Required texts: All or part of: SOCIOLOGY 101 STUDY GUIDE, Wilkinson & Barber, REBELLION IN NEWARK, Hayden, REPORT FOR ACTION, Governor's Select Commission, RETURN TO LAUGHTER, Bowen, THE IMPOSSIBLE REVOLUTION, Killian, IT'S HAPPENING, Simmons & Winograd, THE VANISHING ADOLESCENT, Friedenberg, THREE READINGS, Colleges, INVITATION TO SOCIOLOGY, Berger, "Reported Behavior as a Criterion of Delinquent Behavior", Short & Nye "Life as Theater....", Messinger, et al.
(NB. Revisons in this list will be considered over the summer; it should not be regarded as final.)
Supplementary materials: A list of suggested additional readings is distributed to students; movies are occasionally scheduled in addition to class meetings.
Prerequisites and limitations: None
Examinations: Midsemester (short essays) Term paper: A proposal (1-3 pages) and a term paper (5-10 pages) are required.

SOCIOLOGY 224,
Higher Education in America
G. Putnam Barber
An examination of the organizational context within which higher education is conducted in America today. Historical and comparative materials will be examined to provide contrast, but the principle focus of the course will be on contemporary American colleges and universities --their characteristics, problems and opportunities.
Major Topics to be Covered (tentative) The Academy as Organization, For the President (2 wks.); For the Faculty (1 wk.); For Students (1 wk.).
The History of the University (1 wk.); And of the American College (2 wks.).
Present-day Universities in Other Cultures (1 wk.).
Campus Unrest (2 wks.).
The Organization of the Student Body ("Sub-cultures") (2 wks.).
Final Observations (1 wk.).
Required Texts: This is a new course; and I have not finished planning it. I will almost certainly expect all students to read:
THE USES OF THE UNIVERSITY, Clark Ker; THE ACADEMIC MARKETPLACE, Theodore Caplow and Reece McGee; MAKING THE GRADE, Howard Becker, et al.; THE ACADEMIC REVOLUTION, Christopher Jencks and David Riesman.
Other readings will no doubt be assigned in:
THE AMERICAN COLLEGE, Nevitt Sanford, ed.; THE BERKELEY STUDENT REVOLT, S. M. Lipset and Sheldon Wolin.
Number of Examinations: 1 or 2 (1-1/2 hours each) in addition to the final Term Paper is required, unless enrollment forbids.

SOCIOLOGY 247
Elementary Statistics
Surinder K. Mehta
This course is especially recommended for those students who will be going on to graduate school for study in any of the social (particularly sociology) or related sciences. It is also recommended for those students who will be engaged in research (or in helping to determine social and economic policy and action programs) during their occupational careers.
Major Topics to be covered -
Social variables - descriptive and graphic analysis (1wk.); Measures of central tendency (1 wk.); Measures of variation (2-1/2 wks.); Analysis of probability (2-1/2 wks.); Measurement of association - qualitative variables (2 wks.); Measurement of association - quantative variables (2 wks.); Sampling (1 wk.); Statistical Inference - parameter estimation and testing statistical hypotheses (2 wks.).
Required Text: STATISTICAL REASONING IN SOCIOLOGY, John H. Mueller and Karl F. Schuessler.
Number of Examinations: Normally two one-hour examinations and a final examination.
Term papers: None required, but a number of laboratory exercises are required.

557
SOCIOLOGY 251
Urban Sociology
Mrs. Golden
This course will be taught in the Fall of 1969 by Professor Golden who is not on campus at present; no further information is available.

SOCIOLOGY 255
Sociology of Religion
John Manfredi
The minute inclusions of this course depend in large measure on what I happen to have read recently. This means that I have never in the lectures given the same weight to various topics vis a vis time. However it invariably includes the following topics: features of Western religions that are absent from other religious systems; the nature of religious experience; sect, ecclesia, and church; denominationalism and stratification; the relation of practice to belief; the institutionalized churches; the American scene; the Catholic confrontation with the middle classes.
Required Texts: RELIGION CULTURE AND SOCIETY, Louis Schneider, ed. RELIGION IN A SECULAR SOCIETY, Bryan Wilson, THE RELIGIONS OF MAN, Huston Smith.

SOCIOLOGY 254
Industrial Sociology
Curt Tausky
Empirical and theoretical materials examine some aspects of the nature of industrial society, with some attention given to its past and future.
Major Topics to be Covered:
Historical Overview (2 wks.); Income and Occupational Distributions (2 wks.); Theories of Industrial Organizations: Scientific Management, Human Relations Structuralism (4 wks.); Hierarchy: Is Stratification Necessary, Davis and Moore, and Karl Marx (2 wks.); Mobility (2 wks.); Industrial Man: One Dimensional Man (1 wk.).
Required Texts: THE INDUSTRIAL WORKER, 1840-1860, N. Ware, "Occupational Stratification and Mobility: Intra-Country Variations," Fox and Miller, STUDIES IN COMPARATIVE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT, THE GREAT ASCENT: THE STRUGGLE FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT R. Heilbroner; BLUE COLLAR MARRIAGE, M. Komarovsky; TALLY'S CORNER, E. Liebow; ONE-DIMENSIONAL MAN, H. Marcuse.
Number of Examinations: 2 (a mid-term and a final).
Term Paper may be required.

SOCIOLOGY 256
Race Relations
William J. Wilson
A Socio-historical analysis of the interaction of the black man and the American environment, beginning with his experiences with slavery, to his migration to urban areas and subsequent isolation in the black ghetto.
Major Topics to be covered:
An Explanation of Race Relations in Terms of a Theory of Power and Dominance (1-1/2 wks.); From Slavery to Black Ghetto (2 wks.); Racism in America: A Socio-Historical Analysis (1 wk.); The Consequences of Chronic Subordination: Psychological, Social and Economic Factors (3 wks.); The Black Ghetto (1 wk.); The Black World and the White World: The Nature of Interaction and Response (1 wk.); Black Protest in the Twentieth Century (Nonviolence, Black Nationalism, Black Power and Riots) (3 wks.); White Response to Black Protest (1 wk.); Proposed Programs to Deal with the Racial Crisis in America (1 wk.); Required Texts: THE IMPOSSIBLE REVOLUTION, Lewis Killian; BLACK AMERICANS, Alkhonso Pinkney; A PROFILE OF THE NEGRO AMERICAN, Thomas Pettigrew; THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF MALCOLM X; TALLY'S CORNER, Elliot Liebow; DARK GHETTO, Kenneth B. Clark; CRISIS IN BLACK AND WHITE, Charles E. Silberman.
Number of Examinations: 2
Term Paper is not required.

This course will be taught in the Fall of 1969 by Professor Killian who is not on campus at present; no further information is available.

SOCIOLOGY 257
The Family
Mr. Korson
The development of the customs of courtship and marriage and of the contemporary American family. The basic causes of changes and trends of the family.
Two Sections: I Meets on Orchard Hill and is limited to 20 students, II meets in Thompson Aud. 104
Major topics to be covered, Approx. Time on Each Topic: The Study of the Family as a Social Institution, 1 wk.; Cross-Cultural Patterns, 3 wks.; The American Family: Experimental Family Forms, 1 wk.; Minority Family Structures in the U.S., 1 wk.; Family Formation (mate selection) 2 wks.; The Fallacy of Romantic Love, 1 wk.; The Limitation of Family Size: Planning, Abortion, Sterilization 1 wk.; Socio-legal Aspects of the Family 1 wk.; Social Class Variations, 1 wk.; Separation and Divorce (recommended); Widowhood (not recommended), 1 wk.
Required Texts:
THE INDIVIDUAL FAMILY AND SOCIETY, Kephart, SELECTED STUDIES IN MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY, Winch and Goodman, THE CHILD AND SOCIETY, Elkin, four articles on reserve in the library, Korson Examinations: Two hour exams, plus Final. Term paper required for Section I.

Mr. Lewis
This course will be taught in the Fall of 1969 by Professor Lewis, who is not on campus at present; no further information is available.

SOCIOLOGY 258
Social Interaction
John F. O'Rourke
A consideration of the elements of the process of social interaction, especially in the context of dyadic and small group relationships. Emphasis is placed on the theoretical analysis of the interaction process as the basic vehicle for group development and growth. Personality, group composition, leadership and situational elements are discussed as variables affecting the interaction process. Empirical studies of the group developmental process are discussed in detail.
Major Topics to be covered, and Approx. Time on Each Topic:

Broadly speaking, the course is divided into two parts: I. An extensive consideration of the theoretical background for the analysis of the interaction process from sociological and social psychological points of view. Topics include discussion of the elements of the interaction process, discussion of the effects of specific variables on the interaction process, a brief introduction to reference group theory and the application of some principles of psychoanalytic theory to the interaction situation. 7 weeks. 2. An intensive and specific consideration of the role of social interaction in the process of group develpment focusing upon a number of theoretical and quantitative and non-quantitative empirical studies, 7 wks.
Required Texts: GROUP PSYCHOLOGY AND THE ANALYSIS OF THE EGO, S. Freud, DEFINING THE SITUATION: THE ORGANIZATION OF MEANING IN SOCIAL INTERACTION, Peter McHugh, SOCIAL INTERACTION: PROCESS AND PRODUCTS, Muzafer, Sherif
Required Supplementary: INTERPERSONAL DYNAMICS: ESSAYS and READINGS ON HUMAN INTERACTIONS, Warren Bennis, E. H. Schein, D. Berlew and F. I. Steele, ENCOUNTERS: TWO STUDIES IN SOCIAL INTERACTION, Erving Goffman, THE PRESENTATION OF SELF IN EVERYDAY LIFE, Erving Goffman, GROUP TRANSFORMATION: AN ANALYSIS OF A LEARNING GROUP, Theodore M. Mills, Jr., MICROCOSM: STRUCTURAL, PSYCHOLOGICAL AND RELIGIOUS EVOLUTION IN GROUPS, Philip E. Slater, STREET CORNER SOCIETY, William F. Whyte Number of Examinations: 1 (hour) examination) Final Examination (no exemptions) No paper required.

SOCIOLOGY 261
Population Problems
Everett S. Lee
This course deals with population trends and developments throughout the world, emphasizing the role of population in economic growth and social change. The postponement of death, the control of births, and mass migrations are considered in terms of their effects upon both quality and quantity of population. By its nature population studies form a bridge between the biological and social sciences.
Major topics to be covered and approx. time on each topic: The growth of U.S. and world population - including aspects of the demographic transition from high birth and death rates to low birth and death rates, the widening gap between developed and underdeveloped countries, the decrease in the proportion of European peoples in the world's population and the rise of the nonwhite peoples, 2 wks. The postponement of death - including factors in the fall of the death rate, the increase in expectation of life, social class and mortality, the poor record of the U. S. in reducing infant and male mortality. 3 weeks. The control of births - to include factors in the fall of the birth rate, the economics of birth control, social class and fertility, the contrast of developed and underdeveloped countries. 3 weeks. Migration- to include the U.S. as a nation of migrants, migration within countries, urbanization and black migration. 3 weeks. Human resources - to include the work force, the development of the black population, education and human development. 3 weeks.
Required Text: PRINCIPLES OF DEMOGRAPHY, Donald Bogue
Supplementary materials: Selected articles
Examinations: Midterm and final -combination short answer and essay Term papers: None

SOCIOLOGY 266
Human Ecology
Surinder K. Mehta
An analysis of human communites--location, functions, and size. The internal structure of urban and metropolitan communities is studied with special reference to patterns of residential segregation of racial, ethnic, and economic groups. Major emphasis is placed on independent work.
Major topics to be covered and approx. time on each topic: Introduction to the field of Human Ecology: Origins, 1/2 week, Perspective and relationship to other field 1/2 week. Habitat and the Dynamics of the Human Aggregate: Habitat and population, 1 week, Processes of change in size and distribution of populations, 1 week. The Human Community: Origin and Development, 1 week; Location, types, functions, and systems of communities, 2 weeks. Internal Structure of Human Communities, General Considerations and Models, 1 week. Internal Structure of Human Communities, Processes of Change: Concentration, centralization and decentralization 1 1/2 weeks. Invasion and succession, 1 week. Patterns of residence and changes in patterns of residence and segregation 1 1/2 weeks. Seminars on Selected Student Projects: Presentation and Critical Analysis 2 1/2 weeks.
Required Texts: HUMAN ECOLOGY: A THEORY OF COMMUNITY STRUCTURE, Amos H. Hawley
Supplementary readings: A fairly large number of journal articles and parts of published studies.
Examinations: A final examination (essay) -2 hours is required. Term paper: Required - oral presentation and to be handed in.

SOCIOLOGY 278, CRIMINOLOGY
Mr. Simpson
This course will be taught in the Fall of 1969 by Professor Simpson who is not on campus at present; no further information is available.

SOCIOLOGY 280
Soviety Society
Paul Hollander
Survey of the major social institutions, processes and problems of Soviet society with special reference to official and popular values and norms, stratification, social controls, the family, types of socialization and social problems (i.e. crime, delinquency, the misuse of leisure, rural migration, etc.). The course will also examine the nature and usefulness of various theoretical models of Soviet Society.
Major Topics to be covered and approx. time on each topic: Historical and Ideological Background, 3 wks., Political Institutions and Practices, 3 wks.; Organized Socialization (educ. and prop.) 1 wk., Family, Sex, Interpersonal Relations, 2 wks., Social Problems (crime, leisure, rural migration etc.) 2 wks. Stratification, 1 wk., Comparative and Historical Assessments, 1 wk.
Required Texts: In part or in full Leninism, A. Meyer, State and Revolution, Lenin, Special Report..,Krushchev, Soviet Family, Geiger, The Great Purge, Conquest, Various Soviet articles translated in the CURRENT DIGEST OF SOVIET PRESS, The Russians, Vladimirov, American and Soviet Society: A Reader in Comparative Sociology and Perception, Hollander, ed.
Requirements: subject to modification depending on enrollment
Examinations: 1 Hour exam, Final Exam, OR Term Paper

SOCIOLOGY 282
Sociological Theory
Charles H. Page
This course treats the historical development of modern sociology, with special reference to the works of Marx, Durkheim, Weber, Pareto, Cooley, Mead, W.I. Thomas, MacIver, and Parsons. These contributors and their theories are considered in historical, biographical, and sociological perspective, and consideration is given to the applicability of their ideas to present day social and cultural trends.
Major topics to be covered and approx. time on each topic: 1. The emergence of modern sociology 1. Historical and intellectual trends: legacies and innovations 2. The "first generation": evolutionism and synthetic sociology 3. Revolution: conservatism, radical socialism, and sociology, 3 weeks. II The "second generation" in Europe: Sociologists of lasting influence 4. Durkheim's sociologism and his legacies. 5. Weber: methodology and substantive theory; social structure and change 6. Pareto: social systems, elites, and history, 5 weeks. III. Selected theoretical developments in the United States 7. Individual and society: Cooley and Mead, Thomas and Znaniecki 8. MacIver: systematic theory; social structure, change, and causation 9. Functionalist theoretical systems: Parsons, Merton, et al., 5 weeks. IV. Epilogue: the sociological enterprise today, 1 week.
Required texts: SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY N. S. Timasheff, ON THEORETICAL SOCIOLOGY, R. K. Merton and choice of TWO of the following paperbacks: KARL MARX: SELECTED WRITINGS IN SOCIOLOGY AND SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY, T.B. Bottomore & M. Rubel, eds. EMILE DURKHEIM, George Simpson, MAX WEBER, S.M. Miller, VILFREDO PARETO, S.E. Finer, ed. THE SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY OF GEORGE HERBERT MEAD, Anselm Strauss, ed. W.I. THOMAS ON SOCIAL ORGANIZATION AND SOCIAL PERSONALITY, Morris Janowitz, ed. SOCIAL CAUSATION, R.M. MacIver
Number of Examinations: Final examination, only. Term paper: required

SOCIOLOGY 286
Sociology of Medicine
Eugene B. Piedmont
An examination of the medical institution using sociological concepts. Organization and utilization of medical care, social epidemiology, interaction between the community and the medical institution, patient-practitioner interaction.

30 APR 03

Major topics to be covered and approx. time of each topic: Orientation: Medicine as a Social Institution, 2 wks.; Social factors in illness, 3 wks.; Social factors in medical education, nursing and the allied health, professions, 3 weeks; Social and social psychological factors in patient-practitioner relations, 2 weeks; Organization of medical care, 3 weeks; Strategy and methods of research 1 week.

Required Texts: HANDBOOK OF MEDICAL SOCIOLOGY, Freeman, Levine, & Reeder, MEDICAL SOCIOLOGY: A SELECTIVE VIEW, Mechanic selected readers/collections

Number of Examinations: 1 Term paper is required.

SOCIOLOGY 292
Sociology of Welfare
Mr. Sutton

This course will be taught in the Fall of 1969 by Professor Sutton who is not on campus at present; no further information is available.

SOCIOLOGY 295
Research Methods
Albert Chevan

The course is designed about research projects that students conduct. One laboratory is held a week covering research topics and the student's research projects.

Major topics to be covered and approx. time on each topic: Introduction to research 3 lectures, Research designs 5 lectures, Sampling 3 lectures, Data Collection techniques 7 lectures, Scaling and data analysis 5 lectures, Research management, 2 lectures.

Required Text: RESEARCH METHODS IN SOCIAL RELATIONS, Selltiz, Jahoda, Deutsch, and Cook. There are several reading assignments from library reserve.

A course in statistics is recommended but not a prerequisite.

Examinations: 3 consisting of short answer and essay questions. Term paper: One major research paper is required in addition to laboratory reports.

Speech

Speech 115
Introduction to the Theatre
Jim Young

Comments: This course is an attempt to introduce students to the experience of theatre as a relevant, meaningful art form. The various aspects of theatre-script, actor, director, designer, critic, audience-are discussed as they affect the experience itself. Through slides and tapes attempts are made to show the interrelationship of theatre, the visual arts, and music. Improvisational techniques are used to involve students in the discovery of the personal significances of the plays.

Text: Drama: An Anthology edited by Otto Reinert. Additional paperback editions of contemporary plays.

Prerequisites and limitations: None

Papers: Four short experiental and/or critical responses to theatrical productions or play scripts are required. These may be tapes, collages, dances, or papers.

Examinations: A mid-term and a final. Each contain essay and multiple choice questions.

SPEECH 121
Introduction to Broadcasting
Dr. Richard D. Harper (see note below)

Comments or remarks: This is a lecture -theory course designed to acquaint the student with all aspects of the radio and television braodcasting industry. There is no work involving either the radio or TV studio, nor is there any effort to describe and explain the electronics involved in broadcasting.

Topics to be considered: History of radio-TV broadcasting in America (10 classes) Economic structure of the broadcasting industry (3) Comparative national and international systems of broadcasting (6-8) The development of educational radio and TV broadcasting (4) Legal and ethical problems of broadcasting (3) Cable television and subscription-TV (2). The nature of the television-vjewing audience (3)
The impact of TV viewing on the child(4) The impact of TV viewing on the adult audience (4) Basic program formats and their relative appeal (2) Audience research and program rating services (3) An evaluation of our philosophy of commerical broadcasting in America (3)

Required texts and materials: none

Supplementary materials: none

Prerequisites and limitations: no prerequisites; each section limited to 40 students

Papers: a 5 or 6 page paper usually required in the Fall semester

Examinations: Midterm examination (objective-type); final examination (same) quizzes may be held at any time.

NOTE: This coming fall there will be 3 sections of this course, of which I will be teaching 2. The other section will be taught by another instructor, and the course description here does not apply to his section.

SPEECH 140 Introduction to Stagecraft and Design
Nick Bryson

Comments: An introduction to the basic elements of modern scenic design for the proscenium theatre. Emphasis on scenographic drafting techniques with instruction in mechanical perspective drawing. Design section of course is one half the semester. Remaining half is devoted to an introduction to the technical aspects of production, i.e. the construction, painting, rigging and handling of scenery.

Text: SCENE DESIGN AND STAGE LIGHTING W. Oron Parker and Harvey K. Smith

Prerequisite: none

Limitation: Limit of 14 students

Projects: 18 projects spread out over semester.

Examinations: Mid-Term and Final

SPEECH 152
Oral Interpretation of Literature
Doris Abtamson, Marya Bednerik, Vincent Brann, Judith Willner

Comments: This course is concerned with the principles and techniques of reading aloud, using a variety of literary forms: verse, prose, and dialogue. Vocal needs are considered as they are relevant to the communication of meaning. The interdependence of literature, reader and listener is stressed throughout this performance-oriented course.

Required texts and materials:paperbacks are recommended by the instructor, plus a text that has not as yet been decided upon.

Supplementary materials: on reserve at the library.

Papers and exams: There are five or six major readings, followed by oral and written critiques. There are several reading hours during the year at which students in this course read for colleagues and friends; oral or written critiques follow these performances. The final exam is a Lecture Recital. As a rule, short analytical papers precede all readings.

SPEECH 181
Phonetics
G. Patrick Nerbonne

Topics to be considered, with approx. time for each: General introduction (1 wk) Acoustic event in speech (3 weeks) Physiological event in speech (3 weeks) Description of the acoustic physiological events in speech (transcription) (7 weeks)

Required texts and materials: Gray, G.W. and Wise, C.M., THE BASES OF SPEECH, New York: Harper and Row, 1959. Wise, C.M. and Mogran, L.C., A PROGRESSIVE PHONETIC WORKBOOK FOR STUDENTS IN SPEECH, Dubuque, Iowa: Wm. C. Brown, 1967.

Prerequisites and limitations: none

Papers (length and number): none

Examinations, quizzes etc. (short-answer, essay, etc.): Three (including final)

SPEECH 203
Argumentation and Debate
Professor Ronald J. Matlon
Semester #1, 1968-1969

Textbooks: Glen E. Mills, REASON IN CONTROVERSY, 1968. Russel R. Windes and Arthur Hastings, ARGUMENTATION AND ADVOCACY, 1965. Harry P. Kerr, OPINION AND EVIDENCE, 1962.

Semester Topic Area: The Making of United States Foreign Policy.

Unit #1. An introduction to argumentative propositions.
Unit #2. The use of evidence.
Unit #3. The use of reasoning.
Unit #4. The structure and presentation of arguments.
Unit #5. An introduction to debating argumentative propositions.
Unit #6. The debate case.
Unit #7. Attacking and defending debate cases.
Unit #8. The presentation and evaluation of debates.

SPEECH 224
Advanced Television Production-Direction
Dr. Richard D. Harper

Comment or remarks: This is a laboratory-studio course in all aspects of television studio production. Students enrolled will have experience in all crew positions, will have the opportunity to produce a variety of TV programs, and will have experience in directing.

Topics to be considered: Class is divided into production teams, each of which is then responsible for certain studio productions.

Required texts and materials: None.

Supplementary materials: None.

Prerequisites and limitations: Speech 223 a prerequisite; section limited to 12-14 students.

Papers: Several fully scripted programs are called for during the semester; no research papers required.

Examinations: Quizzes may be given at any time; a final examination usually included at the end of the semester.

NOTE: Since there are no longer TV studio facilities in Bartlett, starting in the fall we will be using space in South College which shortly should be adapted for use as a laboratory studio.

SPEECH 243
Acting I
Jim Young, Doris Abramson

This course introduces the student to the basic psychological, kinesthetic and vocal aspects of acting. Experiences include vocal and body training, development of the students' ability to observe and concentrate, and improvisations.

Prerequisite: Speech 115 Class limited to 16 in each section.

Papers: Two critical evaluations of the acting in theatrical productions

Examinations: One final examination.

SPEECH 247
History of Theatre I

The aim of this course is to provide a thorough knowledge and understanding of theatre arts from prehistoric times up to the French revolution. Emphasis is given the Greek period, the religious plays of the Medieval Era, the Renaissance, the Elizabethan Theatre, and the English-American Theatre of the eighteenth century.

Text: Oscar Brockett, HISTORY OF THE THEATRE, 1968. A list of additional books to be used for checking will be given to all students of this course. 18 plays should be read during the semester.

This course is devised for advanced students, i.e. juniors and seniors, yet graduates may take it. (Speech 547) A good knowledge in Dram. Lit. is helpful.

Assignments: 2 or 3 oral reports. Term paper (c. 15 pages). Final test.

SPEECH 251/551
Oral Interpretation of Children's Literature
Dorothy Aldrich; detailed analysis of form and content of adult literature, survey of field of children's literature, readings from children's poetry and stories, readers' theatre.

Text: Arbuthnot, CHILDREN AND BOOKS,

Papers: analysis of each selection, addition to reading performance, research on teaching of oral interpretation techniques.

Examinations: possible tests on aspects of children's literature and on techniques of analysis--a performance course, no final exam.

SPEECH ~~252/552~~ 251/551
Advanced Oral Interpretation of Literature
Vincent Brann

Theories & techniques of solo and group interpretation of works of literature in various forms: lyric, narrative, documentary. Problems of the solo interpreter contrasted with those of the participant in group interpretation. Four main units of work: (1) lyric program, usually solo; (2) narrative/character program (prose or poetry), usually 2 people; (3) documentary (non-fiction) program, 2 or more readers; (4) a final Readers Theatre program of 30-40 minutes in length, devised and presented by students in groups of 5 or 6, depending on class size. Emphasis on the final project is on special problems related to selecting material, casting, rehearsing, and producing the Readers Theatre program.

Texts: Don Geiger: THE SOUND, SENSE, AND PERFORMANCE OF LITERATURE Coger & White: READERS THEATRE HANDBOOK.

Prerequisites: Completion of Speech 152, Oral Interpretation of Literature, or its equivalent.

Limitations: Class usually held at 12 to 15 students, absolute limit is 20.

Papers: No major papers, as the work of the course is chiefly concerned with oral, not written, performance. However, occasional short written analyses, outlines, and/or bibliographies are required. Final program (Readers Theatre) script submitted in its entirety, with bibliography.

Examinations: No formal ones; the final program (held during last class meetings of the semester) is in lieu of examination and/or research paper (as it combines elements of both) and amounts to major portion of the grade earned in the course.

SPEECH 253/553
Children's Drama I
Dorothy Aldrich

Creative or informal dramatics in the classroom and in recreation. The creative individual and process. Expressive movement, pantomine, sensitivity, characterization, improvisation, creative story dramatization. Materials and techniques for freeing the individual child for self-realization and imaginative self-expression. Participation in creative activites and observation of children's activities required.

Papers: Research on creativity, brief reports, term project.

Examinations: Essay

SPEECH 260
Dramatic Form
Gary Stewart

The course is designed as a study in the criticism of drama. Students read and discuss plays and critical essays.

Topics: criticism, the dramatic view of human experience, elements of the drama (plot, character, thought, diction), dramatic action, genre, unity, function or effect, value, enactment

Texts: Elder Olson, TRAGEDY AND THE THEORY OF DRAMA; Calderwood and Tolliver (eds.), PERSPECTIVES ON DRAMA; copies of the following plays: "All My Sons," "Long Day's Journey Into Night," "Galileo," "Uncle Vanya," "King Lear," "The Misanthrope," "Endgame," "Danton's Death."

Enrollment is limited to twenty. The course is available for graduate credit.

Papers: four or five short (two-page) essays on course topics and one ten to fifteen page analysis of a play of the student's own choosing

Examination: one essay examination

SPEECH 284
Anatomy and Physiology of the Speech and Hearing Mechanism
G. Patrick Nerbonne

Topics to be considered,, with approximate time for each:
The respiratory mechanism
The mechanism for phonation
The articulatory mechanism
The mechanism for hearing
The nervous system

Required texts and materials: Zemlin, W., SPEECH AND HEARING SCIENCE: ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY, Englewood Cliffs, N.J.: Prentice-Hall, 1967.

Prerequisites and limitations: None.

Papers (length and number): None.

Examinations, quizzes etc., (short-answer, essay, etc.) Frequent quizzes and a final.

609
SPEECH 286/586
Rehabilitation of the Acoustically Handicapped
Nicholas M. Hipskind

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Hearing Aids - Their use and limitations (3 wks.) Lip-reading - Discussion of therapeutic approaches & research - review of investigations concerning lipreading skills (5 wks.) Auditory Training - Discussion of therapeutic approaches & review of studies in the area of auditory training. (5 wks.) Students will have the opportunity of observing and conducting therapy sessions with hearing impaired clients.

Required texts and materials: Oyer, H.H., AUDITORY COMMUNICATION FOR THE HARD OF HEARING, NEW JERSEY: Prentice-Hall, 1966. ; O'Neill J. J. and Oyer, H. J., VISUAL COMMUNICATION FOR THE HARD OF HEARING New Jersey; Prentice-Hall, 1960.

Prerequisites and limitations: Speech 285/585

Examinations, quizzes &c. (short-answer, essay, etc.) Mid-term & final

SPEECH 286/586
Advanced Clinical Audiology
Nicholas M Hipskind

Topics: Theories, methodologies, procedures for special diagnostic testing in audiology; hearing and selection and evaluation procedures.

Required texts and materials: Jerger, James J., MODERN DEVELOPMENTS IN AUDIOLOGY, New York: Academic Press, 1963; Stevens, S.S. and David, Hallowell, HEARING: ITS PSYCHOLOGY AND PHYSIOLOGY, New York, John Wiley & Sons, Inc. 7th printing, 1966.

Prerequisites and limitations: Speech 285/585.

Papers: Several laboratory exercises.

Examinations: Mid-term and final.

Zoology

ZOOLOGY 101
Introductory Zoology
Profs. B. O'Connor, G. S. Rollason, J. Shepard.

Principals of biology with special reference to cell structure and metabolism, heredity, development and the anatomy, physiology, ecology, evolution and behavior of major groups of the animal kingdom.

Major topics discussed: Lecture topics Cell structure and metabolism (5 lectures, 3 3-hr. labs.); Heredity (6 lectures, 2 3-hr. labs.); Development (2 lectures, 1 3-hr. lab.); Anatomy and physiology (6 lectures, 5 3-hr. labs.); Behavior, evolution & ecology (6 lectures, 1 3-hr. labs.).

Required text: BIOLOGY, Helena Curtis.

Supplementary materials: LABORATORY DIRECTIONS FOR INTRODUCTORY ZOOLOGY, H. D. Rollason, D. J. Klingener.

Prerequisites: None

Number and length of reports: 1 or 2 short laboratory reports.

Number and Kind of exams: 2 hour exams and final multiple-choice; 2 1-hr. laboratory practical exams; Approximately 6 10-minute quizzes.

ZOOLOGY 137
Anatomy & Physiology
Mrs. B. J. White; W. B. O'Connor

Systemic study of the structure and function of the human organism.

Major Topics discussed: An in depth study of the structure and function of the human organism.

Time allotted: 3 class hours per week; 1 3-hour lab per week; Total of 4 credits.

Required texts: Kimber ET. AL., 15th ed. 1966, "Anatomy and Physiology" Grollman: 2nd ed. 1969, "The Human Body". Selected references assigned by instructors.

Supplementary materials: Variety of mimeographed "hand out" sheets.

Number and length of papers and reports: Unit lab reports. Special reports and term papers at option of instructor.

Number and kind of exams: 2 to 3 per semester with final covering entire semester; type: essay, matching, comparison, multiple choice and short answer. Specific type depend on the material and instructor.

Prerequisites and limitations: prerequisites: Zoology 101; Chemistry 111; 112. Limitations: Course open only to majors in Nursing, Medical Technology and Public Health. Section 1 consists of Nursing majors. Section 2 consists of Med. Tech. & P. H. majors. Course material is presented to the two sections according to their career interests. Sections are not interchangeable.

NB: To receive credit for 137 it must be followed in the second semester by Zoology 138 which is an actual continuation of 137.

ZOOLOGY 200
Natural History
D. Craig Edwards

Description: The course introduces the student to the natural world around him and provides information, skills, and materials for the teaching of natural history. Ways in which man is altering his environment and ways in which the environment in turn influences man are emphasized.

Zoology 200 is a service course for students in education and a distribution course for other non-majors. It is not open to Zoology majors for credit in science.

Major topics: Introduction & Orientation (1 week); Astronomy (1 week); Meteorology (2 weeks); Geology (2 weeks); Population & Community Ecology (3 weeks); Animal Behavior (1 week); Major Ecosystems (3 weeks); (1 hr. lecture and 4 hr. lab. or field trip weekly).

Required texts: ca. 8 paperbacks, including Natural History (lab. syllabus) Weather, Astronomy, Geology, and Ecology books Pocket guides to trees, birds, & insects.

Supplementary materials: Misc. inexpensive supplies such as insect pins, small vials, metric ruler, etc.

Prerequisites: Botany 100 & Zoology 100.

Reports: 5 lab. reports of ca. 4 pages each.

Exams and quizzes: 1 hour exam & final exam -- primarily short answer questions requiring thought, not regurgitation.

2 lab. practicals -- identifications.

Short quizzes and small collections in lab.

ZOOLOGY 221
Comparative Anatomy
L.M. Bartlett

Lectures: Anatomical Evidence for Vertebrate Phylogeny (70%); Relation of Structure to function (30%); LABS: Cat & Shark as "Representative" Tetrapod and Fish

Required Text: Romer - The Vebtebrate Body, Shorter Version

Supplementary materials: Wischnitzer - Lab Manual for Comp. Anat.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc.: Zool 101 or 160 or 240. Enrollment limit:100

Number and length of papers, reports: none

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: 2 Lab Practicals, 1 essay hour exam (optional) 1 2-hour final, essay.

ZOOLOGY 223
Histology
Herbert E. Potswald

Microscopic and submicroscopic structure of cells, tissues, and organs as related to function, with emphasis on the mammal.

Major topics discussed: Lecture: The theory and use of the microscope; Cell fine structure; Epithelial tissue; Connective tissue; Blood; Muscle tissue; Nervous tissue; Circulatory system; Lymphatic organs; Integument; Glands and the cytology of secretion; Digestive system; Endocrines; Urinary system; Male reproductive system; Female reproductive system.

Laboratory: Epithelial tissue; Connective tissue; Macrophages, blood; Muscle tissue, microtechnique - demonstration; Nervous tissue, electron microscope - demonstration; Circulatory system; Lymphatic organs, skin; Digestive system; Glands, respiratory system; Endocrines, sense organs; Urinary tract; Male reproductive system; Female reproductive system.

Time allotted: Two class hours, one 3-hour laboratory period. Credit, 3.

Required texts: Bloom and Fawcett, A TEXTBOOK OF HISTOLOGY, ninth ed. Stiles, HANDBOOK OF HISTOLOGY, fifth ed.

Prerequisites: Zoology 101

Number and kind of exams:
Two hour exams (100 points each) - essay, short answer, some multiple choice and matching. Two laboratory practicals (100 points each) - identification of histological preparations and electron micrographs. Final exam (200 points) - similar to hour exams.

ZOOLOGY 225
Developmental Biology
M. S. Kaulenas

Description: Physiological & biochemical aspects of development

Required text: Balinsky; Bell; Rough

Prerequisites, limitation, etc.; Chemistry 262

Papers (length and number): one (1,500 words)

Number and kind (essay , multiple choice, short answer): Two, Essay

ZOOLOGY 240 Principles of Genetics
Stroup

Open to all science majors other than zoologists.

Transmission genetics, physiological genetics, molecular genetics, and population genetics in a 1:1:1:1 ratio.

Text: Strickberger - Genetics

Prerequisites: Zoo 101 or Bot. 100; Chem 112 or H4.

Possibility of substituting a term paper for a make-up exam. Three hour examinations (problem solving approach) plus the final.

ZOOLOGY 281
Biology of Lower Invertebrates
Wm. B. Nutting

Description: Study of "simple" animals,

Time alloted: 2 1-hour lectures/week; 1 3-hr lab. Structure of these invertebrates Biology of same.

Required Text: Not settled as yet

Supplementary materials: Dissection kit

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. Zoology 101

Number and length of papers, reports-probably 1 5-page paper

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams. essay and short answer.

ZOOLOGY 283
General Parasitalogy
B. M. Honigberg

Structure, life cycles, and physilogy of protozoan and helminth parasites with emphasis on broad aspects of parasitism.

Topics: Mutualism, commensalism, parasitism.

Required text: Chandler and Read, PARASITOLOGY.

Prerequisites, limitations: Zoology 101, Chemistry 112 or 114.

Papers: none

Examinations: three one-hour exams, multiple choice, short answers; 2-3 practical exams; no final exam.

ZOOLOGY 300
Vertebrate Zoology
T. J. Anderson

Description of course: see Undergraduate Catalog

Topics: For each Class of vertebrates (birds excluded) taxa above the family level are considered. Topics include structural bases for relationships, reproductive events, climate and geographic factors influencing vertebrate distributions. Grades of organization reached by fishes during historical sequences are traced to recent. Laboratories emphasize recognition and identification of North American fishes, amphibians, reptiles. Percentages of time, contact hours to major subject, as follows: vertebrate morphology and systematics (20) fishes ((20); amphibians (15); reptiles (19); mammals (14); field trips (12).

Text: Young, J.Z. The Life of Vertebrates, 2nd ed. 1962, Oxford Univ. Press

Supplementary materials: furnished

Prerequisites: Zoology 101

Papers: none beyond "laboratory reports"

Examinations etc: Two scheduled hour exams (short-answer and multiple-choice) One laboratory practical (end of term), scheduled, Four or five laboratory quizzes (unannounced)

ZOOLOGY 366
Vertebrate Physiology
Dr. M. A. Klouda

Description : Primarily Human Physiology

Required Text: Medical Physiology - Guyton

Supplementary materials: Dissecting Kit

Prerequisites: Biochemistry or Cell Physiology

Number and length of reports: 1 Lab Report/wk.

Number and kind (essay, multiple choice, short answer) of exams: Short answer-3 hourlies & 1 final exam.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Accounting

ACCOUNTING - MANAGEMENT 100 - INFORMATION PROCESSING FOR BUSINESS
Staff

Introduction to data processing and computer concepts. Emphasis is given to writing BASIC and FORTRAN IV languages and processing on UMASS equipment.

Topics: History of Computation and Trends - 3 hrs.; UMASS and data processing equipment - 3 hrs.; BASIC - 10 hrs.; FORTRAN IV - basic concepts - 12 hrs.; FORTRAN IV - advanced concept-12 hrs.; Total of 40 Hours.

Text: Decima M. Anderson, Computer Programming FORTRAN IV, Appleton - Century - Crofts

UMASS User's Manual, Univ. of Mass., Research Computing Center

Supplementary materials: mimeographed materials

Papers: None

Prerequisites: None

Exams: Hour examinations and quizzes.

ACCOUNTING 125 - INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING I
Staff

The course is designed to introduce the student to the area of financial accounting for profit-motivated organizations. The focal points are: 1, the principles underlying the preparation of financial statements, 2, the characteristics of the system which generate accounting data, 3. the limitations of accounting data, 4. the characteristics and unique problems of accounting for various forms of business organizations and various assets and liabilities.

Topics to be considered: Accounting cycle - 4 wks.; merchandising operations-1 wk.; forms of business organization - 1 wk.; assets and liabilities - 3 wks.; accounting principles - 1 wk.; manufacturing operations - 1 wk.; statement of sources & uses of net working capital - 1 wk. price-level changes & supplementary statements - 1 wk.; A total of 12 weeks.

Text: The department is in the process of choosing a text for next Fall.

Supplementary materials: These vary with the texts available and are generally optional for the students.

Prerequisites: Not open to Freshmen

Papers: None

Examinations: Generally 5 examinations are given plus a final examination but practice varies between instructors. The tests emphasize problemsolving but do very often include short answer questions designed to test the student's ability to articulate the importance of the accounting concepts he has studied. The use of quizzes and consideration of homework varies among instructors.

ACCOUNTING 126 - INTRODUCTION TO ACCOUNTING II
Staff

The course is designed to introduce the student to the area of managerial accounting. The medium used is a manufacturing firm of modest size, for it is in this area that the act of managerial accounting is most highly developed. The problems of accounting for this type of enterprise are briefly considered, but of greater importance is the study of appropriate uses of accounting data to assist in management decision-making.

Topics to be considered: review of Accounting 125 - 1 wk.; financial statement analysis - 1wk.; accounting for planning & control - 9 wks. (Budgeting, cost behavior, control of costs, responsibility accounting, variable costing, cost analysis for problem solving); impact of income taxes on management planning - 1 wk.; influence of quantitative techniques on management accounting - 1 wk.; Total of 13 weeks.

Text: The department is in the process of choosing a text for next Fall.

Supplementary materials: These vary with the texts available and are generally optional for the students.

Prerequisites: Not open to Freshmen.

Papers: None

Examinations: Generally 5 examinations are given plus a final examination but practice varies between instructors. The tests emphasize problemsolving but do very often include short answer questions designed to test the student's ability to articulate the importance of the accounting concepts he has studied. The use of quizzes and consideration of homework varies among instructors.

ACCOUNTING 251, COMPUTER APPLICATIONS IN BUSINESS
Instructor: unkown at this time

Comments: Course deals with using the COBOL computer language to solve business data processing problems. The thrust of the course is to development a proficiency in COBOL and to examine some of the common data processing problems.

Pre-recs: A knowledge of FORTRAN or BASIC IS VERY useful, but not mandatory.

Papers: No papers but several (approx. 12) computer programs. Three tests plus a final. One test or more may be a programming test (where an actual program is written and run).

Texts: Sprowls, R. Clay, COMPUTERS; A PROGRAMMING PROBLEM APPROACH; McCracken, Daniel, INTRODUCTION TO COBOL PROGRAMMING

ACCOUNTING 261, 262 INTERMEDIATE ACCOUNTING I, II

A detailed study of the valuation problems encountered in the preparation of corporate financial reports, with emphasis on accounting theory and concepts. Research studies and opinions of professional committees and boards are examined in conjunction with related text material. This is a required foundation course for accounting majors, and is a suitable terminal course for non-majors who wish to pursue accounting study beyond Accounting 125, 126.

Required Text: INTERMEDIATE ACCOUNTING, 2nd ed., by Meigs, Johnson, Keller, Mosich. McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Supplementary Materials: A.P.B. ACCOUNTING PRINCIPLES, Vol. I & II (paperback), Commerce Clearing House, Inc.

Prerequisite: Accounting 126.

Papers: None in Accounting 261, one in 262.

Examinations: Three hour exams, plus final. Examinations are combinations of essay questions and problems to be solved.

ACCOUNTING 263, COST ACCOUNTING
Robert W. Lentihon

Comment: Introduction to costing accounting, cost systems - Job Order and Process, application standards to cost accounting, with emphasis on control of elements of cost.

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Overhead, including application of responsibility accounting, 7 hrs.; Materials control - 2 hrs. Materials costing - 2 hrs. ; Labor control - 2 hrs. ; Labor costing - 2 hrs. Process Cost - 8 hrs.; Estimated Cost-2 hrs.; Standard Cost - concepts and control - 9 hrs.

Text: Matz, Curry and Frank: COST ACCOUNTING, South-Western Pub. Co.

Supplementary materials: Mimeographed materials on occasion

Prerequisites: Accounting 126

Papers: None

Exams: two examinations - combination essay and problems quizzes - 6 or 7, unannounced during semester, homework - written assignments (problem - solving) half of these are collected

ACCOUNTING 273 - FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

The course is concerned with a detailed study and analysis of Federal Income Tax laws and regulations as they affect individuals. The major topics covered include: 1. nature of income-recognition 2. gains and losses; 3, dividends-business income; 4. deduction, exemptions, exclusions. Considerable practice on actual tax forms.

Text: Prentice Hall Tax course. Government publications and forms are supplied.

Prerequisite: A course in elementary accounting or permission of the instructor.

Papers: In place of a paper, the preparation of an individual tax return, with supporting schedules is undertaken as an outside assignment.

Exams and Quizzes: Frequent unannounced quizzes. One mid-term examination and a final. All questions are of the problem variety.

ACCOUNTING 277 - AUDITING
Anthony T. Krzyzstofik

Introduction to the basic concepts of auditing and control. Considers types of audits, internal control, audit programs and practice. Emphasis is given to the responsibilities of the internal auditor and requirements for certification by independent auditors.

Topics: Auditing Basics - 3 hrs.; Standards - 3 hrs.; Ethics - 3 hrs.; Internal Control - 6 hrs.; Flow charting and analysis - 3 hrs.; Statistical Sampling - 3 hrs.; Audit Programs, procedure, practice - 13 hrs.; Audit reports - 6 hrs. 40 Total Hours.
Text: Howard F. Stettler, Systems Based Independent Audits, Prentice Hall Sherwood W. Newton and Howard F. Stettler, PRACTICE CASE FOR AUDITING, Prentice Hall
Supplementary materials: AICPA and AA publications.
Prerequisites: Acctg. 262 and 263
Papers: None
Exams: Two examinations and a final

General Business & Finance

FINANCE 201
Corporation Finance
Plattner, Flanders, Deets, Barges
Topics to be considered: Financial Analysis - 2 wks.; Asset Management - 3 wks.; Short Term Financing - 3 wks.; Capital Budgeting and Cost of Capital - 3 wks.; Long-term Financing - 2 wks.; Security Markets - 1 wk.; Total of weeks 14.
Comments: Required of all business students. Tends to be analytical, stressing problem solving rather than descriptive material.
Prerequisite: Two semesters of accounting
Papers: None
Examinations: Two mid-term exams.

FINANCE 202
Problems in Business Finance
H. N. Flanders
Topics to be considered: Short and intermediate term financing; decision-making under uncertainty regarding needs for and sources of funds.
Texts: "Case Problems in Finance", Vandell & Coleman, Publisher - Irwin. "Financial Decision Making", Mock, Publisher - International Textbook.
Prerequisite: Finance 201
Papers: One or two. Medium length.
Examinations: Two or three (plus the final) (essay and case problems)

GENERAL BUSINESS 240
Transport Administration
Prof. Robert L. Rivers
Comments: Course has an economic orientation emphasizing the role of costs for pricing purposes.
Topical Outline: 1st Unit (6 wks.) - Economic Aspects of Transportation, Transport Agencies, How Rates Are Determined, Public Regulation; 2nd Unit (4 wks.) - The Carriers, Services Provided, The Problems of Mergers & Competition, Public Aids to Transportation; 3rd Unit (3 wks.) - Conflicts in National Policy The Metropolitan Transport Problem, Future Developments in Modes.
Required Texts: DOMESTIC TRANSPORTATION by Sampson & Farris, Houghton-Mifflin Co., 1966 Modern Transportation, by Farris and McElhinery, Houghton-Mifflin Co, 1967*.
* Subject to Change.
Supplementary Materials: Library readings.
Prerequisites: Economics 125 or equivalent
Papers: Term paper may be required; or a project.
Examinations: Two hour exams, plus a final.
Make - up Policy: The last class day of the semester is reserved for make-up examinations.

GENERAL BUSINESS 250 ECONOMICS 301
Administrative Statistics, Decision Theory
M. W. Belovicz
Current Required Text: Raiffa, Howard, DECISION ANALYSIS - INTRODUCTORY LECTURES ON CHOICES UNDER UNCERTAINTY.
Supplementary Materials: Reprints from SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Psychology and Economic Journals, and the Popular Press when appropriate. Also materials relating to several in - class experiments.
Prerequisite: Basic Statistics
Papers, Examinations etc.: Review of Statistics (Take-home and in-class examinations at beginning of semester) (15%), Major written assignments due about 10 days apart (45%), Take-home final (20%), Term Project (20%). Percentage are approximate contribution to grade.
Goal of Course: The application of formal models, utility concepts, and probability concepts to problems in business, economics, psychology, etc. The course deals with methodology that is presumed useful in problem solving for a broad range of situations.

GENERAL BUSINESS & FINANCE 262 &562
Law II
Mr. Goldman
Topics to be considered: 1. The Genesis of the Corporation; 2. Corporation - Its Place & Function in Society; 3. Corporate Democracy or Dictatorship; 4. Corporation Acquisition Policy, Strategy and Their Economic Effects. 5. Insider Trading. 6. Securities Regulations - Securities Act 1933, Securities Exchange Act 1934, Blue Sky Regulation.
Required Text: Undecided
Supplementary Material: Law Review Articles, Economic Journals, Case Handouts.
Prerequisites: General Business & Finance 260 or Permission of Instructor
Papers : one paper
Examinations: Mid-term and Final - all essay

GENERAL BUSINESS 270
Real Estate
George Burak
Topics to be considered: The course, as currently offered, is a typical principles course with primary emphasis on legal, economic and finance aspects. Since business practices change rapidly in response to new developments, the "why" rather than "how to" approach to the study of the subject is stressed.
More specifically the course deals with the following subject matter (not necessarily in the order presented here): 1. Economics of ubanization - fundamentals of urban growth, origins of cities, rates of ubanization, theories of city growth, and urban growth problems. 2. The legal (institutional) aspects of real property - property rights, contracts, mortgages and other lending instruments, leases and lease financing, and non-possessory interests in land. 3. Economic characteristics of real estate - demand and supply analysis , real estate market functions and organization, real estate and business cycle analysis and forecasting. 4. Regional and economic base analysis - definitions, theories, and technique of economic base analysis. 5. Valuation of real property - value principles, the value principles, the valuation process, mathematics of valuation, the appraisal process, valuation problems. 6. The impact of government - analysis of governmental regulations, federal and state housing programs. 7. Real estate financing--methods and instruments, sources of funds, secondary markets. 8. The study of real estate administration - real estate brokerage operations, selling methods, market analysis, sales management, property management. 9. Special problems of the real estate business - the building industry, urban development and redevelopment. 10. Emerging patterns in urban land use - real estate taxation, urban planning, public housing, the Negro and the City.
Real Estate Economics: 1. An Introduction to Urban Land Use, R. B. Brown, Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston, 1965. 2. Urban America: Goals & Problems, U.S. Gov't . Printing Office, Washington, 1967. 3. Mimeographed real estate law cases and reproductions of current articles from such journals as Land Economics, and The Appraisal Journal will be distributed by the instructor.
Papers: No papers will be required.
Examinations: Minimum of three 50 minutes essay or short-answer type examinations plus a final.
Prerequisite: No formal prerequisite beyond junior standing, although principles of economics desirable.

GENERAL BUSINESS 272
Problems in Real Estate
George J. Burak
General Business 272 is essentially a seminar in the economic dimensions of urban growth and change. Its primary purpose is to discuss the reasons behind, and the problems growing out of the economic growth and stagnation of cities. The course will be conducted on the basis of lectures and of students classroom presentation of oral and written reports. Students are expected to utilize other than formally assigned materials in the presentation of reports.
Students are required to write a paper on a subject approved by the instructor. Fairly comprehensive treatment of the subject chosen is expected. Such treatment can rarely be accomplished in a paper short of 30 typewritten pages. Papers are to be typewritten and double-spaced. They must include proper references to and bibliography of the materials used in preparing the paper. All papers will be presented to the class for discussion and defense. At the end of 4th week of the course, each student will submit a typewritten description of his topic and an outline of his approach to the problem or topic. Reports must conform to high standards of composition. Dates for presentation of reports will be announced by the instructor.
Grading will be done on the basis of three chief factors: Oral reports, class discussion, and written paper. In addition there will be an optional, written final examination.

Topics to be considered: Internal and External factors in the development of urban economics; The Evolving system of cities in the United States: Urbanization and Economic Development; The Uses and Development of regional projections; The Changing Profile of our urban human resources; The Evolving Form and Organization of the metropolis; Urban residential land and housing markets; Poverty in the cities; Quantitative models of urban development: Their Role in Metropolitan Policy-making; Federal State and Local Finance in a Metropolitan Context; The Supply of Urban Public Services; The demand for Urban public services; Public Policy for Urban America
Prerequisite: G. B. 270 (Real Estate) or consent of the instructor. Senior standing or consent of the instructor.

Management

MANAGEMENT 201
Principles of Management
Michael, Pfeiffer, Piersich, Carbine
Supplementary materials - none
Prerequisites - none
Papers - one or two, 5-10 pp. each.
Examinations: combination of multiple-choice and short essays

Marketing

MARKETING 201
Fundamentals of Marketing
Barber, Johnson, Paul
Topics: Social issues in marketing; the environment of marketing as it affects decision making in product planning, distribution, pricing and promotion.
Text: No selected as yet.
Desirable Prerequisites: Psych. 101, Soc. 101, Econ. 126 (or equivalent) or permission of instructor.
Exams: Essay variety, hourlies plus final.

MARKETING 210
Buyer Behavior
George Schwartz
Topics: Sensory and Perceptual Processes; Learning, Memory, and Cognition; Motivation and Emotion; Social Factors and Perception; Consumer Attitudes; Social Groups; Social and Cultural Factors; The Family; Communications in Marketing, plus a number of other topics.
Text: Myers and Reynolds, CONSUMER BEHAVIOR A N D MARKETING MANAGEMENT; Tucker, FOUNDATIONS FOR A THEORY OF CONSUMER BEHAVIOR: McNeal, DIMENSIONS OF CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
Supplementary Materials: readings in various books in the Library collection
Prerequisites: Marketing 201, or permission of the instructor
Paper: One paper--no prescribed length; students are urged to take full advantage of a learning experience
Examinations: A minimum of a mid-term and a final examination--essay questions.

MARKETING 216
MARKETING MANAGEMENT
Parker Worthing
Nature of course: The course will focus on the nature and problems of planning and a problem-solving faced by top-level marketing management in business corporations. Various decision areas are treated in depth. Emphasis is on the assessment of relevant variables, their inter-relationships, and the approaches to marketing-related decision-making in a competitive environment.
Text: Philip Kotler, MARKETING MANAGEMENT: ANALYSIS, PLANNING AND CONTROL, Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N.J., 1967. Considerable material, primarily in the form of selected reading from the literature, will also be utilized.
Papers: Written requirements will include a series of brief reports dealing with specific problems or decisions faced by marketing management.
Exams: There will be three exams, two during the term and a final exam. All exams will be in the form of essay questions.
Prerequisites: Class of 1970--Mktg. 201 or permission of the instructor.; Class of 1971--Mktg. 201, 212, and 232.

MARKETING 219
Marketing Strategy
Jack S. Wolf
Nature of Course: This offering provides the student with an opportunity to engage in competitive activity using a computerized decision simulation. Students are organized into company management teams and are evaluated on profits generated through alternative marketing strategies.
Required Text: none
Responsibility: Application of data manipulation techniques acquired in prior course work.
Prerequisites: Marketing 201 or permission of instructor.
Papers: one term paper submitted by each management team.
Examinations: none

MARKETING 221
Product Development and Planning
Parker Worthing
Nature of Course: Course coverage includes the examination of factors pertinent to effective product policy formulation and implementation. The relationship between corporate objectives and decisions regarding product offerings for sustained competitive effectiveness is considered. Processes related to product line additions and deletions are treated in depth.
Required Reading: Required reading will include selected material from the relevant literature. No text is required.
Paper: A term paper dealing in depth with some prescribed facet of the course will be required of each student.
Exams: There will be two exams, both comprised of essay questions.
Prerequisites: Mktg. 211 or permission of instructor.

MARKETING 222
Marketing Communications
James Wiek
Topics: Development of effective marketing communications strategies including advertising and sales force management. Characteristics of target ausiences, conceptual material from communications theory.
Text: Not selected as yet. Outside readings.
Paper: Term paper, 10-20 pages.
Exams: Essay, hourly, plus final.
Prerequisite: Marketing 201, or permission of instructor.

MARKETING 223
Marketing Network Analysis
James Wiek
Topics: Systems approach to the management of activities that facilitate the movement of goods to end users. Problems of designing and managing a distribution net work. Behavioral problems encountered in dealing with channel of distribution intermediaries.
Text: Not selected as yet. Outside readings.
Prerequisite: Mktg. 201, or permission of instructor.
Exams: Essay. Hourly plus final. Term paper: 10-20 pages.

MARKETING 231
Consumer Attitudes and Demand
Mr. Venkatesan
Comment or remarks: None
Topics to be considered: 1. Model of Consumer Behavior; 2. Influencing Forces of Consumer Behavior; 3. Buying Processes; 4. Consumer Satisfaction; 5. Epilogue; Required texts and materials: Engel, Kollat and Blackwell, CONSUMER BEHAVIOR, 1968, Holt, Rinehart & Winston.
Supplementary materials: Will be announced in class.
Prerequisites and limitations: Marketing 201
Papers: 2 papers, about 15 pages
Examinations: 2 during the semester, short essay examinations.

MARKETING 237
International Marketing
Bertil Liander
Topics: The course is divided in four parts roughly of equal length. 1. Economic and managerial considerations when marketing abroad. 2. Effects on marketing of economic and political development in Western Europe. 3. Same in the European Communist Bloc. 4. Same in Latin America.
Required Text: Not yet decided.
Prerequisite: Mktg. 201, Fundamentals of Marketing , or permission of instructor.
Supplementary material: Monographs, articles, etc., all reporduced and available at the School of Business Administration.
Papers: One term paper 10-15 pages.
Examination: Mid term and final

Air Science

AIR SCIENCE 111
World Military Systems
Captain Robinson
Explores the causes and principles of war (3 hours), the objectives of the U.S. Defense Establishment (4 hours) and some of the operations and the structure of the U.S. Air Force (3 hours). The course is a combination of lectures and discussions.
Text used is World Military Systems, Volume I, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
There are no prerequisites for the course.
No papers required. Graded items include quizzes, a mid-term, a final, and class participation.

AIR SCIENCE 121
World Military Systems
Colonel Friedman
Studies the functions of United States general purpose forces involving U.S. Army, Navy, the Marine Corps, tactical air forces, special warfare, and counter-insurgency forces (7 hours); covers Air Force Support forces, functions of airlift, logistics, research and development, education, and training (6 hours).

Text used is World Military Systems, Volume II, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
Prerequisite is Air Science 112.
A 1000-word paper is required in this course. Graded items include two quizzes, a mid-term, and a final. Although the course is mainly lecture, student discussion is encouraged.

AIR SCIENCE 231
Growth and Development of Aerospace Power I
Captain Moulton
Examines the development of aerospace power into a prime national security element (20 hours), the development of concepts, doctrine, and methods of employing aerospace forces in military operations (8 hours), and current thought on the development of future manned aircraft (3 hours). Oral and written communicative skills (4 hours).
The texts used are:
Communication Techniques, Volume I, Individual and Group Communications, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
Readings in Growth and Development of Aerospace Power, Part I and II, 1968, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
Prerequisite is Air Science 122 or completion of six-week Field Training for two-year program students.
Three 600-word papers, a mid-term and a final are given. Three presentations by each student are graded. The course has some lectures; classes include student presentations combined with discussions led by instructor and students.

AIR SCIENCE 341
Professional Officer I
Instructor to be designated
Examines the meaning of professionalism and the professional concept of military duty (12 hours), the framework of law and professional conduct of leadership functions (17 hours), and an investigation of the factors related to leadership effectiveness (12 hours).
Texts used are:
Professional Officer, Volume I, Air Force Leadership, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
The Military Justice System, Air Force ROTC, Air University.
Prerequisite is Air Science 232.
The course has four short papers, four graded presentations by the student, and a final exam. Part of the final grade is derived from an evaluation of general class participation.

Military Science

MILITARY SCIENCE 111
U.S. Defense Establishment I
Captain Remington
Comments: 1st course in Military Science series, prerequisite MS 112
Topics to be considered: History of ROTC Program, History of U.S. Army, U.S. Army Organization, Military/Civilian Obligations in Relation to the Defense Establishment, U.S. Army Reserve and National Guard.
Required Texts: Organization of Army and ROTC
Individual Weapons and Marksmanship
Prerequisites: None
Examinations and Quizzes: (2) Essays

MILITARY SCIENCE 125
Basic Military Science I
Captain Kleb
Comments: Leadership Lab - School of the soldier without arms.
Topics to be considered: A survey of American Military History from the origins of the American Army to the present with emphasis on the factors which led to organizational tactical, logistical, operational strategic, social, and similar patterns found in our present day Army (30 hours).
Required Texts: American Military History
Drill and Ceremonies
Prerequisites: MS 112
Papers: Ten page paper
Examinations and Quizzes: (3) Essays (1) Oral presentation and spot quizzes.

MILITARY SCIENCE 251
Leadership and Management I
Colonel Connolly
Comments: Leadership Lab - Utilization of Cadets as Noncommissioned Officers.
Topics to be considered: Techniques of military instruction and the application of these techniques in classroom discussions (20 hours).
Required Texts: Techniques of Military Instruction
Military Leadership
Basic Problems in Small Unit Leadership
Prerequisites: MS 126
Papers: (1) 12-15 pages
Examinations and quizzes: (3) Essays (1) Oral presentation

MILITARY SCIENCE 375
Leadership and Management II
Major Rabello
Comments: Leadership Lab - Supervision of Drill Program as Cadet Officers.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

These courses are PROVISIONAL
and subject to final approval by the University.

217 Introduction to Stat. & Comp. Analysis
TU, TH 10:10-11:25 227
218 Research Methods in Education
W 3:00-5:30 130
219 Curriculum Evaluation
TU, TH 10:10-11:25 130
221(1) Strength Training
TU 1:00-4:00 128
221(2) Strength Training
TU 7:00-9:30 125
221(3) Strength Training
W 1:00-4:00 128
221(4) Strength Training
W 7:00-9:30 224
221(5) Strength Training
TH 1:00-4:00 128
221(6) Strength Training
TH 7:00-9:30 128
222(1) The Education of the Self
TU 10:00-1:00 125
222(2) The Education of the Self
M 7:00-9:30 130
229 International Education
TH 7:00-9:30 224
231 Issues of Freedom & Restraint in Academic Policy
TU 7:00-9:30 130
235 Education Media Technology and Systems
TH 7:00-9:30 Thompson 102
237 Television in Urban and Suburban Education
W 7:00-9:30 25
240 Advanced Educational Media
TU 7:00-9:30 25
242 Contemporary Educational Philosophies
TH 7:00-9:30 130
246 The Social Psychology of Planned Change in Education
W 7:00-9:30 226/228
250 Conceptions of Liberal Education
TH 7:00-9:30 227
251(1) Foundations of Education
MWF 9:05 Aud.
251(2) Foundations of Education
MWF 11:15 Aud.
251(3) Foundations of Education
TU 9:00-12:00 226/228
251(4) Foundations of Education
MWF 10:10 Aud.
259 Principles of Methods in Teaching Elem. Soc. Studies
BY ARRANGEMENT
260 Elementary Education Curriculum (2 cr.)
BY ARRANGEMENT
261 Prin. & Methods of Teach. Read. & Lang. Arts - Elem. (2 cr.)
BY ARRANGEMENT
262 Principles & Methods in Teach. Elem. Science (2 cr.)
BY ARRANGEMENT
263 Principles & Methods in Teach. Elem. Math (2 cr.)
BY ARRANGEMENT
264 Principles of Elementary Education
TU/TH 1-3/Arrgt. -1 hr. Aud.
267 Urban Community Relations
TH 7:00-9:30 226/228
272(1) Teach. Read. to Special Populations, K-12
M 4:00-6:30 125
272(2) Teach. Read. to Special Populations, K-12
W 7:00-9:30 125
273 Research in Reading
TH 7:00-9:30 125
275 Diagnosis of Reading Disabilities
TU 4:00-6:30 125
277 Principles of School Guidance
TU, TH 1:00-2:15 226/228
284 Organization and Admin. of a Distributive Ed. Progr.
TH 4:00-6:30 227
285 Student Teaching (1 - 6 credits)
BY ARRANGEMENT
288 Directed Occupational Experiences (Externship Program)
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGMT.
291 Early Childhood Education Movement
M 7:00-9:30 230
292 Seminar in Curr. Develop. for Early Childhood Ed.
W 7:00-9:30 227
296 The University: An Organizational Analysis
W 7:00-9:30 Mont. Hse.
298 The Individual & the Organ. of Higher Education
TH 4:00-6:30 224
306 Principles & Methods in Teach. Art.
BY ARRANGEMENT
307 Principles & Methods in Teach. Foreign Languages
BY ARRANGEMENT
308 Principles & Methods of Teach. Physical Education
BY ARRANGEMENT
309 Principles & Methods in Teach. Sec. English
BY ARRANGEMENT
310 Teach. the Soc. Studies in The Sec. School
BY ARRANGEMENT
319 Education and Public Policy
TH 7:00-9:30 230
372 Principles and Practices in Vocational Education
377 Urban Education and the Suburban Disadvantaged
TU 4:00-6:30 226/228
385 Practicum in Education (1 - 8 cr.)
PERMISSION BY ARRANGEMENT
386 Special Problems
PERMISSION BY ARRANGEMENT
390 Seminar in Education (1 - 8 credits)
PERMISSION BY ARRANGEMENT
517 Introduction to Stat. & Comp. Analysis
M 4:00-6:30 224
518 Research Methods in Education
Same as 218
519 Curriculum Evaluation
Same as 219
521(1) Strength Training
Same as 221(1)
521(2) Strength Training
Same as 221(2)
521(3) Strength Training
Same as 221(3)
521(4) Strength Training
Same as 221(4)
521(5) Strength Training
Same as 221(5)
521(6) Strength Training
Same as 221(6)
522(1) The Education of the Self
Same as 222(1)
522(2) The Education of the Self
Same as 222(2)
529 International Education
Same as 229
531 Issues of Freedom & Restraint in Academic Policy
Same as 231
535 Education Media Technology and Systems
Same as 235
537 Television in Urban and Suburban Education
Same as 237
540 Advanced Educational Media
Same as 240
542 Contemporary Educational Philosophies
Same as 242
546 The Social Psychology of Planned Change in Education
Same as 246
550 Conceptions of Liberal Education
Same as 250
551(1) Foundations of Education
Same as 251(1)
551(2) Foundations of Education
Same as 251(2)
551(3) Foundations of Education
Same as 251(3)
551(4) Foundations of Education
Same as 251(4)
559 Principles of Methods in Teach. Elem. Soc. Studies
Same as 259
560 Elementary Education Curriculum (2 cr.)
Same as 260
561 Prin. & Methods of Teach. Read. & Lang. Arts. - Elem. (2 cr.)
Same as 261
562 Principles & Methods in Teach. Elem. Science (2 cr.)
Same as 262
563 Principles & Methods in Teach. Elem. Math (2 cr.)
Same as 263
564 Principles of Elementary Education
Same as 264
567 Urban Community Relations
Same as 267
572(1) Teach. Read. to Special Populations, K-12
Same as 272(1)
572(2) Teach. Read. to Special Populations, K-12
Same as 272(2)
573 Research in Reading
Same as 273
575 Diagnosis of Reading Disabilities
Same as 275
584 Organization and Admin. of a Distributive Ed. Progr.
Same as 284
585 Student Teaching
Same as 285
588 Directed Occupational Experiences (Externship Program)
Same as 288
591 Early Childhood Education Movement
Same as 291
592 Seminar in Curr. Develop. for Early Childhood Ed.
Same as 292
596 The University: An Organizational Analysis
Same as 296
598 The Individual & the Organ. of Higher Education
Same as 298
606 Prin. & Methods in Teach. Art
Same as 306
607 Prin. & Methods in Teach. Foreign Languages
Same as 307
608 Prin. & Methods of Teach. Physical Education
Same as 308
609 Prin. & Methods in Teach. Sec. English
Same as 309
610 Teach. the Soc. Studies in the Sec. School
Same as 310
619 Education and Public Policy
Same as 319
672 Principles and Practices in vocational Education
Same as 372
677 Urban Education and the Suburban Disadvantaged
Same as 377
420 Construction of Audio Visual Aids
TU 4:00-6:30 Thompson 102
421 Educational Broadcasting
TU 4:00-6:30 25
430 Science Education in the Elementary School
M 7:00-9:30 225
449 Educational Data Processing
M, W 4:00-5:15 226/228
577 Counseling and Guidance Strategies
TH 4:00-6:30 230
628 Human Appraisal and Evaluation
TH 4:00-6:30 225
631 Introduction to Factor Analysis
M 4:00-6:30 225
632 Introduction to Measurement and Evaluation
TU 7:00-9:30 225
633 Test Theory
TU 7:00-9:30 128
648 The Two Year Collegiate Insti. in Amer. Ed.
TU 7:00-9:30 227
649 Current Concepts, Trends, and Prac. in Voc. Tech. Ed.
TU 4:00-6:30 128
650 Simulation Model in Education
TU 4:00-6:30 Mont. Hse.
651 Seminar on Dewey's Philosophy
W 4:00-6:30 128
652 Graduate Seminar in Social Studies
TU 4:00-6:30 225
700 Special Problems in Education
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
701 Practicum for School Guidance
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
702 Independent Study (1 to 6 cr.)
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
705(1) Seminar in International Education I
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
705(2) Seminar in International Education II (Pre- Req. 705(1))
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
705(3) Seminar in International Education and Africa
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
706 Seminar in Guidance
TU, TH 10:10-11:25 230
710 Seminar in Mathematics Education
M 7:00-9:30 227
731 Problems in Cross Cultural Education
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
765 Organization for Curr. Develop. Basic Prin. in Curr. & Instruction
W 4:00-6:30 230
785 Techniques in Remedial Reading
M 7:00-9:30 125
811 Recent Developments in Sec. School Science
W 7:00-9:30 225
813 Developments in Sec. Schl. Soc. Studies
TU 7:00-9:30 230
830 Education and Nation Building
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
835(1) Special Seminar in Humanistic Education
W 7:00-9:30 128
835(2) Special Seminar in Humanistic Education
TU 4:00-6:30 128
841(1) Practicum in Humanistic Curriculum
TU 7:00-9:30 224
841(2) Practicum in Humanistic Curriculum
TH 4:00-6:30 226/228
880 Current Issues in Education
TU 7:00-9:30 226/228
881 Comparative Education
M 7:00-9:30 226/228
884 Educational Sociology
M 4:00-6:30 227
890 Ancient and Medieval Thought in Education
TH 4:00-6:30 125
910 School Counseling Theory
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
912 Occupations and Placement in School Guidance
W 7:00-9:30 230
928 Internship in School Guidance and Counseling
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
950 Fundamentals of Educational Administration
TH 7:00-9:30 225
951 Principles of Supervision
TU 4:00-6:30 230
952 Administering Elementary Schools
W 4:00-6:30 224
953 Administering Secondary Schools
M 4:00-6:30 230
956 Principles of School Law
F 4:00-6:30 230
958 School Personnel Administration
TU 4:00-6:30 224
961 Case Studies in Educational Administration
M 4:00-6:30 130
963 Internship in Educational Administration
PERMISSION BY PREV. ARRGT.
994 Research Design and Analysis
TU, TH 4:00-5:15 130

The MDC Course Guide will continue in tomorrow's paper.

CONCERT ASSOCIATION presents . . .

NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET

FRIDAY, MAY 2 8 p.m.

BOWKER AUDITORIUM

Tickets Free to UMass Undergrads

-$1.50 others

Student Union Ticket Office

A Fine Arts Council Event

Boss Tweeds play at CHEQUERS

Admission 50¢

Put tough, rugged Vibram soles on your boots. It grips any surface & is the ideal boot for any working conditions. You can find it at

PAUL'S SHOE REPAIR

We also will put on any other kind of heel or sole too.

"DRAMATIC WINNER" —S. F. Examiner

"LAMP AT MIDNIGHT"

by Barrie Stavis

The enthralling story of GALILEO GALILEI

A Distinguished Performing Company of 25 starring

MORRIS CARNOVSKY

Spectacularly staged, costumed and lighted

Directed by Sir Tyrone Guthrie

College of Our Ladv of the Elms

Veritas Auditorium

Thurs., May 1, 1969 8:30 p.m.

Reserved Seats $4.00

General Admission $2.50

FREE PEPSI

WITH EVERY PIZZA

Upon Request

Min. of 3 for delivery

Mama's Pizza

103 North Pleasant St.

253-9858

INVITATION

You are invited to attend,

The Fretted Instrument Guild of America Convention, May 2, 3, 4, at the Hotel Northampton. Appearing in a special 5-String Banjo Workshop at 2:30, will be Roger Sprung, folk recording artist and Bluegrass Banjoist. Other workshops starting at 1:30 on Classic Guitar and a "Fun with Chords" session at 4:00.

Saturday night starting at 8:00 a concert featuring Al Valenti, Guitarist from the Broadway show "Of Thee I Sing"; Gustavo Batista, Mandolin Virtuoso from Puerto Rico, who recently completed a successful Concert at Carnegie Hall in New York and James Hurley, local Guitarist and composer, will perform several contemporary selections with his Trio of Guitar, Bass and Drums.

Sunday afternoon, May 4, at 2:30, a program featuring the Walter Kaye Bauer Band of Banjos with several guest soloists including Wm. C. Kentner, Banjoist from Columbus, Ohio.

SOUL BAND TONIGHT AT THE HUTCH INN

"BEST MUSICAL" N.Y. DRAMA CRITICS AWARD

HAROLD PRINCE presents

Fiddler on the Roof

Based on Sholom Aleichem's stories

BEST MUSICAL 10 "TONY" AWARDS

book JOSEPH STEIN

music JERRY BOCK

lyrics SHELDON HARNICK

JEROME ROBBINS

BEST MUSICAL N.Y. DRAMA CRITIC'S AWARD

THURSDAY, MAY 1 Counseling Day 4 & 8:30 p.m

Bowker Auditorium Tickets $2, $2.25, $2.50

Tickets on sale at Student Union Ticket Office

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-8

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-7

1963 Buick Special Conv., Black, std. trans., very good running condition. Must sell $200. Call 256-6618. 5-1

1965 Mercury Comet, excellent running cond., new tires, very economical. Call Susan 549-1905. 4-30

1963 Austin-Healey 3000, radio, heater driving lights. Price negotiable. Fred 586-6092. 5-1

Great Buy — 1965 VW, metal sliding sunroof, radio, no rust, groovy green, extremely low mileage and excellent condition. Best offer over $900. Call 549-197 or 545-8532. 5-5

'62 F85 Olds Deluxe — well cared for, excellent condition, V8, 4-door, automatic, power steering and brakes, light blue. Must sell, make offer. Call after p.m. 584-6317. 5-2

1968 VW — $1650, factory warranty, willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-6061 evenings; 545-0409 days. 5-1

1965 Ford Wagon, City Squire, 10 pass., all power, one owner, carefully driven by little old school teacher, 31195. 49-2086 after school. 5-2

'61 Valiant — standard 6, R. and H., new clutch and brakes, spring inspection sticker, $100, 549-9043 after 5. 5-6

'66 Mustang, V-8 conv., must sell. Best offer. Good cond. 584-6614. 5-6

FOR SALE

Remnant Sale at Fashion Fabrics of Amherst, 105 N. Pleasant St., May 1, 2, and 3. 5-1

Honda 50, excellent condition. Barely used, $199. (1965). Call 253-7745. 5-6

12 string guitar and case, excellent condition. Call 586-2144 after 6. 5-5

Pentax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F1.4 lens. Lens shade, 2X lens extender, rotating polarizing filter, red green filter, cable release and accessory shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-5

Mobilehome, 5 rms., furnished, ready to live in, close to Univ. and Northampton. Ex. condition, $47-6000. 5-1

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 base, all modern features, used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350, will sacrifice for $160 — case included. Call Barbara 549-1317. 5-2

8 pc. Colonial liv. rm. suite — Grad student couple must relocate. All pieces excellent cond., 1 yr. old., $350.00 — phone after 3:30 p.m., 283-6715. 4-17-18-28-29-30

Yamaha 250, low mileage, perfect condition, see at Phi Sigma Kappa or call Russ at 545-0174. 5-1

1 Pr. of Kneisel Red Stars, 2 yrs. old, in good condition. 210 cm, worth $200 new. Ask for John at 546-7547. 4-30

FOR RENT

6 Room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1. 3 minute walk to Campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 545-9013 or 549-9631. 5-5

One bedroom apt., furnished, utilities included. Available June 1st. Call 256-6189. 5-5

37 Phillips St., 6 rm. apt., for 5-6 people, $250/month; furn., utilities included, June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-8307. 5-2

Summer sublet, 3 rooms furnished, quiet residential section, $85 month. Would you believe? 586-2616. Graduate students preferred. 4-30

Modern 2 bedroom apartment available June 1st, 1 mile from Campus. Partially furnished. Call between 5-7 p.m. 253-7864. 5-1

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — Just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistent. 5-5

Summer Students — 5 room apt. in Hadley, 4 student, available June - August. Call 586-0418. 4-30

Available May 1, 1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $120 including utilities, unfurnished. Sublet till Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call 253-3041. 5-1

Summer Students — 4 room apt. In Hadley, available June - August. Call 586-0418. 4-30

House to sublet June - Sept., 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, family room with fireplace, garage. Very modern, good location. Call Marilyn or Peggy 545-2738. 4-30

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, ¾ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5719 5-7 p.m. 5-2

To sublet for June, July and August — furnished 2½ room apartment, close to Campus. Very comfortable and very reasonable. Call 549-3963. 5-1

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus, starting June 1. Call 586-1168. 5-2

Rooms for summer and/or fall — Ideal, big kitchen, living room, parking, freedom and privacy. 2 miles from Campus. A truly groovy idyllic abode. Call Steve 549-3569. 4-30

Furnished apartment to sublet June 1 - August 31, 2 bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, dishwasher, disposal, all utilities included $140/month. Call 665-3044. 4-30

2 Bedrooms, Presidential Apts., air conditioning, dishwasher, disposal, utilities paid, washers and dryers, basement storage, walk to Campus, $165/mo. Sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, or extend lease through 1969-70 school year. Bruce Jorgensen 549-1188. 5-2

Unfurnished Apt., Colonial Village, 2 bedroom to sublet from June 1 to Aug. 31 or lease for 1 year. Call Jean 253-7829. 5-1

Apartment June 1, 2 bedroom furnished apartment in Colonial Village, $140/month, including utilities. Sublet to Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call after 5 253-9358. 5-2

Desperate — summer sub-let, Colonial Village, 2 bedroom furnished for 3 people, all utilities, $140/month. Call 253-2940 anytime. 5-5

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $120 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-5

Two furnished rooms for rent 3 miles from U.M., one $45 and one $45 a month for summer semester. Kitchen privileges if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-5

1 Bedroom, Colonial Village Apartment, available June 1, $120, includes all utilities. 256-6980. 5-1

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5706. 5-5

Sublet — 6 rm. apartment, fully furn. for up to 4 people, nice backyard, garage, 15 min. from Campus, avail. June 1 - Sept. 1. 586-2598. 5-2

Summer Sublet — 8 room house, 5 bedrooms, furnished, in Hadley. Rent arranged. Call 546-9188 or 546-9192 after 6. 5-6

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 549-6171. 5-2

HELP WANTED

COUNSELORS wanted for boys' overnight camp at Cape. Room and Board included. The only pre-requisite necessary is an interest in kids. If interested call 546-7853. Ask for Don or Phil. 4-30

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 4-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 549-6784 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

Mother's helper wanted for summer, beginning June 1, live-in preferable, full time or part-time, if need to take summer course. Call 253-9625. 5-2

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed. Call 586-1168. 5-2

POSITION WANTED

Teacher, elementary, with guidance certificate, looking for summer employment. Call 584-5924. 5-2

SERVICES

Free lance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil change, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-9118. 5-2

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Wanted: Research papers or term papers on "teaching reading" especially in area of secondary school, adult or speed reading. Call Springfield 8-6 p.m. 782-9109.

PERSONAL

Wanted — couple with summer apartment in Amherst needing fake address for female. Call 549-1161. 5-5

Crisci and the Rock have made peace. 4-30

To C., B., J., and especially F. of "The Group" — Cool It. 4-30

THANK YOU — To the Class of '70. Thank you for your support. Sincerely, Rene Markt. 5-1

WANTED

Traveling companions to Seattle, Washington. Late August or early September. Call H. Young at 549-6415 or 549-1271. 5-5

Riders wanted for leisurely trip to California, leaving around June 6. Share expenses and driving. Call Mark at 510 North Pleasant, phone 5-6174 or 256-6863. 5-5

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment, June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Nutting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-2

Roommate wanted for summer (male) — groovy people but no dropouts. Own room with furnishings, $60/month including utilities. Phone extra. Modern apt., 2 miles from Campus. 253-5842. 4-30

One female roommate wanted for Summer school to share my modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment. Lovely back yard. All utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6616. 5-5

Would you like to live off Campus next year? I have a beautiful, modern, completely furnished two-bedroom apartment, and am looking for two nice, quiet female roommates. All utilities included. Close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6616. 5-5

2 Roommates to share an apartment in Amherst Center June 1 - Aug. 30 — $27.50/month. Call 546-6647 between 10:30 and 11:00 pm. 5-5

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share Puffton Apt., $44 per month, all utilities with air cond. and pool. June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-6061 or 546-9807. 5-6

Female roommate wanted — to share my apt., summer and/or next year, partly furn, own room, $68 mo. incl. utilities. If interested in only half summer, call anyway. 546-8386. 5-2

MISCELLANEOUS

Free Kittens — call Judy Anderson, Room 322, Mary Lyon, 5-2516 or 5-2517. 4-30

ROTC Groups to Sponsor Car Wash on Thursday

By RICHARD LANE
Senior Reporter

"Make tracks to a car wash!" So says fliers being distributed on campus this week to announce plans for a car wash this Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Zayres parking lot. The cost per auto is $ .99.

The event is being co-sponsored by members of Scabbard & Blade and Colonel's Cadre to raise money for their organizations.

Scabbard & Blade is the national military society for advanced corps cadet officers in the ROTC program. Founded in 1904 at the University of Wisconsin, the organization has the primary goals of improving the educational level of military science courses on college campuses, bringing a greater feeling of friendship among advancedcorps ROTC cadets, and to foster the qualities of future good officers. The UMass chapter (L Company's 29th Regiment) has 85 junior and senior members presently and is commanded by C/Maj. John Desmond. They are responsible for participating in such extracurricular activities as the annual University and Military Ball and the firing of the cannon at Redmen football games in the stadium.

Colonel's Cadre is the auxiliary unit for Scabbard & Blade and consists of female undergraduates. They are the official hostesses of the Army ROTC program on campus. Since their beginnings in 1965 with seven original members, the girls have seen their organization grow to an average of twenty, with fourteen members currently.

Honors Program Director Announces May Banquet Plan

By KARON THOMPSON
Staff Reporter

The Honors Day Banquet has an amusing history. It used to be that whenever students were initiated into an honor society a banquet was held. But, since many students belonged to more than one such society, they were eating too many expensive meals! So, a cooperative society was founded that will present an Honors Day Banquet.

Dr. Everett H. Emerson, director of the Honors Program, outlined the three facets of the Honor Night: 1. a meal in the Student Union Ballroom 2. presentation of awards and recognition of achievement 3. an address given by an educator.

This year's address will be presented by Dean Robert Birney, dean of the school of social sciences at Hampshire College. The topic will deal with new directions in American higher education. Dean Birney is a psychologist concerned with the student protests about education.

Dr. Emerson said the banquet is "comparable in some ways to Student Leaders' Night". An attendance of 350-400 is expected.

The banquet will be held on Thursday, May 8, and tickets may be purchased for $3 until May 5.

Thesis Urges ROTC Students to Leave "New Militarism

THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE FOR AN INFORMED MILITARY distributed copies of the "New American Militarism" by General David M. Shoup, former commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, to students entering and leaving ROTC classes in Dickinson Hall this morning.

The thesis of this article is that America is an agressive and militaristic nation, guided by a defense department which, for the most part, is unchecked by civilian authority.

The Committee distributed copies of the article in order to convince the ROTC students to withdraw from the military establishment.

The English Pub

Charlie Bradshaw

AT THE PIANO

Thursday at 9

Ken Delesner presents
RCA VICTOR RECORDING ARTIST

Feliciano

SUN., MAY, 4 at 9:00 p.m.
MUSIC HALL
Tickets: $3.50, $4.00, $5.50 Mail order to Music Hall, 268 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Tix available at Music Hall; Harvard Co-op; MIT Ticket Office and Out-of-Town ticket agency (Cambridge). Phone: (617) 423-3300

THE WOODROSE BALLROOM

MAY 2&3

BOLD

the cloud

$2.00

LIGHTS BY THE ROAD
FROM THE BOSTON TEA PARTY
RTE. 5, DEERFIELD 665-8742
ADVANCE TICKETS: KRACKERJACKS, MELODY CORNER, SUPERFICIAL SMILE

WMAS 94.7 FM

Notices

LECTURE ON POLITICAL CHARACATURE AND CARTOONING
Draper Hill, author of several books on political characature and cartooning will give an illustrated lecture today at 5 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Topic is "English Cartooning from Gillray to Low". All invited.

FINNISH CLUB
Slides on Finland tonight at 8 pm. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Class will follow. Members please bring dues of 50¢. For information call Nancy, 6-8343.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be in WOPE tonight at 7:30.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
Bus to the hospital at 6:30 p.m. tonight from Patterson and the S.U. All welcome.

SCROLLS
Meeting of Old Scrolls tonight at 6:45 in Memorial Hall, bring pins. Sign up for Scroll you want to initiate in R50 before then.

WIPUO, AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
Last meeting of the year tonight for election of next year's officers, to plan the budget and future activities. Members please attend. All invited. 7 p.m. in Radio Rm.

SOCIOLOGY 101
Sections 17, 21 and 54 will meet together today at 9:05 a.m. in Thompson 104 instead of their regularly scheduled meeting places. At this time a former writer for the Boston underground newspaper "Avatar" will speak on "The Revolution". All welcome.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Coffee hour in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. at 6:30 p.m. tonight. Mr. Sang Seek Park to speak on Korea. All welcome.

SCUBA CLUB
Beginners written exam and pool test will be given tonight at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks. If you can't make it contact an instructor.

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3168

Now on the second floor of the STUDENT UNION

GNOMON COPY

makes XEROX copies: 4¢ for the first copy, and an unbelievable 2¢ for each additional copy of the same original!

Room 214

Free collating

Open every hour the Union is open

FRIDAY AFTERNOON
4 - 6:30
JERRY MOORE

FRIDAY NIGHT
9:30 - 12:30
CRAIG FULLER

SATURDAY NIGHT
9 - 12:30
JERRY MOORE

at
CHEQUERS

30 APR 30

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 128
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1969

Redmen, Anderson, Shutout UConn, 4-0

Hansen Belts Homer, UMass at Dartmouth Today

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Sports Day Editor

Husky killer Don Anderson won his fifth game of the season yesterday by limiting UConn to only five hits in pitching UMass to a 4-0 victory. The win was the ninth straight for the Redmen and Anderson's second over UConn.

The sophomore right hander pitched a superb game, ringing up 11 strikeouts and walking only one in a complete game effort. His sharp curve had the Huskies swinging futilely at the air and nobody could get past second all day.

If Anderson was stingy at giving up the hits, UConn pitchers were equally so. UMass could produce only five hits during the game and only a shaky first inning by Bruce Drummond kept the Huskies out of the game.

The first inning, for all intents and purposes was the ball game. Starter and loser Drummond just could not find the plate as the Redmen scored three runs on only one hit.

Ray Ellerbrook led off with a walk and went to second on Joe DiSarcina's single to center. Consecutive walks to Bob Hansen and Tony Chinappi pushed Ellerbrook in with the first run. Dick Pepin then check swung a dribbler to first baseman Bill Fiorentino who fired home forcing DiSarcina. Mitch Salnick was hit by a pitch and went to first forcing Hansen home.

Tom Semino drove in Chinappi with a sacrifice fly to center for the third run.

Drummond got through the second easily but in the bottom of the third he came to his day of reckoning with Hansen. He got an 0-2 advantage on the slugger but got careless on his third pitch which Bob jumped on and belted over the right field fence just to the left of the 335 marker. It was a line drive and there was never any doubt as to where it was going.

That was it for the day however, as the game settled down to a scoreless pitcher's duel. Drummond was lifted in the fourth after surrendering a Texas League single to Anderson. Jack Carlin came in and pitched one hit ball the rest of the way.

UConn got two hits in the third and fourth innings but each time Anderson bore down to get the side out.

Sloppy infield play by UConn in the third after Hansen's homer almost set up some more UMass runs. With one out, Dick Pepin singled up the alley and then Salnick hit a perfect double play ball which bounced through shortstop Jack Melen's legs leaving everybody safe. Semino then hit a hot one to Drummond, who fielded it cleanly, but threw the ball into center in a vain attempt for another deuce. Finally, the Huskies got what they wanted as Steve Stanford bounced to Drummond who started a successful 1-6-3 double play.

The Redmen ended the game by trapping Jeff Filmer, who had doubled, in a rundown between second and third. Chinappi fired down to DiSarcina at second who fired to Stanford at third, tagging out Filmer for the final out.

DUGOUT CHATTER - DiSarcina made a fine play on Howie Gura in the fifth . . . he dove to his right, fielding a ball hit deep into the hole, got up and fired a strike to Ellerbrook for the out . . . U-Mass bench jockeys had some good lines . . .The Redmen travel to Dartmouth this afternoon for a 3:30 p.m. meeting . . . UMass' record is now 11-5.

5-0 AND STILL COUNTING - Don Anderson fires a curve ball homeward. The slim righty pitched his best game of the year in dazzling the Huskies. Redmen travel to Dartmouth today for a 3:30 p.m. encounter. (MDC photo by Mangriatti).

Stickmen Bury Trinity, 25-2 for Sixth in Row

By WALT STACHURA
Senior Reporter

Tom Malone, Gary Vassar and Kevin O'Connor combined to score 15 goals and 31 points in leading UMass to an overwhelming 25-2 lacrosse rout of Trinity yesterday to stretch their win streak to six this year and to 11 over a two year span.

Malone had a sensational day with 15 points on four goals and 11 assists with the points and assists setting UMass lacrosse records. Vassar had six goals and two assists while O'Connor had five tallies and two assists.

The Redmen put this game away early as they rolled to a 10-1 lead after the first quarter. Steve Anderson and Steve Connolly scored on Malone assists to give the Redmen a two goal lead in the first five minutes.

After Trinity scored on a rebound, the Redmen went to the attack and pushed in eight more first period goals. O'Connor and Malone were the big scorers as they tallied three apiece. The other two goals went to Vassar.

Vassar scored twice in the early minutes of the second quarter to give the Redmen a 12-1 lead. These two goals completed a streak of four in a row for Gary.

Steve Anderson scored the thirteenth UMass goal halfway through the period on a Malone assist. After Anderson's goals, the action grew rougher and resulted in the expulsion of UMass defender Tom Tufts for unnecessary roughness. The UMass power showed during Tuft's three minute penalty as they did not allow a shot in their own goalie and actually controlled play in the Trinity end for over a minute.

O'Connor and Malone tallied near the end of the half to give UMass a 15-1 advantage.

The Redmen picked up in the second half where they had left off by scoring two goals in the first two minutes. Connolly picked up his second goal and Gerry Forgit has first of the game.

Vassar scored his fifth and sixth goals in the third quarter along with tallies by Mike Henry, O'Connor and Ed Sacco to build the margin to 22-1.

Bob Chance, Bruce Gannon and Steve Diamond scored in the final quarter as the Redmen eased up and played men in different positions. Trinity scored their second goal midway through the quarter.

Passing around the net was an important feature of the UMass attack as many of the goals came on shots into nearly empty nets from directly in front.

The UMass freshman scored an exciting 8-7 decision over the Trinity frosh in a game played next to the varsity game.

Frosh Lose to UConn, 7-3

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Staff Reporter

Three UMass freshman hurlers, backed by poor fielding, gave up six hits and seven runs in the first six innings of yesterday's baseball game here against the UConn frosh as the Little Redmen were beaten 7-3.

Starter Bob Powers allowed three runs and four hits in his three innings of work. George Phelan relieved him in the fourth and was responsible for the fourth, fifth and sixth runs. The final UConn run was scored off Tom King.

Brian Martin came on for the last three frames and held the U-Conn freshmen hitless.

A combination of four UConn pitchers limited the home team to only four hits. Bob LaMontaigne, who was on the mound in the fourth and fifth innings, picked up the victory.

The visitors pushed across their fourth and decisive run off Phelan in the fourth as Art Sawyer walked, went to second on an infield out and scored as UMass third baseman Mike Pagliara had trouble with a hard hit ground ball.

Phelan made his exit from the contest after giving up a walk and a base hit to the first two Huskie Pups he faced in the fifth frame.

The last UConn frosh run came later in the inning when, with men on first and third, a successful double steal was negotiated.

Two Little Redmen runs were scored in the home half of the fourth, and a single marker was added in the last of the fifth.

The home team filled the sacks with two outs in the bottom of the fifth. Pagliara and Iarussi, sandwiched around a Martin single, were hit by Papleau pitches. When the UConn shortstop bobbled a Sarcino bounder, Pagliara came across with the third and final Little Redmen run.

Powers gave up two runs in the first inning and one in the third.

Tonight's Intramurals

SOCCER

2	4:40	1 vs. 2
3	4:40	3 vs. 4
4	4:40	1 vs. 2
5	4:40	3 vs. 4
6	4:40	5 vs. 6
2	5:20	1 vs. 2
3	5:20	3 vs. 4
4	5:20	1 vs. 2
5	5:20	3 vs. 4
6	5:20	AEP vs. LCA

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	1 vs. 2
6	5:30	3 vs. 4
7	5:30	5 vs. 6
8	5:30	Dydozs vs. Tricky
9	5:30	Goons vs. Racoons
10	5:30	Drokesters vs. Kelinkes
11	5:30	BX vs. Bounders
1	6:30	BKP vs. ATG
2	6:30	SPE vs. DC
3	6:30	QTV vs. PMD
4	6:30	ZN vs. PSK
1	7:30	KS vs. ASP
2	7:30	TKE vs. PLP
3	7:30	TC vs. AEP
4	7:30	APO vs. TSP
1	8:30	1 vs. 2
2	8:30	3 vs. 4
3	8:30	1 vs. 2
4	8:30	3 vs. 4
1	9:30	Dinks vs. Seals
2	9:30	Ossicles vs. Beadledoms
3	9:30	Chem Dept. vs. Old Men
4	9:30	Education vs. Old Timers
1	10:30	PSK vs. QTV
2	10:30	TSP vs. APO
3	10:30	Aces vs. Phyllics

Netmen Snag UConn, 8-1

By STEVE ROSS

With an awesome display of power at the first five positions, the UMass tennis team won its fourth dual meet of the season by an 8-1 count over Connecticut, yesterday, in the season's final home match.

The first five men were so strong that in the eight contested sets, Connecticut could only win nine games. Allen Goldberg, at one, Captain Carl Clem, at four, and Jon Bloom, at five, all won in 13 games, one over the limit.

Scott Sheppard, an outstanding player in the fifth slot, still was not feeling up to par, and Coach Steve Kosakowski elected to sit out the classy senior. Soph Doug Carlson was inserted and won in the only three setter of the afternoon, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Sheppard's absence forced Kosakowski to insert Johnny Roach and Gus Penon into the second doubles slot, a combination that had never played together before. They were unable to get off the ground, and lost the only point of the day, 6-0, 6-3.

Reserves Nubby Gervickas and Tom Babson teamed at three for an impressive doubles win, 6-2, 6-1. Mike Katz, a winner at two, was teamed with Clem at first doubles. They rolled to an easy 6-2, 6-3 win.

Tom Johnson, at three, looking extremely impressive, scored another easy win, 6-1, 6-1. Johnson is the defending Conference champion, at three and looks to be in top form to defend his title.

The UMass leader was happy with the performance of his team. "Everybody played well for us, and we are looking real solid," Kosakowski said.

The Redmen have the Conference to worry about. They are the team to beat, the defending champions. More on the chances of a successful defense on Friday.

Trackmen Top SC, 94-55

UMass tracksters placed first in 12 of 17 running events and added 32 points in the field events to route Springfield College in a makeup meet, 94-55 Monday.

The runners crushed the Springfield thinclads 64-13 as they grabbed seven one, two finishes in the nine running events. Leading the Redmen were double winners Steve Chase and Charlie Lang. Chase was first in the 220 in 22.4 seconds followed by UMass' Dave Marble. Chase also won the 100 as he battled Walter Mayo in a strong headwind and just beat him at the finish. Both runners were clocked in 10.3.

Distance ace Charlie Lang, fresh from his second place finish in the 3000 meter steeplechase at the Penn Relays, wrapped up victories in both the mile and two mile. Lang's two mile time of 9:24.3 set a meet record. In the mile he ran 4:24 in beating teammate Paul Hoss.

The half mile proved a close race as Ron Wayne outkicked Bill Donaldson to the finish. Wayne was clocked in 1:58.2, Donaldson in 1:58.8. The 440 saw Diego Gonzalez win in 51.2 followed by soph Clarence Gaynor.

The Redmen also proved too strong for Springfield in the hurdling events as Marc Lefever topped Jerry Spellman in the 120 high hurdles and Spellman came back to win the 440 intermediate hurdles.

The field events team was lead by co-captain Bill Wilen as he took the hammer throw in 163' 10". Ed Arcaro of UMass was second in this event. The discus was won by Dave Schlatka as he hurled the plate 150' 4". Triple jumper Dave Canterbury came up with a big first place in 44' 5-1/2" with Paul Nyman placing third.

High jumpers Cal Carpenter and John Arlensen placed second and third for the Redmen in their specialty. Bill Mahoney hurled the javelin 196' 9", just missing the UMass school record by one inch but only placing third in the event. Dick Dyer lead the Redmen broad jumpers with a third place finish.

While the mile relay's victory capped the varsity's victory the frosh were having trouble with the Springfield frosh, dropping a 96-53 decision.

Double winners for the frosh were Al Mangan in the mile and 880 and Ron Harris in the 100 and 220. Pete Bradley and Jim Graves combined in five events for 14 points.

YAHOO LIVES

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 129 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1969

The University's Board of Trustees, meeting yesterday in Worcester, approved the re-use of the name "Yahoo" for the presently unnamed campus humor magazine.

The Board's vote, coming upon the recommendation of the Student Activities committee, climaxed a year of effort by students to re-establish the magazine and resume publication under the familiar name.

Chairman Louis M. Lyons, of the Student Affairs committee, discussed the increasing number and strengths of requests from students generally to assume a more substantial measure of control over the affairs of their own lives. He felt that this was a good and healthy sign - one which the Board of Trustees was coming to take increasing cognizance of. He suggested that there was a valid complaint from students when they were not even allowed to name their own magazines.

Mr. Lyons reported himself as happy with the progress the humor magazine had made in returning to publication. He felt that the satisfactory completion of the magazine's one year trial period warranted a return to the name "Yahoo". The Board voted the approval with only minor dissent.

The final report of the ad hoc committee on the ombudsman was presented to the Trustees for approval in principle. In the absence of any final document delineating exactly the rights of access of an ombudsman, however, the Board remanded the matter to President John Lederle for a further more detailed study and report. The President will now have the ad hoc committee present a particular and detailed program for the ombudsman for final Trustee action at a later date.

Spurred by a variety of recent campus developments, the Executive committee of the Board of Trustees will announce appointments to a joint student-faculty-administration committee to study the operational and administrative machinery and bureaucracy of the University. Board chairman Joseph P. Healey made the disclosure of the joint committee; and said that the Executive committee hoped to have the joint study committee formed very soon.

In addition to the organizational structure of the University administration, the special committee would also investigate questions of student regulations, and possible inconsistencies between present regulations and the present judiciary system. The special committee will make recommendations directly to the Board of Trustees.

The University's Atlantic Studies Program, in cooperation with the University of Freiburg (Germany), was approved for an additional three years.

Student Senate Defeats Amendment For Popular Election of Speaker

By KATHY O'DONNELL Senate Reporter

Last night in a session that was expected to last until the early hours of the morning, the Student Senate re-convened the Constitutional Convention. The regularly scheduled Senate meeting was recessed until the business pending before the Convention was finished. The main controversy of the night was the final amendment to the Constitution calling for a Speaker of the Senate who would be popularly elected by the student body. ment was defeated in a role call vote 32 - 40.

Speaking for the amendment was Senator Hartwell. The Senator's main contention was that under the present system the President of the Senate was forced to fill two roles. that of legislator leader and executive. Under such a system he felt that "to find a person to fill both functions is a rare task". The new system he said, "would allow the Executive function to be separate from the Legislative function", and that such a system "will increase the efficiency of the Student Government as well as its visability".

The ensuing debate on the issue centered around the concept of increased student awareness and student activity in student government. Many of the senators felt that the majority of the students on this campus were unaware of the issues of student government and that any such election would only constitute a "popularity" contest rather than the election of a qualified Speaker. Speaking on this point, Senator Sheehan said, "it sounds like our house is impossible to clean from within. This amendment would allow someone who is popular to win. In the Senate we have a lot of people who work hard who are unknown to the student body at large".

In addition to the controversy over "student awareness" and "student involvement", other senators maintained that the new system would constitute a "power conflict" between the Senate President and newly elected Speaker. Senator Johnson claimed, " a power conflict would exist with a Speaker directly elected and a President elected by the Senate".

Nevertheless, Senator Marcus went back to the original point of Senator Hartwell's debate, "A popularily elected President would. . . allow the students to say that they had an active part in choosing their leader". He answered the objections of a "popularity contest" by saying that, "The problem is to choose an effective leader. I would think if there were adequate campaign regulations. . . and if students received more information on policies they would be responsible and aware". Senator Silverman also agreed on the point of looking into a workable election set up.

Other objections to the amendment raised included that if did not provide for an attendance rule for the Speaker. Moreover, his veto power would enable him to bring back legislation to the Senate although he would not be "responsible to the Senate".

Finally, Senator Madden declared that "we have not reached the level of sophistication on this campus to put this through. If this didn't work the student body would be betrayed." the amendment was defeated in a role call vote 32 - 40.

After the defeat of this amendment the only business that remained before the Convention was the acceptance or rejection of the new Constitution in its final form.

The new Constitution was accepted in a role call vote of 55-3-4. The three Senators voting against accepting the Constitution were Senators Marcus, '69, Twiss '70, and Nims '72.

Scientists to Debate ABM Issue Here May 5

The well-known theoretical physicist, Dr. Stephen Weinberg of MIT will be on campus Monday evening, May 5 to engage in a debate on the ABM (anti-ballistic missile system). His opponent, Dr. D. G. Brenna, was formerly the president of the Hudson Institute where he now conducts policy studies in the area of national security affairs.

The Hudson Institute is the famous "think tank" now headed by Herman Kahn also well known for his book THINKING ABOUT THE UNTHINKABLE. The Institute is primarily a consulting organization, most of its contracts deriving from the U.S. Departments of Defense and State.

Dr. Weinberg, an outspoken critic of United States' defense policy, was a leading figure in the recent March Fourth research stoppage to protest the misuse of scientific knowledge held at MIT. He is presently working with Senator Edward Kennedy on a position position paper dealing with the ABM question. Weinberg will take the anti-ABM position with Brennan adopting the affirmative stance.

The debate will take place at 8:00 p.m. Monday, May 5 in the Engineering Building - East Auditorium, University of Massachusetts. It should provide a unique opportunity to hear the ABM issue discussed by acknowledged experts.

CAS Open Meeting

There will be an open meeting of the College of Arts and Sciences tonight at 7:30 in Thompson Tower 104 to discuss the foreign language requirement. All students and faculty in the department are invited to attend.

In a related matter, the foreign language requirement was not printed in the University's newly published catalogue. Spokesmen in the College have explained that the requirement "was deleted because its status is up in the air."

Views on Student Protest II . . .

Students Hold Popular Rule is A Myth

(EDITOR'S NOTE - The following is the conclusion of a two part story on the motivation behind student protest, and is reprinted from the New York Times)

By TOME WICKER

Students everywhere volubly hold to the belief that an "Establishment" - political, social, economic, military - manipulates society for its own ends, so that the popular rule of the people is a myth. The war goes on, racism continues, poverty remains, despite the familiar American preachments of peace, democracy, prosperity and the rule of reason.

In the smaller but more personal world of the campus, students - and many faculty members - see the same frustrating process at work. Harvard students ask why they have no right to disrupt the university's academic life, if the university's property expansion gives it the right to disrupt the community life of the city around it. This question also figures deeply in unrest at Columbia.

Again, if the war in Vietnam is "immoral" and unreasonable and if R.O.T.C. provides a large share of the officers to fight that war, how can a university dedicated to reason and humanity sustain R.O.T.C.? Who really abandoned "reason and civility," students asked - the students who seized a building to protest the Harvard Corporation's retention of R.O.T.C., or the administrators who called in police to evict the protesters with what was widely regarded as excessive violence? These are the kinds of questions the "honest generation" is asking, and the kinds of questions that feed its "war on hypocrisy."

What even some of the student generation's greatest admirers fear, however, is that its moral compulsion to attack the hypocrisy and inertia that all too often do frustrate and pervert the processes of reason and order will turn into rejection of reason and order themselves; and that the inevitable reaction will produce ever greater irrationality and disorder, leading finally to severe repression - the ultimate irrationality.

At the same time, it appears to some observers that even some of the most thoughful leaders of the older generation seem to have abondoned, under the admittedly shocking pressures of irreverent students, the essential capacity for objective self-criticism. Merely to assert the values of reason and order is not necessarily to put those values effectively into practice; and to invoke them against demands for change surely requires that the status quo be able either to justify itself or demonstrate its capacity to grow and adapt.

What is by no means clear, therefore, is whether in this remarkable clash of zealous and idealistic youth with its less impassioned and more worldly elders, the latent dangers will emerge and dominate; or whether there can ultimately flow from it a beneficial transformation of university life, with a resulting impact on thesociety in which it exists.

After all, as Dr. Bruner pointed out last week, "enormous concern for man is being cultivated" in the conflict itself, because the issues of how men live, and ought to live, in a peaceful, prosperous democracy, are being brought to center stage. And the fundamental question today's students are forcing is whether those issues are going to be confronted in America, or let to drift.

Massachusetts Daily Collegian Descriptive Course Guide, Fall 1969

SCHOOL OF HOME ECONOMICS

Management & Family Economics

MANAGEMENT AND FAMILY ECONOMICS 250
Family Management and Decision-Making
Verda M. Dale

Topics: The concepts of management; factors influencing family management; Decision-making and management; trends in home management theory

Required Texts: Jesus, Carolina de. CHILD OF THE DARK; Rainwater, Lee. WORKINGMAN'S WIFE; Lindbergh, Anne Morrow. GIFT FROM THE SEA.

Supplementary materials: Library reading.

Papers: 3 case studies, 6-10 pages.
Examinations: Essay, short answer

Textiles, Clothing & Environmental Arts

TEXTILES, CLOTHING AND ENVIRONMENTAL ARTS 128
Fundamentals of Clothing Construction
Prof. Sarah Hawes; Prof. Margaret Randall

Topics: Basic principles of clothing construction as a form of artistic expression.

Comments: Open primarily to TCEA and Home Ec. Ed. majors due to limitations on sections, facilities and space.

TEXTILES, CLOTHING AND ENVIRONMENTAL ARTS 253
Advanced Clothing Construction
Prof. Sarah Hawes; Prof. Margaret Randall

Topics: Study of flat pattern methods and problems of fitting with opportunities for students to create original designs.

Prerequisites: TCEA 128 or permission of instructor.

Comments: Open primarily to TCEA and Home Ec. Ed. majors due to limitations on sections, facilities and space.

PROGRAMS and DIVISIONS

Computer Science

COMPUTER SCIENCE 121
Basic Fortran
Dr. John A.N. Lee and Dr. Caxton C. Foster

Description: An introduction to the programming of digital computers.

Major topics discussed: basic programming systems, compiler languages, and the logic of programming and compilation.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. Math. 113 or 123, 2 class hours, Credit 1, 1/2 semester, labs required.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 122
Fortran IV

Description: A continuation of Computer Science 121, extending basic fortran to include logical unit input/output, logical arithmetic declaratives, sub programming techniques, systems and library routines and supervisory control cards.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. C.S. 121 or equivalent, 3 class hours. Credit 3, lab.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 131
Introduction to Computers and Programming
Dr. John A. N. Lee and Dr. Caxton C. Foster

Description: A survey course covering the history of computing, an elementary description of computer hardware and peripheral equipment, and an introduction to computer languages.

Major topics discussed: historical aspects of computer hardware and peripheral equipment, an introductory material regarding computer languages.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. 3 class hours, Credit 3, lab required.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 132
Algorithmic Methods
Dr. Sue N. Stidham

A study of the algebraic techniques of the solution of both numerical and non-numerical problems by the computer, including simple problems in algebra, topology, operational research, statistics, Monte Carlo methods, and computational oddities.

Major topics discussed: Algebraic techniques of the solution of numerical and non-numerical problems by the computer, such as those mentioned above.

Required texts: Not decided yet.

Supplementary materials: UMass users manual; Fortran Reference Manual

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. C.S. 121, 131 or equivalent. 3 class hours. Credit 3.

Number and lenght of papers, reports: Weekly problem sets.

Number and lenght of papers, reports: short answers of exams: Probably a mid-term and a final emphasizing programming problems.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 211/511
Syntactic Analysis
Dr. John A. N. Lee

An introduction to the concepts and techniques of syntactical analysis with respect to context free grammars, the recognitive processes involved in the analysis and generative algorithms of computer translators. Special consideration is given to precedence grammars and semantical implication of grammars.

Major topics discussed: syntactical analysis with respect to context free grammars, recognitive processes involved in the analysis and generative algorithms of computer translators; precedence grammars and semantical implication of grammars is emphasized.

Prerequisites, limitations, ect. permission of the instructor.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 235/535
Comparative Machine Design
Mr. Jack Peterson

A systematic study of various design concepts of computers with particular reference to the historical influence of certain computer designers.

Major topics discussed: design concepts of computers; an historical approach to the influence of certain computer designers.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. C.S. 223/523, Credit 3

COMPUTER SCIENCE 250/550
Computational Modeling
Dr. Sue N. Stidham

Fundamental principles of modeling on computers, selected systems from physical and social science, engineering and business.

Required Texts: D. Chorafas, Systems & Simulation

Supplementary materials: UMass users' manual; Fortran Reference Manual

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. Math. 124 and C.S. 222 or permission of the instructor. Credit 3.

Number and length of papers, reports: Term Project

Number and Kind (essay, multiple choice, short answers of exams: Probably two essay examinations.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 251/551
Finite Difference Calculus
Dr. Frederick Stockton

Description: An introduction to difference tables and finite differences leading to the procedures of interpolation and extrapolation theory tablet techniques and to the solution of differential equations.

Major topics discussed: difference tables and finite differences, interpolation and extrapolation theory tablet techniques and the solution of differential equations.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. C.S. 121, 131 or equivalent, and calculus. Credit 3.

COMPUTER SCIENCE 270/570
Boolean Algebra
Dr. Conrad Wogrin

Description: Boolean rings, finite and infinite boolean algebras, simplification theory and dynamic systems. an introduction to boolean algebra, its application to switches, relays and combinatorial circuits.

Major topics discussed: introductory material regarding boolean algebra and switching theory. Also boolean rings, finite and infinite boolean algebras.

Prerequisites, limitations, etc. Philosophy 125, Credit 3.

Public Health

PUBLIC HEALTH 123
Dynamics of Personal and Community Health (formerly Principles of Health Education)
To be named.

Comment: This course is designed to increase a development of understanding and attitudes relative to personal, family, and community health needs and problems. It is geared toward motivational factors in individual health practices.

Topics to be considered: Mental, physical and social well being, sexuality, chronic and communicable diseases, drug use and abuse, family health and planning, environmental health and health services. Approximately 3-4 hours to each topic.

Required text: John S. Sinacore, HEALTH: A QUALITY OF LIFE

Supplemental materials: Assigned readings from journals and other books based on the topic.

Prerequisites: None

Papers: One major paper, 710 pages

Examinations: 3 hourly quizzes, one final examination.

PUBLIC HEALTH 263/563
Industrial Hygiene and Sanitation
Prof. K. Wisnieski

Comments and topics to be considered: Sanitary practices in food processing environments. Emphasis on surveying effectiness of cleansing chemicals, and disinfection.

Required Text and Materials: 1. Text to be announced. 2. A Laboratory fee for chemical and bacteriological supplies; xeroxing of current articles. 3. Government publications and research reports will be available as supplemental material.

Prerequisites and limitations: Students need a background of introductory bacteriology and general chemistry. Lectures, films, demonstrations will be the predominant teaching methods.

Papers and Examinations: Three tests, a final examination, and an industrial sanitary survey that is pertinent to the student's special interest will be used to determine grade.

PUBLIC HEALTH 301/601
Principles of Community Health Education
Prof. Darity

Comments: The course emphasizes procedures necessary for community organization for community action, by the residents of the community. There is also emphasis on the role of the professional worker in the educational efforts for community health promotion.

Topics considered: Major topics covered include the study and analysis of social pathologies such as poverty, unemployment, racial discrimination, low literate rates, poor housing, which leads to poor physical, mental and emotional health status.

The course emphasizes the total individual and the total community and the development of self image, self pride through control of factors and forces which affect health. Approximately 3-4 hours on each topic.

Required texts: National Commission on Community Health Services, HEALTH IS A COMMUNITY AFFAIR. Marjorie A.C. Young, H E A L T H EDUCATION MONOGRAPHS No. 23: Review of Research and Studies Related to Health Education Practice (1961-66): What People Know, Believe, and do about health. No.24: Psychosocial and Cultural Factors Related Health Education Practice. No. 25: Communications: Methods and Materials No. 26: Patient Education No. 27: Program Planning and Evaluation No. 28: School Health Education

Supplemental Readings: Assignments from professional health journals, and two paperbacks. GRADUATE STUDENTS: Two book reports and extensive readings from journals

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

Papers: One paper; excluding book reports, 10-15 pages; Graduate students 2 book reports and one major paper, documented, and organized along thesis lines. 25-30 pages.

Examinations: 2 quizzes, one final, combination objective and essay.

PUBLIC HEALTH 304/604
Mental Health
Prof. Read

Comments: Course covers consideration of the principles, concepts, methods, and dynamics of the organization of a school health program at the elementary and secondary level. Stress is placed in the planning and teaching in crucial areas such as sex education, mental and emotional health and drug abuse.

Topics to be considered: Status and trends; The art of planning; Organization of subject matter; The Nature of Creative teaching; Creative use of instructional media; Evaluation

Required text: Read, THE CONCEPT OF HEALTH, Boston: Allyn and Bacon, Inc. 1969.

Supplementary text: Two paperback books

Prerequisites: Junior, senior standing

Papers: One

Examination: One essay, two objective

PUBLIC HEALTH 311/611
Human Sexuality and Sex Education
Professor Read

Comments: The course is designed to promote insight into human sexuality in relation to modern life. Primary emphasis on human sexuality as it appears in the infant, the child, the adolescent, the young married, as well as an examination and clarification of some of the crucial discussions of modern day society.

Topics to be considered: The physical, psychological, ethical, ideological, social and normative guidelines of sexuality and sexual behavior will be covered.

Required text: five paperback books. Supplemental text: one paperback book of the student's choice.

Prerequisites: Consent of instructor only

Papers: Students to keep a personal diary of letters which will be discussed with instructor.

Examination: Optional

PUBLIC HEALTH 332
Introduction to Air Pollution, 3 credits
Howard A. Peters

Comment: Lectures, demonstration labs, and seminars with visiting speakers.

Topics to be considered with approximate time for each: Air Pollutants and Their Sources: 6 hours, Effects of Air Pollutants: 6 hours, Meteorology: 3 hours, Sampling and Analysis: 6 hours, Air Quality Criteria and Standards: 3 hours, Air Pollution Control Technology: 4 hours, Air Pollution Control Regulations and Programs: 6 hours.

Required texts and Materials: Miscellaneous U. S. Public Health Service Publications.

Supplementary Materials: Class handouts, references, audio-visuals.

Prerequisites and limitations: For Public Health, Science and Engineering majors, Limit 15.

Papers: One term paper, 25 - 30 pages.

Examinations: One hour quiz and a comprehensive final examination. Short answer and essay.

PUBLIC HEALTH 361
Environmental Health I, 3 credits
Howard A. Peters

Comment: The first half of a two-semester sequence. Each semester may be taken independently.

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Water Quality Control: 9 hours, Waste Water: 6 hours, Solid Wastes: 5 hours, Swimming Pools & Recreation Waters: 4 hours, Food and Milk Sanitation: 12 hours, Vector Control: 6 hours.

Required texts and materials: Ehlers and Steel, MUNICIPAL AND RURAL SANITATION, 6th ed., 1965, McGraw - Hill. Miscellaneous U. S. Public Health Service Publications.

Supplementary materials: Class handouts, selected audio-visuals, references.

Prerequisites and limitations: For Public Health, Science and Engineering majors. Limit 25.

Papers: Two papers required, 10 - 15 pages each.

Examinations: Two one hour quizzes and a two hour final exam. Combination of short-answer and short essay.

PUBLIC HEALTH 375/675
Public Health Statistics
Prof. H. Jean Thiebaux

Comments and topics to be considered: The object of the course in the development of facility with statistical tests and estimation procedures appropriate to public health research. The logical basis of statistical inference is covered in some detail with development in the context of health problems, to facilitate identification of variables and prediction of their statistical behavior, as they are met in live situations. Statistical interpretation of quantitative data is covered with emphasis on making the correct choice of test. Procedures are contrasted on their basic assumptions, the types of conclusions provided by their application, and their relative powers.

Required text: Avram Goldstein, BIOSTATISTICS, MacMillan Co., New York, (1964).

Prerequisites and limitations: Elementary statistics and calculus, or permission of the instructor. 3 class and 2 laboratory hours.

Examinations: Mid-term and final, and one or two quizzes.

PUBLIC HEALTH 379/679
Environmental Health Lab, I
Professor Litsky

Comments and topics to be considered: This course will cover standard laboratory methods used in modern day applied bacteriology. Emphasis will be placed on water, shellfish, air, soil and dairy products, etc. Equal time will be given to each.

Required text: Contact instructor

Supplemental materials: Recent journal articles, research materials, etc.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

Papers: None

Examinations: Three hour examinations and final examination.

PUBLIC HEALTH 383/683
Introduction to Public Health Practice
Prof. Mousfata

Comments: This course emphasizes the philosophy, nature and scope of modern public health practice. This includes background and organization, tools, concepts, challenges and opportunities.

Topics to be considered: Includes historical development, demographic data, vital statistics, epidemiologic investigation medical care, mental health, environmental health, venereal diseases, chronic and communicable diseases, maternal and child health, population, welfare, professional service and careers. Approximately equal time will be spent on each topic.

Required text: Georke, Lenor S. and Siebbins, Ernest L., MUSTARD'S INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HEALTH, 1968.

Supplemental materials: Journal readings and special public health pamphlets.

Prerequisites: Permission of Instructor

Papers: One major paper-undergraduate 10-15 pages - graduate students, high quality, thesis format and documented, 25-30 pages.

Examinations and quizzes: approximately 3, and a final examination.

School of Physical Education

PHYSICAL EDUCATION 240
Dance History
Janet T. Craft

A study of the history of dance as a performing art in western culture. Beginning with primitive pre-literate forms and continuing through twentieth century dance. Major emphasis will be placed on the following periods in dance history: Primitive - 2 weeks; Greek - 1 week; Renaissance - the development of ballet - 2 weeks; Ballet-Classical and Romantic Periods - 5 weeks. Beginnings of Modern Dance - America and Germany - 1 week; Second Generation Modern Dance - 2 weeks; Present day Dance Scene - 2 weeks.

The structure of the class and the kind and number of examinations may be determined by the class. The following structure is suggested.

Texts: Sorell, Walter, THE DANCE THROUGH THE AGES, Sachs, Curt, WORLD HISTORY OF DANCE

Supplementary readings: Kirstein, Lincoln, A SHORT HISTORY OF DANCE

Papers: Three during semester -3-5 pages; One research paper - 10-15 pages.

Examinations: Final Examination -Essay type.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION 253
Elementary School Physical Education
Instructors Cobb. Riggs

Topics: A. Assessing childrens need for physical activity. B. Skills, Knowledge and understanding of the physical education concept, C. Significant factors in learning motor skills. D. Competitive activities for grades 4,5,6. E. The concept of fitness. F. Movement education, guided discovery and problem solving approach. G. Program planning. H. The role significance of the classroom teacher in the physical education program. I. Facilities, equipment, supplies.

Texts: Schurr, Evelyn L. MOVEMENT EXPERIENCES FOR CHILDREN.

Supplementary Materials: none

Pre-requisites: none.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION 264/564
Philosophy of Sport
Harold J. VanderZwaag

Comment: This course is for upper division undergraduates and graduate students who are interested in studying the theory of sport. Philosophy of sport is part of this broader field of study, theory of sport. This course focuses on a philosophical analysis of key concepts which influence the objectives and content of various programs in the broad realm of sport.

Topics to be considered: The nature of philosophy 2 hrs.; The nature of sport 6 hrs.; Concept of play 3 hrs.; Concept of athletics 4 hrs.; Concept of games 3 hrs.; Concept of physical education 5 hrs.; Concept of human movement 3 hrs.; Concept of physical fitness 3 hrs.; Concept of dance 3 hrs.; Concept of competition 3 hrs.; Concept of gymnastics 3 hrs.; Concept of general motor ability 3 hrs.;

Required Texts; Weiss, Paul Sport: A PHILOSOPHIC INQUIRY Zeigler, Earle F. and VanderZwaag, Harold J. Physical Education: PROGRESSIVISM OR ESSENTIALISM?

Supplementary Materials: Beisser, Arnold THE MADNESS IN SPORTS. Fogelin, Robert J. "Sport: The Diversity of the Concept," Unpublished paper Keating, James W. "Sportsmanship As a Moral Category," ETHICS, LXXV, 1:25-35, Oct., 1964. Riesman, David THE LONELY CROWD Slusher, Howard S. MAN, SPORT, AND EXISTENCE. "The Golden Age of Sport," TIME ESSAY, June 2, 1967 "Toward a Theory of Sport," QUEST, Monograph X

Prerequisites: PE 203 or equivalent

Papers: A single paper is required for the course. In this paper the student will analyze one of the selected concepts in depth.

Examinations: Mid-term and final

PHYSICAL EDUCATION 381
Administration of Intramural Programs
Ted A. Schmitt, Peter J. Graham

Topics to be condisered with approximate time for each: Philosophy of Intramurals (2 hours), Program Organization (2 hours), Program Administration (2 hours), Supervisors and Duties, Scheduling (2 hours), Point Systems and Awards (2 hours), Public Relations and Promotion (2 hours).

Required texts and materials: University of Massachusetts Intramural Handbook.

Supplementary materials: None

Prerequisites and limitations: Course is offered for the first eight (8) weeks of each semester. Time is by arrangement.

Papers: One paper

Examinations, quizzes, etc: Final exam - short answer and essay.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION 143
Officiating
Ted A. Schmitt, Peter J. Graham

Topics to be considered, with approximate time for each: Football (24 hrs.), Tug-O-War (2 hrs.), Basketball (28 hrs.)

Required texts and materials: Official 1969 NCAA Football Guide; Official 1969 NCAA Football Rules Interpretations; Official 1969 NCAA Basketball Guide; The National Federation Edition Basketball Case Book 1969-70; The University of Massachusetts Intramural Handbook

Lab: Officiate within the Intramural Program: 12 Football, 2 Tug-O-War and 12 Basketball Games

Prerequisites and limitations: Class size will be limited. Physical Education Majors will receive enrollment preference.

Papers: None

Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Numerous tests on Rules and Mechanics of Officiating.

Late Additions

FOOD SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY 371
Analysis of Food Products
Mr. Hunting

Comments: Open to seniors (or juniors by permission) for major credit. Open to students from other departments.

Topics to be considered: The chemical and physical analysis of foods and food adjuncts. Proximate analysis (moisture, ash, crude fiber, protein, fat, carbohydrate) and other methods useful in determining the composition and quality of food products.

Required texts and materials: FOOD COMPOSITION AND ANALYSIS by Triebold and Aurand and METHOD OF ANALYSIS.

Prerequisites: Analytical Chemistry.

Papers: Term paper on analysis of a new food product. (15-25 pages).

Examinations, quizzes, etc.: Generally two hour exams and the final. (Mixed short answer, problems, essay and multiple choice.) Quizzes in lab sessions.

RUSSIAN 255
Mr. Tikos

Masterpieces of Russian Literature in Translation: survey of major works in Russian literature, with lectures in English.

Texts: Mirsky: HISTORY OF RUSSIAN LITERATURE. Pushkin: EUGENE ONEGIN. Penguin Book of Russian Verse. Lermontov: HERO OF OUR TIME. Dostoevsky: THREE SHORT NOVELS; CRIME AND PUNISHMENT. Tolstoy: SIX SHORT MASTERPIECES. Turgenev: FATHERS AND SONS. Gogol: DIARY OF A MADMAN. Chekhov: 20TH CENTURY RUSS. DRAMA, 19TH CENTURY RUSSIAN DRAMA. Pasternak: DOCTOR ZHIVAGO.

Prerequisite: Junior standing.

Paper: Paper required.

Exams: Midterm & final.

GOVERNMENT 220
Municipal Government and Politics
Philip B. Coulter, Assistant Professor

Topics to be considered: Formal structure(s) of city governments (10%); political infrastructure e.g., political parties, factions, interest groups, cultures, leadership (30%); structures and processes of political power and decision making (30%); community public policies, e.g., education, fluoridation, urban renewal, poverty and welfare, race (30%). All these topics will be considered within the theoretical framework of political systems analysis. The municipal political system will be viewed in terms of its environment, political structure and processes, and policy outputs.

Required texts: Edward C. Banfield and James Q. Wilson, CITY POLITICS. Robert A. Dahl, WHO GOVERNS? Robert Crain, THE POLITICS OF DESEGREGATION. James Q. Wilson, CITY POLITICS AND PULIC POLICY. James S. Coleman, COMMUNITY CONFLICT.

Supplementary materials: Numerous articles from political science journals.

Prerequisites and Limitations: No prerequisites for non-majors. Class size limited to 45.

Papers: One paper of approximately 15-20 pages on the politics of budgetary decision making in municipalities based in part on data collected through interviews with municipal officials.

Examinations: One MID-TERM and one FINAL. Mainly essay with some short-answer questions.

EDUCATION 251
Foundations of Education

Student will elect to study the Foundations of education through the prespective of one of the following disciplines: educational sociology, social psychology and American educational history. Statements by the three instructors follow:

Miss Cappelluzzo's section, MWF 10:10. "This course will view selected problems and issues of American education. The experience will be divided into Issues of Education, Methods of Field Work, Placement in the Community (for 8 weeks) and a Weekly Seminar and Evaluation. "The main focus of this experience will be to combine theory and practice in meaningful ways utilizing basic concepts, knowledge, and procedure from sociology of education as well as sociology and anthropology. There will be readings from the various disciplines and position papers will serve as a major portion of the evaluation of the students. A journal-diary will be required."

Mr. Eiseman's section, Tuesday 9-12. "The emphasis in this course is on creating conditions that will help the student to develop intellectual habits, examine attitudes and values, and view human interaction from philosophical, psychological, and social perspectives. Learning will result not only from reading, listening and discussion, but hopefully from observations, role-playing, and other in-class exercises as well. The student is expected to collaborate with others, and provisions are made for individuals to participate and contribute in different ways for them to be evaluated by different criteria."

Mr. Kornegay's sections, MWF 9:05 and MWF 11:15. "This course will view the theories and practices of American education from the perspective of the history of educational thought and institutional development. Of particular interest is the 'uses' which American society has made of its educational institutions. This is a lecture course with assigned and optional readings as well as examinations."

EDUATION 277
Principles of School Guidance
Ronald H. Fredrickson

Comment: Introduction to concepts and practices regarding counseling services in educational institutions. Field experiences, role playing, simulation units, and television will be used.

Topics: A. Interdisciplinary basis for guidance services. B. Changing behavior through counseling. C. Studying the individual. D. Human Appraisal. E. Career development. F. Research and evaluation.

Texts: A number of paperbound books.

Limitations: Plans are to limit enrollment to 30 students keenly interested in counseling and guidance services in schools.

Exams & papers: One term paper or project, 1 quiz, 1 essay.

EDUCATION 235
Educational Media, Technology and Systems
Raymond Wyman

Topics to be considered: 1. Contributions that a wise and wide use of media, technology and systems can make to educaiton. 2. Operation of common media-ware such as overheads, motion picture projectors, etc. 3. Local production of media such as 2x2 slides, OH transparencies, 8mm films, audio and video tapes, programs, etc. 4. Locating and obtaining appropriate media resources for specific curricular needs. 5. Using media in a variety of educational settings.

Required text: Wyman, R., Mediaware: Selection, Operation, Maintenance.

Term paper: A Multi-Media Lesson. A description of a topic or unit with its objectives and optimum facilities, equipment, materials, procedures and evaluation.

Final Objective Examination.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON
4 - 6:30
JERRY MOORE
FRIDAY NIGHT
9:30 - 12:30
CRAIG FULLER
SATURDAY NIGHT
9 - 12:30
JERRY MOORE
at
CHEQUERS

The foremost dance of the Moslems during the Spanish occupation in the Philippines. This primitive dance called "Singkil" recreates the gracefulness of the Philippine folk dances in the local setting, as will be seen in "Philippine Evening" in Cambridge, on May 3rd.

Filipino Group Sponsors Folk Show in Cambridge

On Saturday, May 3rd, the active Filipino group in Boston, Cambridge, and Amherst, Massachusetts will present an evening of Philippine folk dances, music, custom and fashion. The benefit show starts at 8:00 p.m. and it will be held at St. Paul's School Hall, 34 Mt. Auburn St., Cambridge, Massachusetts (near Harvard Square).

The cultural presentation has the aim of collecting and preserving the nation's authentic folk dances, folk music, regional costumes and other crafts, tales and customs. The essence has been recreated into an exciting theatre presentation, and still as yet, the material has the integrity of the original dances performed in the local setting. It also celebrates the seasons and work of life, customs and traditions of the Filipino ancestors. The show will depict the primitive dances some of which had been influenced by both the eastern and western cultures.

Proceeds of the benefit show will be channeled through Father Efren Musngi (a Filipino missionary) for donation to a mission school project in Isabela, Philippines. Miss Sally Andal (546-9988) in Amherst, will supply further information about the show.

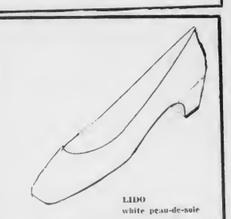
WFCR Broadcasts Course on Sex

WFCR will broadcast a radio course in Human sexuality beginning this Sunday evening at 11:30 p.m. Consisting of a series of seven lectures and given by Dr. Haskell Coplin, Professor of Psychology at Amherst College, and Dr. Philip Sarrel, a gynocologist and obstretrician at Westover Air Force Base, the course deals with a wide variety of topics, including a detailed look at both the psychological and psysiological aspects of the human sex response, a study of pregnancy and childbirth, contraception, and abortion.

The course was originally offered to interested students in the five College Area. Current information - and misinformation - about male and female sexuality, emotional attitudes towards sex, practical problems children present about sex, and forms of deviant sexual behavior, become topics for candid discussion in the weekly lectures. Persons wishing to participate in this non-credit course may obtain a reading list and syllabus by sending a post card to: Human Sexuality Course, WFCR Radio, Hampshire House, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts 01002.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).



Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

NEW IDEAS? NEW FACES?
SPECTRUM WANTS BOTH!

SPECTRUM is now accepting material for its first issue next year (to be available in October). We want poetry, art (color and black and white) fiction, non-fiction (articles and reviews), and photography (color and black and white).
We're also looking for people interested in working on staff next year in all areas. If you're interested, call us at 545-2839 or visit us in the Franklin Room, second floor Student Union, across from the rideboard.

Mail material to: SPECTRUM
R.S.O. 102
Student Union

Weddings? Showers?
LOOKING FOR SHOES TO MATCH YOUR NEW SUMMER DRESSES?
Don't.
Have them dyed to match at Bolles.
Just takes three days.
No charge for dying of shoes purchased here.
BOLLES
FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES

LIDO
white peau-de-soie
also matching handbags

SUN GOGGLES
Looking for the astronaut look in sun goggles? Come to
DON CALLS
We carry the finest line with Polaroid filters buried in the glass. They aren't cheap, but they are the best. Imagine 88% glare absorbsion combined with a minimum distortion. You won't find anything better anywhere else.

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Thunderbird convertible, full power, good condition, radio, heater, whitewalls, stereo tape recorder. Call 9-6K, 545-0174 or 549-0849. Ask for Dave Reardon.

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1956 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-5

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $775. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-5

1963 Buick Special Conv., Black, std. trans., very good running condition. Must sell $700. Call 256-6619. 5-1

1963 Austin-Healey 3000, radio, heater driving lights. Price negotiable. Fred 586-0092. 5-1

Great Buy — 1965 VW, metal sliding sunroof, radio, no rust, creamy green, extremely low mileage and excellent condition. Best offer over $900. Call 549-1197 or 545-0535. 5-2

'64 F85 Olds Deluxe — well cared for, excellent condition, V8, 4-door, automatic, power steering and brakes, light blue. Must sell, make offer. Call after 6 p.m. 584-6317. 5-2

1968 VW — $1650, factory warrant57. Willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 253-5681 evenings; 545-0409 days. 5-3

1965 Ford Wagon, City Squire, 16 Pass., all power, one owner, carefully driven by little old school teacher, $1195. 549-3508 after school. 5-2

'68 Mustang, V-8 conv., must sell. Best offer. Good cond. 584-9614. 5-2

1963 Comet convertible rebuilt engine and trans., excel. condition, 6 cyl., auto., radio, etc. 549-0436. 5-5

Seeking security? 1964 Chevy Belair, 4 door, automatic transmission, new battery, snow tires, best offer. 549-9644. 5-7

1962 VW, new sunroof and tires, excel. mech. cond., clean inside and out, $300. Call 665-4681. 5-7

1964 VW, cheap. My future employer will pay diff. between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June. 549-1369. 5-3

FOR SALE

Remnant Sale at Fashion Fabrics of Amherst, 103 N. Pleasant St., May 1, 2, and 3. 5-1

12 string guitar and case, excellent condition. Call 586-2144 after 6. 5-5

Fenzax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F:1.4 lens. Lens shade, 2X lens extender, retating polarizing filter, red green filter, cable release and accessory shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-5

Mobilehome, 5 rms., furnished, ready to live in, close to Univ. and Northampton. Ex. condition. 247-9726. 5-1

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 bass, all modern features, used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350, will sacrifice for $160 — case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-2

Yamaha 250, low mileage, perfect condition, see at Phi Sigma Kappa or call Russ at 545-0174. 5-1

Bass Guitar in excellent condition, to sell inexpensively. Asking about $75 or best offer. Call Gary 6-9686. 5-2

Refrigerator for sale, very large freezer. Call 546-7763.

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 bass, all modern features. Used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350; will sacrifice for $160, case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-2

FOR RENT

6 Room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1, 3 minute walk to Campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8611 or 546-8031. 5-5

One bedroom apt., furnished, utilities included. Available June 1st. Call 256-6149. 5-8

37 Phillips St., 6 rm. apt., for 3-5 people, $250/month; furn., utilities included, June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-8367. 5-2

Modern 2 bedroom apartment available June 1st, 1 mile from Campus. Partially furnished. Call between 5-7 p.m. 253-3864. 5-1

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistent. 5-3

Available May 1, 1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $120 including utilities, unfurnished. Sublet till Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call 253-3041. 5-1

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, ½ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5719 5-7 p.m. 5-7

To sublet for June, July and August — furnished 2½ room apartment, close to Campus. Very comfortable and very reasonable. Call 549-3063. 5-1

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus, starting June 1. Call 586-1168. 5-2

2 Bedrooms, Presidential Apts., air conditioning, dishwasher, disposal, utilities paid, washers and dryers, basement storage, walk to Campus, $165/mo. Sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, or extend lease through 1969-70 school year. Bruce Jorgensen 549-1185. 5-2

Unfurnished Apt., Colonial Village, 2 bedroom to sublet from June 1 to Aug. 31 or lease for 1 year. Call Joan 253-7679. 5-1

Apartment June 1, 2 bedroom furnished apartment in Colonial Village, $140/month, including utilities. Sublet to Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call after 5 253-9352. 5-2

Desperate — summer sub-let, Colonial Village, 2 bedroom, furnished for 3 people, all utilities, $140/month. Call 253-7940 anytime. 5-5

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $130 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-8

Two furnished rooms for rent 3 miles from U.M., one $45 and one $45 a month for summer semester. Kitchen privileges if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-5

1 Bedroom, Colonial Village Apartment, available June 1, $170, includes all utilities. 256-6980. 5-1

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5706. 5-5

Sublet — 6 rm. apartment, fully furn. for up to 4 people, nice bkyd., nice neighb., garage, 15 min. from Campus, avail. June 1 - Sept. 1. 586-2208. 5-2

Summer Sublet — 8 room house, 5 bedrooms, furnished, in Hadley. Rent arranged. Call 546-9188 or 546-9192 after 6. 5-6

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 549-6474. 5-8

2 Bdrm. Apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, $140 mo., all util. Colonial Village, call after 5 p.m. 253-9433 5-1

Available June 1st — 2½ room apt., rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7160 after 6 p.m. 5-7

HELP WANTED

1 qualified water safety instructor for summer camp in Maryland. Call (301 546-7545. 5-6

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 4-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 549-6794 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

Mother's helper wanted for summer, beginning June 1, live-in preferable, full time or part-time, if need to take summer course. Call 253-9623. 5-2

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed. Call 586-1168. 5-2

POSITION WANTED

Teacher, elementary, with guidance certificate, looking for summer employment. Call 584-5924. 5-2

SERVICES

Free lance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil change, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-9118. 5-2

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Wanted: Research papers or term papers on "teaching reading" especially in area of secondary school, adult or speed reading. Call Springfield 5-6 p.m 787-0100. 5-2

PERSONAL

Wanted — couple with summer apartment in Amherst needing fake address for female. Call 549-1161. 5-2

THANK YOU — To the Class of '70. Thank you for your support. Sincerely, Rene Markit. 5-1

John Q. Adams in 619 — hurry up and find me. — Raquel 5-5

NOTICE

Socialist Freak's Party to form on May Day, front of SU 3:30. 5-1

WANTED

Traveling companions to Seattle, Washington, Late August or early September. Call H. Young at 549-6415 or 549-1271. 5-5

Riders wanted for leisurely trip to California, leaving around June 6. Share expenses and driving. Call Mark at 510 North Pleasant, phone 5-0174 or 256-6963. 5-5

Experinred typist to type one short paper (6 pg.) by May 5th or 6th. Call 586-2639 after 6 p.m. 5-2

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment, June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Nutting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-2

One female roommate wanted for Summer school to share my modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment. Lovely back yard. All utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

Would you like to live off Campus next year? I have a beautiful, modern, completely furnished two-bedroom apartment, and am looking for two nice, quiet female roommates. All utilities included. Close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

2 Roommates to share an apartment in Amherst Center June 1 - Aug. 30 — $27.50/month. Call 546-6617 between 10:30 and 11:00 pm. 5-5

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share Puffton Apt., $11 per month, all utilities with air cond. and pool. June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-9901 or 546-9807. 5-6

Female roommate wanted — to share my apt., summer and/or next year, partly furn. own room, $68 mo. incl. utilities. If interested in only half summer, call anyway. 546-8386. 5-2

Roommates wanted to share 3 bedroom house for summer. Own bedroom. Furnished. 15 minute drive from Campus, $30 per month Call 323-7866 evenings. 5-5

WANTED TO RENT

2 or 4 bedroom furnished house or apartment. Available preferably Sept. 1. Call 546-5007, ask for Gary. 5-7

WANTED TO BUY

Man's Bicycle wanted. I will pay up to $30. Phone 5-2750 Mon. - Fri. Ask for Stephen Skillitzi or else leave a 'phone-back' number. 5-7

Ron Cowan, Author of "Summertree", To View UM Theatre Production

Ron Cowen, 23 year-old author of SUMMERTREE will visit U. Mass. for the production of his play May 7 - 10, at the University Theatre. His first full-length work, SUMMERTREE played to enthusiastic audiences last season in New York, where it was presented in the subterranean Forum by the Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center.

SUMMERTREE is fresher than last year's hippy-rock style protest plays, because Ron Cowen has an uncanny ability to "tell it like it is" (war, fear, dropping out, loving, generation gap, the whole bit) without attempting to be cynical, startling or arrogant.

The cast is small - only six persons define the world of SUMMERTREE and of the boy who is going off to fight and die in Vietnam, but it is enough. The boy, his parents and the girl he had loved, the kid next door (who is also himself at a remembered time) and an army buddy, all moving like leaf shadows under the great Summertree, sketch a landscape that is painfully familiar.

France's Independent Republicans Announce Support for Pompodou

PARIS (AP) - Valery Giscard d'Estaing and his Independent Republican party announced their support Wednesday for Georges Pompidou as France's next president. They asked assurances that he be less authoritarian than Charles de Gaulle and seek closer ties with the Western alliance.

The support of the Independent Republicans, which has a wide middle-class backing, was a sizable boost for Pompidou, once a premier under de Gaulle.

Giscard d'Estaing, a former finance minister, said the decision was made because of "the present situation which calls for calm and forbids rivalries."

Normally, he said, he himself would have been a candidate for the presidency in 1972, but was now concerned with finding a man capable of assuring the immediate future of the nation.

With Independent Republican support, Pompidou reduced the only significant threat to his hopes -a broad alliance between the center and the moderate left.

The Independent Republicans unanimously backed De Gaulle's heir-apparent but asked for assurances that a Pompidou presidency would be less authoritarian and adventuresome than De Gaulle's. Specifically, they asked for a liberalized information policy, better relations with the legislature, respect for constitutional limitations on presidential power, construction of a united Europe and closer ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Pompidou made his bid for Independent Republican support Tuesday, telling a party caucus his objective was to assure continuity of Gallist policy, but promising "an opening." This was taken to mean he was willing to reconsider some of De Gaulle's policies.

BRAZIL
SUMMER STUDY IN RIO
-EIGHT WEEKS JULY-AUGUST 1969
-UNIVERSITY COURSES: Brazilian History, Govt, Literature, Anthrop, Econ. Devel, Portuguese, etc
-FACULTY: Harvard, Columbia, M.I.T., N.Y.U.
-EXCURSIONS: Bahia, Brasília, São Paulo, etc.
-WORKSHOPS: Cinema, Architecture, Music, Art
ENROLLMENT FEE includes: Air Passage, lodgings, Tuition. Excursions, Workshops - $1220
WRITE INTERAMERICAN SUMMER STUDY ASSOC.
310 Madison Ave - New York 10017
APPLICATION CLOSING DATE: MAY 15, 1969

Phi Sigma Delta's 3rd Annual
MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY DRIVE
presents
SPRING CARNIVAL
GAMES OF SKILL AND CHANCE
Saturday May 3rd By the Pond

DEL PADRE
NORTHAMPTON
Grand Opening
Now at 141 & 145 MAIN STREET
A brand new MUSIC CENTER featuring the best stereo components and stereo recordings!

Every LP RECORD in our stock!!!
All Our Popular & Classical Albums

series	our reg.	NOW
498	$3.65	$1.99
598	$4.45	$2.99
698	$5.25	$3.99

FAMOUS SCOTT HH20 FM STEREO
THIS FM RECEIVER IS 40 WATTS!

SCOTT HH8-20 - 40 WATT FM STEREO RECEIVER
A fantastic low price! Easy to connect, play and enjoy. Price includes 2 years parts and service guarantee. $149.95

GOOD SYSTEM $244
- SCOTT HH20 FM receiver
- Record Changer BSR 400 by McDonald with dust cover
- Two Kempp 1A speakers

BETTER SYSTEM $265
- SCOTT HH20 FM receiver
- Record Changer BSR 400 by McDonald with dust cover
- Two Kempp 2A speakers

BEST SYSTEM $288
- SCOTT HH 20 FM receiver
- Record Changer BSR 400 by McDonald with dust cover
- Two Kempp 3A speakers

FROM OUR SIDE

Toward Safety on the Hill

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from the Central Voice)

A serious safety problem has accompanied the return of warm weather to this campus. Last Saturday night a female student was threatened in a dark roadway near Southwest. She was released unharmed and reported the matter to the police. Within ten minutes, three cruisers and one man on foot covered the area. No one was found.

This could well sound like a rerun of last fall's events. During October and November the situation on the hill was grave enogh to warrant student security patrols constantly walking the pathways.

The obvious question being asked by concerned students is, "What has been done to help correct the situation?"

One immediate temporary solution arranged by the Student Senate was the installation of mercury vapor floodlamps at key points around the campus. But, needless to say, there were hardly enough to go around. Also a limited amount of landscaping was done on the North Commons walkway.

But it was realized when these measures were taken insufficient. According to William Lambert, the resident architect, permanent landscaping and fencing for the North Commons walk would cost in the range of $50,000 to $60,000. Since this and other similar amounts of money would have to first be found and requests for bids on the contracts would have to be sent out, setting up a renovation operation could be called a major project.

Administrative action came late last Fall when it was announced that a consulting firm had been hired to study the campus police department and security program. The investigators carried highly regarded credentials and much of the lack of security dialogue stopped.

Recently they submitted their final report. To date, no word has filtered down about its content.

However, now it's too late to send out bids on contracts (if money were available) and the Spring has precipitated a return to this threatening situation. What's being done?

The campus police department has assigned a plain clothes man to patrol the walkways at night. This is one positive step, but the next greatly depends on student help. This help is the immediate reporting of all incidents. All information is kept confidential and any facts improve their chances to apprehend the assailants.

As for the rest of the security precautions, a student investigation started this week will try to find out if action is being taken.

If only token gestures are being made, this information will be given to the campus news media for disemination. Then it will be up to all concerned students to demand every security precaution be taken for everyone's safety. Sooner or later someone will get seriously hurt.

Campus Comment

Construction: Necessary for Progress

To the editors:

The steady drone of construction noise has been joined in wafting through the campus's air by an inordinate amount of loose and irresponsible chatter concerning the recent loss of trees and grass about the pond. Certainly these losses are regrettable; certainly also they are replaceable. Had those who have screamed taken the time to listen, they would have discovered that the spreading of the construction site ancillary to the new library toward the pond will mean a saving over the course of the construction of up to several million dollars, money which if spent on temporary benefits, such as a smaller construction site and a larger area of grass near the pond, would have caused a permanent loss of more than five stories on the library itself and thereby a consequent reduction in its capacity for books and in space for reading, research, and services.

While the siting of the library and especially of the area needed for its construction are perhaps debatable, they are nevertheless decisions that are already made, as long ago as six years, and are now irreversible. If those who are so prominent and loud-spoken in the present upshot of misplaced criticism and expenditure of energy are at all serious, let them work in a long-term, positive, and organized manner, in order to insure that all aspects of campus development are considered and brought to light before decisions become ossified--only the future is controllable.

In a world with too many senseless wars and too much unnecessary poverty, in an area threatened by pollution and unequal opportunities, and on a campus where meaningful issues such as academic reform and increased support for cultural and fine arts languish for lack of active interest, it is reassuring that Umies can rouse themselves from their endemic and characteristic apathy when the sanctity of an acre of grass and a few dying trees are violated.

Jonathan Edwards,
Student Member of the Master Planning Committee

The "Reality" of the Military

To the editor:

On Tuesday, April 15, MDC printed two rather disturbing items in your editorial page. Filling a prominent position on the whole top half of the page was a rather hysterical "policy editorial" against ROTC, and down in the corner, a little letter from a little man, Mr. Richie Rashed.

Taking Mr. Rashed first, it is nice to know that there are still clear thinking people around to balance people such as "that racist, imperialist, pig, Thurmond." Agreed, Strom Thurmond is not the nicest person in the world, not by a long shot, but you are only stooping to his level by writing and talking in that manner. Don't be rash, Rashed. If you went and listened to him and his kind, you might get an insight into his mind and logic (or lack of either) and therefore be better prepared to fight for what you believe in by something besides a sensational, name-calling, rights restricting blitzkrieg.

Moving back to the top half of the page, we behold "ROTC Credit--A New Dilemma" (very hip and in, that title.) This mass of grand generalizations seems to be rather nebulous on the whole and very shakey in many individual sections. For brevity, I shall deal with only a few of these spots, but a careful reading of the editorial will reveal that it is quite grand sounding, so full of nice academic words and phrases, yet it fails to conclusively prove or support one single allegation or statement. Some of the "facts" in it are false as a matter of fact - which is not good editorial policy, as I recollect.

For our first example, the editorial cites the Stanford decision, where they started with a definition of the University and found ROTC to conflict with it. Any definition which would exclude a vocational course like ROTC would have to exclude all courses such as forestry, food science, home economics, nursing, engineering, and so on. If this definition and exclusion process was completely carried through, Stanford, or any other school, would not be a university, but the remotest and most useless of pie in the sky ivory towers. If that is what you want, be a hermit, but don't go to a university. The name itself implies a universal experience which includes ALL facets of life.

Skipping to the question of classroom spontaneity, which the editorial assures us is nonexistant, I wish to assure you that it is very much alive. The discussing and arguing of important issues is much more prevelant in my Air Force class than any other I have taken at this institution. We have vigorous and multi-faceted talks on topics such as Viet Nam, the ABM, world politics, domestic problems, prospects for peace, and many more. The instructor not only permits, but encourages these debates, something that your editorial deems impossible.

Further on, it is stated that the university has no control over who teaches ROTC. Again, false. Before an Air Force or Army officer is assigned to ROTC all his records and a biography are sent to the administration and a faculty senate committee for review. A personal interview is arranged if desired, and the university gives the final yes or no, NOT the armed forces.

For a final example, the editorial says that the "simplistic" patriotism of WW I gave birth to ROTC. First, ROTC has its roots in the Morril Act of 1862, not the WW I era, and second, I fail to see what is wrong with patriotic feelings for our United States. The American democratic system may not be perfect, but it is far better than anything else on this tired planet of ours. If you disagree, go be a Czech student protester, a village chief in Viet Nam, or try to organize a strike in a Russian factory. See how long you last. Better yet, become a citizen of the USSR and then call a prominent member of your government a "pig." Good luck.

Lastly, I would like you to be practical for just one minute. Even if you are capable of denying the need for a fairly large and strong armed force, you can't deny the fact that such a force is here, and here to stay for the forseeable future. Given this fact, would you rather have the officers for this force trained and educated at liberal public and private institutions such as our university, or would you prefer them to come from the hardbitten career men who have worked their way up through the ranks and from the hard core military institutions such as West Point.

Robert J. Pustell

"Has He Heard That You're Against Inflation?"

The Library: A Place to Study?

Its two o'clock in the morning, and the rhymatic sound of the Hendrex Machine is roaring from the tape deck in the room next door. And guess what? I have three hourlies tomorrow and haven't opened the book for of them.

Don't get me wrong. I love Hendrex. He's the greatest. But at two o'clock in the morning with three biggies the next day? I'm afraid that even I get turned off to the turned on sound of Hendrex under such circumstances.

So what do I do? I just jump out of my comfortable bed where I have been diligently studing for the past four hours, throw on my fatigue shirt and sandles and head for the good old library. For peace and quiet in a last ditch attempt to try to stay in school.

But alas! After walking the seemingly 20 miles from Orchard Hill to the library, what do I discover? The old libe is all locked up. What a dilemma! Three exams tomorrow and no place to go. I've had it. Like I'm out'a here!

Doesn't it seem rather funny that on a campus of this size populated with so many people that there would be something open passed two o'clock in the morning?

The library would be the logical place. For many people, the library is the only place in town where they can seriously study. Why close it down at 2 o'clock? Is it for lack of business, or is it just to be sure that students get their "40 winkes." This is a problem which has plagued many people, and one that should be solved as soon as possible. Admittedly there are many last minute people, but, should we be punished for being such?

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Donald A. Epstein '71
MANAGING EDITOR	Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER	Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR	Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR	Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

EDITOR	Richard Baucher
SPORTS	Peter F. Pascarelli
MAKEUP	Claudia Homberg, Brenda Gouveia, Pat Lampart
DARKROOM	Gunnar Myrebeck

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

NOTICE

ANY UNIVERSITY STUDENT,

IN GOOD ACADEMIC STANDING,

IS ELIGIBLE TO REGISTER FOR

COURSES AT AMHERST,

MT. HOLYOKE OR SMITH

COLLEGES

FOR THE FALL SEMESTER

PROCEDURE:

1) Check the course catalogues at the Provost's or Registrar's office.

2) Study the interchange regulations on the back of the Five-College calendar received with this application. Retain the calendar and regulations for reference.

3) If you have questions about special Five-College courses, area programs, or other Five-College arrangements, consult your Registrar.

4) Students MUST obtain permission of the instructor before making out an application for enrollment in a course at another institution if permission is necessary for students of that institution. Consultation with the instructor is ADVISABLE in other cases as well.

5) Prepare a separate application form for each semester course.

6) Secure the necessary signatures.

7) Submit the entire application to your Registrar before the date announced.

8) After that date if you decide not to take the course, notify your Registrar at once. (In the event you are not accepted in a course which you requested, you will be notified.)

*All Five-College courses not pre-registered for require that an Add-Card be filed with the Registrar's Office.

The New York Brass Quintet will be featured in concert in Bowker Auditorium Friday evening, May 2 at 8:00 p.m. This event marks the final concert in the Concert Association's 1968/69 series.

International Press comment has been generous in its praise of the New York Brass Quintet after its concerts in this country and abroad. Typical of these comments is "What these Americans achieve in technique borders on the incredible", quoting the Algemeen Handelsblad, Amsterdam.

The New York Brass Quintet's concert tickets are available to UMass undergrads without charge and reserved seats are available to the public at $1.50 by contacting the Student Union Ticket Office. Remaining tickets will be sold at Bowker Auditorium Box Office preceding the concert. (MDC photo by Wm. O. Collins IV)

Fall Room Choosing to Begin Sunday

The following is the official revised announcement for room choosing for September, 1969. Please pay particular attention to the new dates and times listed.

Students planning to live in a University residence hall next September should follow the room choosing procedure listed below.

All of the room choosing procedure, except Tuesday, May 13, will take place within the individual residence halls.

Sunday, May 4
7:00 - 11:00 p.m. - Students who wish to reserve their present room should sign up with their Head of Residence.

Monday, May 5
7:00 - 9:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '70 who wish to change rooms within their present residence halls should sign up with their Head of Residence.
9:00 - 11:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '71 same as class of '70.

Tuesday, May 6
7:00 - 11:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '72 same as May 5.

Thursday, May 8
7:00 - 9:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '70 who wish to change to another residence hall should see the Head of Residence in the residence hall into which they wish to move. This includes students who are presently off campus.
9:00 - 11:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '71 same as class of '70.

Friday, May 9
7:00 - 11:00 p.m. - Students of the class of '72 same as May 8.

Tuesday, May 13
10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. - Students who have failed to select a room during the regular procedure should do so at the Housing Office, Room 232, Whitmore Administration Building.

NO ROOM CHANGES WILL BE AUTHORIZED AFTER MAY 13

National Journalism Society Elects Dario Politella VP

ATHENS, OHIO - Election of Dr. Dario Politella, journalism professor, as eastern region vice-president of Alpha Phi Gamma, the national honorary society that recognizes the achievements of student journalists, has been announced by Executive Secretary J. W. Click of Ohio University.

Dr. Politella, associate professor of journalistic studies at UMass, was elected to the two-year term by acclamation during the annual regional convention, April 18, at Hanover College, Indiana.

Founder and editor of the society's magazine, The Collegiate Journalist, Dr. Politella also serves as faculty adviser to the U-Mass chapter. He was inducted as an honorary member of APG at Ball State U., Muncie, Ind., in 1962.

A nationally recognized authority on the student press, Dr. Politella is also president of the National Council of College Publications Advisers and co-ordinator of its Commission on the Freedom and Responsibilities of the College Student Press in America.

The election climaxed a three-day series of lectures by Dr. Politella on "The Role of the Campus Press in Confrontation Politics" and a workshop on "The Rights and Freedoms of Student Editors", held April 17-19 on campuses in Indiana. The occasions were the annual address to Kappa Tau Alpha, national journalism scholarship honorary, at Ball State U.; the keynote address to the APG convention at Hanover College; and the freedoms workshop at the annual conference of the Indiana Collegiate Press Association, also at Hanover College.

Judge Denies Dismissal In Harvard Sit-in Trial

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Defense counsel renewed Wednesday a plea for dismissal of trespass charges against 172 persons, most of them students arrested in the seizure of Harvard's University Hall April 9.

Judge M. Edward Viola, before whom the cases are being tried in Cambridge District Court, denied the motions.

Fred C. Scribne, one of the defense attorneys, asked for the dismissal, arguing that insufficient time was given to the defendants to leave the building after police arrived.

Cambridge Police Capt. Chester E. Hallice testified that four separate warnings were given to those in the building before the police went in.

They found the students with locked arms, chanting "We will not go, We will not move," he said.

At the opening of the trial Judge Viola refused to consider a request by Harvard officials for dismissal of all charges.

The prosecution completed its case after a day during which witnesses were interrupted several times by outbursts of hissing and laughing by the defendants who crowded the courtroom.

ATTENTION CLASS OF 1971:

Executive Council Applications

may be picked up in the

R. S. O. OFFICE

BETWEEN 9 and 5

COMPLETED APPLICATIONS DUE MAY 7

RECOMMENDATIONS DUE WITH APPLICATIONS.
Recommendations may be obtained from teachers, administrators, Head of Residence, councilors etc....

As a symbol of achievement this ring is truly representative of the ideals and traditions of your years spent at the University.

The University Side The State Seal of Massachusetts is complemented by the 1863 University founding date which is crested above the seal. Laurel for achievement and oak leaves for strength frame the seal. The state motto, "Ense Petit Placidam sub Libertate Quietem" (By the sword we seek peace, but peace only under liberty) was written by Algernon Sidney, an English writer, prior to 1683.

The Class Side Representing the class year is the oldest building on campus, Old Chapel, built in 1885. The clock hands are set at the traditional 1:30 time of graduation exercises. The four chevrons, two on each side, represent the four years spent at the University.

The complete design of the University of Massachusetts Class Ring is under the control of the Recognized Student Organizations and unauthorized reproduction is not permitted. (U. S. Patents Pending R.S.O.)

DO YOU HAVE YOURS YET?

Still Time To Order before Graduation

from

JOSTEN'S FACTORY REPRESENTATIVES

on MAY 7, 1969

at the UNIVERSITY STORE, STUDENT UNION

Boss Tweeds
play at
CHEQUERS
Admission 50¢

International Club
PICNIC
at
LOOK PARK
MAY 3 1 P.M.
Four College Participation
Lunch (cookout) Free
Transportation:
from Whitmore — 1 P.M.

FREE PEPSI
WITH EVERY PIZZA
Upon Request
Min. of 3 for delivery
Mama's Pizza
103 North Pleasant St.
253-9858

Applications Available
FOR SUMMER EMPLOYMENT
- INTRAMURAL SUPERVISOR
- LIFEGUARD
- EDITOR, SUMMER NEWSPAPER
- BUILDING SUPERVISOR
- PART-TIME ASSISTANTS

For job descriptions and more information contact: Miss Sheila McRevey or Mrs. Lois Frey, Student Activities Office, Student Union.

Application Deadline: MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969

Notices

BLOOD DRIVE
All students who wish to donate blood on May 6 must have the white registration slip in RSO box 314 by today. Every prospective donor who is under 21 years of age must have a green permission slip signed by his parents. These green slips can be obtained in RSO 314 and do not have to be turned in until the day of the Blood Drive. Please take only one. If there are any questions call Karen Gould, 6-8364.

GREENOUGH COED DORM
Applications for males and females for the proposed coed dorm will be available at a table in the S.U. lobby 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. through Monday.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Twelve kids from Chicopee will be at the S.U. at 11 Sat. morning. Farm program and personal trips are planned. Please sign up on NES board or call 6-6421.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
UMass annual Horse Show will be Sat. at 10 a.m. in the lower riding rings beside the baseball field (follow the arrows). Rain or shine. Free. Drill Exhibition 12:30.

BLOOD TYPING PROJECT
Alpha Delta Theta, the Medical Technology sorority, will hold a blood-typing project today from 9:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. in the S.U. lobby.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CHOIR
Auditions for Women's Choir (Music 165) will be May 1-6. Call Mr. Harler for appointment, S-0532 or S-2227.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting Sun. at 2:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers for volunteers and the Exec. Committee. All welcome. Future plans, including dorm collections and Greenfield collection, will be discussed. Call Lorna Maynard for information, 6-6634.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Picnic at Look Park Sat. at 1 p.m. Lunch (a cookout) will be provided and transportation from Whitmore parking lot at 1 p.m. Four college participation.

UMASS BARBELL CLUB
Discussion and organization of Powerlift Meet with YMCA, election of Secretary today at 8 p.m. in the Nantucket Rm., S.U.

STUDENT SENATE COMMITTEES
Positions open for Student Senate Committees as follows: Services, Activities, Budgets, Public Relations, and SGA.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
GSS is holding a shoeshine in front of the S.U. today from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and tomorrow from 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

OUTING CLUB
Mt. Ascutney hiking trip Sat. and a caving trip to Morris Cave on Sun. Both mountain and cave are in Vermont. Sign up sheets are on bulletin board.

CHESS CLUB
All interested students who would like to participate in next year's projected activities please sign up tonight at 7 p.m. in the New Hotch.

FIRST AID
First Aid Course leading to Standard and Advanced First Aid Certificate. Required for Life Guards and at some summer camps. Short course. Call Roger Gamache for more information, 6-9021.

TAUBETA SIGMA
Important meeting of TBS today at 11 a.m. in Rm. D, Old Chapel. Elections for next year's officers will be held at this time.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Sun. night volunteers from the Biafra Relief Services Foundation will be collecting in the dorms. Save a life. Anything will be a big help.

ROCK BANDS, ETC.
If you want to play before a captive audience of 5000 plus call Bob, 304 Butterfield.

HILLEL
Fri. night services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Sat. services at 9:45 a.m., S.U.

SOCIOLOGY UNDERGRADUATE LIASON
Today at 8:30 p.m. in Norfolk Rm., S.U.

SOUTHWEST
Race Relations Film, "No Hiding Place", Minority Life in the Suburbs, tonight at 7 p.m. in Berkshire Clubroom, D.C. #9.

SYMPOSIUM ON CUBA
A Four-College Amigos Symposium on Cuba will be held at Smith Sat. All welcome. Lee Lockwood, journalist and photographer, will speak on "Fidel Castro" at 10 a.m. in Wright Hall. A film on Cuba will be shown after the lecture.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Davis Center, Smith College. Beginners welcome.

A.S.S. DINNER
Dinner with returnees from Smith, Mt. Holyoke, UMass., and Amherst, Sat. If interested call Judy McDermott, 6-8437 or Carolyn Ryder, 584-6101.

SMILE
Socialist Freak's Party to form on Mayday in front of S.U. at 1:30.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving S.U. at 1:15 and Patterson at 1:20 Sat.

PINNINGS
Susan Lavoie, '69, JQA, to Richard Headley, '70, Tau Epsilon Phi.
Carole Hyman, '71, Crampton, to Mike Katz, '71, S.A.M.

ENGAGEMENTS
Linda Hurld, '70, to Richard Misiaszek, '68, Indian Orchard.
Carolyn Overholt, '70, Van Meter, to Lt. Stephen Talbot, USMCR, Beaufort, S.C.
Maureen Quilty, '70, to Ronald Young, '70, UMass.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Woman's gold Longines wristwatch with "ER-63" engraved on back. Call Elaine, 6-6839 after 10 p.m. Reward.
Lost - Check book and credit card. Return to S.U. lost and found or call J. Hannula.
Lost - Ford car keys between Boyden and Whitmore. Return to Wally Novack at the Boyden ticket office.
Lost - Men's prescription sunglasses on Mon. in Crampton or D.C. #5. Call Mike Katz.
FOUND
If anyone lost anything valuable outside the S.U. last Thurs., call Emilie, 6-5173.
Lost - Norwich University pin. Call Kathy, 112 Van Meter.
Lost - Brown wallet, call James Wade, 6-9213. Reward.
Lost - '68 gold class ring with initials JPH, call 6-5086.
Lost - 3 subject notebook with Chem. 112 and Math 123 notes. Call Leslie, 6-7552. Reward.

Are there flowers, and vows and rings in your future?
Though you'll have to go to a florist for the flowers, and the vows are up to you, we'll make sure your RINGS are the most beautiful you can find.
WINN JEWELERS

MOTHER LOVE
is one of the world's most beautiful things.
Show your mother how much you love her with a Mother's Day Card
from
A. J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer & Stationer

INTERVIEWS
for students interested in ORCHARD HILL next semester will be held today, Thurs., May 1, 1969
9 - 12 p.m.
in
Eugene Field Conference Room

CONCERT ASSOCIATION presents . . .
NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET
FRIDAY, MAY 2 8 p.m.
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
Tickets Free to UMass Undergrads
$1.50 others
Student Union Ticket Office
A Fine Arts Council Event

A New Concept of Gracious Living

NOW RENTING
for Summer and Fall Occupancy
One and Two Bedroom Apartments
located on Route 116 in Sunderland
4 mi. No. Univ. Moss.

Total Electric Heat by Western Mass. Electric Co.

Rental Agents will be on the Premises
Sat. 12 - 5 p.m. Sun. 1 - 6 p.m.

During rental hours call 665-3050
or call collect 203-289-2204 any time

General Court Selections WILL be held
May 4th, 1969 2:00 p. m. Student Union
(Room will be posted on Board in S.U. Lobby)
OPENINGS
for Two Juniors, Two Sophomores and Two Freshmen
Male and Female
Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

AN INVITATION
to
College of Arts and Sciences
Students and Faculty to an OPEN FORUM on
The Foreign Language Requirement
Thursday: May 1 7:30 p. m. Thompson 104

New England Artists to be Featured At Fitchburg Show in Several Mediums

An exhibition of oil paintings, water colors, drawings and wood collages will be presented by Applewild School in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, featuring New England artists, E. Thor Carlson and Dwight Little. The show will run from Sunday, May 18 through Friday, May 23, at the school's Music Center located on Prospect Street and may be viewed daily from 2:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. and by appointment mornings for groups. The public is cordially invited to an opening tea, Sunday, May 18, from 2:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m.

The two artists will exhibit works drawing from themes of nature and landscape of the Monadnock, Wachusett area, the Berkshires and the Connecticut Valley. Mr. Carlson will show recent oils and drawings and Mr. Little will present water colors and wood collages.

Mr. Carlson, though well-known for his presentations of ideas drawn from Biblical and Mythological themes, will show recent developments in landscape painting and drawings that represent a return to a traditional approach, yet retaining his characteristic pale and limited palette. These new images offer contrast to previous work in that they are based on the real world of nature, and though utilizing the language of post-impressionism and later developments, present the subject matter in an easily recognizable form.

In his semi-abstract water colors and abstract wood collages Mr. Little also works with regional themes. Utilizing tools as varied as chisel and chain-saw, his wood collages make full use of the patterns suggested by the natural grain. Some are in natural tones and others are colored with paints and stains. The water colors present themes Mr. Little has known intimately and are from the Berkshires and the Connecticut Valley. Some are "printed", a technique of impressing objects on wet watercolor paper.

Mr. Carlson, a Gardner native, studied at Yale and in Italy, has taught extensively in the area and has exhibited at the Worcester and Fitchburg Art Museums, on the North and South Shores and in Boston; most recently he has had two one-man shows in New York City. He teaches art at Applewild School and oil painting at the Petersham Craft Center.

Mr. Little lives in Haydenville, Massachusetts, teaches at the University of Massachusetts and with his wife, is director of the Greenwood Music Camp, situated in Cummington. He has exhibited in Amherst, Northampton, Williamstown, Greenfield and Pittsfield. Recently his work was shown at the Berkshire Museum, in Pittsfield and also in Seattle, Washington at a meeting of the United States Plywood Association.

BULLETIN No. 28 SPRING & SUMMER 1969

OVER 5,000 TIRES IN STOCK INCLUDING FOREIGN AND COMPACT SIZES

YOU MAY PURCHASE TIRES At Wholesale Prices NEW Perfect Quality GOODYEAR

SCHOOL IDENTIFICATION REQUIRED

BATTERIES — FREE INSTALLATION
6 VOLT $7.72 EXCH
Fits Most Cars
12 VOLT $10.73 EXCH
FULL Guarantee provides for battery replacement FREE within 90 days

FULL 4 PLY NYLON TUBELESS

		FEDERAL EXCISE TAX
650 x 13	$8.96	$1.79
735/700 x 14	$10.86	$2.07
775/750 x 14	$10.97	$2.20
825/800 x 14	$11.78	$2.34
855/850 x 14	$15.97	$2.57
775/670 x 15	$10.87	$2.21
815/710 x 15	$13.53	$2.46
845/760 x 15	$15.97	$2.63
900/800/820 x 15	$19.05	$2.83

No Trade-In Required

NATION-WIDE GUARANTEE
NO LIMIT ON MILES • NO LIMIT ON MONTHS
Adjustment Prorated on Tread Depth Based on Manufacturer's Adjustment Price

AT SAME PRICES WE SELL OUR DEALERS

Terms Available
FREE TIRE MOUNTING

STATE INSPECTION PERIOD APRIL 1st TO MAY 15th

NEW WHEELS Genuine Firestone Retreads

BAK TIRE CO. COPYRIGHT 1969
"Northampton Warehouse Distributors"
55 DAMON ROAD • NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
584-4769
HOURS — 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.
Saturday 8:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M.
OVER 20 YEARS OF SERVICE

FREE WINTER TIRES CHANGED TO SUMMER TIRES

Harlem Educator to Speak On Problems in Black Ghetto

ED CARPENTER

The UMass Baha'i Club will present Ed Carpenter in its lecture series. Mr. Carpenter is head master of Harlem Preparatory School.

Harlem Prep opened October 1967 as a community school to prepare young men and women of the predominantly Negro area for entrance into colleges and universities. It started in a National Guard Armory with 49 students and eight full-time instructors. Most of the students were from Harlem and many were graduates of the Street Academies maintained by the Urban League with the support of business organizations.

Mr. Carpenter's address, in keeping with the lecture series theme "Religion: Relevant to What?", will speak on the ghetto. The lecture is in the Council Chambers of the Student Union at 8:00 p.m., Friday, May 2nd.

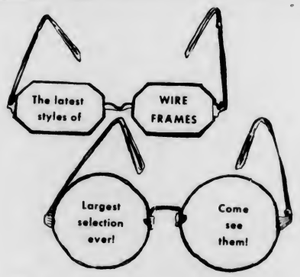
Blood Donor Day to be Held In Commonwealth Room May 6

It's not too late to register for Blood Donor Day to be held Tuesday, May 6, 1969 from noon to 5:45 p.m. at the Commonwealth Room, Student Union, University of Massachusetts.

Medical science is continually finding new uses for blood. To keep up with the increasing need for more blood, more donors are needed. Our faithful donors continue their support, but we must also recruit new donors.

If you are age 18 through 60, in good health, and weigh more than 110 pounds, make sure blood is available for you, your family, neighbor or co-worker when needed. It is great to know that 60 minutes of your time and one pint of blood can make the difference between life and death. There is still time to make an appointment by calling Peggy Gage (549-1528) or Helen Clayton (665-4477), or be a walk-in donor on May 6. Persons under 21, unless married or in the armed services, must have a permission slip signed by parents.

Junior Yr. Abroad Programs Announced



Two new Junior year abroad programs have been announced by the Director of International studies. These programs, are the Great Lakes Colleges Association 1969-70, study programs on Latin America (Bagota, Columbia) and the Near East (American University in Beirut, Lebanon).

Quality of the courses offered is excellent, and credit towards a UMass degree for work completed there can be applied with the approval of individual departments.

Knowledge of Spanish is a necessity for the Bagota program as the focus is on Latin American Studies.

Cost is $3,000 each. Deadline for application is yet to be announced. Interested students should contact the Director of International studies.

Kathleen Gilbert

Amherst Optical Shoppe
Kenneth Cook, Optician
195 North Pleasant St., Amherst Tel. 256-6403

Happy Hour
featuring
JOHN MORGAN
Friday Afternoon
The Hutch Inn

The English Pub
Charlie Bradshaw
AT THE PIANO
Thursday at 9

Happy Hour
THURSDAY NIGHT — 5-7
Happy Hour
FRIDAY NIGHT — 4-7
JOHN BEAN
Sings Folk
FRIDAY NIGHT — 8-12
at
"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"
HOWARD JOHNSON'S MOTOR LODGE ROUTE 9, HADLEY

The BERNIE KAPLAN CO.
FRI., May 2
SAT., May 3
Paul's Cafe
Northampton

50¢ S U MOVIE 50¢
BUNNY LAKE IS MISSING
Laurence Olivier - Carol Lynly
S.U. BALLROOM
6:00 - 8:15

See it from the beginning . . .
Daily 7:00 - 9:00
Sat. - Sun.
2:00 4:40 6:50 9:00
AMHERST Cinema

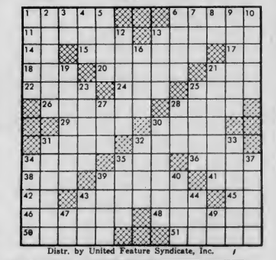
Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing inc. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

WHAT IS A MORGAN? Come Sat. May 3rd to the UMass Horse Show and find out. 10 a.m. in the lower riding rings beside the baseball field (follow the arrows). Rain or shine. Working out three of the University's 23 registered Morgan horses are: (left to right) Mary E. Carroll on Bay State Ivy, Mary Beck on Bay State Duette, Lisa Anderson on Bay State Justin. UMass Equestrian Drill will perform at 12:30. Admission is free.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

LLAMA MALAR
LEAPED PLATES
ASTERS WEPT
ISM TENOR NOR
ROOT RAVES RA
SNAIL PENALTY
TRUE RENA
RESENTS WENDS
OR SATED REAP
PAR RATERS SNA
ESAU SLAM GI
SENSES ELEVEN
SNEAM DETER



ACROSS

1-Long, deep cut
6-Climbing plant
11-Pieces of dinnerware
13-Improve
14-Babylonian deity
15-New Englanders
17-Note of scale
18-Danish land division
20-Food programs
21-Damp
22-Unusual
24-Footlike part
25-Great Lake
26-Glossy fabric
28-Merry
29-Obstructs
30-Devastate
31-Chickens
32-Harm
34-Rail bird
35-Obese
36-Winter vehicle
38-Liquid measure (pl. abbr.)
39-Vehicles
41-Before
42-Near
43-Fights
45-Preposition
46-Cherrylike color
48-Kite
50-Wear away
51-Falsifiers

6-Dregs
7-Possessive pronoun
8-Preposition
9-Sea nymph
10-Rugged mountain crest
12-Marsh birds
13-Wagers
16-Sharp
19-Dealers
21-Quarrel
23-Babylonian hero
25-Man's name
27-Printer's measure (pl.)
28-North American tree
30-Disconcert (colloq.)
31-More torrid
32-Arrow
33-Weirder
34-Room
35-Doom
37-Depressions
39-Crate
40-Trade for money
43-Proposition
44-Capuchin monkey
47-Artificial language
49-A continent (abbr.)

DOWN

1-Lance
2-South American animals
3-Cooled lava
4-Pigpen
5-Chief

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Diamond Men Come from Behind to Defeat Dartmouth, 12-6

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

HANOVER, N. H. - UMass exploded for twelve runs in the last three innings to come from behind and hand Dartmouth a 12-6 defeat here yesterday afternoon. It was the tenth straight victory for the Redmen, who now own a seasonal mark of 12-5.

Dick Pepin, with three hits good for four r.b.i.'s, and Tom Semino, who went four for four including a three-run round-tripper, were the hitting stars for the visitors. Sophomore Jack Bernardo picked up the victory, his second, in relief.

The Redmen could only manage two hits off Dartmouth's starter, Bill Saumsiegle, in the first six innings. Meanwhile, the Big Green pushed across two early runs to take a 2-0 lead edge. Dartmouth actually should have led by more, but they stranded nine men and had two runners cut down at the plate as the visitors played flawless defense.

Behind 2-0 going to the seventh, the highly-touted UMass offense finally got the wheels rolling. Bob Hansen drew a walk, Tony Chinappi followed with a ground single to right, then Pepin hit a towering pop-up to left which was misplayed into a single, enabling the Redmen to break the ice.

Dartmouth's ace reliever, Jack Bell, came in from the bullpen and promptly wild pitched the runners over. Semino's base on balls loaded the sacks and set the stage for centerfielder Steve Ring to celebrate his 21st birthday with a clutch, two-run r.b.i. single which gave the Redmen a 3-2 lead. Bell then settled down to pitch out of the inning.

Bruce Saylor's opposite field shot knotted the score in the bottom of the seventh but UMass came right back to put three more on the board in the eighth, thanks to defensive lapses by the Indians.

Joey DiSarcina and Hansen reached on back-to-back infield errors. Chinappi's perfect sacrifice bunt moved both runners into scoring position and they were delivered seconds later when Pepin moved to third on a Semino single and scored later on a wild pitch.

Once in the hitting groove, the Redmen batsmen wouldn't let up. They batted around in the top of the ninth to put the game out of reach at 12-3. Bernardo worked Bell for a free pass, Ellerbrook singled into left, and DiSarcina scored with a shot between the third baseman and the shortstop taking second on the throw home.

Hansen was intentionally passed to load the bags, but that Ivy League strategy backfired when Chinappi singled sharply to right. DiSarcina was thrown out at home on the play. Pepin's line drive then produced another score.

Semino capped off a great day with a three-run homer to left-center. The blast was a high drive which sent the center fielder racing through the temporary fence in unsuccessful pursuit.

The insurance run proved to be important as Dartmouth tallied three times in the bottom of the ninth before Bernardo closed them out, stranding two.

DUGOUT CHATTER - Norm Elliot started for the Redmen, giving up two runs in the first two frames, before retiring in favor of a pinch hitter. He was followed on the mound by lefty Lou Colabello, who pitched the next four innings. Bernardo finished up and was the beneficiary of the 12-run outburst . . . Dartmouth rapped out sixteen hits, but the UMass defense came up with several key plays to hold the home team in check . . . Semino, who handled eight chances flawlessly at second base, was also the standout for the Redmen in the field . . . Chinappi caught two foul pop-ups, one resulting in a double play and also got the better of two runners who tried unsuccessfully to get by him . . . Hansen leads the team in hitting, now batting at a .354 clip, followed by Ellerbrook at .350. Pepin, .333, and Di Sarcina .329 . . . Semino, who raised his average 42 points, is batting .319 while Chinappi is also above .300 at .308 . . . Two of UMass' biggest fans showed up in the persons of John Dreyer and Willie Rice, who made the long haul up from their Belchertown estate.

DICK PEPIN JACK BERNARDO

Hitter and Pitcherr lead Way over Dartmouth

Golfers Roll Along, Smash AIC, 6-1, UConn, 4-3

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

The UMass varsity golfers rolled to their seventh and eighth victories Tuesday as they smashed American International College, 6-1, and Connecticut, 4-3.

The Willimantic Country Club course was a bit shorter than most courses played thus far this season, so the squad combined for their best scores of the year. The biggest surprise of the day came when UMass medalist Ed Puzas, who shot a 73, lost his match to UConn's Scott Blonder, 7 and 6! Blonder played flawless golf with fourteen pars, three birdies, and one bogie, and ended up with a 69. Puzas, however, did outscore AIC rival Tungstill, 4 and 3.

Dave Salter, manning the second position, defeated AIC's Dunn, but then dropped his match to UConn's Young, 1 up. Dave came through with an 18 hole score of 76. Capt. Eric Lekberg, who also shot a fine 76, continued to find himself on the short end of the score. He lost two very close encounters, first to AIC's Chapman, 1 up after 19 holes, and then to UConn's Kasper, also 1 up after 20 holes.

The remainder of the seven man UMass contingent, including Kick King, Mike Minkos, Paul Johnson and Dick Barber, combined to provide the Redmen with eight of their total of ten points.

King slid by Kane of AIC, 2 and 1, and UConn's Philbrook, 2 up, while Minkos, finally returning to the lineup, smashed Baird, 6 and 4, and Fagan, 4 and 3. Both men played steady golf, with King firing a 78 and Minkos a 75.

The roundup of scoring saw Paul Johnson edge AIC's Czerbinski 2 and 1, and UConn's Gorman, 1 up. Then Dick Barber added to the lead, breezing by Breenen, 7 and 6, and Cain, 1 up.

Coach Dick Page was delighted by the double victory, claiming, "the overall depth in the UMass lineup was evident when the lower part of the lineup came through with wins against Connecticut after Salter and Lekberg had lost close matches. Paul Johnson, playing at the number six position, came through with a clutch performance by winning the last two holes to win his match and the deciding point against UConn."

The next opposition for the squad comes this Friday at The Yankee Conference Championships at the Pt. Judith Country Club in Rhode Island. Although defending conference champ U.R.I. is an overwhelming favorite to successfully defend it's title, Coach Page is confident that "UMass can make a real challenge if the squad plays up to its capabilities."

The Redmen, who are now 8 and 2, then travel to New Hampshire this Saturday for a triangular encounter with Dartmouth and Brown.

JU Baseball Hurler Impressive In Recent Action

They have lost their first two ballgames by one run, but the UMass junior varsity baseball team may have found themselves and the varsity a pitching star. He is Billy Powell, a sophomore hurler, who has struck out 30 batters in the two losses.

UMass pitcher Steve McCauley struck out five also in the first game to give Redman pitching 45 whiffs in two games. Pitching has not been the problem. Fielding and hitting have.

In the opener against Worcester Junior College, lost by the Redmen, 6-5, UMass made six errors, and only got five hits. Basketballer, turned second baseman, Billy Greeley had two of them. Otherwise, the JV's could boast of little attack.

The same was true yesterday against Northampton Community College, as UMass was shutout, 1-0, on two hits. Powell and catcher Russ Kelly had the two safeties.

Rounding out the rest of the starting lineup have been, Dick Lod at first base, Pete Silva at shortstop, and third baseman Dick Malacoria.

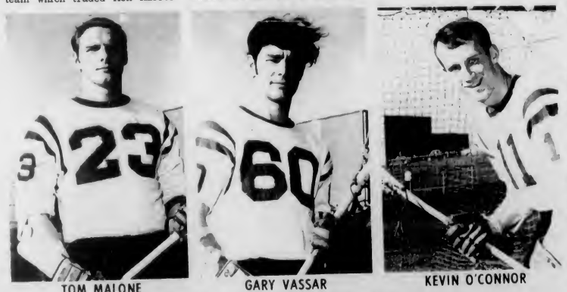
In the outfield are Steve Verenis in left, Ron Swiatlowski in center, with Art Bilodeau and Alex Levine in right.

Coach Tony Williams, is pretty definite on his team's strong point, when he said, "The pitching staff predominates. We have six kids to rely on, but the rest of the positions are pretty thin.

"I think there are a couple with varsity potential including Powell, McCauley and Jerry Dobeck," Williams added.

To win, the JV's will have to start hitting, but if they can supply some help to the varsity, they will have done their job.

Red Sox Lose Again on Shutout as Howard Homers for only run, 1-0



WASHINGTON (AP) - Frank Howard's eighth home run backed the five-hit pitching of Jim Hannan and Dennis Higgins Wednesday night, giving the Washington Senators a 1-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Lee Stange and Vincente Romo both pitched well for the Sox but Stange suffered his third loss due to a lack of hitting by his mates. The Red Sox, though receiving excellent pitching of late, have only scored one run in the last three games. This is the same team which traded Ken Harrelson to get some pitching because they could spare his offensive power.

The victory was the Senators' sixth in their last seven games. Howard's leadoff homer in the fourth inning and a double by Boston's Rico Petrocelli were the only extra base hits in the duel between the two Washington pitchers and the Red Sox' Lee Stange Vincente Romo and Sparky Lyle.

Hannan, 2-1, allowed four hits, struck out five and walked one before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Stange, 1-3, gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth. Boston threatened in the third when Petrocelli drilled a leadoff double and took third on a ground out. But Hannan snared Stange's squeeze bunt on the fly and doubled Petrocelli off third.

The Senators loaded the bases against Romo with none out in the eighth, but Lyle came out of the bullpen and struck out Brant Alyea, Hank Allen and Ken McMullen.

TOM MALONE GARY VASSAR KEVIN O'CONNOR

Keep UMass stickmen on undefeated trail

Daily Collegian

Sports

VOL. XCVII NO. 129
THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1969

Tonight's intramurals

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	LML vs. Turtles
6	5:30	Panthers vs. Cougars
9	5:30	Fleming A's vs. Phyllics
10	5:30	Panthers vs. Limes
11	5:30	Hawks vs. Lemons
1	6:30	WHW vs. KS B
2	6:30	Lil Fellas vs. Fishsticks
3	6:30	Rasputin vs. Stouts
4	6:30	TWH vs. Avengers
1	7:30	Foul Balls vs. 3 M's
2	7:30	Bucks vs. Zeppelins
3	7:30	Rivets vs. Ironmen B
4	7:30	Bonds vs. Cool Cons 2
1	8:30	Tubes vs. Bedoinks
2	8:30	Cement vs. Lobos
3	8:30	Blitzers vs. Nerves
4	8:30	Loggio vs. Rogues
1	9:30	TF & WZ vs. Untouchables
2	9:30	Cues vs. Sticks
3	9:30	Roosters vs. Weasels
4	9:30	Benny's vs. Gamma
1	10:30	TKE vs. ASP

SOCCER

2	4:40	1 vs. 2
3	4:40	3 vs. 4
4	4:40	1 vs. 2
5	4:40	3 vs. 4
6	4:40	5 vs. 6
2	5:20	1 vs. 2
3	5:20	3 vs. 4
4	5:20	1 vs. 2
5	5:20	3 vs. 4
6	5:20	5 vs. 6

All those involved in Intramural tennis doubles, coed tennis and horseshoes, must have their matches played as soon as possible.

Kennedy, Cronkite Top Guest List for Commencement

U.S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy, the commencement speaker, and nine other distinguished men and women will be awarded honorary degrees at the University of Massachusetts commencement Saturday, May 31.

The nine are Damaso Alonso, Spanish scholar and poet; Ellsworth Barnard, UMass alumnus and English professor; Mrs. Bruce Benson, national League of Women Voters president; Walter Cronkite, TV newsman; Howard W. Johnson, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Archibald MacLeish, poet and playwright; David Riesman, sociologist and author; Dr. Harry C. Solomon, UMass Emeritus trustee, former Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health; and Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the Massachusetts Superior Court.

Commencement will begin at 10:30 a.m. in Alumni Stadium. Army and Air Force ROTC commissioning ceremonies will be at 8:30 a.m. that day in Bowker Auditorium and the School of Nursing ceremonie will be 2 p.m. that day in the Student Union Ballroom. Alumni Weekend will be June 6 through 8.

Sen. Kennedy, youngest of the nine children of former Ambassador to Great Britian and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, was first elected to the U.S. Senate in 1962 to fill the expired term of his brother John F. Kennedy. He was reelected to a full term in November 1964, by a plurality of 1,129,244 votes, the largest ever given a statewide candidate in Massachusetts. He is a member of the Senate Judiciary and Labor and Public Welfare Committees.

He is a graduate of Harvard University and the University of Virginia Law School. Before entering the Senate he was Middlesex County assistant district attorney and a campaign aide to his brother John F. Kennedy. He managed the 1958 Senate campaign and was western states coordinator in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Sen. Kennedy is a trustee o. the Children's Hospital Medical Center of Boston, Lahey Clinic the Boston Museum of Science Boston University, the John F Kennedy Library, and the Boston Symphony. He is a member o. the board of Harvard's Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection, of the Advisory Board of Emmanuel College, of the Massachusetts General Hospital and others. He i s president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation.

Sen. Kennedy is the author of the book "Decisions for a Decade: Policies and Programs for the 1970's." He will be given a Doctor of Laws degree.

Prof. Damaso Alonso, historian, poet, critic and philologist, has been called the outstanding Hispanic scholar in the world today. He is president of the Royal Spanish Academy and a member of scholarly societies in this country and Europe.

SENATOR KENNEDY

Ellsworth Barnard, 1928 UMass graduate with M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Minnesota, became a visiting professor of English at UMass this year. His books include the 1952 "Edwin Arlington Robinson: A Critical Study," being reprinted this year; "Shelly's Religion," "Wendell Wilkie: Fighter for Freedom," and others. He will receive a Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Mrs. Bruce B. Benson of Amherst became national president of the 150,000-member League of Women Voters in 1968. Before that she had been second vice-president and chairman of the Committee of the Development of Human Resources, president of the Massachusetts League and president of the Amherst League.

Walter Cronkite, anchor man and reporter on the CBS Evening News, has been called "the single most convincing and authoritative figure in TV news." According to CBS, no individual broadcast newsman has been seen by more people, covered more stories or reported on such a variety of subjects. He is the first broadcast journalist to receive the William Allen White Award and has won a number of other honors and awards. Mr. Cronkite's 30-year career as a reporter included newspaper, radio and wire service work before he joined CBS in 1950. He covered some of the biggest operations of World War II and the post-war Nuremburg trials as a United Press newsman. He will receive a Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Howard W. Johnson, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology since 1966, previously served MIT as dean of its Alfred P. Sloan School of Management. Before that he had been on the faculty of the University of Chicago's School of Business and Division of Social Sciences.

Archibald MacLeish of Conway, Mass., is a three-time Pulitzer prize winner. He won the Pulitzer poetry prize in 1932 and 1953 and the Pulitzer drama prize in 1959 for the play "J.B.," which also won two Tony Awards. He has also won the Bollingen Poetry Prize, the National Book Award, and an Academy Award, the latter for his motion picture script for "The Eleanor Roosevelt Story." His books include "Collected Poems," "Songs for Eve," and "The Wild Old Wicked Man," all volumes of poetry; "Poetry and Experience," a volume of criticism; and "A Continuing Journey," a volume of prose pieces. A graduate of Yale University and Harvard Law School, has served as Librarian of Congress and assistant secretary of state, and was assistant director of the U.S. Office of War Information during World War II. He was chairman of the U.S. delegation to the London U.N. conference that created UNESCO. He will receive a Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

David Riesman's best - known books are two pioneering studies of the American character, "The Lonely Crowd" and "Faces in the Crowd." He has also written "Constraint and Variety in American Education," "Abundance for What? and Other Essays," "The Academic Revolution" (with Christopher Jencks) and others. Since 1958 he has been

(Continued on Page 2)

Irving Rothberg, chairman of a committee on restructuring the language requirement spoke at last night's meeting on the language requirement. (MDC photo by Steve Schmidt.)

At an Open Meeting

No Decision Made on Language Requirement

By LOUIS DIMONACO
Staff Reporter

Students and faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences met in Thompson 104 last night to discuss possible alterations in the present foreign language requirement. The discussion was led by Irving Rothberg, from the Romance Languages Department and chairman of the Committee on Foreign Language Instruction.

Dean Maki suggested that the best method to approach the language requirement question would be to "abstract the nature of future foreign language requirements and try to arrive at some kind of general agreement before presenting any full proposals."

Once the topic was up for general discussion students and faculty in all areas of Arts and Sciences presented their opinions on the pros and cons of the foreign language requirement.

One instructor in the French Department stated that if foreign languages were to undergo examinations for relevancy, then other requirements should undergo the same test.

The question rose as to why, exactly, is a foreign language required, and why is a requirement being imposed which has no alternative?

Zina Tillona, of the Italian Department, admitted that the four semester sequence for foreign languages was not the best but that other methods were being tried.

The arguments for and against the foreign language requirement were concerned mainly with relevancy. The faculty members, in the department of foreign languages, argued, for the most part, in favor of the requirement, while most students opposed it.

One student said, "We're telling you we took the course and it isn't relevant."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 130 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1969

Open Meeting with O'Connell on Fair-Hiring to be Held Today

The Martin Luther King Social Action Council will hold an open meeting today in the Student Union Council Chambers at 2:30 to discuss the Daniel O'Connell and Sons Construction Company reply to their demand that the company hire more black employees.

This meeting, open to the University community, is the result of a previous meeting when it was decided that the company would have until May 2 to hire 5 more blacks.

The first meeting was the result of nearly a year's research into suspected employment discrimination on campus construction sites. The King Council met with contractors twice last summer, and spent much of this academic year researching labor laws and anti-discrimination clauses in contracts relating to work on campus.

In March, an informal count of construction workers was made as the men came to work in the morning. There was only one black worker out of about 300 men. On April 4, the anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., the King Council presented a petition to President Lederle requesting that he use his office to help correct the obvious lack of minority group representation. The petition asked that the President request of the proper authorities that a clause be added to all future contracts requiring substantial minority group representation, and that the demand that present shortcomings be corrected as soon as possible.

One week later, Ron Hardy and Gil Salk of the King Council, joined by Stan Kinard, President of Afro-Am, Cindi Olken, Vice-President of the Student Senate, George Child, President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and representatives of the University Christian Movement, Students for a Democratic Society, and Project 10, met with President Lederle to receive his reply. After lengthy discussion, the President agreed to both parts of the petition.

University attorney Sidney Meyers and ACLU lawyer Isidore Silver met and drafted a legally phrased clause which is to be recommended to the Bureau of Building Construction. In addition, they

(Continued on Page 2)

IT WAS A WARM DAY IN AMHERST YESTERDAY, and people lounged outside. One inside place which seemed to be deserted was the forum set up by the Student Senate for suggestions and complaints concerning the Daily Collegian. Only three people showed up for the forum, which the Senate paid $47.25 to publicize. (MDC photo by Ken Emery.)

2 MAY 2

A.P. News Special
Civil Rights Leader Hits Black Studies Demands on Campus

NEW YORK (AP) - Bayard Rustin, long-time Negro civil rights leader, says colleges are taking a cheap way out by agreeing to Negro students' demands for black studies programs.

Instead, he says, colleges need to develop massive - but expensive - remedial projects to improve the scholastic level of Negro students and to enable them to make their academic way.

In a question-and-answer session with a reporter on Negro unrest on the campus, Rustin deplored violent protests and said it was humiliating to see college administrators and faculty submitting to Negroes with guns.

They wouldn't submit to "Ku Klux Klansmen coming on campus with guns," he said, and suggested this indicated the college officials didn't really consider Negroes equal to whites.

"They say, well, it's only Negroes behaving that way. They wouldn't tolerate this from white students," he said.

Rustin, who organized the March on Washington in 1963 and now is executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, said Negroes had made substantial gains in educational opportunities.

"It is therefore all the more tragic that instead of taking advantage of the opportunity for learning, they are reducing the situation to a series of courses that cannot really prepare them for the kind of life they have to live."

The interview ranged over a spectrum of Rustin's views on campus problems, Negro militancy, and faculty reactions and concessions.

One question and answer was:

Q. How do you view the efforts to establish separate black studies departments?

A. I am very much opposed to separation under any circumstances and I'm also opposed to black studies. And I believe it is a grievous mistake that there has not been the study of Negro culture history, but I'm opposed to it as black studies, because I believe there should be the integration of Negro contributions into the American historical forces, into the economic forces, and into other forces. For example, I don't think you should study the American Revolution without studying Crispus Attucks.

But in this country, to try to separate the black experience from the American experience, is ridiculous.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Students Leave Taken Buildings At Columbia, Stanford Yesterday

(AP) - Student rebels evacuated occupied buildings at Columbia and Stanford universities Thursday - for lack of campus support and under pressure from the law.

"We haven't won the support we should have," said Michael Golash, a leader of the Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia. "Most of us, I think, were prepared to be arrested."

About 200 SDS radicals and supporters, mostly white, walked out of the Mathematics Building and Fayerweather Hall after warrants for their arrest were issued in New York State Supreme Court.

Fidler Begins Weekend

Close to 5000 attended both productions of "Fiddler on the Roof" in Bowker yesterday. The presentation, given by the play's touring company was sponsored by the class governments and the Distinguished Visitors Program and began Spring Weekend at UMass.

The Weekend continues with several bands playing all day Saturday, a multi-media light show, a Concert, and a picnic.

They occupied the buildings Wednesday, in a demand for greater Negro enrollment in Columbia's 20,000 member student body.

More than 100 antiwar demonstrators ended a takeover of Encina Hall at Stanford, after about 100 officers were deployed in front of the building. The overnight occupation had been opposed by an estimated 1,000 counterdemonstrators chanting "Out! Out! Out:" Stanford has 12,000 students.

Legal action also was launched in an effort to force a reopening of City Colleg e in New York, closed for more than a week by Negro and Puerto Rican demonstrators. And at the University of Rochester in upstate New York, a two-day class boycott was called off for lack of student support.

MLK Open Meeting

(Continued from Page1)

agreed to arrange a meeting between Stan Kinard of Afro-Am, Gil Salk of the King Council, and representatives of O'Connell Construction. That meeting was held April 18 in Holyoke, and reported on at the open meeting in the Ballroom.

Gil Salk spoke at the open meeting and said that the attitudes expressed by O'Connell seemed to be satisfactory, but that he had expressed similar attitudes before without any significant changes taking place. During the ensuing discussion, it became apparent that the people at the meeting were willing to allow O'Connell time to demonstrate his good faith. The group decided that the hiring of at least five new minority-group employees by May 2 would be a sufficient initial demonstration of faith. It was agreed to hold another open meeting on that date to determine whether the demand had been met, and what was to be done next.

CRONKITE

MacLEISH

REISMAN

International Club
PICNIC
at
LOOK PARK
MAY 3 1 P.M.
Four College Participation Lunch (cookout) Free
Transportation: from Whitmore — 1 P.M.

Kennedy to Highlight Commencement Program

(Continued from Page 1)

Henry Ford Professor of Social Sciences at Harvard.

Dr. Harry C. Solomon is a University of California graduate with an M.D. degree from the Harvard Medical School. He joined the Harvard Medical School faculty in 1943 and retired in 1956 as professor and chairman of the department of psychiatry. He was named Massachusetts Commissioner of Mental Health in 1958 and retired in 1967. He will receive a Doctor of Science degree.

Justice G. Joseph Tauro was named Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court in 1962. He has also served as an associate justice and as a chief legal counsel to Gov. John A. Volpe. He is a graduate of the Boston University Law School and a native of Lynn.

SUN GOGGLES

Looking for the astronaut look in sun goggles? Come to

DON CALLS

We carry the finest line with Polaroid filters buried in the glass. They aren't cheap, but they are the best. Imagine 88% glare absorbsion combined with a minimum distortion. You won't find anything better anywhere else

If you're disabled, learn to make the most of it.

Get the help you need to lead a fuller life. Write: Help, Box 1000, Washington, D.C. 20013

ROB BROOKS, assistant to Dean of Students William F. Field, considers himself "a traffic director...drawing out students questions." (MDC photo by Ken Stevens).

"To Reduce the Barrier" Robert Brooks' Goal

By CAROL ZILMAN
Staff Reporter

"Robin" Brooks, more formally, Robert N. Brooks, assistant to the Dean of Students, defines his major goal at the University this way: "To reduce as far as possible the real or felt barrier between the students and administration in dealing with mutual desired goals in dealing with education outside of the classroom."

Upon his graduation from Brandeis University in 1957, Brooks became the protocol secretary to the Governor of Massachusetts, a position in which he was a special events coordinator and the "liaison" between the executive department and the numerous state agencies, the public and the legislature. He became the assistant to the dean of University Resources at Brandeis in 1960 and was the administrative assistant in coordinating educational fund raising activities.

In 1964, Mr. Brooks obtained his master's degree from Boston University in counselling and personnel services in higher education. That July he came to the University of Massachusetts as a staff assistant and staff associate.

Brooks assists Dean William F. Field, whose office deals with student life outside the classroom through the Student Union and Student Activities, Placement and Financial Aid, Housing and the various other student personnel services.

Another goal of his office is "to try to do away with some of the myths the students have about the administration as well as the misconception the administration has about the students in terms of areas of concern important for both groups." In fact, he added "answers are available from the administration which the students don't take advantage of."

Brooks also considers himself kind of "traffic director" in the sense that he tries to draw out students to ask the questions even though he himself may not have the answers but he can help get them.

His office also tries to get students with problems (either academic or not) to complain about them. He remarked that to be sensitive to concerns and to help the student is not always possible and "there is the obligation of the student to tell us something is bothering him and maybe we can get together and do something about it. This goes back to my previous point of the myth that students are afraid."

"I would be pleased to park myself in a tent or a trailer to get the students to come to get a better educational experience and do something for them."

Brooks feels that "it is really incumbent for students to beat a path on the door of any student personnel member." He quoted Provost Tippo's remark, "Don't knock us if you haven't knocked on our doors first."

He is presently proposing a question and answer column in the DAILY COLLEGIAN.

He noted, by the way, that "many of the answers the students raise are in the handbook. I really encourage people to check the handbook."

Of additional interest to the female students on campus, Mr. Brooks - a blue-eyed red head, smiled: "I'm in good health and my mother wants me to get married."

Mass. Rep. Files Bill To Solve Import Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill that eventually would eliminate the nation's controversial oil import quotas was filed in the House Thursday by 46 congressmen led by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass.

"I have initiated this legislation because the oil import quota system has resulted in artifically high oil prices which have cost American consumers dearly," Conte said.

The Republican lawmaker said he had examined the quota system closely.

"I find no justification for its existance," he said.

The bill has received particularly strong support from New England members of Congress, who favor the construction of a 300,000-barrel-a-day oil refinery within a proposed free trade zone in Machiasport, Maine.

The refinery would use oil imported from Libya.

Present regulations prohibit all but seven western states from importing oil amounting to more than 12.2 per cent of domestic production.

The formula proposed in Conte's bill would raise this to 14.2 per cent in 1970, gradually lift it to 50 per cent by 1979 and eliminate it in 1980.

Orchard Hill Government Aims For More CCEBS Federal Funds

By NEAL NOVACK
Staff Reporter

Disapproval of the proposed budget cut-back from $700,000 to $300,000 for the CCEBS program was expressed at the first Orchard Hill Residential College Area Government meeting held in the main lounge of Eugene.

It was urged by Joel Marmelstein, representative from Webster House, that a letter of disapproval be sent by O.H.R.C.A.G. to Governor Sargent. Marmelstein said that, "As the government representing the 1250 students in Orchard Hill, we should show our support as a unit for something we all believe in." Marmelstein, and other Orchard Hill government members, expressed the view that the Orchard is the one area on campus who can speak up on the CCEBS program.

Marmelstein also proposed that in addition to a letter a formal petition could be submitted to Governor Sargent at a later date.

Reynold Cullman, President of O.H.R.C.A.G., then turned the meeting over to the matter of nominations and election for the offices of secretary and treasurer which will be held this week. He urged that anyone who lives on Orchard Hill and is interested in these offices should contact members of the area government.

Next on the agenda was the formation of permanent committees to deal with the goals originally set down by the "Apple Power" movement in March. These committees are as follows: (1) Orchard Hill Services - to handle matters concerning athletic fields, parking areas, paved walks, etc.; (2) Dining Commons - study and draw up definite plans for the propose d dining complex; (3) Curriculum; (4) Social and Cultural - to be incorporated into one committee; (5) Budget - to determine what funds are needed and where these funds will come from, and (6) By-laws to set up the ground rules for O.H.R.C.A.G.

GSS Elects Officers, Discusses Housing Problem

Elections of new officers and a report by the housing committee were the chief items of business at Monday night's meeting of the Graduate Student Senate.

David Yelton (microbiology), incumbent vice-president, was elected president with no opposition. He will succeed Thomas Minogue (agricultural economics) in June. Yelton has been active in the GSS for two years now, serving on its procedural code committee before becoming vice president.

Sen. Arthur Teixeira (mechanical and aerospace engineering), chairman of the housing committee, was elected vice-president by a 14-12 vote in the only contested election of the evening. Sen. C. Vernon Grey (government) was his opponent.

Sen. Wendell Cook (economics) was elected to replace Michael Rosen (biochemistry) as next year's secretary of the Graduate Student Senate. Sen. John Manson (agricultural engineering) was named to succeed Ethan Roberts (zoology) as treasurer.

Officers serve one year beginning in June according to the GSS constitution. Senators are elected for a year's term in the fall.

In the housing committee report Teixeira said that administration officials have been receptive at early talks with members of his committee. However, his committee has not yet met with President John Lederle, though such a meeting is expected to be arranged shortly.

Discussions so far have centered on the situation for married graduate students with families, for whom the housing situation, both in terms of supply and price is especially critical. The committee is considering asking the university to devote all available university-owned "off-campus" housing apartment units to graduate students with families, asking it to establish a trailer park on its properties.

Teixeira also reported that the committee has discussed rent controls and rent strikes with Prof. Isadore Silver of SBA, who is the local ACLU lawyer. Silver said that neither the town government nor the state government appears to have the power to institute rent controls.

The BERNIE KAPLAN CO.
FRI., May 2
SAT., May 3
Paul's Cafe
Northampton

HAPPY HOURS
3 - 6 today
at
The English Pub

Happy Hour
THURSDAY NIGHT — 5 - 7
Happy Hour
FRIDAY NIGHT — 4 - 7
JOHN BEAN
Sings Folk
FRIDAY NIGHT — 8 - 12
at
"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"
HOWARD JOHNSON'S MOTOR LODGE ROUTE 9, HADLEY

Low Key May-Day Shows Soviets Wary of Arms

(AP) - On both sides of the world, the nuclear arms race is a touchy political business.

Moscow's unusually low-key May Day celebration hints that the debate in the United States on nuclear arms policy has its counterpart among the Soviet leadership. In Moscow it could have explosive political consequences.

In the United States, the question is complicated by a popular urge to get on with the job of attacking domestic problems and by the American involvement in the long war in Vietnam.

In Moscow, the question is complicated by Soviet involvement in unpleasant situations within the Communist world, including its restlessness after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and an escalating confrontation with Red China.

For the first time, the May Day celebration in Russia was without its military parade. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnov made the speech - not the defense minister, as had been former practice. There was no marked saber-rattling in the address.

In part, this could be explained by Moscow's troubles in the Communist world.

It could also, however, reflect a hawk-dove quarrel between civilian politicians and powerful military brass, which up to now seems to have been having things pretty much its own way.

GROUND WAS BROKEN for Tri-Sigma new house, to be located in Fraternal Park, Sunday. The projected completion date for the house is January, 1970.

Happy Hour

featuring

JOHN MORGAN

Friday Afternoon

The Hutch Inn

Tri Sigma Breaks Ground For New House in Park

Sigma Sigma Sigma held the ground breaking ceremony for their new house in Fraternal Park on Sunday, April 27, in connection with their «ventv-first Founders' Dav celebration.

The Gamma Iota chapter of Tri Sigma was founded at the University in 1963 and is presently located on the eleventh floor of Calvin Coolidge.

Attending the celebration at Memorial Hall were sisters, pledges, parents, and alumnae. Among the special guests were Miss Helen Curtis, Dean of Women and Panhellenic advisor; Mr. William Richards, Dean of Men and fraternity advisor; and visitors from the national office of the sorority. At the luncheon, Dean Curtis announced that Tri-Sigma had achieved the highest sorority cumulative average for the fall semester - a 2,89.

Taking part in the ground breaking at the Park were Mrs. Kirby Hayes, Tri Sigma advisory board chairman and secretary of the Fraternal Park Corporation; Mrs. Frank Wilson, chapter financial advisor; George Rogers, Fraternal Manager; and Mary Machin, housing committee chairman and chapter president. All sisters and alumnae received small shovels so that they too could participate in the ground breaking.

Tri Sigma is the first organization to begin actual construction in the Park. The $385,000 house, designed by David Carlsen Associates, will consist of two sections surrounding an open courtyard. Built to house fifty-two sisters, the building will be completed in December of 1969. Occupancy is scheduled for January of 1970.

Summer School Students

Do you plan to be on Campus for both Summer sessions? The Japanese Summer Institute is accepting applications for 31 American Students who would like a Japanese roommate for four weeks, July 10 - August 5. You will have no other roommate during the rest of the Summer. Call —

WALTER SILVA

Southwest Residential College, 5-1551

before Friday, May 9

SPRING PINT SALE! $3.95 REGULARLY $5.50

Now is the ONCE-A-YEAR TIME TO SAVE BIG on the BIG pint-size Bonne Bell TEN-O-SIX LOTION

Ten-O-Six Lotion is the one cleansing and corrective cosmetic that helps your skin to complete natural beauty. It clears skin blemishes with lemonacinic derp cleansing and healing medication.

Why not order two pints at our special annual sale price?

Bonne Bell

Ten-O-Six pulses skin as oils during May $24.95 (Reg. $30.00)

COLLEGE DRUG

Scholars Plan To Examine ABM Question

A national conference of scholars will examine the increasing militarization of American society in Washington May 1-3. The conference, comprising faculty and graduate students as participants, will attempt to mobilize serious academic opinion in the social and behavioral sciences against the ABM and the growing influence of the military.

Called AMB/CHOICE: A National Academic Conference on ABM and the Choice Between a Military and a Sane Society," the meetings will include major addresses by Dr. Robert J. Lifton, Professor Hans J. Morgenthau and Dr. George Wald, winner of the 1968 Nobel Prize in physiology and medicine. Lifton, who teaches at Yale University Medical School, is winner of the 1969 National Book Award in the sciences for his DEATH IN LIFE: SURVIVORS OF HIROSHIMA. Morgenthau, a leading critic of American policies in Vietnam, is Professor of Political Science at the University of Chicago and the City University of New York. Wald teaches at Harvard University.

SENIOR DAY

WHEN: FRIDAY, MAY 30, 1969 (The day before Commencement) continuous from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.

WHERE: Northeast Quad (North Dining Commons in case of rain)

WHAT: Bar-B-Q Dinner
Souvenir Beer Mug
Free Beer
Entertainment in a Tent

HOW: By making a reservation ($1 for Seniors, $3 for guests) Student Union Ticket Office SOON!

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

MacKimmie Experiment Seen A Success

After the completion of its first year as a special residence hall, MacKimmie House has proved a highly successful experiment in responsible, upper class living, according to participant responsible, upper class living, according to participants. Comprised of conscientious students from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes, it is the only dorm of its kind on campus.

The coming academic year promises more of the same, as MacKimmie will once again accommodate only upper class students committed to a responsible mode of living. Within the house, a resident has the choice of living in one wing which is set aside for twenty-four hour quiet, as well as a wing which observes more conventional quiet hours. Both have proven very successful.

NOTICES

HISTORY 150
Mr. Overert's History 150 will meet Sat. in Thompson 106 at 10 a.m.

MLK SUMMER CAMP
Meeting Tues. at 4 p.m., room to be announced. Organization. For further information call Peter Thiffault, 665-2384.

SPRING DAY
On your mark...

BOYDEN GYM
Please return the book, "Judo for the West", taken from the Wrestling Room. Imperative.

FINNISH TABLE
Meet line one, North Commons Mon. at 4:45 p.m. and move upstairs. All associated faculty and families are invited. Free.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS
Important committee meeting to be held Sat. at 10:30. ROTC situation will be at issue.

GREENOUGH COED DORM
Applications for males and females for the proposed coed dorm will be available at a table in the S.U. lobby 10 a.m.-4 p.m. through Monday.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Twelve kids from Chicopee will be at S.U. at 11 Sat. morning. Form program and personal trips are planned. Sign up on NES board or call 6-6421.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving S.U. at 1:15 and Patterson at 1:20 Sat.

KING COUNCIL
Campus Construction discrimination open meeting today in the Council Chambers, S.U.- Discuss response to demand that O'Connell hire at least five more minority group workers by May 2.

KING COUNCIL-CCEBS
Open coffee hour Tues., noon-2 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. to discuss CCEBS program with Dallas Dorland, Provost's office; John Childs, Admissions; Randolph Bromery; CCEBS director. Free coffee, open to all.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
UMass Annual Horse Show will be Sat. at 10 a.m. in the lower riding rings beside the baseball field (follow the arrows). Rain or shine. Free. Drill exhibition at 12:30.

FIRST AID
Course leading to Standard and Advanced Red Cross First Aid Certificate. Required for Life Guards, and at some summer camps. Call Roger Gamache, 6-9021 for information.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Picnic at Look Park Sat. at 1 p.m. Lunch (a cookout) will be provided free and transportation will be provided from Whitmore parking lot at 1 p.m. Four college participation.

MILITARY BALL
Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom, formal dress. Tickets on sale at Dickinson Hall $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
GSS is holding a shoeshine in front of the S.U. tomorrow from 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Tour of Belchertown State School for the mentally retarded. Bus leaves S.U. at 1:15 and Patterson at 1:20 Sat. No obligation to join volunteer program if you come.

A.S.S.DINNER
Dinner with returnees from Smith, Mt. Holyoke, UMass., and Amherst. If interested call Judy McDermott, 6-8437 or Carolyn Ryder, 584-6101. To be held Sat.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Tonight at 8 p.m. in Davis Center, Smith. Beginners welcome.

OUTING CLUB
Mt. Ascutney Hiking trip Sat., and o caving trip Sun. Bath mountain and cave ars in Vermont. Sign up on Bulletin Board.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CHOIR
Auditions for Woman's Choir will be May 2-6. Call Mr. Harler for appointment, 5-0532 or 5-2227.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting un. at 2:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers, S.U. for volunteers and the Exec. Committee. All welcome. Future plans, including dorm collections, and Greenfield collection, will be discussed. Call Lorna Maynard for information, 6-6634. Sun. night volunteers from the Biafra Relief Services Foundation will be collecting in the dorms. Save a life. Anything will be a great help.

SYMPOSIUM ON CUBA
A Four College Amigos Symposium on Cubo will be at Smith Sat. open to all. Lee Lockwood, journalist and photographer, will speak on "Fidel Castro" at 10 a.m. in Wright Hall. A film on Cubo will be shown after the lecture.

HILLEL
Fri. services will be on May 2 at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Sat. services will be at 9:45 a.m. S.U.

ROCK BANDS, ETC.
If you want to play before a captive audience of 5000 plus call Bob, 304 Butterfield.

SPRING DAY
Look to the skies, listen for the bells, when comes the signal, run like.. fast.

PINNINGS
Gail Armstrong, Tri Sig, to Pat McCarthy, Delta Chi.

Joanne Leary, '69, Patterson, to Dan Sullivan, '68, UConn.

ENGAGEMENT
Mary Jane Doyle, '69, Iota Gamma Upsilon, to Stanley Kostka, '69, Sunderland.

LOST AND FOUND
Found - Pickett Sliderule and leather case. Call Bill, 6-8792.

Lost - Woman's prescription sunglasses, oval tortoise shell, in S.W. area. Call Joyce Carlson, 5-2516, 5-2517, 253-9163, 253-9173. Reword.

Lost - Woman's gold Longine wristwatch with "EP-63" engraved on the back. Call Elaine, 6-6839 after 10 p.m. Reword.

Lost - Norwich U. pin. Call Kathy, 112 Von Meter.

Lost - Check book and credit card. Return to S.U. lost and found or call J. Honnulo.

Lost - Ford car keys between Boyden and Whitmore. Return to Wally Novack in the Boyden Ticket Office.

Lost - Men's prescriptionsunglosses, brown. Call Mike, 6-7566.

Lost - Black wallet. Call James Wade, 2011 Washington, 6-9213. Reword.

Lost - '68 gold class ring with initials JPN. Call 6-6086.

First International Orientation Set for Fall Semester

By LOUIS DIMONACO
Staff Reporter

The Office of International Programs and the Foreign Student Office have scheduled the first Orientation Program for international students at Umass in the Fall of 1969. While the program will deal with the practical aspects of advising and registration, the most important factor in the adjustment of foreign students is early contact with American students.

Those foreign students for whom English is not their native language are required to take the English examination slated for the first day of the program, September 2. The schedule for the following day contains a welcome by President Lederle, a film on the University, pre-registration, and acquaintances with American students. The afternoon will be spent on a tour of the Infirmary, Goodell Library and Whitmore Hall.

The final day of the orientation program will offer an informal Tea, hosted by the International Club and other national groups on campus at 4:00 p.m., and a Social hosted by the Town Committee of Amherst at 6:00 p.m.

Those America n students who are willing to participate in the program, by helping the foreign students set up appointments with their advisors, finding the appropriate office at the correct time, and offering any practical information that the student might require, should contact Mrs. C. Van Peski, Foreign Student Office, Whitmore Hall, 543-2710.

"Ephlats" DON'T FORGET! "Logarithms"

THE ANNUAL INTERCOLLEGIATE SING COMPETITION

MAY 4th S.U. BALLROOM

2:00 P.M.

"Musigak" IT'S FREE! "Statesmen"

Sponsored by S.U. Music Committee

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Thunderbird convertible, full power, good condition, radio, heater, white-walls, stereo tape recorder. Call 0258, 545-0174 or 549-0849. Ask for Dave Reardon. 5-7

Hearse — 1955 Cadillac, running condition, with 1966 rebuilt motor, elec. windshield wipers, good tires, great for camping or carting around band instruments. Phone Greenfield 773-8257 after 6 p.m. 5-2

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $775. Call 253-3067 after 7 p.m. 5-7

Great Buy — 1965 VW, metal sliding sunroof, radio, no rust, snowy owners, extremely low mileage and excellent condition. Best offer over $900. Call 549-1197 or 545-8525. 5-2

'64 F85 Olds Deluxe — well cared for, excellent condition, V8, 4-door, automatic, power steering and brakes, light blue. Must sell, make offer. Call after 6 p.m. 584-8317. 5-2

1968 VW — $1650, factory warranty. Willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-6661 evenings; 545-0499 days. 5-3

1965 Ford Wagon, City Squire, 16 Pass., all power, one owner, carefully driven by little old school teacher, $1195. 549-3508 after school. 5-7

'66 Mustang, V-8 conv., must sell. Best offer, Good cond. 583-8614. 5-6

1963 Comet convertible rebuilt engine and trans., excel. condition, 6 cyl., auto., radio, etc. 549-0430. 5-5

Seeking security? 1964 Chevy Belair, 4 door, automatic transmission, new battery, snow tires, best offer. 549-0644. 5-7

1962 VW, new sunroof and tires, excel. mech. cond., clean inside and out, $595. Call 665-1081. 5-7

1964 VW, cheap. My future employer will pay diff between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June. 549-1369. 5-5

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjan Cymbals, Traps Case and Nauzaihie Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $750, asking $350. 546-7017. 5-12

POR SALE

Honda 50, excellent condition. Barely used, $120. (1963). Call 253-7745. 5-6

12 string guitar and case, excellent condition. Call 586-2144 after 6. 5-5

Pentax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F1.4 lens. Lens shade, 2X lens extender, rotating polarising filter, red green filter, cable release and accessory shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-8

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 base, all modern features, used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350, will sacrifice for $160, case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-7

Bass Guitar in excellent condition, to sell inexpensively. Asking about $75 or best offer. Call Gary 6-9686. 5-7

Refrigerator for sale, very large freezer. Call 546-7763. 5-7

Accordian for boy or girl, medium-sized, 120 base, all modern features. Used only 6 months, excellent condition. Original cost $350; will sacrifice for $160, case included. Call Barbara 549-1917. 5-7

Washing Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition, 5 year guarantee. Original cost $220.00. Price $150. Call 665-7718 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

FOR RENT

6 Room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1. 2 minute walk to Campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-9031. 5-5

One bedroom apt., furnished, utilities included. Available June 1st. Call 256-6189. 5-5

37 Phillips St., 6 rm. apt., for 3-4 people, $250/month; furn., utilities included, June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-8307. 5-2

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus, Summer company available also. Call evenings 584-0416. Be persistent. 5-5

Sublet for Summer — Furnished, TV, air conditioned, wall to wall carpeting, ½ miles from Campus, complete with pots, pans and dishes, large back yard, loads of parking, only $130/mo. Call Howie or Al at 549-3850. 5-2

Available June 1 — sublease 2 bedroom apartment, furnishings by arrangement, 1 mile from Campus, all utilities included. Phone 253-5719 5-7 p.m. 5-2

To sublet 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus, starting June 1. Call 546-3108. 5-2

2 Bedrooms, Presidential Apts., air conditioning, dishwasher, disposal, utilities paid, washers and dryers, basement storage, walk to Campus, $165/mo. Sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, or extend lease through 1969-70 school year. Bruce Jorgensen 549-1188. 5-2

Apartment June 1, 2 bedroom furnished apartment in Colonial Village, $140/month, including utilities. Sublet to Sept. 1 or sign year lease. Call after 5 253-9352. 5-2

Desperate — summer sub-let, Colonial Village, 2 bedroom furnished for 3 people, all utilities, $140/month. Call 253-2910 anytime. 5-5

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $170 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-6257. 5-5

Two furnished rooms for rent 3 miles from U.M., one $45 and one $45 a month for summer semester. Kitchen privileges if desired. Call 549-3761. 5-5

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5706. 5-5

Sublet — 6 rm. apartment, fully furn. for up to 4 people, nice blvd., nice shbd., carpets, 15 min. from Campus, avail. June 1 - Sept. 1. 586-2296. 5-2

Summer Sublet — 8 room house, 5 bedrooms, furnished, in Hadley. Rent arranged. Call 546-9188 or 546-9192 after 6. 5-6

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 549-0474. 5-8

Available June 1st — 3½ room apt., rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 5-7

To rent for summer or longer if desired — 3½ room apt., all utilities included, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus, $118/month, Apt. 3, Mill Hollow Apts., No. Amherst. See after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Apartment to sublet — available June 1 to August 31, 3½ rooms, utilities included. Call after 5 p.m. 665-3057. 5-8

MISCELLANEOUS

T. O. W. 5-2

HELP WANTED

1 qualified water safety instructor for summer camp in Maryland. Call Bill 546-7545. 5-6

EXPERIENCED Bartender Wanted — hours approx. 6-8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. Call 549-0794 — between 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. 5-2

Mother's helper wanted for summer, beginning June 1, live-in preferable, full time or part-time, if need to take summer course. Call 253-9625. 5-2

TO TRADE

To Trade — Modern 3 bedroom ranch house, 4 minutes from Campus for larger house starting Sept. 1. Other arrangements can be discussed. Call 586-1168. 5-2

POSITION WANTED

Teacher, elementary, with guidance certificate, looking for summer employment. Call 581-5921. 5-2

SERVICES

Free lance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call me for lube, oil change, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9146 or 584-0118. 5-5

All types of photographs: portraitmre, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Wanted: Research papers or term papers on "teaching readina" especially in area of secondary school, adult or speed reading. Call Springfield 5-8 p.m 782-8169. 5-2

PERSONAL

Wanted — couple with summer apartment in Amherst needing fake address for female. Call 549-1164. 5-2

John Q. Adams in 619 — hurry up and find me. — Raquel 5-5

WANTED

Travelinz companions to Seattle, Washington. Late August or early September. Call H. Young at 549-9415 or 549-1571. 5-5

Riders wanted for leisurely trip to California, leaving around June 6. Share expenses and driving. Call Mark at 310 North Pleasant, phone 5-6174 or 256-5863. 5-5

Experienced typist to type one short paper (6 pg.) by May 5th or 6th. Call 586-5639 after 6 p.m. 5-2

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment. June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Notting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-7

One female roommate wanted for summer school to share my modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment. Lovely back yard. All utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6616. 5-5

Would you like to live off Campus next year? I have a beautiful, modern, completely furnished two-bedroom apartment, and am looking for two nice, quiet female roommates. All utilities included. Close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6616. 5-5

2 Roommates to share an apartment in Amherst Center June 1 - Aug. 30 — $87.50/month. Call 546-6617 between 10:30 and 11:00 pm. 5-5

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share Puffton Apt., $41 per month, all utilities with air cond. and pool. June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 549-8981 or 546-9897. 5-6

Female roommate wanted — to share my apt., summer and/or next year, partly furn, own room, $68 mo. incl. utilities. If interested in only half summer, call anyway. 546-8386. 5-2

Roommates wanted to share 3 bedroom house for summer. Own bedroom. Furnished, 15 minute drive from Campus. $70 per month Call 253-7086 evenings. 5-5

Soc. 256 NOTES

Soc. 256 Notes for all lectures will be on sale Friday, May 2 and Monday, May 5 from 1 - 4 p.m. in room 126, Dickinson Hall. — Bert Cureton. FRIT 5-5

WANTED TO RENT

3 or 4 bedroom furnished house or apartment. Available preferably Sept. 1. Call 546-5067, ask for Gary. 5-7

3 bedroom house in late August for faculty member. Write 2266-1 Patterson Drive, Eugene, Oregon, 9-7465. 4-18-25 5-2-9

WANTED TO BUY

Man's Bicycle wanted. I will pay up to $30. Phone 5-7750 Mon. - Fri. Ask for Stephen Skillitzi or else leave a 'phone-back' number. 5-7

Campus Comment

Housing Problem at the University

To the editor:

This letter is primarily addressed to students who have considered attending the University of Massachusetts. A critical housing shortage exists which is not fully apparent from the information now provided by the university to prospective applicants.

At present, detailed information on university and privately owned apartments is not sent out automatically. This practice is soon to be changed, but present applicants must specifically request the information. DO SO.

The university is presently capable of housing 9,000 students out of a total enrollment of 15,000. For the remaining 6,000 students who must seek off-campus housing there are only 104 university owned apartments available, and these are available only to married students and new faculty or professional staff. There are, however, over 1,000 married students and the new faculty or professional staff have first priority. The waiting period for a graduate student with two children is a full year at the very least. A student may apply for a unit as soon as he is accepted, though this fact does not now appear in published literature.

It has been university policy not to build any more housing for married students or for new faculty and professional staff, if the private sector will provide. The private sector has provided it but not in the amounts needed and not generally at rents which students can afford. Consequently, the university may possibly change its policy, but even it it does the results are not apt to be evident for at least two or three years. It is doubtful that even short range solutions will have much impact in the year immediately ahead.

Privately owned housing is so scarce, relative to demand, that vacancies are often unadvertised . Advertised vacancies tend to be taken within a day or two if they are of reasonable quality and located in town. Garden apartments are the most readily available to newcome rs but these units are also scarce, and are high priced as well. Garden apartments in Amherst average $140 for 1 bedroom and $170 for 2 bedrooms. Eighty-three per cent of the 1 bedroom units are $130 or more.

Ninety-four per cent of the 2 bedroom units are $150 or more. Garden apartments in neiboring towns average $130 for 1 bedroom and $155 for two bedrooms. These figures are the most recent available. Trailer courts are not permitted in Amherst and only two or three exist within reasonable commuting distance. Since public transportation is at best rudimentary, if you cannot get an apartment close to the university, you should expect to supply your own transportation.

Salaries for working wives are low. Few professional positions are available and most of these are in nursing or public school teaching. With regard to non-professional positions, the university is the principal source of employment and promotes from within. Newcomers usually start at or near the bottom.

The University Housing Office tells you that it will do what it can to help you, but until the university builds more apartments or the private sector shifts to lower rent construction, there is relatively little the housing office can do.

Thomas G. Minogue, President
Graduate Student Senate

Why?

To the editor:

We come here, or so I am told, to learn knowledge regardless of what form. We arise each morning to hurry to class for there we are taught many a fact. We learn the wonders of geology and zoology all quite interesting and useful to know. But we also learn of many other things besides, how to play badminton and throw a softball. Last but not least comes the most challenging of all.

We are taught how to speak French, German, Spanish, Greek, Russian, English, Dutch, Portuguese, we have a wide range.

For very unusual reasons I "choose" to take Latin, which I'm sure will be of great use, perhaps at some later date. Each night I return to my room to master a new tense. As a result my other courses are pushed to the side, but do not worry, they last only one semester. I still have two joyous years of language to go.

Paul Flagg

Damage to Co.

To the editor:

Over the weekend considerable damage was inflicted on O'Connell & Sons contractors. Undoubtedly this was done because students (with good cause) felt frustrated and bitter with the administration's blitzkrieg tactics. To an extent I agree with them.

On Monday the COLLEGIAN had an editorial saying that Massachusetts must contribute more to higher education. I agree here too. We must prepare our institutions physically for the vast numbers of future Umies (I'm glad they did in the 50s - 60s for me, even though I'm sure it caused great pain to the students at that time.)

I believe that progress is necessary. Even if you don't agree with this, you must admit that the former tactics were extremely wasteful and harmful to innocnet intermediaries i.e. O'Connell & Sons. This is why I ask the Student Senate or the DAILY COLLEGIAN or someone to set up a fund to reimburse O'Connell & Sons for damages caused by the fire. I'll start it off with a buck. Are there 4999 people who agree with me?

Tom Hogan 1970

Growth

To the editor:

It is gratifying to see people concerned about preserving what little remaining natural spaces there are on campus. Although University actions were the target of the recent protests, the University is not to blame for its program of physical expansion. It is merely attempting to provide educational opportunities for as many people as are qualified.

The real cause of such expansion is people themselves. People cannot continue to reproduce at the rate they have been and are reproducing, particularly if a high standard of living is to be maintained for all. Turning the University into a conglomeration of roads, parking-lots and buildings is only one small manifestation of the attempts of an already overpopulated country to provide each individual with his inalienable rights.

Let's not let this problem get so bad that these rights will of necessity be taken away. It is better to provide a quality life for a smaller number of people then to provide (?) a frustrating and unhappy existence for many.

Commensurate with the desire to fight the symptoms of the disease must be the desire to fight the disease itself. Let's support the local, state, national and international Planned Parenthood organizations. Last, but not least, let's support the protests which can help to make people aware of the symptoms and ultimately, of the cause of the symptoms.

John Youngblood
Psychology

MLK Council

To the editor:

Umies arise! Do you want a marching band next year? Would you like an orchestra? How about a basketball team? Will the lesser sports like tennis and lacrosse still find a home at the University? How about the University Chorale to represent the University in this and other states? Redmen or Precisionettes? The good ole' "representative" body of Student Senators is probably going to can all these in order to give Martin Luther King Council 23,000.00 (yes, twenty-three thousand) no questions asked.

I, for one, believe that this is not what the majority wants. I, for one, think the leftist socialist sentiment that somehow got control of the Senate has gone too far. Corner the nearest Senator today, for the Budget Committee meets Saturday, May 3rd. Remember, no marching band if we keep financing Eric Anderson concerts out of the fine arts council!!

William F. Harrington '71

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wendray '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Sharon Samuels
COPY EDITORS — Susan Spatrick, Holly Fell, Anne Hillerman
SPORTS — Jon Curley
EDITORIAL — Nancy Bourgoin
PHOTO TECHNICIANS — Steve Schmidt, Kenneth D. Emery

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Kinds of Dissent

For a long time we have fondly preserved the fiction that the drama of social change is a conflict between dissenters and the top layers of the Establishment. But as the critics fling themselves in Kamikaze-like assaults on sluggish institutions, they eventually come into head-on collision with the people who are most deeply implicated in the sluggishness, namely, the great majority. The stone wall against which many radical reforms shatter is the indifference (or downright hostility) of that majority.

The collision between dissenters and lower middle class opponents is exceedingly dangerous. As long as the dissenters are confronting the top layers of the power structure, they are dealing with people who are reasonably secure, often willing to compromise, able to yield ground without anxiety. But when the dissenters collide with the lower middle class, they confront an insecure opponent, quick to anger and not prepared to yield an inch.

It is at this point that young rebels find great appeal in Herbert Marcuse's ideas. When they think they are attacking the fat cats at the top of the social structure, democratic doctrine seems a serviceable banner to wrap themselves in. But democratic doctrine suddenly becomes a considerable embarrassment when they discover that "the people" they seek to liberate are in fact bitterly opposed to them.

Marcuse deals with that difficulty by saying that democracy and tolerance are themselves barriers to the overthrow of an evil society. He favors a more "directed" society. In doing so, he makes the assumption made by all who fall into authoritarian doctrines -- that, in the "directed" society he envisages, people who share his values will be calling the tune. So thought the businessmen who supported Hitler.

The debasement of the critical role makes responsible action for social change increasingly difficult. The irresponsible critic never exposes himself to the tough tests of reality. He doesn't limit himself to feasible options. He doesn't subject his view of the world to the cleansing discipline of historical perspective or contemporary relevance. He defines the problem to suit himself. It's a hard game to lose. If he takes care to stay outside the arena of action and decision, his judgment and integrity will never be tested, never risked, never laid on the line. He can feel a limitless moral superiority to the mere mortals who put their reputation at hazard every day in accountable action.

The consequences of such reckless radicalism are predictable. Out of such self-indulgence come few victories. The model of the ineffectual radical is the man or woman who spends a few brief years exploding in indignation, posturing, attitudinizing, oversimplifying, shooting at the wrong targets, unwilling to address himself to the exacting business of understanding the machinery of society, unwilling to undergo the arduous training necessary to master the processes he hopes to change.

Those who are engaged in the grueling work of accomplishing institutional change are in desperate need of allies. Responsible social critics can be of enormous help in identifying targets for action, in clarifying and focusing issues, in formulating significant goals and mobilizing support for those goals. The responsible critic comes to understand the complex machinery by which change must be accomplished, finds the key points of leverage, identifies feasible alternatives, and measures his work by real results. We have many such critics, and we owe them a great debt.

John W. Gardner

REPRINTED FROM SCIENCE

Symphony Band, Spring Concert Presents Good Soldier Schweik

The University of Massachusetts Symphony Band presents its Spring Concert Sunday, May 4, 1969, at 4:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Under its Conductor, John A. Jenkins, and its Assistant conductor, Larry Weed, the Symphony Band will present a rather unusual program. Among the selections is THE GOOD SOLDIER SCHWEIK SUITE. THE GOOD SOLDIER SCHWEIK, the brilliantly realistic anti-war satire by the Czech movelist and journalist Jaroslav Hasek. Written shortly after the First World War, it is essentially the story of the civilian, the common man, forced to become a soldier who must fight for a cause for which he has no sympathy. He is classified by his German masters ("the authorities") as "feebleminded", that is, someone who doesn't quite appreciate their reasons for waging war. Schweik is, in reality, crazy like a fox, exposing the arrogance, stupidity and hypocrisy of these "authorities" by his seemingly idiotic behavior. In spite of the indignities to which Schweik is subjected, his optimism manages to emerge indestructible and triumphant. He is, therefore, not only a single individual, but also the symbol of the common people and their resistance to a war from which they can derive no benefit, but only suffering.

Each of the six short pieces which comprise the Suite represents a general idea or theme which reoccurs throughout the book, rather than specific episodes. Thus, the OVERTURE is a character sketch of Schweik, the good-natured common man, the genial collector of homeless dogs. The LAMENT represents the element of sadness and seriousness which underlies many of the episodes, such as the outbreak of war. The MARCH, of course, represents the soldier's chief means of getting from place to place -- Schweik does quite a bit of it. The WAR DANCE represents the "authorities", both civilian and military and their fanatical pounding of the war drum. The FINALE is Schweik's optimism, triumphant and indestructible in the end.

The Symphony Band program has been designed so that it might offer appeal to more University students and might interest more people. Hopefully, it will prove successful.

Lehrer, Famous Oboist Plays Mozart Concerto

Charles Lehrer

The University of Massachusetts/Mt. Holyoke College Symphony Orchestra will be featured in concert this Tuesday evening, May 6th in Bowker Auditorium on the University's Amherst campus at 8:15 p.m.

The concert will be under the direction of Ronald Steele and will feature as soloist, Seymour Rudin, as narrator in a performance of Aaron Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait" and Charles Lehrer, oboist, in a performance of the Mozart Concerto for Oboe and Orchestra, K. 314. Both Mr. Rudin and Mr. Lehrer are faculty members at the University of Massachusetts. Concluding the program, Mr. Steele and orchestra will perform Symphony No. 8.

Old Hamlet Has New Look

By SUSAN SCHMEHL
Fine Arts Staff

Last weekend a collage version of Shakespeare's play "Hamlet", never before produced professionally in the United States, was presented in Barlett by the UMass Theatre. Marowitz uses this collage technique to deliberately create discontinuity. He takes the language, structure, and narrative of the play and "discovers to what extent he can juggle those elements and still maintain contact with the essentials of "Hamlet". This is the new "Hamlet".

The set, a collage of blue and purple shades, gave the unusual effect of glass boxes or stained glass. This greatly dramatized the movements of the players. Also, in conjunction with the setting, the strobe lighting intensified the drama at times of total blackness. Characters changed scenes with the change of lights.

Also, the costumes followed the same harmonious semmetry. With the exception of Hamlet, the faces were stark white with penciled features. This sharp contrast with the soft lights gave the appearance of death masks. The action, although not in the traditional arrangement, gave the entire production an exciting and fresh originality.

Concert Association Closes 24th Season

The Concert Association closes its 24th season tonight with a concert in Bowker Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. by the New York Brass Quintet.

This ensemble is world famous as one of the few traveling brass groups before the public today. Its members are Robert Nagel, trumpet; Allan Dean, trumpet; Paul Ingraham, French horn, John Swallow, trombone, and Thompson Hanks, tuba.

For their program tonight, the Quintet has selected works by Gabrieli, Pezel, Holborne, Bach, Maurer, Persichetti and Pouleno.

Tickets for this event are available without charge to UMass undergrads. Reserved tickets for the general public are priced at $1.50 and may be obtained at the Student Union Ticket office until 4:30 p.m. today and from 7:00 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium Box Office.

Photography!
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

ENTERTAINMENT

"The Dream Engine" Merits Low Rating for Obscenity

By SUSAN SCHMEHL
Fine Arts Staff

"The Dream Engine", a new rock musical by Jim Steinman (A.C.), was first presented last weekend and will continue its run through this weekend at MHC. This product of a joint independent study of Steinman is, at most, a curiosity piece of garbage. The music, at first promising, all begins to sound the same. Nothing is fresh, nothing but words used for their sound, chanted to the drone of the rock group. And the fantastic plot, where is it? A conflict arises between the Tribe, under the leadership of their god Baal, versus the City, portrayed in tight little stereotypes. These people are dissatisfied, that is obvious. From the appearance of things, they want freedom and happiness brought to all with blatant nudity and a super f--- for everyone.

The first act drags on and on, swimming in general scenes of mass copulation and the ego-centric boasts of Baal's virility.

Act two, the audience sits wishing someone knew how to cut and edit. Things begin to liven up and maybe two or three good lines have been heard. A moment passes and you like to hope things will improve.

The language gets more obscene, the Tribe gradually begins to "Progress" and soon you realize that the little bikini suits are gone, and "wow, wow, super flick!"

Toward the close, the audience, was to become involved. His Tribe plunged into the audience and screamed their protest standing on the backs of our seats. Involved? No. Intimidated? Yes. It is frightening to think that these "actors" must have believed in some aspect of what they were trying to do. However, such a base abuse of the new trends in theatre can only repulse, and expose the machinations of the author's mind.

BRAZIL
SUMMER STUDY IN RIO
-EIGHT WEEKS JULY-AUGUST 1969
-UNIVERSITY COURSES: Brazilian History, Govt, Literature, Anthrop, Econ. Devel, Portuguese, etc
-FACULTY: Harvard, Columbia, M.I.T., N.Y.U.
-EXCURSIONS: Bahia, Brasília, São Paulo, etc.
-WORKSHOPS: Cinema, Architecture, Music, Art
ENROLLMENT FEE includes: Air Passage, lodgings, Tuition. Excursions, Workshops - $1220
WRITE INTERAMERICAN SUMMER STUDY ASSOC.
310 Madison Ave - New York 10017
APPLICATION CLOSING DATE: MAY 15, 1969

Phi Sigma Delta's 3rd Annual
MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY DRIVE
presents
SPRING CARNIVAL
GAMES OF SKILL AND CHANCE
Saturday May 3rd By the Pond

FRIDAY AFTERNOON
4 - 6:30
JERRY MOORE
FRIDAY NIGHT
9:30 - 12:30
CRAIG FULLER
SATURDAY NIGHT
9 - 12:30
JERRY MOORE
at
CHEQUERS

Winning Salaries and Saving Staffers

(Editor's note - the following story is reprinted from the COLLEGIATE JOURNALIST)

Student editors of the University of Rhode Island BEACON may have written the textbook case, classic-in its simplicity, on how to win compensation for student editors. They did it by offering their resignations, en masse, in about an emphatic and public a manner as possible: a two-on-five editorial that occupied all of Page One under a 72-point streamer.

No nameplate. No folio. No masthead. Not even an inside editorial page.

That was last Nov. 20. By Nov. 25, the editors of the BEACON had happily joined the widening circle of paid campus newspaper editors.

But that was, in effect, a bonus because what the editors really wanted when they "struck" was not "bread" for themselves but for their successors. Their problem was the same one that has afflicted so many college publications - interest in working for the campus weekly or the yearbook on a voluntary, hey-look-Ma-I'm-an-editor basis has fallen so low that there is often only a handful of applicants for editorial jobs and their qualifications are in large part, invisible to the naked eye.

There was, therefore, good reason to believe, when the "STAFF RESIGNS" issue appeared, that after 60 years of publication URI's BEACON was about to join other lights that have failed. As a matter of fact, URI's version of the collegiate blunderground press made one of its sporadic appearances, crowing happily, if tritely, that the BEACON had "bit the dust" and the issue of Nov. 20 was its "last."

Bright-eyed but bob-tailed, the BEACON reappeared on Dec. 4 as a one-page "victory" issue. Almost the entire page was devoted to a recounting of the compensation blitzkrieg, a story about the staff openings (and pay!) and an application form.

The events that made it possible for the BEACON editors to be paid, however inadequately, for their time and for the talent and tough hides they bring to the responsible job of keeping a university community informed, followed the resignation edition in rapid order. URI's new president, Dr. Werner A. Baum, had been forewarned that lack of interest was creating problems and that payment of editors might alleviate a worsening situation. He had already set up a conference of administration and student leaders, with the BEACON'S directors. At the conference, two days after the resignations, Dr. Baum reversed the long-standing policy of his predecessors against payment of student editors in principle. Find the money, he said in effect, and he would approve payments. His only condition was that it must not be university money; to use such funds would label the paper an administration organ and he would have no part of that. It would have to be student tax funds or ad revenue.

Three nights later, the Student Senate voted 32-4 to authorize compensation for the newspaper's top seven editors and business-side managers. In fact, the Senators went one big step further. They approved payment to the "resigned" staff for the two remaining scheduled issues of the semester.

In less than one week, URI's top administrators and its student leadership had learned and/or accepted a swift lesson, in the rule of the newspaper in society. So well had the students learned the lesson, in fact, that they made the additional peace offering of payment for the final two issues.

In the spirit of compromise, the editors (whose resignations had, in fact, been tabled by the BEACON board of directors!) agreed to put their green eyeshades back on for a couple of weeks.

The action taken by the Student Senate permits the paper to segregate its advertising revenue and to distribute a limited part of that amount for payment to the editor-in-chief, managing editor, news editor, sports editor, chief photographer, business manager and advertising manager. Other staff members can be paid by vote of the directors and probably will be.

Oddly enough, the BEACON has had in its constitution for more than two years provisions for payment on a "when and if" basis - "when and it" funds became available and "when and if" permission were granted.

The two "ifs' are now reality.

The payment provisions are probably unique in college publication annals. Because there was neither money nor authorization when the terms were being written, it was pointless to spell out specific payments for the various posts. So the terms are that whatever money becomes available for payment will be divided into 3-1/2 shares, with a full share not to exceed $1,000. Then the available money is to be divided on the basis of full or part shares, according to staff position.

Student editors expect that a hustling advertising manager will make and exceed the $3,500 revenue needed for each paid staffer to get his maximum pay - and that there will be money left over to pay the rest of the faithful in proportionate amounts.

Not unexpectedly, the victory of the BEACON'S editors produced a considerably larger number of staff applications, though by no means an overwhelming number. It was sufficient, however, to prove the main point, that publication staffs, when they go unpaid, can suffer from the competition of students' economic needs. The bright talent who might be the ideal managing editor often has to forego the newspaper job for a checker's job in the nearest supermarket where they pay off in cash, not in prestige.

Senior Day Set for May 30, First On Campus Happy Hour

A happy hour, chicken barbeque, and continuous entertainment, all in a party tent, highlight Senior Day, May 30, in the North Quad. The Class of '70 social finale will be the first such event to be held on campus, and will cost seniors one dollar and guests $3.

Class of '70 beer mugs will be given to all seniors making reservations for the event the first ever to offer free beer on campus. Tickets are on sale in the Student Union ticket office, In the event of rain, the event will be held in the North Dining Commons.

Student housing will be provided on campus, with the details to be released soon by the Housing Office.

UMass Women Seen with Better Grades Than Men

Women in general and senior women in particular get the highest grades at UMass according to Dean of Women Helen Curtis.

Fall semester averages of the 1228 senior women reached a record high of 2.85 compared with 2.5 average of all women enrolled at the University.

In fact, University women have consistently achieved higher scholastic honors than their male classmates. All A or 4.0 records were made by 110 women last semester, and 20 per cent of the women students were on the Dean's List.

Junior women rank second in overall averages, with sophomore and freshman women running a close third and fourth. An average of 2.5 was made by 1424 junior coeds, while averages of 2.4 and 2.3 were claimed by 1373 sophomore women and 1391 freshman women respectively.

Senior men have achieved an average of 2.5 balanced against the 2.2 average of all men enrolled at UMass. Junior men made 2.3 averages, with sophomore men attaining a 2.1 and freshmen a 2.0. Taken all together the all-University average comes out to a 2.3.

Southern Blacks To Study Here

Fifteen students from predominantly black Southern colleges will spend their junior year next Fall studying government at the University of Massachusetts under a plan adopted yesterday by the trustees.

A spokesman said out-of-state tuition will be waived and the students will pay UMass whatever fees they normally would pay their own schools.

A New Concept of Gracious Living

NOW RENTING
for Summer and Fall Occupancy
One and Two Bedroom Apartments
located on Route 116 in Sunderland
4 mi. No. Univ. Mass.

Total Electric Heat by Western Mass. Electric Co.

Rental Agents will be on the Premises
Sat. 12 - 5 p.m. Sun. 1 - 6 p.m.
During rental hours call 665-3050
or call collect 203-289-2204 any time

CONCERT ASSOCIATION presents . .
NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET
FRIDAY, MAY 2 8 p.m.
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
Tickets Free to UMass Undergrads
$1.50 others
Student Union
Ticket Office

☆ Only ☆ certain Americans can buy new Freedom Shares
☆ ASK WHERE YOU WORK OR BANK ☆

General Court Selections
Sunday May 4th, Student Union
(Room will be posted on Board in S.U. Lobby)
POSITIONS OPEN FOR MEN AND WOMEN from the Classes of 1970, 1971, 1972
Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Committee

UMass Coed Appears in Movie

Marjie Short plans on a career in modeling following her graduation from UMass. (Photo by Keith Bromery).

The phone rang unexpectedly and for once I hadn't second guessed who would be calling. I was completely surprised to hear the happy voice of Professor Young from the theatre department. "How would you like to be on television?" he asked enigmatically. Since this wasn't exactly the usual opening line for a telephone conversation, my interest was aroused and I answered "Sure! What's going on?" Universal City Studios, which was filming that television spectacular in town needed a girl for a flashback sequence. So he said, "I sent them your name! And there are lines." I was to go over to Amherst College either that afternoon or that night, and ask for a Mr. Cohen in the basement of Pond House.

I had visions of balding cigar chomping Hollywood producers sitting around a large empty auditorium checking out girls as each read her lines. The mysterious Mr. Cohen would probably be the head cigar chomper. However, Mr. Cohen turned out to be a bearded student who was head of the Amherst College Film Unit. Two coeds, anxiously waiting to be interviewed, were the only people in the small basement office which was strung with movie reels and spare clippings. After a few more girls strayed into the office, Rob Cohen came bustling in and gave the group a run down on some general facts. The picture was called "Silent Night, Lonely Night", directed by Dan Petrie and starring Lloyd Bridges and Shirley Jones. It would be released at Christmas this year as an NBC color World Premiere Television movie. The character that we were all auditioning for was "young Ginny", a seventeen year old "small town whore", " a typical Amherst high teeny bop turned hippie for the summer" type, as Rob succinctly put it. She was a real swinger who "dated" a lot of the guys at the local prep school. The girl who was cast in the role would be playing a younger version of Cloriss Leachman, who was Genny. Because of this, she would have to have relatively the same build, hair and eye color. The "young John" in the flashback sequence was Lloyd's son Jeff, playing Lloyd as the awkward prep school boy.

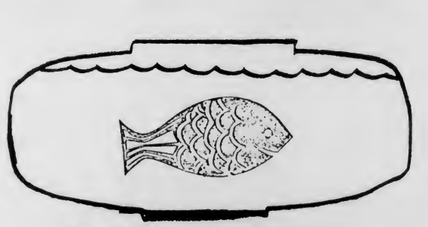
Then came an unexpected "By the way!" There would be a towel scene for the film. We all looked at each other a bit nonplussed at this point, collectively cleared our throats, and recrossed our legs. If any of us felt that we couldn't do the scene, we were free then to leave. Not unexpectedly, only one girl left. Rationalizing that I probably wouldn't get cast anyway because of the competition from Smith and Mt. Holyoke, I decided "what the heck" I would stay in the running. Then I began to wonder if I could reconcile this choice with my parents ideas and also with my own previous outspoken opinions about aesthetic justification for otherwise questionable situations. But never had I ever thought that some day I would ever be in such a situation. It was still an abstract idea that applied to someone else.

After we had been briefed on the movie, Rob took each girl individually to talk with the director. That day Rob had shuttled about thirty girls to the interview. Expecting to be driven to a ski slope to audition the toboggan scene, I was surprised to find the car heading out to Howard Johnson Motor Inn. Rob conducted me to a motel room on the second floor. There, a puckish looking man of about fifty-five with curly whispy blondish hair and mischieviously twinkling blue eyes peeked around the door as it opened. Seeing who was there, he ushered us inside with an offhand joke. This was the illustrious director that I had heard so much about? By this time he had put me completely at ease. We chatted for a while and then we read through the scene. Several days later, I learned that I was one of three girls from whom the director would cast the role. The following Monday I received a phone call to report to the Lord Jeff for filming the toboggan scene. It had been snowing furiously all day; the weather cooperating beautifully with the shooting schedule. However, after I had rushed over, had selected my outfit, had some makeup put on me, and had signed the contract, filming was cancelled for the day. Despite this disappointment, I was still paid--$112 for that "working day"!

No Second Class Citizens

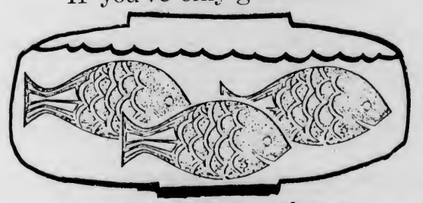
A poll was taken recently to determine the status of girl students employed on the UMass campus. The question was put to Mr. Segrist of the Student Financial Aid Office , and according to his records there are approximately nine hundred students working part-time on the campus over half of which are girls. A majority of the girls are employed in the traditionally girl-oriented positions as clerks, receptionists, telephone operators and librarians. They also appear in other fields such as Engineering, lab assistants in botany, zoology, chemistry, and physics. A large number of girls also act as security guards for the dorms.

When asked what she thought of her job as receptionist in Student Placement, one girl said, "I get to talk to all sorts of people I wouldn't normally ever get to see." Another perky, young coed working on the switchboard in Whitmore said that since they do have more guys liked hearing a feminine voice more than a husky masculine one. "It's not that boys aren't friendlier on the phone but as crazy as it may sound, we sometimes get boys calling up the operator with their problems just so they can hear a female voice."



The students are employed on the Work-Study or department financed programs. Eligibility is based on need.

WOMEN



Women's Page Editor: Helen Kensick

Miss Kathy Koumjian begins her reign as Miss University 1969. (Photo by Ken Stevens).

If you've only got one...

and you want more than one...
Have it XEROXed.
at GNOMON COPY SERVICE
Room 214 Student Union

4¢ for first copy
2¢ for copies of same page
FREE COLLATING
Legal Size & 3-hole Punch at NO EXTRA CHARGE

URI to Provide Competition for Yan Con Net Title

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

For the third straight year, Coach Steve Kosakowski will use only six men in quest of the Yankee Conference tennis crown. The meet will be held at Burlington, Vt., site of last year's UMass triumph.

The Redmen will go into the meet with a perfect 4-0 mark. Kosakowski will make only one line-up change in the run for the title. Rhode Island will present the most serious threat to the Redmen with host Vermont and New Hampshire both rated as having outside chances.

Senior Tom Johnson will be moved from his singles position at three up one slot to the number two flight. Johnson has played superb tennis for the season and merited the promotion off his fine play.

Junior Mike Katz, plagued by illness, will drop down to the number three slot. Kosakowski explained, "Mike has been sick and Tommy playing so well, I had to make the switch."

Soph Allen Goldberg will play at one. Goldberg was impressive in his two matches this past week against Rhode Island and Connecticut. His strong play could well earn him the second seeding.

Captain Carl Clem will play at four and should be top seed. Kosakowski praised his captain by saying, "He has never played better, and he has been a great leader." Clem did not have a great year last season and is very anxious to show that he has come all the way back.

ALLEN GOLDBERG

Scott Sheppard, the defending champion, will play at five. Sheppard is an unknown quantity. Illness has hampered the blond banger, but in a similar situation last year he came through with a double win. Sheppard was bombed at Kingston and sat out the UConn fray, but Kosakowski is hoping for a repeat of last year.

"If this kid doesn't get a case of sophomore jitters, he should win hands down," said Kosakowski, commenting on his number six man, Jon Bloom. Bloom has walked all over his opposition and will be given top seeding.

Kosakowski will keep the same doubles pairings. Clem will be teamed with Katz at one, Goldberg with Sheppard at two, and Bloom and Johnson will be the third pairing.

It could well come down to the doubles to decide the championship. The Johnson-Bloom duo looked unbeatable for the Redmen, while Rhode Island's first doubles also looked to be unbeatable. After last year, when the Redman's third doubles a lead pipe cinch, was beaten, Kosakowski takes nothing for granted.

Each seed will get a first round bye. If the seed wins his semi-final match, he will receive two points. Singles will play up to the finals, Friday, while doubles only play the first round.

The Redmen hope to practice at Middlebury College on the way up to Burlington. Last year the use of Middlebury's indoor courts was most helpful, for it rained the first day, and the matches were played indoors.

"We're the champs, and someone is going to have to beat us. We're not going to give this title away," Kosakowski emphasized, "I'm not going to worry about how many points we need or any nonsense like that. We'll just go out there and play."

Last year, UMass won the meet with 16 points, one more than Rhody. Kosakowski remarked, "This year it could be as close, although I feel we can win it. Rhody is strong everywhere, but Vermont and New Hampshire are strong in the lower flights."

The matches will be played on clay, a surface alien to both UMass and URI. It could well turn into a waiting game on the slower surface and the team with the greatest patience will come out on top.

TOM JOHNSON - Promoted to two flight.

MIKE KATZ - Hampered by illness.

FINEST FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT
CHARGE TICKETS AT SEARS
CINEMA 1&2&3
RT. 5 RIVERDALE RD. W. SPFLD.
733-8181
ACRES FREE PARKING
07 ACADEMY AWARD Nominations Incl. BEST PICTURE
THE LION IN WINTER
EVES. 8:30 MATS. 2:30
WED. SAT. SUN.
GROUP RATES
2 CHILD $1.50 EVES. 8:15 MATS 2:15 WED. SAT. SUN.
THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN
3 FUNNY GIRL
DAILY MATS. APR. 19-27
EXTRA MAT. SUN. 5 P.M.

Deerfield Drive-In
Route 5 and 10, South Deerfield
Tel. 665-8746
SHOWTIME 7:30
Sun. Wrecking Crew 7:30
FRIDAY — SATURDAY — SUNDAY
Dean Martin as Matt Helm swings with The Wrecking Crew
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents AN IRVING ALLEN production
ALSO
TECHNICOLOR
"HAMMERHEAD" HITS LIKE A TRIPHAMMER!
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents IRVING ALLEN'S Production in TECHNICOLOR

See it from the beginning . . .
Daily 7:00 - 9:00
Sat. - Sun.
2:00 4:40 6:50 9:00
AMHERST Cinema
Marlon Brando
Richard Boone
in a JERRY GERSHWIN—ELLIOTT KASTNER Production
The Night Of The Following DAY

IMPCO
A SUBSIDIARY OF INGERSOLL-RAND COMPANY
COST ANALYST
Work involves analysis of cost/price factors in Sales Engineering Department. Ideal candidate might have changed curriculum from Mechanical Engineering to Business Administration at about junior year level.
Outstanding opportunity with one of New Hampshire's largest and fastest growing companies. June 1969 graduate preferred.
For immediate and confidential consideration please write Personnel Manager or telephone him collect at (Area Code 603) 882-2711.
IMPROVED MACHINERY INC.
NASHUA · NEW HAMPSHIRE 03060
An Equal Opportunity Employer

at THE AMHERST TOWER
purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

FREE PEPSI
WITH EVERY PIZZA
Upon Request
Min. of 3 for delivery
Mama's Pizza
103 North Pleasant St.
253-9858

International Club
ELECTION OF OFFICERS
for 1969 - 70
Wednesday, May 7, 1969
6:30 p.m.
Colonial Lounge

Tracksters Seek Third Outdoor Title

By DAVE EVANS
Staff Reporter

Heading up into the snow country of Orono, Maine, the UMass track team is looking for it's third Outdoor Yankee Conference Track title in the last four years. This year's contest, to be held at the University of Maine is expected by all to be a real dogfight between URI, UConn, and UMass. The Redmen, winners of the Indoor title and therefore considered pre-meet favorites, will be more strongly challenged by URI than they were this winter . In spring track, with the addition of several more events, both the Rhode Island and Connecticut teams are stronger than during the indoor campaign.

As for the snow, recent reports that have filtered down from Orono say that there is still a generous amount of the white stuff on the ground. Two weeks ago at the Boston College relays it hailed and sleeted, so our guys should be right at home whatever the weather. The wet, (until recently), spring caused the Redmen to get off to a slow start, but last weekend at the Penn Relays, and Monday at Springfield College, the team showed definite signs of starting to really come on strong. However, since the season is still quite young they can't afford to peak this soon, and will have to try to take the meet in stride. As tough as this will be, UMass has an excellent chance to pull it off.

Possessing the best all around balance of any team in the conference the Redmen have the ability to score in every event in the meet. In addition the team also has very good depth in most events, having in some cases three individuals capable of placing. U-Mass' biggest problem will be URI cutting into the field and sprinting events and UConn taking away points from the distance and weight events. Olympic Decathalon alternate, Jeff Banister of UNH, a one man track team by himself, could be an important figure to watch in the field events. He could be a big help to UMass in breaking up Rhode Island's domination in that area.

The field events team, often underrated on this campus, is quite strong and will have a definite say in the outcome of Saturdays meet. The weight team of Dave Schlatka, co-captain and conference Discus champ, Bill Wilen, also one of the co-captains and the teams leading Hammer thrower, Ed Arcaro and Dave Baker constitute a potentially high scoring group for the Redmen. Backed by a capable contingent of jumpers, Cal Carpenter, John Ariensen and Paul Nyman in the High Jump, Dave Canterbury, Rip Dyer and Nyman in the Long and Triple Jumps, UMass has great depth. Also adding to this good field team is Pole Vaulter Buzz Hiller, recovered from a broken foot bone that side lined during the winter. The javelin throwers, Bill Mahoney, Dana Robertson and Gary Wilson give the team three men that could break into the scoring column.

In the middle distances UMass is well represented. In the 880 yard run senior Diego Gonzalez and junior Bill Donaldson will try to keep UConn's men out of the scoring column. Distance men Paul Hoss, Charlie Lang, Ron Wayne and Leo Duart are running in the mile and two mile, and they will like-wise be up against UConn's very capable group of distance runners.

In an analysis of the meet, the fact simply is, that for UMass to win, they must score well in all areas of the meet. The Redmen must score well against both URI and UConn in their strong events.

Crew Team to Host Three For Home Cup Regatta

The crew club is sponsoring its only home regatta of the season tomorrow with th competition being provided by t iams, URI and Holy Cross. The cup regatta will begin at 2 p.m. with the frosh, followed by the jayvees at 2:30 and the varsity at 3:15. The races will be held in South Hadley at the Sportsman's Marina.

The frosh will essentially be a two boat race between UMass and Holy Cross. Holy Cross has just chalked up an impressive win over WPI by six or seven lengths. U-Mass has bounced back after two tough losses against some very good competition, UMass should be tough to beat and frosh coach Kurt Betchick seems confident his boat can win this last test before the Vail.

The jayvee race is another story. They will be facing a highly touted Holy Cross boat which has won the Worcester City championships. Williams has been beaten by UMass already this year as have the URI jayvees.

Coach Mike Faherty said, "U-Mass has been anything but impressive, but we're still a team to beat." He has made some changes in the jayvee boat, most notably senior Wendell Frost who has been moved from the bow seat on the starboard side to stroke, a position he has never rowed before. But Faherty adds, "I expect things will turn out for the best."

The varsity race will be a two boat race also between UMass and Holy Cross. Rhode Island doesn't figure to be a factor, and Williams was beaten badly by UMass earlier in the year. Although they have improved in the last couple of weeks, it may not be enough.

Holy Cross lost a three-second race to WPI, and they have been working out two times a day. With the experience that boat has, they should provide a good race. UMass beat WPI by three seconds in an earlier season race.

The UMass varsity boat will be the same as last week's. They have looked impressive in intra-squad and extra-squad work this week. Holy Cross' boat is a revenge boat as UMass beat them by two seconds last year, and even though UMass wins, they are tough races.

If the Redmen can win this one, it will be a good tune-up before the Vail and they will also be seeded in the nationals. It will be an 1800 meter race upstream with the finish at the boat house. The race will also be broadcast via loud-speaker from the starting line to the point when the boats come into sight.

Lacrosse

(Continued from Page 12)

26 assists for 48 points. O'Connor is close behind with 19-20-39 and Gary Vassar, who has only started the last three games, already has 34 points on 18 goals and 16 assists.

The lacrosse team will also be playing the Alumni in their third annual game tomorrow night under the lights on the intramural field at 7:30 p.m. Lots of big names from the past will be on hand for the Alumni team.

Frosh Golfers, 3-1, To Play Winchendon

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

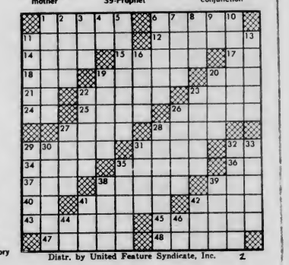
The freshman golf team, currently sporting a 3-1 record, is going east today for a match against Winchendon.

The squad has looked very impressive so far with victories over W.P.I. (6-1), Springfield Polytechnical Community College (5-1/2 - 1-1/2), and Stockbridge (5-2). The only loss came at the hands of Mt. Hermon, when they lost by a 5-2 score.

Several of the squad members have made very good impressions this season. John Kul and Bob McCabe, playing the one and two positions respectively, have performed well. McCabe has fired a 74 and 79 so far, while Kul, who has the potential to play in the first spot, "just hasn't materialized as of yet," according to Coach Vlach.

Other members include Richard Towle, who has been playing in the third and fourth positions, Dan Flanagan, who according to Vlach is "always improving", and John Williams. Then rounding out the squad are Pete Stephan, John Nordberg, William Dyke and Mike Allen. One man who has failed to see action this season is Erik Filsinger, who was struck with mononucleosis and had to sit-out. This is a bad break for Coach Vlach who claims without a doubt that "Filsinger will soon be UMass No. 1 golfer. A Pennsylvania native and scratch player, he is not long off the tee, but has all the shots - a very good golfer."

After today's encounter with Winchendon, the Frosh travel to Dartmouth tomorrow, and meet Holy Cross and Amherst next week.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

CLASH LIANA
PLATES BETTER
EA YANKEES ARE
ANT DIETS WET
RARE PES FINE
SATEEN GLAD DAMS RUIN
PENS DAVAO
SORA EAT SLED
PTS CARTS ERE AT BATTLES ON CEASE BEANY
ERODE LIARS

ACROSS
1-Declare
6-Strikes
11-Punctuation mark
12-Courteous
14-Sandarac tree
15-Commonplace
17-Man's nickname
18-Tear
19-Neckpiece
20-Period of time
21-A continent (abbr.)
22-Blemish
23-Allowance for waste
24-Spanish article
25-Vessels
26-Antlered animal
27-Additional
28-Cronies (colloq.)
29-English county
31-Pest
32-Compass point
34-Saucy
35-Noblemen
36-Printer's measure
37-Exist
38-Journeys forth
39-Nahoor sheep
40-Symbol for calcium
41-Foreign
42-Fuel
43-Click beetle
45-Cylindrical
47-Tropical fruit (pl.)
48-Cubic meter

DOWN
1-Continued story
2-Snare
3-Ventilate
4-Preposition
5-Instruct
6-Reject
7-Molded mass of bread
8-Everyone
9-Greek letter
10-Looks fixedly
11-Analyze, as sentence
13-Puff up
16-Capuchin monkeys
19-Retail establishment
20-God of love
22-Game
23-Fees
26-Servants
27-Mud
28-Father and mother
29-Room
30-Harbinger
31-Additional
32-Lawmaking body
33-Growing out of 35-Dens
38-Escape
39-Prophet
41-Unit of Siamese currency
42-Prefix: before
44-Cooled lava
46-Latin conjunction

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
Rt. 9 AMHERST 256-6411
CINEMA I — 2nd Week!
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
An epic drama of adventure and exploration
2001 a space odyssey
ONE PERF. NIGHTLY AT 8:00
SUN. MATINEE AT 2:00
CINEMA II — NOW PLAYING!
A FILM FROM INGMAR BERGMAN
"SWAMMED SHAME"
Nightly at 7:15 & 9:00

Jerry Moore
will play
SATURDAY NIGHT
9 - 12:30
at
CHEQUERS

2 MAY 2

Streaking Nine Go for Eleventh Straight Win v. Maine

Twelve wins in 13 games and a 10 game win streak have shot the belting UMass baseball team into a commanding spot in the Yankee Conference, not to mention unofficial dominance of New England. But everything can go down the drain today and tomorrow when the Redmen meet a Maine team that has played only once in a month. Gametime is 3 today and 1:30 tomorrow at Varsity Field.

The streak has been nothing short of amazing. The Redmen are averaging a sound nine runs a game, a group of six .300 hitters and have been getting tight pitching of late from John Kitchen and Don Anderson, both of whom will start this weekend. Coach Dick Bergquist, however, is not about to make reservations for the District One playoffs just yet.

The coach attributed his team's winning streak to improved pitching and defense plus the continued hitting attack which they have sustained.

Bergquist rates Tom Semino at second base and soph pitcher Don Anderson as his two best surprises. "Semino has looked very good and has been hitting well," Coach Bergquist said. Anderson has won five games to date. "I'm not really disappointed in anything," he said, "because we've been winning."

He says the team spirit is very good, even the fellas who are not playing and that makes a difference." He does feel that the pressure is building on the team, but the team really feels confident", he added. "We've seen other teams in the north, and we realize we can be the best."

As far as Maine is concerned, Bergquist said he has not had a lot of reports. "Maine is not into their schedule yet, and several games have been rained out," he said.

Going on pre-season prognostications, Bergquist said, Maine is much improved and they have a strong pitching staff. I expect them to be among the better teams that we have played."

In the last two seasons, UMass has split with the Black Bears. Maine has had two undefeated frosh teams the last two seasons, and Bergquist expects the varsity to be reaping the rewards of these players who are now juniors and sophomores. Maine has not had any Yankee Conference play, either, so "it is hard to judge them," said Bergquist.

Maine is 2-7 overall and has played only one game up north. That was an 11-8 loss to Bates College last Wednesday. That was the only action the Black Bears have seen in a month. Their bats were in good shape getting 16 hits, but the pitching was not sharp, having not been outside for the whole spring.

Maine's wins are over Virginia and Princeton. The two games with UMass this weekend therefore, will be their first in the Conference.

Maine Coach Jack Butterfield, who just a few years ago was the toast of collegiate baseball by leading his darkhorse Bears to third place in the College World Series, will be starting two sophormore pitchers against UMass, Jim Chaplin and Darrell Whittemore. Both have fine earned run averages, Chaplin a 2.03 and Whittemore a 2.77.

Third baseman Bill West is the leading Maine hitter with a .297 mark, while, Steve Hopping a first baseman and catcher Bruce Stafford have shown well with the stick.

This will be a young Main team that has not played much. But the Bears, no matter what the sport, usually give the Redmen everything they can handle and the same should be in order this weekend.

John Kitchen is scheduled for mound duties this afternoon, and Anderson will get his start tomorrow. These two men, plus Lou Collabello, Jack Bernardo and Norm Elliot, Bergquist feels have enough strength to finish the season. Collabello, Bernardo and Elliot, he says, "can come in anytime and give anyone trouble."

THE TRIALS OF A PITCHER - John Kitchen, ace pitcher for the Redmen. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

FIRST MIDDIES - The first midfield for the Redman lacrosse team consists of Steve Chambers (left), Gerry Forgit (center) and Captain Steve Connolly (right).

Undefeated Stickmen To Host UConn Huskies

By BOB GANLEY
Staff Reporter

The UMass lacrosse team goes after its seventh victory of the season tomorrow when it hosts the University of Connecticut behind Boyden. The Redmen have swept to victory in every contest so far and have yet to be seriously challenged. Coach Dick Garber will be looking for his 100th career win and doesn't expect the Huskies to present any problem.

UConn was one of the finest teams the Redmen faced last year, but they were wiped out by graduation. Eleven seniors departed from a team which lost only two games a year ago to UMass 7-5 and to Brown 10-6.

This year, however, the Huskies are anything but powerful, although Garber didn't have their complete record, he indicated that they have lost most of their games, including a loss to a Wesleyan team which UMass ran right off the field. "I suspect they are a much weaker team than a year ago," Garber said, "and I feel offensively we'll be much too strong." The Huskies, coached by Nate Oshur who was a former classmate of Garber's do feature a top-rate defenseman in Capt. Steve Price and a veteran attack man in Harvey Staller.

Garber's Gorillas received some bad news after the Trinity game. Veteran midfielder Steve Anderson suffered a shoulder separation and will be lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Anderson's injury presents a problem to Garber of finding a suitable substitute on the second midfield. He indicated that he won't break up his first midfield of Capt. Steve Connolly, Steve Chambers and Gerry Forgit, but he may take turns rotating them to help out Parker Simonds and Tom Brennan on the second midfield. Otherwise, the Redman lineup remains the same. Mark Schlossberg will start in the goal, Capt. Ton Tufts, Bill DeVore and Al Ruggiano on defense, and Capt. Kevin O'Connor, Tom Malone and Garry Vassar at attack.

Statistically, the stickmen are rolling along at a record smashing pace. They have scored 123 goals in six games for a 20.5 average and tomorrow may break the team record of 145. Defensively, they have geen equally as impressive, allowing 16 goals for a 2.7 average. Malone continues to pace the attack with 22 goals and

(Continued on Page 11)

It's Red vs. White in Pigskin Preview

UMass concludes spring football practice tomorrow with a full dress scrimmage at Alumni Stadium. The annual climax to the pre-season drills will begin at 3 p.m., under the auspices of the Varsity 'M' Club. A high school coaches clinic will also be held during the day.

The Redmen, who have set as their goal for the 1969 season to be a sharp improvement over last year's 2-8 disaster, will include a large group of returning lettermen and a host of freshmen up from last fall's unbeaten freshman team.

The squad will be divided into two teams, red and white. Each will have their own offensive and defensive teams, and will play normal game length periods. The division of the squad has in some cases forced some players out of normal positions, but on the whole, these will be the places all will perform in come September.

Practice thus far has been hampered by poor weather and some injuries to key performers. Freshman running backs Lenny Fitz and Dick Cummings, along with veteran defensive tackle Marty Sheralis will be missing action. Cummings, who has been a bright spot in the practices, suffered a broken thumb, while Fitz has a bad ankle. Highly-regarded frosh back Bob Sawyer also has missed practice due to illness and will not play.

The Red offense will have Jim Long at split end, Bob Donlin, freshman brother of veteran Dick, and Jim Nangle at tackles, Pierre Marchando and Bill Smith at guards and Bill Byron at center. Tim Adams will be the quarterback and will have in his backfield, Jerry Grasso, at halfback, Pat Scavone at wingback and co-captain Ed Sarno at fullback.

Also expected to play offense for the Reds are Bob Tracy, Jim Kain, Bernie Levine, Mark Russell, Angelo DiNardo, Joe Lang and Larry Fortunoff.

The White offense will have Don Young and John Decembrele at end, Mike Popovich and Jon Borderud at tackles, Mike Cooney and Dan Kelley, and Ron Marino at center.

Ken Hughes will call the signals and Craig Lovell, Dick Heavey, Russell and Fortunoff, George Tsiumis, Marty Evans, Corsaletti, and Bill Polopek to play in the backfield. Walt O'Malley, Dick Donlin, John Dubzinski, Mike Sarowsky, and Joe Riccio are slated for action up front.

The Red defense will have Jim Kiley, Curt Bristol, Fred Huprich, Bill Deflavio and Jack Case up front, with Russ Wood, John Sabulis and either Dick Beyer or Dennis Collins at linebackers. Neil Hering, Bob Cabrelli and Everett Dorr at back. Dave Driscoll, Paul Maloney, Heywood Davis, Dennis Gray, Pat Flaherty, Berkovitch and Schwartz will see plenty of action.

The White defense will be led by co-captain defensive end Tom York. He will be joined by Andy Guarino, Paul Toner, Bill Sroka, Bob Kelliher, John Hulecki, John MacLean, Larry Farrelly, Ed Sapienza, Dennis Keating, and Bill Bush on the starting 11, with Don Dotson, Steve Parnell, Bruce Homoleski, Steve Jenkins, Joe Casey and Mark Gombar to see plenty of action.

GETTING IN SHAPE - A UMass football star prepares for the grinding intra-squad scrimmage. This is just an example of the hard-hitting action to be seen Saturday at Alumni Stadium at 3 p.m. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 131 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969

Amherst College Meeting Results in Letter to Nixon

Amherst College, in a three-hour mass meeting of 500 students, faculty, and administrators last week at the indoor athletic field, concluded the business begun at a previous meeting. These meetings were the final action of a two-day moratorium during which classes and all other campus activities were cancelled so that students, faculty and administrators could come together to discuss issues of local and national concern.

Approved last week were proposals requesting: the right of student and non-academic employees to organize and implement an equitable minimum wage; that funds be made available so that Amherst can accept qualified students who represent as nearly as possible all the racial and socio-economic strata of the United States; coedcation at Amherst; pass-fail courses; and student and faculty Bills of Rights.

The meeting voted overwhelmingly that Dr. Plimpton send a letter to president Nixon expressing Amherst's concern for the relationship between the crisis on college campuses and the larger crisis in America.

In response to the wish of the community meeting of the students, faculty, and administration of Amherst College, President Plimpton sent a letter to President Richard M. Nixon expressing concern for the relationship which presently exists between the crisis on the university campus and society itself.

The action is unique in the history of Amherst -- and perhaps of higher education -- in that it represents a corporate expression by an independent college community on a matter of current public concern.

While the proposed letter was approved by the vast majority of those present at the meeting, it is now being circulated among all members of the College for their signatures.

(ED. NOTE - The following is the text of the letter which Amherst College President Calvin H. Plimpton sent to President Richard M. Nixon, April 29)

CALVIN H. PLIMPTON

The Faculty and Students of Amherst College have just experienced an extraordinary two days. Our usual educational activities were replaced by debate, discussion and meditation which have given shape to our beliefs about the nature of higher education and the governance of educational institutions. It is clear that we have much to do to set our own house in order. We are convinced, and have shown during these days, that changes, even fundamental ones, can take place without physical duress. It will require all our care and energy in the months ahead to combine change with continuity, to provide students with a real and regular role in influencing their education and the College's government, and to honor both intellectual discipline and creativity. We have as a College emerged from these two days with a renewed sense of the urgency and seriousness with which we must attend to our primary purpose.

We have also as a College embraced a new sense of urgency of another kind. We believe that we must speak out to make clear that much of the turmoil among young people and among those who are dedicated to humane and reasoned changes will continue. It will continue until you and the other political leaders of our country address more effectively, massively, and persistently the major social and foreign problems of our society. Part of this turmoil in universities derives from the distance separating the American dream from the American reality. Institutions dedicated to the nurture, husbanding, and growth of critical intelligence, and to inquiry into basic problems cannot but open people's eyes to the shoddiness of many aspects of our society.

In yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES it is reported that five officers in your Cabinet "seemed to agree that the disorder was caused by a small minority of students." Our conviction is that such a view is seriously in error if it is taken to mean that no legitimate and important reasons exist for the anger and sense of impotence felt by many students and faculty. The pervasive and insistent disquiet on many campuses throughout the nation indicates that unrest results, not from a conspiracy by a few, but from a shared sense that the nation has no adequate plans for meeting the crises of our society. To name only one issue of special concern to the students: since the Kerner Commission's report, there has been no decisive response to its recommendations.

We do not say that all the problems faced by colleges and universities are a reflection of the malaise of the larger society. That is not true. But we do say that until political leadership addresses itself to the major problems of our society - the huge expenditure of national resources for military purposes, the inequities practiced by the present draft system, the critical needs of America's twenty-three million poor, the unequal division of our life on racial issues - until this happens, the concern and energy of those who know the need for change will seek outlets for their frustration.

We realize that in writing this letter we have taken the unusual step of speaking publicly for our community on pressing issues of the moment. We do this out of an urgent concern to question the widely held view that university unrest is merely an internal problem, or at most fomented by an outside influence. More, we believe that if political leaders act on this mistaken assumption, their actions will serve only to widen the separations within the university and between the universities and society at large. If, however, this important element in student unrest is understood, it would be possible for you, Mr. President, to redirect youthful energy toward those more idealistic, creative and generous actions which encourages those visions to which young men so gladly dedicate themselves, and we will support those efforts.

I send this letter to you on behalf of an overwhelming majority of Amherst students, faculty and administration who attended the closing meeting of our days of inquiry tonight. Copies of this letter with the signatures of all those who wish to subscribe will follow as soon as possible.

Scientists to Debate On ABM Issue Tonight

The well-known theoretical physicist, Dr. Stephen Weinberg of MIT will be on campus Monday evening, May 5 to engage in a debate on the ABM (anti-ballistic missile system). His opponent, Dr. D. G. Brenna, was formerly the president of the Hudson Institute where he now conducts policy studies in the area of national security affairs.

The Hudson Institute is the famous "think tank" now headed by Herman Kahn also well known for his book THINKING ABOUT THE UNTHINKABLE. The Institute is primarily a consulting organization, most of its contracts deriving from the U.S. Departments of Defense and State.

Dr. Weinberg, an outspoken critic of United States' defense policy, was a leading figure in the recent March Fourth research stoppage to protest the misuse of scientific knowledge held at MIT. He is presently working with Senator Edward Kennedy on a position position paper dealing with the ABM question. Weinberg will take the anti-ABM position with Brenan adopting the affirmative stance.

The debate will take place at 8:00 p.m. Monday, May 5 in the Engineering Building - East Auditorium, University of Massachusetts. It should provide a unique opportunity to hear the ABM issue discussed by acknowledged experts.

Pre-registration deadline is today.

PC Students Protest ROTC

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - About 50 college age youths quietly protested the presence of ROTC at Providence College yesterday afternoon during the annual review of the Reserve Officer Training Corps on the college campus.

The youths sat on the edge of the reviewing field holding signs reading "No intellectual value in ROTC" and "Suspend academic credit for ROTC."

Faculty members and students quiried about the protestors indicated that less than half of them were Providence College students.

Police attended the review on a stand-by basis.

DEVOTED TO THE FOOTBALL TEAM - The Redmen had their annual spring football scrimmage Saturday and President Lederle, who is well-known as a football fan and attends many of the games, was in his usual seat on the 50-yard line, but without other members of the Administration who also attend in the fall. For the details on the scrimmage, see tomorrow's paper. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens.)

Pusey Says Colleges Must Solve Unrest

BOSTON (AP) - Harvard president Nathan M. Pusey said yesterday that the solution to the unrest that has unsettled so many of the nation's college campuses must come from the college's themselves.

"I think it has to come from the students and faculty, primarily," Pusey said, "and it will come only as these groups themselves come to see that - . . .disrupting activity is something that can't be tolerated."

Pusey, whose own campus has been the scene of three weeks of strikes, appeared on NBC's Meet The Press.

Asked about his decision at the outset of Harvard's turmoil to use police to clear anti-ROTC demonstrators from an administration building, Pusey said he believed the action to be right at the time and added:

"I must say I still do. . .The question was whether or not we could survive."

Nonetheless, Pusey said he thought some of the issues which sparked Harvard's difficulties were valid.

Pusey acknowledged that the pressure brought to bear on the university by the administration building takeover and a variety of ensuing demonstrations has speeded up the rate of change in Harvard.

"Student dissatisfaction. . . depends in large measure on the rate or pace at which change is effected or not effected," Pusey said.

"There's no question that the pressure did lead to a tremendous acceleration" in change at Harvard, he said.

Pusey said it would be a "tragedy" if the basic concern behind campus unrest would die. He said it is his hope that students remain concerned and strive for change throughout their adult life.

Pusey said that despite the criticism he has received for his handling of the administration

(Continued on Page 3)

5 MAY

BRIEFINGS IN BRIEF

BOSTON (AP) - The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority plan to create a sports stadium is the most "logical proposition," according to Boston city councilor Joseph E. Timilty.

Timilty predicted both the stadium and a new transportation center would arise in the South Station area.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Some visiting foreigners find the United States is a society loaded with conflicts: rich, poweful and exciting with a free press and free choice, but with fear walking city streets.

Visitors take student protests largely for granted because they follow a worldwide pattern and are similar to those stirring in their own countries.

These were the initial expressions of a group of foreign intellectuals, each a leader in government or business from 40 nations, who came to study America and Americans as Eisenhower Exchange Fellows.

BOSTON (AP) - Students, faculty and administration delegates from Massachusetts' eleven state colleges will meet this week at Lowell State College to recommend policies on the student-faculty role in the state college system.

The recommendations will be presented to the State College Board of Trustees.

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson declared last night he intended to press on with controversial policies that have split the Labor party and brought some demands for his resignation.

TEL AVIV (AP) - Israel was alive with war talk yesterday as persons who three weeks ago could confidently assert that impending war was a figment of Arab imagination now speak reluctantly of large-scale hostilities.

UP TIGHT

when your friends at home talk about the fantastic groups everyone has caught at The Tea Party, The Ark, and The Fillmore, and you've never even heard of those groups before? We are trying to get a rock thing going at The Woodrose Ballroom. Get into the rock scene at The Woodrose every weekend. Then you'll know who Country Funk is.

We invite you to investigate the HIGHEST PAYING

SUMMER JOBS

IN THE COUNTRY TODAY

GUARANTEED INCOME

EARN... $1000 to $2500

With AMERICAN FORESIGHT. No prev... experience necessary.

QUALIFICATIONS:
1. YOU MUST BE A COLLEGE STUDENT
2. YOU MUST HAVE A CAR
3. YOU MUST LIVE WITHIN THESE AREAS:

NEW ENGLAND STATES | NEW YORK STATE | MID-ATLANTIC STATES

OR WITHIN 50 MILES OF ONE OF OUR SIXTEEN REGIONAL OFFICES

NEW ENGLAND STATES | NEW YORK STATE | MID-ATLANTIC STATES

MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969
1:15 - 2:30 - 4:00 P.M. Placement Office, Whitmore Hall

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports) 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

N.E. Student Coalition to Meet With Congressional Delegations

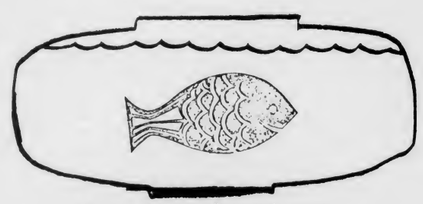
Student leaders from thirty-eight of the largest universities and colleges in New England will meet with Congressmen and members of the Nixon administration today and tomorrow in Washington, to discuss the Vietnam war and to present a petition signed by thousands of students from New England schools. The group, known as the New England Student Coalition, (N.E.S.C.) will meet today with Senators Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn), Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.), Daniel McIntyre (D-N.Hamp.), and Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.). Further meetings with Senator Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Under Secretary of State, Eliot J. Richardson are currently being arranged. The results of these meetings will be discussed at a news conference early tomorrow.

N.E.S.C. hopes that these meetings will help to regenerate the fundamental debate on the war on both the governmental and popular levels. By meeting directly with their duly elected Congressmen, the students are utilizing established constitutional channels to express their dissent, operating on a firm belief that such officials must be responsive to the students' pleas.

The Washington trip and the petition arise from the Coalition leaders' feelings that the Nixon administration has misinterpreted the recent decrease in vocal concern about the Vietnam war as a sign of tacit approval or indifference to the new administration's policies. The Coalition's leaders attibute this recent silence in part to the desire of students to give the Nixon administration a chance to implement some of the pledges made by Nixon during the presidential campaign to change the direction of the war. However, seeing that that the Paris negotiations have dragged on for almost a year and that the promised peace has not come, the Coalition leaders believe as stated in their petition, that it is now time for students "to raise our voices again, to reassert our continuing concern and increasing frustration at the course of the war and the negotiations."

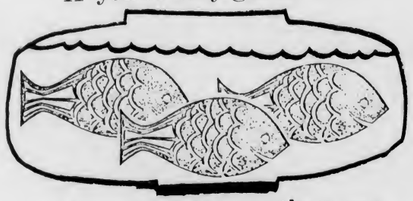
The petition, circulated at thirty-eight New England colleges and signed by thousands of students, contains five specific proposals. In brief, they call for a withdrawal of all American military personnel from Vietnam by June 1, 1970; an immediate end to the bombing of Laos and North Vietnam; and end to "search and destroy missions" and all "other offensive operations" in Vietnam; and the encouragement, by the United States, of a negotiated settlement between the South Vietnamese government and the NLF "which could create a government broadly representative of all elements of South Vietnamese society."

The Coalition was formed and is directed by three juniors from Amherst College, James Kenworthy of Colonia, New Jersey, Eric Patterson of Amherst and Lawrence Sidman of Newton, in an effort to once again bring the issue of the war to the forefront of national concerns. "We have been very heartened by the rapid and massive support we have received throughout New England," said Kenworthy. "It is our hope that this will move President Nixon to make some hard decisions soon."



Ways and Means Seeks Contract With Delinquent RSO Groups

The Student Senate Ways and Means committee has begun investigating the massive buildup of debts of RSO groups over the past few years. Some organizations which are now or have recently functioned on the campus owe amounts varying from 43¢ to $1,678.30. Collection efforts will begin shortly but at present the committee is seeking str'' ments as to when each group intends to liquidate the debts.



Committee chairman William Perkins noted that if collection is not accomplished within reasonable time, his committee may freeze the financial transactions of that organization, terminate the existance of the organization or bring the officers and/or membership before the student or civil courts.

Linda Zimlicki requests the cooperation of all delinquent groups, RSO #'s 224, 337, 338, 357, and 363; Larry Woods, RSO#'s 364, 365, 368, 376, and 505; Dan Maddan, RSO#'s 508, 512, 624, 640 and Sue Bacon, RSO#'s 650, 655, 672, 673, and 677.

The above RSO#'s are not inclusive.

If you've only got one...

and you want more than one...
Have it XEROXed.
at GNOMON COPY SERVICE

Room 214 Student Union

4¢ for first copy	2¢ for copies of same page	FREE COLLATING Legal Size & 3-hole Punch at NO EXTRA CHARGE

HOLY COW! Jim D'Innocco winner in the beef class in last weekends livestock show proudly displays his blue ribbon entry. (MDC by Ara Dedekian).

MIT President Scores Leaders For Failure to Get Job Stated

DR. HOWARD JOHNSON

BOSTON (AP) - The President of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said yesterday that "we cannot rehabilitate our society unless our leaders feel strongly the call of their conscience to take on the responsibility for getting the job started."

Dr. Howard Johnson was the keynote speaker at the 19th annual Greater Boston Protestant Layman's Communion Breakfast program at the Boston Arena.

Dr. Johnson said men have always "come together, in the course of their search for higher understanding, to benefit from each other's insights."

That is the clue to what society must strive for in meeting the challenge before it, he said.

The communion breakfast is sponsored by Episcopalian, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist laymen and the Salvation Army.

Dr. Johnson will receive an honorary degree at the UMass Commencement exercises, May 31.

(Continued from Page 1)

building takeover and the days of turmoil that followed, he has "no intention of resigning."

"There are still things that are worth trying to do," he said.

Pusey said his decision to use police to clear the administration building of the anti-ROTC occupiers April 10 "was one of several various possible alternatives."

Had the occupation dragged on, Pusey said, "I think probably the results might have been worse. I think it would have divided our community very, very seriously, and certainly I think it would have been productive of long range damage."

Pusey said the dissatisfaction that lead to the takeove r had "been growing in our community for a rather long period of time." He attributed the dissatisfaction to a combination of factors, foremost among them a general sense of unease among students and the university community as a whole.

It's a matter of "whether the university can preserve its nature and go about its business, or whether it's going to become just a scene for politicking and squabbling."

YOUR UNIVERSITY CLASS RING

As a symbol of achievement this ring is truly representative of the ideals and traditions of your years spent at the University.

The University Side The State Seal of Massachusetts is complemented by the 1863 University founding date which is crested above the seal. Laurel for achievement and oak leaves for strength frame the seal. The state motto, "Ense Petit Placidam sub Libertate Quietem" (By the sword we seek peace, but peace only under liberty) was written by Algernon Sidney, an English writer, prior to 1683.

The Class Side Representing the class year is the oldest building on campus, Old Chapel, built in 1885. The clock hands are set at the traditional 1:30 time of graduation exercises. The four chevrons, two on each side, represent the four years spent at the University.

The complete design of the University of Massachusetts Class Ring is under the control of the Recognized Student Organizations and unauthorized reproduction is not permitted. (U. S. Patents Pending R.S.O.)

Available MAY 7, 1969 from JOSTEN'S Factory Representatives

UNIVERSITY STORE STUDENT UNION

TONIGHT

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM

presents

A B M DEBATE

PRO
Dr. Donald Brennen
Hudson Institute

vs.

CON
Dr. Steven Weinberg
M. I. T.

Engineering Auditorium

8:00 P.M.

5 MAY

FROM OUR SIDE
Police Disarmament

It has been seven months since the UMass Afro-American Society led by Robert Henderson made their dramatic march on the Whitmore Administration Building to present their list of 19 demands to President Lederle. Among these demands was one calling for the immediate disarmament of the campus police force. This demand required specifically that the police keep their "trusty" .38's in their cars and not on their hips as is normal.

And now, seven months later, the cops can still be seen flagrantly toting their guns around on their hips like Matt Killon as if the request had never been made for them to dispense with the practice.

Robert Brooks, Assistant to the Dean of Students, when asked by the Collegian about this situation said that this along with several other of the demands which dealt with the campus security force was in a security council composed of consultants who would make their report shortly. Mr. Brooks went on to say that they decided not to disarm the police force until the council had made their report.

This no less than appalled me. To think that such a simple request that the police merely keep their guns in their cars in order to prevent accidents is thrown into a security council along with the rest of the security matters to be buried until who knows when, while the police continue to run around wearing their guns. It seems as if so simple an issue could have been settled right on the spot. Why tie it up in a committee as if in an attempt to bury the issue? It would appear that it is past time that something be done on this issue. It has been hidden long enough. Admittedly it is late in the semester, but next semester will be only later.

Keith Bromery
Executive Editor

"Awright, Awright — Let's Have It"

Anarchy at Cornell

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

ITHACA, N.Y. - The surrender last week of Cornell University's administration to rifle-toting black militants, a new precedent in the national campus civil war, was no isolated incident but rather the climax of deepening anarchy here.

Despite the official Cornell line congratulating itself on a peaceful escape from bloodshed, there is no doubt that Pres. James A. Perkins accepted the black demands in an atmosphere of coercion. While armed Negroes were occupying a university building, lesser publicized events had to terrorized a majority of the faculty and student body that they were eager for appeasement.

Responding to threats broadcast over the radio, faculty members branded as "racists" were forced to evacuate their homes for the night. One black student who openly opposed the resort to force was spirited across the border into Canada for safe-keeping by friends. Unidentified rifle shots as a classroom building aggravated the tension. Moreover, the burning cross which supposedly forced black militants into armed insurrection is widely believed here to have been set by Negroes themselves.

That this lovely upstate New York campus could be so deformed by strife is in part attributable, ironically, to Perkins's well-meaning liberalism in recruiting black students, many of whom were ill-equipped for Cornell's academic demands. This inadequacy led some young Negroes into increasingly more belligerent postures here. Cornell's administration, faculty and students, bearing an immense guilt complex toward Negroes (freely admitted by Perkins) could not bring themselves to impose discipline.

The watershed event came in the Spring of 1968 when three Negro students, infuriated by an economics professor's classroom contentions about the superiority of a Western civilization, seized the offices of the economics department and held the department's chairman prisoner. When the Perkins administration did not press charges against the students, it flashed the green light for anarchy.

Pushing an action campaign for an autonomous black studies program, the militants moved on many fronts last December: The takeover of a university building (actually promised them for a later date) with professors and their belongings dispossessed into the street, the theft of furniture to furnish the building, dancing on dining hall tables, disruption of library stacks.

Perkins's permissiveness and the black militants' contempt were graphically exhibited during these December demonstrations when black militants staged a sit-in outside Perkins' office. Trying to make friends, Perkins sent out doughnuts and milk. The militants responded by smashing the refreshments against the wall.

Even more bizarre was an incident two months later when the Afro-American Society (AAS) demanded $2000 from the administration to buy bongo drums to celebrate Malcolm X day. Within two days, the administration scraped together $1700 and dispatched two black student leaders down to New York City in the university plane to purchase the drums.

But pressed by a few faculty members, the administratio n did reluctantly bring charges against six of the more flagrant December demonstrators. Consequently, once the blacks won their demand for an autonomous black studies program early this year, radicals stepped up direct action around a general theme of amnesty for the six demonstrators.

To the accompaniment of the university - purchased bongo drums, Perkins on Feb. 28, was physically pulled down from a speakers' platform at a conference on South Africa. A few days later, job recruiters from the Chase Manhattan Bank were physically assaulted. In mid-March, three white students were beaten at night on campus-one to the point of death; two of the victims identified their assailants as Negroes while the third was in no condition to identify anybody.

Thus, as Spring came to Cornell, wholly nonpolitical students decided it would be prudent not to stroll the quadrangle at night. Simultaneously, Perkins became the open target of derision by the black militants, who wore sheathed knives in their boots during a conference with him. In one such meeting, a leader of the Afro-American Society described Perkins to his own face with an obscenity widely used in the black ghetto.

Behind the scenes, Perkins's lieutenants were quietly prodding the faculty to quash the charges against the six December demonstrators - a surrender the faculty finally agreed to last week in the atmosphere of armed insurrection.

In an interview, Perkins told us he intends to stay on as president of Cornell and feels he has full confidence from the board of trustees. If he is correct, his method of buying peace on the campus may well become the pattern for college administrators around the country.

"SuperHippie"

FASTER THAN A SPEEDING TURTLE. MORE POWERFUL THAN CREAMED CHEESE. ABLE TO LEAP OVER TALL ANT-HILLS IN A SINGLE BOUND. "Look, up in the Administration Building." "It's a bird." "It's a plane." "No you dummies, it's SUPERHIPPIE."

Yes friends, it's SUPERHIPPIE. Who, disguised as Scabbie Barfman a mild-mannered student at a great metropolitan university, fights a never-ending battle for truth, justice and the American way. Whoopie.

Scabbie Barfman is alone in his room, mapping out plans to single-handedly take over the locker room of the football team, when he receives an urgent phone call. He picks up the phone. It's Headquarters.

"Hey Scabbie, we want you to go to Afro-Am and try to get their support when we take over the parking lot."

"Will do, chief."

Scabbie hung up the phone and thought. He knew getting Afro-Am's support wasn't easy. What should he do?

scabbie snapped his fingers and yelled, "This is a job for SUPERHIPPIE." He sat down, crossed his legs and bent his head to his knees. Then summoning all his energy he screamed, "OWN-DAY ITH-WAY UCUMBERS-CAY" which were the magic words that turned him into SUPERHIPPIE.

All 200 lbs. of him (75 lbs. of hair, 50 lbs. of peace medallions, and 75 lbs. of Scabbie) leaped from the chair, landed on the floor, and ran out the door. He hitched a ride to Afro-Am and briskly strode in. "Hi brother. What's happening?", he said to one member of Afro-Am, who looked at another member and laughed.

SUPERHIPPIE knew that in order to get Afro-Am's support he would have to speak their hip lingo. He stuck out his hand for some skin but everybody in Afro-Am just stared in disbelief. Undaunted, SUPERHIPPIE again summoned all his Neanderthal powers and spoke.

"Listen brothers, we've got a gig and we need some support, you dig? We're gonna put it to those dudes, you dig? We want to take care of some serious business down at the parking lot. We're really gonna sock it to 'em, you dig? How 'bout it man? You with me?"

The head of Afro-Am (a composite of Bobby Hutton and Eldrige Cleaver) lifted his head slowly, looked SUPERHIPPIE dead in the eye and said "Get lost."

SUPERHIPPIE ran from the room because he, and only he, knew that these words, "Get lost", were the magic words that transformed SUPERHIPPIE back to Scabbie Barfman. Curiously enough these words are spoken so often to SUPERHIPPIE that SUPERHIPPIE often feels he's doing something wrong.

To be continued

Campus Comment

That "Day"

To the editor:

I would officially like to accept the power s and responsibilities which have previously been delegated to me by Paul S. Lereaux.

I would like to make note of a little known fact I learned as I was happily climbing through the Old Chapel tower last year. I noticed on the largest of the 11 bells an inscription stating that the bells had been donated to the University in the memory of Warren Elmer Hinds, an 1899 graduate of the College.

Mr. Hinds has made the use of the bells on Spring Day possible and deserves a bit of credit. In his honor, I officially announce the coming of the Warren Elmer Hinds Memorial Spring Day commemorating the 70th anniversary of his graduation.

This is what you've heard about and been waiting for Freshmen; it's what everyone else is still recovering from; it's going to be within one minutes walk from campus; and it's so close to that Day you can hit it with a can-opener.

So forget your academic hangups, cut your classes (but not the Race Exam), and come along to see how they do it at UMass. Congratulations Elmer.

Churvey "Churv" P. Kilroy

Loss of Rights

To the editor:

On April 21, the Supreme Court gave the highest judicial sanction to a blatantly unjust and unfair process. Under the process, the Army is free to force objectors to war into Vietnam - board planes before their appeals have run their course. The case involved is that of Louis Negre, who is one of several men on whom the Army has used "reasonable force" (their term) to compel obedience.

Negre had previously filed for an objector discharge and was refused a processing of his claim, then it was processed and refused. The Army next refused an amended application and brought court martial proceedings. The trial led to an acquital and a denial of his second application. On Easter Sunday, despit e a stay from the Federal District Court of San Francisco which legally extended until Monday, the Army took Negre "under force and violence" from his barracks and ordered him to board a plane to Vietnam.

Quick action by his lawyer warned of contempt proceedings and resulted in a further stay pending the Supreme Court ruling. The ruling said nothing of Negre's beliefs, but refused to recognize his claim to remain stateside until Federal Appelas Court could decide his status as a conscientious objector.

What is strange about this decision is its effective negation of due process to any soldier. The case now sets the precedent for soldiers to be shipped to a battle area before their legal appeals run out. Does this sound like punishment for those asserting inalienable rights? Does the military effectively unencumber itself from the process of giving orders to objecting soldiers and then having to file a court martial for noncompliance by merely forcing them to obey? What kind of horrors have been endorsed by this recognition of force over legality?

Maybe those who allow themselves to drift into the military should consider a little more deeply the rights they surrender. Maybe those not faced with this loss of rights should consider what it means to condone by inaction the damage done by a system they recognize as above judicial process.

Jerome Czech

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Louis DiMonaco
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR — Kathy Biggane
EDITORIAL STAFF — Doug Packer
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — Ray Esonis
NEWS STAFF — Jan Curley
ADVERTISING STAFF — Sharon Raum, Terry Wanczyk
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Wayne Lillystram, Maureen Kilroy

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"None of us is subtle, these are not subtle times; freedom and fire are not subtle."

Brooke Gives Nixon B- For One Hundred Days

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) - The first 100 days of the Nixon administration drew a B-plus rating today from Massachusetts and Rhode Island senators from both parties.

The rating came in the first of a series of special programs on "Congressional Conversations," presented by station WTEV in New Bedford. The programs are co-hosted by Sen. Edward M. Brooke, R-Mass., and Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Sen. Pell said he thought so far that President Nixon has handled foreign policy well and in that field, the only real problem is Vietnam. Pell ventured that the honeymoon may be over soon if no real action is forthcoming soon concerning Vietnam.

Sen. Brooke praised Nixon's handling of the recent Korean crisis and that over-all he would give the administration a B or a B-plus rating on its first 100 days.

Brooke noted that it was too soon to make a valid assessment, but he said it was a good beginning.

Senator Edward M. Brooke - a B-plus for Nixon.

Italian Poet to Read Selections

The distinguished Italian poet, Giuseppe Ungaretti, will read selections of his poetry tonight at 8:15 in Mahar Auditorium. Prof. Ungaretti's visit is under the auspices of the Fine Arts Council and the Department of Romance Languages of the University.

Professor Allen Mandelbaum, prominent translator of Ungaretti, will introduce the poet. The program will include readings of his English translations.

Giuseppe Ungaretti was born in 1888, in Alexandria, Egypt of Italian parents. He was a student at the Sorbonne and the College de France where he became the close friend of Apollinaire and came into direct contact with the work of French poets, many of whom he translated. He is one of the first and perhaps the greatest of the hermetic poets. His prolific poetic activity from 1916 to the present has made him one of the leading literary figures of the century.

Dr. Gage to be 'Focus' Guest

Tonight on "Focus" at 9 p.m. on WMUA, Ken Mosakowski's special guest will be Dr. Robert Gage, Director of the UMass Health Services. Dr. Gage will answer questions about sexual myths, birth control, and related matters, asked by a panel of University students including Linda Harris, Andrea Reneau and Paula Roberts.

The second half of the two-hour program will feature a progress report on the work of the Write For Peace Committee; a look at the presently-organizing political campaign in Newark, New Jersey; and a preview of "The Assassination of God: A Celebration" which will be presented in the Student Union Ballroom this Friday.

SPRING FEVER - Finals are rapidly approaching, a little too close for comfort for some, and the weather is getting too nice to stay inside. These unsuspecting young men were caught playing hookey the other day at the pond.

History Department to Offer three New Courses for Fall

The history department has introduced a program of four introductory courses to provide an unusually rich selection of offerings for the incoming freshmen.

Starting next fall for the first time students who wanted to take history to fulfill the college philosophy/history requirement will no longer be limited to History 100 "History of Western Thought".

One alternative is History 110, "Problems of World Civilization". It will focus on Europe and the rest of the world and will be taught by noted Professor Archibald Lewis from the U. of Texas.

Another is History 115, "Introduction to Asian Civilization". It will be taught by Professor Fred Drake of Harvard, a famed expert on China.

Another new offering will be History 120, "Introduction to Latin American Civilization." It will be taught by Professor Lewis Hanke, one of the top Latin American historians in the world.

BULLETIN No. 28 SPRING & SUMMER 1969

OVER 5,000 TIRES IN STOCK INCLUDING FOREIGN AND COMPACT SIZES

YOU MAY PURCHASE TIRES At Wholesale Prices NEW Perfect Quality GOODYEAR

SCHOOL IDENTIFICATION REQUIRED

FULL 4 PLY NYLON TUBELESS

		FEDERAL EXCISE TAX
650 x 13	$8.96	$1.79
735/700 x 14	$10.66	$2.07
775/750 x 14	$10.97	$2.20
825/800 x 14	$11.78	$2.36
855/850 x 14	$15.97	$2.57
775/670 x 15	$10.87	$2.21
815/710 x 15	$13.33	$2.46
845/760 x 15	$15.97	$2.62
900/800/820 x 15	$19.05	$2.83

No Trade-in Required

BATTERIES PRICE INSTALLATION
6 VOLT $7.72 EXCH
12 VOLT $10.73 EXCH
For Most Cars
FULL Guarantee provides for battery replacement FREE within 90 days

NATION-WIDE GUARANTEE
NO LIMIT ON MILES • NO LIMIT ON MONTHS
(Adjustment Prorated on Tread Depth Based on Manufacturer's Adjustment Price)

AT SAME PRICES WE SELL OUR DEALERS

Terms Available
FREE TIRE MOUNTING

STATE INSPECTION PERIOD APRIL 1st TO MAY 15th

NEW WHEELS Genuine Firestone Retreads

BAK TIRE CO. COPYRIGHT 1969
"Northampton Warehouse Distributors"
55 DAMON ROAD • NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
584-4769
HOURS — 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.
Saturday 8:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M.
OVER 20 YEARS OF SERVICE

FREE WINTER TIRES CHANGED TO SUMMER TIRES

GIVE A GIFT for which you will be remembered forever . . .
an engraved PEWTER BOWL will always remind the receiver of the occasion and the person who gave it. A beautiful personal gift.
$5.50
WINN JEWELER

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Thunderbird convertible, full power, good condition, radio, heater, white-walls, stereo tape recorder. Call OR3-5174 or 549-0849. Ask for Dave Reardon. 5-9

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3607 after 7 p.m. 5-7

1968 VW — $1650, factory warranty. Willing to negotiate. Call 253-7173 or 323-5661 evenings; 545-0409 days. 5-3

'66 Mustang, V-8 conv., must sell. Best offer. Good cond. 584-6614. 5-6

1963 Comet convertible rebuilt engine and trans., excel. condition, 6 cyl., auto., radio, etc. 549-0430. 5-7

Seeking security? 1964 Chevy Belair, 4 door, automatic transmission, new battery, snow tires, best offer, 549-6644. 5-7

1962 VW, new sunroof and tires, excel. motor, cond., clean inside and out. $500. Call 665-4681. 5-7

1964 VW, cheap. My future employer will pay diff. between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June. 549-1303. 5-5

1965 TR4 BRG., R. & H., W.W., 2 tops, 2 tonneau, recent muffler and generator, exc. cond., $1195. Call 549-1707. 5-9

Late 1966 Volvo, 2 dr., extras. Immaculate. Going abroad. Asking $1,500. 549-8011 eves. 5-9

FOR SALE

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Ziljian Cymbals, Traps Case and Nanzahide Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $700, asking $350. 546-7017. 5-12

1 Honda 50, excellent condition. Barely used, $170. (1968). Call 253-7143. 5-6

12 string guitar and case, excellent condition. Call 256-2144 after 6. 5-5

Penitax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F/1.4 lens. Lens shade, TX lens extender, rotating polarisiner filter, red green filter, cable release and accessory shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-5

Refrigerator for sale, very large freezer. Call 546-7703. 5-7

Washing Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition, 5 year guarantee. Original cost $220.00. Price $150. Call 665-7218 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

Autoharp, 12 chords, 36 strings, easy to play. Call Kathy, 313 Lewis, 545-2314. 5-9

Friedaire Dishwasher, 1 yr. old; 2 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable. Call 545-7469. 5-10

FOR RENT

6 Room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept. 1. 2 minute walk to Campus. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-9611 or 546-8631. 5-7

One bedroom apt., furnished, utilities included. Available June 1st. Call 256-6149. 5-5

Eligible to live off campus next year? Want to? Know where before May 31. We have large comfortable furnished rooms with kitchen privileges — just 4½ miles from campus. Summer occupancy available also. Call evenings 584-9446. Be persistant. 5-5

Desperate — summer sub-let, Colonial Village, 2 bedroom furnished for 3 people, all utilities, $140/month. Call 253-2940 anytime. 5-5

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $150 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-5

Two furnished rooms for rent 3 miles from U.Mass. one $25 and one $45 a month for summer semester. Kitchen privileges if desired. Call 549-2764. 5-5

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5766. 5-5

Summer Sublet — 8 room house, 5 bedrooms, furnished, in Hadley. Rent arranged. Call 546-9188 or 546-9192 after 6. 5-6

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 546-0474. 5-8

Available June 1st — 2½ room apt., rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 5-7

Apartment to sublet — available June 1 to August 31, 3½ rooms, utilities included. Call after 5 p.m. 665-3052. 5-6

To rent for summer or longer if desired — 2½ room apt., all utilities included, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus, $118/month, Apt. 3, Mill Hollow Apts., No. Amherst. See after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Summer Rental — Amherst, centrally located 3 room apartment on two floors, plenty of storage, partially furnished, very homey. Available June 1st - Sept. 1st. Responsible persons only. Call 253-2361 after 4 p.m. 5-7

HELP WANTED

1 qualified water safety instructor for summer camp in Maryland. Call Bill 546-7545. 5-11

Housekeepers, baby sitters, part and full time factory work $2 per hour. Ambert Employment Agency, 65 University Drive. 5-5

TEACHERS WANTED
Elementary School — to $6,000
Amherst Employment Agency
65 University Drive 5-5

SERVICES

All types of photography; portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

PERSONAL

John Q. Adams in 619 — hurry up and find me. — Raggel 5-5

WANTED

Traveling companions to Seattle, Washington, Late August or early September. Call H. Young at 549-0115 or 549-1171. 5-5

Riders wanted for leisurely trip to California, leaving around June 6. Share expenses and driving. Call Mark at 510 North Pleasant, phone 5-0174 or 256-6865. 5-5

Musical group to volunteer to perform at State Hospital function on May 14. Call Walter (546-8075) or Peter (546-5336). 5-7

Wanted — Members for the NAAFP. If you would like to join the National Association for the Advancement of FOO People, write: NAAFP, WMUA, Eng. Building, U. of Mass. Help a FOO. 5-9

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming. 5-9

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share already furnished apartment, June - Aug. $45 a mo. See Lana at 18 Nutting Ave., 3rd floor. 5-7

One female roommate wanted for Summer school to share my modern, spacious, fully furnished two-bedroom apartment. Lovely back yard. All utilities included. Very close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

Would you like to live off Campus next year? I have a beautiful, modern, completely furnished two-bedroom apartment, and am looking for two nice, quiet female roommates. All utilities included. Close to Campus. Call Betty 546-6016. 5-5

2 Roommates to share an apartment in Amherst Center June 1 - Aug. 30 — $37.50/month. Call 546-6617 between 10:30 and 11:00 pm. 5-5

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share Puffton Apt., $44 per month, all utilities with air cond. and pool. June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-9901 or 546-9867. 5-6

Roommates wanted to share 3 bedroom house for summer. Own bedroom. Furnished. 15 minute drive from Campus. $30 per month Call 323-7806 evenings. 5-5

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, females and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $75.00 per month. No mistake. Hurry. Call Lou 665-4672 after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Soc. 256 NOTES

Soc. 256 Notes for all lectures will be on sale Friday, May 2 and Monday, May 5 from 1 - 4 p.m. in room 216, Dickinson Hall. — Bori Curreon, FRDT 5-5

WANTED TO RENT

3 or 4 bedroom furnished house or apartment. Available preferably Sept. 1. Call 546-9067; ask for Gary. 5-7

Junior Organizes First Course In Special Education at UMass

UMass junior Robert E. Andrews is a rebel with a cause.

His cause is better education for the retarded child and he's in the midst of a peaceful rebellion at the UMass School of Education to begin a teacher training program in special education there.

In fact, he's responsible for starting the University's first course in special education. He's also chairman of a planning committee working on a proposal for a full program in special education at the School of Education.

"I guess it was Belchertown that got me started on this," Andrews said. He was referring to the Belchertown State School 12 miles from the UMass Amherst campus. For years UMass students have done volunteer work at Belchertown. Andrews had always been interested in working with children and joined the Belchertown volunteer group, which was the beginning of his commitment.

The junior from Westwood got his chance to do something about special education when new UMass School of Education Dean Dwight W. Allen opened the 1968-69 academic year with this offer: if any five students came forward with an idea for a course in a new area of education, he would add that course to the curriculum.

"I thought it was about time the University did something in special education," Andrews said. He came forward with not five but 20 students.

He got some money from the School of Education and with it has been able to bring in two part-time instructors - a psychiatric social worker and a special education teacher. The class has about 20 graduate and undergraduate students and offers three credits.

Andrews calls it a "springboard" designed to get students interested in further work in the field. The class is a survey course in mental retardation and emotional disturbance. He's working on plans for a full research and training program in special education at UMass.

His proposal is for an interdisciplinary program stressing innovation. "The type of person we see coming out of here as a special education teacher would be a kind of jack of all trades with training in psychology, speech therapy, reading and learning disabilities and other things," according to Andrews. "I guess this teacher would really be a kind of therapist," he said.

Tied into the program would be such things as research through the UMass psychology department and its Child Guidance Center and practice teaching or its eqivalent through cooperation with local school systems and the Belchertown State School

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
General meeting in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rms., S.U. tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.
Exec. board meets at 6 p.m.
CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Testimony meeting tomorrow at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm. All welcome.
S.U. MOVIE COMMITTEE
Kenneth Anger's "Scorpio Rising" and Robert Downey's "Chafed Elbows" coming to S.U. Ballroom tomorrow at 6 and 8:15 p.m.
1776 SPECIAL UNION MEETING
For Unit #3 Janitors, 7-8 p.m.; all others, 8-9 p.m. tonight.

Applications Available For Exchange Courses

Applications are now available at the Provost's office for any student in good standing who wishes to enroll in a course at Amherst, Smith College or Mt. Holyoke. This opportunity is a result of the efforts of the Five College Coordinating Board, an organization set up to promote cooperation among the colleges in this area.

The board has 19 members, representing students at UMass, Amherst, Smith and Mt. Holyoke. Hampshire College is also part of the Five College Board but does not have a student enrollment as yet. Board members are chosen from the student governments, the newspapers, the DVP and students at large on each campus.

For the Fall, the five College Coordinating Board is publishing a booklet about the five colleges that will describe the various campus activities and list the phone numbers that people from other colleges would most frequently need to use.

Notices

CLASS OF 1969
Seniors! Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day: May 30.
M.L.K. SUMMER CAMP
Meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in S.U. Nantucket Rm. For further information contact Peter Thiffaultk 665-2384.
PSYCHOLOGY CLUB
Discussion: "Behavior Modification" led by Dr. Phillips at 7:30 tonight in Memorial Hall. All welcome.
OPERETTA GUILD
Guild Banquet to be held at Farley Lodge at 8 p.m., May 11. Money must be in by today. No exceptions.
MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS COLLOQUIUM
Dr. Robert Kallman of MIT and Yale, will speak on "A Decomposition Theorum for Automorphisms of Von Neumann Algebras", tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the Colloquium Rm., Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the Lounge.
UNIV. WOMEN'S CHOIR
Auditions for Choir (Music 165) today and tomorrow. Call Mr. Harler, 5-0532 or 5-2227 for appointment.
VOLLEYBALL CLUB
Training Tues. and Thurs., 7:30-8:30 p.m. and Sat. at noon in Boyden
INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Elections for next year's Exec. Committee will be held Wed. at 6:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. All members please attend. Bring membership cards.
MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS COLLOQUIUM
Professor Ernst Snapper from Dartmouth will speak on "Characters of the Symmetric Group" tomorrow at 4:40 p.m. in the Colloquium Rm., Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the Lounge.
M.L.K. COUNCIL CCEBS
Open coffee hour noon-2 in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. tomorrow to discuss CCEBS Program with Dallas Darland, Provost's Office; John Childs, Admissions; Randolph Bromery, CCEBS Director. Free coffee, open to all.
GREENOUGH COED DORM
Applications for males and females for the proposed coed dorm are available at a table in the S.U. until today, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.
FINNISH CLUB
Finnish Table tonight. Meet Line one, North Commons, at 4:45 p.m. and move upstairs. All associated faculty and families are invited (free).

with — KEN MOSAKOWSKI

Sex: A Discussion with Dr. Robert Gage

Also commentary on:

— WRITE FOR PEACE

— NEWARK CAMPAIGN

— "THE ASSASSINATION OF GOD: A CELEBRATION"

A living theater production to be presented in Student Union Ballroom May 9th at 8 p.m.

TONITE! 9-11 P.M.

W M U A 91.1 FM

at

THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

LAST CALL!!

Final Day To Purchase

Spring Semester Textbooks Is May 10, 1969

We must clear our shelves to make room for Summer school books. We WILL NOT have the staff nor the time to search for Spring textbooks after the above date as we will be busy ordering, receiving, and setting up the Summer stock.

Please buy any books you may need for the remainder of the semester BEFORE May 10, 1969.

Book Department

THE UNIVERSITY STORE

Frosh Stickmen Romp

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Staff Reporter

Despite being hurt by ineligibilities and injuries, the UMass freshmen lacross team romped over a hapless Connecticut team in Storrs on Saturday, 19-2. It was the Little Redmen's fourth win in five starts and their most impressive game to date. Coach Bill Carroll was forced to shuffle his lineup due to the loss of three players by ineligibilities and two by injuries. Carroll had only thirteen players available for action not counting goalie Bruce Crawford who is still nursing a shoulder injury and was held out of action. Middie Dana Stone did see action though he was hobbled with a severe charlie horse.

The game itself was UMass all the way as the frosh put on their biggest scoring spree of the season led by Pete Anzalone who had nine goals. The pattern of the game became apparent early as UMass scored on its first two shots of the game. By the end of the first period it was 4-0 with Anzalone scoring two and P. J. Flaherty and Paul Ritch each scoring once.

The second period was almost a carbon copy of the first with UMass jumping out in front, 8-1. The same three men did the scoring for the Little Redmen as Ritch got his second and third goals, Flaherty his second, and Anzalone his third.

The only question in the second half was whether or not UMass would score twenty goals. They fell just short as Paul Schacter put in number nineteen with just under a minute left to play. An oddity occured when defenseman Mike Cosgrove picked up his first point of the season when he got an assist on Anzalone's fourth goal. From then on Coach Carroll let his defensemen play midfield in an effort to let them get a few points. However, despite their great agility and fine ball-handling, none of them were able to score. Turula got one more goal for UConn and the game ended, 19-2.

Gollfers Third in Conf., Split Sat.

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

The varsity golfers saw plenty of action last weekend as they placed third in the Yankee Conference Championships on Friday, and then split a triangular match with Dartmouth and Brown on Saturday.

In the conference encounter at Point Judith Golf Course, Rhode Island, URI successfully defended it's title with a total score of 965. New Hampshire placed second with 996, UMass was third with 1005, UConn secured fourth with 1007, and Maine and Vermont rounded out the scoring with 1035 and 1065 respectively.

URI's Dana Quigley was the 36 hole medalist with a 151 total. He was the only player in the field of 42 golfers to break 80 for the two rounds. Ed Puzas was the low man for the Redmen with a score of 163.

In Saturday's away match, UMass overtook Brown by a 5-2 score, and at the same time dropped a very close meeting with Dartmouth, 4-3.

Again playing the top positions, Ed Puzas lost two tough decisions, first to Hill of Dartmouth, 1 up, and then to Brown's Oatis, 2 and 1. Dave Salter, however, continued his winning ways by posting victories over Gavre, 1 up, and Major, 2 and 1.

Capt. Eric Lekberg, on the other hand, once again found it impossible to break into the win column. He lost to McWilliams of Dartmouth, 5 and 4, and to Pagos of Brown, 2 and 1.

Fourth and fifth men, Mike Minkos and Dick King, each split their matches. Minkos was beaten by Cox, 1 up, but came back to overtake Thayer, also by a 1 up score. King similarly lost to his Dartmouth opponent Hallenbaum, 2 and 1, but at the same time defeated Higgenbothom, 2 and 1.

As has been the story several times in the past, the Redmen had to rely on the bottom of the order to provide the necessary points. Sharpshooting Rick Aherne dumped Stmpter, 2 and 1, and Hibner, 1 up after 19, while Dick Barber breezed by Furey, 4 and 3, and Robertson, likewise by a 4 and 3 score.

The squad came very close to pulling out the Dartmouth match, but Mike Minkos lost on the 20th hole as he had to take a penalty stroke for an unplayable lie. This break proved to be the difference in the match.

Rico Connects

BOSTON (AP) - Rico Petrocelli clouted a two-run homer in the 11th inning, lifting the Boston Red Sox past Detroit 4-2 Sunday.

Petrocelli connected off reliever Don McMahon after Reggie Smith walked and Joe Lahoud flied out. It was Petrocelli's seventh homer.

The Red Sox tied the game 2-2 in the ninth when Chuch Dobson, who had walked seven batters in the first eight innings, walked Lahoud and Petrocelli with one out.

George Scott lined out, but Dick Scholfield batted for pitcher Mike Nagy and singled to center, driving in Lahoud with the tying run.

Photography:
PASSPORTS, JOB APPLICATIONS
taken — 24 hr. service
Discount prices on film and processing. Call
LANG'S PHOTO
825 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-3148

Applications Available
FOR SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

- INTRAMURAL SUPERVISOR
- LIFEGUARD
- EDITOR, SUMMER NEWSPAPER
- BUILDING SUPERVISOR
- PART-TIME ASSISTANTS

For job descriptions and more information contact: Miss Sheila McRevey or Mrs. Lois Frey, Student Activities Office, Student Union.

Application Deadline: MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969

Garber Notches 100th Lacrosse Win, Aims for Undefeated Season

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

When Dick Garber came to coach lacrosse at UMass, the sport was in its unknown infancy on campus. Now almost 14 years later, the Redmen are the top team in the northeast and one of the best in the nation.

Coach Richard F. Garber Springfield College '50, won a well-deserved niche in the lacrosse record books, Saturday, by gaining his 100th coaching victory. Only 18 other collegiate coaches have achieved the mark in NCAA history. Thus, it becomes a feat that is worthy of every kind of accolade.

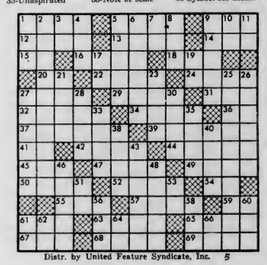
The UMass coach is not one to take much personal credit for winning 100 and he showed that side of him when he said, following the win, a 20-1 drubbing of Connecticut, "This means a lot because of all the great kids that have had a part in these wins. It is of even special significance to come this year, when we have our best team ever, both the best players and best bunch of guys."

Garber was little hard put to try and single out any particular wins as being more memorable than others. As he put it, "Anytime you are the underdog, as we have been many times over the years, and you play well, it sticks out." However, the coach did mention a defeat of New Hampshire in the last game of the 1963 season that capped a 12-2 year and won the New England championship, and also victories ever Amherst about five years ago and a 9-8 win over Brown as being big thrills.

Garber said, "We've had a lot of good players here and it is rough to try and pick out any single ones. However, I'd have to mention Dickie Hoss, Billy Maxwell, Dick Brown and Johnson to start off with. I also think that no team I've had has had such a large number of great ones as this year's group. We have guys like Mark Schlossberg, Steve Connolly, Tom Tufts, Kevin O'Connor, Gary Vassar and Tom Malone who are as good as anyone."

Though reaching such a heady plateau as the 100 win mark, Garber still is thinking about this season, a season that has been awe-inspiring in its overwhelming success. The Redmen have three games left, three games they need for a New England and Northeast title. Garber as he has done so well for years, simply said, "We'll take them one at a time."

100 wins in the satchel, and he still wants more.



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle ↓

STATE BLAPS
PERIOD POLITE
ARAR DUSAL AL
RUP GRARE RA
SA STAIN TRET
ER POTS MOOSE
LOOKE PALS
SHIRS MAIL SE
PERT LORDS IN ASE PARES SNA
CA ALLEN PEAT
SLATER TERSE
DATES STERE

ACROSS
1-Wild buffalo of India
5-Blemish
9-Quarrel
12-Fuel
13-Solitary
14-Before
15-Printer's measure
16-Row
18-Plunge
20-Printer's measure
22-Seines
24-Communists
27-Smoke and fog
29-Sly look
31-Illuminated
32-Approximately 34-Actual
36-Compass point
37-Pertaining to the mind
39-Gratify
41-Pair (abbr.)
42-Quarrel
44-Scoff
45-Permit
47-Walk
49-Sea eagles
50-Prepare for print
52-Arabian chieftain
54-Bone
55-Cravat
57-Equal
59-Maiden loved by Zeus
61-Be ill
63-Swerve
65-Later
67-Devoured
68-Is mistaken
69-Evergreen tree

DOWN
1-Simian
2-Recalled
3-A continent (abbr.)
4-Unit of Siamese currency
5-Slumber
6-Baggage carrier
7-Preposition
8-Spread for drying
9-Repulse
10-Conjunction
11-Pronoun
17-Preposition
19-Prefix: not
21-Midday
23-Leak through
25-Disagreement
26-Guides
27-Specimen
28-Grit (slang)
30-Cronies (colloq.)
33-Hits lightly
35-Unaspirated
38-Tardy
40-Danish island
43-Mollify
46-Name
48-Docks
51-Note of scale
53-Note of scale
56-Girl's name
58-Knock
60-Number
61-Cooled lava
62-Pronoun
64-Teutonic deity
66-Symbol for nickel

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 5

5 MAY

Varsity Nine Splits with Maine, Win Streak Broken

Black Bears Belt UMass, First Loss in Ten Games

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

You're playing against the percentages when you seek to continue a long winning streak. UMass discovered this Friday as Maine overcame a four run deficit in the eighth inning to go on and defeat the Redmen 12-8 at Varsity Field snapping a 10 game UMass victory streak.

The Redmen were nd impressive from the beginning in this one. Starter John Kitchen had control problems from the first inning on, although he struggled heroically until the eighth when the roof fell in.

Two walks, a stolen base, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly produced a run in the first inning for the Black Bears.

UMass however, came back with two in the second and three in the third and it began to look like the Redmen might be able to eke out a win in this one.

Maine hung in though, and kept chipping away with single runs in the third, sixth and seventh innings to narrow the gap to 5-4.

In the bottom of the seventh UMass scored three runs to take a four run lead, but one that was to be short-lived. Steve Ring, indicated himself for some sloppy fielding in center, by leading off with a homer to left. Four batters later, Joe DiSarcina singled in the last two runs.

The eighth was the disaster as Maine came up with six runs for a 10-8 lead. Bill West singled and went to second on Bruce Stafford's single. Chris Murphy struck out, but Chuck Gallant singled West in. At this point, Kitchen was replaced by George Anderson who would be the eventual loser.

Anderson walked Wayne Kuvaja to load the bases but then struck out Steve Morin for the second out. Ron Hicks followed by singling in Stafford on a hit that just got past the infield to make it 8-6.

Then Jim Cameron came up with the big hit of the day, a triple to deep center to put Maine ahead for good, 9-8. Cameron scored the final run of the inning on a passed ball.

The Black Bears got two more in the ninth off Lou Colabello on three hits, a passed ball and a walk.

SCORE!! This was a familiar sight last Saturday as the UMass stickmen lambasted UConn, 20-1. (Photo by John Kelly.

Lacrosse Men Smother UConn Beneath Avalanche of Goals, Garber Wins 100th

By BOB GANLEY
Staff Reporter

The UMass lacrosse team continued to roll along undefeated by overwhelming the University of Connecticut 20-1 on Saturday afternoon. The win, the seventh of the season for the Redmen, was the 100th career victory for coach Dick Garber and his players responded by throwing him in the showers after the game.

The Redmen took advantage of a UConn penalty early in the first period to open the scoring. Midfielders Steve Chambers and Steve Connolly combined for the goal with Connolly scoring on a blazing shot from 20 feet out. At the six minute mark, Gary Vassar missed on a shot from in close, but high scoring Tom Malone recovered the ball and scored unassisted. Then the Redmen went into a slump as UConn controlled the ball for the next six minutes but couldn't score against the UMass defense of Tom Tufts, Al Ruggiano, Bill Devore and goalie Mark Schlossberg.

UMass came back to score two goals in twenty seconds late in the period to take a 4-0 lead. Johnny Orr, goalie turned midfielder due to the loss of Steve Anderson, connected on a pass from Malone who was behind the net. Following the faceoff, Malone set up the same play, this time hitting Kevin O'Connor in front for the score.

The second period was all UMass as the Redmen ran away with the game. UConn had a good scoring opportunity at the start of the period but Schlossberg came up with an excellent save. Malone fired a shot that hit the post but he got the ball back and once again went behind the net. He spotted O'Connor in front and the UConn goalie never had a chance as the Fox scored his second goal of the game. Twenty seconds later, Vassar scored on a pass from O'Connor and after the faceoff, Malone set up O'Connor once again to make the score 7-0. Halfway through the period, O'Connor made a fine steal of a UConn pass and set up Malone for the score. This was followed by goals by Gerry Forgit, Tom Brennan, Vassar and O'Connor as the Redmen took a 12-0 halftime lead.

The third period was a repeat of the second. Steve Chambers, who spends most of the game knocking down his opponents, took a Forgit pass and shot a bouncer into the net. This was the first of three Redmen goals in a minute as Forgit fired in a backhander and Malone intercepted a Huskie pass and scored. At this point the UConn goalie looked shellshocked as he only stopped 12 of 32 shots on net in the game. Vassar and O'Connor took turns setting up each other for the next two goals and the final three Redmen goals were scored by Steve Hershcopf, Tom Moore and once again O'Connor from Malone. The fourth period was far from exciting as the only score was made by UConn's Harper on a shot from close in which Schlossberg never had a chance on.

Malone finished the day with four goals and seven assists and O'Connor had six goals and three assists. Tow two worked together for five goals in the game.

Connolly played a fine game at midfield and once ran the length of the field while eluding several UConn defenders and received a fine hand from the crowd. The third midfield of Bob Lachance, Bob Florin and Larry Diamond saw a lot of action and did a creditable job.

The 20 goals gave the Redmen 143 for the season which is two short of their season record. Garber will be looking for the first of his second hundred wins when the Redmen host UNH on Tuesday.

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 7

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 131
MONDAY, MAY 5, 1969

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

1	6:30	Smashers vs. Spartans
2	6:30	Bruisers vs. Academics
3	6:30	Seagrams vs. Ironmen
1	7:30	Lobos vs. Nerves
2	7:30	Rogues vs. Blitzers
3	7:30	Bedoinks vs. Loggia
4	7:30	Cement vs. Tubes
1	8:30	Untouchables vs. Benny's
2	8:30	Cees vs. Roosters
3	8:30	Sticks vs. Gamma
4	8:30	Weasels vs. TF & WZ
1	9:30	Old Timers vs. Chem Dept.
2	9:30	Old Men vs. Ossicles
3	9:30	Beadledams vs. Dinks
4	9:30	Seals vs. Groups

SOCCER

2	4:25	Cor. 1 vs. Pos. 2
3	4:25	Cor. 3 vs. Pos. 4
4	4:25	Athenian 1 vs. Pos. 2
5	4:25	Athenian 3 vs. Pos. 4
6	4:25	Zooms vs. Trojans
2	5:15	PSD vs. SPE
3	5:15	AEP vs. TC

Revenging Redmen Return, Smear Maine Sat., 12-2

Collecting fifteen base hits, UMass rolled to a 12-2 baseball victory over Maine here on Saturday to avenge Friday's 12-8 heartbreaker and to proceed one step further along the road to the championship of the Yankee Conference.

The Redmen now own a 7-1 conference mark and have regained first place which they had surrendered to the Black Bears a day earlier. Maine occupies second place with its 1-1 record. It is the only UMass conference rival with less than two defeats.

Every starter for the home team had at least one hit as Redmen bats were exploding. It took an error, however, to open the floodgates in the bottom of the fifth.

Maine had gone ahead, 2-0, in the top of the fifth frame when B. Curry, Steve Morin, Ron Hicks and Jim Cameron singled in succession off of UMass starter Don Anderson, who went on to record his sixth victory against no defeats.

While working from a stretch delivery, Curry, the Black Bear starting hurler, had blanked UMass until the decisive fifth when he ran into all sorts of trouble.

Mitch Salnick, who has recovered from a foot injury, and Steve Stanford opened the inning with a single and a walk respectively. They advanced to second and third on an Anderson sacrifice. Ray Ellerbrook then laced a single to left to bring home Salnick, but the next batter, Joe DiSarcina, grounded out.

With runners on second and third, Curry loaded the sacks by intentionally walking Bob Hansen. The strategy looked golden when Tony Chinappi hit an easy dribbler to short. However, Cameron the shortstop, threw wildly past first and two runs crossed the plate. Dick Pepin then smashed a triple to put UMass in command 5-2.

Five more Redmen made it home in the sixth inning as 11 men came to bat with Salnick, Stanford, Anderson, Ellerbrook and Chinappi all chipping in with timely base hits.

Di Sarcina, Hansen and Chinappi all cracked singles in the seventh as UMass added its last two scores in support of Anderson.

The Redmen, whose overall record stands at 13-6, have Yankee Conference contests left with New Hampshire and Rhode Island. They play William away on Monday and will be given the chance of clinching the conference crown and an NCAA tourney bid berth with road games against URI on Wednesday and UNH on Saturday.

Tracksters Amaze Yankee Conf., Outscore Rhody in Championships

By DAVE EVANS
Staff Reporter

Riding an amazing comeback wave, the UMass track team overtook stunned rival URI to win the 22nd Yankee Conference Outdoor Trace and Field Championships on Saturday, 66-63.

Leading the assault were the sprinters and two milers, with the mile relay team clinching the victory. After trailing for most of the meet, once by 33 points, the Redmen rallied and began picking away at Rhode Island's commanding lead.

Starting the day off on a rather ominous note was the 16 pound hammer throw where senior Bill Wlen, while making the finals, was not throwing up to par and could manage only sixth place.

In the long jump, junior Rip Dyer sailed 21'5" to nail down fourth place for the Redmen. Dave Canterbury, while finishing sixth in the long jump, came back later on to take a fifth in the triple jump with the good distance of 42'3".

CoCaptain Dave Schlatka was upset in the discus by Horace Jennings of URI as Schlatka's best toss of 142' was well below what he usually throws. Sophomore Bill Mahoney continued his excellent javelin throwing, taking third place with a heave of 193'. Another sophomore, Emerson Hiller came up with a clutch performance at he pole vaulted 13' to take fifth place. This is only his second competition this year. Hiller just missed his third attempt at 13'6", had he cleared he would have ended up in second.

UMass also placed two men in the high jump, with Cal Carpenter taking second and John Arienson fourth, UNH's big star Jeff Bannister won that event, along with two others - the 120 yard high hurdles and the 44 yard intermediate hurdles. UMass' Gerry Spellman was third in both these hurdle races. The 120 yard highs was a real "photo" as Bannister, Spellman, and UConn's Peter Lacillaide were all there at the tape. Bannister out-lunged the other two, and the judges gave Lacillaide second.

The mile run was a repeat of the indoor race with UConn taking 1, 2, and 3, while UMass' Ron Wayne was fourth. The winning time of 4:12.5 by Craig McColl 9uconn) was a new conference record.

Probably the most exciting race of the day, the mile relay excepted, was the 440 yard run, won by Bob Hasselbaum in 49.1 In the 100 yd. dash, Walter Mayo came on to win the final in 9.9 sec., as he avenged an earlier loss to teammate Dave Marble. Marble placed third in the final and Steve Chase was fifth for UMass.

In the 880 yard run, Diego Gonzalez barrelled out to an early lead, but lost ground to UConn's Steve Flanagan won in 1:53.1 and Gonzales faded back to third, placing fourth overall in the meet.

With only three events left on the program, the Redmen still trailed URI by 17 points. The sprinters went back to work as the 200 yard dash was the next event. Getting off to slow starts, both Chase and Marble came roaring down the straights to grab first and second in that order.

In the two mile run, UMass needed two places and they were provided by Charlie Lang, the winner in 9:13, a new conference record, Paul Hoss in fourth and Wayne in fifth. UConn took second and third. Once again UConn was shut out and UMass had taken over the lead by two points.

One event remained, the mile relay, and the Redmen had to beat URI to win the meet. The team, composed of Spellman, Clarence Gaynor, Marble and Hasselbaum, placed third, one spot ahead of URI in a wild battle that saw the lead exchanged several times, with the final winner being UNH. The final scores of the first three teams indicates the closeness of competition; UMass 66, URI 63, and UConn 60.

TRACK TALK - Sprinter Dave Marble was high scorer for the Redmen with 8 points . . . Coach O'Brien's "trackless wonders" have won three out of their last four outdoor Yankee Conference Championships . . . Field events coach Gary Schwartz, who has made great strides toward developing the field team here at UMass is being drafted into the army this June. He'll be lost for two years, but will hopefully return to this school when he is discharged . . . He is a former Big 8 discus champ from Kansas University.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 132 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1969

ABM System Seen as a 'Threat' To Survival of Nation's Democracy

By LOUIS DIMORACO
Staff Reporter

The implementation of the ABM system would be a "threat to the continued survival of the spirit of good will and even democracy in this country," Dr. Stephen Weinberg said last night at a debate with Dr. D. G. Brennan concerning the proposed anti-ballistic missle system.

Dr. Weinberg, a theoretical physicist at MIT and a critic of the United States' defense policy opposed the ABM system while Dr. Brennan, former president of the Hudson Institute, debated in favor of the system.

Brennan said, in the thiry minute preliminary talk allowed to each speaker, his reasons for the ABM system were "not identical with Nixon's rationale". He pointed out, however, that a "nuclear war can happen" and that the presence of a large scale defense system "has a lot to do with how well this country survives the war."

Weinberg said that the primary debate was with the Administration's reasons behind the employment of the ABM system, but that he would try to deal equally with Brennan's points in favor. The MIT professor said that the "ability of the ABM system to prevent was has been rejected by the Administration", and Nixon has "warned against strong optimism that the system could prevent all out war." He added that "any attempt to defend our cities denies opponents the ability to punish us for a first strike" and this situation could lead to a buildup of Russia's equivalent to the ABM or ICBM or both.

Brennan said that "a substantial defense could reduce fatalities in a nuclear war to 10-15%, as opposed to 50% without the defense". And, he added, "people are not going to be button happy when you tell them that only 20 million people will be killed in a nuclear war instead of 100 million."

As to whether the ABM system would provoke an arms race Brenman said that "the Soviets, if anything, would increase their defenses" and also "no Russian at the present has said it would be necessary to increase their offensive strength" if we inacted the ABM program.

Weinberg stated that the Administration was "shifting justifications" for the system. "More than one half of the money for the ABM would go to the protection of our cities" and not to protect our nuclear deterrents which was the Administration's initial concern. He continued by saying that the mission of the ABM, (whether to act as protection against a light attack from Communist China, or a large scale attack from the Soviet Union) was still in doubt.

"The cost of the ABM system would rise every year" and augment the "polarization that the Vietnam war has started." The costs of the system "is not the critical issue but rather what we want to take place in the arms race."

Brennan pointed out that the United States concentrates on offensive nuclear weapons three times as much as on defensive ones, "and in the Soviet Union the reverse is the case".

A Debate on the ABM System was held last night in the Engineering Auditorium. Participating in the debate were left to right: Chris McGahan, Dr. D. G. Brennan of the Hudson Institute, and Dr. Stephen Weinberg of MIT. (MDC photo by Dave Craig).

Proposed Convocation Center Under Review of Senate

By DREW B STERGIS
Staff Reporter

The undergraduate student senate soon will review a proposal to spend approximately $16,000, 000 of student money for the construction of a multi-purpose student activities and convocation center.

A recent proposal, prepared by the Interdisciplinary Development Committee, outlines the scope of the center. The proposed project plans to establish the following for university students:

Better facilities for large audience student events. With seating for 12,000-15,000, the building would house theater and musical productions, convocations, basketball, conferences, displays, and various other meetings.

New facilities for ice shows and intercollegiate hockey (seating 6, 000).

Recreational skating.

Increased recreational athletics (intramural and free play).

New communication center to include studios, offices, and various rooms, workshops and laboratories.

More specifically, the center would serve several groups within the campus community by making the following space available:

Rehearsal, workshop, and storage space for the Operetta Guild, Roister Doisters, Flying Redmen, and Precisionettes.

Recreational and intramural activities in hockey, crew, judo, skiing, golf, parachute, outing, handball, squash, fencing, weight lifting, and basketball.

Radio and TV facilities (including space for WMUA, WFCR, ETV, and ITV).

The activities center would be headed by a professional staff guided by a governing board composed of 11 voting students and 8 non-voting faculty, alumni, and administrators.

The probable cost of the project is based on the cost of a similar facility at Notre Dame University. An activities center here, if occupied by 1975, would cost approximately $16,000,000. The probable student tax for such a facility would be approximately $25 per student per semester for 30 years.

Richard Story, education editor of the MDC, in a recent review of the center's proposal, points out that the $25 tax is probably "wildly optimistic", especially since graduate student support may not be obtained and the committee's estimate of 30,000 students on this campus by 1980 may not be correct.

The proposal concludes with a recommendation for the promotion of outside use (conference and public) of the facility to raise funds to minimize ticket costs for student events.

The chairmen of the Interdisciplinary Development Committee, which prepared the proposal for the center, are Paul Silverman, Leo Redfern, and Warren McGuirk.

The student senates are faced with the following question from the proposal: "If you feel that the student body of the University needs such a facility by 1974-75, your approval to initiate architectural and engineering studies of this project is required now."

In reviewing the proposal, the senates must first and foremost consider the vast expense of this project. Also, the student representatives must decide if this huge multi-purpose facility is really necessary.

Undergraduate student senate president Bruce Balboni views the center as "a needed facility as long as it can be student controlled, since it will be supported by student taxes."

Richard Story, in his review of the proposal, suggests that "one facility could not help but be strained by compromise in handling everything from theater and concert music to rock bands to intercollegiate basketball and hockey. All of these activities have such separate semi-permanent needs that one facility really couln't serve them all well and fully."

(Continued on Page 2)

Campus Erupts as Celtics Win; 4000 March on Amherst Common

Four thousand UMass students marched from Orchard Hill onto Amherst Common early this morning, celebrating the Boston Celtics playoff victory over the Los Angeles Lakers, 108-106. The spontaneous demonstration was reminescent of the one held here two years ago when the Red Sox won the pennant.

Amherst police closed North Pleasant Street as the marchers, chanting "We're number 1" charged into the center of town. They then paraded around the Amherst Common, lighting fire crackers, and throwing confetti, and were joined by about 100 Amherst College students.

It all began about 12:30 as the Celtics downed the Lakers to notch their 11th basketball crown in 13 years, in a wild and wooly contest. The Celtics led for the entire ballgame, and were tied only once at 60 all in the third quarter. Boston, led by John Havlicek, Sam Jones, Emmett Bryant and Don Nelson then proceeded to a 15 point lead at the end of the third quarter.

However, the Lakers behind Jerry West, kept coming back in the last period and closed within a couple of points late in the contest. The late moments were as hectic as any ever seen as with Laker's Wilt Chamberlain injured, and Boston player-coach Bill Russell saddled with 5 personal fouls the teams missed opportunities. Two free throws by Siegfried with seconds left finally iced the game for Boston, and the Celtics were once again World Champions.

As the game ended about 2,000 students emptied their dorms in Southwest, amid falling confetti, fire crackers, and toilet paper. They then ran toward the center of campus and crowded into the Hatch at about 12:45. As the students piled out of the Hatch minutes later, the Student Union was officially closed "to guard against any vandalism". The students, now numbering close to 3,000 marched to Orchard Hill, where they were joined by another thousand students amid a shower of confetti.

The entire group, now numbering over 4,000 began their march toward the center of town, shouting and singing. The crowd was evenly made up of men and women, several of whom wore pajama tops under light jackets. At least two makeshift signs proclaiming "Russell is God" and "Boston is Best" were hung from the windows of Coolidge Tower.

The only casualties reported were four broken plates in the Hatch.

SWAP Will Dissolve Itself; Cannot Operate Under Budget

In a surprise move Sunday night, Glen Mangurian, representing SWAP, announced that the committee would dissolve itself since they could not operate under an amendment to their budget just passed by the Student Senate.

The Student Senate passed the following amendment: "The committee which shall select the delegates to SWAP shall consist of three members of the Swap Committee, the President of the Student Senate, or his designated representative, one representative from the Afro-Am and a representative from the Provost's office."

Dissolution of the SWAP committee means, in effect, that there will be no SWAP conference next year.

After some debate the Student Senate voted to reconsider the amendment and voted on it again. This time the amendement was defeated however, when the vote total was announced, it was discovered that the Senate did not have a quorum present. Vice-president Cindi Olken ruled the vote defeating the amendment void. The senate meeting was then adjourned.

Senators speaking against the amendment and therefore in effect for SWAP position were Jim Moran, Jim Fox, Bill Perkins, Larry Marcus and Paul Silverman. Speaking for the amendment and against the SWAP Commitee's view were Dan Madden, Rick Staples and others.

As it stand now, the budget exists with the binding clause passed by the first vote of the Senate. The amendment will be considered again tommorrow night at the Senate meeting.

Libe May be Open 24 Hours a Day During Exams

The possibility of Goddell Library staying open 24 hours a day during exam period depends on the availability of male library personnel to work nights, according to Jim Kennedy, associate director of the Library.

The Library plans to be open at least until 2:00 a.m. from May 16-29, but the availability of stack and reserve services during this time will also depend on how many male library workers are available.

Kennedy said that the possibility of the Library staying open all night during exam period was, at this time, "about 50-50."

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two of President Nixon's disputed nominations to important posts in the area of racial relations were approved Monday as the Senate overrode Southern opposition to one of the appointees.

The nomination of James E. Allen Jr. as U.S. commissioner of education was approved on a 55-15 vote after Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., attacked the nominee as an advocate of bussing children to achieve racial balance in schools.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Republicans fired a voley of complaints Monday against a favorite target, Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas. They suggested among other things that Fortas resign because he reportedly accepted a $20,000 fee and then waited 11 months to return it.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy joined in proposals for an investigation of Fortas' transaction with the family of financier Louis E. Wolfson. Wolfson, a former Fortas client, now is serving a jail sentence for violation of the federal securities laws.

MIAMI (AP) - A National Airlines jetliner carrying 75 persons was hijacked to Cuba Monday.

75¢ S U MOVIE 75¢

Double Feature

Kenneth Anger's

SCORPIO RISING

and

Robert Downey's

CHAFED ELBOWS

S.U. Ballroom 6:00 and 8:15

DON'T JUST LOOK LIKE, SMELL LIKE SPRING FLOWERS from YARDLEY.

Yardley's new "Springflower" scent comes in cologne and all types of bath scents for your convenience. You can now get a $3.75 bottle of cologne for only $2.00 at

COLLEGE DRUG

BOYS CAMP

has

COUNSELOR OPENINGS

Men for swimming, sailing, canoe instruction, water-skiing, boat driving, Red Cross W.S.I. required. Camp pays tuition for Red Cross Aquatic School.

Other openings include nature, riflery, archery. 41st year in Berkshires, Mass.

Send full details, phone, to camp Mah-Kee-Nac, 137 Thacher Lane, South Orange, N.J. 07079.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Convocation Center

(Continued from Page1)

Story believes that several of the planned functions of the convocation and activities center could be better handled by other facilities, some of which already exist. He lists the following as examples:

The forthcoming Fine Arts Center will include much more suitable theater and music space.

Basketball games and large rock band performances might be more appropriately handled in a renovated enlarged Cage.

There are very few large convocations and meetings through the year at this University.

A communications center should be in the center of the campus. Such location of the activities facility is improbable.

A realistic look at the center's proposal cannot help but recognize that the essential functions of the building would be athletic. Hockey and various other ice functions, including ice shows and free skating, receive considerable attention in the building proposal.

The Senate must carefully weigh the importance of these ice activities in their consideration of this proposal.

Story suggests that the entire scope of the center's proposal may be too vast. Perhaps consideration of a facility "much smaller and much less expensive" would be appropriate.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

D. O'Connell Sons Meet Demands At Open Meeting of MLK Council

In an open meeting held by the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council last Friday, a new demand was made of Daniel O'Connell Sons and the response to an old one was accepted.

Two weeks ago, the King Council demanded that O'Conner hire at least five new minority group employees by May 2. This move was made as an opening step in correcting racial imbalance on campus construction projects that has existed for over three years.

During the past 10 days, in response to the King Council demands, O'Connell has hired 9 new minority group employees, six of whom are working on the campus. Gil Saik, Executive Secretary of the King Council, announced these figures at the start of Friday's open meeting. He expressed great satisfaction with the results, but added a reservation.

"The question still remains," he said, "of why this was not done sooner. It seems apparent that pressure makes the difference in determining the order of priority that O'Connell gives this problem. We must continue to maintain some form of pressure on O'Connell, on the subcontractors, and on the unions in order to achieve any meaningful improvements."

Saik then read the clause which the King Council had given the Administration for possible inclusion in all future contracts, and suggested that the next step be to ask O'Connell to agree to accept the clause as an addition in his present UMass contracts. The clause, which calls for either a minimum of 15% black and Puerto Rican representation at all levels or affidavit shall be filed at least once per month, by the tenth day of said month, when said 15% figure has not been attained during and throughout the previous month. The obligation contained in the monthly statements explaining why this figure has not been attained and what steps are being taken to correct the situation, will also be sent to the Mass Building Authority and the Bureau of Building Construction. The clause follows:

Contractor agrees that he shall use his best efforts to employ a substantial number of minority group members at all levels, especially Negroes and Spanish-Americans. If the number of minority group members so employed is, or during the life of the contract, becomes, less than 15% of the total number of employees so employed at a given level, the contractor agrees to furnish an affidavit explaining the reasons for such situation. Said affidavit shall contain a detailed listing of contractor's efforts to obtain qualified minority group personnel and shall enumerate the dates, places, specific subject matter, and results of any meeting, conferences or the like with appropriate minority group employment agencies or other bodies. Said first sentence hereof is independent and is not meant to be qualified by any other provisions of this clause, nor may it be so construed. Breach of this provision shall be considered a breach of the entire contract.

The group unanimously agreed to submit the clause to O'Connell.

In later discussion, the group decided that it was necessary to establish greater contact with the subcontractors and union officials, and a group of grad students volunteered to work on this during the summer. They will act as corps and will attempt to gather other students who will be on campus for the summer to help. Further information on this can be obtained at the King Council office in 207 Hampshire, or by calling 545-0648.

Even if you are just an errand boy on for the summer, you don't have to look like it. Wear shoes with style and taste,

BOSTONIANS & MANSFIELDS

and look like the boss. You can get them at

BOLLES FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES

1971

Executive Council Applications DUE TOMORROW

Available R.S.O. Office 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

THIS IS YOUR CLASS — HELP RUN

YOUR WINTER CARNIVAL

IN 1970

Symphony Band Concert was "Beautifully Controlled"

The University of Massachusetts Symphony Band gave a concert Sunday at 4:00 in Bowker Auditorium. The most remarkable feature of the concert was the excellent balance of ensemble that conductor John Jenkins was able to achieve. Even in such richly scored works as Wagner's TRAUERSYMPHONIE and ELSA'S PROCESSION TO THE CATHEDRAL, there was always a clear sense of melody, while the inner voices were quite audible. The performance was beautifully controlled, and the balance in the final bars was outstanding.

Peter Mennin's fine CANZONA benefitted from the very precise timing of all the musicians, as well as the clean articulation of the woodwinds and the powerful playing of the brass. The last notes of this piece might easily come across simply as loud sounds, but under Jenkins' careful direction they sounded as clearly defined chords. NOBLES OF THE MYSTIC SHRINE is one of Sousa's better marches, and it, too, received a good performance, with a well-chosen tempo.

Kabalevsky's opular overture to COLAS BREUGNON was conducted by Larry Weed. Mr. Weed did not demonstrate the same firm control over the band that Mr. Jenkins did in the other pieces, and the overture suffered from lack of precision and balance in many passages.

The novelty of the afternoon was the GOOD SOLDIER SCHWEIK SUITE by the late American composer Robert Kurka. The Suite was drawn from the anti-war film of the same title, and was first played in 1952. This satirical music is quite reminiscent of Prokofiev's LIEUTENANT KIJE in its general style and intent. The best parts of the Suite are its livelier sections, such as the witty March, and these sections also received the best playing from the reduced ensemble. Some of the playing in the Lament and Pastoral was uneven. Charles Lehrer's English Horn solo in the Lament was very expressive, and there were some strong solos by trumpeter Gerald Mirliani and clarinetist Gerald Chenoweth.

One small complaint: if the band is going to play arrangements of orchestral works, the arrangers should be given credit on the program.

Effective immediately, all Peter Pan busses will pick up and drop passengers at the Haigus Mall, in front of Whitmore. Bus tickets will still be sold in the Student Union Ticket office.

NODDING OUT

listening to second-rate groups doing the 23rd rendition you've heard this semester of "Sunshine Of Your Love"? Then fall by The Woodrose Ballroom on weekends. The Woodrose was opened to present good rock in a multi-media environment to a hip audience. At The Woodrose you have nothing to lose but your head.

CCEBS Representatives are Guests At Today's MLK Council Coffee Hour

The Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council, responding to numberous requests from interested students, has invited CCEBS officials to be guests at its regular Tuesday afternoon Coffee Hour. As usual, the program will be held in the Student Union Colonial Lounge between noon and 2 p.m. today.

Invited guests are co-directors John Childs, Assistant Dean of Admissions, and Dallas Darland, Assistant to the Provost. Also invited is Bill Bromery, President of the CCEBS Committee, and a CCEBS student to be chosen by Dean Childs.

CCEBS, the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students, has been the subject of many rumors and the victim of much misinformation during the past year. It is hoped that the informal question-and-answer format of this Coffee Hour will help to broaden campus understanding of this major program.

The Coffee Hour will be open as usual to all interested members of the University community---students, faculty, staff, and administrators. There will be free coffee.

OFFICIAL CLASS RINGS

by Josten's

Do you have YOURS yet?

Still time to order before graduation from

Josten's factory representatives

on May 7, 1969 at the University Store, Student Union

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Thunderbird convertible, full power, good condition, radio, heater, whitewalls, stereo tape recorder. Call 0788-545-0174 or 549-0640. Ask for Dave Reardon. 5-7

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3067 after 7 p.m. 5-7

'66 Mustang, V-8 conv., must sell. Best offer. Good cond. 584-0614. 5-6

Seeking security? 1964 Chevy Belair, 4 door, automatic transmission, new battery, snow tires, best offer. 549-0644. 5-7

1962 VW, new sunroof and tires, excel. mech. cond., clean inside and out, $500. Call 665-3087. 5-7

1965 TR4 BRG., R. & H., W.W., 2 tops, 2 tonneau, recent muffler and generator, exc. cond., $1195. Call 549-1767. 5-9

Late 1966 Volvo, 2 dr., extras. Immaculate. Going abroad. Asking $1,800. 549-6661 eves. 5-9

1967 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 527-0174 after 6 p.m. 5-13

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler, 5 speed, best offer over $400.00. Call 584-2643 evenings. 5-12

1961 Chevrolet — 4 door, standard transmission, good condition, snow tires, $50.00. Call 665-3057. 5-8

1965 Chevy II Nova, black convertible with red interior, 6 cylinder, automatic, good condition, best offer. Call 253-9417 or 546-9216. Ask for Becky in 204. 5-7

'66 VW Fastback, 3500 miles only. Excellent condition Must sell Call 253-7126. 5-7

FOR SALE

Pentax 35mm SLR, excellent condition; many accessories, $125.00 Call Mike 584-6031. 5-8

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjan Cymbals, Traps Case and Naugahide Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $750, asking $350, 546-7017. 5-12

Honda 50, excellent condition. Barely used, $150. (1968). Call 253-7743. 5-6

Pentax Spotmatic SLR Camera with thru-the-lens metering control and F/1.4 lens. Lens shade, 2X lens extender, retating polarising filter, red green filter, cable release and accessary shoe. Best offer. Need cash. Call 665-3143. 5-5

Refrigerator for sale, very large freezer. Call 546-7783. 5-7

Washing Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition. 5 year guarantee. Original cost $220.00. Price $150. Call 665-2718 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

Autoharp, 12 chords, 36 strings, easy to play. Call Kathy, 313 Lewis, 545-2514. 5-9

Frigidaire Dishwasher, 1 yr. old; 2 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable. Call 545-2469. 5-10

1947 Indian Chief Motorcycle 1250 cc, has to be put together, newly painted, chopped fenders, tanks, chrome rims, brake, clutch assembly, forks, highrise bars, 3 sp. tankshift and parts of engine, plus 2 ex. engines, and parts $400.00. Call 5-2574 ask for Curt Bellavance or see me at Grad Print Making Office, Bartlett Hall. 5-12

Canonflex 35 mm. camera SLR with F1.2 lens, perfect condition, phone 546-5099 after 7. Leave name and phone. 5-12

One Encyclopedia Americana, excellent condition, 1966 edition, 30 volume set, $135.00. Call 546-5124. 5-12

FOR RENT

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 Including utilities. Call 253-5760. 5-8

1 Bedroom Apartment in Colonial Village, $110 with utilities. Available June 1. Call 256-0282. 5-5

Summer Sublet — 6 room house, 5 bedrooms, furnished, in Hadley. Rent arranged. Call 546-9188 or 546-9192 after 6. 5-6

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 549-6474. 5-8

Available June 1st — 2½ room apt., rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 5-7

To rent for summer or longer if desired — 2½ room apt., all utilities included, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus, $118/month, Apt. 3, Mill Hollow Apts., No. Amherst. See after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Apartment to sublet — available June 1 to August 31, 3½ rooms, utilities included. Call after 5 p.m. 665-3085. 5-8

Summer Rental — Amherst, centrally located 3 room apartment on two floors, plenty of storage, partially furnished, very homey, Available June 1st - Sept. 1st. Responsible persons only. Call 253-7364 after 4 p.m. 5-9

Summer Students — 5 room furnished apt., Hadley, 4 students, June - Aug. Call 586-0118. 5-12

Summer Students — 4 room furnished apt., Hadley, 3-4 students, available June-Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-0876. 5-06

5 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept 1. In center of Amherst, over C & C Package Store, $135 month, including utilities. Call 253-7800. 5-12

1 bedroom apartment in new section of Colonial Village, sublet from June 1 to Sept 1 or sign one year rear lease. $195 with utilities Call 253-7645. 5-8

Summer sublet, five bedroom house in wooded area 3 miles from Campus, $200 per month. Call Bob at 546-9267 or Eric at 546-9063. 5-7

Sumerfer Sublet — Apt. in Hadley, furnished, utilities included, washer-dryer, 2 bedrooms, ain't bad; rent arranged; call 546-9194 after 6. 5-13

HELP WANTED

1 qualified water safety instructor for summer camp in Marrland. Call Bill 546-7545. 5-6

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Tharp, UM '68, 665-3167. TF

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lang's Photo, 205 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and Behi automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-9118. 5-16

WANTED

Musical group to volunteer to perform at State Hospital function on May 11. Call Walter (546-8975) or Peter (546-8956). 5-7

Wanted — Members for the NAAFP. If you would like to join the National Association for the Advancement of FOO People, write: NAAFP, WMUA, Fine Building, U. of Mass. Help a FOO. 5-9

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming. 5-9

Free Love. Groovy little puppies seeks a loving home. Skip Spire, 549-3539. 5-8

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 1 female roommate to share Puffton Apt., $44 per month, all utilities with air cond. and pool. June 1 - Aug. 31. Call 546-9901 or 546-9897. 5-6

Wanted — upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $25.00 per month. No mistake. Hurry. Call Lou 665-1672 after 6:00 p.m. 5-9

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6349 or 6-6350. 5-13

Wanted — Female apt. mates for partly furnished apartment — ½ mile from Campus starting Sept. 1, graduate students or mature under graduates. Utilities paid. Basement storage, washer, dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposal, air conditione, reasonable price Please call 546-7333 preferably evenings. 5-8

Female roommates wanted — luxe apartment, great for summertime. Immediate and June 1st occupancy, fireplace, pond, 150 acres, $58.00 month. Call 467-7918 and ask for Leslie or Carol. 5-12

One male roommate wanted for summer to share furnished apartment in Puffton Village, air conditioned, swimming pool, tennis courts, one mile north of Campus, $65/mo. Call 549-1067. 5-9

WANTED TO RENT

3 or 4 bedroom furnished house or apartment. Available preferably Sept. 1. Call 546-9097, ask for Gary. 5-7

PERSONAL

Belchertown Beat — Money needed for legal fees for Chandler House. Please send donations to 2000 Coolidge. 5-12

Campus Comment

FROM OUR SIDE
On Salaries

The question concerning remuneration or incentives for student editors is indeed complicated. While it is true that a publication is considered to be an extra-curricular activity, the amount of time required to coordinate a newspaper the size of the DAILY COLLEGIAN, and the tremendous responsibility of the editor s to the student body, place it in a category separate from other leisure organizations. This responsibility is greatest in two areas: in the administration of the largest budget of any R.S.O., and in the field of journalistic professionalism itself.

The experience gained from holding an editorial position is definitely invaluable, but at times the holder of such a position may feel that it's more of an "experience" that any full-time student is able to, or should have to, put up with. This can be particularly true on a campus such as ours where the majority of students do not want to participate, and do not really appreciate the time and effort being spent mainly in their behalf. Enjoyment, experience, and other such intangibles are often not enough to compensate for the mental and physical energy expended in the line of duty.

All the national studies to date indicate that UMass is at least five years behind other schools of comparable size in the payment of student editors. The most recent survey conducted in 1968 gave the following results:

	REPORTS	NO. PAID	NO. UNPAID
Dailies	33	30	3 (includes M.D.C.)
Bi/Tri Weekly	16	13	3
Weeklies	22	17	5
TOTALS	71	60	11

Another study conducted in 1967 by former Senator Pat Petow for the Senate Finance Committee indicated that of the forty-two colleges who responded to that survey, thirty-five (or eighty-six percent) of the schools paid their student editors.

A third survey conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press in 1965-66 indicated that out of twenty-seven dailies responding, twenty-seven (one hundred percent) paid their editors, and that out of twenty-seven bi/tri weeklies responding, twenty-four paid their editors, three did not (one of which they was the tri-weekly MASS. COLLEGIAN).

In the past years the Senate has refused to grant salaries to Collegian editors because they feared that it would start a chain reaction, the end result being other organizations requesting salaries. For the Senate to refuse to pay DAILY COLLEGIAN editors for this reason, would be an example of the Senate shirking its responsibility. Any organization can ask for salaries when it submits its budget. It would be the Senate's responsibility to decide as each individual budget comes to the floor whether or not students in that organization deserve to be paid on the basis of the service they provide to the campus community.

Compensation for DAILY COLLEGIAN editors is essential because:

1) It helps to compensate for excessive time and energy expended on what could be considered a "service" to the student body. The Editor of the DAILY COLLEGIAN spends at least 40 hours a week, other elected editors at least 20 hours a week, working on the paper;

2) It is necessary to maintain a competant staff. Without pay, students who become good newspapermen often seek outside employment. Hence pay helps to attract qualified people who would otherwise be lost to local newspapers or other part-time jobs. In the past year, the DAILY COLLEGIAN lost four of its top reporters to outside jobs.

3) Editors are expected to act like professionals, and you pay professionals.

Most editors tend to agree that although the experience is great, the same experience could be had, with pay, on a local professional newspaper. Therefore, compensation of some sort is necessary to maintain a corps of competant editors and a competant staff.

Another good point, mentioned by the editor o f the WESTERN HERALD at Western Michigan University, is that "because newspaper work is much more demanding (due to the constant deadlines) than other campus activities, pay is almost necessary."

It would appear that, from the facts gathered in studies, the Massachusetts DAILY COLLEGIAN is far behind the nation's colleges in providing a realistic system of compensation for editors and staffers. Till now the problem has been more imagined than real, but the paper's present rate of growth and its projections for the future make it imperative that a system be initiated which will insure that qualified people will not only WANT to assume positions of responsibility, but also that they will be financially able to do so.

One editor offered his solution to the problem in the form of a philosophical quoter: "Money draws talent." This is perhaps the most realistic attitude of all.

The Editors

"An The Kremlin's 'll Git You
Ef You Don't — Watch — Out!"

Spring Day!

Hello Umies, the time is here
For grassin', grossin' and drinking beer.
Spring Day's come - our annual follies,
For getting stoned and ballin' dollies,
Paul Lereaux has just retired,
Churvy Kilroy is now inspired,
To ring the bells at ten-olive,
And keep the Spring Day Spirit alive.
The football field will be our station
To thumb our noses at the Administration.
Churvy really is emphatic -
Tuesday's the day to
Be Xstatic
Churvy P. Kilroy and Committee

A Language?

Several points of vie w were presented last Thursday night at the meeting called to discuss the Foreign Language requirement in the College of Arts and Sciences. These points of view were in a general way applicable to other requirements as well.

A few students stated that they probably would have taken a foreign language course even if it had not been required. Other students felt that they simply didn't have the skills to master a foreign language course and could not see putting the time and effort into a course which they considered was of little value to them.

As a Spanish major I'm in favor of abolishing the foreign language requirement but please let's be fair about it. If the language requirement is to be abolished, why not abolish or at least reduce the math and science requirements? The average student at the University takes only two semesters of a foreign language as compared to six semesters of math and science. Many students aren't adept in these fields and also can't see putting their time into something which they don't feel is of any value to them.

The major reason presented for abolishing the foreign language requirement was that the course was not considered relevant by the students who had taken the courses in the past. The College of Arts and Sciences however seems to consider the course relevant for every individual within the College.

I think the whole meaning of relevancy has been overlooked. Each person within this University is an individual. What is relevant to one individual is not necessarily to another individual. The individual student should be allowed to decide for himself what courses are relevant to him, especially in view of the fact that most students are at the University for only eight semesters.

It's my opinion that the College of Arts and Sciences should abolish its requirements. Each department should set up its own guidelines for its majors since they are better aware of the needs of their majors than is C.A.S.

Militarism?

To me, requirements constitute "forced knowledge". Some may argue that by being required to take certain courses students are introduced to certain fields of knowledge which they may otherwise never have encountered and which they actually feel they got something out of and actually enjoyed. However, I believe that the small number of students for whom this statement may hold are far outnumbered by the students who gain no lasting knowledge, insight or enjoyment from courses which they are forced to take.

Joan Donohue

Concerning Tuesday's distribution to ROTC students of General Shoup's article on American Militarism, as I told the committee distributing the article, if it were true and "America is an aggressive and military nation guided by the Defense Department," I would think the committee would be arident supporters of ROTC on the campuses of liberal educational institutions.

LEON J. FRIEDMAN
Colonel, USAF
Professor of Air Science

Students Incentives!!

This letter is written at the request of the Collegian to offer an opposing view to their editorial dealing with why the senior editorial staff should receive incentives, i.e. wages, for their work on the paper; however, I must address my remarks toward the entire concept of paying salaries to students with money derived in whole or in part from the student tax which is a proportional assessment of the student body to provide the capital for the organizations and activities the senate votes to fund. If only the Collegian were to be considered for such an innovation, there might not be such an outcry from myself and a number of other senators but similar requests for officers and/or staff have been received from the Senate itself, Yahoo and the Collegian. With little doubt the other campus empires -- WMUA, Index, Spectrum and the class governments -- will not wait too long before following suit. Not long afterward, I fear, the entire list of RSO organizations which are paid for from the Student Activities Tax Fund would seek justification for paying their officers and/or members.

I am willing to grant that the above fear may be too generalized but it is possible. In addition there are a number of specific reasons why neither the Collegian nor any other group should be granted incentives. These are as follows:

1. The Student Senate Financial Policy Booklet specifically prohibits the "payment of any salary, commission, scholarship, or grant in aid" to any student by virtue of his being a member or officer of any FSO organization or of the Student Senate. Part 3B of this current document seems to be quite specific and, although it surely can be amended out, was inserted for this very reason.

2. Recognition of the efforts of the senior staff would totally neglect the uncounted hours contributed by typists, reporters, photo staff and makeup crew. Likewise, recognition of the officers of the senate would deny compensation to the many members of the senate who devote long hours to their particular THING.

3. Point number two naturally leads to the point that the persons making up the staff of the Collegian, Yahoo, Senate or WMUA do so because they desire the opportunity to do their THING. Persons do not run for the Senate because the job pays anything. Likewise the present staff of WMUA has said that they feel payment for services would remove the enjoyment of their labors.

4. Another point presented by the Collegian is that unless the top people are paid they will leave and write for the Union or one of the Boston papers. I consider the Collegian a student paper which will never be able to compete with the commercial papers.. I do not expect that the Union, Globe or Traveler is willing or able to employ all the budding journalists on the campus.

5. One point which I do feel well founded is that no academic credit is granted for work on the publications. There is no reason why persons devoting several hours a week in an area which is academic as well as professional should not qualify for credit commensurate to the quality and quantity of the product.

6. The list of objections could continue for many more lines and probably will on the floor of the Senate, Wednesday evening, but I would like to terminate my list with the reminder that the Senate has rejected similar programs for at least the past two years. Perhaps the tactic of wearing down the opposition might prevail. The Senate has been known to be inconsistant.

If you feel as I do, contact your Student Senator or buy him a beer at Spring Day. It might save you more than you expect.

William A. Perkins
Senator Baker House

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wendrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromley '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Pat Flanagan
STAFF — Rose Miller, Sharon Twombly, Kathy Ross
EDITORIAL — Michael Darman
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Ken Stevens, Rich McIntyre, Dave Craig
ADVERTISING — Kris Mackey, Jan Palmbach

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Notices

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication on campus judiciaries, please call 546-7157. Reporters and other staff also needed.

WRITE FOR PEACE COMMITTEE
Meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the New Hatch. All former and prospective members please attend.

YAHOO
Meeting of the Yahoo staff tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Franklin Rm. All regular staff please attend.

PRE-MED SOCIETY
All members interested in running for office please contact John Young, 217 Moore, 546-5330 by May 10.

SPEECH ON LITERARY BIOGRAPHY
Joseph L. Blotner, biographer of William Faulkner, will speak on problems of writing literary biography, at 4:30 p.m. today in Memorial Hall. Blotner has exclusive access to Faulkner's personal letters.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Elections for next year's officers will be tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge. Bring membership cards.

SPRING DAY
GO!

KING COUNCIL: CCEBS
Open coffee hour, noon-2 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge, S.U. today. Discuss CCEBS Program with Dallas Darland, Provost's Office; John Childs, Admissions, Randolph Bromery, CCEBS director. Free coffee, all invited.

MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS COLLOQUIUM
Professor Ernst Snapper, Dartmouth, will speak on "Characters of the Symmetric Group" today at 4:40 p.m. in the Cellaquium Rm., Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the lounge.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CHOIR
Auditions for Choir, Music 165, will be held tomorrow. Call Mr. Harler, 5-0532 or 5 2227 for appointment.

MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS COLLOQUIUM
Dr. Robert Kallman of M.I.T. and Yale, will speak on "A Decomposition Theorum for Automorphisms of Von Neumann Algebras", today at 2:30 p.m. in the Cellaquium Rm., Arnold House. Coffee at 4 p.m. in the lounge.

MLK SUMMER CAMP
Meeting at 4 p.m. today in Nantucket Rm., S.U. For more information call Peter Thiffault, 665-2384.

SU MOVIE COMMITTEE
Kenneth Anger's "Scorpio Rising" and Robert Downey's "Chafed Elbows" coming to S.U. Ballroom at 6 and 8:15 p.m. today.

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be in WOPE tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
Testimony meeting tonight at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm. All welcome.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
General meeting today in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rm., S.U. at 6:30 p.m. Exec. board meets at 6 p.m.

PINNING
Peter Kowia, '71, ASP, to Cindy Ferrera, '69, Becker Jr. College.

ENGAGEMENTS
Susan Roy, '72, Van Meter, to J. Michael Welch, '71, Grad House.
Elaine Canter, '70, Kappa Kappa Gamma, to Gerald Barron, '69, U. of Buffalo.
Deborah Chase, '70, Kappa Kappa Gamma, to Ronald Wilbur, '69, Sigma Phi Epsilon.
Susan Metell, '71, JQA, to Bruce Wayne, '70, Stonehill.
Fefe Creul, '66, Bradford Jr. College Boston, to Snort Beast, '69, Pelham.
Janice Greenough, '69, Dickinson, to Larry Cannon, '69, Hills North.

LOST AND FOUND
Found-If anyone lost anything behind the Union call 6-8646.
Lost - Melville - One Whale from Herman Melville House Lobby.
Found - Melville - One Sigma Phi Epsilon Composite.
Lost - Gold initial ring with initials D.D. Call Diane, 316 Van Meter, 5-2741.
Found - Brown Suede jacket. Call Joanne, 5-2741.
Lost - Blue pocketbook, call 665-3044.

Student Senate Postpones Action on Board Pending Services Comm. Investigation

The Student Senate, Wednesday, postponed action on the proposed $20 board increase pending a Services committee investigation into charges of general mismanagement in the dining commonses.

The Senate further passed by a vote of 30 to 2 with 10 abstentions a motion urgently requesting Provost Oswald Tippo to reconsider his intention of resigning. Debate centered largely around the extremely laudatory language of the motion with some Senators feeling that while the Provost has done a good job, there was no need to commend him so strongly. The Senate however defeated a motion to moderate the language of the bill. In related action the Senate charged the SGA Committee with a sweeping study of the "administrative and financial structure" of the University.

The Senate heard Dean Seymour Shapiro discuss the present financial crisis of the University now before the legislature. A special faculty - student - administration committee headed by Sen. Staff Sheehan is considering ways to mobilize support behind a statewide budget request.

In budgetary action, the Senate struck the Heymakers budget, and proposed a number of binding clauses for the MDC, which will be considered at a later date. The proposals call for Collegian consultation with the author of a letter or article over any editorial deletions; mandatory publication of all statements from RSO's and other ad hoc groups, subject to editing; Collegian consultation over headings for letters and articles; consultation with an RSO representative over an article about that RSO for "accuracy and impartiality", a five-year budget projection with an estimation of the earliest possible time for the Collegian to become independent of tax subsidization; There is also pending a motion to strike the Collegian budget, thus killing the newspaper.

Regarding Senator Strom Thurmond's visit to campus, the Senate by 2/3 vote refused to hear a motion to send a letter of apology to Senator Thurmond, and passed a motion by Senator Guyotte to send a "letter of condemnation" to Senator Thurmond over his "racist and militarist remarks" and "his active involvement in the oppression, including starvation, of the black people of South Carolina." The Senate felt that, since Senator Thurmond was allowed to finish his speech, the question was not one of free speech.

The meeting adjourned at 7:10 AM.

Summer School Students

Do you plan to be on Campus for both Summer sessions? The Japanese Summer Institute is accepting applications for 31 American Students who would like a Japanese roommate for four weeks, July 10 - August 5. You will have no other roommate during the rest of the Summer. Call —

WALTER SILVA
Southwest Residential College, 5-1551
before Friday, May 9

Are You A Hippy?

For those who are looking at far-out New York styles in sun glasses, we have them in stock, light plastic lens glasses, metal frames, large and oversized lenses can be found at

DON CALL

If you want to look like a bug, we've got everything but the wings.

featuring:
The Orpheus
&
The Bold
The Boston Mass
The Desertations
Judy Manella
Fran Bothello
Continuous Entertainment

MAY WEEK PICNIC
May 10 12:00-6:00
Saturday
Everyone is invited!

Balloons! Refreshments!
Hamburgs 20c
Hot Dogs 15c
Drinks 10c
Great times!
Great music!

SENIOR DAY

FRIDAY, MAY 30, 1969

(The day before Commencement)

Continuous From 3 p.m. to 10 p.m

NORTHEAST QUAD

(North Dining Commons in case of rain)

BAR-B-Q DINNER

SOUVENIR BEER MUG

FREE BEER

ENTERTAINMENT IN A TENT

MAKE YOUR RESERVATION TODAY

$1 - SENIORS $3 - GUESTS OF SENIORS

STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

Frosh Nine Tops AIC, 12-4, King Wiffs 17, But Walks 10

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Sports Day Editor

SPRINGFIELD - In an unusual mound performance, Tom King pitched the UMass freshman baseball team to a well-earned 12-4 victory over the AIC frosh here on Saturday.

King, a lanky southpaw, who usually records a large number of strikeouts, wiffed 17 Yellow Jacket freshmen in his eight innings of work and gave up only three hits, all of them coming in the eighth frame. However, one must not overlook the fact that he also surrendered ten walks and threw an unusually high total of 173 pitches.

King was relieved for the ninth inning by Brian Martin, who had been playing right field. Martin struck out two of the four batters he faced, running the final total of AIC freshmen to go out in that manner to 19.

The Little Redmen, in support of King and Martin, pounded out 12 hits including a Stan Baker triple and doubles by Mike Pagliara and Martin. It was a pleasant reversal of offensive form by the frosh, who managed only four hits and three runs in Tuesday's loss to the UConn freshmen.

UMass opened the scoring with four runs in the third frame and pushed across the fifth and winning run in the fourth.

Josea Kelly led off the third with a walk and proceeded to steal second base. After Mike Lanchansky was hit by a pitched ball, he and Kelly executed a beautiful double steal, putting runners on second and third. Martin was next at the plate and he drove home the two runs with a ground rule double to right.

An unplayable infield grounder by Pete Thompson followed by a wild pitch put men on second and third again. Pagliara then rapped a hard grounder to short, allowing Martin to score from third ahead of the shortstop's throw. A steal attempt by Pagliara brought home Thompson from third with the fourth run.

Two straight walks to King and Kelly got things rolling for UMass in the fourth. Lanchansky then forced Kelly at second but the relay throw to nab Lanchansky at first was wild and King crossed home plate with the deciding run.

With substitutes filtering into the Little Redmen lineup, the freshmen turned the contest into a rout with two runs in the sixth, four in the seventh, two in the eighth and a single marker in the ninth.

Nine of the visitors' runs came off AIC frosh starter Paul McGarth, who was made to labor through six and one third innings when he should have been taken out earlier. His replacement, Joe Burys, possessed questionable pitching ability as most of his pitches were thrown right over the heart of the plate.

The home team scored its runs in pairs with twin markers in the fourth and eighth. It was Al Mac who spoiled King's no-hitter with a clean single to center leading off the eighth.

FROSH FACTS: The Little Redmen stole eight bases; Kelly was high man with three thefts . . . Three of the UMass substitutes each collected two hits . . . They were Baker with a single and tripe, Mark Iarussi with two singles and Bob Szlosek with two bingles, one a nicely laid down bunt . . . Martin was the only starter with two hits . . . The contest was a lengthy affair, taking three hours and three minutes to complete . . . The UMass freshmen have upped their record to 4-2 and have an important encounter away against the Rhode Island frosh on Wednesday at 3.

Ladies' Night

— Tonight —

at

The English Pub

All 3 to be Seeded in Vail. . . .

Varsity, Frosh and JV Crews Sweep

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

In its only home regatta of the season, the UMass crew club swept three from Williams, Holy Cross and Rhode Island. As a result of these wins, all three boats will be seeded this weekend in the Vail.

The frosh had some difficulty at the outset of the race with a broken rigger, which they had to return to the starting line to repair. Williams was first off the line followed by Holy Cross and UMass. Stroking at 34, UMass gained the lead at the 1000 meter mark and then moved away.

Holy Cross closed for a short distance but then faded. The winning time for UMass was 7:33 with Holy Cross in second at 7:58 followed by Williams and Rhode Island far behind.

The times for the race were brought down on the 1800 meter course due to a 15 mph headwind. Frosh coach Kurt Betchick, not pleased with the race, said, "We've rowed better, but a win is a win."

The jayvee race, which had been expected to be a close one, was won handily by UMass in a time of 7:38, the best race of the year for them. Last week Coach Mike Faherty had made some shifts in personnel in the boat to beef it up, and they payed off.

Wendell Frost, stroking his first race, brought the jayvees off the line in first place and they were never headed. Frost kept the boat at a steady 34 for the race. Holy Cross, which was expected to win, was second at 8:15 followed by Rhode Island.

In commenting on the jayvee victory, varsity coach Faherty said, "The jayvees rowed a great race. It definitely establishes them as one of the boats to beat in the nationals this weekend."

In order to be in contention for the trophy which was to be awarded, Holy Cross needed the win in varsity competition.

In what was expected to be a tight race between Holy Cross, UMass and Williams, UMass pulled out ahead by a deck length after the first 10 strokes at 40. UMass had a two length lead after the first 1000 meters, and the race was never in doubt after that. UMass, without sprinting, finished in 7:13.

The contest of the race was actually between Williams and Holy Cross. Holy Cross edged Williams in the sprint to win by one second. Rhode Island, laboring under difficulties, finished in eight minutes.

The varsity boat has rowed faster every week and shown improvement in each race. Faherty has every expectation that this trend will continue. Last year, UMass beat Holy Cross by 2.5 seconds. This year, they beat Holy Cross, which has a better boat now than last year's, by 26 seconds.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ARNA SPOT ROW
PEAT LONE ERE EM TIER DIP
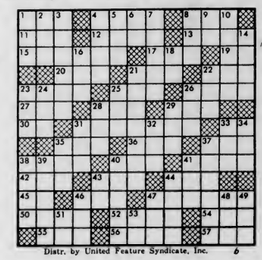
EN NETS REDS
SMOG PEEP LIT
ABOUT REAL ME
MENTAL PLEASE
PR SPAT SNEER
LET STEP ERNS
EDIT EMIR OS
TIE PEER IO
AIL YEER ANON
ATE ERRS PINE



ACROSS

1-Distant
4-Suits
8-Dance step
11-Time gone by
12-Dillseed
13-Preposition
15-Keep back
17-Hurry
19-Symbol for silver
20-Shoemaker's tool
21-Headgear
22-Evergreen tree
23-Repetition
25-High mountain
26-Eat
27-Be in debt
28-Hasten
29-Pale
30-Printer's measure
31-Told
33-River in Italy
35-Number
36-Decay
37-Deface
38-Part of fireplace
40-Crafty
41-Young horse
42-Part of body
43-Pigpen
44-Parcel of land
45-Spanish article
46-Bishopric
47-Conjunction
50-Profound
52-Ceremony
54-Before
55-Declare
56-Verve
57-Ethiopian title

5-Hostelry
6-Symbol for tellurium
7-Strip of leather
8-Metal fastener
9-Indefinite article
10-Blemish
14-Monster
16-Reverence
18-Above
21-Lucidly
22-Fish limb
23-Fish eggs
24-Possess
25-Be ill
26-Parent (colloq.)
28-Chicken
29-Damp
31-Soak
32-Plaything
33-Crony (colloq.)
34-Worthless leaving
35-Gratuity
37-Parent
38-Lean-to
39-Heaps
40-Cubic meter
41-Temporary bed
43-Compass point
44-Hold on property
46-Secret agent
47-Greek letter
48-Period of time
49-Things, in law
51-Babylonian deity
53-Prefix: not

DOWN

1-Novelty
2-Mature
3-Spin
4-Fall short

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

International Club
ELECTION OF OFFICERS
for 1969 - 70
Wednesday, May 7, 1969
6:30 p.m.
Colonial Lounge

LOOK BUSINESS-LIKE, WRITE FOR YOUR SUMMER JOB ON

EATON'S STATIONERY

(It also is great to write to your boyfriend on during the summer if you stock up in advance.)

Get it at

A. J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer & Stationer

Redmen Nine Blank Williams, 3-0, Behind Colabello

Varsity Baseball
Senior Reporter

WILLIAMSTOWN - Lefty Lou Colabello allowe d Williams College only three safeties as he pitched UMass to a 3-0 victory here yesterday. The shutout was the second win of the season for the sophomore southpaw and upped the Redman Season record to 14-6.

Colabello was in control all the way, striking out nine while walking only four. Williams only threatened in the ninth and then the Milford hurler reached back to the final two batters.

UMass hitting was off and the sterling effort by Colabello was needed. The Redmen managed only five hits, with all the runs being delivered on Tom Semino's fifth homer of the season, a three-run blast in the second inning.

After one down in that frame, Dick Pepin reached first when the Ephs' shortstop bobbled a tough chance. Mitch Salnick followed with a hard grounder past the third baseman into left.

Semino then unloaded a "tweener" to right-center. There were no fences in the outfield, so the sophomore had to rely on his wheels to pick up this round-tripper. He now leads the club with five.

UMass threatened in the third, fourth, sixth, seventh and ninth but could not come up with any clutch hits. Colabello, meanwhile breezed through the Williams lineup twice. They didn't get a hit until two down in the fourth. The runner was stranded, but the single proved costly as the Redmen lost a valuable utilityman on the play.

With two out in the bottom of the fourth, Dick Hemingway looped a Texas Leaguer into shallow right. Mike Marchev, who had just gone into right at the start of the inning, came on at full speed and dove headlong for the blooper, narrowly missing a spectacular grab.

The Jersey sophomore, a quarterback for the Redmen football team, broke his left collarbone on the impact and will be on the sidelines for the remainder of the regular season.

Warren Mason replaced Marchev in right and came up with his first varsity hit, a single to left-center in the top of the sixth. Williams' starter Lou Buck got out of a right at the second baseman with two down and the bases loaded.

The home team's big opportunity came in the ninth. Colabello, whose longest previous outing was seven innings in a winning effort against AIC, was tiring and struggling with his control. He walked the leadoff man and, after an outfield fly, was touched for a double down the third base line.

Coach Dick Berquist went to the mound, decided to stick with his young lefty, and his faith was rewarded as Colabello got the last two batters swinging on hard fastballs.

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 132
TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1969

Tennis Team Takes Title

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

BURLINGTON, VT.--The University of Vermont was a frozen wasteland for most of the spring, but for the UMass net team it turned into a paradise as the gutty men of Steve Kosakowski walked off with their second consecutive Yankee Conference title this week end.

To gain the sweet win, the Redmen ran over their favorite opponent, URI. In two years the Redmen have beaten the Rams on four occasions, each time by one point. New Hampshire finished third, Vermont was fourth, and Maine and UConn tied for last.

Every man on the team contributed at least one point to the UMass cause. Tom Johnson and Jon Bloom won singles victories and teamed for the clinching point at third doubles. Mike Katz won at three in what man considered the upset of the tournament.

Alan Goldberg last a three setter at one to Bill Goodwin of UNH, 3-6,10-8, 6-3. Goldberg was sensational in the second doubles. Teamed with Scott Sheppard, Goldberg's overhead nearly pulled out the match. They lost in a 15-13 third set.

Captain Carl Clem contributed a point in the first doubles in a 6-1, 6-1 win over Shay and Graney of Maine. The UMass captain was teamed with Katz.

Katz's shocking win came at the expense of URI's Tom Sherman. "When Mike came off the court and told us he won," remarked Kosakowski, "nobody believed him. We were that surprised." Katz made the win even more surprising as he took it in straight sets, 6-4,6-4.

Both Johnson and Bloom had much easier times in winning. Each was given the top seed of his respective flight, and both won their matches with ease.

UMass went into the meet well practiced. The stop at Middlebury College's indoor courts was most helpful for the meet was contested inside. With the slush removed, the indoor pond of Gutterson Field House, became the site of the tournament.

Because of the lack of outdoor courts, the tournament became a long and drawn out affair. Only four courts were available. "I was pooped, and I only had to watch," laughed Kosakowski.

Competition took over 13 hours during the first day. During the first day of competition, UMass piled up eleven points, two more than URI. Scott Sheppard pulled out two really tough points at five when he rallied to beat Bruce Taylor of UNH 5-7,6-4,6-1. Sheppard lost to Pete Rappelye of URI in the finals.

Lacrossemen Play Host to UNH Today

By BOB GANLEY
Staff Reporter

Looking for its eighth victory of the season, the unbeaten UMass lacrosse team hosts the University of New Hampshire this afternoon at 3:00 p.m. The Redmen are the only undefeated team left in New England and with only three games remaining, have an excellent chance of winning the championship of the N. E. Lacrosse League.

Amherst, the team which edged out the Redmen a year ago, has lost two games this season and should have its hands full when it meets the Redmen on Saturday. However, New Hampshire may present a problem to UMass. They are 4-4 on the season overall, and 1-2 in league play. Redmen Coach Dick Garber expects a very rough game from the Wildcats similar to last year's game between the two teams.

In that contest, UNH was very psyched up in the first period and held the Redmen to a 3-2 lead midway into the second period. However, two quick UMass goals got the Redmen rolling onto an 18-4 victory.

The Wildcat attack is paced by senior attackman John Pribie, who was the teams' leading scorer last year with 39 points, and by Pete Page, another senior attackman who finished second in scoring to Pribie. The midfield is made up of veterans Pete Steer, Greg Kolinsky and Norm Powers. The Wildcats also have the second leading goalie in the league last year in Mungerford who had 119 saves.

Garber is not worrying about the team looking past today's game toward the big one with Amherst. "We're playing them one at a time," he explained. "UNH is playing too well for us to look past them. I think if our midfielders can get us the ball, then we should score a lot of goals."

Garber noted that he wouldn't be surprised if UNH used a stall in today's game. "I am afraid that teams may start freezing the ball against us like Middlebury did. They held us to eight goals and I'm surprised that other teams haven't tried it. A stall makes it very rough to get the ball and score."

Garber indicated that he will stay with the same lineup that he used against UConn. Against common opponents this season, UMass has the edge over UNH. Against Middlebury, the Redmen won 8-3 while the Wildcats were whitewashed 11-0. Against UConn, both teams won, UMass 20-1 and UNH 7-2.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL
Untouchables 12, Benny's 2
Gamma 10, Sticks 6
Weasels 6, TS & WZ 3
Nerves 14, Lobos 5
Bedsinks over Loggia by forfeit
Tubes 7, Cement 0
Smashers 12, Spartans 1
Academics 9, Bruisers 2
Ironmen 7, Seagrams 6
SOCCER
GAK 1, Freaks 0
Trojans 1, Bulldogs 0
Colt 45's 4, Panthers 1
PSD 2, SPE 0
TEP 1, PMD 0
QTV 1, PSK 0
TSP 1, LCA 0
TK 1, AEP 0

Tonight's Intramurals

SOFTBALL

5	5:30	Turtles vs. Holes
6	5:30	LML vs. Marauders
7	5:30	Bismarks vs. Bulldogs
8	5:30	Bruisers B vs. Heads
9	5:30	Hi-lo's vs. Chestnuts
10	5:30	Hawks vs. Flaming A's
1	6:30	Avengers vs. Rasputin
2	6:30	Stouts vs. Lil Fellas
3	6:30	Fishsticks vs. WhWl
1	7:30	KS B vs. GAK
2	7:30	Cool Cons 2 vs. Rnstrs
3	7:30	Ironmen B vs. Bucks
4	7:30	Zeppelins vs. Foul Balls
1	8:30	3 M's vs. 5¢ Bags
2	8:30	Giants vs. Elms
3	8:30	Grants vs. Pines
4	8:30	Oaks vs. Maroons
1	9:30	Eagles vs. Maples
2	9:30	Pipers vs. Buffaloes
3	9:30	Brigade vs. Broncos
4	9:30	Barracudos vs. Redwoods
		Hemlocks vs. Bruins

SOCCER

2	5:20	PMD vs. TSP
3	5:20	PSD vs. TKE
4	5:20	Colt 45's vs. Smashers
5	5:20	Maroons vs. Redwoods
6	5:20	Ambassadors vs. GAK

All games start at 5:20!

Red Nips White, 7-6, in Close Intrasquad Grid Contest

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

For better or worse, it looks like next fall's UMass football team will have little to choose from as far as the distance between first and second team. It was an easy prognosis after Saturday's intrasquad game witnessed by a few hundred Alumni Stadium onlookers.

The squad was divided into two teams, the Reds and the Whites. The Reds consisted of the first offense and second defense, while the White team was made up of the first defense and second offense. The 7-6 winning margin by the Red was completely indicative of the play; even and sometimes dull.

The Red got what proved to be the winning score late in the first half, after the White had dominated play for the entire time. The white offense, behind the scrambling quarterbacking of Ken Hughes and the consistently effective pass-catching and running by junior college transfer Art Corsalletti, held the ball for the first seven minutes of the game, and drove 69 yards.

Both defenses continued to control the game. Neil Hering got the White squad out of a hole with a 45 yard punt. The White began another march midway in the second quarter, as Corsalletti rambled 19 yards, and Hughes hit Young with another aerial as the senior end made a sparkling grab. However, a fumble halted the march.

The Red offense finally came out of its slumber about seven minutes into the quarter. Tim Adams, who threw well all day, teamed up with big Nick McGarry for a 22 yard play for the first Red first down. It followed a six yard run by freshman Angelo DiNardo, and preceded a ten yard scamper by the Somerville product.

After Joe Lang picked up six more ground yards, and an Adams incompletion, Gerry Grasso took a pitchout and on the halfback option threw to Jim Long for a first down at the White 29 yard line. Adams again teamed up with McGarry, this time for 14 yards and UMass was on the White 14 with a first down.

Adams took care of the rest. He ran for three and then on second down, stepped into the pocket, rolled left and scored on a beautiful cutback. Dennis Gagnon, freshman placekicking whiz added the conversion, and at 11:26 of the 12 minute quarter, the Red led 7-0.

The White began moving downfield again in the third quarter, as Hughes hit Young on successive completions of 17 and 14 yards. Corsalletti added a six yard run, but the drive stalled and a Gagnon who kicked for both teams, field goal attempt was short from the 19 yard line.

The Red got a break with about five minutes left in the half, when Dick Dyer intercepted a Hughes aerial. Adams connected with McGarry and then Long and the Reds were inside the 20. After another Adams to Long completion, however, the junior end was hit and fumbled and the White recovered.

Again Adams and McGarry got the Red moving, along with the running of DiNardo and Larry Fortunoff. However, Gagnon had a field goal blocked from the 20 and the White took over.

After nearly a game of near misses the Whites finally got on the board in the waning seconds of the game. After the running of Corsalletti, Hughes completions to the Halfback, and the running of Craig Lovell and Dick Heavey, had finally stalled, Pat Scavone faked a punt and got a key first down. Hughes hit Young for nine yards and then two plays later, hit Lovell perfectly in mid-stride and the big halfback rambled the rest of the way for a 35 yard scoring play, to cap a 73 yard march.

The Whites went for the two point conversion and a win but it was stopped to give a final 7-6 score.

REDMEN RANTINGS - UMass coach Vic Fusia, commented after the game, "This has been the most satisfying spring practice I have ever been associated with. We did not have many objectives and are still working on the placement of positions. However, I said we would learn how to hit and I think that the spring session taught the team that." . . . Injuries sidelined a large group of probable starters, including freshman standout backs, Lenny Fitz, Dick Cummings and Mike Sawyer, plus veterans, Jim Nangle, Don Dotson, Andy Guarino, Fred Hupprich, Larry Farrelly, Marty Scheralis and Dennis Gray.

IN TOP FORM - Tim Adams, who quarterbacked the Red team to a 7-6 victory, is shown here getting off another aerial as teammate Tom Tracy looks on. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens).

Public Opinion Class Takes Poll on ROTC, Drugs, Black Power

By GARY HAMEL
Staff Correspondent

Student opinion on R.O.T.C., Vietnam, Blackpower, student power, drugs and Dow Chemical were polled by Professor John Fenton's public opinion class this semester.

Using the files at the registrar's office, Professor Fenton and students chose a random sample of all students. Of the 430 drawn, 292 were interviewed. The rounded percentages given in this story can be considered to apply with odds of 95 out of 100 to be within plus and minus 7% of the true campus feeling. Responses of "don't know" or "no answer" are responsible for percentages not totaling 100%.

Asked whether the "use, possession and sale of marijuana should be legalized", the response was 54% yes, 40% no.

Should Dow recruit on campus? Six per cent said "no", not as long as Dow produces Napalm; 14% felt "Dow should be allowed to recruit only if it engages in a public debate or discussion on its position beforehand;" 57% that it "should be insured the right to recruit as a matter of civil liberties;" and 19% felt "Dow should be allowed to recruit on campus and should continue to produce Napalm as long as it is needed for the defense of the nation."

Next, asked how they felt about ROTC at UMass, 7% felt it "should be kept off campus completely", 31% that it be "just another non-credit extra curricular activity", 36% that it be "allowed to give credit for a very limited number of courses", and 21% that it "be accorded the same status as the other academic departments".

Concerning the war in Vietnam, 45% felt it is "a natural outgrowth of American military and economic imperialism", while 50% disagreed.

Several questions were asked about black Americans and blacks at UMass.

Sixteen per cent felt American Blacks were treated fairly, 77% that they were not.

When asked how they felt about UMass waiving traditional admissions standards in order to recruit black students who have the potential to succeed in college, 80% approved and 20% disapproved.

Asked about the Afro-American organization's demands that more black policemen, doctors, teachers and students be recruited, 53% approved, 43% disapproved.

In addition, 80% approved of a curriculum of Black Studies at UMass and 17% disapproved.

"Student Power" was also examined. Asked "as you observe the student movements taking place around the U.S. (Berkeley, Columbia, etc.) how do yu feel?", 6% felt "an identification with the rebelling students"; 65% felt "sympathy with the demands but not with many of the means used"; 11% were "disinterested and bored by all or most of it"; and 17% felt "hostility toward both the rebelling students and most of their demands".

Asked about American society, 43% felt American society was predominately tolerant, 50% that it was racially bigoted. Twenty-nine per cent felt it was warlike and aggressive, 60% that it was peaceloving.

Twenty-one per cent thought America was predominately equalitarian, 76% that it was class conscious. Fifty-nine per cent felt America cultured, 29% vulger.

Thirteen per cent agreed that "the problems of race and civil rights in this country are just about unsolvable" while 85% felt they were solvable.

(Continued on Page 10)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 133 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1969

Dean of Men Hopkins to Retire Is Honored by Military Review

After 21 years as Dean of Men at the University of Massachusetts, Robert S. Hopkins, jr., has retired.

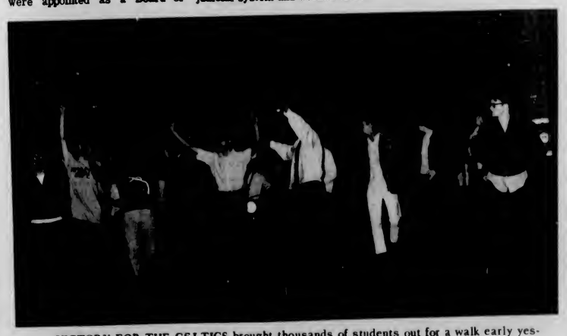
The University's annual spring military review was held Tuesday in honor of the retiring dean and Colonel Joseph A. Bohnak, professor and head of Military Science, who is also retiring. Dean Hopkins was honored for his many years of close association with ROTC as an advisor to cadet boards and as liaison between ROTC and the University administration.

When Dean Hopkins joined the University staff in 1948, there were 3245 students; now there are 16,500. During his tenure as Dean of Men, more than 23,000 students have graduated from the growing state university.

Dr. William F. Field, Dean of Students, said, "Dean Hopkins' most significant contribution to the University, I think, was one that most people were never aware that he was involved in - the reorganization of the Health Services." In 1959, Dean Hopkins suggested that the University Health Services be upgraded. After several talks with Dr. Dana Farnsworth of Harvard University, 18 distinguished physicians and laymen were appointed as a Board of Visitors to study the situation. The present health service is a result of recommendations by this board on which Dean Hopkins served as secretary.

He helped to form the present R.S.O. (Recognized Student Organizations) which was organized to coordinate the financing and advising needs of the growing numbers of student groups, and he served as its first chairman.

Dean Hopkins set up the men's judicial system and worked closely with student jurists during his years at the University. His greatest pleasure, perhaps, came from counseling individual students and following their progress after graduation.



Dean of Men Hopkins...

A native of Ramsey, New Jersey, Dean Hopkins graduated from Rutgers University in 1935. He attended graduate school at Syracuse University and the Breadloaf School of English and received his master's degree from Rutgers University.

He served as assistant dean of men at Rutgers University, and then after several years in industry returned to academic life at the Manlius School as an instructor in English. He served during World War II in the U.S. Army, retiring with the rank of major. He became dean of New London Junior College and then joined the UMass staff in 1948.

A member of a number of professional student personnel organizations, Dean Hopking is a past president of the National Conference on College Fraternities and Societies.

Dean and Mrs. Hopkins will continue to live in Amherst.

VICTORY FOR THE CELTICS brought thousands of students out for a walk early yesterday morning. Here's a 'few' fans headed toward town to spread the word. (MDC photo by Al Marcus)

Budget Cut Prompts Resignation of Tippo

Provost Oswald Tippo. . .

Provost Dr. Oswald Tippo has turned in his resignation to President Lederle, because he disagreed with the cuts made in the 1970 budget by the Sargent administration.

Tippo has been provost since 1964, and is second only to President Lederle. He is in charge of hiring, firing, and promotion and is generally credited with attracting some of the top professors in the country to UMass.

The provost has the support of most everyone at the university. The academic deans, various department heads, the Student Senate and Faculty Senate have all written Lederle protesting the resignation.

Tippo said in reference to the budget, "I think we have really reached a crisis situation. I just feel that this place is going to come apart at the seams if we don't get the (financial) support from the State House."

He also said the only means of making him reconsider his decision would be for the immediate restoration of $6 million for the Amherst campus.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent, in his record budget of $1.5 billion for fiscal 1970, cut the university's budget request by some $11 million, from $56.6 million to $45 million. However, of the $56.6 million requested, $48.8 million was for the Amherst facility and this was cut to $38.5 million by the governor.

A top source at UMass said "there are around 12 top people who will leave if Dr. Tippo goes." But Tippo himself declined to comment on this.

Meanwhile, in a related development Dr. Lamar Souter, dean of the UMass medical school which will be built in Worcester, said in a letter to key legislators that the school will fail to open as scheduled September, 1970 in existing facilities because of a cut in his requested appropriation of from $1,951,466 to $530,500. This is part of the UMass budget as is the budget for the Boston branch.

"The governor cut the amount to $530,500," Dean Souter said, "an amount less than what we have this year. We pointed out that this would prevent our opening in September 1970 and heard from a member of the budget office that this was the intent of the cut."

Dr. Tippo stressed that his resignation, which will become effective at the convenience of the university, was not "a threat."

"But we've had four very bad budgets" during the past four years," he said, "and this one is a crippling budget. We have no money, no money for anything."

"I DON'T WANT to be an administrator at a place where you have no money," he said.

The $6 million he wants restored before he will reconsider leaving his post, would go toward the

(Continued on Page 2)

Faculty Group for Academic Freedom

Passivity of Most Teachers Adds to Campus Disruptions

Condemning coercive and violent tactics on college campuses, a faculty group at UMass plans to form "an organization that could play a constructive role should a crisis erupt on this campus."

The 33-member Faculty Group for Academic Freedom is seeking support among all members of the UMass faculty through circulation of a two-page statement of purpose.

According to the statement: It is our feeling that at least one cause of campus disturbances and their intensification has been the passivity of the moderate majority of teachers who, though opposed to violence, intimidation and obstruction, failed to take a stand for the freedom of academic life."

The statement continues: "In an essentially peaceful environment such as the university the non-violent and reasonable minority tends to be particularly helpless and vulnerable when confronted with any organized majority willing to use violent means to achieve its ends. With these considerations in mind it appears to us that moderates - contrary to their inclinations and temperaments - must seek a measure of organization and effective solidarity; they must also find some ways to make their views known and their weight felt."

The group summarized its general purposes as follows:

- To create a sense of solidarity and mutual awareness among faculty members and students concerned with the maintenance of academic

(Continued on Page 2)

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Classes at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be suspended Wednesday and Thursday afternoons to conduct discussions on campus problems.

The discussions were planned by an arrangements committee appointed by MIT President Howard W. Johnson. The faculty voted last week to permit the class cancellations.

(AP) - "Now I just hope I can forget some of 1968," Ralph McClintock said Tuesday, as the crew of the intelligence ship Pueblo heard the news that there will be no punishment for anyone involved.

McClintock, a communications technician said at his home in Milton, Mass., he was astounded that the Navy court of inquiry urged courts-martial for Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher and Lt. Stephen R. Harris.

"If they did try to court-martial Bucher and Harris," he said, "then they'd be court-martialing 82 men. We'd all be back there with them. If Bucher sank, then we'd all sink with him."

WASHINGTON (AP) - A group of New England college students today demanded the withdrawal of 100,000 U. S. troops from Vietnam by July 1, and Sen. Eugene J. McCart;y, D-Minn., said he was in general agreement with their position.

But McCarthy, who arranged a news conference for the New England Student Coalition, would say nothing more.

"I'd rather let this conference be the students' conference," he said, and left.

Students took turns reading a Vietnam position statement they said had been endorsed by the leaders of student government at 36 colleges and universities.

BELFAST (AP) - Northern Ireland declared an amnesty Tuesday for all "political prisoners" - and one of the first to be freed was the extreme Protestant leader, the Rev. Ian Paisley.

"We must give the new government a chance to get the country back to normal," the Rev. Mr. Paisley said as he left Belfast jail with two months of a six-month sentence served.

(AP) - Lebanon, beset by guerrillas at home, received commando warnings from Cairo Tuesday to free imprisoned supporters of the movement and let Palestinian guerrillas operate unhampered from Lebanese soil.

Thursday Night

Charlie Bradshaw

AT THE PIANO

The English Pub

HELP RUN

YOUR WINTER CARNIVAL

Class of 1971

Executive Council

Applications Due Friday

R.S.O. Office Student Union

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Campus Unrest Affects Alumni Contributions Indiana, Colorado Lose $1 Million Each

(AP) - Alumni contributions at some major colleges and universities have dropped in the wake of student demonstrations and unrest.

Other schools, equally hit by student activists, reported no rollback - at least, not yet - in alumni contributions and grants.

Spokesmen at some universities that have experienced student disorders said that although contributions are sagging, the falloff has not reached a critical point.

Alumni contributions have decreased at the University of Wisconsin, Indiana, Colorado, Rutgers, Duke, Michigan State and the University of California at Berkeley.

No effect has been shown thus far at Harvard, Columbia, Yale, North Carolina and the University of Chicago.

Harvard fund raisers say that enough alumni have rallied with checkbooks to offset losses from former contributors who have dropped out as a result of campus turmoil.

But some univeristies are feeling the pinch.

Fund raisers at Indiana and Colorado say they have lost $1 million each because of the protests.

At the University of California at Berkeley, where National Guardsmen and students clashed in a cloud of tear gas this year, the well-organized California Alumni Association has taken a lead in mustering support for the administration, which is already feeling the bite of Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget shears.

Student Takeover at Dartmouth; Officials Get Court Injunction

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) - A group of 60 militant students took over the administration building Tuesday at Dartmouth College, and college officials fought back with a court injunction ordering them to leave.

The students are protesting ROTC training on campus.

The invading students drove some 30 persons from the building, including two deans who said they were physically forced to leave by shoving, pushing students.

The college trustees appealed immediately to Grafton County Superior Court for an injunction against the takeover.

The injunction was served by Deputy Sheriff Bob Turner, who tacked a copy to the carved oaken doors of the administration building. The invaders had nailed the doors shut.

The injunction orders the students to leave, forbids them to block any entrance or exit, and prohibits opening of any files or taking of any documents from the building.

Deputy Sheriff Turner read the injunction to the crowd from the steps of the building. Some 1,000 students were outside, some wearing red armbands signifying their support of the invaders, others with green armbands they said meant support for the college officials.

Turner told the invaders they had until 9 p.m. to leave.

Members of students for a Democratic Society led the invading group to the administration building.

Tippo

(Continued from Page 1)

following areas: $200,000 for the disadvantaged students program, $80,000 for black studies, $1 million for library books, $1 million for staff positions, $500,000 for computers, $470,000 for payroll deficits, $150,000 for graduate fellowships, $100,000 for course improvement, $100,000 for faculty research, $100,000 for the summer session, $1 million for a supporting budget for office supplies, $1 million for new equipment, $100,000 for continuing education, and $50,000 for marine science.

"We open up the (new) buildings and then find we are woefully short on furnishing. . . . We had to emasculate the summer school . . . we need materials . . . we have to have money for chalk, paper, paper clips. . ."

The Sargent budget of $1.5 billion is presently before committee as is his $154 million tax program to balance that budget.

Faculty Group. . .

(Continued from Page 1)

freedom.

- To impress on this academic community the indivisibility of academic freedom (a single disrupted class is a threat to all of us, teachers and students alike).

- To affirm our support of university rules and regulations pertaining to disruptions or actual violence and to press for their enforcement.

- To cooperate with students in ensuring that they will not be deprived of their education and in promoting change designed to improve the quality of the academic experience.

- To assist where appropriate in resolving campus disputes and conflicts.

Directing the effort is a six-member executive committee comprising Peter Fliess, government; Paul Hollander, sociology; Henry Jacob, mathematics; Guenter Lewy, government; Paul Mankin, Romance Languages; and Robert Wellman, education.

UNDERGROUND FILM FESTIVAL

THURSDAY, MAY 8th

Mahar Auditorium

"films on love" admission 50¢

OFFICIAL CLASS RINGS

by Josten's

Do you have YOURS yet?

Still time to order before graduation from

Josten's factory representatives

on May 7, 1969 at the University Store, Student Union

'Day Of Dialogue' Cancels Smith Classes For A Day

Classes at Smith College were cancelled yesterday to permit a "day of dialogue" among students, faculty and the administration.

This was announced Monday in a joint statement by college President Thomas C. Mendenall and Kathryn Rodgers, a junior and president of the Student Government Association.

A series of meetings was scheduled for the morning, afternoon and evening during which members of the college community discussed and proposed changes for various aspects of campus life.

The moratorium on classes grew out of a list of demands made several weeks ago by a group of students who called themselves the Unofficial Committee of Concerned Students.

They had asked that physical education and certain final exams be made optional, that minutes of all official college meetings be made available to other members of the college, and that students be given a seat on the faculty committee that deals with curriculum changes.

A college announcement said the "day of dialogue" suggested by President Mendenhall, will give students a chance to learn about the college's structure. It will also enable students to make concrete proposals to modify present educational policies, the announcement said.

Some Smith students apparently feel that the present college committee structure does not allow the fullest possible discussion among students, faculty and administration. Several student meetings have been held in the past few weeks at which students discussed these concerns.

Mendenhall said classes were being suspended "on the belief that at times it is useful to break the normal schedule and add to the regular channels for dialogue which is the most precious characteristic of an academic community."

"The first and primary task of our day's efforts," the college president said, "must be to continue or re-establish where necessary, the spirit of reason, understanding and mutual trust which are the essential ingredients of our life here at Smith College. "Our purpose should be full and free discussion," he said.

"If our life here represents anything, it symbolizes our commitment to analyze issues on their merit, to respect those who espouse various points of view, and to explore our own thoughts in the light of the available evidence. We cannot and should not expect others to agree always with us, but we can dedicate ourselves to listen respectfully to others and to expect that our own views will be given the same considerate hearing. This will be our task."

In preparation, students and faculty Monday submitted questions and proposals to be discussed.

A series of 12 open meetings to provide information and to answer questions were held this morning on the campus from 9:30 until 11.

Topics scheduled to be covered included educational policy, selection of faculty, admissions procedures, undergraduate life outside the classroom, finances, minority cultures, scholarships, college government, planning, counseling and the college and the community outside.

From 11 to 2, a free discussion period was scheduled. From 2 to 5, faculty and students met to frame specific proposals that will be voted on later in a referendum. These proposals were to be consolidated last evening.

A faculty meeting has been scheduled for May 14 to begin discussion of the proposals with five elected representatives of the student body.

The Smith moratorium follows by one week a two-day cancellation of classes at Amherst College, where faculty members and students joined in a series of open discussions on campus unrest.

WEDNESDAY

JOHN BEAN

9 o'clock

at

CHEQUERS

Six ways to say I love me. $1.00.

Sample the delights of three different English Leather fragrances plus soap, shampoo and hair dressing. You can love yourself to pieces if someone soft doesn't get to you first.

English Leather.

MEM COMPANY, INC.
P.O. Box 122, New York, N.Y. 10046

Here's my dollar. Send me my English Leather Sampler.

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

What is Senior Day (May 30th)?

It is:

A BAR-B-Q DINNER

A SOUVENIR BEER MUG

FREE BEER (FIRST TIME ON CAMPUS)

ENTERTAINMENT UNDER A TENT

Continuous From 3 p.m. to 10 p.m

All In The NORTHEAST QUAD

MAKE YOUR RESERVATION TODAY

$1 - SENIORS $3 - GUESTS OF SENIORS

STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

7 MAY

SPRING DAY!

IF YOU DON'T LIKE THE WAY YOUR CLASS IS BEING RUN . . . .

DO SOMETHING!

JOIN EXECUTIVE COUNCIL — CLASS of 72

Pick Up Applications at RSO Office — 2nd Flr., S.U.

WHO IS

LAURA NYRO?

Send replies to R.S.O. #3024

Student Union, Amherst, Mass.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

AT

HO-JO's

HAPPY HOURS

Wednesday & Thursday 5 - 7

Friday 4 - 7

JOHN BEAN — Thursday 8 - 12

"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"

AND WHAT A DAY IT WAS

PHOTOS BY KEN STEVENS, RON LABRECQUE, AND BOB MANGIARATTI. LAYOUT BY MIKE ALPERT

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Thunderbird convertible, full power, good condition, radio, heater, whitewalls, stereo tape recorder. Call 0328, 546-6174 or 549-0849. Ask for Dave Reardon. 5-7

'63 Ford Falcon, excellent mechanical condition, radio, heater, $275. Call 253-3867 after 7 p.m. 5-7

Seeking security? 1964 Chevy Belair, 4 door, automatic transmission, new battery, snow tires, best offer. 549-0641. 5-7

1962 VW, new sunroof and tires, excel. mech. cond., clean inside and out, $500. Call 665-4087. 5-7

1963 TR4 RRG., R. & H., W.W., 2 tops, 2 tonneau, recent muffler and generator, exc. cond., $1195. Call 549-1707. 5-9

Late 1960 Valve, 2 dr., extras. Immaculate, Going abroad. Askine $1,500. 549-0661 eves. 5-13

1961 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 527-0174 after 6 p.m. 5-13

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler, 2 speed, best offer over $400.00. Call 584-2643 evenings. 5-12

1961 Chevrolet — 4 door, standard transmission, good condition, snow tires, $50.00. Call 665-3857. 5-8

1962 Chevy II Nova, black convertible with red interior, 6 cylinder, automatic, good condition, best offer. Call 253-0417 or 545-2514. Ask for Becky in 204. 5-7

'69 VW Fastback, 3500 miles only. Excellent condition Must sell Call 253-7139. 5-7

1961 VW cheap. My future employer will pay diff. between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June 549-1369. 5-9

1961 Ford Galaxie convertible, good condition, has spring inspection stickers, V8, standard shift with overdrive. Call John at 549-0159. 5-9

1963 VW 1300, R and H, sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise exrel. cond. Good for beach buggy etc. 253-7809. 5-14

POR SALE

Pentax 35mm SLR, excellent condition, many accessories, $175.00. Call Mike 584-6931. 5-8

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjan Cymbals, Traps Case and Nauzahide Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $750, asking $350. 546-7617. 5-12

Refrigerator for sale, very large freezer. Call 546-7703. 5-7

Washing Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition, 5 year guarantee. Original cost $229.00. Price $150. Call 665-2718 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

Autoharp, 12 chords, 36 strings, easy to play. Call Kathy, 313 Lewis, 545-2514. 5-8

Frigidaire Dishwasher, 1 yr. old, 8 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable. Call 545-2469. 5-10

1947 Indian Chief Motorcycle 1250 cc. has to be put together, newly painted, chopped fenders, tanks, headlight, chrome rims, brake, clutch assembly, forks, hi/rise bars, 3 sp. tankshift and parts of engine, plus 2 ex. engines, and parts $400.00, Call 5-2374 ask for Curt Bellavance or see me at Grad Print Making Office, Bartlett Hall. 5-12

Canonflex 35 mm. camera SLR with f/1.8 lens, perfect condition, phone 546-3060 after 7. Leave name and phone. 5-12

One Encyclopedia Americana, excellent condition, 1966 edition, 30 volume set, $125.00. Call 546-9174. 5-12

MUST SELL

Portable stereo tape cartridge player, 6 mos. old, ten current tapes, cleaner cartridge, year supply of batteries, battery recharger, all for just $80 or best offer. Perfect for house or outdoor fun. Runs on electric current too. Great sound for a small machine. Call Bob before 9 p.m. 549-1774 or 546-7072 on Campus. 5-11

Parts (or indiv.) package sale from 1955 Plym. Power "6", new carburetor, battery, generator, muffler, 7 tires, all for $60. Info. call Mike 6-8307 bet. 7 - 11. 5-13

Dark brown natural hair fall, never used, sacrifice. 584-6942 after 5. 5-13

FOR RENT

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st. Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5706. 5-8

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8251 or 549-0474. 5-8

Available June 1st — 3½ room apt., rent includes all utilities. For further information call 253-7480 after 6 p.m. 5-7

To rent for summer or longer if desired — 6½ room apt., all utilities included, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus, $118/month, Apt. 3, Mill Hollow Apts., No. Amherst. See after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Apartment to sublet — available June 1 to August 31, 3½ rooms, utilities included. Call after 5 p.m. 665-3052. 5-8

Summer Rental — Amherst, centrally located 3 room apartment on two floors, plenty of storage, partially furnished, very homey. Available June 1st - Sept. 1st. Responsible persons only. Call 253-7564 after 4 p.m. 5-9

Summer Students — 5 room furnished apt., Hadley, 4 students, June - Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Summer Students — 4 room furnished apt., Hadley, 3-4 students, available June-Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-0076. 5-16

5 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept 1. In center of Amherst, over C & C Package Store. $135 month, including utilities. Call 253-7800. 5-12

1 bedroom apartment in new section of Colonial Village, sublet from June 1 to Sept 1 or sign one year year lease. $125 with utilities Call 253-7645. 5-8

Summer sublet, five bedroom house in wooded area 3 miles from Campus, $200 per month. Call Bob at 546-9257 or Eric at 549-0263. 5-7

Summer Sublet — Apt. in Hadley, furnished, utilities included, washer-dryer, 2 bedrooms, ain't bad; rent arranged; call 549-9194 after 6. 5-13

1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $110, with utilities, available June 1. Call 256-0252. 5-13

6 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept 1, Phillips St. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8031 anytime. 5-13

Please — summer sub-let 2 bedroom apt., furnished for 3 people, $140/mo., all utilities included. 1½ miles to Campus, easy thumb. Call 253-2949 anytime. 5-13

One furnished room for rent, 3 miles from U. M. for summer semester, $45 a month. Kitchen privilege if desired. Call 549-3769. 5-13

Apartment to sublet over summer, for months of June, July and August, $75. Call Frank at 546-9316. It is near the center of Amherst. 5-9

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Therp, U.M. '69, 665-3167. TF

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lang's Photo, 825 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-0118. 5-16

WANTED

Musical group to volunteer to perform at State Hospital function on May 14. Call Walter (546-8975) or Peter (546-5336). 5-7

Wanted — Members for the NAAFP. If you would like to join the National Association for the Advancement of FOO People, write: NAAFP, WMUA, Fne. Building, U. of Mass. Help a FOO. 5-9

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Idlewood Press, 543 Frederick, San Francisco, California. 5-15

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming. 5-9

Free Love. Groovy little puppies seeks a loving home. Skip Spiro, 549-3539. 5-8

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $35.00 per month. No millstake. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3072 after 6:00 p.m. 5-9

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6349 or 6-6350. 5-13

Wanted — Female upt. mates for partly furnished apartment — ½ mile from Campus starting Sept. 1, graduate students or mature under graduates. Utilities paid, Basement storage, washer, dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposal, air conditioning, reasonable price Please call 546-7333 preferably evenings. 5-8

Female roommates wanted — huge apartment, great for summertime. Immediate and June 1st occupancy. fireplace, pond, 150 acres. $50.00 month. Call 467-7918 and ask for Leslie or Carol. 5-13

One male roommate wanted for summer to share furnished apartment at Puffton Village, air conditioning, swimming pool, tennis courts, one mile north of Campus, 665/mo. Call 549-1067. 5-9

1 female roommate wanted to share my apt., own room, $67 mo. incls. util., summer and/or next year. If interested in only half summer call anyway. Lynn 256-8366. 5-13

Wanted; 3 male roommates to share a furnished house on Phillips St., Sept. - May, and 4 roommates for this summer Call Bob 549-3597. 5-15

WANTED TO RENT

3 or 4 bedroom furnished house or apartment. Available preferably Sept. 1. Call 546-5067, ask for Gary. 5-7

Teacher and wife need 3-room furnished apartment for June 20 to August 20. Write William Rognia, 39 Fourth Street, Attleboro, Mass. 02703. 5-9

PERSONAL

Belchertown Bust — Money needed for legal fees for Chandler House. Please send donations to 2909 Coolidge. 5-12

Would the person who borrowed my blue pocketbook from the Triumph last Saturday night please return it to the Student Union Lost and Found or call 665-3044. You can keep the money, no questions asked but the contents are of sentimental value. 5-7

FROM OUR SIDE

Senate Meadling

The Student Senate made a mistake Sunday night and it will have a chance to make amends for its action at tonight's meeting.

The Senate passed the following amendment to the SWAP budget: "The committee which shall select the delegates to SWAP shall consist of three members of the SWAP committee, the President of the Student Senate or his designated representative, one representative from the Afro-Am, one representative from the Martin Luther King Social Action Council, and one representative from the Provost's office." After the amendment was passed, Glen Mangurian, representing SWAP, said that the SWAP Committee had previously decided that it could not operate under this amendment and that it would dissolve itself unless the amendment was reconsidered and defeated.

The DAILY COLLEGIAN has for two years now been urging reform of the entire SWAP operation. However, although there are many faults in the SWAP program, there is a need for this program.

SWAP, while only a weekend-a-year, is the University's best present mechanism for the formation and cementing of tripartite relations across this diverse campus. SWAP exists to bring together in a peaceful, friendly atmosphere as many representatives of as many groups as care to attend, to discuss important issues and problems which confront our campus.

Although problems exist with SWAP, it is the responsibility of the SWAP Committee to rectify the problems; and it appears that the committee has made efforts to reform itself.

It is not the responsibility of the Student Senate to dictate the internal operations of SWAP, or any other RSO. In recent weeks the Senate has been getting too involved in the internal affairs of other organizations. The SWAP Committee must have the freedom to run the weekend as it sees fit. The SWAP Committee must have the freedom to choose who will be going or who will not. It is in the best interests of the students that this amendment restricting SWAP be reconsidered and defeated on the floor of the Senate tonight.

The Editors

Senate Attendance

Attendance at Senate meetings lately has been something less than desirable. Two scheduled meetings in recent weeks have failed to occur due to lack of a quorum, and other meetings have proceeded with barely a quorum present. Tonight, we believe will be one of the most important meetings of the year. The budgets of SWAP, the Martin Luther King Council, DAILY COLLEGIAN, and Student Senate will be heard for their final reading. The votes on salaries for DAILY COLLEGIAN editors and Student Senate officers will be one of the most important votes of the year. We urge all senators to attend tonight's meeting and we urge all students to see to it that their Senator, if possible, attends the meeting.

The Editors

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF - Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR - Joel D. Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER - Frank Wondrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR - Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR - Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR - Peter F. Pascarelli '71
PHOTO EDITOR - Kenneth D. Emery '71

Asst. Managing Editor - Jan Curley '69
Advertising Mgrs. - Kris Mackey, Janice Palmbach '71
Education Editor - Richard Story '69
Fine Arts Editor - Ray Taylor '69
Women's Page Editor - Helen Kensick '70
Student Govt. Editor - Paul Anderson '70
Editors Emeritus - Peter Hendrickson '66, Chester Weinerman '68, J. Harris Dean '69

Issue Editors - Jan Curley, Pat Flanagan, Janet Howes, Sue Gerson, Richard Boucher, Sharon Samuels
News Staff - Neal Novack, Jean McAndrews, Margaret Andrews, Rose Miller, Karen Thompson, Susan Sherman, Donna Wadsworth, Lou Dimonaco, Anne Hillerman, Anne Gardina, Sharon Twambly, Claudia Hamberg, Pat Lampert, Brenda Gaveia, Laura Smith, Al Sirota, Susan Melusa, Drew Stergis, Kathy O'Donnell, Paul Harold, Susan Spatrick, Holly Fell
Senior Reporters - Bill Dickinson, Ran LaBracque, Dick Lane
Editorial Staff - Kathy Biggane, Michael Darman, Marc Landry, Dave Baskin, Nancy Bourgain, Doug Packer, Ernest Reis, Steven Friedman, Diana Landry, Edward Bryant, Harold Koltin
Fine Arts Staff - Susan Schmehl, Gale Sakoris, Cliden Banner, Nancy Gillis
Ad Staff - Sharon Raum, Theresa Wanczyk, Edna Newwirth, Diane Cormier, Diane Little, Maureen Ladd, Sherry Morse
Photo Staff - Ken Stevens, Wayne Lilyestrom, Gunnar Myrbeck, Ara Dedekian, Bob Gasciminski, Bob Mangiaratti, Damien Kuffler, John R. Kelly III, Ann VerPlank, Brad Iverson, Rolland Jalicoeur, Steve Schmidt, Rich McIntyre, Dave Craig
Sports Staff - John Sullivan, Steve Shamban, Ray Exonis, Jan Curley, Mike Curran, Walt Stachura, Glenn Briere, Ken Schwartz, Steve Ross, Dave Evans, Barry Rubenstein, Bob Ganley, Dick Backer, Metawampe
Women's Page Staff - Marsha Gallo, Margie Short, Suzanne Larkin, Judi Werby

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS - Sue Gerson, Janet Howes
COPY EDITOR - Laura Smith
EDITORIAL - Marc Landry
SPORTS - Steve Shamban
ADVERTISING - Edna Neuwirth
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS - Anne VerPlanck, Mike Alpert, Bob Mangiarotti

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"It's Certainly Ironic That You Helped Make Those People Strong Enough To Kick You In The Pants"

ABM Effect on Arms Race

Congress is now in the midst of a debate on the proposed Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system. The results of this debate may have a profound effect on the future of mankind. The United States must now make a choice between the possibility of reducing the damage to itself or its strategic nuclear force in the event of a nuclear war or trying to reduce the probability of the occurrance of such a war. As other articles in this series show, the ABM system most likely will not be able to effectively reduce damage levels even if the present strategic arms levels do not change. On the other hand, the deployment of a U.S. ABM most likely will force an increase in the strategic arms levels of the Soviet Union and increase the possibility of other nations joining the nuclear "club". Both of these responses will increase both the likelihood of a nuclear war, and the amount of destruction if one should occur.

At the present time United States and the Soviet Union are both trying to encourage the signing of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty by other non-nuclear nations with the hope of reducing the danger of a nuclear war being started by a nation which at present does not have a nuclear capability. If the United States and the Soviet Union are engaged in another spiral in the arms race as initiated by the deployment of an ABM, the other nations will have little reason to believe that we are sincere in our wish to avoid arms spread and they will be more likely to go ahead with the development of their own nuclear forces. This proliferation of nuclear weapons can only have the effect of increasing the danger of a nuclear war.

The arguments of the administration for the deployment of the Safeguard ABM system assume that the Soviet Union will make no reaction to the U.S. deployment. Such an assumption is absurd. The administration itself is claiming that part of the reason for the U.S. deployment is a reaction to the Soviet Union's SS-9 ballistic missile deployment. As in the past any reaction in the arms race will most likely be an over reaction and will then spur another reaction by the opposing side leading to an ever increasing level in the balance of terror.

Reaction in the arms race in the past has always been an over reaction. The increase in the size of the U.S. missile force in reaction to the missile gap feared in 1960 led to a real missile gap in the favor of the United States instead. The Soviet decision to deploy the "Tallin" air-defense missile system was made in response to the threat of the deployment by the United States of the B-70 supersonic strategic bomber, a threat that never materialized. The United States originally responded to the Tallin system, on the erroneous belief that it was an ABM system, with the development of various penetration aids and two new missile systems, the Poseidon and the Minuteman III.

The nature of the large uncertainty in the performance of the Safeguard system will most likely result in an even larger overreaction than in the past. Soviet military planners must assume that the Safeguard will be effective and respond with an increase in the number of strategic warheads by increasing the number of missiles or by deployment of a MIRV (multiple individually targeted reentry vehicle) system. Since the Safeguard system is not likely to be nearly as effective as the Soviets must plan for, the number of warheads actually reaching the United States in the event of a nuclear war is much greater than if the U.S. does not deploy such a system.

The deployment of more missiles or of a MIRV system by the Soviet Union would then require a reaction by the United States and the danger of a nuclear war and the expected level of damage would continue to spiral upward at an ever increasing rate. The only hope in the long run for the world to avoid a nuclear holocaust is for both the United States and the Soviet Union to decrease their strategic arsenals, not to continue to increase them in this unstable action-reaction cycle of the present arms race.

We are now at a point in the arms race which may be the last point at which a reduction may be easily accomplished. If we can now break the action-reaction cycle there may be hope that in the future true nuclear disarmament will be achieved. If, on the other hand, the action-reaction cycle is encouraged by the deployment of the Safeguard ABM system at this time, the chance for true arms control in the future may be lost. If, by restraint at this time, we are able to show that we are truly interested in disarmament, there is the possibility that an arms limitation agreement might be reached at the disarmament talks with the Soviet Union this summer. This may be the last chance we have for stopping an arms race that could easily lead to the destruction of civilization as we know it in a nuclear war.

Carl Brandon Dept. of Physics

Campus Comment

Experimental University

To the editor:

The task of reforming the multiversity is a two-fold problem. Not only must rigorous thought be given to exactly what alternatives are to be proposed, but rigorous work must be done to convince students, faculty, and administrators that the reform will work in practice so they would act to institute the alternative. In order to simplify this problem, an experimental model of the university is needed where reforms can be tried on a small scale. This model should be set up enough outside of the present university so that the experimental reforms to not have to languish in bureaucratic delay before being tested. However this model must be set up enough inside the present university so its presence gives easy access to ALL students (unlike Project 10) to take part in its experimental program. Also the presence on campus of the model university would help quickly move the reforms it proves in practice into the rest of the university.

To this end, the students of UMass through their Student Senate should set up a model university by directly hiring faculty. For the year 1969-70 the experimental university would have one faculty member. In the following year, the staff would expand to a full complement of 4 to 5 members. By direct hiring of faculty, students, along with the faculty hired would directly control the program of the experimental university. Such direct control would allow the hiring of faculty who for one reason or another are excluded from being hired through normal channels. Most importantly, such control would allow full student participation in all educational experience.

Sid Finehirsh

King Council Budget

To the editor:

Concerning the letter of May 2 from Mr. William F. Harrington '71:

I would like to correct some basic factual errors in Mr. Harrington's letter.

The Eric Anderson Concert to which he refers was, indeed, cosponsored by the King Council - and the Fine Arts Council. The King Council, however, did not pay for the Concert - funding came entirely from the Fine Arts Council.

It is also true that we are asking the Student Senate for a budget of over $20,000. It is false, however, to even hint that this money will be made available to us with "no questions asked". Our first meeting with the Budgets Committee lasted well over two hours. If Mr. Harrington had attended last Wednesday's Senate meeting, he would have heard considerable debate, many questions, and a multitude of amendments attached to our budget. I am sure there will be more, and personally, I welcome it, for I feel that every item on the budget can be defended.

I agree that students should "corner the nearest Senator today" - and every day, especially his own. If students feel we should not be funded, tell your Senator why not, so that he can find out, either through personal inquiry, committee, or on the floor of the Senate, whether your objections are legitimate and factually correct. If you approve, tell your Senator that. And don't do it only on our budget. Find out what's going on, and make your views known. Help your Senator do a better job of representing you by letting him know how you feel about issues.

Finally, ask your Senator what effect the King Council budget will have on the funding of any other organization. The answer will be, "absolutely none."

Gilbert J. Salk
Executive Secretary
Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council

N.E. Congress Budget

We as members of the Northeast Congress feel that the impending Student Senate action on the Northeast Area Budget for the school year 1969-70 is unfair to the needs of the area. The Senate Budget Committee has proposed a per capita allotment of $2 per person to each area for its scheduled activities of the coming year. We feel that our monetary needs were ignored due to lack of consideration of the committee. We presented the only completed budget at the meeting and yet it was not given thorough consideration. Obviously, it costs the same amount of money for each area to run a program. The Northeast Area will be deprived of the same number of programs allowed to other areas. We are being discriminated against because of our small size. We contend that the proposed allotment for the Northeast Area be given separate consideration by the Student Senate tonight.

Sheldon Kline
Morris Bernstein
Debbi Botti
Richard Lipton
Penny Page
Sally Henry
Marianne Royal
Carol Panasawich
Edward Scanlon
Laura Trachtenberg
Elaine Frances
Ann Marie Peterson
Janis Wertz
Becky Fall
Catherine Hasbrouck
Sue Parker
Jane Kirkman

"Dream Engine" Review

To the editor:

I haven't seen "The Dream Engine" which Susan Schmehl reviewed for the DAILY COLLEGIAN. If her account of the plot is even half accurate, I'm sure I would have disliked the play. But I'm sure plays of this sort will continue to appear as long as people have to write for--- instead of fuck in newspapers read by adults.

Sheldon Cashdan

Model Housing?

To the editor:

I was very interested to see an article on the housing strike at Ann Arbor, Michigan in the New York Times, Sunday, April 27. The reason I found this so interesting was that Town Manager Torrey of Amherst and our Dean Mark Noffsinger have both cited Ann Arbor as a model which our university might use when guiding student housing policy here.

The Amherst Record of April 9 says Dean Noffsinger ". . .cites several Midwestern universities, notably the University of Michigan as having good student housing provided by private developers."

Town Manager Torrey went to Ann Arbor in 1968 to observe the impact of a large state university on the city. In the Town Report of Amherst, 1968 he says: "Ann Arbor and Michigan have had to face all the problems which confront us, particularly in the housing of residents and students and in the moving of motor vehicles. I saw off-campus housing which should be avoided in Amherst, and I saw housing types I would like very much to see in Amherst."

Now let's look at the situation in Ann Arbor as reported by the New York Times. The article says: "About 1,200 students are involved in a large and apparently growing rent withholding action against private landlords who manage off-campus housing in the Ann Arbor area. . ."

". . .Ann Arbor, a city of 66,000 permanent residents, makes room for 31,000 university students, half of them living off campus. Real estate prices have always been high in the city and vacancies extremely low, even during the Depression. . ."

". . .Students say a four-man, two-bedroom furnished apartment with a living room and kitchen rents for $270 to $340 a month. University off-campus housing officials say the range is closer to $240 to $300."

"Students are required to sign a 12-month lease, though the school year is only eight months, and to deposit three months' rent in advance in most cases. . ."

". . .One university official said that rentals in Ann Arbor ranged from 'enormous to astronomical' and a Washtenaw County official called them 'frightful.' "

The article further reports that the United Automobile Workers' Union gave $1,000 to the rent-striking students ". . ." to give whatever assistance we can to a worth while effort.' "

Well, that's Ann Arbor with its ". . .good student housing provided by private developers." And Amherst may be as big a mess if our university does not change its present policy on housing married students and graduate students and stop toying with the notion of giving up building on-campus undergraduate housing.

In his letter to the editor of the Amherst Record (April 16, 1969 Amherst Record) President Ledeerle says ". . .I told the Trustees that we MIGHT be reaching the end of the road as far as dormitory construction goes, and they we would not plan any future on-campus housing until we had studied the situation."

"I noted that the University is committed to the policy of letting the private sector do as much of the building as possible . . ."

". . .Town planners have known for years that we have no intention of building graduate housing or apartments for our young faculty if the private sector will do it."

Fortunately, the president says that the University has not yet made a ". . .decision to curtail further on-campus housing for our growing student population." The university is waiting for the results of a study. Let's hope that study doesn't take too long. Amherst rents are already going up fast.

Philip D. Reid
(formerly of Ypsilanti, Mich.)

Against Bill

To the editor:

I am writing to you in protest against the bill introduced by Representative Harrison Chadwick in the Legislature on April 24, 1969. I would suggest that this bill should be defeated for the following reasons:

1. Passing such a law would essentially be defeating the very cause it purports to advocate. College and University officials, knowing that demonstrators would be subject to severe penalties would hesitate to brand demonstrations illegal.

2. It is perfectly possible that a demonstration would be "legal" at its outset and then suddenly be declared "illegal", thus making the demonstrators subject to the penalties of the law.

3. This bill ignores the essential human objectives for which the students and faculty members are fighting. Campus demonstrations have forced administrators and the community at large to come to grips with the very serious inequities which exist currently in the University communities and in our society. Those campuses which have undergone the ordeal of demonstrations, have become better, more human communities. It was the protest of the academic community, in both "legal" and "illegal" demonstrations, which drove Lyndon Johnson from the White House and the United States to the peace talks. Furthermore, without so-called "illegal" demonstrations, the black man would never have been able to claim his rightful share in our society. I would put the demands of the students and faculty members for greater share in the decision-making of the university, for an end to ROTC on campus and for an end to the collusion of the university with the military industrial complex in the same category as the fight for equal rights and the end to the war in Vietnam.

On tactical grounds, therefore, I would suggest that this bill will not solve the problem to which it addresses itself. Furthermore, to me, it smells of the police state where the tendency is to repress and punish and not to enlighten and solve. I hope that it does not pass.

Ronald A. Rubel
Assistant Professor

The Amherst Declaration

The search for solutions to the sick contagion of the student rebellion is a matter of high national priority. University presidents, forsaking virtually all other functions of leadership are desperately trying to chart a course that will prevent both violence and surrender to the threat of violence. The appalling spectacle of guns on campus, of students attacked by students, and of professors being threatened and actually beaten by students, has added to a nightmare that should at least alert to the danger of escalating lawlessness even those who are most sympathetic to the student radicals.

The successful use of court orders by President Cordier at Columbia has illustrated what should never have been forgetten: The only way to prevent contempt for law is to rely on, and firmly enforce, lawful procedures against violators. There should never have been any doubt that the abuse of amnesty as an instrument of appeasement could only embolden the young totalitarians to step up their guerrilla tactics.

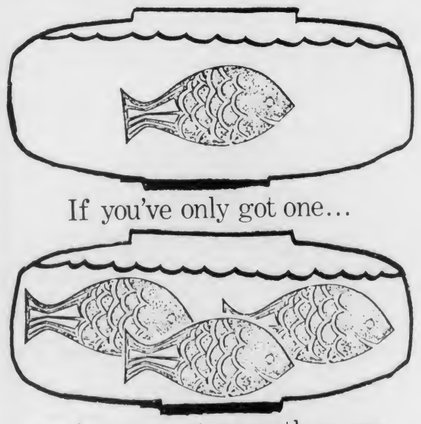
But it is also clear that great numbers of idealistic and normally moderate students fall to oppose the radical forays, not because they approve of lawlessness, but because they are sincerely troubled and severly frustrated by much of what they - as well as many of their elders - know to have gone wrong with their colleges and their country.

It is for them that President Calvin H. Plimpton of Amherst College appealed to President Nixon. He urged the President to understand that, although not all the campus unrest can be ended by specific reforms, there can be little hope for a moderate consunsus as long as many students and their teachers sense "that the nation has no adequate plans for meeting the crises of our society."

Mr. Plimpton did not pretend that society's ills are alone to be held responsible for the college turmoil. But he warned that the frustrations will continue to divert the energies of young people "until political leadership addresses itself to the major problems of our society - the huge expenditures of our natural resources for military purposes, the inequities practiced by the present draft system, the critical needs of America's 23 million poor, the unequal division of our life on racial issues."

President Kennedy perceptively capitalized on the idealism of American youth by offering it a Peace Corps. But the wasteful and tragic demands of war have in the minds of American students long since overshadowed this opportunity to serve the nation and the world in the cause of peace. The overwhelming majority of American youth, on and off the campus, is neither revolutionary nor disruptive. But, as the Amherst declaration suggests, it is deeply concerned with the basic issues facing the country, nationally and internationally, a concern for which Americans of every age can be thankful.

The use of force and violence on or off campus is inadmissible. It cannot be condoned or appeased and must be met with the full application of academic discipline and external law, as is now beginning to be successfully done in many places.



But the great mass of America's youth is going to continue to be in a state of ferment - and has every right to be - until and unless a serious search is undertaken for ways to bridge the chasm that, in President Plimpton's words, separates the American dream from the American reality.

A CHECK FOR $1751 from this year's UMass Campus Chest is being presented here to the Belchertown State School for buying recreation and other equipment for patients. At the presentation, left to right, are Mrs. Doris A. Grover, supervisor of volunteer services; Richard Palomba of Arlington, Campus Chest chairman; Joseph Tabacco of Andover, president of the sophomore class; and Dr. Lawrence P. Bowser, superintendent at Belchertown.

Campus Chest is a student community service fund drive run each year by the sophomore class. This year's drive raised a record amount through collections, contributions, and special projects.

BRAZIL
SUMMER STUDY IN RIO
-EIGHT WEEKS JULY-AUGUST 1969
-UNIVERSITY COURSES: Brazilian History, Govt, Literature, Anthrop, Econ. Devel, Portuguese, etc
-FACULTY: Harvard, Columbia, M.I.T., N.Y.U.
-EXCURSIONS: Bahia, Brasília, São Paulo, etc.
-WORKSHOPS: Cinema, Architecture, Music, Art
ENROLLMENT FEE includes: Air Passage, lodgings, Tuition. Excursions, Workshops - $1220
WRITE INTERAMERICAN SUMMER STUDY ASSOC.
310 Madison Ave - New York 10017
APPLICATION CLOSING DATE: MAY 15, 1969

If you've only got one...
and you want more than one...
Have it XEROXed.
at GNOMON COPY SERVICE
Room 214 Student Union
4¢ for first copy
2¢ for copies of same page
FREE COLLATING
Legal Size & 3-hole Punch at NO EXTRA CHARGE

Notices

HEYMAKERS
The regular dance will be in S.U. Ballroom tonight at 7:30 p.m. Meeting on next year's activities. Come if you care.

CLASS OF '69
Seniors! Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day, May 30.

TEACHER'S CORPS
Teacher's Corps will be on campus to introduce their program tomorrow. Liberal Arts and Business majors (no certified teaching candidates) are eligible. Sign up in Placement Office for an interview.

BIOCHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. Vincent Allfrey, Rockefeller Institute, will speak on "Structural Modifications of Nuclear Protein and their Role in Nuclear Function", Today at 4 p.m. in Goessmann 51. Coffee at 3:45 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Elections for next year's officers will be held today at 6:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge. Bring membership cards.

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION
Meeting of the Pre-Law Assoc. scheduled for May 7, 1969, at 8 p.m. in Thompson Hall has been cancelled. For information regarding applications to law school, membership in the Pre-Law Assoc. program, contact Richard Conklin, Pre-Law advisor, Rm. 362 Whitmore.

FINNISH CLUB
Slides on Finland will be shown today at 8 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Meet for class after.

PRE-MED SOCIETY
All members interested in running for office please contact John Young, 217 Moore, 6-5330 by May 10.

MILITARY BALL
Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Formal dress. Tickets now on sale at Dickinson Hall, $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

ORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Professor "Ill Little, U. of North Carolina, will speak on "Electronic Effects in Ferrocene", tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann Rm. 152.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Final program Sat. Picnic at Quabbin Reservoir. Bring lunch and dress rough. Bus leaves at 10:30 from the S.U. with 30 children. Please sign up or call Chet, 6-6421.

YAHOO
Meeting of Yahoo staff tonight at 7 in the Franklin Rm. All regular staff please attend.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Open house at observatory. Meet at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in main lobby of Hasbrouk. All invited.

SCUBA CLUB
Meeting tonight at 7 p.m. Plans for the Lobster Bake will be made. Please attend.

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor in Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication on campus judiciaries, call 6-7157. Reporters and other staff also needed.

SCROLLS
Sophomores - meeting Thurs. Bring money for pins and room-cleaning. Freshman scrolls - important meeting at 7 p.m. to choose your officers. Bring back the sheet for the Maroon Keys, and your money for pins.

MATH MAJORS
Important meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Arnold Lounge to elect officers of the Math Club and to make plans for next year. Refreshments.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
Bus will leave for the hospital tonight at 6:30 p.m. from the S.U. and from Patterson. All welcome.

ENGAGEMENTS
Patricia Begert, '70, Leach, to Robert Gonnella, Wakefield, Mass.
Judy Ann Pileggi, '71, Bridgewater State College, to Eddie Galante, '70, Grayson.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Blue star sapphire ring. Reward. Call 6-9761.
Lost - Blue pocketbook, call 665-3044
Lost -'70 UMass class ring, initials DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Found - Girl's sweater in Stop and Shop parking lot. Call Mrs. Julia Keyes, 256-6305.

Potash Gets Grant For Study of Argentine Politics

Dr. Robert A. Potash, head of the department of history at the University of Massachusetts, has been awarded a major grant to support his study of Argentine politics in the period 1945 to the present.

The grant was awarded by the Joint Committee on Latin American Studies of the American Council of Learned Societies and Social Science Research Council.

The study will involve several months of research in Argentina, Spain and Great Britain during 1970. The 1970 research will be the basis of the sequel for his forthcoming book, "The Army and Politics in Argentina: 1928-1945," scheduled for publication in late May.

THURSDAY
BOSS TWEED
9 o'clock
at
CHEQUERS

Your last check from home just bounced?
Think it over, over coffee.
The Think Drink.

For your own Think Drink Mug, send 75¢ and your name and address to: Think Drink Mug, Dept. N, P.O. Box 599, New York, N.Y. 10046. The International Coffee Organization.

Pass-Fail is Still Controversial, Students Must Be Appraised

By MERTON TANKUNS
Staff Correspondent

The Pass-Fail grading system remains controversial on the UMass campus. Conclusions from a survey taken of the teaching staff and one member of the administration show that opinions range from excessive praise to gross condemnation.

Everyone did seem to agree on one point: that the student must be appraised according to some method. According to Mr. Paul Sanders of the English Department "We have to have some kind of academic evaluation of the student by which he can be judged for future performance, such as graduate school or an occupation."

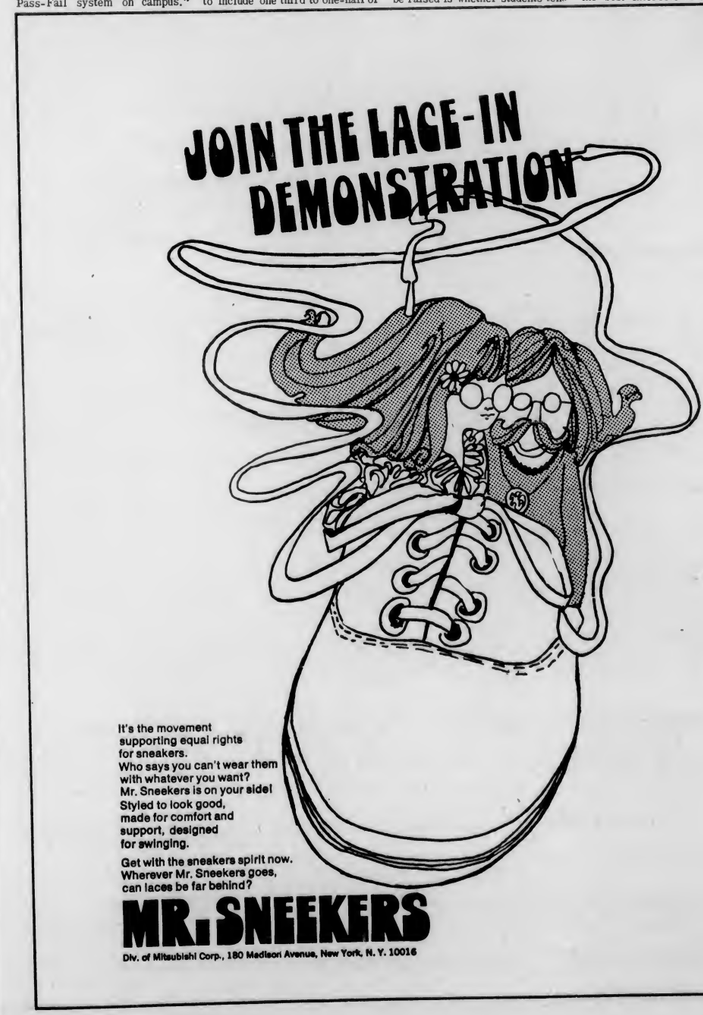
Provost Albert Venman believes that a grading system is a necessity because it is "an attempt to stimulate the way it is on the outside. People throughout life grade other people and are so graded." Miss Micheline Dufau of the French Department believes that "as a professional you are judged according to very fine standards in society," yet ones abilities in the extra-curricular aspects of life " more likely resemble a Pass-Fail system on campus."

Regarding specifically the feasability of Pass-Fail, opinions become more diverse. Is it a fair system? Mr. Edward Secheff of the Speech Department thinks that it is unfair "particularly to the students who are doing outstanding work in a course." For him, Pass-Fail "is not a tangible reward for a good student's efforts." Furthermore "if a student is not willing to risk his grade average in taking a course, then he can audit it." According to Mr. Secheff " the advantages whatever they may be are more theoretical than real." Although many believe that this system would allow more academic freedom he harbors the suspicion that it allows far less real exploration, " that it is simply a way out, an escape from a possible lower cumulative average."

Mr. Venman takes a different viewpoint stating that the Pass-Fail system is constructive because "it allows course exploration without threat of too great a penalty." He adds that he would like to see the system expanded to include one third to one-half of the student's course load, including required subjects.

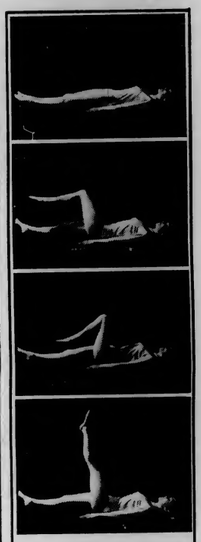
Dr. Chumberly of the Psychology Department, Miss Dufau, and Mr. Sanders are also in favor of expansion but are opposed to including required courses in the system. Dr. Chumberly sums up their views stating that "grades are used for two purposes: 1) to see if the student is meeting the standards of the college he is attending and 2) to start a base of academic evaluation for future learning.

"For introductory and non-major course, Pass-Fail is compatable because the instructor can be more open about what the goals of the course are and because in these courses it is usually more difficult for the instructor to know a student well enough to grade him fairly on a five point scale.



" In advanced or required courses, however, a more refined criteria for grading is necessary simply because the student must be assessed more as a professional than as a novice."

Another important question to be raised is whether students tend to exploit such a system as Pass-Fail. All five persons interviewed believe that this tendency definitely exists especially when pressure from other courses is great. Mr. Sanders' experience has been that "more often than not students under Pass-Fail do less well than those working for a grade."



Dr. Chumberly disagrees saying that although temptation is inevitable under a two point system is less susceptable than the five point system simply because "the criteria for passing are very rigid and definite involving less 'psyching out' of professors for a certain grade."

The ultimate conclusion to be reached from the views stated here is that the pros and cons concerning the Pass-Fail system are numberous and varied. The only major point shared by all is that some standard of academic achievement must be maintained in the best interests of the student and the university. "All of us," says Mr. Sanders, " make fine discriminations in life: good-bad, black-white, yes-no and pass-fail. Part of an education is for one to make as fine distinctions as possible in regard to himself and his environment."

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

It's the movement supporting equal rights for sneakers.
Who says you can't wear them with whatever you want?
Mr. Sneekers is on your side!
Styled to look good, made for comfort and support, designed for swinging.
Get with the sneakers spirit now. Wherever Mr. Sneekers goes, can laces be far behind?
MR. SNEEKERS
Div. of Mitsubishi Corp., 180 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10016

EXERCISE YOUR "WILL" POWER
I will switch to Tampax tampons, the internal sanitary protection that outsells all others combined.
I will ride a bike, swim, play tennis, dance... and do my daily exercises every day of the month if I wish.
I will no longer worry about the discomfort and inconvenience of sanitary napkins, pins and belts.
I will be more relaxed and confident in any situation because Tampax tampons can't show or cause odor.
I will be completely comfortable because Tampax tampons can't be felt when they're properly in place.

DEVELOPED BY A DOCTOR NOW USED BY MILLIONS OF WOMEN
TAMPAX® TAMPONS ARE MADE ONLY BY TAMPAX INCORPORATED, PALMER, MASS.

Flying Redmen Oust Nourtheastern; Become Number One Trick Drill Team

The University of Massachusetts Flying Redmen became the number one trick drill team in New England and returned home Saturday from their final drill competition with three well earned trophies.

Under the command of Michael E. Walters and drill instructor; Brian Krutka, the Flying Redmen took first place in trick drill, second place in basic 1DR drill and second place in overall points in the 12th Regimental Invitational Drill Meet held May 3rd in Boston.

SUMMERTREE - The UMT production of Ron Cowen's Summertree will be held tomorrow through Saturday at 8:30 in Bartlett. Above, left to right Colin Weston (age 12) as Little Boy, Thomas Babson ('69) as Soldier. Below, left to right Michael Pressler ('69) as Father, Shirley Capecci ('71) as the Girl, Jay McAuliffe ('71) as Young Man, and Carol Banks (N.C.) as Mother.

The Flying Redmen Drill Team, the only civilian - university drill team east of the Mississippi River, competed against sixteen New England Teams and succeeded in ousting the two year defending champion Northeastern University. They also beat Boston College, Boston University, Providence College, Lowell Tech, Universities of Connecticut and Maine and others to become the New England Champion Trick Drill Team and the best in the 12th Regiment.

This University drill team has come a long way this year, winning three out of five competitions. They traveled and competed against outstanding ROTC drill teams from the Eastern seaboard and beat most of them this year; defeating also the New England Champs, Northeastern University, who said that the University of Massachusetts Flying Redmen could not win anything this year.

Public Opinion Class. . .

(Continued from Page 1)

Seventy-two per cent said poor teachers had been important while 25% said they had not. Further, those who said poor teachers had been important were asked how many poor teachers they had had in class. Six per cent said a large number, 25% a fairly large number, and 46% said a few.

"Inability to register for desired courses" was important for 51%, not important for 45%. "Rigidity of course requirements" was important for 76%, not so for 21%.

Was "student life over regulated?" "Yes" said 36%, but 61% FELT IT WAS NOT.

In regard to this years visiting policy in the dorms, 1% felt it is "another example of student government selling out," 16% "a victory for the students", 51% "a reasonable compromise between the students and administration", and 26% had no answer or did not know.

Lastly, asked "should students evaluate professors and courses, compile the results, and make the findings available to the college community?", 90% said "yes" 7.53% said "no".

Above is pictured Precisionette Commander Reggie Sheppard presenting three trophies won by the Precisionettes this season to their advisor Captain Geoffrey Kleb, Colonel Joseph A. Bohnak, Professor of Military Science, and Cadet Colonel Donald B. Legg.

Precisionettes Bring Home Three Trophies for Season

The Precisionettes, the UMass women's drill team have won second place in the National Cherry Blossom Competition, Washington, D.C., first place in Beanpot Invitational Drill Meet, Boston, and first place in the Twelfth Regimental Drill Competition, Boston, Massachusetts.

They have performed at football games and in various parades such as the Pittsfield Halloween Day Parade, the Homecoming Parade, Patriot's Day Parade in Lexington, the Holyoke St. Patrick's Day Parade, the National Cherry Blossom Festival Parade, and will this coming weekend be represented in the Amherst Fair Day Parade. In addition, they have performed at Clark School for the Deaf in Northampton and at Norwich University's Regimental Weekend.

The Precisionettes, a hardworking unit, are a combination of all types of girls functioning as one and working to be a winning team for the university.

Architect to Talk On City Planning

Philadelphia architect Vincent G. Kling will deliver the final lecture in the University of Massachusetts art department series on The City, Thursday night, at 8 in Thompson Hall 104.

Mr. Kling will speak on "Contemporary Concepts in the Design of a City." The lecture, co-sponsored by the UMass Fine Arts Council, is open to the public without charge.

As the head of his own architectural firm and as a consultant to the Philadelphia city planning office, Mr. Kling has had an active part in the design of the new city center of Philadelphia.

He holds degrees from Columbia University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and has been a practicing architect in Philadelphia since 1946. His honors include a 1954 First Honor Award from the American Institute of Architects, and a Gold Medal and Diploma of Honor from the city of Quito, Ecuador, for the design of the U.S. Embassy office building there.

He has begun work on the design of a life sciences building proposed for the UMass Amherst campus and is presently doing a feasibility study.

UP AGAINST THE WALL

brothers and sisters, up against the wall for Up Against The Wall, a real wailing 8-piece band which blew our heads off when we went to dig Taj last Sunday. Now they'll be at The Woodrose Ballroom May 9 and 10, where you can dance your guts out or sit on (or slightly above) the floor. Up Against The Wall, Country Funk, and The Road lightshow, at The Woodrose. Dig rock? Put your two bucks where your heads are.

THOMPSON'S IN AMHERST CENTER

URGES YOU TO ATTEND

THOMPSON'S GRAND OPENING

Thursday May 8, 1969

Come in and register for the myriads of door prizes like shirts, coats, even suits. You don't have to buy anything just come and look around and register.

Summer School Students

Do you plan to be on Campus for both Summer sessions? The Japanese Summer Institute is accepting applications for 31 American Students who would like a Japanese roommate for four weeks, July 10 - August 5. You will have no other roommate during the rest of the Summer. Call —

WALTER SILVA

Southwest Residential College, 5-1551

before Friday, May 9

god dies

friday.

celebrate!

R. O. T. C.

1) Should there be credit for R.O.T.C. or not?

2) Should Military Science Depts. be included in the College of Arts and Sciences?

OPEN MEETING

THURSDAY, MAY 8th — 7:00 P.M.

Council Chambers, Student Union

Discussion on these proposals.

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Comm.

Joint Concert Sunday To Stage e. e. Cummings

The University of Massachusetts combined choral groups will present a joint concert this Sunday, May 11 at 4:00 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

Professor Alan Harler will begin the program with the Women's Choir accompanied by Roberto Mendoza. The choir will perform Persichetti's setting of e.e. cummings' delightful DOMINIC HAD A DOLL, NOUNS TO NOUNS, MAGGIE AND MILLY, and UNCLES, Bartok's THREE HUNGARIAN FOLK SONGS, and Stravinsky's RUSSIAN PEASANT SONGS.

The Chamber Singers will sing a group of XVth century French chansons, the "popular" music of that era. Dr. Richard duBois will conduct this group of singers selected from the University Chorale.

The University Chorus will perform Britten's FESTIVAL TE DEUM and REJOICE IN THE LAMB, with Dorothy Ornest, Donna Harler, Warren Whitney, and John d'Armand featured as soloists. Dr. John R. King will accompany on organ.

Four Songs by John Bennett, sung by the Madrigal Singers, will be followed by a group by the University Chorale. The Chorale recently completed a tour of Massachusetts and is considered one of the finest choral organizations in the East. The Chorale will highlight the program with J.S. Bach's motet LOBET DEN HERRN.

Traditional Russian Values Seen in "Fiddler on Roof"

By SUSAN SCHMEHL
Fine Arts

Last Thursday the D.V.P. produced "Fiddler on the Roof." The story of a poor dairyman in 20th century Russia, Tevye, the Papa searches for husbands for his five young daughters.

Throughout the musical such familiar songs as "Matchmaker, Matchmaker", "If I Were a Rich Man", and others were richly scattered between many humorous scenes revealing the traditional values and the "fiddler" style of the humble village Jew on Anetevka. This presentation was a bouncy, colorful, fast-moving whimsey of fun and pure delight. It was geared to entertain almost any type audience possible and was in the last analysis a most worthwhile and beautifully produced endeavor.

Ceramics, Prints Are on Exhibit Till Friday, May 9

Three more thesis exhibits by UMass master of fine arts degree candidates opened Sunday, May 4 and will run through Friday, May 9.

Ceramics by Gary Schubert and Barbara Muenger will be shown at the Student Union Gallery, and at Goodell Library, sixth floor. Prints by Jeanette Fountaine are at Memorial Hall.

Weekly hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no charge.

Choir from Boston Chinese Bible Class Will Sing on Sat.

An Evening of Sacred Music will be presented by Boston Chinese Bible Class Choir at 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 10, in the First Baptist Church of Amherst, under the direction of Mr. James Hsu. Prof. Christopher Tam of M.I.T. and Julia Wang of New England Conservatory of Music are featured soloists.

GIFT HUNTING?

HOW ABOUT THIS

PEWTER GOBLET

It can be engraved for the perfect gift for Mother's Day, weddings or any occasion which calls for a beautiful lasting gift.

$8.00

WINN JEWELER

at

THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free

purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free

(This offer good only with deliveries)

256-6667

253-7100

FREE DELIVERY

6 - 11

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING

Campus Cinemas

RT. 9, AMHERST 256-6411

CINEMA II NOW PLAYING!

THE SUPER ADVENTURE

It's a suspense story.
It's a comedy story.
It's a war story.
It's a wild story.
It's a love story.

Nightly at 7 and 9

And I'm the hero.

OLIVER REED MICHAEL J. POLLARD

HANNIBAL BROOKS

CINEMA I NOW PLAYING!

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER

Best Actor Cliff Robertson

CLIFF ROBERTSON

CLAIRE BLOOM

CHARLY

Nightly at 7:15 & 9

ENTERTAINMENT

Mozart Presentation Ends Julliard Concerts

by JAMES W. WADE
Fine Arts Staff

In their last of a series of three concerts, the Julliard String Quartet performed a program of Mozart, Druckman, and Brahms last Monday evening at Bowker Auditorium. Their usual degree of proficiency, musical integrity, and superb unity was highly in evidence.

The Julliard's treatment of Mozart's Quartet in D minor, K. 421 was dignified and intense. Most impressive were the dynamics injected throughout the work, especially in the stately final movement.

Slightly more exciting than the Mozart was Jacob Druckman's Second Quartet. Amid shreeks, plucks and blatant tonal clusters emerged an absorbing work with humorous aspects as well as imaginative "melodies". If nothing else, the rhythmic drive of the piece was irresistible.

The power and romantic flavor of the Brahms Quartet in A minor, Opus 51, No. 2 highlighted the evening. Even more enhanced by the Julliard's precisioned balance of melodic content was the surging lyricism of the second movement Andante moderato.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

FAR FITS PAS AGO ANET INTO DETAIN RON EAS
AWL GAP FUR
ROTE ALP DINE
OWE HIE WAN
EN RELATED PO
TEN ROT MAR
SPIT SEV COLT
HIP STY LOT
EL SEE BITTHER
DEEP AITE GRE
SAY BLAN RAS

ACROSS

1-Aeriform fluid
4-Floats in air
9-Greek letter
12-Mohammedan name
13-Test
14-Decoy
15-Anon
17-Tumultuous
19-Imitates
21-Female deer
22-Sifts
25-Part of flower
28-Symbol for tantalum
30-Babylonian hero
32-Wise person
33-Skill
35-Quarrels
37-Beverage
38-Tibetan gazelles
40-Locations
42-A state (abbr.)
43-Puff up
45-Lassos
47-Period of time
49-Girl's name
50-Process of painting
54-Eagle's nest
57-Mature
58-"Ship of the desert"
60-Anglo-Saxon money
61-Obtained
62-Former Russian rulers
63-Openwork fabric

DOWN

1-Female (colloq.)
2-A state (abbr.)
3-Hindu guitar
4-Thoroughfares
5-Conjunction
6-Ventilate
7-Foray
8-Sailing vessel
9-In favor of
10-Old French coin
11-Possessive pronoun
16-Slender finial
18-Golf mounds
20-Breaks suddenly
22-Platform
23-Girl's name
24-Gastropod mollusk
26-Make lace
27-Representative
28-Conducts
31-Essence
34-Chinese pagoda
36-Continued stories
39-Walk
41-Location
44-Build
46-Man's name
48-Macaws
50-Label
51-The self
52-Encountered
53-Wine cup
55-Anger
56-Dine
59-Teutonic deity

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 7

7

MAY

7

Redmen Massacre UNH, 30-3; Baseball Visits Rhody

Stickmen Set New High; Malone Scores 8 Goals

By BOB GANLEY
Staff Reporter

The Redmen of UMass gave the Wildcats of UNH a lesson on how to play the game of lacrosse as they romped to a 30-3 victory yesterday afternoon behind Boyden. The 30 goals set a UMass record for most goals in one game, topping the 29 goal game against Boston State earlier in the season. It also gave the Redmen 173 for the year, which demolishes the old mark of 145. The Redmen led 18-0 at halftime, another UMass record.

Attackman Tom Malone had the finest day of his brief UMass career as he scored eight goals and assisted on seven others. This gave Malone 74 points for the year, passing the former record of 69, held by teammate Kevin O'Connor.

Tom Malone nets one of eight.

Tom's eight goals topped the old record of 6 in one game, which was also held by O'Connor. Kevin, incidentally, scored seven times himself to help pace the Redman attack.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt as the home forces scored early and often to wrap up the game. Midfielder Steve Connolly, a strong contender for All-American honors, got the Redmen rolling when he stole the ball following the opening faceoff and ran the length of the field to score. Malone and Gary Vassar scored unassisted goals as UMass dominated the ball. Malone set up Vassar for the next goal and this was followed by Connolly's conversion of an O'Connor pass.

Malone, showing enough moves to give the UNH goalie a headache, scored two unassisted goals in a minute to make the score 7-0. O'Connor scored his first of the game near the end of the first period.

The Redmen continued the romp in the second period. Malone scored twice in the first thirty seconds of the quarter and then turned playmaker, setting up goals by Bob Florin and Steve Chambers. O'Connor scored twice in the period and single goals were registered by Johnny Orr, Connolly and Larry Diamond. Malone netted another one to make it 18-0 at the half.

Garber cleared his bench in the second half, but the starters did make brief appearances. O'Connor scored four times in the half to break his old record for goals, but he fell one short of Malone. Malone had three goals and three assists.

The rest of the scoring belonged to the Redmen reserves. Steve Wickman, who is making a bid for a spot on the second midfield had a goal and an assist. Other goals were scored by Parker Simonds on an open net, Bob LaChance, Steve Herschopf, Bruce Felton and Mike Vengrow. UNH took advantage of the UMass bench to come up with three markers to avoid a shutout.

Garber did all that was possible to keep the score down and also got a look at some of the future stars of the team. The first team didn't play more than a minute at a time in the second half because every time Garber put them in they would score and he'd pull them out. The Redmen now average 21.6 goals per game.

The big game with Amherst is Saturday and plans are being made to play the contest in the Stadium. The Redmen are now 8-0 and only two games remain between them and an undefeated season and the N.E. championship.

Netmen Vie with Springfield Today; Beat Holy Cross Monday for Fifth Win

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

One last hurdle remains between a perfect season for the UMass tennis team: a dual meet with Springfield College this afternoon at Springfield. Springfield is enjoying its finest season in years, but it must be considered the underdogs in this encounter with the 1969 Yankee Conference Champions.

A strong performance by Captain Carl Clem paced the Redmen to their fifth win of the season at Worcester by a 5-1/2 - 3 -1/2 score. Holy Cross had won 19 dual meets going into the match with the Redmen.

Clem, smarting from an upset in the YC tournament, was placed at three, and bested Dick Young 9-7, 4-6, 8-6 in the day's toughest match. The Redmen's strength in the lower flights proved decisive, as they swept the bottom four matches.

Holy Cross was paced by the Springfield Cathedral pair of John Mayotte and John Hughes. Mayotte won both in singles and in doubles. Hughes won at singles, and his doubles match was called a draw when the point became academic.

Soph Jon Bloom came through with a big double win again. The baby-faced banger won a three setter at six in which he rallied from a 2-6, 0-1 defecit to win 2-6, 6-2, 6-4. He again teamed with Tom Johnson to win at third doubles, 7-5, 6-4 to take the deciding point.

Mike Katz and Scott Sheppard, playing at four and five, had relatively easy times, both winning in straight sets. Sheppard teamed with Alan Goldberg at second doubles in the split match.

Coach Steve Kosakowski was delighted with the performance of his team. "Holy Cross had the match all counted up, but our kids weren't buying that," he smiled.

Clem came in for some special praise. "Carl was down after the tournament loss," Kosakowski lauded, "but he bounced back and proved to be a great competitor. He was the key factor in the win."

For Johnson and Katz it was a bit of a homecoming. The Worcester natives were playing before the home town fans.

After today's match the New England Tournament remains. Yale and Harvard are the teams to beat. Amherst is the defending champion. Host MIT must be given a chance, and UMass, is at best, a long shot to win.

The UMass frosh with a 1-1 record also play their final match of the season today at Springfield.

THE CHAMPIONS - The leaders of UMass' Yankee Conference Track Champions are (kneeling l. to r.) co-captains Bill Wilen, Paul Hoss (holding the champions plaque) and Dave Schlatka. Coaches Gary Schwartz and Ken O'Brien stand behind the senior co-captains. (MDC photo by Marc Gelinas).

UMass Close to Title; Kitchen on Mound Today

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Sports Day Editor

Baseball coach Dick Bergquist's streaking Redmen will be out to move one step closer to the Yankee Conference title and the NCAA Division 1 playoffs today as they travel to URI for a 3 p.m. meeting.

As things stand now, only Maine among all other conference foes, has a chance to wrest the title outright. The Black Bears however, with a 1-1 conference record and virtually their whole schedule ahead of them, are unlikely to beat out UMass which is presently 7-1 in conference.

UConn and URI with 4-3 and 2-3 marks respectively, could conceivably tie UMass, but this too is unlikely. Considering these possibilities though, the Redmen would like nothing better than to beat URI and UNH Saturday to solidify the situation.

"I feel confident about winning the title," said Bergquist. "We have the ability and the motivation is certainly there."

It appears as though the other conference teams should knock Maine out of contention and in the process reduce to zero the chances of either URI or UConn for a tie.

"Vermont, URI and UConn can give Maine a lot of trouble," continued Bergquist. "Vermont in particular, from what we have seen is as good as Maine. UConn has some good college pitchers and URI is no soft touch either.

"The team morale at UMass is good. After losing to Maine Friday, they came back sky high Saturday." The 12-2 victory is strong evidence of that.

"We were down somewhat at Williams Monday (UMass won 3-0) because it was in between conference games but we're ready for URI.

"We really want this game! John Kitchen will start but Don Anderson will be ready to go if necessary. If we need him, he'll be in there."

Probable starter for URI is junior Ed Stecyk. He's been pitching well of late having beaten Northeastern last week.

URI presently with a 4-5 overall record is fighting for its conference life so they should be psyched for this one. The Rams will also be out to avenge an 11-5 loss at UMass 10 days ago.

But as Bergquist emphatically stated, "we really want this game!" And off past performances, who can bet against them.

Golfers Split Tri-Match; Five Set for NEIGL

Massachusetts split a triangular golf match with MIT and WPI at Concord Country Club on Monday that was contested at medal play instead of the customary match play format which has been used during the year.

Since the New England Intercollegiate Championships this Friday at Taconic Golf Course in Williamstown will be contested on a medal play basis, the coaches agreed before play began to count the aggregate score of all seven players in the match. MIT, the host school, had the low total with 562 strokes, followed by UMass at 569, and finally WPI with 617.

MIT's Carl Everett was medalist for the match with a 73 on the par 71 course and for the Redmen Captain Eric Lekberg was the low scorer with a 78. Ironically had the matches been contested on a match play basis the Redmen would have edged the MIT squad 4-3 and WPI by a 6-1 count. UMass is now 10-4 overall for the year.

This Friday five members of the UMass squad, Ed Puzas, Eric Lekberg, Dave Salter, Dick King, and Rick Aherne will compete in the NEIGL tournament. The team champion will be decided from the school having the lowest medal score for four golfers and a record entry of 38 colleges will be shooting for the team title which was won a year ago by the University of Rhode Island. The low sixteen qualifiers on Friday will begin match play on Saturday and an individual champion will be crowned on Sunday after 72 holes of match play.

Bruins Trade Williams

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP)- Winger Tommy Williams and promising defenseman Barrie Gibbs were traded by Boston to the Minnesota North Stars yesterday.

Wren Blair, general manager of the National Hockey League Minnesota club, said Williams was acquired for a player to be named later and Gibbs in exchange for a first-round draft choice in the June draft this year.

Last Night's Intramurals

SOFTBALL
Redwoods 14 Barracudas 3
Hemlocks WBF Bruins
Brigade 25 Broncos 1
Buffaloes 13 Pied Pipers 10
HiLo's 12 Chestnuts 1
Maroons 20 Oaks 8
Elms WBF Giants
Grants 8 Pines 3
Eagles WBF Maples
Bucks 4 Ironmen B 3
Zeppelins WBF Faul Balls
Nickel Bags 10 3 M's 6
Coal Cons '2' 5 Runnfrs 4
Rasputin 10 Avengers 6
Stouts 8 Kittie Fellas 7
WHWL 9 Fishsticks 8
KS 'B' 10 Gak 3
Holes WBF Turtles
Bulldogs WAF Bismarks
Bruisers 'B' vs. Heads double forfeit
Marauders 13 LML 2

Soccer Playoffs

DORMS:
Marbans 3, Redwoods 2
Smashers 5 Colt 45's 4
FRATS:
PSD 3 TKE 2
TSP 2 PMD 1
INDEPENDENTS:
Ambassadors 1 Gak 0
TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE:
DORM CHAMPIONSHIP:
Maroons vs. Smashers
DORM CONSOLATION:
Colt 45's vs. Redwoods
FRAT CHAMPIONSHIP:
PSD vs. TSP
FRAT CONSOLATION:
TKE vs. PMD
INDEPENDENT CHAMPIONSHIP:
Ambassadors vs. Trojans

A GROUP OF 40 students met last night to discuss what they termed the centralization of power move by the Student Senate. The Student Leaders' Action Program (SLAP) is also publishing a broadside today. (MDC photo by Gunnar Myrbeck).

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 134 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1969

Dean Allen Seeks Student Support In Campaign to Restore Budget Cuts

Dean Dwight Allen of the School of Education spoke before the Student Senate last night in a plea for student support of a campaign to awaken the state legislature of the need to restore the cuts in the University budget and thus retain the services of Provost Tippo.

The campaign will consist of television programs, radio spots, and ads in the BOSTON GLOBE. The newspaper ads will request that the Massachusetts public write letters to their legislators on three points: that Provost Tippo is not "expendable", that the State has not done "marvelously" by higher education and that Governor Sargent has discriminated against higher education by severely cutting the University's budget.

The Student Senate passed a resolution to guarantee the raising of the necessary $12,000 by pledging to make up what is not raised by student and faculty donations.

Dean Allen emphasized the need for "political pressure" on the legislature since the money was "a matter of priorities" not a lack of funds. He also hoped for 100% student support.

Last night the Senate expected to go into another late session reviewing the proposed Student Organization budgets for 1969-70. The main concern that the Senate expressed was the relevance of each organization to the student community as a whole. Since each undergraduate is taxed approximately $25 per academic year, the Senators expressed a desire not to "waste" student funds for "public" associations.

As a result, the Senate considered the Collegiate Flying Club such an organization and therefore cut their requested $789 subsidy from the Student Activities Tax Fund. All budget approvals last night were subject to approval in the Final Budget Act.

The main budget issue presented before the Senate was the second and final presentation of the SWAP budget. The second reading of the budget included a controversial amendment which would require the committee selecting delegates to SWAP to include three members from SWAP, the President of the Senate, a representative from MLK, a representative from Afro-Am and a representative from the Provost's office.

Speaking against the amendment was Senate Vice-President Cindi Olken. Senator Olken said, "We should not interfere with the way an organization is run. We have given them a budget, and we should let them run their organization. If they fail, when they come back for another budget then we can cut it."

Some debate followed and the chairman of SWAP, Glenn Mangurian, stressed the idea that there must be "trust" between the Senate and the student organizations. The amendment was defeated. However, the budget was left in tact.

Speaking on the Senate action, Chairman Mangurian said, "I thought the majority of the Senate dealt with us fairly, and there was an element of trust from the Senate. We will live up to the po-

(Continued on Page 2)

Student Leaders Unite In Criticism of Senate

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

A group of approximately 40 students met last night in the Hampshire Room to discuss what they termed was a trend toward centralization on the part of the Student Senate which is not wanted by the students and to discuss a course of action which might be followed to remedy this situation.

The group known as Student Leaders Action Program (SLAP) is composed of student leaders and representatives of different R.S.O. groups and the dorm governments.

In a statement written by the steering committee of SLAP, which will appear in a broadside to be published today, the group criticizes the Senate for writing its own constitution and being the only body who can change it. The committee also feels that the Senate is encroaching on the rights of other organizations on campus to conduct their own affairs. Examples of binding clauses proposed on the budgets of SWAP, the DAILY COLLEGIAN and DVP were cited.

The SLAP committee also sought signatures for a petition to put the student governing constitution on a referendum, but the Senate, which was meeting at the same time, voted unanimously to put the constitution on a referendum.

Wayne Thomas, senior class president, summed up the aim of the committee saying it was hoped the juniors who were present last night would continue working next fall to present the negative side of the Constitution in an attempt to defeat it. Others present at the meeting also expressed the feeling the Senate was trying to do too much in too limited a span of time.

The Senate defeated a motion a few weeks ago for the popular election of the president of the Senate and one of those present said due to the powers invested in the Senate President and since he is termed the representative of the students, he should be popularly elected by the students.

Campaign to Advertise For Financial Support

A joint student-faculty effort to impress the taxpayers and legislators of the Commonwealth with the importance of adequate support for public higher education has begun on the University campus.

Sparked by the history of poor University support, and triggered by the impending resignation of Provost Oswald Tippo, a broad-based campaign to bring the plight of public higher education to the taxpayers and to Beacon Hill gets underway with the planning of a series of full-page advertisements in major Boston newspapers.

A series of timely public messages is being planned now for probable appearance next week in Boston newspapers. For this venture, student and faculty support will be solicited, starting tomorrow, at tables placed at various points across the campus.

Under the general direction of Acting Dean Seymour Shapiro and a small group of students, the plan is to call for signatures to a series of three advertisements to be collected on Friday, together with money contributions to defray the cost of the three messages. Present estimates suggest that a total of $13,000 needs to be collected.

Seven tables will be located and manned on Friday, at which students and faculty may register their support of the messages and make contributions to support the ads. Tables will be available in the lobby of the Student Union, inside the main entrance of Goodell Library, and at the five dining commons during meal hours.

Every member of the University community who believes that financial support for adequate higher education is the important issue facing us here today is strongly urged to make his sentiments known tomorrow by signing the open messages, and making a contribution to their publication.

A student spokesman for the ad hoc effort said that, "The present crisis has gone far beyond the matter of any one resignation. We are faced now with the larger question of overall support for all of Massachusetts public higher education. It is imperative that we do all we can to convince the taxpayers of the state that education is the soundest investment that can be made in a state's well-being and future."

Students Circulate Petition to Make 'Silent Majority' Heard

By BILL DICKINSON
Senior Reporter

A group of students, upset over the effects of campus disruptions elsewhere, is circulating a statement defining the University which it hopes will provide the "silent majority" with a voice.

According to the group's spokesman and the originator of the statement, David Breed, they hope to be able to present over 5,000 signatures to President John W. Lederle.

The statement, which is aimed at students, faculty and staff, includes in its eight points, "We believe in academic freedom . . . the freedom of the individual to pursue fundamental truths, and further, we believe that if the freedom of one individual of the community is abridged, the freedom of all members of the community is abridged. The University community must collectively defend the freedom of its members from those who would deny it."

It further states, "We believe in growth and change on the University campus through peaceful means, and condemn violence and coercive action in any form."

The petitions will be circulated at all dining commons and at table in the Student Union Thursday through Tuesday according to Breed.

Breed says he got the idea for the statement when Pres. Lederle had dinner at his fraternity. During the dinner, Breed asked him why the so-called silent majority hadn't been heard during recent campus disruptions.

"Pres. Lederle didn't have any answers for me, and as the idea was kicked around over coffee, it became increasingly evident to me that something should be done," says Breed.

He continues, "Subsequent to this came the uproar over the budget cut. Also, the facts that out of 50 states Massachusetts UMass is 50th in appropriations for public education and among the top in turning away qualified students. Yet we spend eight times as much on welfare."

"One of the reasons I believe our budget was cut by the legislature is the growing dissatisfaction of legislators and taxpayers in general with students."

He adds, "Hopefully, this will help influence the legislature in acting favorably on our budget."

Included in the statement is an appeal to the governor and the legislature "to provide a level of financial support that will guarantee firstrate public higher education in Massachusetts."

Also in the ad hoc group are: Pam Pepper, Pat Beharry, Joan Bourbanais, Gail Archambault, Chris Fredericks and Wayne Picard.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
STUDENT STATEMENT

I. We believe that the University is a place for the open and free exchange of ideas . . . a place for the imaginative acquisition of knowledge.

II. We believe in academic freedom . . . the freedom of the individual to pursue fundamental truths, and further, we believe that if the freedom of one individual of the community is abridged, the freedom of all members of the community is abridged. The University community must collectively defend the freedom of its members from those who would deny it.

III. We believe that the University is a place for intellectual ferment and creative dissent in the world of ideas.

IV. We believe that the University must function and grow through the mutual cooperation and trust of students, faculty, and administration in all areas of University activity and decision making.

V. We believe in growth and change on the University campus through peaceful means, and condemn violence and coercive action in any form.

VI. We believe that the University should not act IN LOCO PARENTIS, and we therefore accept full responsibility for our individual actions.

VII. We believe that the University should provide low-cost high quality education to young men and women, and, further, that it should maintain programs for students with disadvantaged backgrounds.

VIII. We believe in public higher education and strongly urge the citizens of the Commonwealth to support the Governor and General Court in taking those steps necessary to provide a level of financial support that will guarantee first rate public higher education in Massachusetts.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - Comdr. Lloyd M. Bucher will go to school and 43 of his Pueblo crew members have drawn new assignments outlined by the Navy Wednesday.

Thirty-nine of the original 82 crew members of the captured intelligence ship who survived North Korean imprisonment already have left the Navy or are in the process of doing so.

Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee Tuesday set aside that recommendation and all other proposals for punitive measures against Pueblo crewmen, maintaining they had already suffered enough.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said Wednesday he expects an impeachment move in the House unless Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas offers a further explanation of a fee he received from the Louis E. Wolfson family foundation.

"It all depends on what happens in the next few days," he said in a joint news conference with Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., at which they announced they will introduce a bill to require limited financial disclosure by federal judges.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration unveiled Wednesday a plan to promote young career diplomats into higher foreign affairs roles.

(Continued from Page 1)

tential of the trust that the University community has just given to us."

Another budget that created some debate was the budget for the Office of International Programs. The debate centered around a $1500 budge t proposal to have an emergency grants and aids fund available for foreign students. As the proposal stood, the loans would be available to undergraduate and graduate students.

The Senators felt that the grants should be made available only to undergraduate students because the taxes that support the organization were undergraduate taxes.

The Senate amendment passed.

Other budgets before the Senate were RSO and Chorale. The RSO budget passed. The Senate voted that the Chorale budget should be funded by the Music Department or some other academic program because the group was an academic one.

After some controversy over whether the Engineering Journal budget should include a $300 requisite for an electric typewriter, the budget was approved and the funds for the typewriter were also approved. The Senators agreed that the Journal is a "worthwhile" publication and that it presented more literary value to the students than the DAILY COLLEGIAN.

Late Senate action will be reported in tomorrow's MDC.

THIS SUMMER LEARN AN UNSPEAKABLE LANGUAGE-COBOL.

COBOL is a computer language. You use it to tell computers how to solve problems. Step by step. You don't have to be a genius to learn it, only average intelligence, and a creative knack for solving problems. In one single summer session in computer programming, Chamberlayne will teach you how to speak the language. What's in it for you? Read this.

With the ability to do computer programming, you can get a high-paying part-time job while in college. You get a head start in your preparation for a business career. It aids you in doing research for your graduate studies. (You may even carry out your own research, in connection with this class, on the college computer.) Chamberlayne's Summer Session in Computer Programming takes less time, and costs less money than any other comparable program. Chamberlayne's modern Computer Center is located in Back Bay, just around the corner from the Pru. Here you'll get "hands-on" experience with our own IBM System 360 computer, the system installed in over half the computer-using companies in the country.

There are two sessions, so choose the one most convenient for you.

June 30-July 31 9-12 AM Mon.-Thurs.
August 4-29 9-12 AM Mon.-Fri.

To find out how to enroll, call 536-4500, or fill in the coupon below.

Chamberlayne Computer Center
128 Commonwealth Ave., Boston 02116

Contact me immediately with full information on how to enroll in the Summer Session in Computer Programming.

Name_____
Street_____ City_____
State_____ Zip_____
Tel. No._____
Summer Address_____
College or Univ._____

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Dartmouth Calm, 55 Students Arrested

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) - Calm returned to the Dartmouth College campus Wednesday after State Troopers, moving with precision, seized the college administration building from a crowd of student invaders and arrested 55 of them.

The students led by members of Students for a Democratic Society, held the building 12 hours to mark a protest against ROTC.

Those arrested were lodged in various jails, some to remain locked up for nearly 12 hours until their supporters could raise a total of $11,000 in bail money - $200 each.

All were ordered to report to Woodsville court Friday morning for arraignment.

An estimated 120 troopers from New Hampshire and Vermont dragged, carried or escorted the youths from the building after breaking down a door the youths had nailed shut.

Clubs were not used, and there was no report of injury to students or officers. Two newsmen suffered minor injuries.

Six of the 55 arrested are women. All face criminal contempt of court charges. The all-male school has an undergraduate enrollment of 3, 100.

An estimated 400 students stood outside the administration building chanting "Abolish ROTC" as police removed the demonstrators, an operation that took about 15 minutes in the early morning hours.

Gov. Walter Peterson, a Dartmouth graduate and ex officio trustee of the college, personally directed the raid.

Troopers from Vermont were used under a mutual aid agreement.

The student invaders forced about 30 persons, including some deans and other officials, to leave and said they would remain "until the cops came."

The youths demanded an immediate end to ROTC programs on campus. The faculty had approved a phasing out of the courses as contracts with the services expired.

Trustees of the college applied for an injunction against the students and this was issued by Judge Martin Loughlin of Grafton County Superior Court.

The injunction prohibited unauthorized occupation of the building, blocking of entrances, opening of files, removing of documents and damaging of the building.

Withdrawl of Federal Aid To Campuses Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) - Colleges that fail to put down campus uprisings quickly and to discipline students causing them should have all federal education aid withdrawn, four House members said Wednesday.

At a hearing before a House Education subcommittee, the four House members said Wednesday.

At a hearing before a House Education subcommittee, the four said some college administrators have acted spinelessly and capitulated to the demands of student militants. Their bill would give authorities five days to restore order before funds were cut off.

"We want to give the college administrators a little more backbone in dealing with the rioting on their campuses," said Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., one of the sponsors. "If they act forthrightly their grants and their scholarships are in no danger. If they do not act their federal funds are cut off."

Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, another sponsor, put it more bluntly: "We're trying to give them some guts."

Kuykendall said a threat to turn off the pipeline of federal aid would arouse college alumni and boards of trustees who up until now, he said, have been curiously silent.

"Withhold one dime of federal aid," he said, "and they will join in one voice, screaming loud enough to drown any demands from gun-toting undergraduates."

Eugene McCarthy Supports Edward Kennedy in 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., emerged from a cocoon of silence Wednesday to tab Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as the current best bet for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Ranging a field of national issues, the Minnesota senator who made an unsuccessful bid for the 1968 nomination, also:

-Left the door open to changing his position that he will not run for re-election on his party's ticket next year.

-Criticized President Nixon for urging college presidents to crack down on campus demonstrators.

-Said the Nixon administration is not pushing hard enough for a settlement in Vietnam, but offered no specific suggestions.

-Pledged to work in the current session of Congress for a revision of the draft, which he said is shot through with "injustices and irrationality."

McCarthy broke his public silence of several weeks in response to questions on a recorded radio program, CBS' "Capitol Cloakroom."

Faster absorbency. Longer protection. That's the extra security you get with new Meds, the only tampon with this double-protection design: an outer layer of larger fibers that absorb instantly, with an inner layer of tiny fibers that store more, longer.

Comes in the first gentle, flexible plastic applicator.

Meds

MEDS AND MODESS ARE TRADEMARKS OF PERSONAL PRODUCTS COMPANY

Shirley Capecci ('71) as the Girl, and Jay McAuliffe ('71) as Young Man in a scene from Ron Cowen's "Summertree", showing now through Saturday in Bartlett Auditorium.

Jim Young Directs "Summertree" New Anti-War Play by Ron Cowen

SUMMERTREE, the next production by University of Massachusetts Theatre, is an honest and sensitive play by a new, 23 year-old playwright named Ron Cowen. If SUMMERTREE is a protest play, it seems to be protesting as much against the clamor and noise of last year's hippie-rock style anger as it is against the "cool" of a generation obeying the rules and killing the spirit. It may be the very quietness of Mr. Cowen's voice which speaks so strongly to our listening, to our hungers, to our angers and our fear.

In a compelling scene, the young man on his way to war "peels a leaf" from the Summertree, carefully exposing the tiny veins. It is a telling metaphor for Ron Cowen's play, as he sensitively strips away the skins of daily happenings (memories, games, misunderstandings, loving) and reveals the hurt of a young man going off to fight and to die in Viet Nam. We see, and we know, and we understand, the familiar scenes beneath the backyard Summertree - the boy, his parents and the girl he had loved, his dreams of music and children, the kid next door (who is also himself, practicing pain with a toy rifle). We see the drawing apart, the "gap", the coming back together. We see the reaching and touching, the reaching and failing to touch.

Jim Young, Chairman of Theatre and Oral Interpretation (director of last season's "MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT") is directing this production of SUMMERTREE. He ha s said "Ron Cowen attempts in SUMMERTREE to warmly yet incisively capture the dilemma of an ideolistically committed modern youth caught in the pressures of parents, materialism, and the military establishment."

The author says about his play, "SUMMERTREE" is a play of commonplaces. An anti-war message. A young man in search of identity! A father in search of - his strength? Their clash!

Labelled and categorized generation gap for easy handling. Someone dying saying "Remember me." Characters and their problems, easily recognizable. Seen again. They have no names. You may name them yourselves.

SUMMERTREE will be presented May 7 - 10 in Bartlett Auditorium, University of Massachusetts. All performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the University Theatre Box Office, 545-2579.

Take an interest in how your Winter Carnival is run!
PARTICIPATE IN THE

OPEN CLASS MEETING

Class of 1971

Sunday, May 11th

7:30 p.m. SBA 120

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL APPLICANTS are requested to attend

(Ex. Council Applications Due Friday)

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COMMUNITY COLLEGE

TWO SIX WEEK SUMMER SESSIONS

SESSION I
June 3 - July 16
Registration - June 2

SESSION II
July 18 - August 29
Registration - July 17

Courses of Instruction

Business Administration
Accounting, Managerial
Accounting, Principles
Accounting, Secretarial
Business Law, Principles
Economics, Principles
Finance, Principles
Marketing, Principles

Humanities
Art, History & Appreciation
Developmental Reading
English Composition & Literature
English Literature
Music, History & Appreciation
Philosophy
Public Speaking
World Literature

Languages
French I
French, Intermediate
German I
German, Intermediate Spanish I
Spanish, Intermediate

Mathematics
Calculus
Mathematics, College
Mathematics, Fundamentals
Mathematics, Modern

Sciences
Biology, General
Chemistry, General
Physics, General
Physical Science

Secretarial Sciences
Skills Review
Shorthand & Typing Workshop

Social Sciences
American History
Anthropology, Introduction
Government, Introduction
History of Western Civilization
Psychology, Child
Psychology, General
Sociology, Introduction
Statistics

For Further Information Contact:
Director of Summer Division
Massachusetts Bay Community College
57 Stanley Avenue
Watertown, Massachusetts 02172
926-8400, Ext. 36

TUITION
$54 per 3 credit course and non-credit course
$72 per 4 credit course
$3 Registration fee per session

Fully Accredited By The New England Association Of Colleges And Secondary Schools

Looking For A Summer Job?

There's a ski area in Vermont that is becoming more than a ski area. It's called KILLINGTON and it has a lot of summer jobs open this summer.

All types of construction workers are needed to build the world's longest ski lift (3½ miles), plus base lodges, ski trails and roads. Needed are supervisory help, carpenters, rough carpenters, concrete men, and general construction workers.

Vermont is not the city. There's not much to do. Just swimming, hiking, boating, water skiing, tennis, golf, horse back riding, fishing, hunting, sight seeing, dancing and swinging.

Maybe there's a job for you this summer. Why not ask.

For application, write:

John Cary
KILLINGTON SKI AREA
806 Killington Road
KILLINGTON, VERMONT 05751

"Remember, we're nonviolent, so be careful of your after shave."

Wild-eyed coeds can turn any peaceful demonstration into a full-scale riot, so be careful how you use your Hai Karate® After Shave and Cologne. But just in case your hand slips, we include instructions on self-defense in every package. (If you're a pacifist, maybe you'd better read the instructions twice.)

Hai Karate-be careful how you use it.

©1969 Leeming Division, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., New York, N.Y.

Open Discussion on ROTC To Be Held Tonight in Thompson

The academic affairs committee of the Student Senate will sponsor an open meeting on R.O.T.C. tonight, at 7:00 in Thompson Tower. The discussion, open to all members of the University community, will be based on the following:

Whereas, The Department of Military and Air Science as presently constituted are not susceptible to the ordinary processes of college-wide faculty and student influence over curriculum, course content, and faculty selections; and

Whereas, The academic qualifications of the faculty members in these departments are definitely suspect when compared to the rest of the University; and

Whereas, These failings have far-reaching adverse implications as to the standing of the Military Science curriculum; therefore

Resolved, That the Senate recommend to the Provost that academic credit be abolished for all R.O.T.C. courses as they presently exist.

Resolved, That the Senate give notice that it is not opposed to all portions of the R.O.T.C. program per se receiving academic credit, provided those portions which do receive credit are conducted in such a manner as to provide significant extra-military faculty participation and interdisciplinary character, such as through a fusion of sociological, psychological, and governmental principles of military history and affairs. To this end, be it further

Resolved, That the Senate recommend to the Provost that the Military Science departments be incorporated within the College of Arts and Sciences, and thereby to be subject, in so far as its course offerings with academic credit are concerned, to the interdisciplinary influences and standards of faculty selections that normally accrue from this status.

A New Concept of Gracious Living

NOW RENTING
for Summer and Fall Occupancy
One and Two Bedroom Apartments
located on Route 116 in Sunderland
4 mi. No. Univ. Mass.

Total Electric Heat by Western Mass. Electric Co.

Rental Agents will be on the Premises
Sat. 12 - 5 p.m. Sun. 1 - 6 p.m.
During rental hours call 665-3050
or call collect 203-289-2204 any time

The 2:00 HATCH
Trial Period is over —

The Hatch has returned to its normal operation hours (weekdays until 10:45 p.m.).

the assassination of god:
a celebration

FRIDAY, MAY 9th 8 P.M.
STUDENT UNION
BALLROOM
YOU are the actors.
no admission

COUNTRY FUNK

is the name of a fantastic group from Los Angeles we discovered in a ski lodge bar in Vermont. We brought them down to The Woodrose Ballroom to put their heads back together, and it sure did. They were called back for an encore. Come dig Country Funk, Up Against The Wall, and The Road light-show at The Woodrose. For $2.00 you can preserve their heads, and yours.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1965 TRI BRG., R. & H., W.W., 2 tops, 2 tonneau, recent muffler and generator, exc. cond., $1195. Call 549-1707. 5-9

Late 1966 Volvo, 2 dr., extras. Immaculate. Going abroad. Asking $1,500. 549-0661 eves. 5-9

1961 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 367-0174 after 6 p.m. 5-13

1966 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler, 5 speed, best offer over $400.00. Call 584-3613 evenings. 5-12

1961 Chevrolet — 4 door, standard transmission, good condition, snow tires, $50.00. Call 665-3667. 5-8

1964 VW cheap. My future employer will pay diff. between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June 549-1969. 5-9

1961 Ford Galaxie convertible, good condition, has spring inspection sticker, V8, standard shift with overdrive. Call John at 549-0459. 5-9

1963 VW $300. R and H. sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise excel. cond. Good for beach buggy etc. 253-2959. 5-14

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, good engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 253-5372. 5-15

Dune Monster, Trail Blazer or snow plow Jeep 1963 with new studded tires, battery and clutch. Call 527-1802 after 6:00. 5-8-12-15

1961 Austin Healey 3000, 2 new tires, overdrive, rebuilt carburetors, 6 cylinder, new carpeting, R. & H., exc. condition, guaranteed fun for the summer. $1395. Call Ron 253-3781. 5-14

WANTED

Wanted — Members for the NAAFP. If you would like to join the National Association for the Advancement of FOO People, write: NAAFP, WMUA, Fine Building, U. of Mass. Help a FOO. 5-9

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Idlewood Press, 543 Frederick, San Francisco, California.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA
1 female rider wanted to share expenses, leaving May 31 or June 1. Call late evening 586-1496. 5-12

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming. 5-9

Free Love, Groovy little puppies seeks a loving home. Skip Spire, 549-3538. 5-8

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $25.00 per month. No mistake, Barry. Call Lou 665-3673 after 6:00 p.m. 5-9

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6345 or 6-6356. 5-13

Wanted — Female apt. mates for partly furnished apartment — ½ mile from Campus starting Sept. 1, graduate students or mature under graduates. Utilities paid. Basement storage, washer, dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposal, air conditioner, reasonable price Please call 546-7333 preferably evenings. 5-8

Female roommates wanted — huge apartment, great for summer/fall. Immediate and June 1st occupancy, fireplace, pool, 150 acres, $50.00 month. Call 467-7918 and ask for Leslie or Carol. 5-12

One male roommate wanted for summer to share furnished apartment at Puffton Village, air conditioning, swimming pool, tennis courts, one mile north of Campus, $65/mo. Call 549-1027. 5-9

1 female roommate wanted to share one apt., own room, $67 mo. incls. util., summer and/or next year, if interested in only half summer call anyway. Lynn 549-8386. 5-13

Wanted: 2 male roommates to share a furnished house on Philips St., Sept. - May, and 4 roommates for this summer. Call Bob 549-3397. 5-13

Two girls to live off campus next year or seeking to share with a girl who already has apartment Call 546-8375. 5-12

TO SHARE YOUR APT. for summer. Dealer apt. in Amherst. Rent under $50. Call Dave Cochrane at 545-0329 (day) or 586-6927 after 9 p.m. 5-11

Female roommate wanted June 1 to Aug. 30 to share 3 bedroom apartment, 2 miles from Campus. Rent $50 month. Call Jan 253-2505 5-12

Summer roommates wanted — beautiful apt. only 3 miles from Campus. Take less. Call Joe at 121 Wheeler 545-2412. 5-11

Two girls to share furnished 5 room apartment next year. Class '70 preferred — $33 per month plus utilities. Notting Ave. Call 549-0416. 5-12

WANTED TO RENT

Teacher and wife need 3-room furnished apartment for June 20 to August 20. Write William Rogals, 29 Fourth Street, Attleboro, Mass. 02703. 5-9

PERSONAL

Belchertown Bust — Money needed for legal fees for Chandler House. Please send donations to 2009 Coolidge. 5-12

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR
Soph. or older, fine Maine girls camp. Call 253-5501 5-15

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-3167. TF

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lang's Photo, 825 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call me for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9416 or 584-0118. 5-16

FOR SALE

Scooter: 1967 Lambretta 150, spare tire, luggage rack with locking box, new Pirellies F &R, $135.00 includes helmet. Call Jeff at 546-1552 after 4 p.m. 5-8

Pentax 35mm SLR, excellent condition, many accessories, $175.00. Call Mike 584-6931. 5-8

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjan Cymbals, Traps Case and Naugahide Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $750, asking $350. 546-7017. 5-12

Washing Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition, 5 year guarantee, Original cost $220.00. Price $150. Call 665-2718 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

Autoharp, 12 chords, 36 strings, easy to play. Call Kathy, 313 Lewis, 545-2514. 5-9

Frigidaire Dishwasher, 1 yr. old; 2 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable, Call 545-2469. 5-16

1967 Indian Chief Motorcycle 1250 cc, has to be put together, newly painted, chopped fenders, tanks, headlight, chrome rims, brake, clutch assembly, forks, hi/rise bars, 3 sp. tankshift and parts of engine, plus 2 ex. engines, and parts $400.00. Call 5-2574 ask for Cort Bellavance or see me at Grad Print Making Office, Bartlett Hall. 5-12

Canonflex 35 mm. camera SLR with F1.2 lens, perfect condition, phone 546-9606 after 7. Leave name and phone. 5-12

One Encyclopedia Americana, excellent condition, 1966 edition, 30 volume set, $135.00. Call 546-5124. 5-12

MUST SELL
Portable stereo tape cartridge player, 6 mos. old, ten current tapes, cleaner cartridge, year supply of batteries, battery recharger, all for just $50 or best offer. Perfect for house or outdoor fun. Runs on electric current too. Great sound for a small machine. Call Bob before 9 p.m. 549-1774 or 546-7077 on Campus. 5-13

Parts (or indiv.) package sale from 1953 Plym. Power "U", new carburetor, battery, generator, muffler, 7 tires, all for $60. Info. call Mike 6-6597 bet. 7 - 11. 5-13

Dark brown natural hair fall, never used, sacrifice. 584-0942 after 5. 5-13

FOR RENT

Apt. to sublet, June 1st - Sept. 1st, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms, well furnished, $145 including utilities. Call 253-5766. 5-8

4 bedroom apt. on Phillips St., (closer to Campus than S.W. dorms) available June 1 - Sept. 1. Call 546-8231 or 549-9474. 5-8

To rent for summer or longer if desired — 2½ room apt., all utilities included, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus, $118/month, Apt. 3, Mill Hollow Apts., No. Amherst. See after 6:00 p.m. 5-8

Apartment to sublet — available June 1 to August 31, 3½ rooms, utilities included. Call after 5 p.m. 665-3052. 5-8

Summer Rental — Amherst, centrally located 3 room apartment on two floors, plenty of storage, partially furnished, very homey. Available June 1st - Sept. 1st. Responsible persons only. Call 253-7564 after 4 p.m. 5-9

Summer Students — 5 room furnished apt., Hadley, 4 students, June - Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Summer Students — 4 room furnished apt., Hadley, 3-4 students, available June-Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-6078. 5-26

5 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept 1, In center of Amherst, over C & C Package Store, $135 month, including utilities. Call 253-7800. 5-12

1 bedroom apartment in new section of Colonial Village, sublet from June 1 to Sept 1 or sign one year year lease. $125 with utilities Call 253-7645. 5-8

1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $110, with utilities, available June 1. Call 256-6257. 5-13

4 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept 1, Phillips St. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8031 anytime. 5-13

Please — summer sub-let 2 bedroom apt., furnished for 3 people, $140/mo., all utilities included, 1½ miles to Campus, easy thumb, Call 253-7940 anytime. 5-13

One furnished room for rent, 3 miles from U.M. for summer semester, $45 a month. Kitchen privilege if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-13

Apartment to sublet over summer, for months of June, July and August, $75. Call Frank at 546-9016. It is near the center of Amherst. 5-9

3½ room apt., dishwasher, utilities incl., $130. Begin June 1st. Call 665-4439. 5-13

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31 or lease for 1 yr. Call Joan 253-7629. 5-12

Apt. to sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, 5 min. away, Rt. 116, Amherst-Sunderland border, 4 rooms furnished; 2 bedrooms, T.V., $120/mo. Call Jaglee, Rm 422 at 5-2302 or 2303. 5-14

Apt. to sublet from June 1 to August 31. Seven rooms, completely furnished, ideal for 4 or 5 people. Three miles from Campus. Garage space available. Call Ken, 549-0216. 5-14

Modern 2 bedroom apt. furnished, swimming pool, air conditioned if desired, sublet until Sept. or sign one year lease, $148 including all utilities. Call 665-3972. 5-15

To sublet June - Sept. — room for 5, family room, living room, 2 baths and kitchen, modern facilities, Close to Campus $200 mo. Call Peggy or Marilyn 545-2735, 253-9215. 5-11

Summer sublet — 3½ room apartment, University Park, unfurnished, $137.50 reduced to $110.00, utilities included. Call 256-8002. 5-14

House to sublet from June 1 to Sept. 1. 7 large rooms, 4 bedrooms, in woodsy country area and only 12 minutes from Campus. Call John 253-3821. 5-12

Vacant(Air conditioned 1 room apartment at Crestview Apts. near campus. Rent $130. Call 549-1391. 5-14

Experimental "Assassination of God" to be Presented

Students will have the opportunity to participate in testing the limits of total theatre Friday night in a very unconventional dramatic production. Titled "The Assassination of God: A Celebration," the living theatre presentation will attack all the senses through a variety of media - drama, light, noise, film, music, and smell.

"I really don't have any comment on what will happen in the ballroom Friday night," said producer Tim Ney, "you'll have to come and experience it for yourself." While the exact details of the student-written production are being kept secret, the actors have said they will stop at nothing in creating a "theatre with guts."

The one-night experiment will begin with a parade from Southwest at 7:20 p.m. to the Student Union. The presentation will start in the Ballroom at 8 p.m. There is no admission charge, but donations will be taken for the Martin Luther King Food Drive. Since the audience must be limited, students are urged to arrive before eight.

The University Chorus will perform Benjamin Britten's "Festival Te Deum" and "Rejoice in the Lamb" at the Choral Concert on Sunday, May 11, at 4:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. Soloists in the performance are Dorothy Ornest, soprano; Donna Harler, alto; Warren Whitney, tenor; and John d'Armand, bass.

Officers recently elected to the University Chorus Board for the school year 1969-70 are: Armen Dohanian, Executive Manager, and George Seltzer, Assistant Manager.

Membership in the chorus is open to all University students. Anyone interested in singing with the group next semester may call Armen Dohanian (6-5044) or Mr. Harler (5-0532).

Christian Foundation Sponsors Social Project

The United Christian Foundation announced today that it is planning to sponsor a Summer Project on Social Change for July and August in the Amherst/UMass area. The Rev. Ronald Hardy, Project Coordinator, has defined the project as an attempt to accomplish two things: provide an experience for a number of UMass students working on questions of social change right in their own back yard; and secondly the project will attempt to investigate, define and take action on these various issues.

For instance, what are University plans for expansion and how will they effect the town of Amherst? What kinds of housing are being planned in the Amherst area? Does Amherst have a one class bias? What are the needs of the migrant workers who contribute to our economy each summer?

Part of the uniqueness of the Project is seen in its attempt to deal with social issues locally and concretely rather than leave the university and work in the city or stay merely on campus and deal only with national issues. The United Christian Foundation would like to explore the possibility of students working on issues that directly affect them and the communities in which they live.

The project experience will include the learning of various kinds of skills, how to do research, how to make surveys, conduct interviews, develop strategy and relate political processes to personal and social change. Resources will include skilled persons not only from the university but also from the Amherst community and certain persons working on similar problems in the Cambridge/Boston

"THE ASSASSINATION OF GOD"

presented as LIVING THEATRE at the
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
A whole new idea in entertainment.
8:00 P.M. — FRIDAY, MAY 9

NOTICE
BUS STOP CHANGE

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY:
All Peter Pan Bus Service will leave from HAIGIS MALL near Whitmore.
TICKETS will be sold at Student Union bus ticket office. Students are urged to purchase tickets in advance.
PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAY WEEK PICNIC
May 10 12:00-6:00
Saturday
Everyone is invited!

featuring:
The Orpheus
&
The Bold
The Boston Mass
The Desertations
Judy Manella
Fran Bothello
Continuous Entertainment

Balloons! Refreshments!
Hamburgs 20c
Hot Dogs 15c
Drinks 10c
Great times!
Great music!

8 MAY

A MEANS TO AN END
Cornell. A New Phase in Revolution

It would appear that after the recent occurances at Cornell University, we have reached a new phase in our gradual progress toward the revolution of liberation. Demonstrations have now seemingly run the gamut from marching picketers, to peaceful and therefore unsuccessful building takeovers, and now to the use of militant force (fists and weapons) to liberate institutions formally in the hands of the unfit majority.

With this new phase in the revolutionary movement of the oppressed masses have come wide-spread speculation from the unfit majority as to what will take place next. In other words, they are getting up-tight and of course accordingly reactionary. They have begun the process of indoctrinating their masses as to their version of what took place at Cornell in their usual attempt to counter and invalidate the activities of the movement. And what is more important is that they are succeeding as usual in turning many of our members away from the movement through their well established propaganda machines set up especially to kill the movement and to "supress the subversives." There is little dispute that with each succeeding phase of the liberation movement, we gain and lose many members in the interim.

We gain members with each succeeding phase because as we progress further toward the revolution, people see our worth and value. They see the supression of the underprivilidged masses, and the majority's willful annihilation of these masses. Then one day they get fed-up disgusted, and vomit. These are the people who join the revolution. Not for mere sensationalism and fad! And not as useless intellectual liberals! They come to the movement as people gut sick of the shit that the unfit majority continually dumps on the "darker minorities." Yes, they come to the movement sick and are cured via their work with and for the revolution.

But the discrepancy is that with each phase of the movement we lose certain of our members to the unfit majority. The question which ultimately arises is why does this happen? Why do we lose people as we move further toward total revolution?

The answer is that the people whom we lose are those who are not truly dedicated to the revolution. These are those intellectual liberals who spout verbally the goals of the revolution, but who when it comes down to the actual "thing" cop out and run over to the safety of the unfit majority. These are the ones who are easily swayed by the majority's propaganda machines, and not the true revolutionaries who compose the bulk of the movement.

The phase at Cornell was the beginning of a new era in the revolutionary plans of the movement. It happened to have served another purpose, as a screening device which separated the true revolutionaries from the pseudo-revolutionaries. We have lost, but at the same time gained. We have suffered, but at the same time achieved momentum. The revolution is well on the road to action. We have our Che Guevaras, our Huey Newton, and our Mao Tse Tungs. We have plans and devices which when implemented will play havoc with the unfit majority's highly vulnerable system of suppression. And most important of all, we have the people. We have the suppressed masses no longer willing to sit peacefully by while the unfit majority promises but continues to suppress. With God speed we will move, and with God's justice we will liberate. The movement is our device, revolution our means, and liberation our ends.

Keith M. Bromery
Executive Editor

A Just Judgement

Use your imagination please, and imagine a meeting at this very moment on a planet somewhere in the cosmos. It is the annual meeting of all the representatives of all the advanced planets in the universe. They meet every year to discuss the younger planets of the universe who will soon emerge into the advanced ranks. All the advance planets are friendly with each other. Tranquility, peace and order have always been the guiding principles of these planets and they have never experienced envy, greed, self-righteousness or war.

During the past few years they have been studying four of the younger planets, Ecaep, Evol, Ssenippah, and Earth. They have judged the first three planets and have agreed that they deserved preservation and an invitation to the advanced ranks. They base their decision on their own guiding principles of harmony, love, happiness and other such virtues.

They are now beginning to discuss the planet earth.

The Elder speaks,

"Good representatives of all the advanced planets in the cosmos, we have been studying the planet Earth for the very short time of 3,000 of their years. It appears to me that every time we begin to discuss Earth all the representatives become very restless and nervous. I too, feel strange at discussing a planet such as Earth, which is so alien to all we have experienced.

This year, however, is of utmost importance for we must determine the future of Earth. I will now read from our notes on Earth.

We know the planet contains beings who look and act the same. Yet they are broken up into various camps or "countries", as they call them. This alone is already a strange thing to comprehend. We, who on all our various planets are made up of one people united for their own well being.

However, something is even stranger which occurs on Earth. They have the strange habit of periodically killing each other. They also seem to cherish the accumulation of "money" over the dispersal of happiness. Of envy over love. Of disorder and war over harmony. And other peculiarities which are so alien to us and which, at Earth's present rate of growth, may endanger us.

Good representatives, as you know they have quite recently been probing, however primatively, into space, and shortly they may be able to journey far into the cosmos. Because of the odious history of the planet Earth and their present rate of growth we are faced with a dilemma. Although they are the only planet in the whole of the universe which exhibit those characteristics which I have enumerated, they still pose a threat to our existence for they may pollute other planets with their philosophy.

One of the representatives has proposed that Earth be destroyed and a majority of the representatives seem to be in favor of this proposal. I concur that it is a sound proposal. However, in light of the history of Earth and of the recent developments on that planet I feel any action on our part is unnecessary. They seem to enjoy destroying each other and with their development of their hydrogen bomb it appears that the next time they have an urge to destroy each other it will result in the destruction of the whole planet.

I propose then, that we postpone destruction of Earth until they annihilate each other. If they fail to do so, we must destroy Earth no later than their year of 2000 A.D. All in favor . . . the proposal is passed.

Discussion of the planet Earth will be suspended until the meeting in their year of 1999 A.D.

At our next meeting we will discuss planets with which we are more at ease. This meeting is terminated."

Doug Packer
Editorial Staff

Campus Comment

Repression?

Free speech is being censored in the US and yet no one is protesting.

CBS's firing the Smothers Brothers is an example of the government's tightening on free speech and the public's apathy to oppose it. CBS insists on its "responsibility" to edit out "bad taste" thus denying a forum of expression to young adults, blacks, and any other minority with "unpopular opinion" (Time magazine, April 18, 1969 p. 65).

However, the Smothers Brothers used neither pornography nor behaviour deviant to our society. Instead, they aroused the public to question the government by using social and political activities as the basis of their satire.

Suggesting that we "declare victory in Viet Nam and pull out" is an excerpt of the Smothers Brothers' ingenious humor. If statements like this are considered in bad taste then maybe we should re-examine the criteria of standards underlying our government.

By remaining silent, aren't we contributing towards the inhibition of free opinion through free speech????

Helene Kawaliwicz

Cure All

"A WEEKEND IN THE INFIRMARY"

Last week, I had a terrible feeling of uneasiness and discomfort. I decided to go to the infirmary, although I hate to get the feeling of being ill especially in May when final exams are taken and term papers are due. Moreover, I do not like to visit a doctor. I am always afraid of doctors, for they limit your moves and put restrictions on everything you do. In other words, they direct your entire life while you are ill. In any event I had to go and see a doctor to find a cure to my case which I did not know exactly what it was. The doctor decided that I should stay in the Infirmary for the weekend, so I did.

In the infirmary, doctors, nurses, and nurse aids, were all kind, nice, and understanding. It was their care and kind treatment that helped me feel better fast. When I left the infirmary and bade the nurses good bye, I felt I was leaving a group of good friends. Some people complain that they do not have the treatment they need as patients, but there are tens and tens of patients and each of them requires individual treatment and care. Doctors and nurses are doing their best, and they are indeed doing a good job. One thing only caused me some discomfort during my stay in the infirmary, that is, a group of football players with broken legs in casts who had a record player and a transistor TV in their room. The record player was loud all the time, and many patients, therefore, were not able to sleep. Those people should understand how it feels to be sick and should realize how important and comforting for a patient to get some sleep.....After all, the infirmary provides all patients with private listening radios through which they can listen to three or four broadcasting stations of their choice. There is an Arabic adage that says: Health is a crown on healthy people's heads, nobody sees it but patients. Indeed I have seen this crown and have known how beautiful and precious it is.

Ali M. Abdelwahab

"The streets of our country are in turmoil. The universities are filled with students rebelling and rioting. Communists are seeking to destroy our country. Russia is threatening us with her might. And the republic is in danger. Yes, danger from within and without. We need law and order! Yes, without law and order our nation cannot survive. . .elect us and we shall restore law and order."

—Adolf Hitler
Hamburg, Germany,
1932

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascorelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Claudia Hamberg
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR — David Baskin
EDITORIAL STAFF — Doug Packer
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — Barry Rubenstein
NEWS STAFF — P. Lempart, B. Gouveia
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS — Gunnar Myreback

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"It's the American way of saving us."

Dr. DuBois Seen as Sparkplug Behind Growth of Chorale Groups

The University of Massachusetts choral groups, have experienced tremendous growth in the four years since Dr. Richard duBois has become director. Made up of students from all major fields of study from engineering to forestry, these groups have represented the University in many communities.

Dr. duBois, who came from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1965, is largely responsible for the growth in choral music at the University. Under his direction, the original thirty-voice Chorale became a sixty-five voice a cappella group, with the Chamber Singers, a ten voice ensemble selected from the Chorale. Along with increasing the numbers and selectivity of the Chorale, Dr. duBois also formed the University Chorus, a large oratorio group, the Madrigal Singers, and a large women's choir. Professor Alan Harler joined the faculty in 1967 to vastly improve these latter groups. Approximately three hundred students are involved in these choral programs.

Last year, the University Chorale proved itself a top-flight singing group when it toured throughout the country and received great response in such major cities as Philadelphia and Chicago. On this tour, the Chorale gave an impressive performance at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

This year, members of the Chorale gave up spring vacation and several weekends to represent the University in fifteen different communities in Massachusetts, and often performed two or more concerts in each town.

The University of Massachusetts' Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Richard DuBois, will appear Sunday, May 11, in concert at Bowker Auditorium on the UMass campus. Also included in Sunday's concert will be the University Chorus and Women's Choir under the direction of Mr. Alan Harler.

Highlights of the concert will be the Chorale's Male Chorus, which will sing several sea chanties, and the Chamber Singers, a select ten voice group.

BRAZIL
SUMMER STUDY IN RIO
-EIGHT WEEKS JULY-AUGUST 1969
-UNIVERSITY COURSES: Brazilian History, Govt, Literature, Anthrop, Econ. Devel, Portuguese, etc
-FACULTY: Harvard, Columbia, M.I.T., N.Y.U.
-EXCURSIONS: Bahia, Brasilia, São Paulo, etc.
-WORKSHOPS: Cinema, Architecture, Music, Art
ENROLLMENT FEE includes: Air Passage, lodgings, Tuition. Excursions, Workshops - $1220
WRITE INTERAMERICAN SUMMER STUDY ASSOC.
310 Madison Ave - New York 10017
APPLICATION CLOSING DATE: MAY 15, 1969

R. O. T. C.

1) Should there be credit for R.O.T.C. or not?

2) Should Military Science Depts. be included in the College of Arts and Sciences?

OPEN MEETING

THURSDAY, MAY 8th — 7:00 P.M.

Council Chambers, Student Union

Discussion on these proposals.

Sponsored by Student Senate Public Relations Comm.

SENIORS!

MAKE YOUR RESERVATIONS
FOR SENIOR DAY
RIGHT NOW

$1 - SENIORS $3 - GUESTS OF SENIORS

STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

Southwest Assembly Elects Officers for '69-'70

The annual military review was held Tuesday on the University campus. Honored at the review were Colonel Joseph A. Bohnak, head of military science and Robert S. Hopkins, Dean of Men. Both men are retiring this year.

Officers for the year of '69-'70 were elected at Tuesday's meeting of Southwest Assembly. This year's President Larry Kravitz ('71) and Vice-President Jerry Stadnicki ('70) were re-elected for those positions. Elected to the position of Treasurer was Mike Linde ('72). Brenda Gouveia ('71) was voted next year's Secretary for the Assembly.

Another matter of business considered at this week's meeting was the passage of the by-laws for Southwest Assembly. The first part of the by-laws were written by the Legislative Committee, headed by Chairman Bill Walsh ('72). Article I of the by-laws deals with membership and obligations, while Article II describes rules and procedure for the Assembly.

Two proposals concerning Dining Commons meal tickets are being discussed in the Assembly. One of these involves issuing separate meal tickets for each meal, none of which would be compulsory. A more moderate proposal suggests simply that an alternate to the present meal ticket be offered that would not include the breakfast meal. There will be further discussion of the feasibility of these ideas at next Tuesday's meeting with Mark Brenner, Chairman of the Senate Service Committee. Also on the agenda for the next Assembly meeting is next year's budget. This meeting, which is open to the public, will be held next Tuesday night, May 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Hampshire Dining Commons #5.

UMass Physician Resumes Work In Philippines

Dr. Daniel Clapp, resident physician at the UMass Infirmary is returning with his family to the Philippines in August this year to resume work at the "Bethany Home, Inc., Orphanage" in Talakag, Mindanao.

The orphanage, in which Dr. Clapp served as a medical missionary for four years is "unique" in that it fosters a home-like atmosphere for the one hundred children. The orphanage provides housing, medical attention and education for the children. It also helps the nearby communities through medical services, instruction in preventive medicine and improvements in livestock raising techniques. Dr. Clapp said, "I always had the inclination to do missionary work which I felt I would enjoy and be useful in. Being much impressed by the way the orphanage is run and the unique way they take care of the orphans, I found myself involved in the orphanage".

The orphanage needs help, and for this reason, the Filipinos at UMass are raising funds for donation to the "Bethany Home Orphanage." There will be a colored film presentation of Filipino dances - the "BAYANIHAN", on Tuesday, May 13, 1969. The International Club of UMass will cosponsor the show. There will be three showings: a children's matinee at 4:00 (Crocker Farm School Auditorium, South Amherst), two shows at Mahar Auditorium, 7:30 and 9:00 p.m.

Tickets of 50¢ and $1.00 for students and general admission respectively will be sold at the door and at the Ticket Office of the Student Union.

Any student who would volunteer to help man the several tables collecting signatures for the Boston advertisements is asked to indicate his availability on sign-up sheets in the COLLEGIAN office.

Help is needed to cover one table throughout the day in the Union lobby, the entrance of the Library, and at meal hours in the dining commons.

THIS STUDENT STANDS OUT FROM ALL THE REST

She's one of many who have turned their backs on 'ponies,' canned opinions, and gimmicky review notes. For exams and term papers she uses TCIs—collections of the world's most outstanding literary criticism by the world's most outstanding authorities. And then she forms her own opinions. You too can be an outstanding literature student with TCIs. Each: $1.25

TWENTIETH CENTURY INTERPRETATIONS

Look for the TCIs you need. Among the many books in the series: Twentieth Century Interpretations of

Adventures of Huckleberry Finn ● Gulliver's Travels ● Hamlet ● Keats's Odes ● The Scarlet Letter ● The Sound and the Fury ● Walden

Available at your bookstore

SPECTRUM BOOKS

Write for your complete listing of TCIs:
Dept. CAC-N, PRENTICE-HALL, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N. J. 07632

TONIGHT

Underground Film Festival

Avant-garde views on:

LOVE

FLESH

COLOR

YOUR REAL LIFE

AND DREAMS

MAHAR at 8 p.m. 50c

GM

Why is Camaro the pace car again?

Official Indianapolis 500 Pace Car. Camaro SS Convertible with Rally Sport equipment and new Super Scoop hood.

Because it's the Hugger.

Camaro SS has been chosen to be the Indy 500 pace car for the second time in three years. That's because it has what it takes.

Engine choices start with a standard 300-hp 350-cu.-in. Turbo-Fire V8 and run up to a 325-hp 396-cu.-in. Turbo-Jet job. There's even a new Super Scoop hood you can order. It opens on acceleration, pouring cooler air into the engine for more go power.

The SS version of the Hugger grips the road with wide-oval tires on 14 x 7-inch-wide wheels, beefed-up suspension and power disc brakes.

The transmission comes linked to a 3-speed floor shift. If you want still more, there's a 4-speed Hurst shifter available.

Indy's tough. So's Camaro SS.

When it comes to pacesetting, it's pretty clear that Camaro knows its way around.

Start setting a pace of your own. At your Chevrolet dealer's now.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

CHEVROLET Pacesetter Values at our Sports Department.

THURSDAY

BOSS TWEED

9 o'clock

at

CHEQUERS

Notices

NEWMAN CLUB
"Diamond Head" will be shown Fri. at 7:30 p.m. in Mahar. Newman members free, non members $.50.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Come and see the art film, "Run" in Memorial Hall tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. All welcome.

CHESS CLUB
All interested students, who would like to participate in next year's projected activities may apply for membership tonight at 7 p.m. in the New Hatch.

SU MOVIE COMMITTEE
Elmer Gantry coming soon to the S.U., further details will be given out later.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS CLUB
Business meeting at 7 p.m. in 119 Bartlett tonight, election for next year's officers will be held. All Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen are urged to attend.

SOUTHWEST
"Assassination of God: A Celebration" - A parade will leave the Southwest triangles at 7:20 tomorrow to march to the S.U. Join us! Doors will be closed at 8:15 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Davis Center, Smith College. Request night, all welcome.

HILLEL
Fri. night services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm., S.U. Rabbi Kawal will speak. Sat. services at 9:45 p.m.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving S.U. Sat. at 1:15 and Patterson at 1:20.

MATH MAJORS
Important meeting tonight at 7:30 in Arnold Lounge to elect officers of the Math Club and to make plans for next year. Refreshments.

SCROLLS
Soph. Scrolls, meeting tonight at 6:30, bring money for pins and room cleaning. Freshman Scrolls, important meeting at 7 p.m. to choose your officers. Bring back the sheet for Maroon Keys, and your money for pins.

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication an campus judiciories, please call 546-7157. Reporters and other staff needed.

INDIA ASSOCIATION
Condolence meeting for death of President Dr. Zakir Hussain at Prince House main lounge Sat. at 4 p.m.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Open house at observatory. Meet at 8:30 p.m. tonight in main lobby of Hasbrouck. All invited.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Final program Sat. will be a picnic at Quabbin Reservoir. Bring

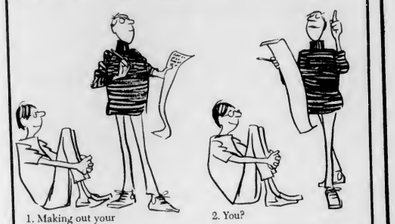
(Continued on Page 10)

GORDON LINEN

We deeply regret that Union members turned down the substantial wage package agreed upon by the Union and Management negotiating team and regular deliveries to our customers have been halted.

Ample supplies of merchandise are on hand at our Amherst office at 553 Main Street, Amherst to enable our college customers to receive fresh linen between the hours of 11 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday - Friday.

We sincerely appreciate your cooperation.



GORDON LINEN SERVICE

Telephone 253-3491

1970

Executive Council Applications Due May 15, 1969

Available R.S.O. Office 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

5. Why don't you see if you can land one of those great jobs Equitable is offering. The work is fascinating, the pay good, and the opportunities unlimited. All of which means you'll be able to take care of a wife, to say nothing of kids, extremely well.

"O, my Myrna is like a red, red rose..."

For details about careers at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: Lionel M. Stevens, Manager, College Employment.

THE EQUITABLE

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States
1285 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F © Equitable 1968

I didn't buy my Mother her Mothers' Day gift at dangling conversation, I wish I had!

To think I could have gotten her —

...a beautiful imported Mother of Pearl PIN & EARRING SET
...PAINTINGS
...EXQUISITE GLASSWARE
...POTTERY, EARTHENWARE
...or CARVED WOOD
...or even a FONDUE.

She would have loved any of them so much!

also at dangling conversation

Amherst's Sidewalk Sale

FRIDAY & SATURDAY ONLY

$1.00 Record Sale

½ off on Pants & Jeans, and White Shirts

dangling conversation open Friday night till 9 p.m.

Does it hurt to chill beer twice?

Not that you'd want to. Sometimes it just happens . . . like after a picnic, or when you bring home a couple of cold 6-paks and forget to put 'em in the refrigerator. Does re-chilling goof up the taste or flatten the flavor?

Relax. You don't have to worry.

A really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you chill it twice. We're mighty glad about that. We'd hate to think of all our effort going down the drain just because the temperature has its ups and downs.

You can understand why when you consider all the extra trouble and extra expense that go into brewing Bud®. For instance, Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood Aged.

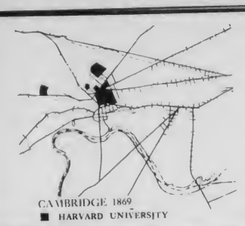
Yes?

No?



So . . . it's absolutely okay to chill beer twice. Enough said. (Of course, we have a lot more to say about Budweiser. But we'll keep it on ice for now.)

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS • NEWARK • LOS ANGELES • TAMPA • HOUSTON • COLUMBUS

8 MAY

20th CENTURY-FOX PRESENTS
THE MAGUS
A KOHN-KINBERG PRODUCTION
DIRECTED BY GUY GREEN
SCREENPLAY BY JOHN FOWLES
BASED ON HIS OWN NOVEL
COLOR BY DeLUXE PANAVISION®

Deerfield Drive-In
Route 5 and 10, South Deerfield
Tel. 665-8746
20th Century-Fox Presents THE TOUGHABLES
...JUDY HUXTABLE · ESTHER ANDERSON
MARILYN RICKARD · KATHY SIMMONDS
...DAVID ANTHONY
COLOR by DeLUXE

Play the "name game" with Lady Bostonian "Identо-Mocs"

You can have your, or his, initials, or or anything you want engraved on identification plate. You get these PERSONALIZED SHOES at

BOLLES
FOR DISTINCTIVE SHOES

BULLETIN No. 28 SPRING & SUMMER 1969

OVER 5,000 TIRES IN STOCK INCLUDING FOREIGN AND COMPACT SIZES

YOU MAY PURCHASE
TIRES
At Wholesale Prices
NEW Perfect Quality GOODYEAR

SCHOOL IDENTIFICATION REQUIRED

BATTERIES
FREE INSTALLATION
6 VOLT $7.72 EXCH
Exc. Most Cars
12 VOLT $10.73 EXCH.
FULL Guarantee provides for battery replacement FREE within 90 days

FULL 4 PLY NYLON TUBELESS

		FEDERAL EXCISE TAX
650 x 13	$8.96	$1.79
735/700 x 14	$10.86	$2.07
775/750 x 14	$10.97	$2.30
825/800 x 14	$11.78	$2.36
855/850 x 14	$15.97	$2.57
775/670 x 15	$10.87	$2.21
815/710 x 15	$13.33	$2.46
845/760 x 15	$15.97	$2.63
900/800/820 x 15	$19.05	$2.83

No Trade-In Required

NATION-WIDE GUARANTEE
NO LIMIT ON MILES • NO LIMIT ON MONTHS
(Adjustment Prorated on Tread Depth Based on Manufacturer's Adjustment Price)

AT SAME PRICES WE SELL OUR DEALERS

Terms Available
FREE TIRE MOUNTING

STATE INSPECTION PERIOD APRIL 1st TO MAY 15th

NEW WHEELS Genuine Firestone Retreads

BAK TIRE CO. COPYRIGHT 1969
"Northampton Warehouse Distributors"
55 DAMON ROAD • NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
584-4769
HOURS — 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.
Saturday 8:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M.
OVER 20 YEARS OF SERVICE

FREE WINTER TIRES CHANGED TO SUMMER TIRES

NEWS ANALYSIS

Harvard University Soul Searching In Aftermath of Demonstrations

By THOMAS PRATO
Staff Reporter

Four weeks and a good many events after the Harvard SDS take-over of University Hall, a Harvard administration building, a very clear picture of what has taken place and why, has been drawn. Basically, Harvard SDS won a battle, not only by precipitating a rge, general support strike, but so by making excessively public some filed documents from University Hall, which denoted strong internal Harvard ties with Industry and Government, and by exposing some of the Harvard Corporation's expansion policies in the city of Cambridge, which are similar to the policies of Columbia University.

The strong point, of course, was the strike, supporting some or parts of student demands and protesting both Pusey's use of police and police use of violence (50 injuries including a broken back and a broken neck).

The demands presented by those arrested and by the strike steering committee are the following: 1) abolish ROTC; 2) replace ROTC scholarships with commensurate Harvard Scholarships; 3) restore scholarships of Payne Hall demonstrators; 4) roll back rents in all Harvard-owned apartments to level of Jan. 1, 1968; 5) no evictions from Harvard's University Road apartments to make way for Kennedy Political Science Library facilities; 6) no eviction of black and white working people from the 182 units of Harvard Housing to make way for affiliated hospital complex; 7) amnesty for demonstrators at University Hall; 8) Black studies as demanded by the campus Afro-Am society.

These demands proved to be too extreme for the majority of Harvard students, but when Pusey called in the State and local police to de-occupy the building, a general strike of all classes and activities was called by a 15-member strike committee, representing both SDS and moderate factions of the student body. The strike led to some confusion, but also a great general uproar and discussion of the issues and demands.

The OLD MOLE, a Boston newspaper, stated, "The Harvard strike has educated more people to more new ideas than anything in Harvard's history. Even if the movement disappeared today, it would have been the best thing that ever happened to Harvard students. But it won't disappear. The more people act, the more they learn, and the more they learn, the more they see the need to act." The trial for many of those arrested continues, and the Cambridge city government has refused to drop any charges, even at the insistance of the Harvard Administration.

In the opinion of many, the most legitimate grievance of the Harvard radicals is the matter of Harvard's real estate policies in Cam-lunch and dress rough. Bus leaving at 10:30 in front at the S.U. with 50 children. Sign up or call Chet, 6-6421.

(Continued on Page 11)

NOTICES (Continued from Page 9)

ORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Professor Bill Little, U. of North Carolina, will speak on "Electronic Effects in Ferrocene" today at 11:15 a.m. in Rm. 152 Goessmann.

PRE-MED SOCIETY
All members interested in running for office please contact John Young, 6-5330 by May 10.

MILITARY BALL
Sat., May 10 at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Formal dress. Tickets on sale at Dickinson for $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

TEACHER'S CORPS
Teacher's Corps will be on campus today to introduce their program. Liberal Arts and Business majors (no certified teaching candidates) are eligible. Sign up in Placement Office for an interview.

CLASS OF '69
Seniors! Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day, May 30.

PINNINGS
Susan Tracey, '69, Patterson, to Greg Fleck, Boston College.
Diana Bendel, '71, SDT, to Steve Hutnik, '70, D.U. Lafayette.

ENGAGEMENTS
Lorraine Balch, '69, JQA, to Thomas Limero, '69, Washington.
Linda Stevens, '71, Alpha Chi Omega, to Ray Everett, '70, Sunderland.
Nancy Stumph, '69, Pi Beta Phi, to George Clem, USMC.
Susan Dillon, '70, Chi Omega, to Peter Evans, '69, Delta Upsilon, Amherst College.
Betty Deane, '69 Brooks, to Paul Duby, '69, Belchertown.
Zina Tillona, N. Pleasant St., to Peter Giarusso, '71, Washington.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Brown Fawhunt raincoat with leather shoulders and belt. Reward. Call Jane, 6-7462.
Lost - Gold and silver vulcain calendar watch with black strap. Reward, call 6-7574.
Lost - Check for $102.48 in an envelope along with student ID and meal ticket. Call Lois, 6-8340.
Found - Pair of men's glasses. Call Toby, 6-8613.
Lost-Brown square shaped glasses. Call Holly, 6-5366.
Lost - Red wallet belonging to Susan Spooner. Call 6-9553 or 6-9834 or return to S.U. lost and found or Campus Police Ststian.
Lost - Organic Chem. textbook, Cram and Hammond. Call Karl, 6-9337. Reward.
Found - Sweater near Stockbridge. Call Snart, 256-6934.
Lost - UMass class ring with initials DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Lost - Melville - One whale from Herman Melville House Lobby.
Found - One 1967 Sigma Phi Epsilon Composite.
Lost - Blue pocketbook. Call 665-3044.

CANCELLATION
The Project Ten undergraund film series scheduled for tonight has been cancelled because the films did not arrive.

The English Pub
Charlie Bradshaw
AT THE PIANO
Tonight

N.Y. City College Closes As Protestors Clash

(AP) - Negro students fought with white students Wednesday at the gates of the City College of New York and state troopers from New Hampshire and Vermont broke down doors at Dartmouth College to eject student demonstrators.

Their heads and faces streaming blood, seven white students were taken from the CCNY campus to nearby Knickerbocker Hospital after the battle at the gates.

CCNY President Buell G. Gallagher ordered the 20,000 student school shut down for the second time in three weeks. A spokesman said later CCNY will reopen Thursday with "adequate police protection on campus."

Earlier Wednesday, state police helmeted but without clubs, dragged and carried out some of 60 Dartmouth students sitting in to protest the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Others left the administration building in Hanover, N.H., peacefully.

Helmeted New York policemen were stationed at the east gate to the CCNY South Campus, which Negro and Puerto Rican Students blockaded from April 22 to last Monday.

CCNY reopened on Tuesday, amid scattered disorder and tension, which built up to the major violence Wednesday.

The Negroes and Puerto Ricans had barricaded the campus in demanding a separate school of black and Hispanic studies and a freshman enrollment in proportion to the Negro and Puerto Rican enrollment in the city high schools, which is about 40 per cent.

Gallagher said this series of incidents forced his decision to close CCNY:

- Negro youths invaded the engineering building, swinging clubs and injuring several students and a professor.

- A white girl was robbed at knife point by several Negro girls in the women's room at Townsend Harris Hall.

The white students outnumbered the Negroes and the Negroes retreated over the gates, then fled as police cars approached, sirens screaming.

In an earlier clash, Negro and Puerto Rican students invaded the engineering building - swinging golf clubs and sticks - and charged into a group of white students and faculty members.

CCNY said several students were injured and a faculty member was struck in the face.

Harvard...

(Continued from Page 10)

bridge. Naturally, it is reasonable to expect any college to expand, but it is very unreasonable for a college to expand at the expense of any local residents. Harvard, Cambridge's biggest landlord, does plan to evict black and white working people to make room for University-affiliated structures and has not, as yet, provided any relocation plans.

Any action by Harvard rescinding its real estate policies has not been apparent, except a resolution passed by the Harvard Faculty committing Harvard to a "humane" policy in Cambridge. The resolution has not been acted on as yet.

Other specific faculty action following the bust has been, on ROTC, another resolution asking that ROTC be shunted over to an extra-curricular activity, on amnesty, a committee of faculty and students to investigate the 'disturbances' and, on Black studies, a future special meeting on the subject.

But the fact remains, in spite of nothing very specific having been done, Harvard is still in turmoil and is engaged in self-analysis. Both the university and the city community are also now aware of some of Harvard's policies and problems, but eyes have been opened, and problems can and will be solved.

Grad Senate to Hold Last Meeting Monday

The Graduate Student Senate will hold its last meeting of the semester Monday night, May 12, at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

The Senate will hear a report from the Housing Committee, including a report on a scheduled meeting of GSS representatives with John Lederle, president of the university, and Arthur Gentile, acting dean of the Graduate School.

Other Committee reports on the agenda include those from the Academic Affairs Committee and from the Finance Committee, the latter to include the proposed budget for the next academic year, according to outgoing president, Thomas Minogue.

This years' Graduate Student Senate officers will be presiding at their last meeting. The new slate, headed by incumbent vice-president David Yelton, will take office on June 1, according to the GSS constitution.

The meeting is open to the public.

There are openings for next year on the following University committees:
Student Affairs
Distinguished Visitors Program
SUG Board
Upward Bound
Fine Arts Council
Health Council
Master Planning
Scholarship, Placement, and Financial Aid
Student Life
Five College

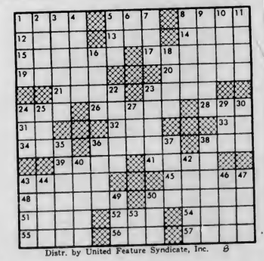
Applications may be picked up in the Student Senate Office. They are due in by Tuesday, May 13.

Late Show Friday at 11:30 p.m. (not part of our regular program)
AMHERST Cinema
The story of the wild live-in, love-in parties ...
"CANDY BABY"

AMHERST Cinema
NOW - 6:40 & 8:55
Sat. - Sun. 2:00 4:25 6:40 9:00
"BIG... EXTRAORDINARY... SIMPLY GREAT... Maggie Smith's performance is staggering." —Canby, N.Y. Times

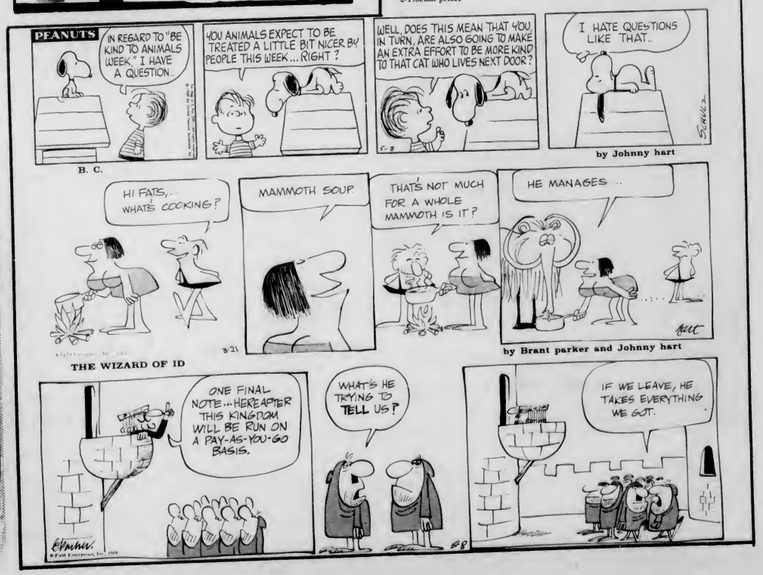
20th Century-Fox Presents
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie
Color by DeLuxe
R

CROSSWORD PUZZLE



ACROSS
1-Winglike
5-Attempt
8-Final
12-Sleeveless cloak
13-Fish eggs
14-Appellation of Athena
15-Use
17-Shred
19-Dinner course
20-Condescending looks
21-Organs of sight
23-Young salmon
24-Possessive pronoun
26-Heavenly bodies
28-Weaken
31-Conjunction
32-Native metal
33-Parent (colloq.)
34-Crowd
36-Lock of hair
38-Possessive pronoun
39-Paper measure
41-Shortly
43-Stiff
45-Ascends
48-Coupled
50-Salty
51-Part of church
52-Native metal
54-Prepare for print
55-Sow
56-Recent
57-Communists

3-Fruit (pl.)
4-Kind of foot race
5-Attempt
6-Artificial language
7-Still
8-Anon
9-Changes
10-Prophet
11-Sailors (colloq.)
16-Poems
18-Word of sorrow
22-Atmospheric disturbance
23-Iron
24-Doctrine
25-Also
27-Exist
29-Likely
30-Dance step
35-Cook by searing, then simmering
36-Carry
37-Rail bird
38-Interior
40-Was mistaken
42-Lubricator
43-Resorts
44-Bind
46-Wife of Geraint
47-Places
49-Man's nickname
50-Stitch
53-Note of scale



DOWN
1-High cards
2-Tibetan priest

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

G	A	S		S	O	A	R	S		P	S	I
A	L	I		T	R	I	A	L		R	O	T
L	A	T	E	R		R	I	O	T	O	U	S
		A	P	E	S		D	O	E
S	C	R	E	E	N	S		P	E	T	A	L
T	A		E	T	A	N		S	A	G	E
A	R	I		S	P	A	T	S		T	E	A
G	O	A	S		S	I	T	E	S		N	D
E	L	A	T	E		L	A	R	I	A	T	S
		E	R	A		R	I	T	A
T	E	M	P	E	R	A		A	E	R	I	E
A	G	E		G	A	M	E	L		O	R	A
G	O	T		T	S	A	R	S		N	E	T

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
RT. 9, AMHERST 256-6411
CINEMA II NOW PLAYING!
THE SUPER ADVENTURE
It's a suspense story.
It's a comedy story.
It's a war story.
It's a wild story.
It's a love story.
Nightly at 7 and 9
And I'm the hero.
OLIVER REED MICHAEL J. POLLARD
"HANNIBAL BROOKS"
CINEMA I NOW PLAYING!
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
Best Actor Cliff Robertson
CLIFF ROBERTSON
CLAIRE BLOOM
"CHARLY"
Nightly at 7:15 & 9

8 MAY 8

Peter Gayeska Picked by Atlanta Hawks in NBA Draft

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Hoop Expert

"When he was a freshman, a lot of famous people laughed at him." The 'him' was Peter Gayeska. The speaker was his coach, Jack Leaman. Gayeska silenced the last of the scoffers yesterday when he was drafted on the ninth round by the Atlanta Hawks.

Leaman elaborated, "Jim Luscatoff was the one who said that Gayeska would never make it. He told me the kid didn't have good hands, he was clumsy, and he would never get the moves necessary to be a star."

The ex-Celtic star didn't know what was in the 6'10" Somerville native's heart. "I never saw a kid work harder in my life," marveled Leaman, "and he wouldn't stop trying. He is an example of what hard work can produce."

The Atlanta offer is not the only offer that Gayeska has in the fire. Both Bell Telephone of Belgium, and a motor company in Le Mans, France have both expressed interest in him. Gayeska, because of bone chips in his left ankle, is unable to travel to Europe for a try out for a while.

Gayeska averaged in excess of 15 points a game in his senior year, and had a norm of 11 rebounds. He was a unanimous pick for the All-Yankee Conference team. Only because of Terry Driscoll, the fourth pick in the entire draft, was Gayeska left off the All New England Team.

In both his junior and senior year he was voted the team's most improved player. He was used only sparingly as a sophomore.

Leaman's immediate reaction was "Atlanta? Is that right? Wow! That's terrific!" Then the UMass coach reflected, "I'm not surprised, but I sure am happy for him. That's a great tribute to him."

Gayeska became the third New Englander to be drafted by the NBA. Driscoll and EdStudut, a 6'7" forward for Holy Cross, was taken on the second round pick of San Francisco.

Gayeska admitted that he was, " a little surprised." He reasoned, "Since I wasn't drafted by the ABA, I really was not getting my hopes up. Atlanta sent me a letter, but so did the Houston Mavericks, and they didn't draft me."

The captain of the YC champions has no visions of immediate success with the Hawks. "I want to go to school for a couple of years and get my Masters degree."

Gayeska will probably combine basketball with books in Europe. Another All YC center, Toby Kimball, did the same thing a few years ago. After he returned, he played for Boston and San Diego.

Gayeska has kept his parents in the dark. "They'll be happier when they read it in the paper," he said.

Gayeska learned of his drafting in a rather unusual way. This reporter called Kappa Sig and asked to speak to him. A frat brother said he was out, and asked for a message. The caller asked, ' How does he feel about being drafted by Atlanta?"

The brother replied, "Holy smokes! Are you kidding?" He then slammed down the phone and ran to find Gayeska to give him the news.

An interesting twist of irony took place in the draft yesterday. Luscatoff's ace, Rod Forbes, a star for Malden, the team that beat Somerville for the Greater Boston and Tech titles in 1964 was drafted.

However, the "Clumsy kid with no moves" was drafted 42 players before the World Champion Celtics could get around to picking Forbes.

Gayeska had made a poor prophet of Juscatoff. He wasn't impressed. Like many seniors he had one dominating thought "Right now," he moaned, "all I want to do is graduate."

PETER GAYESKA
UMass star drafted by Atlanta Hawks

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 134
THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1969

Last Night's Intramurals

SOCCER
Ambassadors 3, Trojans 0
TSD 1, TSP 0
PMD 1, TKE 0
Maroons 3, Smashers 0
Colt 45's 1, Redwoods 0

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Kitchen Pitches Redmen Over Rhode Island, 4-1, In Big Conference Win

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

Kingston, R.I. - John Kitchen, delivering his best varsity effort in a crucial conference game, pitched UMass to a 4-1 triumph over Rhode Island here yesterday afternoon. The important win raised the Redman Yankee Conference mark to 8-1 and leaves only Maine at 1-1 with any hopes of catching Coach Dick Berquist's front runners.

Kitchen, a junior right hander, completely overpowered the Rams as he struck out twelve while scattering four singles and walking only three. The big hurler had excellent control and was throwing smoke past the Rhody hitters. His personal record now stands at 4-1.

UMass got what proved to be the winning runs in the top of the second. Mitch Salnick, with one down singled sharply to left center and Steve Stanford followed with a slicing double down the right field line. Trying to cut off the run at the plate, Rhode Island played its infield in, but this strategy backfired when Kitchen hit a shot off the third-baseman's glove scoring two.

The Redmen picked up single tallies in the third and fourth to up their lead to 4-0. A two-out single by Salnick following a walk to Tony Chinappi and a single by Tom Semino produced the third run and an inning later Ray Ellsbrook reached third on a three-base throwing error by pitcher John Sartini and scored on a single by Joey DiSarcina off the first-baseman's glove.

Sartini and Kitchen then settled down to a pitching duel, each throwing goose eggs through the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings. Kitchen in one stretch struck out six of seven batters that faced him.

In the bottom of the eighth, after Kitchen had chalked up two more k's, Sartini drew a walk, Richie Walsh singled, and Vin Sheehan drew a free pass to put the UMass righty in his only real trouble of the contest. An infield error broke up the shutout, but a good catch by Tony Chinappi off a wind-blown foul popup strangled the tying runs. Kitchen then breezed through the ninth to wrap up a big victory for the Redmen.

DUGOUT CHATTER – UMass now stands at 15-6, a record which is second only to Boston University's 14-3 among the major schools of New England. . . DiSarcina has a solid ten-game hitting streak going. . . Sophomore Billy Powell joined the club. The sophomore pitcher was impressive in several JV outings and with six games in the next ten days may be called on to do some varsity hurling.

This is fun! -- UMass lacrosse coach Dick Garber gets dunked after his 100th victory. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM:
Richard Garber
% Gordon Neylon, Amherst, Mass.

Congratulations on your successful lacrosse season, and your new membership in the century club of the United States Lacrosse Association. Best Wishes Ted Kennedy

Frosh Win Fifth as Martin Hurls Shutout, 5-0

Kingston, R.I. - Southpaw Brian Martin spun a beautiful one-hitter enroute to a 5-0 shutout over the URI freshmen. It was Martin's second win of the season and the fifth for the UMass frosh against two setbacks.

Stan Baker was the hitting star for the yearlings with two doubles and a single. His R.B.I. hit in the fourth plated Mike Lanchanski, who had tripled, giving Martin the only support he needed.

Hosea Kelly singled, stole second, reached third on a fielder's choice, then swiped home for the Little Redmen's second score in the fifth. An inning later Baker again delivered Lanchanski with a double.

UMass tallied twice more in the eighth to close out the scoring. Mark Iarussi's drag bunt with runners at second and third was misplayed into two runs.

Martin struck out nine and walked but one. The no-hitter was broken up in the fourth by a two-out clean single. A third Ram reached base in the eighth when he was hit by a pitch. URI was never able to put a runner in scoring position against the masterful righty.

STEVE SANFORD

The UMass tennis match with Springfield was rained out and cancelled yesterday afternoon. It was the third cancellation for the Redmen this season and they finished with a duel meet record of 5-0.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 136 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1969

CAMPUS MOVES TO SAVE UMASS BUDGET

Medical School to be Delayed By Sargent's Budget Cut

The UMass Medical School will not be able to open in 1970 because, in the words of Dean Lamar Soutar, of the "grossly inadequate" budget submitted by Governor Francis Sargent to the legislature.

Soutar says he was told by budget bureau director Shepard that the Governor's budget is not intended to allow the school to open on time.

"Mr. Shepard has made it clear that he supports waiting until 1973 to admit the first students. I believe the Governor is unwilling to commit the necessary funds until his "hard look" at the school is finished, "the Med School Dean explained.

But Sargent's commissioner of Administration and Finance Donald Dwight denied that the budget submitted by the Governor intends to stall the school's opening.

Sargent has sent a budget of $530,500 for the Med School to the legislature, but Soutar has stated that the minimum budget which would allow the school to open on time calls for $1.2 million. The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has proposed a $750,000 compromise budget.

The Governor's budge t makes no funds available to hire any faculty, professional or clerical staff at the school before students are admitted. Soutar has stated that he will not recommend admitting students until a faculty has been hired.

Money for Ads to be Collected, More Budget Cuts Made Yesterday

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

The campus movement to impress upon legislators and taxpayers the importance of supporting public higher education, and specifically to help save the University's budget, swings into high gear today on news of an additional budget cut.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday slashed an additional $1.4 million dollars from the University's already drained budget request. When UMass Dean of Students William F. Field learned of the cut he said, "I don't know what they possibly could cut."

Students and faculty members will man seven tables - in the Student Union lobby, Goodell Library, and in all five dining commons - to collect donations and signatures for several full page ads to be run in Boston newspapers next week. Each student making a contribution, or even just a signature, will have his name included in the ads.

The advertising campaign, it is estimated, will cost at least $12,000; and student groups have rallied to raise this amount.

- The Young Republicans club has dissolved itself, and is donating the $31 left in its budget.

- The Student Senate has agreed to match contributions up to $6,000.

- The DAILY COLLEGIAN is donating free advertising space for the money-raising campaign.

The tables collecting signatures and dollars will be manned today only.

A student spokesman for the ad-hoc group explained, "We are now faced with . . . the larger question of overall support for Massachusetts public higher education. It is imperative that we do all we can to convince the taxpayers of the state that education is the soundest investment that can be made in a state's well-being and future."

The so-called "taxpayers' revolt," members of the ad-hoc group feel, should not be used as a rationale for the legislators cutting the education budget. The dining commons, incidentally, are reported to be considering not serving tea today, to counter the "tea bag revolt;" and UMass administrator Jack Littlefield has coined the slogan, "drink coffee, not tea."

JERRY RUBIN, tight, pictured here with Rennie Davis and Dave Dillinger, will speak with students Monday and Tuesday with students on positive action in the political arena.

Rubin, Bloom, Mungo Highlight Freshman Sponsored May Weekend

Jerry Rubin, a leader of the Youth International Party, will speak here Monday night at 8:00 to cap the class of '72's May Weekend.

The weekend will begin tonight with the presentation of the "Assassination of God: A Celebration". A parade will leave Southwest at 7:20 and march to the Student Union Ballroom where the presentation will be held. There is no admission charge, and the doors will close at 8:15.

The Class is sponsoring a day-long picnic by the campus pond Saturday afternoon, featuring Orpheus, and including Boston Mass, Dynamic Destination, the Bold, the Gravy, Fran Bothello, and Julie Manella, in a program of continuous entertainment. Hamburgers, hot dogs, and soda will be on sale, from 12 to 6 p.m.

Appearing with Rubin, who will be here both on Monday and Tuesday to talk with interested students, will be the founders of the liberation news service Marshall Bloom and Ray Mungo.

He has been called an "intellectual as well as an activist and has contributed many ideas and innovations to the 'movement'."

He was a leader of the Berkeley Free speech movement and ran as Mayor of that city in 1964, getting 30% of the vote. Rubin went on to help organize the march on Washington in 1967 to end the war in Vietnam, and the assault on the Pentagon, the Festival of Life at the Democratic National Convention last year, and the counter inauguration in Washington this year.

Described as "theatre with guts" tonight's dramatic presentation, "The Assassination of God: A Celebration" is an attempt to break free of theatrical traditionalism by surpassing restrictions on dramatic communication. Through the varied media of light, sound, smell, music, and drama, "The Assassination of God" explores a type of theatre heavily influenced by the contemporary computerized world. It reflects an angry atmosphere of violence. The aim of the actors is to make the audience feel and react to the mood.

"We're not sure if everyone will enjoy tonight's experience," said one unidentified actor, "but they certainly won't forget it."

The Student Senate will hold an open meeting to answer any student questions on the fiscal '70 student budget act, Monday night, from 7-9 p.m. in the Berkshire room of the Union, and from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday night in the Essex room of the Union.

Next year's student activity tax rate will be between $30-35 per student, totaling between $400,000 - 450,000.

Students Debate ROTC In Senate Open Meeting

By SUSAN SPATRICK
Staff Reporter

R.O.T.C. credit was the topic of discussion at an open hearing held by the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate last night.

The resolution of the committee, to be presented at Wednesday night's Senate meeting, stated that it would recommend to the Provost that academic credit be abolished for all ROTC courses as they presently exist.

However, it stated that the committee was not opposed to all portions of R.O.T.C. receiving credit, provided these portions provide significant extra-military faculty participation. It then recommended that the Military Science Departments be incorporated within the College of Arts and Sciences and that courses worth credit be subject to the normal standards of that school.

There was much argument and discussion on the points of the provisions, especially between members and faculty in R.O.T.C. and those of the opposing side. Some of the arguments were on points of such as the quality of curriculum, course content, and faculty selections in R.O.T.C., as opposed to those in other departments of the University.

A few of the reasons for retaining R.O.T.C. as it presently exists were, that the corps turns out more liberally educated officers and that it provides future officers with relevant training towards their future.

Some of the objections were that R.O.T.C. was a 'floating free department', and not a real member of the academic community. Another objection was that the courses did not allow freedom of speech in class.

People who oppose R.O.T.C. differed from those who felt it should be completely abolished from the University to others who believe that the program should be moved out into the rest of the school, under the auspices of different departments, such as government, and that the course be open to all students.

In this plan, these courses would count towards credit in R.O.T.C. and in addition, students in the Military Sciences would also take drill practice for no credit.

The hearing was attended by more than 100 people in the Colonial Room.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

NEW YORK (AP) - A major fire, described by officials as incendiary, destroyed an auditorium in a student center at City College in New York Thursday. The blaze was one of 11 set during the day at the strife-ravaged campus.

The fire broke out as City College tried to reopen after a bloody racial battle Wednesday. As the disarray spread Thursday, CCNY President Buell G. Gallagher said "adventurers in guerrilla tactics" had taken over fro m responsible Negro and Puerto Rican students.

WASHINGTON (CPS) - Howard University officials in Washington D.C. told occupying students to move out or face arrest. The school has been closed indefinitely. The faculty supports the administration, but community leaders have spoken out on behalf of students, who want a bigger voice in school affairs.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Encouraged by bipartisan response to a critical scientific appraisal of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will give personal backing to the study which he sponsored financially.

The Massachusetts Democrat announced Thursday he will write a preface to the book version of the report to be published soon by Harper & Row.

WASHINGTON (AP) - J. Edgar Hoover, giving no thought to retiring as FBI director, says the Communist party remains a threat to internal security and is planning a new drive aimed at American youth.

Hoover said the Communists have "succeeded in penetrating and influencing a number of militant youth organizations - particularly those of so-called New Left."

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army declined to answer detailed questions by congressmen Thursday on plans to haul 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical warfare bombs overland by train for burial at sea.

But Brig. Gen. James A. Hebbeler said at a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee hearing that the trains would not roll until at least next Tuesday when he promised to answer questions from subcommittee members.

Pusey, Fleming Speak Against Aide Cuts to Troubled Schools

WASHINGTON (CPS) - The presidents of two major universities Thursday came out unequivocably against Congressional legislation that cuts off federal aid to schools or individuals because of campus disorders.

Harvard's Nathan Pusey and Robben Fleming of the University of Michigan, testifying before the House higher education subcommittee, said the problem of disciplining students should lie with the school and, if necessary, local authorities, not with Congress. They conceded that most schools are presently unequipped to deal with current disorders, but agreed that colleges will adapt to the situation better without Congressional interference.

Pusey (whose Ivy League campus was hit by disruption last month) and Fleming (whose campus has not yet been shaken by major disturbances) agreed also that there is an element on most campuses that will not be pacified no matter what tactics are used. Conditions created by such impasses, Pusey suggested, are impossible to work in. "Serious intellectual work," he said, "cannot be accomplished in a violent revolutionary atmosphere. . . the turmoil and violence on our campuses must stop."

Commenting on putting an end to "the turmoil" , Pusey said he thought academic communities could "measure up to this task." "Signs are multiplying of a growing readiness on the part of the faculty and students to assume this strange, unexpected and unwanted responsibility."

Explaining, the Harvard President said "academic communities move slowly to defend themselves. They are almost endlessly tolerant but the 'new barbarianism' will be repulsed."

Following Pusey's initial statement, subcommittee chairwoman Edith Green (D-Ore.) questioned him about students and nonstudents involved in last month's building takeover. Pusey was defensive about his decision to call in police to oust demonstrators. Among the Congressmen questioning Pusey was John Brademas (D-Ind.), who is running for the Board of Overseers at Harvard. Another alumnus, William Hathaway (D-Mo.) prodded Pusey into his strongest statement of the day on colleges' ability to halt disruptions. He flatly declared, "we can stop it, and will stop it." Rep. William Scherle (R-Iowa), who holds no college degree attacked administrators for their lack of "backbone". Rep. Philip Burton (D-Cal.) next added that "right-wing elements" provoke the takeovers because of the policies they advocate. College administrators must get tough, he said, and if they "don't do it, Congress will."

Michigan President Fleming's statement went into an historical evaluation of student grievances and their protest rationale. Acknowledging his school's almost unique position of having "been spared" any major trouble ("for reasons which are not altogether clear"), he conceded that "we are under no illusions whatever that we are immune from the tragic events that have taken place on other campuses."

Study Shows ABM Costs Bound to Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - A study by an independent industrial journal indicates costs for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system may eventually run about $13 billion.

This would be mor e than 66 per cent above the most recent official estimate of $7.8 billion given by the Nixon administration.

The study was made by the Defens e Marketing Survey, a Mc Graw-Hill service for industrial firms. it concludes Defense Department costs for the ABM will be slightly more than $11 billion-instead of $6.6 billion.

But the study does not include the $1.2 billion for warheads, which the Pentagon belatedly added this week to its previous Safeguard estimate of $6.6 billion.

In addition, the study's estimates of the costs of the Safeguard's two radar systems and its Spring missiles are considered by some to be low, perhaps by another $1 billion, bringing the over-all cost past $13 billion.

The study itself concludes, "It is of course difficult at this time for anyone to state precisely what the costs of the new Safeguard program will be."

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
AT
HO-JO's
HAPPY HOURS
Wednesday & Thursday 5 - 7
Friday 4 - 7
JOHN BEAN — Thursday 8 - 12
"THE CORK and BOTTLE ROOM"

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 19-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the past office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

W. C. FIELDS
"Man on a Flying Trapeze"
SUNDAY, MAY 11
MAHAR AUDITORIUM
7 & 9 P.M.
Admission 50¢

EXPLOSIVE!
"THEATRE WITH GUTS"
The Assassination of God:
A Celebration
TONITE — 8 P. M.
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
DRAMA
LIGHT . . . imagine yourself
SMELL a participant in MUSIC testing the limits
FILM of total theatre
WE WILL STOP AT NOTHING
YOU WILL HELP
NO ADMISSION

Atlantic City
Pop Festival
Janis Joplin • Jefferson Airplane • Creedence Clearwater Revival • Iron Butterfly • Canned Heat • Crosby, Stills, and Nash • Mothers of Invention • 3 Dog Night • Byrds • Procol Harum • Mary Hopkins • Johny Winter • Moody Blues • Chicago Transit Authority • Butterfield Blues Band • B. B. King • Buddy Miles Express • Crazy World of Arthur Brown • Savoy Brown • Mother Earth • Sir Douglas Quintet • Little Richard • Moby Grape
August 1-2-3
Atlantic City Race Track
Atlantic City, N.J.
3 PERFORMANCES:
Tickets $6 per performance, $15 for 3 performances. Send self addressed stamped envelope to Electric Factory, 2201 Arch St., Phila., Pa. 19103

Summer Project on Social Change To be Held in July and August

The United Christian Foundation announced today that it is planning to sponsor a Summer Project on Social Change for July and August in the Amherst/UMass area. The Rev. Ronald Hardy, Project Coordinator, has defined the project as an attempt to accomplish two things: provide an experience for a number of UMass students working on questions of social change right in their own back yard; and secondly the project will attempt to investigate, define and take action on these various issues.

For instance, what are University plans for expansion and how will they effect the town of Amherst? What kinds of housing are being planned in the Amherst area? Does Amherst have a one class bias? What are the needs of the migrant workers who contribute to our economy each summer?

Part of the uniqueness of the Project is seen in its attempt to deal with social issues locally and concretely rather than leave the university and work in the city or stay merely on campus and deal only with national issues. The United Christian Foundation would like to explore the possibility of students working on issues that directly affect them and the communities in which they live.

As presently conceived the Project will include 8 - 10 students, a staff assistant and project coordinator working full time during the months of July and August. Students will be paid subsistence salaries to cover housing, food and expenses. Housing is being arranged possible in one of the local fraternities. Applications for the Summer Project are available in the United Christian Foundation Office, 319 Hampshire and at the King Council office, 207 Hampshire. They must be filled out and returned to the UCF office no later than May 23rd. Applicants will be notified by the end of finals. Some scholarship assistance for back to school financial needs is available.

The project experience will include the learning of various kinds of skills, how to do research, how to make surveys, conduct interviews, develop strategy and relate political processes to personal and social change. Resources will include skilled persons not only from the university but also from the Amherst community and certain persons working on similar problems in the Cambridge/Boston area. All interested students are urged to respond as quickly as possible by asking further questions or filling our application blanks. Questions may be directed to the U.C.F. office 545-2661.

STUDENT FILMMAKERS
Weekend Filmmakers Conference 5 p.m. today through Sunday afternoon at Franconia College, Franconia, N.H. Free room, board and movies for persons showing films; for further information, serious inquiries may be directed to Mrs. Susan Severtson, Librarian, Franconia College: 603-823-5544 (call collect).

SOCIOLOGY 101
Meeting to devise course questionnaire this morning at 10 in Room 522 Thompson Hall. Current and past students invited to help.

VC Air Peace Plan, Both Sides Pledge to Consider it Seriously

PARIS (AP) - The Viet Cong Thursday advanced a 10-point peace plan containing a number of previously rejected demands but also some new elements which allied diplomats promised to study carefully.

The plan included a provision for an interim coalition government in South Vietnam and demands for the unilateral with - drawal of allied troops, both turned down previously by the United States and South Vietnam. But the allies carefully avoided rejecting the plan outright.

Spokesmen for both delegations said the plan would be examined carefully before a position is taken.

The plan includes proposals in the five point program of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and the four point plan of North Vietnam, but it was offered as "the principles and main content of an over-all solution" and apparently would be negotiable.

It was presented by the Front's representative, Tran Buu Kiem, at the 16th session of the Vietnam peace talks. it apparently was the product of the weeks of high-level discussions that have been going on in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

School of Business Administration
INVESTMENT SYMPOSIUM
Topic: "Making Money in the Stock Market - The Professional Way"
Speaker: Donald Farrar, Vice President of Investments Paul Revere Life Insurance Company
Date: Wednesday, May 14, 4:00 p.m.
Place: Room 120 SBA

The Paul Revere Life Insurance Co. has had outstanding success with their investments in stocks and other equity investments. Mr. Farrar has played an important role in this success story. He is representative of the aggressive young talent the insurance industry has recruited in this area. Mr. Farrar is a dynamic speaker and will not be quoting from text books. He's going to tell it how it is. There will be an open period for questions.

SINNERS!
Elmer Gantry
IS COMING!

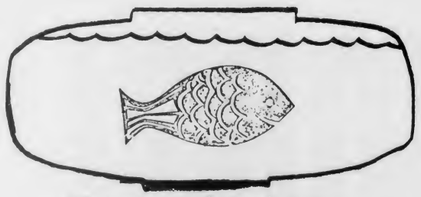
SENIORS!
MAKE YOUR RESERVATIONS
FOR SENIOR DAY
RIGHT NOW
$1 - SENIORS $3 - GUESTS OF SENIORS
STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

TBP. Elects Officers, From Engineering Classes

Each semester the Massachusetts Zeta Chapter of Tau Beta Pi elects new members nominated from the junior and senior engineering classes at the University. This year 25 students were elected as members of this National Engineering Honor Society.

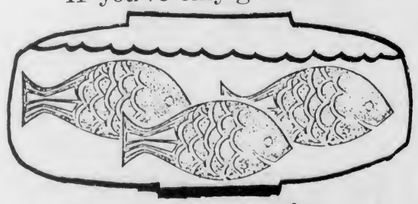
The Tau Beta Pi Association was founded in 1885 with its main intent being, as stated in its Constitution, ". . . to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, . . ." Tau Beta Pi also honors alumni who have actively and conscientiously contributed to the field of engineering at various colleges and universities.

Tau Beta Pi does not have as its sole purpose the honoring of deserving engineering students. It establishes various projects which are of benefit to both the student and his community. Programs are undertaken which promote a better understanding among students, their courses, instructors and professors, and the University community. Tau Beta Pi also offers financial assistance in the form of fellowships and student loans.



WHAT DO YOU WANT TO SEE
WINTER CARNI WEEKEND?

Present your ideas Sunday at 7:30 p.m.,
S. B. A. 120, during the



OPEN CLASS MEETING
CLASS OF 1971

Executive Council Applicants
Requested to attend

APPLICATIONS DUE FRIDAY

If you've only got one...

and you want more than one...
Have it XEROXed.
at GNOMON COPY SERVICE

Room 214 Student Union

4¢ for first copy

2¢ for copies of same page

FREE COLLATING
Legal Size & 3-hole Punch at NO EXTRA CHARGE

Smith Students' Day of Dialogue Produces Long Proposal List

A faculty-student letter to President Nixon and a junior year in Harlem were two of a long list of proposals that came out of a "day of dialog" at Smith College Tuesday.

The college cancelled classes Tuesday to allow students, faculty and administrators to discuss and propose changes in various aspects of campus life.

About 900 students, along with college trustees, administrators and faculty took part in meetings on a wide range of subjects that were held at various places on the campus.

Tuesday night, the proposals made during the day were being polished into final form for presentation to college officials. A student-faculty referendum is planned at a later time to determine the priority for action on the proposals.

The proposals will also be discussed at a faculty meeting set for May 14. Five students elected from the student body will also participate in that discussion.

Two drafts of proposed student-faculty letters to President Nixon were drawn up during the day. Both endorsed the letter sent last week to President Nixon by Amherst College President Calvin Plimpton, during a similar moratorium at that college.

In Plimpton's letter to Nixon, the Amherst College president differed with five members of Nixon's cabinet, who are reported to have said campus unrest seemed to be caused by a minority of students.

Plimpton said the campus demonstrations were linked to the wider problems of the country and the world and that the "turmoil among young people . . . will continue until you and other political leaders of our country address more effectively, massively and more persistently the major social and foreign problems of our society."

The endorsement of Plimpton's letter by the Smith College group indicated that their letter, if sent to the President would express a similar point of view.

Other proposals offered touched on a variety of points of curriculum and student life at Smith.

"The college has no right to impose its morality on students -each should have the right to pursue her own life style without college interference," was the remark of one student speaker.

One proposal urged that two seniors about to be graduated be given membership on Smith's 18-member Board of Trustees. They would be elected by undergraduates and recent graduates.

Other proposals included a social action dormitory for students, seminars with local police officials, a monorail link with colleges in nearby communities, a year or a semester of independent study, a black counselor for black students, a junior year in Harlem as an alternative for the junior year abroad program, and a cultural center for minority groups with a full-time coordinator.

The cancelling of classes Tuesday grew out of a list of "demands" presented recently by members of the unofficial Committee of Concerned students. They had asked that physical education and certain final exams be made optional, that records of college meetings be open to all members of the college community and that the students be given a place on the Faculty Curriculum Committee.

College President Mendenhall, in announcing the "day of dialog" said it was done in the belief "that at times it is useful to break the normal schedule and add to the regular channels for dialog, which is the most precious characteristic of an academic community."

Attack on Hunger in U.S. Moved by Federal Gov't.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The administration's proposed multibillion dollar attack on hunger is a first and temporary step toward overhauling the nation's welfare system, possible replacing it with a guaranteed annual income.

"Cash income, not a succession of payments in kind, best preserves the dignity and freedom of choice of the individual," Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch told a Senate sub-committee Wednesday.

His comments, echoed by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin who sat with Finch, added another brush stroke to the emerging picture of a revolutionary welfare program reportedly envisioned by the Nixon administration.

"I expect to come back shortly with my family security program," Finch said. The senators had summoned him to testify about administration proposals to spend $2.5 billion a year to make food stamps, free food and nutritional education available to all the country's poor.

It still is not clear, however, exactly when the welfare package will be ready to go to Capitol Hill.

Finch told a newsman the welfare proposals are "at the White House." But indications are that this did not mean an actual package of specific plans was on President Nixon's desk.

"It's not a package yet. It's still a set of ideas," said one official, indicating the program faces further debate among presidential advisers, particularly in the Urban Affairs Council.

Eleventh Annual Bryn Mawr
BOOK SALE

Monday, May 12 5-7 p.m.
Tuesday, May 13
10 a.m - 7 p.m
Wednesday, May 14
10 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Thursday, May 15
10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Thousands Of Good Books
BARGAIN PRICES
Recent Science Books
At ⅓ List Price

Memorial Hall
Harvard Square, Cambridge

THOMPSON'S IN AMHERST CENTER
URGES YOU TO ATTEND

THOMPSON'S
GRAND OPENING

Thursday May 8, 1969

Come in and register for the myriads of door prizes like shirts, coats, even suits. You don't have to buy anything just come and look around and register.

"Summertree" Performance Moving and Sensitive

By SUSAN SCHMEHL
Fine Arts Staff

Like a glimpse into someone's backyard, Ron Cowen's "Summertree" is a moving and sensitive portrayal of a young nineteen year old burdened with his life and all the little incidents that sum up the transient trivia of it all. Throughout this highly insightful production, the audience can get the feeling that they are part of the family, or even one of the actual members, involved and experiencing this particular segment of the young man's life.

You are right there with these people feeling the man's buts, sticky, hot, and dripping as he slowly dies in the intolerable steam-heat of a jungle war. With his shirt sticking to his back, itching, itching for life, life so quickly drained and lost, you follow him in his memories of his tiny claim with the living. School, a special girl, parents, the whole assemblage, they haunt him and unlike the tree with roots not so easily dug up, he dies.

The play is structured in such a way that events are not sequential and recalls the past, present, and future in an easy transition of shifting scenes. Order -- disorder, here and now, where is it all moving us? Ron Cowen's play is a step from the ordinary, he takes you with him to watch people you know in the commonplace melee of things. The young man wonders why men cannot be like trees, rooted, never having to make a turn, a choice, oblivious to all but the changing seasons. His roots were different, people held him close in their memories and only there is he perpetuated.

Tanzanian Representative To Speak Here Friday

The permanent representative of the United Republic of Tanzania to to the United Nations, Ambassador Aliki Danieli, will speak at the University of Massachusetts School of Business Administration Room 120 Friday, May 9, at 8 p.m. on the Arusha Declaration and its implications on the African scene and world thinking.

The Arusha Declaration of 1967 is a program whose philosophy of self-reliance brings Tanzania to grips with her own problems by placing the burden of economic development in Tanzanian hands. Rather than depend entirely on foreign help for development through industrial growth, the Arusha Declaration calls upon the people and their hard work on the land as the basis for development, for maintaining Tanzania's independence and sovereignty, and for improving the per capita income of the citizen.

The Ambassador's visit to the campus is sponsored by the African Students Association and the Fine Arts Council. The talk is open to the public without charge.

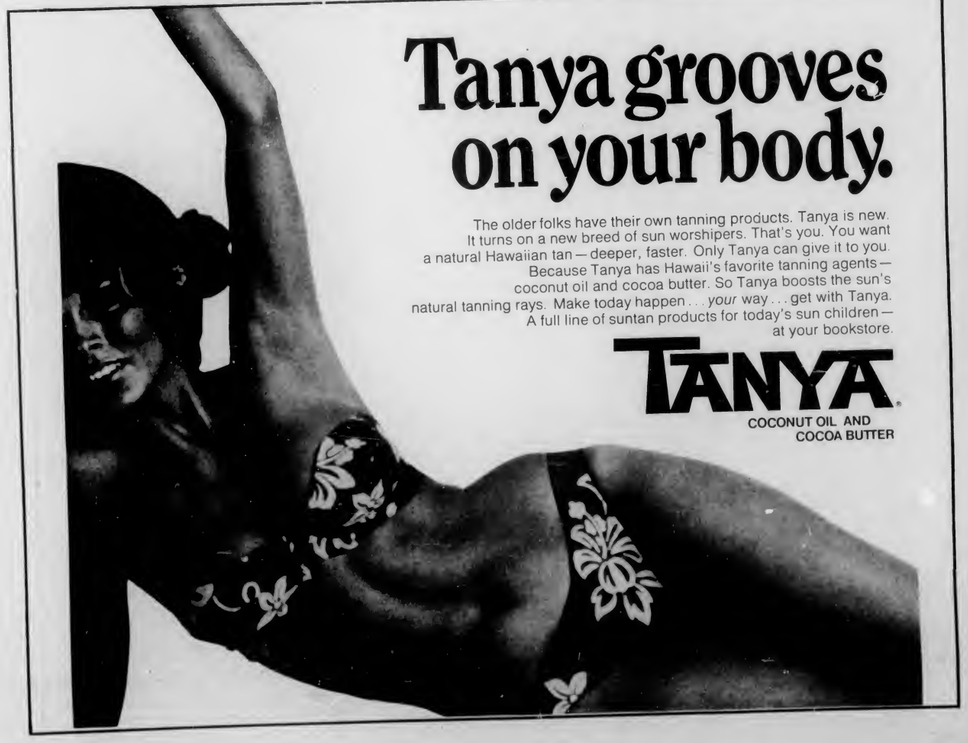
UMass, MH Orchestras Play Tuesday

By GEORGE M. HUNGERFORD
Fine Arts Staff

The University-Mount Holyoke Symphony Orchestra gave its spring concert Tuesday night in Bowker Auditorium. Ronald Steele conducted standards by Beethoven, Mozart, and Copland.

Beethoven's EIGHTH SYMPHONY is an exuberant and graceful masterpiece, full of good humor. It is also full of traps for the performers, and Tuesday's performance was variable. The first movement was given an energetic reading, in which excitement was generated by the conductor's careful control of the movement's climaxes. The passage leading to the movement's recapitulation was quite effective. The second and third movements were a trifle bland because of insufficient dynamic contrast. The finale was taken at a very fast tempo, a bit too fast for the composer's humorous musical points to be made. However, what was lacking in subtlety was made up for in sheer momentum. The main fault in the playing throughout the symphony lay in the violin section. There was often disagreement among the violinists as to the correct pitch, and these players also tended to anticipate attacks and slide into notes. The rest of the orchestra played better. There were excellent horn and clarinet solos in the third movement's trio.

The Mozart OBOE CONCERTO K. 314 (also known in revised form as the SECOND FLUTE CONCERTO) was beautifully played by Charles Lehrer. The ease with which he negotiated the most difficult passages was very impressive. Mr. Lehrer has a rich tone throughout the range of his instrument. His rubato was tasteful and his phrasing graceful. The accompaniment under Mr. Steele was alert and efficient.



Aaron Copland's A LINCOLN PORTRAIT is really only a sketch of the man's prominent features, with a colorful period background. However, the work is inventive, and, in a performance as good as the one it received Tuesday night, very moving. This was very probably the orchestra's finest performance to date. Copland's distinctive, spacious sonorities were projected with great clarity in the opening pastoral section. Mr. Steele got some very colorful playing from all sections during the ensuing allegro. The violins were in much better form here, and the percussion and brass were outstanding. The narrator in the final section was Seymour Rudin of the University's English Department. The narration consists mostly of selected passages from Lincoln's speeches.

IF YOU DON'T LIKE
THE WAY YOUR CLASS IS BEING RUN . . . .

DO SOMETHING!

JOIN EXECUTIVE COUNCIL — CLASS of 72

Pick Up Applications at RSO Office — 2nd Flr., S.U.

Tanya grooves on your body.

The older folks have their own tanning products. Tanya is new. It turns on a new breed of sun worshipers. That's you. You want a natural Hawaiian tan — deeper, faster. Only Tanya can give it to you. Because Tanya has Hawaii's favorite tanning agents — coconut oil and cocoa butter. So Tanya boosts the sun's natural tanning rays. Make today happen . . . your way . . . get with Tanya. A full line of suntan products for today's sun children — at your bookstore.

TANYA
COCONUT OIL AND COCOA BUTTER

FROM OUR SIDE

"Precise" Funding

The budget for the Precisionettes drill team is soon going to be acted upon by the Student Senate. The Precisionettes have been described as a "hardworking unit - a combination of all types of girls performing as one." These girls are anxious, interested, and very concerned about their group's continued existence - and it depends entirely upon the money the Student Senate gives them.

An important fact to keep in mind is that as a group of 'students' competing with other drill teams on the East coast, the Precisionettes are as qualified to be a FUNDED 'student' organization as any other - be it Crew Club, Rugby Club (teams presently funded), or whatever. As far as a reasonable 'limit' goes, placed on where and for whom the Precisionettes perform - this remains to be and should be discussed. The argument that the Precisionettes should not be financed in any way, however, is illogical, and even ridiculous, for they have as much right to student funds as other organizations now operating with undergraduate monies.

Mark Brenner
Senator Middle House Kennedy

Support the Petitions

There are two petitions currently circulating on the campus that are deserving of the consideration and support of the University Community. The first is absolutely essential to the continued growth of the University of Massachusetts. The second petition, concerning the "silent majority," is important to consider as an expression of the community's philosophy of purpose.

The petition which asks for support of Provost Tippo and opposition to the cutting of the budget is imperative. The development of the University must not be obstructed by the political bickering of Beacon Hill. Massachusetts support of high education is disgraceful in light of the wealth of the Commonwealth. Surely the ninth most prosperous state should be ashamed of being fiftieth in state aid to education. In a state famed for its higher education, in a time when public-supported schools are necessarily assuming a burden once satisfied by private colleges, Massachusetts should be a leader, not a reluctant follower. Provost Tippo has led the fight, largely alone. His resignation, which is retractable if our needs are satisfied, came only after his efforts were frustrated by the election-conscious legislators. We must support him. $13,000 is needed for the newspaper campaign, less than one dollar per person. This money must come from voluntary contributions from the University community; obviously there are no official funds available.

The University needs Provost Tippo, and the University needs the funds we are scheduled to lose. We are growing; we cannot have our growth stunted. State support of the University has brought us this far from our antiquated past; we need continued support or the accomplishments thus far realized will be for naught. It behooves the students, for whom the University exists, to do all they can to resolve this most serious problem.

The statement of the "Silent majority" is an eloquent enunciation of the purpose of a university. Obviously the statements are admirable goals for this institution to seek. A large number of signatures would be a beautiful way to demonstrate our commitment to what this University should be.

This petition should have a soothing and winning effect on the citizens of the Commonwealth, upon whom we are dependent for our existence. We need to win friends in the state. Take the time to sign the petition one minute of your time is very little to ask. Donate money if you can possibly do so.

Of the legislature, and the Governor, we ask that they not forget our needs. We are not, and should not be, enemies. Our university needs your support desperately, we are deserving of it. To continue we must have it. The budget is large, unpopular, but we need the funds. Please be helpful to our needs.

It is little to ask that students support these petitions. They concern you, you should be concerned with them. It is your University, and it urgently needs your support.

Ed Bryant
Editorial Staff

"Right — The Job Corps Should Be Restricted To Well-Bred, Well-To-Do People Like Us"

Campus Comment

Senate Rebuttal

I am writing this letter in response to the broadside published by a group of "40 concerned students" I wish to make the following points:

1. The Senate does not have the sole power to amend the proposed constitution, and any statement to that effect is simply untrue. The new constitution clearly provides that an amendment may be enacted in referendum regardless of how the Senate votes on the question.

2. The statement that there is no provision for judicial review is untrue. The new constitution provides: "The General Court of Justice may review any action of the Senate under due judicial process, and if it is found to be in conflict with this constitution it shall be void."

3. The Student Senate did not vote to place the new constitution on a referendum; it voted to support the drive to have it put on a referendum. The distinction is important, since the inference has been made that the Senate tried to sneak the constitution through. The fact is that under the old constitution the Senate had no power to, of itself, order a referendum. Therefore the only means of having a referendum is to sign a petition, and the Senate has unanimously supported this action. Had the constitution been approved in time, the Senate was planning a major push for a referendum on April 24th (yes -- the buttons did have a meaning). The class officers, however, left the convention early, forcing it to adjourn and putting off the referendum.

4. The group complains about the lack of a popularly elected executive. I believe that this is a valid objection to the new constitution: I think it the only really important one. For this reason I shall take action to have this issue placed before the student body in a referendum as, I hope, the first amendment to the new constitution.

5. The group complains about the centralization of power in the Senate. What is really happening is simply that the Senate is redrawing lines of authority; what in the 1950's was a sharing of authority between the Senate and the class administrations is now becoming a sharing of authority between the Senate and the area and house governments, with the classes now beginning to lose policy-making authority. During the past few years the Senate has continued to delegate autonomy to house and area governments, for example, S220: autonomy to residence halls on visitation policy, S11: Autonomy to Area governments on disbursement of residence hall M and O (maintenance and operation) funds, S98: tax sharing with area governments having autonomy over their use, S1: approximately $30,000 allocated for this purpose.

6. The new constitution provides, for the first time, effective checks and limitations on the power of the Senate. Defeating the new constitution would merely reaffirm the old constitution, which gives unlimited power to the Senate. The Bill of Rights section reserves certain powers to individual students, or to smaller governments, as would be appropriate. Strictly speaking, in the past, the General Court has never declared an action of the Senate unconstitutional for the simple reason that there were no constitutional strictures on its authority. As one experienced in judicial proceedings I predict that defenses made on constitutional grounds will become fairly common. The Senate is not power grabbing; it is merely trying to make as effective a student voice as possible. I seriously doubt whether turning back the clock will serve this end.

7. The group complains because certain binding clauses have been proposed on certain budgets, although they agree that, "the government should act to safeguard monies, policies, and activities which they have been entrusted to supervise." My point would be that the group's real objection is NOT with the constitution, but rather with the positions of certain Senators. The entire Senate is up for election next fall; the proper way to change past policy is simply to elect different Senators, NOT to defeat the Constitution.

One final point; the statement attributed to me that fallacious statements in the broadside would result in court action is a lie, and I plan no such action. I am not paranoid, I do not fear the student body, and I have faith in the ability of the students to see the untruths and distortions for what they are.

Frederick P. Hartwell
24 Tyler Place
Amherst, Mass. 01002

Unrest

Now that Spring Day '69 has past, most students can begin to look at their actions with a clear mind. Recently, thirty-five persons sitting in Whitmore were arrested by riot equipped State Policemen. The issue caused campus-wide controversey, since nobody would suspect as great a number as thirty-five students to be involved in such an insane (and fruitless) action as a protest of University policy. Yet, it seems to us the university community should look at its somewhat hypocritical approach to student activities.

The "well-earned" holiday that students at the University engage in each Spring to celebrate the coming of the season has gotten way out of hand. We will not be so foolish as to suggest that the University Administration bring in five thousand riot equipped State Police to battle some 3,500 celebrating students.

But if the university community is at all worried about its image in the world (which does include the patient and tolerant Town of Amherst) then maybe we should apply some restraint to our spontaneous celebrations. To quote a famous liberal, "I agree with the ends, but I am very much against the means."

"Life is my college; may I graduate with honors."
Emily Dickinson

And, we request an apology from the Daily Collegian for the insult to the intelligence of our University for carrying pictures of students urinating on the grass, and removing their pants. We all know the character of those involved, and there is no need for the MDC to carry such pictoral editorials.

Jeffrey Bodmer
James Wooten
Geraldine Hanson
Gerald Schwartz

Class of '71

The new President of the Class of '71 was elected on the promise that he would "bring class government back to the class." I was deeply satisfied when, upon his being elected, Mr. Piccolo informed me that he intended to use my idea of having a class survey for Winter Carni talent possibilities.

BUT, after speaking with Mr. Piccolo and a few of the other officers, I got the uncertain impression that the major decisions are again being made by the officers alone. After consulting a few other active members of the Sophomore Executive Council, I found that they also were of the same belief.

The idea that the committee chairmen appointed for Winter Carni may very well be the same few that have served over and over again in the past, the idea that the class tax will be raised, the idea that the Miss University Pageant will take place on the same weekend as Winter Carni, the idea that the number of concerts and the times of the concerts have already been decided -- are all ideas that I have heard from Mr. Piccolo himself.

Article III, Section 3C1. of the SGA Constitution states: "The Class Executive Councils shall (then) review their respective budgets and make such changes as they deem necessary and proper. Printed copies of the budget shall be distributed to Class Executive Council members one week in advance of any action upon the budget." THIS HAS NOT BEEN DONE!

There will be an open class meeting this Sunday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. in SBA 120. I urge every member of the class to be present at this meeting. If you're unwilling to have to pay a greater class tax without knowing why, then you owe it to yourself to attend. This may be the final opportunity for you to say and do something before it is said and done WITHOUT you.

Harold Koltin

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Sharon Samuels
COPY EDITORS — Susan Spatrick, Holly Fell, Anne Hillerman, Al Sirato
SPORTS — Jan Curley
EDITORIAL — Nancy Bourgoin
PHOTO TECHNICIANS — Steve Schmidt, Kenneth D. Emery

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

STUDENT, FACULTY, STAFF AND ALUMNI SIGNATURE CAMPAIGN

MUST TIPPO FIGHT ALONE?

— LET'S LOOK AT THE FIRST ROUND —

TIPPO vs SARGENT

GOVERNOR CUTS UMASS BUDGET OVER $11,000,000 (20% CUT)

TIPPO RESIGNS OVER BUDGET CUTS

TIPPO vs SCIBELLI

"SHAME ON HIM (TIPPO) FOR SUCH A STUPID STATEMENT, WE'VE DONE MARVELOUSLY BY THEM." (GLOBE-WED. MAY 7)

TIPPO vs BURKE

"WHO WANTS HIM (TIPPO) TO STAY? EVERYONE IS EXPENDABLE." (GLOBE-WED. MAY 7)

MUST TIPPO FIGHT ALONE?

SIGN UP AND KICK IN FOR

"CAMPAIGN COUNTER PUNCH!"

$13,000 FOR 3 FULL PAGE ADVERTISEMENTS FIGHTING BACK vs SARGENT, SCIBELLI AND BURKE

ROUND 2

WE NEED YOUR SIGNATURE PLUS ONE DOLLAR (SUGGESTED FACULTY, STAFF AND ALUMNI CONTRIBUTION $5).

ROUND 3

BUY SEVERAL COPIES OF EACH PAPER (ADVERTISEMENT) AND MAIL THEM TO YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE AND YOUR STATE SENATOR PLUS THE GOVERNOR, SCIBELLI & BURKE.

ROUND 4

A COPY OF EACH ADVERTISEMENT WILL BE MAILED TO EVERY HIGH SCHOOL, JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, AND P.T.A. IN THE STATE.

TABLES WILL BE PLACED IN THE LOBBY OF THE STUDENT UNION AND GOODELL LIBRARY TODAY TO RECEIVE SIGNATURES FOR A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS TO BE PLACED IN MAJOR BOSTON NEWSPAPERS. CONTRIBUTIONS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED TO DEFRAY THE COST OF THE ADVERTISING. Suggested contributions are $1 from students and $5 from faculty members. YOUR SUPPORT IS NECESSARY TO BRING THE MESSAGE OF PUBLIC HIGHER EDUCATION TO THE TAXPAYERS OF MASSACHUSETTS!

Political Ideals, Discontent Motivate SDS Women

"Down With Dow"; "End the Draft"; "Chicago"; "Stop Murdering in the Name of Freedom"; "End the War". These slogans are typical of those seen in SDS demonstrations on campus this year, ranging from protests against the Vietnam War and Dow Chemical Company to ROTC and Military-Industrial recruitment on campus, and the most recent demonstrations against Strom Thurmond and former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey.

Since its establishment in September, the UMass SDS chapter has become an incessant, if not infamous voice of dissent on campus. Despite the fact that SDS menbership is predominantly male, the female voice is also raised in protest against the hypocrisy and evil which they find in the existing system of government. However, the women of SDS tend towards planning tactics and policy rather than to overt participation in demonstrations. Considering the fact that SDS is a predominantly male oriented organization because of its attitudes and tactical trends, one might wonder just why the girls in SDS ever affiliated themselves with this group. In recent interviews with several of the female members, a survey was taken to determine just what they were doing in SDS.

Sue Roy, one of the most outspoken of the group of SDS girls, is also actively involved in the Women's Liberation group on campus. She joined SDS "Because I want democracy in this country. This country doesn't have it." As an SDS member, and as an individual she contributes her ideas towards "finding a way of life that's better than the one society is offering me." She feels that women in this country "need to realize that society makes them morally crippled." Their minds have become currupt because "they aren't being individuals", thus "becoming second class citizens by choice." Sue has found that some men in society and on this campus tend to "encourage this corruption." However, she states that "I don't find this in SDS male relations." The SDS men, according to Sue, are not alienated from the women's liberation advocates. On the contrary, they feel ideologically allied since they are involved with trying to change contemporary society. Also, contrary to much campus opinion, she believes that the SDS girls do not fall into the "Camp Follower Syndrome" or Sleeping Around For Status. She distinguishes the SDS girls from other girls who she feels DO sleep around for status. "Girls join SDS because they are interested in politics."

Debbie Cleaves, a sophomore, joined because she had become aware of the fact that "life wasn't just going to classes every day, going to fraternity parties on weekends, or perhaps to a movie." She found in SDS "new people with new ideas and new ways of looking at things." Debbie sees herself accepted as "one of the guys" with no preferences given to her only because she is a girl. She found that being a member of SDS "stimulates certain portions of my life intellectually and challenges me in certain other areas." As far as any ulterior social motives, she's "not in it for social reasons."

She described herself as "idealistic and attempting to work towards something. Being in SDS is working out as a personification of this ideal." Debbie however has not usually participated actively in past demonstrations, except for the Dow demonstration. She prefers to "be sort of in the background" and "has active participation in planning."

Cheryl Waldman, a freshman, was unhappy with the sorority-type girls on her corridor. She felt "stifled and completely un-stimulated by anything." In SDS, she found a place where there were "people who I felt would give me life substance and stimulation." She had been involved in radical or liberal thinking since senior year in high school because "It made me feel very alive; it was a way to give myself some significance in relation to the rest of the world." However, Cheryl perceives that her involvement with SDS "is more emotional than physical." As an SDS member, she participates in discussions, but usually sits back and listens.

Kathy Biggane, Secretary of SDS joined the protest group because of her emotional reactions from the Chicago Convention. She was watching television in August during the police riot and "saw the cops beating in the kids' heads and it really affected me. I felt that these were my people and that I have to do something." When she returned to school for the fall semester she saw signs posted for SDS organizational meetings and she joined. She has been actively involved ever since. However, she also does not participate in actual demonstrations but notably in planning strategies as the secretary of SDS.

Thus these girls feel that they are doing something positive if not constructive to change society as it now stands. They were apparently motivated by political ideals and as a result of personal confrontations with the realities of the world around them. They feel that as liberated women affiliated with the liberated males in SDS they can indeed make some waves that will eventually flood the present shorelines of society.

WOMEN

Women's Page Editor: Helen Kensick

Come, ladies, shall we talk a round? As men do walk a mile, women should talk an hour, after supper: 'tis their exercise. (Beaumont and Fletcher)

JUNE GRADS
Come Where The Jobs Are!
Free Consultation
Hundreds of current openings for MEN and WOMEN so apply now!

- Sales Trainees
- Management
- Salesmen
- Retailing
- Trainees
- Administrative
- Engineering
- Technical
- Clerical
- Office

Snelling & Snelling
EMPLOYMENT COUNSELLORS
World's Largest Professional Employment Service

500 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.
1073 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.
14 Central Avenue., Lynn, Mass.
300 Essex St., Lawrence, Mass.
55 Moody St., Waltham, Mass.

400 offices coast to coast
An Equal Opportunity Employment Service

HAPPY HOURS
3 - 6 today
at
The English Pub

PAPERS DUE?
Make them look as good as possible on thesis paper or high grade typing paper.
We carry all kinds.
Get it now before the paper is due.
A. J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer & Stationer

"I'm sorry about your parade, sir. I guess I splashed on too much after shave."

Even the might of the military can't protect you if you're not careful how you use Hai Karate® After Shave and Cologne. One whiff and females get that "make love not war" look in their eyes. So to maintain military discipline and keep your uniform intact, we put instructions on self-defense in every package. Just in case it comes down to hand-to-hand combat.

Hai Karate-be careful how you use it.

©1969, Leeming Division, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., New York, N.Y.

NOTICE
BUS STOP CHANGE

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY:
All Peter Pan Bus Service will leave from HAIGIS MALL near Whitmore.
TICKETS will be sold at Student Union bus ticket office. Students are urged to purchase tickets in advance.
PETER PAN BUS LINES

NOTICES

PSYCHOLOGY COLLOQUIUM
Dr. Herman Witkin, Director, Psych. Lab., Downstate Medical Center, N.Y. will speak on "Children with Uneven Cognitive Development" Mon. at 4:30 p.m. in Bartlett 61.

FINNISH CLUB
Finnish table will meet last time this year Mon. at 5 p.m. Get food Line One, North Commons, and then move upstairs. All invited.

SCI-FI CLUB
The last issue of the ZOBEE is now available. Come to the Sci-Fi Library and get yours. Limited copies available. Science Fiction Library will be open regular hours during finals.

STUDENT HEALTH AND WELFARE COUNCIL
Meeting Mon. at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Report on campus drug study. Planning for next year. All welcome.

MAROON KEYS
Important meeting Mon. at 6:30 p.m. in the Norfolk Rm. Attendance required.

ROISTER DOISTERS
Meeting Mon. at 7:30 p.m. in the Commonwealth Rm. Elections are to be held.

NEWMAN CLUB
"Diamond Head" will be shown tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Mahar. Newman members free, non members, 50¢.

CLASS OF '69
Seniors! Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day, May 30.

MILITARY BALL
Tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Formal dress. Tickets on sale at Dickinson, $5 a couple. Theme is "Forward Together".

PRE-MED SOCIETY
All members interested in running for office please contact John Young, 217 Moore, 6-5330, by May 10.

NES CULTURAL ENRICHMENT
Final program tomorrow, picnic at Quabbin Reservoir. Bring lunch and dress rough. Bus leaves at 10:30 in front of the S.U. with 50 children. Please sign up or call Chet, 6-6421.

INDIA ASSOCIATION
Condolance meeting for death of President Dr. Zakir Hussain at Prince Main Lounge tomorrow at 4 p.m.

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semi-asterly publication on campus judiciaries, please call 6-7157. Reporters and other staff also needed.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaving S.U. Sat. at 1:15 p.m. and Patterson at 1:20.

HILLEL
Fri. services will be tonight at 7:15 in the Worcester Rm. Rabbi Kowal will speak. Sat. services at 9:45 a.m. in the Worcester Rm.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING
Tonight at 8 p.m. in Davis Center, Smith College. Request night, all welcome.

"ASSASSINATION OF GOD: A CELEBRATION"
A parade will leave Southwest triangles tonight at 7:20 to march to the S.U. Join us! Doors close at 8:15.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Come and see the art film, "Run", in Memorial Hall tonight at 7:30 p.m. All welcome. Free.

ENGAGEMENT
Sherry Judge, '70, Melville, to James Tarro, Stk. '69, JFK.

MARRIAGE
Kathy Wyckoff, '70, Crampton, to Robert Singer, '70, Phi Sigma Delta.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - Part of sky-diver's parachute assembly - 2 small chutes tied to blue and red cloth sleeve. Reward. Call 256-8059 or return to RSO #318.
Found - Button sweater near Stockbridge, call Snart, 256-6934.
Lost - Organic Chem. textbook - Cram and Hammond. Call Karl, 6-9337. Reward.
Lost - Red wallet belonging to Susan Spooner, call 6-9553 or 6-9834 or turn in the S.U. lost and found, or Campus Police Station.
Lost-Brown square shaped glasses. Call Holly, 6-5366.
Found - Men's glasses north of Stadium. Call Toby, 6-8613.
Lost - Check for $102.48 in an envelope with ID and meal ticket. Call Lois, 6-8340.
Lost - Brown Foxhunt raincoat with leather shoulders and belt. Reward. Call Jane, 6-7462.
Lost - Small black collapsible umbrella in Thompson. Return to Diane, 313 Mary Lyon.

The Student Union lounges and meeting rooms will remain open for student use to 3:00 a.m. on the following dates during the exam period.

Monday, May 19-20 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Tuesday, May 20-21 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Wednesday, May 21-22 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Thursday, May 22-23 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Friday, May 23-24 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Monday, May 26-27 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Tuesday, May 27-28 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Wednesday, May 28-29 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
Thursday, May 29-30 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.

Free coffee and snacks will be served from 12 Midnight until 2:30 a.m. All other services of the Union will close at their normally scheduled times.

Volunteers from the Student Union administration, food service, and lobby counter will help man the building during the extended hours.

Library to be Open 24 Hrs. a DA First Exam Days

Goodell Library will be open 24 hours a day for the initial half of the Reading and Exam period, May 16 through May 22. During the remainder of the exam period, May 23 through May 28, the library will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 a.m.

Through-out these hours, the Library's collection of books, bound periodicals, microfilms, and reference material will be available for consultation or circulation. The current periodical collection can be consulted between 8:30 a.m. and midnight during the entire exam period.

DIAMONDS LAST FOREVER & RINGS NEVER END.

For anything that lasts that long, you want both beauty & quality. Come look at ours. They start at $150.
WINN JEWELER

THE WOODROSE BALLROOM

May 9 & 10
COUNTRY FUNK
UP AGAINST THE WALL
$2.00
LIGHTS BY THE ROAD
FROM THE BOSTON TEA PARTY
RTE. 5, DEERFIELD 665-8742
ADVANCE TICKETS: KRACKERJACKS, MELODY CORNER, SUPERFICIAL SMILE
WMAS 94.7 FM

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1965 TR4 BRG, R. & H., W.W., 2 tops, 2 tonneau, recent muffler and generator, exc. cond., $1195. Call 549-1707. 5-9

Late 1966 Volvo, 2 dr., extras. Immaculate. Going abroad. Asking $1,500. 549-0661 eves. 5-9

1961 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 527-0174 after 6 p.m. 5-13

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler, 5 speed, best offer over $400.00. Call 584-2643 evenings. 5-12

1961 VW cheap. My future employer will pay diff. between sale price and book price. Arrangements to be made now but car available in June 549-1369. 5-9

1961 Ford Galaxie convertible, good condition, has spring inspection stickers, V8, standard shift with overdrive. Call John at 549-8459. 5-9

1963 VW 8300, R and H, sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise excel. cond. Good for beach buzzy etc. 253-2959. 5-14

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, good engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 253-5932. 5-13

1964 Austin Healey 3000, 2 new tires, overdrive, rebuilt carburetors, 6 cylinder, new carpetint, R. & H., exc. condition, guaranteed fun for the summer, $1395. Call Ron 253-3081. 5-14

WANTED

Wanted — Members for the NAAFP. If you would like to join the National Association for the Advancement of FOO People, write: NAAFP, WMUA, Fac. Building, U. of Mass. Help a FOO. 5-9

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Idlewood Press, 543 Frederick, San Francisco, California. 5-15

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA
1 female rider wanted to share expenses, leaving May 31 or June 1. Call late evening 586-1436. 5-12

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming. 5-9

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $25.00 per month. No mistake. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3672 after 6:00 p.m. 5-9

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6349 or 6-6350. 5-13

Female roommates wanted — huge apartment, great for summertime. Immediate and June 1st occupancy, fireplace, pond, 150 acres. $50.00 month. Call 467-7918 and ask for Leslie or Carol. 5-12

One male roommate wanted for summer to share furnished apartment at Pufton Village, air conditioning, swimming pool, tennis courts, one mile north of Campus, $65/mo. Call 549-1027. 5-9

1 female roommate wanted to share my apt., own room, $67 mo. incln. util. summer and/or next year. If interested in only half summer call anyway. Lynn 546-8386. 5-13

Wanted: 2 males roommates to share a furnished house on Philips St., Sept. - May, and 4 roommates for this summer. Call Bob 549-3097. 5-13

Two girls to live off campus next year or seeking to share with a girl who already has apartment Call 546-8379. 5-12

TO SHARE YOUR APT. for summer. Desire apt. in Amherst. Rent under $90. Call Dave Cochrane at 545-0329 (day) or 586-0927 after 9 p.m. 5-14

Female roommate wanted June 1 to Aug. 30 to share 3 bedroom apartment, 2 miles from Campus. Rent $50 month. Call Jan 253-2505 5-12

Summer roommates wanted — beautiful apt. only 3 miles from Campus. Taking loss. Call Joe at 121 Wheeler 545-2112. 5-12

Two girls to share furnished 5 room apartment next year. Class '70 preferred — $35 per month plus utilities. Nutting Ave. Call 549-0116. 5-12

WANTED TO RENT

Teacher and wife need 3-room furnished apartment for June 29 to August 30. Write William Rapala, 29 Fourth Street, Attleboro, Mass. 02763. 5-9

3 bedroom house in late August for faculty member. Write 2200-1 Patterson Drive, Eugene, Oregon, 9-7405. 4-18-25 5-2-9

PERSONAL

Belchertown Bust — Money needed for legal fees for Chandler House. Please send donations to 2009 Coolidge. 5-12

E.J.M. in 1517 — Thanx for all the beer, sawdust and love . . . I like it, I like it a lot. Summer won't seem August-y without you. V. P. Affectionately, The Pebble. 5-9

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR
Soph. or older, fine Maine girls camp. Call 253-9068 after 5-15

BABYSITTER — Student to babysit for two youngsters Thursday aft. 1-4 p.m. transportation. Call 549-1290. 5-13

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM '69, 665-2167. TF

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lane's Photo, 825 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-0118. 5-16

FOR SALE

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjan Cymbals, Traps Case and Nazarkhile Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $700, asking $350, 546-7017. 5-13

Washinz Machine, Norge, 15 lb. heavy duty model, less than 2 years old, perfect condition, 5 year guarantee. Original cost $229.00. Price $150. Call 665-2718 during afternoon or evening. 5-9

Autoharp, 12 chords, 36 strings, easy to play. Call Kathy, 313 Lewis, 545-2514. 5-9

Frigidaire Dishwasher, 1 yr. old; 2 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable. Call 546-2460. 5-10

1947 Indian Chief Motorcycle 1550 cc. has to be put together, newly painted, chopped fenders, tanks, headlight, chrome rims, brake, clutch assembly, forks, hi/rise bars, 3 sp. tankshift and parts of motor, plus 2 ex. engines, and parts $400.00. Call 5-2574 ask for Cort Bellavance or see me at Grad Print Making Office, Bartlett Hall. 5-12

Canonflex 35 mm. camera SLR with FL 2 lens, perfect condition, phone 546-3500 after 7. Leave name and phone. 5-12

One Encyclopedia Americana, excellent condition, 1966 edition, 30 volume set, $135.00. Call 546-5154. 5-12

MUST SELL
Portable stereo tape cartridge player, 6 mos. old, ten current tapes, cleaner cartridge, rear supply of batteries, battery recharger, all for just $80 or best offer. Perfect for house or outdoor fun. Runs on electric current too. Great sound for a small machine. Call Bob before 9 p.m. 549-1774 or 546-7672 on Campus. 5-13

Parts (or indiv.) package sale from 1963 Plym. Power "G", new carburetor, battery, generator, muffler, 7 tires, all for $60. Info, call Mike 6-8807 bet. 7 - 11. 5-13

Dark brown natural hair fall, never used, sacrifice. 584-0942 after 5. 5-13

AKAI SP-120 Speakers, excellent condition, 10½ in. woofer, 3½ in. tweeters, were $130, asking $80 for pair. Call Dick Gorman 215 545-6425. 5-15

FOR RENT

Summer Rental — Amherst, centrally located 3 room apartment on two floors, plenty of storage, partially furnished, very homey. Available June 1st - Sept. 1st. Responsible persons only. Call 253-7564 after 4 p.m. 5-9

Summer Students — 5 room furnished apt., Hadley, 4 students, June - Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Summer Students — 4 room furnished apt., Hadley, 3-4 students, available June-Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-6076. 5-20

5 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept 1. In center of Amherst, over C & C Package Store, $135 month, including utilities. Call 253-7909. 5-12

1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $116, with utilities, available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-13

6 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept 1. Phillips St. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8631 anytime. 5-13

Please — summer sub-let 2 bedroom apt., furnished for 3 people, $140/mo., all utilities included. 1½ miles to Campus, easy thumb. Call 253-2940 anytime. 5-13

One furnished room for rent, 3 miles from U.M. for summer semester, $45 a month, Kitchen privilege if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-13

Apartment to sublet over summer, for months of June, July and August, $75. Call Frank at 546-9316. It is near the center of Amherst. 5-9

2½ room apt., dishwasher, utilities incl., $120. Begin June 1st. Call 665-4410. 5-15

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31 or lease for 1 yr. Call Joan 253-7625. 5-12

Apt. to sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, 5 min. away, Rt. 116, Amherst-Sunderland border, 4 rooms furnished; 2 bedrooms, T.V., $130/mo. Call Jaqice, Rm 423 at 5-2362 or 2303. 5-14

Apt. to sublet from June 1 to August 31. Seven rooms, completely furnished, ideal for 4 or 5 people. Three miles from Campus. Garage space available. Call Ken, 549-8216. 5-9

Modern 2 bedroom apt. furnished, swimming pool, air conditioned if desired, sublet until Sept. or sign one year lease, $148 including all utilities. Call 665-3672. 5-9

To sublet June - Sept. — room for 5. Family room, living room, 2 baths and kitchen, modern facilities. Close to Campus $200 mo. Call Peggy or Marilyn 545-8735, 253-6615. 5-11

Summer sublet — 3½ room apartment, University Park, unfurnished, $137.00 reduced to $110.00, utilities included. Call 256-8002. 5-14

House to sublet from June 1 to Sept. 1, 7 large rooms, 4 bedrooms, in wooded country area and only 12 minutes from Campus. Call John 253-3081. 5-12

Vacant: Air conditioned 1 room apartment at Crestview Apts. near campus. Rent $130. Call 586-1261. 5-14

Rent for rear or summer sublet, 2 bedroom apt. fully furnished, air conditioned, all utilities included, close to campus. Call 549-0101 5-7 p.m. 5-15

2 bedrm. apt. utilities. Option for Sept. $137. Call 256-6047 June 1 - Sept. 1. 5-15

Summer sublet — new house in No. Amherst, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, full cellar and 4 car garage, plus front and back yard, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus. Call Dave, Jeff or Joe at 253-9264 after 6. 5-14

Tennis Coach Kosa Kowski Overcomes Blindness in Big Way

(Ed. Note: The following article is reprinted from the Boston Evening Globe, of May 7, 1969. It was written by Globe staff writer Marvin Pave.)

Steve Kosakowski, varsity tennis coach and physical education instructor at UMass, is blind. Glaucoma has cost him the sight of one eye and reduced the vision in the other to mere shadows.

Kosakowski has not shaken off the affliction to the point of enjoying life to the hilt. He admits the going is getting progressively tougher. But his world is far from a dark and private place.

"I can make out forms on the court and racket movements," said Steve yesterday. "Sometimes I have to ask which boy I'm watching, but on occasion I can tell by certain mannerisms."

His "boys', all the way from Captain Carl Clem of Medford, to team manager Steve Ross of Brookline, think their coach is "amazing.'

"That's the word for him," said team member Scott Sheppard, a junior from Reading. "He never complains. In fact, he tries to joke about his misfortune. Once, when we needed a linesman for a match, he said he'd volunteer because he couldn't see, he'd be impartial.

"He's made a better tennis player out of me," added Sheppard. "And he's done something even beyond that for all the players."

That "something", defines manager Ross is "the team's desire to win for Kosakowski as much as for themselves. They don't give out tennis scholarships here. Everything Steve has accomplished as coach has been through hard work and dedication."

And what accomplishments!

UMass, for the seco. straight season, has won the Yankee Conference title. Only twice in 21 years has Kosakowski coached a losing team. The latest was 1958. Only the other day, UMass beat Holy Cross at Worcester to end a 19-match Crusader winning streak.

His overall record through the years is 134-53, with 10 Yankee Conference titles in the process.

Steve's disease has sent him to the hospital three times for operations. Doctors hope they've at least stabilized his condition. Kosakowski isn't sure they have.

"But you can't sit around and mope about things," he said. "If and when I finally have to quit I'll have some pleasant memories and close friendships to take with me. The greatest experience of all has been working with the kids the past couple of years. Last year, when they knew my sight was getting worse, they dedicated their season to me and won the championship. It was a tremendous thrill."

Tennis hasn't been Steve's only sport.

This life-long resident of Amherst was a three sport standout for the town's high school when he was a football quarterback, baseball catcher-third baseman and captain and guard on the basketball team.

"We didn't have a tennis team at Amherst High, but I used to play at the Amherst College courts until they kicked me off. I was only nine years old when I started playing tennis there.

"They used to have a groundskeeper there named Mike Stennites. Well, when Mike noticed that the bigger guys had pushed me off the courts, he'd wait until there was a quiet time and sneak me back on again. He was quite a fellow."

After a year at Kents Hill School in Maine and two years at UMass' Stockbridge School of Horticulture (he still kept his athletic career going at both), Steve served 33 months in the Pacific during World War II.

Then came his first coaching job at UMass in 1945. Two years later, he was made tennis coach and almost by accident, varsity hockey coach, a past he held until three years ago when his condition dictated a reluctant but necessary change.

"The tennis job was a natural," recalled Steve. "I had been teaching pro at Stockbridge Country Club (two of his pupils were artist Norman Rockwell and actor Edward Everett Horton). But hockey was another story. I was asked to fill in. Wound up staying at the post 16 years though," he laughed.

It was during a hockey game that Kosakowski realized something was wrong.

"I looked up at the lights and all I could see were rainbows around them," he said. "I hadn't had an eye checkup for quite a while and when I was examined they told me I had glaucoma. You know, 99 out of 100 people can lick this thing if it is caught at an annual checkup. But it was too late for me. I was that one in a hundred."

But to his players and associates, Steve has been one in a million.

A close friend, who preferred to remain anonymous because "Steve would be embarrassed about all the nice things I'm going to say," he remarked. "The man has guts I've never seen before. He's done everything within reason until he couldn't do them anymore. Steve's a tough little guy with a heart as big as a house. He's an inspiration to everybody around here."

RAMPAGING RIGHTY - Red Sox hurler Ray Culp has been the big stopper for the inconsistent Bosox mound staff. Culp has made Boston forget Jim Lonborg. Bill Monbouquette and even Mel Parnell with his airtight pitching the last year.

Once a year at Mathews we let our hair and our prices way down.

We wear sneakers and T-shirts and sell shoes at ridiculously low prices on the sidewalk.

Come Look, Laugh and Save with us —

Thurs., Fri., Sat.

Mathews SHOE STORE

A New Concept of Gracious Living

NOW RENTING
for Summer and Fall Occupancy

One and Two Bedroom Apartments located on Route 116 in Sunderland

4 mi. No. Univ. Mass.

Total Electric Heat by Western Mass. Electric Co.

Rental Agents will be on the Premises
Sat. 12 - 5 p.m. Sun. 1 - 6 p.m.

During rental hours call 665-3050
or call collect 203-289-2204 any time

The Student Union Dining Service announces a new addition for your dining pleasure.

A Luncheon Buffet

will be available
DAILY MONDAY through FRIDAY
beginning April 7, 1969
11:30 A.M. to 2:00 P.M.
in the
HAMPSHIRE and ESSEX DINING ROOMS

A FEW OF THE MANY MENU ITEMS WILL INCLUDE ...
SOUP OR JUICE
HOT CASSEROLE DISHES OF SUCCULENT BEEF AND CHICKEN
TENDER, CRISP FRIED FOODS
SALADS
ASSORTED RELISHES
DESSERTS and BEVERAGE

only $1.65
plus M.O.A. tax

Reservations suggested but not necessary.
Bring a guest and enjoy leisurely dining in a cozy atmosphere.

at
THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

Ruggers Set for Two Against BC

If reputation were reality, then one would have to be a fool to play rugby. General opinion of the nature of the sport seems accurately reflected in the cynical addendum recently observed on a club poster: "An acceptable substitute for military service." Clearly, to the extent the relatively unknown sport has any reputation at all on the UMass campus, it is that the two main requisites for playing or watching the game are sadism and masochism.

Fortunately, though, this reputation is an exaggeration. While certainly not a game for the fainthearted, rugby isn't really as rough as it is often made out to be. In fact, during the current Spring season, glass doors and soft ball games have been as detrimental to the UMass players as on-the-field injuries.

Open-field tackling and the somewhat chaotic scrambling for the ball known as the "loose ruck" sometimes gets a little rough on the rugger, especially since his uniform consists of only a jersey, shorts, socks and cleats. But the calculated, bone-crushing attacks of the armed warriors on opposite sides of the line which characterize football are absent in rugby. The primary objective of the defender in rugby is to prevent the ball carrier from advancing the ball, rather than actually bringing him down, so there is relatively more grabbing, high-tackling, and "wrestling" with the runner than is the case in football.

Another important aspect of the nature of the sport is the attitude of the players toward the game. Rugby in the U.S. is run on a club basis, with few, if any, college athletic departments supporting the teams. In addition, many clubs have formed in metropolitan areas, with no connections at all with any colleges. The situation here at UMass is typical of a college club's organization. The team is self-organized, self-coached, self-run and financed by both dues and SATF appropriations of the Student Senate. Although primarily composed of undergraduates, the team includes a number of graduate students and one hard-as-nails faculty member.

There are no real training rules as such, the only requirement being that the players keep themselves in sufficient shape to perform adequately on the field. In addition, of course, competition for starting positions on the "A" team plays an important role in getting the players "up" for the games and "out" to practice.

Rugby is the ancestor of American football and is a major sport throughout Europe and the British Commonwealth. It is similar to football, but only slightly. The main difference between the two games is that in rugby, play does not cease when the ball carrier is stopped. When a ball carrier can no longer advance the ball, or pass it back to a teammate, then he must let it go. A "loose ruck," consisting of players from the "scrum" (comparable to the line in football), then form around the ball, in opposition, of course with the scrummers from the other side, and attempt to heel it out until it is free to be picked up by the awaiting backfield man.

This man then passes the ball down the diagonal line of backs who attempt to carry it forward. Rather than be tackled with the ball, the carrier passes it down the line when he gets into trouble. Eventually the ball is likely to have to be kicked forward, or another loose ruck may have to be formed around the loose ball while the backs set themselves up again for another attempt. Except when the ball goes out of bounds or when there is a penalty, play is continuous.

Therefore, it is unavoidable that the players will spend a large portion of their time attempting to get where they should be. It is primarily this continuous necessity for the player to be finding his most advantageous position on the field that makes the game look chaotic to the spectator.

UMass plays two games with Boston College tomorrow on the field beyond the football stadium. The "A's" will play first, at 1 p.m. and the "B's" will follow at 2:30 p.m. Looking upon B.C. as something of a natural rival of UMass, the team is really "up" for these games and accordingly should be at its best.

Gymnasts to Give Special Show

This year as part of the annual Amherst Town Fair, members of the Redman gymnastics team will perform a trampoline act. The team, which is newly formed, consists of Dave Genest, Tony Vacca, Mike Kasavana, Scott Stover, Dick DelGallo and John Calabria.

These performers have arranged a program of several difficult stunts for the entertainment of the audience. The show will be given at 6 p.m. tonight on the Amherst Common and is open to the public.

Both basic and highly advanced skills will be demonstrated and Vacca, and Kasavana will present competitive routines. The show will be highlighted by a comedy skit and some dare-devil acrobatics. The 45 minute show will be rounded out by some double bouncing work and some two man balancing.

Phj Sig Cops IM Soccer Crown

Phi Sigma Delta copped the campus intramural soccer title last night by defeating the Chadbourne Maroons, 3-0. Bob Littleton, John Laczek and Bob Callahan were the goal socrers for the winners while Leo Immonnen and Tony Lauria split the goaltending chores.

Theta Sigma Phi garnered third place as they won by forfeits over the Smashers.

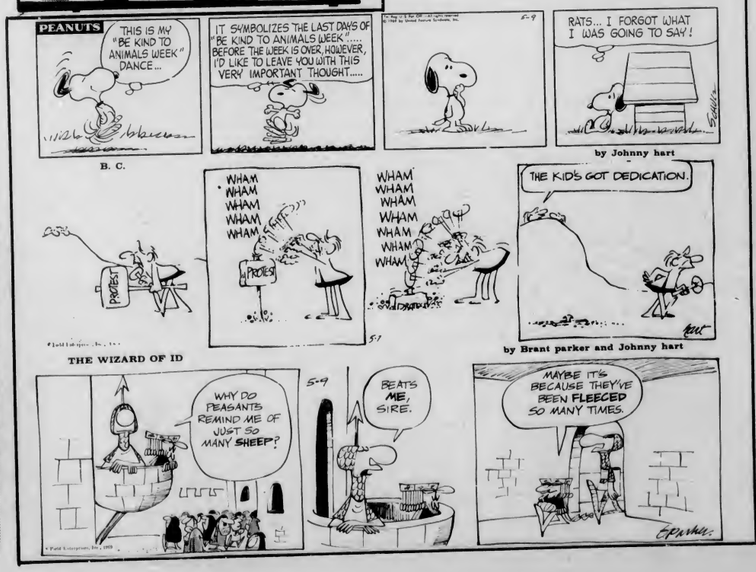
Harry Gold got the winning goal as the Gak edged the Trojans 1-0 for independent third place. Larry Ippoliti had the shutout in the Gak nets.

Late Show Friday at 11:30 p.m. (not part of our regular program)
AMHERST Cinema
The story of the wild live-in, love-in parties ...
"CANDY BABY"

AMHERST Cinema
NOW - 6:40 & 8:55
Sat. - Sun.
2:00 4:25 6:40 9:00
"BIG... EXTRAORDINARY... SIMPLY GREAT... Maggie Smith's performance is staggering." —Canby, N.Y. Times
20th Century-Fox Presents
The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie
Color by DeLuxe
R

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
RT. 9, AMHERST 256-6411
CINEMA II NOW PLAYING!
THE SUPER ADVENTURE
It's a suspense story.
It's a comedy story.
It's ... war story.
It's a wild story.
It's a love story.
And I'm the hero.
OLIVER REED MICHAEL J. POLLARD
HANNIBAL BROOKS
Nightly at 7 and 9
CINEMA I NOW PLAYING!
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
Best Actor Cliff Robertson
CLIFF ROBERTSON
CLAIRE BLOOM
CHARLY
Nightly at 7:15 & 9

CROSSWORD PUZZLE



ACROSS
1-Devoured
4-Symbol for tellurium
6-Strikes
11-More serene
13-Weirder
15-Note of scale
16-Put in order
18-Sun god
19-Note of scale
21-Girl's name
22-Declared
24-Burrowing animal
26-Rodents
28-Capuchin monkey
29-Wipe out
31-Parcels of land
33-Behold!
34-Cut
36-Soaks
38-Tensile strength (abbr.)
40-Is mistaken
42-Bishop's hat
45-Dine
47-Lampreys
48-Unusual
50-Sicilian volcano
52-Seasoning
54-A state (abbr.)
55-Initials of 26th President
56-Earthquakes
59-A continent (abbr.)
61-Hurry
63-Soft, silk fabric
65-Place in position
66-Latin conjunction
67-Paid notices

DOWN
1-Perform
2-Clothesmaker
3-Spanish article
4-Gull-like bird
5-Mistake
6-Lawmaker
7-Limb
8-War god
9-Greek letter
10-Continued story
12-Parent (colloq.)
14-Wireless
17-Sea in Asia
20-Word of sorrow
23-Conjunction
24-Pronoun
25-Slave
27-Stalk
30-Ireland
32-Mix
35-Gift
37-Antlered animal
38-Molars
39-Petty ruler
41-Bridge term
43-Wiped out
44-Note of scale
46-Symbol for thorium
48-Ineline
51-Units of Siamese currency
57-Unit of Portuguese currency
58-Symbol for tin
60-Roman bronze
62-Conjunction
64-A state (abbr.)

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	L	A	R		T	R	Y		L	A	S	T
C	A	P	E		R	O	E		A	L	E	A
E	M	P	L	O	Y		T	A	T	T	E	R
S	A	L	A	D			L	E	E	R	S
		E	Y	E	S		P	A	R	R
I	T	S		S	T	A	R	S		S	A	P
S	O			G	R	E				O	D	A
M	O	B		T	R	E	S	S		I	T	S
		R	E	A	M		S	O	O	N
S	T	A	R	K			R	I	S	E	S
P	A	I	R	E	D		S	A	L	I	N	E
A	P	S	E		O	R	E		E	D	I	T
S	E	E	D		N	E	W		R	E	D	S

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 9

Big Weekend for Rampaging Nine, Holy Cross, Conference Rival UNH

UMass has won 15 of their last 17 baseball games. This weekend the slugging Redmen will be out to both conquer another highly-regarded New England power and also clinch a tie for the Yankee Conference championship.

Coach Dick Bergquist's ram - paging nine will play Holy Cross today at 3 p.m. at Varsity Field in a replay of yesterday's postponed contest. They will then travel to Durham, N.H., to meet the Wildcats in a big conference tilt tomorrow.

Holy Cross entered this season with nine returning lettermen from last year's 12-6 year. However, a spring that was bad weather-wise and a rash of injuries has kept the Crusaders from reaching their full potential, potential that prompted their Coach Bob Curran to say before the season, "We have some of the best players in New England and should qualify for the New England Regionals."

They will have to start moving pretty quick, as the Cross has a lackluster 5-6 record going into today's game. The wins have been over Yale, Connecticut, Harvard, Hartford and Rhode Island. Among the losses are defeats from streaking Boston University and Springfield College.

The two big injuries were suffered by pitchers Bill Close and Jim Conlon. Both were among the best in the area last year and were expected, along with fellow senior Ray Bussiere, to be the nucleus of an excellent staff. Both Close and Conlon have been used sparingly so far, but are reported recovered. Therefore it will be either the lefty Conlon, who was fourteenth in the country with a 1.10 ERA last year, or the righty Close, who was 4-2 last year on the mound for the Crusaders.

Among others to watch for Holy Cross will be first baseman and footballer Phil O'Neil, outfielders Rick DeAngelis and Pat Bourque and catcher Dan Capen.

Norm Elliott or Lou Colabello will pitch for UMass, and they will have their work cut out for them. Holy Cross has had only one losing baseball season in history and can't afford many more losses if that record is to remain intact.

The task for UMass will be a different one tomorrow as they will meet a New Hampshire team that they have beaten already once this season. However, the pressure in this one will be great as UMass could clinch their Yankee Conference title with a win. It is in fact possible that they could clinch it all, as Maine, the only conference team that can catch the locals plays today and tomorrow at Rhode Island.

The Redmen will go with their ace, righthander Don Anderson. The sophomore has won six games without a loss. His last win was a strong performance over Maine. Anderson has responded to conference pressures well as five of his wins have come over conference foes.

The Redmen have had balance all around with lusty hitting, strong pitching for the most part and an adequate defense, with its strength in the infield. When you have won 15 of 17, you have to be the favorite.

Mitch Salnick

Ray Ellerbrook

Stickmen Out for Revenge Against Veteran Lord Jeffs

By WALT STACHURA
Senior Reporter

Revenge will be a powerful motive for the UMass lacrosse team tomorrow as they put their eight game undefeated streak on the line against Amherst in a 2 p.m. game in Alumni Stadium.

The last team to beat the Redmen was Amherst, when they edged the Redmen, 6-5, in a thriller last spring at Amherst. Since that game, UMass has rolled up 13 straight victories.

With their slim win over UMass last year, the Lord Jeffs were able to move to an undefeated season and the New England championship. This year, the Redmen are undefeated and a victory over Amherst will bring them close to a New England championship and the Taylor Cup.

Despite being loaded with veterans from last year's title squad, Amherst has started slowly this season with a 3-2 record. The Lord Jeffs have been beaten by Middlebury and MIT while they have edged Trinity and beaten Wesleyan and Tufts.

Chip Norris and Randy Bollinger are two attackmen returning from last year. Bollinger, who tallied the game winner last year, has not played in the last three games due to an injury but is expected to play tomorrow.

For midfielders, the Lord Jeffs have Joe Quinn and Larry Jones. Both are high scorers and play their positions well.

Their defense is sparked by Bill Clift, who will have the tough assignment of guarding Kevin O'Connor on whom he did a good job in last year's game. The one inexperienced spot for Amherst is in goal where they have lost All-New England goalie Steve Koch.

UMass coach Dick Garber said the game will be a match of UMass offensive might against the tough Amherst defense. Garber added that Amherst is a team with plenty of potential and could find themselves in the game against UMass.

As for the Redmen, they are well prepared for tomorrow's game. They scrimmaged Springfield during the week and beat them 11 - 1.

Incidentally, the Redmen will hit the television screen tonight on Doug Wheeler's sport show on Channel 40. The short features were filmed yesterday and will be shown at 7:15 and 11:20 during the sports portion of the news.

REDMAN GOALIE - Veteran Mark Schlossberg will be in the goal for the Redmen against an inexperienced goalie for the Lord Jeffs tomorrow in a revenge match.

Frosh Nine to Play AIC, Worcester

By DICK BACKER
Staff Reporter

Coming off a 5 - 0 win against Rhode Island in what Coach Arlan Barber described as "the team's best effort to date," the Little Redmen will play two games this weekend. Tomorrow they entertain A.I.C. at home on Varsity Field at 3 p.m., and Sunday they travel to Worcester for a game against Worcester Academy.

The frosh record is currently 5 - 2, but Barber feels "they are just starting to play good ball and jell as a team." The pitching has been the team's strongest point to date. Leading the staff is lefty Tom King who has 39 strikeouts in 29 innings. He will go Sunday against the Academy.

Next on the list is Bryan Martin who fashioned a one-hitter against Rhody Wednesday. Adding to Martin's credit is the fact he has only given up one run, which was unearned, in 20 innings, and he has a 2 - 0 record. His .275 batting average continues to sting the opposition. Rounding out the staff is Tim Logue, who is starting tomorrow. George Phelan and Bob Powers.

Coach Barber has been pleased with the team's defense, but would like to see a little more hitting. A pleasant surprise has been Stan Baker. Baker is currently batting .666 and had three hits against Rhode Island.

First baseman Pete Thompson, currently batting .285 is another hard-hitter. Jose Kelly, while batting only .250, has kept the frosh attack alive. He is consistently getting on base and has seven walks for the season. Kelly leads the team in stolen bases with nine and stole home in the Rhody game. Rounding out the attack is Mike Lanchanski with .277, Jim Saracina at .266 and Chris Louchansky at .285.

Crew Club Seeded in Dad Vail Regatta

The crew team left yesterday for the 25th Annual Dad Vail Regatta to be held in Philadelphia. The Vail is symbolic of small college national championship rowing in the U.S. This year 36 varsity, 24 junior varsity and frosh crews have been invited to participate.

The regatta will last for two days. This afternoon the quarter final heats will be held and tomorrow morning the semi-finals. The finals will be held tomorrow afternoon. All three UMass boats are seeded in the top 10.

In the varsity race, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and once beaten defending champion Georgetown will provide the competition.

In the junior varisty race, Trinity from Hartford, Marietta (Ohio) and UMass are rated as having a good crack at winning. UMass has beaten Georgetown and has a good chance of beating Trinity.

In the frosh race, Marietta, Trinity and Drexel Institute from Philadelphia are rated as the top three favorites.

This is the fourth year UMass has entered the Vail. The last two years all three boats have finished in the top 10, and Coach Mike Faherty hopes this year to place all boats and make the six boat final.

The big splash is . . .

Crew Coach Mike Faherty

The Redman track team will be competing against Boston College and Syracuse tomorrow at the Heights. In these photos taken by one of the team members, Mard Gelinas, the UMass sprinters are (left to right) Steve Chase, Dave Marble and Walt Mayo. Throwing the javelin is Bill Mahoney, who just misses a school record by one inch when he threw the javelin 196 feet.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVII NO. 137 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, MAY 12, 1969

STUDENTS SPEARHEAD DRIVE TO SAVE UMASS FUNDS

We're the 'Silent Majority'

WE'RE THE "SILENT MAJORITY"

We don't riot, carry guns or take over buildings.
We're too busy trying to get an education.

You've paid for our education with your taxes.
We appreciate that.
We hope that other young people will have the same opportunity we've had.

That's why six thousand of us can't be silent any more.

That's why we've all chipped in a dollar a piece to buy this ad.

THE PROPOSED BUDGET CALLS FOR A CUT IN FUNDS FOR PUBLIC HIGHER EDUCATION

The Legislature has supported Public Higher Education in the past.
They want to support the state's 29 public colleges and the University now.

But they're caught in the middle.

They need YOUR support.

The six thousand of us ask YOU to help.
We ask YOU to stop being silent.

WE ASK YOU TO URGE THE LEGISLATURE TO RESTORE THE FUNDS CUT

How? Tear out this ad and send it to your state Representative or Senator. Now. Thank you.

Sponsored and paid for by the following students at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst:

Students Raise $4,000; Senate To Match Funds; Administrators, Faculty Pledge Aid To Pay For Boston Paper Ads

Three full page ads in Boston newspapers today spearhead a student drive, begun last week, aimed at convincing Massachusetts taxpayers to urge their representatives to support public higher education in general, and the UMass budget request in particular.

The ads, which appear in today's Boston Herald Traveler and Boston Morning and Evening Glove were paid for by student contributions, collected Friday, and by a Student Senate pledge to match the amount collected. Other student groups have also pledged to contribute, as have various administrators and faculty.

The group of students organized in order to show citizens of the Commonwealth the importance of adequate funding for the University, and for public higher education in general in the state.

Massive campus-wide student support mobilized Thursday, as posters around campus explained the need to put pressure on legislators through their constituents, in order to save the University's budget, and the budgets of other State schools.

Funds for the three full page ads in today's Boston papers were collected by student volunteers all day Friday. More students helped to put the ad together Friday night.

Spokesmen for the group urge all students to contact their parents and have them send a copy of the ad to their state representative. A copy of the ad appears on the front page of today's Daily Collegian, and students are urged to send that ad, along with a sentence or two explaining their position, to their legislator.

For Complete Story, See Page 3

The Student Senate will hold an open meeting to answer any student questions on the fiscal '70 student budget act, tonight from 7-9 p.m. in the Berkshire room of the Union, and from 7-9 -.m. tomorrow night in the Essex room of the Union.

Next year's student activity tax rate will be between $30-35 per student, totalling between $400,000 - 450,000.

Inside Today's Daily Collegian

- Faculty Senate to Act on Phys Ed - page 2
- Editorials, Campus Comment - page 6
- Baseball Team Ties For Conference Crown - page 12
- Dialogue Day Plans - page 3
- ROTC Professor to Retire - page 7
- Lacrosse Team Wins - page 12

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

PARIS (AP) - South Vietnam's representative to the peace talks said yesterday "We do not reject straight off any proposal of the other side or any suggestion," but he stressed Saigon's opposition to the Viet Cong proposal for a coalition.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) - Striking Negro hospital workers drew shoe-leather support yesterday from top labor leaders, political figures and civil rights groups as the 1969 Poor Peoples campaign shifted to this heavily policed seaport.

KEY BISCAYNE, FLA. (AP) - President Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller conferred Sunday on Latin American issues at the outset of Rockefeller's tour of seven south-of-the-border nations.

NEW YORK (AP) - The White House was reported yesterday to be applying pressure to get Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to resign, while a House member said he has prepared articles of impeachment which he will submit unless the jurist resigns.

LINWOOD, N.J. (AP) - Former Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Jr., who co-sponsored the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to curb unions during a period of turbulent labor relations, died in a convalescent home yesterday after a long illness. He was 66.

School of Business Administration
INVESTMENT SYMPOSIUM

Topic: "Making Money in the Stock Market - The Professional Way"

Speaker: Donald Farrar, Vice President of Investments Paul Revere Life Insurance Company

Date: Wednesday, May 14, 4:00 p.m.

Place: Room 120 SBA

The Paul Revere Life Insurance Co. has had outstanding success with their investments in stocks and other equity investments. Mr. Farrar has played an important role in this success story. He is representative of the aggressive young talent the insurance industry has recruited in this area. Mr. Farrar is a dynamic speaker and will not be quoting from text books. He's going to tell it how it is. There will be an open period for questions.

NOTICE
BUS STOP CHANGE

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY:

All Peter Pan Bus Service will leave from HAIGIS MALL near Whitmore.

TICKETS will be sold at Student Union bus ticket office. Students are urged to purchase tickets in advance.

PETER PAN BUS LINES

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University compus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Faculty Senate to Vote on Phys Ed

The Faculty Senate will vote on a School of Physical Education proposal that the general physical education requirement for all students be revised to reduce the requirement from the present four semesters to two. The Academic Affairs Committee has passed the proposal and has sent it to the full senate for action at the Thursday meeting.

Among other revisions included in the plan are options students will have as to the way they fulfill the requirement and also credit will be given for the fulfillment with a grade given.

If passed, the reduced requirement will be retroactive for all students.

Students will have a choice of two ways to take the two semester requirement. One will be by participating in two semesters of three hours a week of activity courses similar to the ones offered now. The other alternative will be to participate in a course now being developed, the content of which shall include consideration of such topics as the understanding of sport and physical activity, the physiology of exercise, sport sociology, psychological aspects of sport and sport history.

The latter course will be a two-credit one semester course and will be presented to the University as a regular course proposal. Until the course is developed, students will continue with the present type of phys ed requirement but on basis of two semesters instead of four.

Besides the lowering of the length of the requirement, the revisions include the awarding of two graduation credits for the completion of the general physical education requirement, and also that grading be available either by pass-fail or graded basis.

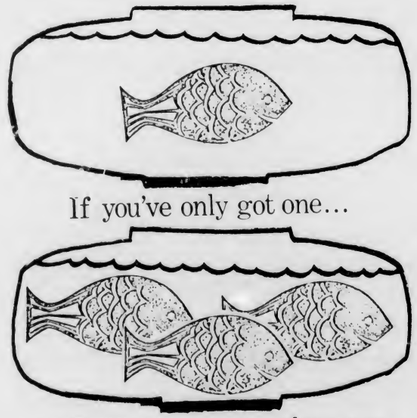
Associate Dean of Physical Education, David C. Bischoff, who was one of the framers of the proposal, stated the rationale behind the revisions, when he said, "the program should have opportunities for students to self judge skills and fitness levels and also to give chances for students to gain abilities and interpret a wide range of activities."

The Dean added in answer to critics to any physical education requirement, "it is a virtual certainty that college graduates will participate in physical activity in their leisure time. Certainly spectator sports are a large portion of this, but there has been a huge rise in the numbers of people participating in carry-over sports such as golf, tennis, bowling, etc. A foundation for this future activity should be provided."

"Also there is no way of judging, upon admission to the University, the extent of a student's high school activity", he said. Both the school of Physical Education and the academic affairs committee of the Faculty Senate concur that students should have some basis for making informed decisions about their involvement or lack of involvement with physical activity."

Bischoff, while realigning the requirement, has also added a wider range of courses in his school, such courses as the sociology and history courses dealing with sports and physical activity. His hope is that there will be an increased stress on classroom work in the field.

If passed, the physical education requirement revisions would be implemented this fall.



POWER HUNGRY?

Does that phrase describe the Student Union?

Listen to the issues this Thursday at 9 p.m.

Call in and voice your opinion. . . .on

WMUA - - 91.1 FM

Students Buy Ads in Boston Papers to Convince Solons

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

Three full page ads in Boston newspapers today spearhead a student drive, begun last week, aimed at convincing Massachusetts taxpayers to urge their representatives to support public higher education in general, and the UMass budget request in particular.

The ads, which appear in today's Boston Herald Traveler and Boston Morning and Evening Globe were paid for by student contributions, collected Friday, and by a Student Senate pledge to match the amount collected. Other student groups have also pledged to contribute, as have various administrators and faculty. The class of 1971 Executive Council last night voted to donate $300.

Over $4,000 was collected Friday, and the Senate has matched that figure.

The ad campaign was organized by over 200 students, who formed an R.S.O. group, Students for Public Higher Education. Spokesmen for the group include Daily Collegian Editor-in-chief Donald Epstein, President; Richard Story, Treasurer and Mark Silverman, Secretary, say that the increasing cuts in the University's budget request by the legislature and the Governor, along with several articles in the Boston Globe hostile to the University's financial position motivated the group Wednesday.

The group of students organized in order to show citizens of the Commonwealth the importance of adequate funding for the University, and for public higher education in general in the state.

Massive campus - wide student support mobilized Thursday, as posters around campus explained the need to put pressure on legislators through their constituents,in order to save the University's budget, and the budgets of other State schools.

Funds for the three full page ads in today's Boston papers were collected by student volunteers all day Friday. More students helped to put the ad together Friday night.

Spokesmen for the group urge all students to contact their parents and have them send a copy of the ad to their state representative. A copy of the ad appears on the front page of today's Daily Collegian, and students are urged to send that ad, along with a sentence or two explaining their position, to their legislator.

All the people in the state, spokesmen for the group stress, must be made aware of the importance of public higher education to the commonwealth. The actual cost of higher education for each taxpayer, they argue, is small.

The average taxpayer spends only $8.09 per year to support 29 institutions and 60,000 students, and of that, 68¢ for UMass. The taxpayer sees 10,000 men and woman graduate each year from the state system for less than $10 of his tax money, and these people become his fellow taxpayers.

The students stressed the fact that the cost for education is much less, per taxpayer, than the cost for welfare. The average taxpayer pays $67.97 a year for welfare.

The more money that is spent for education, the students argue, means the less money to be spent on welfare in the years to come.

Additional funds are needed by all state institutions of higher public education to cope with the expected rise in enrollment.

There are now 60,000 students enrolled in state schools, but studies of projected population indicate there will be 60,000 students with no school to attend by 1975. Private institutions in the state have not been growing fast enough, and thus public schools must prepare to grow.

The state government, students say, is over reacting to the so called "tea bag revolt" of overburdened taxpayers, and is cutting state aid to education, the one area which, they say, must receive adequate funding to insure the state's future prosperity.

Specifically, budget cuts proposed by the governor and members of the General Court would force two state schools to close next year.

If the UMass Medical School does not receive its full budget, something which the Governor is committed against, it will not be able to open until 1973, thus denying many state residents access to medical education for three years.

The UMass budget, in the words of the student group, "has been cut to the point where it would be impossible to adequately function next year."

Plans call for the ad to be run in other state papers later this week.

Dialog Day to Discuss Funds for State Schools

A Day of Dialogue here with representatives from the other 28 public institutions of higher education in the state is scheduled for tomorrow to discuss the future of state aid to higher education.

The day will begin with visitor registration, in the Colonial Lounge, from 9-10 a.m. A convocation will be held in the Ballroom from 10-12, to discuss the general topic of the dwindling state support for public higher education, and the need for an immediate demonstration, directed toward the legislature to convince lawmakers of the importance of supporting higher education in the state.

After a lunch break, smaller discussion groups will be held. The topics are as follows:

- How did the present situation evolve?
- What can be done to correct the situation?
- What are some long range plans?
- What will the specific budget cuts result in for the state schools?
- What ought to be the aims of state public higher education?
- What prompted the impending budget cuts?
- What priorities are currently involved in allocating funds for public higher education?

A plenary session will be held to discuss the results of the day of discussion from 4-6 p.m.

The Day of Dialogue is being sponsored by a group of student leaders, in several campus organizations, concerned with the present budget crisis affecting all state public higher education institutions and which threaten to close two schools next year.

Spokesmen for the group stress that a strong UMass turnout for the discussions is imperative if the day is to convince lawmakers and taxpayers of the importance of public higher education and of the seriousness of the impending fund cuts.

BE HERE FOR YOW
MAY 18

BULLETIN No. 28 SPRING & SUMMER 1969

YOU MAY PURCHASE
TIRES
At Wholesale Prices
NEW Perfect Quality GOODYEAR

OVER 5,000 TIRES IN STOCK INCLUDING FOREIGN AND COMPACT SIZES

SCHOOL IDENTIFICATION REQUIRED

FULL 4 PLY NYLON TUBELESS

		FEDERAL EXCISE TAX
650 x 13	$8.96	$1.79
735/700 x 14	$10.66	$2.07
775/750 x 14	$10.97	$2.30
825/800 x 14	$11.78	$2.36
855/850 x 14	$15.97	$2.57
775/670 x 15	$10.87	$2.31
815/710 x 15	$13.53	$2.44
845/760 x 15	$15.97	$2.48
900/800/820 x 15	$19.05	$2.83

No Trade-In Required

BATTERIES
FREE INSTALLATION
6 VOLT $7.72 EXCH
12 VOLT $10.73 EXCH
Fits Most Cars
FULL Guarantee provides for battery replacement FREE within 90 days

NATION-WIDE GUARANTEE
NO LIMIT ON MILES • NO LIMIT ON MONTHS
(Adjustment Prorated on Tread Depth Based on Manufacturer's Adjustment Price)

AT SAME PRICES WE SELL OUR DEALERS

Terms Available
FREE TIRE MOUNTING

STATE INSPECTION PERIOD APRIL 1st TO MAY 15th

BAK TIRE CO. COPYRIGHT 1969
"Northampton Warehouse Distributors"
55 DAMON ROAD • NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
584-4769

HOURS — 8.00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.
Saturday 8.00 A.M. to 2.00 P.M.
OVER 20 YEARS OF SERVICE

NEW WHEELS
Genuine Firestone Retreads

FREE WINTER TIRES CHANGED TO SUMMER TIRES

at
THE AMHERST TOWER
purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

Summer happens at Southampton!

What a way to learn! Located in one of the country's best-known summer fun areas, Southampton College is surrounded by magnificent beaches, yachting and sailing centers, golf courses, art colonies, theatre activities and more and more!

Accredited undergraduate courses in Humanities, Science, Social Science, Business Administration, Marine Science, and Education, plus limited graduate offerings, during two 5-week sessions: June 23-July 25; July 28-August 29. Courses are open to visiting students who are in good standing at their own college.

Three, four and five-week workshops in sculpture, music, painting, drama and films. Concerts and lectures will be given By resident musicians and visiting experts.

Dormitory accommodations are available for students in academic courses and workshops.

For further information, mail coupon today.

Director of the Summer Program,
SOUTHAMPTON COLLEGE
LONG ISLAND UNIVERSITY
Southampton, N.Y. 11968 • (516) AT 3-4000

Please send me Summer Program bulletin.
I am interested in ☐ 1st session ☐ 2nd session
I attend _____ College _____ Year _____ Major
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Harry S. Hugill, director of the UMass physical plant department, was honored on his retirement by 200 at a recent testimonial. Left to right, UMass Trustee John W. Haigis, Jr., chairman of the building and grounds committee of the Board of Trustees; UMass landscape architect William A. Lambert, master of ceremonies; and Mr. Hugill.

UMass Prof Compiles Sociology Reader On Major Institutions in US and USSR

A reader in comparative sociology and perception has been compiled by UMass associate professor of sociology Paul Hollander and published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Entitled "American and Soviet Society," the book examines the major institutions and problems of the two most powerful industrial societies of the world -- the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Some 94 Soviet and American authors compare and contrast sociological aspects of their societies including social values, beliefs, and ideologies; social stratification; the family; crime and juvenile delinquency; and other areas.

The book is a case study in "cross-national perceptions" with American and Soviet sociologists commenting on one another's societies as well as directing criticism at their own social environment.

Prof. Hollander came to UMass last year from Harvard University where he was an associate of the Russian Research Center and an assistant professor of sociology. He earned his B.A. in 1959 from the London School of Economics (University of London) and his Ph. D. in 1963 from Princeton University.

He has published articles on various aspects of Soviet society and other communist societies and analyzed the relationship between certain Soviet and American social institutions.

Smith College Music Faculty to Give Concert

Members of the Smith College music faculty will present a concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Sage Hall. The public is invited to attend.

John Sessions, violoncellist, and Miss Patricia Monk, pianist, will open the program with Mendelssohn's Sonata for violoncello and piano in B flat major.

Next, Mrs. Johanna Albrecht, accompanied by Miss Monk, will sing five lieder by Hugo Wolf. Mrs. Albrecht, soprano, is a graduate student at Smith.

Ciacoona Intermezzo Adagio, composed by Luigi Dallapiccola in 1945, will be performed by Sessions.

The program will conclude with Four Lieder, Opus 2 by Arnold Schoenberg, sung by Mrs. Albrecht. She will be accompanied by Miss Monk.

AAUP Members Polarized Over Campus Disorders

By RANDY TIGUE
and STEVE ZINNEY
College Press Service

MINNEAPOLIS (CPS) - If the 55th annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors ((AAUP) are held here this weekend is any indication, college and university faculty members are as polarized on the issue of campus disorders as the public at large.

Nearly two out of the three hours allotted to the discussion of resolutions was spent arguing over a proposed AAUP position on campus disruption. The panel discussion on confrontation tactics scheduled for two hours ran nearly three to accommodate advocates of revolution, repression, and shades of opinion in between.

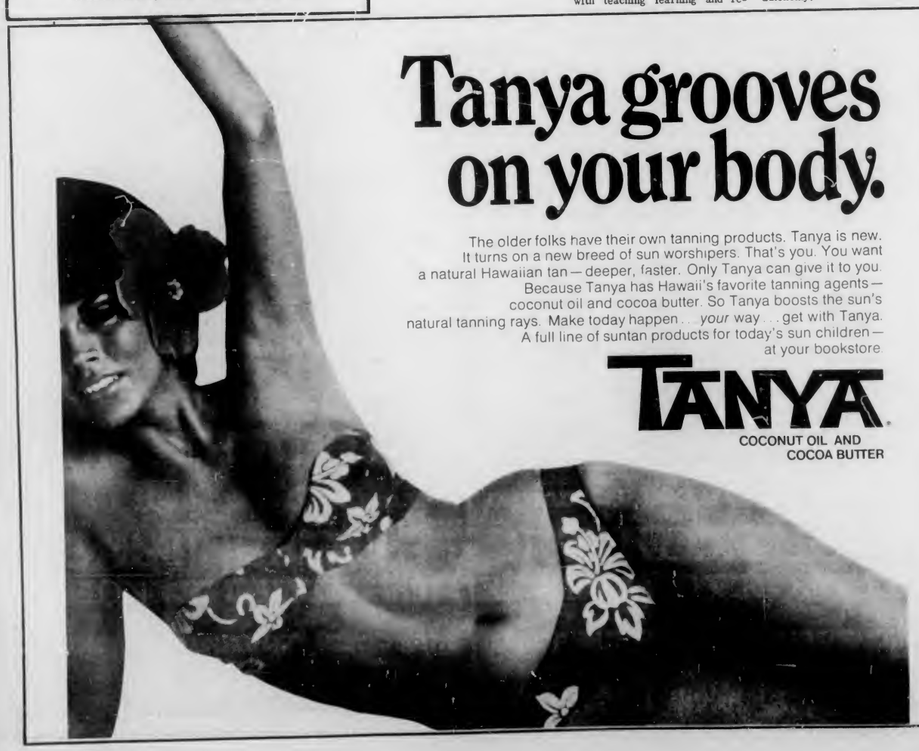
The resolution which finally emerged was a hybrid, combining features of the resolutions committee report and features of a substitute resolution proposed by John Massman and Calvin Gower of St. Cloud State College.

By a vote of 210 to 187, the AAUP rejected the language of the committee report which said the Association" unreservedly condemns any forcible interference with teaching learning and research."

In its place, the substitute resolution said, "The annual meeting therefore calls on all members of the academic community to seek appropriate remedies, encourage necessary change, and discourage disruptive action."

Speaking in behalf of the substitute, David Wieck of Rensselaer College said that the condemnation contained in the committee report "strikes a moral note of outrage that does not help the situation. To condemn students for things that arise out of deep moral feeling is something I cannot condone."

John C. Wriston of the University of Delaware took issue, saying the substitute resolution "ignores the threat to academic freedom." "We're defending academic freedom by speaking out against disruption," he maintained.



While rejecting the harsher condemnation of disruptions, the convention did vote by 218 to 187 to accept the resolutions committee's language on issues such as governmental reprisals and institutional autonomy.

Student Teachers

FALL SEMESTER

INTERVIEWS with Amherst, Northampton, Quabbin and other school systems for intern positions.

SCHOOL OF ED. AUDITORIUM
WEDNESDAY, MAY 14 — 7:00 P.M.

Tanya grooves on your body.

The older folks have their own tanning products. Tanya is new. It turns on a new breed of sun worshipers. That's you. You want a natural Hawaiian tan—deeper, faster. Only Tanya can give it to you. Because Tanya has Hawaii's favorite tanning agents—coconut oil and cocoa butter. So Tanya boosts the sun's natural tanning rays. Make today happen . . . your way . . . get with Tanya. A full line of suntan products for today's sun children—at your bookstore.

TANYA
COCONUT OIL AND COCOA BUTTER

Yippie Leader to Visit UMass

Jerry Rubin, a leader of the Youth International Party, will speak here tonight at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom.

Appearing with Rubin, who will be here both today and tomorrow to talk with students, will be the founders of the liberation news service Marshall Bloom and Ray Mungo.

Rubin has been called an "intellectual as well as an activist and has contributed many ideas and innovations to the 'movement'."

He was a leader of the Berkeley Free speech movement and ran as Mayor of that city in 1964, getting 30% of the vote. Rubin went on to help organize the march on Washington in 1967 to end the war in Vietnam, and the assault on the Pentagon, the Festival of Life at the Democratic National Convention last year, and the counter inauguration in Washington this year.

Rubin's talk tonight will be preceded by a coffee hour at 5 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge.

Tomorrow he will lead a seminar at 10 a.m. in Pierpont and at 1 p.m. in the North Dining Commons.

British Engineer Lectures On Water Supply Practices

British water engineer Peter W. Doe (far right in photo at right,) discusses current practices here and abroad in water supply and sludge disposal at UMass during a recent two-day visit.

He was a guest of the environmental engineering program of the UMass department of civil engineering and of Drs. Donald D. Adrian and John H. Nebiker, principal investigators of a research project supported by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

They are investigation dewatering of water treatment plant sludge, designated the number one problem in the water treatment industry by the American Water Works Association. Listening to Doe are (left to right in photo) research assistant Edward Clark, Dr. Adrian, research associate John Ramsay, graduate research assistants Donald Ray and Kuang-Mei Lo, and Dr. Nebiker.

Dissension Marks Conference on Student Unrest

WASHINGTON (CPS) - A group of nearly two dozen student leaders who gathered here Friday to formulate a statement about student unrest splintered after four major schools left the conference during a volatile session Saturday night.

Student newspaper editors from Purdue, Michigan, New Mexico and the student body president at New York University left the conference yesterday claiming the student leaders who were present were not representative of the college campuses of the nation. They also charged that the statement which appeared forthcoming was too conservative in describing student sentiment against the war and in defining what tactics were appropriate in seeking university reforms.

The conference, sponsored by a donation from a past lieutenant in the McCarthy for President campaign, is being conducted by members of the National Student Association (NSA) and former McCarthy supporters. The meetings grew out of a conference last week of representatives of the 300 editors and student presidents who signed NSA's "We won't go statements." Those who signed the statement promised not to serve if inducted into the armed forces during the Vietnam war.

Robert Burton, former editor of the New Mexico Lobo, and Jim Heck, summer co-editor of the Michigan Daily, claimed during the session late Saturday night that NSA already had an "outline draft" written and that those present were being duped into coming up with a statement similar to the one already written.

David Hawk, Sam Brown and Clinton Deveauz - organizers of the conferences - all denied that any statement had been written.

Student presidents from City College of New York and Stanford and an editor of the Harvard Crimson also threatened to leave Sunday abandoning the conference to less than 15 small, religiously-oriented private colleges and a few smaller land-grant schools.

Hawk announced yesterday it was now doubtful a statement could be issued at the press conference scheduled here Monday.

Roger Black, former editor of the Chicago Maroon at the University of Chicago, re-assumed chairmanship of the meetings after resigning Saturday night and denied the allegations posed by Burton and Heck.

HAVE YOU PICKED UP ON the BAHA'I THING?

Amherst Geologist to Travel From Israel to South Africa

Dr. Gerald P. Brophy, professor of geology at Amherst College, has been invited to participate this summer in a six-and-a-half week geological field excursion extending from Israel to South Africa. The tour is sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Twenty geologists (from more than 2,000 applicants) were selected by that body on the basis of their applications and a statement as to why such a tour would be relevant to their current teaching and research.

In 1965-66, while on sabbatical leave, Dr. Brophy did some work in the northern extension of the Rift Zone as it passes into Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

The purpose of the trip is to visit classic geological areas in Africa and Israel, and it is intended to enrich the teaching and research capability of American geology teachers by providing them with firsthand field experience in some of the world's most interesting geological areas.

DR. OLDSMOBILE'S NO-NO: F-85 W-31.

Getting into an air-inducted headturner these days is a snap. If you don't mind swallowing a rather large and lumpy chunk of price tag.

Well, the good Doc, bless him, has just crowbarred the rule book all out of shape to bring you a minimum-weight, 350-cube, cold-air honker for less than the average nickel-nursing family sedan!

And on that family steed, you're not too likely to find behemoth front air scoopers, cold-air carb, high-overlap cam, minimum combustion chamber volume, oversized valves, low-restriction dual exhausts, or an Anti-Spin axle (to 4.66-to-1).

And if you'd like to order more, order more! New heavy-duty FE-2 suspension with front and rear stabilizers. Close- or wide-ratio 4-speeds. Special beefed up "W" automatic with firmed-up shifts. Ei cetera.

And tires? Just about every size and type that clings: wide-boot redlines, whitewalls, raised letters, or fiberglass-belted. Up to F70 x 14".

How does the good Doc do it for so little? That's for us to know-know, and for you to find out — at your nearest Olds dealer's.

DR. OLDSMOBILE'S W-31

Make your escape from the ordinary.

Dr. Oldsmobile posters now available. Set of four (24" x 16"), plus Dr. Oldsmobile Booklet. Send $1.00 to: Oldsmobile, P.O. Box W-31, Dept. CN, Plymouth, Michigan 48170

FROM OUR SIDE

The Budget Cut

Recently, a state legislator who was visiting our campus was overheard to say, "Wow, this cow college has really grown."

"This cow college" - is that what our Beacon Hill legislators still think of this University of over 15,000 students? It would appear that many feel Mass. Aggie still exists. They do not seem to realize the advancements this school has made in the past few years.

But whatever advances have been made, it will all be for naught if the eleven-plus million dollars cut from the UMass budget this year is not restored. How can a major institution, which is taking great strides forward, all of a sudden do an about face because the legislators, mostly alumni of non-state supported schools like Boston College, Boston University and Suffolk, can't see putting all that money into public schools.

A step backward now could be fatal to the tremendous advances which have been made and to those which are proposed for the future. The money cut - from every category of the University's budget, which affects every phase of its operations - means serious curtailments in essential instructional and service programs. Most of all, monies that would go toward increasing salaries would be lost; and the top-caliber faculty that the University has been attracting will no longer come. Good faculty here now may well leave. The reputation and the standing of the school, which took much effort to build, could very possibly be seriously crippled if the eleven million is not restored to the budget.

Possibly the answer would be to invite our legislature up to "this cow college" and let them see first hand what is going on. It may make them understand that public education has come a long way and hopefully, with their help, it will go even further.

Massachusetts is now ranked 50th among the states in supporting public education. The legislators must understand that this Commonwealth must develop her great resource of youth through public means, Massachusetts must catch up with the rest of the country in this respect.

Yes, Mr. Legislator, this "cow college" has come a long way, and it has a long way to go - come and see for yourself.

THE EDITORS

The Vigil

"One year ago the Paris Peace Talks began. Since the start of the war 457,132 National Liberation Front and North Vietnamese, 75,873 South Vietnamese, and 37,812 Americans have been killed. To express our sorrow and our protest of all those killed and being killed in Vietnam, a vigil will be held on Wednesday, May 14, from 12:00-1:00 p.m. on the North Pleasant Street side of the campus pond.

Your presence is invited as an expression of your conscience. Suggestings for participants:

1) Feel free to come when you can and leave when you must
2) Stand or sit quietly
3) Please do not bring signs or placards, out of respect for the occasion and the fact that other participants may not share your exact views. A minimum number of signs will be provided by the initiating group.
4) Keep the silence until 1:00, then shake hands with and greet your nearest companion."

The above is a personal invitation to each individual to express his feelings about the great loss of life resulting from the Vietnam conflict. It is hardly too much to ask. Your presence is hardly a lot to ask - there is no commitment involved. The vigil is merely a symbol, and the only reward is personal satisfaction. It will be an hour well spent.

Kathy Biggane
Editorial Day Editor

Militancy

(Editor's note: This letter, written in response to Keith Bromery's editorial, reveals the inability of many to see the militancy we live with daily, and then over react to one incident.)

As a black student, I cannot but register my profound disagreement with the editorial by Keith Bromery, Executive Editor of the Collegian. Basically, I think the two primary points made are that (1) the use of guns is a necessary new phase in the revolution, and (2) black people should take up arms to liberate themselves from the "unfit majority."

First of all, I think Mr. Bromery's viewpoint is representative, maybe, of only a miniscule portion of the black population. Empirical evidence has shown that the so-called black militants with their rhetoric about guns and violence can command the support of only a very small percentage of the black community.

Secondly, guns, even for so-called wildlife hunters, have no place on a college campus. We could argue endlessly about the purpose or purposes of an academic community and I believe we would ultimately conclude that guns serve no useful purpose.

Although some college administrators procrastinate in dealing with black student demands, it can be said that many have taken positive steps to implement these demands. Guns on the campus will result only in repressive legislative and police actions and possible stricter control of universities and colleges by the governing authorities. The consequences of such actions should serve as food for thought.

Thirdly, it is absolutely idiotic, senseless, and downright crazy for black people to take up arms in this country to "liberate" themselves or unseat the "unfit majority." Those who engage in the fashionable rhetoric of resorting to arms are, in the final analysis, asking black people to commit suicide. With the massive force and power of the "unfit majority," black people would be crushed instanteously.

Lastly, will Mr. Bromery be the first to don the revolutionaries' paraphernalia and get his gun?

C. Vernon Gray
Graduate Student
Department of Government

Self-Styled Revolutionary

"Jump, you freak, jump!", screamed a man. A young man with long hair and a beard was standing on the ledge of the 34th floor. The young man did not seem bothered or frightened by the screams of the crowd on the ground. As a matter of fact he was extremely calm and, if you were close enough, you could see a faint smile on his lips.

A man poked his head out of a window a few feet away from the young man.

"Come on in here son. You really don't want to jump" pleaded the man.

"Yes, I do," the young man said.

The man seemed nervous and said "Why don't we talk about it, okay?"

"I'll talk about it, but only if you come out on the ledge."

The man stepped out on the ledge, making sure he was not in arm's length of the young man. The man was not at all like the young man. He had grey patches of hair on the side of his head and was dressed in a conservative suit. He looked every bit the role of the vice-president of WOD Company, which he was.

"What's wrong son? Why do you want to jump?"

"I want to jump because I'm disgusted with America. With people like you. With the way people are."

The crowd had grown to almost 50 but they could not be heard by the pair on the ledge who were engaged in a life and death struggle.

The man pressed his body closer to the wall, he was afraid of the young man's calmness and of the smirk he now had on his face. But the man proceeded.

"Why do you hate America and people like me?"

"Listen, how much money do you make?"

"Does it matter?"

"Yes it does."

"I make $70,000 a year," the man said, cutting his salary in half.

The young man looked down at the growing, screaming crowd. He turned to the man.

"That's it. Money. That's what you and all the other war-mongers are about. Money and power."

"What's wrong with making money?"

"Because it's all you care about. Do you have any kids?"

"Yes, I have two sons and two daughters."

"How much time do you spend with them?"

"Well, I really don't see them much. I go to Europe on business about five times a year and when I'm home I have to work late hours."

"Do you think that's fair to your kids?"

The man looked down at the ledge and said, "No, I guess it isn't. But I really never thought of it that way. I felt if I could provide them with a comfortable home and a nice neighborhood and good schools everything would work out fine. But you're right. I don't spend enough time with my kids.'

The young man smiled.

"Do you ever think about the injustice in America? The racism, the poverty, the patriotic fanaticism, the militarism?"

"Well, I guess I really haven't thought that much about it."

"Yeah, you think about yourself and how much money you make," the young man said.

"You know I'm beginning to see your point."

"You are really a despicable person. Someone who thinks nothing about mankind, not even about your own kids. Only about money, power and yourself."

The man was starting to sweat. He looked down at the screaming crowd and than looked at the young man. With his voice trembling he said to the young man,

"You're right. But what can I do? I'm over fifty years old and I've been with my company for over twenty years. I just can't leave it. Tell me, please, what can I do?"

The young man smiled calmly at the tortured man, then looked down at the crowd and pointed toward them.

The man pushed himself off the wall and landed with a thud.

As the young man climbed through the window he said to himself, "That's one war-monger down, 80 million to go."

On Legislation

(Editor's note: This is a copy of a letter sent to the President of the Massachusetts Senate)

Dear Senate President Donahue:

I would like to express to you my strong opposition to Representative Harrison Chadwick's proposed legislation providing for unusually harsh punitive measures to those who are found to be participants in disturbances at the state institutions of higher learning. The actual necessity for such measures appears to me to be doubtful for a number of reasons.

First of all, the students who have felt a pressing need to involve themselves actively in the affairs of the University of Massachusetts have conducted themselves in an essentially orderly and rational manner. Any student opposition to established or newly created University positions has been on a whole peaceful and reasonable, with minimal disruptive efforts and with every effort being made to attain constructive solutions. This bill would only increase the tension and make it even more difficult to deal with problems in higher education in an effective way.

Secondly, the University at present has the authorization to meet any difficulties that may arise on the campus. A logical supplement to this authorization would be the inclusion of a trespass bill. Protection of this nature has been sought after for the last two years without success; the current bill, R110, is endorsed by the Board of Higher Education.

Finally, this legislation ambiguously defines the act of "disrupting" so that it becomes a dangerous instrument for those who view college campus unrest with a less than open perspective. I fear that many innocent students will be identified as disruptors and could be punished in a very vindictive manner. For example, the other morning at 1:30 a.m. an estimated 4,000 students poured out of their dorms to parade to the center of Amherst to celebrate the Celtics NBL Championship. No one was injured and no damage was done, but many residents, aroused from sleep, were "disrupted" from their normal habits. If this punitive legislation were on the books, they could have demanded the University apply the drastic penalties provided in the bill.

In view of these facts, I sincerely hope that you will be in opposition to this measure. Your consideration of this issue is very important to the University and to our students.

Sincerely
Leo F. Redfern
Dean of Administration

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Jan Curley
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR — Kathy Biggane
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — Ray Esonis
NEWS STAFF — Lou DiMonaco

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Precisionettes

In one of its recent meetings, the University of Massachusetts Student Senate voted on the operating budget for 1969 - 1970 Precisionettes' Drill Team. The proposed budget was $5,987.00. The allotted budget: $350.00.

The money stricken from the Precisionette budget was for transportation, lodging, and registration fees: money the team needs for competition. The Senate seemed to feel that "Precisionettes, as a "special interest group" is eligible for a certain amount of support from these funds.

The reasons for curtailing the team's budget were too varied to begin argument. As with many other group budget cutbacks, one of the main reasons was to cut down the S.A.T.F. for the individual student. They feel that such small groups do not benefit the entire student body.

The attitude involved here is logical (and somewhat selfish). They are asking, "Why should we subsidize activities which do not benefit us directly? Why should WE help a bunch of kids learn newspaper publishing, radio broadcasting, singing, or marching for competitions, when we're not involved at all?"

But do the Precisionettes not benefit the entire student body? The team is open to almost half the campus population: all female undergraduates. In the past academic year they have won a national second place title for UMass and two first place titles in competitions in Boston. Out of three competitions, they have placed second, first, and first!

Carried to the logical conclusion, should the S.A.T.F. disappear, what would happen to "special interest groups?" The Student Activities Tax would vanish, along with WMUA, the Collegian, the Index, Chorale, the Marching Band, and countless other societies, organizations, clubs and activities which make UMass a more interesting place in which to gain an education.

The Precisionettes' budget will soon come up for a second reading before being included in the 1970 Budget Act. Should this nationally-winning team be confined to the UMass campus because of lack of funds? The team no longer asks for its original budget request: only for enough money to allow them to continue competing for the University of Massachusetts. We request the Student Senate to reverse its decision regarding the Precisionette budget.

As members of the student body, we request that students take an interest in the action of the Senate. Every "special interest group" on campus - no matter how "essential" they imagine themselves to be at the moment - are threatened by the action the Senate has taken on the Precisionette budget.

If you support Precisionettes - or any threatened group - talk to your senator. He (or she) is there as your representative. It is, ultimately, the student body who is responsible for the action of the Senate.

Should the Precisionettes HAVE to be restricted to campus next year, we regret it; but we are also proud to have had the chance to serve the campus community and spread a winning name for the University of Massachusetts in our short three years of competition.

Regina Shepard
Commanding Officer, '68-'69
Suzan Bradford
Commanding Officer, '69-70
Precisionettes

Colonel Bohnak to Retire After 27 Years in Army

By RICHARD LANE
Senior Reporter

"My greatest satisfaction over the past four years has come from the personal relationships that I have shared with the cadets in the program. They are the best in the business."

These are the words of Col. Joseph A Bohnak. For 27 years he has served the United States Army as an infantry officer seeing action in World War II and Korea. And since the fall of 1965, Bohnak has been the Professor of Military Science for the UMass Army ROTC program.

This August Col. Bohnak will retire from active service. And to find out just what his thoughts are in a number of areas as he prepares to leave, the DAILY COLLEGIAN conducted the following interview with him.

Col. Bohnak states first of all that after spending most of his life with the Army he felt "sad" to leave. "I would like to continue in the U. S. Army as long as the service would have me," he continued.

Bohnak did say, however, that he is retiring because he has been a colonel for five years and due in part to age (over 50) does not think he is "promotable." Thus the PMS calls his retirement a "graceful departure."

As Professor of Military Science at the University of Massachusetts Col Bohnak said he felt "honored" about receiving the job because the school is "very selective" in the professors it does choose. The colonel is a ROTC product himself and graduate of the University of Kentucky with a B.A.

When Bohnak first came in 1965 he recalled that he found a "good unit" which he didn't feel required "remedial action" as such. The PMS did discover that UMass ROTC grads were in the bottom one-third (1/3) of their branch schools, a statistic he hoped to change while here, and did.

In relation to this Col. Bohnak pointed out that during his term as PMS here the program has remained voluntary and selective, aiming for quality, not quantity in cadets. He also feels the program receives "good leadership" in training and instruction from the senior cadet division of the brigade, and pointed out as proof Letters of Commendation from the Army Chief of Staff. The UMass ROTC program graduates three times as many regular Army officers as the annual national average according to the Colonel.

COL. BOHNAK to retire

Regarding the ROTC controversy that has figured prominently in recent college disturbances, the Colonel stated that the course is voluntary and that "from the number enrolled there seems to be great motivation to take it."

He continued, "I am nothing more than an instrument to provide this training. I was invited by the University to supervise it here. As long as ROTC is here there will be others to take my place."

"So long as we have a country to defend or so long as we wish over collective voices to be heard in the international arena, it will be necessary to have armed forces. It follows that we must have officers, and since we get relatively few from the military academies, perhaps this is a good time to grind an axe for ROTC," he said. "It has been amply demonstrated that no other officer procurement system can compare to the ROTC program in terms of quantity and quality of the young officers it provides for the active military establishment."

Bohnak pointed to the civilian education and collegiate background that ROTC cadets have as an "insurance against our officer corps becoming a tightly-knit clique, perhaps mercenary, which is cut off from civilian values."

"I firmly hope they keep ROTC at UMass," said Col. Bohnak.

There may be some changes in the Army and Air Force programs locally in the near future, however. Col. Bohnak did indicate that for swing shirt students this summer taking ROTC there would be no uniforms required and possibly no drill, just classes. He would also recommend that this practice be continued by his successor for first semester freshmen. Col. Friedman of AFROTC has also made the same decision for his freshman cadets.

The Colonel stated his reason for this innovation as believing that the uniform conceivably "scares" some students away from the program due to the present social stigma attached to it. Under this new method freshmen would be given a chance to get used to the military program for one semester or so and then decide whether to continue with it or not.

In concluding his thoughts Col. Bohnak said that the Spring Review last Tuesday morning on the Athletic Field best represents his final thoughts. "It was the last time for me to see the men in the field. I felt very honored and proud that the ROTC units permitted me to be the reviewing officer. I still get a strong surge of emotion with the playing of the National Anthem and salute to the colors."

"I'm just sorry to leave, that's all," he finished.

SU Rooms to Stay Open Longer

The Student Union lounges and meeting rooms will remain open for student use to 3:00 a.m. on the following dates during the exam period.

Monday, May 19-20 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Tuesday, May 20-21 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Wednesday, May 21-22 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Thursday, May 22-23 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Friday, May 23-24 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Monday, May 26-27 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Tuesday, May 27-28 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.
Wednesday, May 28-29 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
Thursday, May 29-30 - 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m.

Free coffee and snacks will be served from 12 Midnight until 2:30 a.m. All other services of the Union will close at their normally scheduled times.

Volunteers from the Student Union administration, food service, and lobby counter will help man the building during the extended hours.

College Relations Director
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008
Please send me a free Sheraton Student I.D. Card:
Name:
Address:

We're holding the cards.

Get one. Rooms are now up to 20% off with a Sheraton Student I.D. How much depends on where and when you stay.

And the Student I.D. card is free to begin with. Send in the coupon. It's a good deal. And at a good place.

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns
Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns. A Worldwide Service of ITT

MAY 31st AFTER GRADUATION

STOCKBRIDGE STUDENT SENATE

will sponsor a

Reception For All Graduates, Family, Faculty, Alumni of Stockbridge, Class of "69."

Reception will be at

The Bowditch Lodge & Farley Hall

on the north side of the Stadium

SEE YOU AT THE RECEPTION

"In case of rain, it will still be at the prescribed location"

Bass to be Faculty Recital Feature

FEATURE IN FINAL FACULTY RECITAL - John D'Armand, bass, will be accompanied by John Duke, piano, in the last faculty recital this semester, at 8 p.m., Wednesday. The recital will be held in Bowker with free admission.

John D'Armand, bass, will be featured in the final UMass Department of Music Faculty Recital of the season Wednesday evening, Assisting in this event will be John Duke, pianist. The concert will take place in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m. and is open to the public without charge.

D'Armand is a native of Knoxville, Tenn. He attended the University of Virginia, University of California at Berkeley and received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Tennessee and a Bachelor of Music degree from Baldwin - Wallace College. D'Armand was a graduate assistant in opera at the University Illinois and completed his course work toward a doctorate in music at the University of Cincinnati's College-Conservatory of Music in 1968.

D'Armand's professional credits include a tour with the Robert Shaw Chorale and participation in the world premiere of a work by Hans Werner Henze with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra last season. In addition, he has performed in numerous opera, oratoria and recital programs. Since joining the music faculty of UMass in the fall of 1968, D'Armand has participated in UMass concerts, AMCOP's production of the "Man in the Moon", Smith-Amherst Chorus and Smith-Wesleyan Chorus and is bass soloist at the Old First Church in Springfield.

D'Armand's program Wednesday evening will include works by Sauget, Poulenc, Auric, Francaix, Milhaud and Richard Strauss. Following intermission works by John Duke and Mussorgsky will be heard.

Duke, who will accompany D'Armand, is one of the better known musicians in the Connecticut Valley. A noted pianist and composer, Duke recently retired as Professor of Music at Smith College, a post he held for the past forty-five years.

Philippine Dance Movie to be Shown

The Filipino Students and the International Club will present a colored movie of the Philippine "BAYANIHAN" tomorrow. There will be three showings, a matinee for children at Crocker Farm School, South Amherst, one at 7:30 p.m. and another at 9 p.m. at Mahar Auditorium.

As a film, "The Philippine "BAYANIHAN", celebrates the seasons and work of life, blending the rituals, customs and traditions of the Filipino ancestors extended down to the present generation. It will depict the primitive dances, some of which had been influenced by both the eastern and western cultures.

Proceeds of the film presentation will be donated to the "Bethany Orphanage" at Talakag, Mindanao, Philippines, through Dr. Daniel Clapp, who will rejoin the staff in August, 1969. Dr. Clapp is at present a staff physician at the UMass Infirmary.

JOTA MONCADENA (Spanish Heritage) - A formal dance originated by the Tagalog-speaking Filipinos in which the men and women wrap formal "Barong Tagalog" and "Maria Clara" respectively.

1970
Executive Council
Applications
Due May 15, 1969
Available R.S.O. Office 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

2nd ANNUAL BOOK
CLEARANCE SALE
BOOKS SOLD BY THE POUND!!
HARDBACKS — 25c pound PAPERBACKS — 50c pound
MANY NEW BOOKS ALL IN GOOD CONDITION.
Textbooks, old editions, lab manuals, novels, short stories, foreign books and many other types.
Come to our sales tables and weigh up a pound or two!! A great way to add to your personal libraries.
MAY 12 THROUGH MAY 16
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
Hours 8:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

Mount Holyoke to Admit Twelve Men In Eleven College Exchange Program

SOUTH HADLEY - Twelve males will be attending Mount Holyoke College during the next academic year, an unprecedented number in the 132-year-old history of the College. The men, along with one woman, are exchange students for either one semester or the whole academic year 1969-70 as part of the 11-college exchange program between six men's and five women's colleges in the Northeast.

Under this program students in good academic standing may apply either for a semester's or a year's residence at any one of the participating institutions. The schools include Amherst, Bowdoin, Connecticut, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wesleyan, Wheaton and Williams.

Four student s will be attending the first semester, four the second and five will remain for the entire academic year. The colleges they represent include Bowdoin, Trinity, Wesleyan, Wheaton and Williams.

Although most of the exchange involves women applying to men's institutions and vice versa, Mount Holyoke has accepted one woman from Wheaton and two Mount Holyoke students will be attending Smith and one Vassar.

In addition to these three students, Mount Holyoke's share in the exchange program includes a total of 71 women attending the six men's colleges.

Mount Holyoke students have already been participating for some time in Five-College Cooperation between Amherst, Smith and the University of Massachusetts, and will be expected to enroll at Hampshire, when it opens in the fall of 1970.

Nominations Held For Scuba Office

The SCUBA club held its nominations for new officers early this year in an attempt to facilitate reorganization of the club next fall.

Nominees for office were: President; Bill Schwabe and Tony Weiner; Vice Pres.: Dennis Magee and Don Hutchins; Secretary: Prudence Stevens, Tony Welner; Treasurer: Bob Duffield, Tom Modena and Cal Carpenter and Divemaster: Dick Seargent and Bill Schwabe. Additional nominations will be taken Wednesday after which club members will vote.

Rep. Says No Funds

"If there are organizations on a campus whose sole purpose is to destroy, they shouldn't be allowed to remain and the administration should have the guts to remove them." - Rep. William H. Harsha, (R-Ohio), urging withdrawal of federal funds from colleges that fail to put down student uprisings.

WMUA to Air Interview With Historian Brandon

Tonight at 8 p.m. WMUA's "Focus" program will re-broadcast an interview with author, lecturer, and historian William Brandon, taped last March at Woolman Hill in Deerfield. The subject of Mr. Brandon's commentary is "Violence, Non-Violence and Revolution," with references to the California grape strike.

During the subsequent live segment of the two-hour program, Ken Mosakowski will be talking to George Child of Delta Chi and Linda Zimlicki of Alpha Chi Omega about the latest phase of the Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition (D.A.M.), which is jointly sponsored by the Martin Luther King Council and the UMass Inter-Fraternity Council; the results of last week's Washington conference of the New England Student Coalition, the group which has been collecting petition signatures to call for a withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam by June 1, 1970; and the Vigil of Mourning which will take place on campus Wednesday, May 14th.

WHAT ARE WE?
A hospital founded in 1832 . . . where the basic research was done on "the pill" . . . a total health care unit for women . . . bright, cheerful rooms . . . a hospital with one of the first premature and special care nurseries in the world . . . interesting surroundings . . . a group of superior nurses, doctors and technicians . . . latest equipment . . . affiliated with Harvard Medical School . . . near MIT, BU, BC and Northeastern . . . modern facilities . . . exciting people.

What are we? We're everything a nurse could possibly want. If you think you would appreciate working in this academic atmosphere . . . if you are seeking challenges . . . if you are looking to expand your role in the medical scene . . . and if you would like to take advantage of our 100% tuition program and In-Service Program — then we should get together. For further information on BHW, please write our Personnel Department.
BHW Boston Hospital for Women
Personnel Office, Dept. 21
221 Longwood Ave.
Boston, Mass. 02115
I am a student and would like more information on BHW.
Name
Address
City State Zip

What is Senior Day (May 30th)?
It is:
A BAR-B-Q DINNER
A SOUVENIR BEER MUG
FREE BEER (FIRST TIME ON CAMPUS)
ENTERTAINMENT UNDER A TENT
Continuous From 3 p.m. to 10 p.m
All In The NORTHEAST QUAD
MAKE YOUR RESERVATION TODAY
$1 - SENIORS $3 - GUESTS OF SENIORS
STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

Notices

ROISTER-DOISTERS
Meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Commonwealth Rm. Elections will be held.

MAROON KEYS
Important meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Norfolk Rm. Attendance is required.

STUDENT HEALTH AND WELFARE COUNCIL
Meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Report on campus drug study. Planning for next year. All welcome.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting Thurs., May 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Movies and slides to be shown. Lecture "How to Crash o Picnic."

SCROLLS
Return signed petitions to Scroll mailbox 404 in RSO office by tomorrow.

PSYCHOLOGY COLLOQUIUM
Dr. Herman A. Witkin, Director, Psych. Lab., Downstate Medical Center, N.Y., will speak on "Children with Uneven Cognitive Development", today at 4:30 p.m. in Bartlett 61.

PINNINGS
Lee Sadowski, '71, Johnson, to Thomas O'Brien, '70, Butterfield.
Annebelle Blanchette, '71, Alpha Chi Omega, to Joseph Scavuzzo, '71, Beta Kappa Phi.

ENGAGEMENT
Jaquel Brandt, '68, San Francisco State, to Marvin Lehrer, '69, Northampton.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - History notebook with notes on E.A. Ross. Return to 338 Pierpont or call 6-5238.
Found - A variety of valuable items including glasses, jewelry, and books have been found throughout the year in JQA. They will be available at the lobby desk from 7 - closing time Tues. to Fri. After that, items will be disposed of.
Lost - Brown leather wallet in the S.U. Call Bill, 6-9336. Reward.
Lost - Yellow London Fog jacket. Call Bob, 6-5099.
Lost - Part of sky diver's parachute assembly - 2 small chutes tied to blue and red cloth sleeve at stadium. Call 286-8059 or return to RSO #318.

CIA Chief Sees Arms Race Forcing Disarmament

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) - The staggering costs of nuclear-weapons rivalry may force the United States and the Soviet Union into meaningful disarmament talks, Richard M. Helms, the CIA director, has suggested to American business leaders.

Helms spoke Saturday night at a closed dinner meeting of the business Council. Afterward, he refused to tell newsmen what he said. But through talks with members of the council it was learned that he made these comments:

"The future costs of adequate defense may well prove impossible for both nations to bear.

"For this reason there may be common ground for us to move ahead in the arms control race."

He was quoted as saying that North Vietnam has abandoned the idea of achieving a military victory in South Vietnam but now hopes to create a rift between the U.S. and its South Vietnamese ally at the Paris peace talks.

The North Vietnamese will seek to play up anti war sentiment in America to pressure the Nixon administration into concessions that would be unsuitable to the South, Helms said.

The CIA director was also quoted as saying that leadership in the Soviet Union is divided between older Communist party officials and a more youthful group and thus is having difficulty in deciding its future course.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Dining Commons Menu

EDITOR'S NOTE: Space does not permit us to print the complete menu. Salads, juice, soup, etc., which are served at all meals during the week are not included.)

MONDAY
Breakfast
Pancakes/Syrup
Blueberry Coffee Cake
Lunch
Hot Beef Sandwich/Gravy
Chili Con Carne w/Beans
Steamed White Rice
Whole Rosebud Beets
Buttered Cauliflower
Fudge-Nut Brownies
Dinner
Meatballs Italienne
Spaghetti Sauce
Veal Cutlets in Crumbs
Spaghetti
Tomato Sauce
Grated Cheese
Cut Green Beans
Buttered Green Peas
Orange-Coconut Cake/Orange Icing

TUESDAY
Breakfast
Fluffy Scrambled Eggs
Orange Muffins
Lunch
Ham & Swiss Cheese Sandwich (white or rye bread)
Saratoga Chips
Manhattan Meat Roll
Brown Gravy
Golden Wax Beans
Oatmeal Bars
Vanilla Pudding/Whipped Cream
Dinner
Roast Breast of Tom Turkey
Dressing
Brown Gravy
Cranberry Sauce
Fried Filet of Lemon Sole
Tartar Sauce
Fluffy Whipped Potato
Peas and Mushrooms
Buttered Leaf Spinach
Pumpkin Spice Pie

WEDNESDAY
Breakfast
Fried Eggs
Doughnuts
Lunch
Grilled Hamburger/Roll
Sliced Onions
French Fried Potatoes
Cold Salad Plate, Garni
Saratoga Chips
Tall House Cookies
Baked Apples
Dinner
Roast Fresh Ham
Gravy
Applesauce
Fluffy Whipped Potato
Beef Burgundy
Buttered Egg Noodles
Stewed Tomatoes
Fresh Broccoli/Butter Sauce
Maple Walnut Cake/Maple Icing

THURSDAY
Breakfast
French Toast/Syrup
Date Coffee Cake
Lunch
Chicken Chow Mein
Buttered Rice
Dry Noodles
Baked Texas Meatloaf/Brown Gravy
Fluffy Whipped Potato
Buttered Whole Kernel Corn
Brussels Sprouts
Cherry Crisp
Dinner
New England Boiled Dinner (cabbage, onions)
Country Steak/Mushroom Gravy
Boiled Potato
Fresh Table Carrots
Sliced Beets
Fudge Cake/Frosting

FRIDAY
Breakfast
Fluffy Omeletes
Apple Muffins
Lunch
Tuna Fish Salad Grinder
Saratoga Chips
American Chop Suey
Buttered Green Beans
Diced Carrots
Strawberry Shortcake
Dinner
Baked Eastern Halibut Steak
Maitre D'Hotel
Roast Choice Cut of Beef au Jus
Delmonico Potato
Fresh Green Peas
Cauliflower
Apple Pie

FOCUS

with KEN MOSAKOWSKI

Rebroadcast:

"VIOLENCE, NON-VIOLENCE AND REVOLUTION"

William Brandon, Author, Lecturer, Historian

also reports on:

— DRIVE TO ALLEVIATE MALNUTRITION (D.A.M.)
— CAMPAIGN IN NEWARK
— A VIGIL OF MOURNING

TONITE! 8 — 10

WMUA 91.1 FM

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 367-6174 after 6 p.m. 5-11

1968 Honda 175 cc. Scrambler, 5 speed, best offer over $400.00. Call 584-2943 evenings. 5-12

1963 VW $300, R and H, sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise excel. cond. Good for beach buggy etc. 253-2850. 5-14

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, good engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 253-5522. 5-15

1964 Austin Healey 3000, 2 new tires, overdrive, rebuilt carburetors, 6 cylinder, new carpeting, R. & H., exc. condition, guaranteed fun for the summer, $1395. Call Ron 253-3281. 5-14

WANTED

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Hollywood Press, 845 Frederick, San Francisco, California. 5-15

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA
1 female rider wanted to share expenses, leaving May 31 or June 1. Call late evening 586-1436. 5-12

Wanted — A small refrigerator, must be in working order and dependable. Call Lynn 6-0409. 5-14

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.D.W. is coming May 18
2:30 — Student Union Ballroom 5-15

Thanks a lot for your business last Tuesday. It was a pleasure to serve you. Barry's Beer Wagon. 5-12

ATTENTION: Would the driver of a black or blue Chev, license tag beginning with X84, that witnessed a truck-bicycle collision on University Dr., on Oct 3, 1968 at approx. 12:15 p.m., please call Crawford & Co., 737-5337, Mr. Apostle. 5-15

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — Male roommate to share large furnished 2½ room apt., $60 per month including all utilities and dishwasher. For summer or longer Call 665-3040 (Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 5-15

1 female roommate to share spacious apartment on Nutting Ave. for the summer, $45 per month. Call 546-8315 or 549-8501. 5-15

Wanted — Female roommate, Sept. on - $65 a month, util. inc', furnished, own room. Call 256-6651 after 5. 5-14

Wanted — Female roommate June - August, $40 month, util. inc., furnished. call 256-6851 after 5. 5-14

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6349 or 6-6350. 5-13

Female roommates wanted — luxer apartment, great for summertime. Immediate and June 1st occupancy. Fireplace, pond, 150 acres, $50.00 month. Call 467-7918 and ask for Leslie or Carol. 5-12

1 female roommate wanted to share my apt., own room, $67 mo. incls. util., summer and/or next year. If interested in only half summer call anyway. Lynn 546-8386. 5-13

Wanted: 2 males roommates to share a furnished house on Phillips St., Sept. - May, and 4 roommates for this summer. Call Bob 549-3597. 5-13

Two girls to live off campus next year or seeking to share with a girl who already has apartment Call 546-8379. 5-12

TO SHARE YOUR APT. for summer. Desire apt. in Amherst. Rent under $50. Call Dave Corbrane at 545-6329 (day) or 256-6967 after 9 p.m. 5-14

Female roommate wanted June 1 to Aug. 30 to share 2 bedroom apartment, 2 miles from Campus. Rent $50 month. Call Jan 253-2265 5-12

Summer roommates wanted — beautiful apt. only 3 miles from Campus. Taking loss. Call Joe at 121 Wheeler 545-2412. 5-11

Two girls to share furnished 5 room apartment next year. Class '70 preferred — $35 per month plus utilities. Nutting Ave. Call 549-0416. 5-12

WANTED TO RENT

$15.00 reward for information leading to selection of a 1 bdrm. apartment for fall (max. $90/mo. including utilities). Will also consider large house for reasonable price. Call 549-1457. 5-15

PERSONAL

Belchertown Bust — Money needed for legal fees for Chandler House. Please send donations to 2009 Coolidge. 5-12

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR
Soph. or older, fine Maine girls camp. Call 253-9501 5-15

BABYSITTER — Student to babysit for two roommates Thursday aft. 1-4 own transportation. Call 549-1290. 5-15

MOTHER'S HELPER — Need a job and room in Amherst for summer? We will share our home in woods (4 mi. from Univ.) with mature, reliable, female student. Complete room and board plus salary in return for services. Transportation to Campus can be arranged. For details phone 549-0309. 5-15

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, UM 09, 665-3767. TF

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service, Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lana's Photo, 253 Main Street, Amherst. Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $5.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-0446 or 584-0118. 5-16

FOR SALE

1 set of Rogers Drums, 4 pc. Zildjian Cymbals, Traps Case and Nanquhide Carry Cases and all accessories, originally $750, asking $350, 546-7017. 5-12

1 Yrtridge Dirt Bomber, 1 yr. old; 2 sets of skis, poles, and boots. Price is negotiable. Call 545-7409. 5-12

1967 Indian Chief Motorcycle 1256 cc. has to be put together, newly painted, chopped fenders, tanks, headlight, chrome rims, brake, clutch assembly, forks, hishrise bars, 3 sp. tankshift and parts of engine, plus 2 cc. engines, and parts $400.00. Call 5-5274 ask for Curt Bellavance or see me at Grad Print Making Office, Bartlett Hall. 5-12

Canonflex 35 mm. camera SLR with F1.2 lens, perfect condition, phone 549-3500 after 7. Leave name and phone. 5-12

One Encyclopedia Americana, excellent condition, 1966 edition, 30 volume set, $135.00. Call 546-9124. 5-12

Facts (or Indiv.) package sale from 1955 Plym. Power "6", new carburetor, battery, generator, muffler, 7 tires, all for $60. Info. call Mike 6-8897 bet. 7 - 11. 5-13

MUST SELL
Portable stereo tape cartridge player, 6 mos. old, ten current tapes, cleaner cartridge, year supply of batteries, battery recharger, all for just $80 or best offer. Perfect for home or outdoor fun. Runs on electric current too. Great sound for a small machine. Call Bob before 9 p.m. 545-1774 or 546-7018 on Campus. 5-13

Dark brown natural hair fall, never used, sacrifice. 584-0042 after 5. 5-13

AKAI SP-120 Speakers, excellent condition, 10½ in. woofer, 3½ in. tweeters, were $130, asking $80 for pair. Call Dick Garman 218 545-6452. 5-15

FOR RENT

Summer Students — 5 room furnished apt., Hadley, 4 students, June - Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Summer Students — 4 room furnished apt., Hadley, 3-4 students, available June-Aug. Call 586-0418. 5-12

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-6676. 5-16

5 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 - Sept 1. In center of Amherst, over C & C Package Store, $135 month, including utilities. Call 253-7566. 5-12

1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $150, with utilities, available June 1. Call 256-6252. 5-13

6 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept 1, Phillips St. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8011 or 546-8031 anytime. 5-13

Please — summer sub-let 2 bedroom apt., furnished for 3 people, $140/mo., all utilities included. 1½ miles to Campus, easy thumb. Call 253-6946 anytime. 5-13

One furnished room for rent, 3 miles from U.M. for summer semester, $45 a month. Kitchen privilege if desired. Call 549-3764. 5-13

2½ room apt., dishwasher, utilities incl., $130. Begin June 1st. Call 665-4449. 5-15

Unfurnished, Colonial Village, 2 bedrooms to sublet from June 1 to August 31 or lease for 1 yr. Call Joan 253-7629. 5-17

Apt. to sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, 7 min. away, Rt. 116, Amherst-Sunderland border, 4 rooms furnished; 2 bedrooms, T.V., $120/mo. Call Jaqice, Rm 472 at 5-5362 or 5362. 5-14

Apt. to sublet from June 1 to August 31. Seven rooms, completely furnished, ideal for 4 or 5 people. Three miles from Campus. Garage space available. Call Ken, 549-0236. 5-14

Modern 2 bedroom apt. furnished, swimming pool, air conditioned if desired, sublet until Sept. or sign one year lease, $145 including all utilities. Call 665-3073. 5-15

To sublet June - Sept. — room for 5. Family room, living room, 2 baths and kitchen, modern facilities. Close to Campus $700 mo. Call Peezy or Marilyn 545-2735, 253-9215. 5-14

Summer sublet — 3½ room apartment, University Park, unfurnished, $137.50 reduced to $110.00, utilities included. Call 256-8005. 5-14

House to sublet from June 1 to Sept. 1, 7 large rooms, 4 bedrooms, in wooded country area and only 12 minutes from Campus. Call John 253-3821. 5-12

Vacant: Air conditioned 1 room apartment at Crestview Apts, near campus. Rent $130. Call 549-1391. 5-14

Rent for year or summer sublet, 2 bedroom apt. fully furnished, air conditioned, all utilities included, close to campus. Call 545-0181 5-7 p.m. 5-13

2 bedrm. apt. utilities. Option for Sept. $137. Call 256-6087 June 1 - Sept. 1. 5-15

Summer sublet — new house in No. Amherst, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, full cellar and 4 car garage, plus front and back yard, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus. Call Dave, Jeff or Joe at 253-2064 after 6. 5-14

Large 4 bedroom house, furnished, 2 miles from campus, in South Amherst, fits 6 comfortable, from June to Sept. Most sublet, will talk price. Call Bill Amanti or Tom Krok 545-2150 or 256-6346. 5-13

Are you going to summer school? Do you need a place to live? Well, we have it. A house, only 5 minutes from Campus, 7 rooms, 4 bedrooms. Rent: $175 a month, available from June 1 to Sept 1 — call 546-5647 or 546-5652. 5-15

2 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, Colonial Village, 2 mi. to UMass., $136 per. Call 253-9435. 5-15

Remodeled 6-room house in Northampton, $200/mo. Shibbski, Realtors, Tel. JU 5-3428. 5-15

Colonial Village Apt. No. 96, for rent, or sublet, 2 bedrooms, available June 1, call 256-8734 or 253-2515. 5-15

Track Team Places Second to B.C. in Triangular Meet

By DAVE EVANS
Staff Reporter

Boston College was paced to a triangular meet victory over U-Mass and Syracuse at Rider Field on the Heights Saturday by Hal Krause and Dan Burke. These two B.C. stars accounted for 26 of their teams 78 points. UMass was second with 61 and Syracuse third with 45 points.

The Redmen, getting caught on a down day by a strong, well balanced B.C. team, could only manage to win three events, the two mile by Paul Hoss, which featured a UM sweep of the event, the 120 yard high hurdles, and the high jump. Following Hoss in the two mile were Charlie Lang, Ron Wayne in third and Leo Duart in fourth. Hoss also was second in the mile.

The Redmen took 1 - 2 in both the hurdles and high jump. Jerry Spellman just edged out teammate Marc Lefever in the 120 Highs. Spellman later came back to take fourth in the 440 yard intermediate hurdles and ran the lead-off leg in the mile relay. Leading the high jumpers were UMass' Cal Carpenter in first and Senior John Ariensen placing second. The winning height of 6' is well below the seasons best of both men.

Picking up points as usual in the sprints was junior Dave Marble as he took second in the 100 and third in the 220 yard dashes. Walt Mayo was not able to make the meet, and UMass' other sprinter Steve Chase was switched to the 440. Chase led for most of the race but faded coming up the final stretch. Top Redmen quarter miler Bob Hasselbaum could only manage second place in the slow time of 50.2.

Also having their problems Saturday were the field men for U-Mass. In the long and triple jumps the boys from Amherst could only manage to pick up a third and fourth. Rip Dyer accounted for the third in the long jump, and Dave Canterbury, while jumping a fine 44'6" in the triple could only capture a fourth as he ran up against some tough competition. Senior Dave Schlatka was beaten in the Discus for the third straight meet. Hopefully he will be able to straighten out his problems before the New Englands. In third place for the Redmen was Dave Baker.

Bill Wilen and Ed Arcaro took second and third in the Hammer throw, and then came back to take third and fourth in the Shot Put. The presence of a healthy Arcaro in the N.E. Championships would be a big boost to this team. He has been bothered most of the season by an injured neck and shoulder.

Also injured, but expected to return to action soon is javelin thrower Bill Mahoney. Mahoney did not compete against B.C., but filling in well for him was another Sophomore, Dana Robertson, who took third with a throw of 176'.

In Freshman action, the order of finish was the same as the varsity meet, with B.C. just edging the UMass frosh 67 to 64 and Syracuse 50. Winners for the little redmen were Al Mangan in the mile and Dave Annis in the 100 yard dash, Sprinter Ron Harris had two seconds to his credit, the 100 and the 220 yard dashes.

The next meet for the varsity squad takes place next Saturday afternoon at Connecticut. Then the season is wound up on May 30th and 31st when the Redmen travel to New Jersey for the annual I.C. 4. A. encounter.

Frosh Stickmen Outscore Amherst, 9-1

By BARRY RUBENSTEIN
Staff Reporter

Jumping off to a quick 5-0 lead, the UMass freshmen lacrosse team rolled over Amherst here Saturday, 9 - 1. Coach Bill Carroll's Redmen won their third in a row and fifth in six games as they featured strong defense and opportunistic offense. The game was all UMass as the frosh scored three goals in the first 1:28 and from then on it was no contest.

Picking up where they left off against UConn, the Little Redmen scored on their first two shots on goal. Leading scorer Pete Anzalone wasted little time in recording his first goal of three after only 25 seconds of play. Middie Paul Schacter came right back with another at 0:44 and before Amherst could work up a sweat they were down 2 - 0. Paul Ritch picked up two goals in the period, both after assists from Anzalone, and Al Alessi got one giving the frosh five for the period. Peters of Amherst got a score in the last minute of the period cutting the margin to 5 - 1. However, that was to be the only scoring that Amherst would do all day.

Anzalone combined with Alessi for the only score of the second period. The same combination clicked again to open the third period with Anzalone getting his third marker of the contest. Schacter also scored in the quarter and the stickmen left the field with a comfortable 8 - 1 lead. The only score of the fourth period resulted when Ritch took a pass from John Walsh, a defenseman, who had stolen the ball and raced down field with it. It was Walsh's first point of the season. UMass held on for the last minute and the game ended, 9 - 1.

Bruce Crawford and Ron Dumont split the net minding duties for the stickmen. Both played superbly, especially Crawford who was seeing his first action since suffering a shoulder injury against Brown. Coach Carroll moved Alessi to attack for the first time this season and it payed off as Alessi scored a goal and assisted on two others. Walsh became the second defenseman this season to get an assist for the Little Redmen as Mike Cosgrove did it against U-Conn. The frosh round out their season on Wednesday with an encounter with Harvard at Cambridge.

Amazing Sox Win 8 in Row

ANAHEIM (AP) - Rico Petrocelli drove in four runs with his ninth and 10th homers Sunday as the Boston Red Sox pounded the California Angels 7 - 3, extending their winning streak to eight games.

Petrocelli capped three-run bursts in the fourth and sixth innings with blasts over the left field wall, helping right-hander Sonny Siebert square his pitching record at 3 - 3.

Russ Gibson tagged loser Rudy May, 1-3, for a bases-empty homer in the second inning.

Carl Yastrzemski's single, a walk and errors by May and center fielder Jay Johnston on an attempted pickoff at second produced a fourth-inning run before Petrocelli slugged his first homer.

Yastrzemski led off the sixth with a double, took third on a throwing error by Johnstone and scored on Reggie Smith's squeeze bunt. Smith was out stealing, but Gibson singled and Petrocelli hit another two-run homer, giving Boston a 7-0 lead.

Rick Reichardt's double keyed a two-run sixth for the Angels and Jim Fregosi homered in the eighth before Siebert gave way to reliever Vicente Romo, who finished up.

Beman Victor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Little Deane Beman rammed in a 20-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole and won a sudden-death playoff with disappointed veteran Jack McGowan Sunday in the $100,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Beman, a pro only since 1967 and a former U.S. and British Amateur champion, overhauled the slight, stooped McGowan with a course record - matching 65 for 274, 10 under par on the 7,138-yard, par 71 Pecan Valley Country Club course.

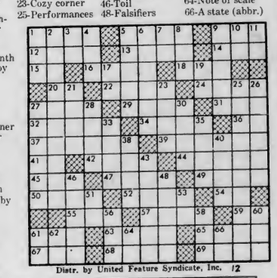
McGowan, 38, a pro since 1951 and long-time also-ran, suffered a crushing defeat. He had a 6-stroke lead going to the final hole of regulation play - then missed an 18-inch par putt that would have nailed down his biggest payday ever.

Beman, a 150-pounder sporting long-dark sideburns, wouldn't be denied. He was in the clubhouse with his closing 65 when McGowan missed the put that would have won it.

They went to a sudden - death playoff immediately.

McGowan, who had won only $5,004 in official money this year going into the tournament, put his second shot through the green and crowd, then made a magnificent chip back to within two feet and sank for par.

FUN WORKING IN EUROPE

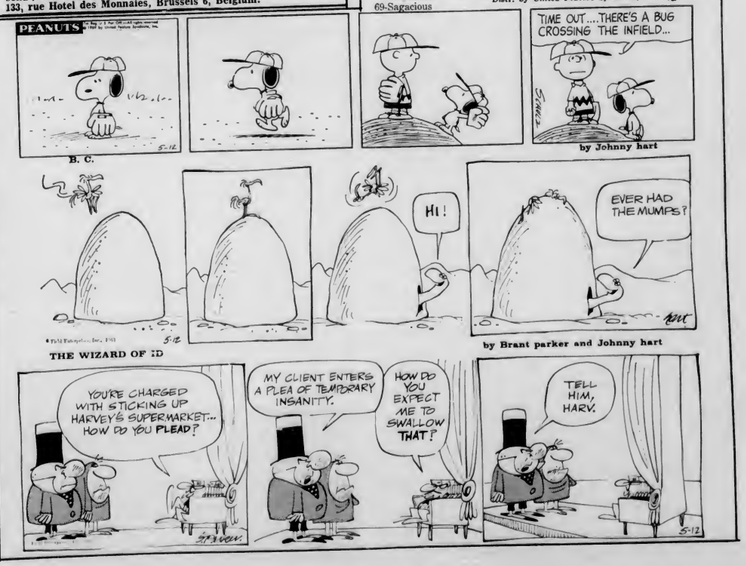


GUARANTEED JOBS ABROAD! Get paid, travel, meet people. Summer and year 'round jobs for young people 17 to 40. For illustrated magazine with complete details and applications send $1.00 to The International Student Information Service (ISIS), 133, rue Hotel des Monnales, Brussels 6, Belgium.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	T	E		T	E		S	L	A	P	S
C	A	M	E	R		E	R	I	E	R
T	I		A	R	R	A	N	G	E		R	A
	L	A		N	O	R	A		S	A	I	D
M	O	U	S	E		R	A	T	I	S		S	A	I
E	R	A	S	E		L	O	T	S		L	O
		S	N	I	P		R	E	T	S
T	S		E	R	R	S		M	I	T	E	R
E	A	T		E	L	S		R	A	D	E
E	T	N	A		S	A	I	L		G	A
T	R		T	R	E	M	O	R	S		S	A
H	A	S	T	E	N		P	O	N	G	E
P	O	S	I	T		E	T		A	D	S



1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14
15 16 17 18 19
20 21 22 23 24 25 26
27 28 29 30 31
32 33 34 35 36
37 38 39 40
41 42 43 44
45 46 47 48 49
50 51 52 53 54
55 56 57 58 59 60
61 62 63 64 65 66
67 68 69

1-Aims box
5-Mine entrance
9-Parcel of land
12-Peruse
13-Rockfish
14-Fuss
15-Printer's measure
16-Profound
18-Soft food
20-Exclamation
22-Solar disk
24-Slave
27-Region
29-Man's name
31-Confederate general
32-Art
34-Performs
36-A continent (abbr.)
37-Pale reddish-yellow color
39-Mixes, as dough
41-Hebrew month
42-Time gone by
44-Implied
45-Sick
47-Narrate
49-Soaks
50-Thin
52-Metal fastener
54-Spanish for "yes"
55-Wager
57-Caudal appendage
59-Preposition
61-Time gone by
63-River in Germany
65-Sea eagle
67-Rocky hill
68-Seed containers
69-Sagacious

1-Exist
2-Extraordinary
3-Symbol for calcium
4-Total
5-Rugged mountain crest
6-Rely on
7-Preposition
8-Hit lightly
9-Part of jacket
10-Hypothetical force
11-Preposition
17-Babylonian deity
19-Conjunction
21-German greeting
23-Cozy corner
25-Performances
26-Sumptuous meals
27-Attack
28-Partner
30-Dispatched
33-Booty
35-Scorch
38-Singing bird
40-High cards
43-Puffed up
46-Toil
48-Falsifiers
51-Compass point
53-Chinese mile
56-Uppermost party
58-Man's nickname
60-Toll
61-Preposition
62-Proceed
64-Note of scale
66-A state (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 12

12 1 2 MAY

Varsity Nine Whip UNH, Clinch Tie for Yankee Conf.

Anderson's Record 7-0, DiSarcina Clouts Pair

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

DURHAM, N.H. - UMass slugged it's way past New Hampshire, 13-8, here Saturday thereby at least clinching a tie for the Yankee Conference crown. Co-Capt. Joey Di Sarcina led the hitting attack with two home runs and four r.b.i.'s.

The Redmen finished up their league season with a 9-1 mark, the best ever in UMass baseball history. Maine, at 3-1, will have to win all six of it's remaining conference games to tie Coach Bergquist' s nine. If the Black Bears falter once, the Redmen immediately become the first club to gain a berth in the New England (District One) Regionals.

A solo homer by DiSarcina got the UMass attack rolling in the first. A good wind blowing out to left carried the ball just over the fence, 350 feet away. It was the first round tripper of the season for the senior shortstop and kept alive his eleven game hitting streak.

The visitors scored once more in that frame when Bob Hansen was nicked by a pitch, advanced to second on an infield groundout, and scored on a line single to left by Dick Pepin.

In the bottom of the first, UMass starter Don Anderson, who picked up the win to up his record to an unblemished 7-0, struck out three Wildcat batters. An inning later, the sophomore right hander struck out the side, baffling New Hampshire with a smooth mixture of curves and fastballs.

Pepin's second single of the day, and a Mitch Salnick triple gave the Redmen another run in the top of the third, but UNH scored a tainted tally in the bottom of that frame to close the gap to 3-1.

After a walk to Anderson and a single by Ray Ellerbrook in the fourth, DiSarcina unloaded a shot to left center which was labeled homer all the way. The high towering blast cleared the fence easily and bounced off a road over 400 feet from home plate.

New Hampshire came storming back in the last of the fourth, however, and threatened to tie up the contest. A walk and an infield error put runners on first and second with no outs. UMass picked up a force out at third on a grounder to short, but Tom Tellier dropped a bunt which died up the first base line to load the bases.

Anderson came back to strike out Dave Sullivan, but relief pitcher John Mason singled to left, plating two. A walk to Jack Kenney then loaded the bags. Bob Hodsdon ripped a screeching liner to deep center. UMass centerfielder Salnick raced back to make a spectacular over the shoulder catch which saved at least three runs and possibly an inside - the - park grandslam.

UNH tallied twice more in the fifth as Anderson began to tire, but 6-5 was the closest they managed to come. The Redmen exploded for seven in the sixth.

Ten men went up to the plate. Hansen started if off with a single to left center. Chinappi walked and Pepin rapped a wicked double to left, scoring one. Salnick's baseknock accounted for two more, and two outs later, Anderson helped himself with an r.b.i. single. Walks to Ellerbrook and DiSarcina filled the bags and Hansen cappedoff the seven run outburst with a double that cleared the bases.

The uprising ended when Bob Weston grounded out to third.

Elliott finished up strongly, preserving the victory for Anderson. The senior relief ace struck out two UNH batters in each of the last three innings while allowing only one hit, another pop single.

The Wildcats knocked Anderson

JOE DISARCINA was the batting hero as he belted two homers and collected four r.b.i.'s.

out of the box in the sixth. Sullivan doubled, pinch hitter Chuck Nolet singled, and Kenney doubled scoring one, but Nolet was cut down rounding third. Norm Elliot then came on in favor of Anderson who left with nine strikeouts.

After an outfield fly, a hit batsman and a bloop single produced two more New Hampshire runs.

DUGOUT CHATTER - Maine defeated Rhode Island 7-3 and 12-5 Saturday at Orono, so the Redmen are still waiting to be crowned Yankee Conference Champions . The Black Bears at 3-1 play New Hampshire today and tomorrow and travel to UConn next weekend . . . Hansen continues to lead the club in hitting with a .361 average. Pepin and Salnick follow at .329 with Di Sarcina just one point behind the outfielders . . . Boston University with a 14-3 record is a cinch for a berth in the regionals. Why not UMass versus B.U. in Fenway, best of three, to determine New England's representative at the College World Series in Omaha?

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

TOM MALONE nets one of his two goals as the Redmen won No. 9 against Amherst, 7-2. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Stickmen Still Unbeaten, Crush Amherst

By WALT STACHURA
Senior Reporter

Two goals by Tom Malone sparked a third quarter UMass rally as they came from behind after being down at halftime to beat the Amherst Lord Jeffs 7-2 Saturday at Alumni Stadium before over two thousand fans.

After falling behind 2-1 in the first quarter, the Redmen were unable to break through a strong Amherst defense until Malone fired a 15 footer from the right side after a Kevin O'Connor pass had set him up.

Malone scored what proved to be the game winner two minutes later when he picked up a rebound of his first shot and drilled a high, hard shot over Amherst goalie Cedric Cranch's shoulder.

With a little under a minute to go in the third quarter, Gary Vassar gave the Redmen a two goal bulge when he converted a fast break and had a n empty net to shoot at after a cross goal pass by Malone.

Momentum was on the side of the Redmen going into the final quarter and they scored a goal less than a minute into the quarter as Vassar stole a pass and set up O'Connor in front who scored on a low shot.

The sixth UMass goal was scored by Vassar unassisted as he picked up a loose ball in the Amherst zone and lobbed a shot over the goalie's shoulder.

O'Connor finished the scoring for the day with a short shot after Malone fed a perfect pass to the cutting O'Connor in front.

The Redmen appeared to be tight and over anxious in the first quarter as they fell behind, 2-1. O' Connor got UMas. off to a good start when he made a steal and bounced a shot past Cranch.

Randy Bollinger scored the first of Amherst's two goals unassisted on a bouncer after the Lord Jeffs had pressed the offense for over a minute.

Bollinger gave the Lord Jeffs the lead a minute later as he slipped around the corner of the ne t and fired the ball over UMass goalie Mark Schiossberg's shoulder.

The Jeffs tried to sit on the lead by playing a cautious offense, holding the ball outside the UMass defense waiting for the good shot.

In the second quarter, the Redmen started to loosen up and dominated the play. However, they were unable to crack the tough Amherst zone defense and were forced to take most of their shots from well outside. The shots that did go through were stopped by Cranch, who had 11 saves in the first half.

UMass coach Dick Garber felt that his team was tense and tight in the first half but played their regular running, wide open game in the second half. Garber added that the tight defense bothered the UMass attack in the first half but they adjusted to it in the second half.

Goalie Mark Schlossberg credited his defense for keeping the Lord Jeffs in check. He singled out defenseman Billy Devore, Tom Tufts and Al Ruggliano, who came in during the middle of the season to replace the injured Roy Condon.

Senior attackman Kevin O'Connor said that the UMass passing was the big factor in the second half splurge. The Redmen made quick passes around the horn until they found the opening in the zone defense for the quick open shot.

The win was the ninth in a row for the unbeaten Redmen and set up a big battle with MIT in their final game of the season Tuesday. The Engineers have an 11-1 record with their only loss to Harvard and are tied with UMass for the top spot in New England. The winner of Tuesday's game in Cambridge will be the New England champion and the winner of the Taylor Cup.

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 11

UMass Crew Club Wins Fourth Place Honors Out of 35 Schools at Dad Vail Regatta

By JAN CURLEY
Assistant Managing Editor

The UMass crew club finished fourth overall at the 31st Annual Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia over the weekend. In overall points, Georgetown was first with 17, Trinity second with 15, Marlett a third with 13 and UMass in fourth with 7. There were 78 crews representing 35 schools at the Vail.

All three UMass boats won their heats on Friday afternoon. The varsity crew, which had some rough going in the beginning, beat a seeded LaSalle boat by threequarters of a length. The junior varsity crew also won their heat by beating Virginia by two lengths. Amherst College, which had beaten UMass in a practice dash trailed UMass by 18 seconds.

The frosh won their race by coming from two lengths behind to trim Drexel Institute of Philadelphia to avenge an early season loss.

Saturday morning started out dismally as the frosh failed to qualify for the finals finishing fourth, but only the first three boats qualified. UMass experienced some difficulty with a strong headwind for the entire course.

Frosh coach Kurt Betchick said, "This was the first bad race of the year and it came at a most inopportune time."

The frosh bounced back Saturday afternoon and raced for place pushing a heavily favored St. Joseph's to the wire and losing by only one second. This netted them an eighth place finish out of 20 boats.

The junior varsity crew suffered almost the same fate as the frosh. Rowing in sixth place early in the race, they were still in fifth place, six seconds behind the leader LaSalle with only five to go.

The jayvees made their move then, passing three crews, upping their stroke to 40 a minute to finish second and qualify for the finals . LaSalle was the winner and Wayne State (Detroit), trailing with Amherst, Wesleyan and George Washington University behind.

In the afternoon, UMass drew a bad lane and they stayed in fifth place for most of the race. Led by senior stroke Wendell Frost, the jayvees upped their stroke to 40 a minute to almost catch third place Georgetown and fourth place LaSalle. Marietta of Ohio and Trinity (Hartford) finished one-two about two lengths out on the path.

"We were extremely happy about the fifth place finish," said Varsity Coach Mike Faherty. "We had four first year men in the boat and the crew couldn't quite maintain the pace against the more experienced boats."

The varsity race got off to a false start and had to be called back, but UMass was first of the line at 46. The second start was not as good. UMass was in sixth place with 1000 meters to go and six seconds behind the leader. They were rowing poorly at 37 and dropped to 35. UMass then sprinted at 38 and made up the difference finishing second.

George Washington, which had previously beaten UMass, won, but the UMass club only trailed by twotenths of a second. Worcester Polytech was in third followed by Notre Dame, Purdue and Drexel.

Faherty said, "The fact we had beaten four of the boats earlier in the year didn't help our attitude. We may have been a little too cocky, but our sprint is not to be denied."

The final race was expected to be a two-boat race with the favored St. Joseph's challenged by Georgetown. Trinity, UMass, East Carolina and George Washington were expected to fight it out for third place.

Georgetown broke first followed by St. Joes with the other four boats trailing. UMass assumed an early sixth place position. With 1000 meters to go, UMass moved by George Washington and East Carolina and began to threaten Trinity. Georgetown had opened a good lead on St. Joseph's. UMass continued to move on Trinity and East Carolina and GW waged a battle further back.

The finish found Georgetown holding off St. Joseph's, Trinity holding off a fast closing UMass and GW staving off a desparate East Carolina boat. The race was held down by a strong 15 mile an hour headwind.

The finishing times for the varsity were: Georgetown, 6:19, St. Joseph's 6:21; Trinity, 6:27; UMass 6:30, GW, 6:40 and East Carolina, 6:42.

Faherty has been hired as crew coach for next year. About the varsity race in the Vail, he said, "This is the best showing ever. We've made tremendous progress this year. In each race we came from behind which exemplifies the great spirit of the entire club." Faherty went on to say, "This is the greatest bunch of men I have ever worked with and with only two seniors, Junior varsity stroke Wendall Frost and number four jayvee Glenn Chaple, things look even better for next year."

ROTC, CCEBS, Role of University Topics of Late Night Union Debate

By RICHARD LANE
Senior Reporter

A ninety-minute speech by Yippie leader Jerry Rubin touched off an unprecedented night-long discussion of issues in the Student Union by several hundred UMass students, following a half-hour occupation of the school's ROTC building by approximately 100 students Monday night.

Sixteen proposals were made by two students during the night's discussion.

1. Programs for people in Amherst.
2. University subsidy of town for city income tax.
3. School open nights for community education.
4. Community and faculty donate teaching time.
5. Public corporation for providing cheap housing.
6. Free admission for all high school students within 15 mile radius area of Amherst.
7. Free administration of kids of staff and employee members.
8. City graduate income tax.
9. Public transportation to hill country on regular basis.
10. Spend summer organizing to open all University files for research.
11. Coop book store.
12. ROTC off campus.
13. Student representation on board of trustees and workers and employers also.
14. House autonomy.
15. Restoration of funds.
16. University to make a statement to Commonwealth that can't accept freshman class until budget restored in full.

Graduat e student of CCEBS Jeff Margolis stated that the goals were initiated to involve the whole University community in discussion. The proposals will be worked on further in the Colonial Room at 8:00 tonight.

Meanwhile, a group of other students drew up two other demands, stating:

We the undersigned feel that there were two demands that were made tonight which should be acted upon immediately. They are both viable and necessary before any other significant change can be effected.

1. That all university files and records be made available to any students for research purposes.
2. That the university publically announce that it can not in good conscience admit the freshman class next September unless the legislature restores the original budget in full.

They ask interested students to contact Terry Tirrel (546-5404) or John Gerard.

The students left the Union for Dickinson Hall in an original show of support for the CCEBS program (Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students), after hearing Rubin address them with such remarks as "I am waiting for the day when UMass will be on the map."

Upon their arrival at Dickinson, the students entered the building through front and rear doors and proceeded to roam about the hall. Students took down posters and signs and wrote "CCEBS stays - ROTC goes, liberated area" on the blackboards, then the 100 all filed into room 109.

At this point the group, with faculty member Bart Kaplan serving as moderator became involved in a lengthy debate as to just what the issues of their takeover should be and just how long they should remain there.

One student stated that, "We are here to dramatize our feeling against the budget."

SDS member Mike Minsky stated that, "We're here for a variety of reasons with various ramifications."

Black administrator John Childs explained, "Politically we stand to lose more by remaining here than by leaving."

Thirty minute s after originally entering the building the group somewhat confusedly decided to leave and head for the Student Union building again to carry on discussion. Such issues as CCEBS, ROTC, the budget cut by legislators, etc. were debated back and forth.

Four policemen and one cruiser were outside the back of Dickinson but stayed there for the remainder of the occupation. 25 students remained outside the ROTC building after the occupation.

Yippie leader Rubin left the campus shortly after his speech and was not present for the Dickinson march.

In his address to a capacity filled Ballroom the radical leader said that he was here to "tell you what's on my mind," and hoped that his purpose was to get students to "Continue to do what we're doing today," in relation to the "revolution."

Introduced by Martin Bloom of liberation news service as "a very exciting and brave person,' Rubin made repeated remarks about the American educational system. "School is a rat race," and "There will be no school system in America in two years," said Rubin.

Of Vietnam Rubin stated that "The old sent the young to die for the old," and "youth is expendable," to those in power.

Focusing finally on the question of the role of youth in America today the Yippie leader said that "We're involved in the systematic destruction of all the myths of America," and creating the "new culture" "new language."

He concluded by asserting: "You are guilty if you are black, if you look different, if you stand up and say 'I am going to do what I want to do because I am a man."

Famed Yippie Leader Jerry Rubin spoke in the Student Union Ballroom last night.

Warren Informed on Fortas; Justice's Future Cloudy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell confirmed Monday that he gave Chief Justice Earl Warren secret government information on the affairs of Justice Abe Fortas.

That was the only solid development in a day abounding with rumors - and counterrumors - that Fortas plans to resign in face of vague reports of new disclosures and clamor that he bare all of his out-of-court financial activity.

The justice himself maintained the silence that he adopted soon after his latest trouble erupted.

He issued a statement immediately after Life magazine said that he accepted a $20,000 payment from a charitable foundation set up by the family of financier Louis Wolfson, now in jail on securities law violations. The article said the fee was returned but not until 11 months after its receipt.

In his statement Fortas acknowledged that a fee was proffered and returned but he did not say what sum was involved or how long the money was kept. He did deny any impropriety, said he never had used his influence as a judge in Wolfson's behalf and noted he disqualified himself when matters affecting Wolfson were before the court.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 138 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1969

Budget Crisis will be Topic for a 'Day of Dialogue'

Students Strongly Urged To Attend Convocation

The financial crisis facing Mass. higher education will be the topic of today's 10 a.m. Convocation of the "Day of Dialogue". Representatives of most of the other 28 public higher educational institutions will join UMass students at this event, to learn why the budget cuts were made, what effects these cuts will have, and what is being done.

The list of speakers will include; Seymour Shapiro, Acting-Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Bruce Balboni, President of the Student Senate, Gilbert Salk, Executive Secretary of the Martin Luther King Social Action Council, Stan Kinard, President of Afro-Am., Dave Breed, Staff Sheehan, Student Senator and organizor of the day's activities, and others.

Many serious ramifications have resulted from the current budget cuts, and these will be explored by the speakers. Also, approximately eight student efforts are in progress, all concerned with the restoration of funds to the budget. These programs will be explained by those students in charge of them.

After a one hour lunch, three discussio n sessions will run simultaneously. The topics will be (1) What has been the recent trend (in the State Government) in financing public higher education, (2) What are the ramifications of the pending public higher education budget cuts, and (3) Should any measures be taken immediately to try to rectify this present fiscal crisis.

Last Friday, President Lederle was petitioned to call off classes for today. He responded that since this was strictly a student sponsored convention, he would leave it up to the individual students and faculty to determine their degree of anticipation.

From President Lederle:

"I hope that all members of the University Community will take the opportunity to participate in these discussions."

See Editorial Page For The President's Letter

Convocation will Attempt To Define Budget Crisis

Today is a "Day of Dialogue." Students, faculty, and administrators from most of the 29 state public higher educational institutions will take part in discussions on the impending budget crisis.

To date, Governor Sargent cut 10.3 million dollars, and the Mass. House Ways and Means Committee has recommended a further 1.4 million reduction. This has been from the UMass request alone. Most of the other State public higher educational institutions have suffered more. Two of the 29 institutions will not be able to open their doors to students in the fall (including the new Med. School in Worcester) if monies are not restored to their budgets.

An intelligent assessment of existing factors is now crucial. That is the purpose of today's events. Since the "Day of Dialogue" is a responsible attempt to answer a problem with many implications, nationwide news coverage has been invited to the campus. A participatory student body in the events is esssential.

The 10 a.m. Convocation will attempt to define the present budget situation, how it came about, and what is currently being done on behalf of a restored budget.

The discussion groups will debate different aspects of the budget cuts and report about some concrete proposals.

These proposals will be solidified into a final statement at a mass-rally, plenary session. This statement will be forwarded to all news media, in an effort to reach the public and the State Government.

Due to the recent formation of this convention, little advance publicity has been given out. Other colleges have been notified however and have indicated that they will be sending delegations.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon plans a report to the nation Wednesday night "on the prospects of peace in Vietnam." But he is not expected to announce any major breakthrough in the Paris talks or any U.S. troop withdrawals.

It will be the President's first major speech on Vietnam since he took office. No time has yet been announced for the half-hour report which will be available for live television and radio broadcast.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - Launch crews Monday began counting down toward a Sunday launch for Apollo 10's giant SATURN 5 rocket as the three astronauts who will ride it into space practiced blasting off, orbiting the moon and plunging back to earth.

Tuesday, Apollo 10 pilots Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan visit the doctors for a final major physical checkup that will determine whether they are in shape for their eight-day flight expected to chart the course for America's lunar landing in July.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) - Civil rights leader Charles Evers leads the first major Negro assault on municipal political power in Mississippi Tuesday since Reconstruction days.

An estimate 175 Negro candidates for posts in some 45 municipalities are on primary and general election ballots across the state, with Negroes seeking the mayor's job in a dozen cities in addition to the all-Negro town of Mound Bayou.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Secretary of State William P. Rogers, on his way to Saigon to discuss the Viet Cong's new 10-point peace plan, warned Monday that the enemy's latest terrorist attacks against civilians in Saigon are endangering peace hopes.

"The indiscriminate and senseless killing and wounding of civilians in their homes and in the streets can only raise questions about the intentions of the other side with respect to peace," Rogers said during a refueling stop here.

PARIS (AP) - Interim President Alain Poher, a man known by very few Frenchmen two weeks ago, announced Monday he will run for president, a job nearly half the nation now thinks he is suited for, according to late polls.

The 60-year-old former Senate president will campaign as a Centrist. His toughest opponent in the June 1 elections is Georges Pompidou, former Gaullist premier and current front-runner in the public opinion soundings.

Student Teachers

FALL SEMESTER

INTERVIEWS with Amherst, Northampton, Quabbin and other school systems for intern positions.

SCHOOL OF ED. AUDITORIUM
WEDNESDAY, MAY 14 — 7:00 P.M.

Officer Candidate Training

FOR

Naval Aviation

Navy Pilot/Flight Officer interviews will be conducted by Navy representatives at the Amherst Carriage Motor Inn May 15th through 17th.

Qualifying aptitude examinations may be taken without obligation. Transportation is available on request. Call 253-9511 between 9:00 A.M. and 8:00 P.M.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

MLK-IFC Anti-Poverty Drive Will Hold Dorm Collections

The Drive to Alleviate Malnutrition (DAM), sponsored by the MLK Council and the IFC, has so far fallen disappointingly short of the previously set goal of $10,000. The last phase of the Drive will be carried out this coming Thursday with a collection throughout each of the dorms. This will be the last chance for anyone wishing to contribute either time or money to do so. Anyone interested in donating a few hours of his time Thursday night to help in the collection should contact George Child at Delta Chi, 549-0415.

All the money which is collected will be taken to Washington and delivered to Senator George McGovern, who is the Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

It will then be put to good use in fighting the severe poverty which exists in a large part of our country, especially in the South. Hopefully it will be used in Mississippi, where, according to a recent article by Robert Coles and Harry Huge in the NEW REPUBLIC, (March 12, 1969), "the median income of the county (Tunica) is $1,260 per year and the infant mortality rate if 64.5, some 3 times the national average and utterly in keeping with figures which come out of the world's poorest, most 'underdeveloped' nations." This county has a population of 16,826, (79.1% black) and "no less than $3,000 a year, and 12,370 less than $2,000. But only 1,506 people receive public assistance, and only 6,307 have been allowed to participate in the food stamp program."

What happens to the remaining thousands? They starve. But you can help, by giving generously on Thursday night. Every dollar will be greatly appreciated.

Bagpipe Band To Perform Here

The University of Massachusetts Bands' Service Societies, Tau Beta Sigma and Kappa Kappa Psi, announce the appearance of the Highlander High School Concert Band and All-Girl Bagpipe Band in concert on Friday, May 16th, at 3:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The Band, presently on tour in Massachusetts, will be the guests of the University Bands' members from Friday until Sunday while they perform in this area. The concert has been arranged to give the students from the Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, New Jersey an opportunity to perform before a collegiate audience.

The Concert Band of 108 will perform selections from the wide range of available band literature. The All-Girl Bagpipe Band, much sought after for performances and parades, will also appear. The girls have performed twice at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City. The Band appears at football games, school assemblies, parades, and winter and spring concerts in New Jersey. The entire Band also performed at the New York World's Fair.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert on Friday at 3:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Controversial Film Version Of Elmer Gantry to be Shown

The highly controversial film version of Sinclair Lewis's best-selling novel, "Elmer Gantry," will be coming to the Student Union Ballroom on Thursday, May 15, at 7 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents each. Burt Lancaster and Jean Simmons are starred in "Elmer Gantry" with Dean Jagger, Shirley Jones and Arthur Kennedy. The film is a Burt Lancaster-Richard Brooks production in Eastmancolor.

Lancaster portrays Elmer Gantry, the itinerant evangelist minister. Miss Simmons co-stars as Sister Sharon Falconer.

The set of "Elmer Gantry" was closed during the filming of the entire production, the screenplay guarded with strictest secrecy, full scripts being issued only to the principal players and top production personnel.

Lancaster and Brooks adopted the policy of secrecy just as Sinclair Lewis did when he wrote the novel in 1927.

SBA Sponsors Training Program

A business training program called BEST is being run by UMass School of Business Administration for 31 staff members of two Springfield antipoverty agencies.

BEST is Business Employment Skills Training Program, a weekly evening class lasting 40 weeks and providing 200 hours of business management training. The purpose is to train staff members of the Springfield Action Commission and the Concentrated Employment Program in the kind of business skills that will enable them to move from jobs on the public payroll to more permanent jobs in private business and industry.

The program is cosponsored by the UMass School of Business Administration, business and industrial firms of Greater Springfield, the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity and the Department of Community Affairs. Springfield business and industrial firms have agreed to provide line and staff management job opportunities for those who successfully complete the course.

Fifteen UMass professors and graduate students in the UMass school of Business Administration have volunteeered to teach and assist in the BEST Program under the auspices of the Center for Business and Economic Research Successful participants will be awarded certificates from UMass. The 200 class hours equal full semester of work by juniors and seniors on university campuses.

Suffering from tired, hot feet?

Bolles Sandal Shop is now open with a large selection of both men's and women's sandals.

BOLLES SANDAL SHOP

CLASS OF '72

TOMORROW, WEDNESDAY,

MAY 14

is the last day to apply for

CLASS EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Applications available in RSO office. If you have an opinion, express it as an active member of your class' executive council.

Mass Plenary Session Will Highlight Dialogue

The highlight of today's "Day of Dialogue" will be a mass plenary session. A final statement will be presented to the campus, as arrived at in previous discussion sessions, for a final reading before disseminating to the news media.

The meeting will begin at 4 p.m. on the lawn by the campus pond, if the weather permits. In case of rain, the meeting will be moved indoors to the ballroom in the Student Union.

The final statement will be presented to the public via the news media, and mailed directly to State Government officials.

Also, if any new course of action is deemed necessary, it will be proposed at this gathering.

A maximum turnout of the campus 13,000 students is hoped for by the students organizing the day's activities. One spokesman stated, "The impact of this final statement, and of the day's proceeding , depends entirely on the student turnout. It would be very unfortunate if only a few students show any interest in the present financial situation of their state college system. If we want the money restored to the budget, we must responsibly display our concern and try to learn what the full story is."

TODAY'S SCHEDULE
"DAY OF DIALOGUE"

10 TO 12 - Convocation (Ballroom)

1 to 3 - Discussion Sessions
1. What has been the recent trend (in the State Government) toward financing public higher education. (Worcester, Norfolk, and Plymouth rooms)

2. What are the ramifications of the pending budget cuts. (Ballroom)

3. Should any measures be taken immediately to attempt to rectify the present crisis. (Council Chambers)

4 to 6 - Mass Plenary Session (By the pond if good weather, in the ballroom if bad weather)

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

Nine o'clock tonight, faculty and students on the possibility of a three to five day "Moritorium", similar to that at Amherst, Smith, and M.I.T. to consider restructuring of University governance and academic procedures, for third week of school next fall.

HAVE YOU PICKED UP ON the BAHA'I THING?

The annual Military Ball was well-attended Saturday night in the Student Union Ballroom. (NDC photo by Dave Craig).

Harvard Committee will Investigate Possible Faculty Misconduct

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Pres. Nathan Pusey of Harvard announced Monday the appointment of a special committee of senior faculty to investigate possible misconduct by members of the teaching staff during the invasion of University and its aftermath strike.

Pusey's announcement gave no details but said the senior faculty is to collect information and establish the facts "concerning questions of possible misconduct of members of the Harvard University teaching staff at the time of the occupation of University Hall and other subsequent events."

After the seizure of the hall, which is the administrative headquarters of the university, supporters of the invaders called a strike of students.

Now — when you finish your drink, just whistle for more like in the days of yore with . . .

new whistling MUG

Authentic reproduction of glass bottom mug in lead-free pewter . . . faithfully detailed even to the slot or "whistle" on the underside of the traditional "S" shaped handle used in days of yore to summon the barmaid when the mug was empty! Capacity, 16 ounces.

$12.50

PERFECT GIFT FOR A MAN . . . TROPHY OR AWARD

ASK ABOUT OUR ENGRAVING OR ETCHING SERVICE

INTERNATIONAL PEWTER

A THE INTERNATIONAL SILVER COMPANY

WINN JEWELERS

do your contact lenses lead a clean life?

Contact lenses can be heaven . . . or hell. They may be a wonder of modern science but just the slightest bit of dirt under the lens can make them unbearable. In order to keep your contact lenses as comfortable and convenient as they were designed to be, you have to take care of them.

Until now you needed two or more separate solutions to properly prepare and maintain your contacts. You would think that caring for contacts should be as convenient as wearing them. It can be with Lensine.

Lensine is the one lens solution for complete contact lens care. Just a drop or two, before you insert your lens, coats and lubricates it allowing the lens to float more freely in the eye's fluids. That's because Lensine is an "isotonic" solution, which means that it blends with the natural fluids of the eye.

Cleaning your contacts with Lensine retards the buildup of foreign deposits on the lenses. And soaking your contacts in Lensine between wearing periods assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking case on the bottom of every bottle of Lensine.

It has been demonstrated that improper storage between wearings may result in the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and in some cases can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lensine which is sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic.

Let your contacts be the convenience they were meant to be. Get some Lensine, from the Murine Company, Inc.

FROM OUR SIDE

The UMass. Hassle

A prospective cut of $6 million in the University of Massachusetts budget has triggered a controversy and even a crisis in the state's public higher education system. At present, the controversy revolves around UMass Provost Dr. Oswald Tippo. Dr. Tippo, a highly respected educational administrator has tendered his resignation, citing as a reason the lack of financial support by the legislature.

As in most controversies, there's merit to the arguments on both sides. On the one hand, there's the legislature which in the past few years has been generous with the state's largest public university. Since 1965, for instance, capital outlays totaling over $130 million have been authorized by the lawmakers. This, in combination with increased outlays for operating expenses, has allowed the university to almost double its enrollment in the past five years. Furthermore, it's obvious that the taxpayers in the state are getting restive about the ever increasing tax load. The University of Massachusetts is not alone in having its budget cut.

On the other hand, the $6 million in question does represent a lot of constructive programs, including library books, staffing, and black studies which will have to be dropped. Beyond such consideration, the resignation of a man of Dr. Tippo's caliber cannot be taken lightly. As in most things, this state has to compete with other states for qualified educational administrators. And when it comes to supporting public higher education, Massachusetts ranks 50th in the nation on a per capita basis. Despite the seemingly generous outlays in recent years by the state legislature, the per capita expenditure for higher public education in Massachusetts during 1968 amounted to only $12.80. For the nation as a whole, the corresponding figure was over $25.00.

Even granted the fact that this state contains many large private institutions, we cannot afford to maintain a second class system of higher public education. What WEEI suggests is a compromise: the legislature should restore a good portion of the $6 million cut from the UMass budget; and Provost Tippo should withdraw his resignation. The state of Massachusetts should not rank last, as it now does, in the per capita support of public higher education.

(Ed. - The above is an editorial of radio station WEEI in Boston from May 12.)

Budget Dialogue

The widespread concern shown by students for the future of the University and the alleged danger created by the proposed budget cuts is a rare example of student initiative in the larger questions of education and funding. If, in fact, the budget is to be restored to its original form, student support is essential in the campaign to impress upon the legislature and the people of the Commonwealth the importance of higher education to the state's welfare.

As so very often happens in a crisis situation, however, analysis loses out to hasty action, and long-term change is subordinated to the realization of short-term goals. The present crisis is not the result of one short-sighted decision by the Governor, but the consequence of a long history of misplaced priorities and poor public relations. All considerations of reaction to student unrest and anti-intellectualism aside, the Governor and Legislature simply are not convinced of the need to pour millions of dollars into that ivory tower "out there." This is not to say that the men in the state house have any good reason to place higher priority on other forms of public spending, but the fact remains that if the University continues on its present course, even those of us who have some good idea of what forms education should take will be forced into the uncomfortable position of temporarily supporting the budget cuts until such time as a whole series of policy decisions and long-range plans are open to criticism, review, and change.

Over a period of several years, the plans were formulated to make UMass into a "great" university, in the Berkeley and Michigan mold. To accomplish this, several things are required. One is a group of dynamic administrators who can attract top-notch faculty and graduate students to the University. Another is money; money to pay the salaries, fund the research, and construct the buildings to make a "great" university. As this process moves forward, several nearly imperceptible shifts in the character of the University have profound effects on the overall quality of the educational experience here. The student body grows by leaps and bounds; students become little more than a number on an IBM card. Graduate and faculty research take precedence over teaching and counseling; graduate teaching takes precedence over undergraduate teaching. Classes become larger and larger; real learning and development disappears as students become little more than guinea pigs running through a maze of exams, quizzes, grades, rules, and regulations. Those who can perform the tricks without becoming frustrated are then certified to go into the next stage of competition: graduate school. This is indicative of the current trend in mass education; the whole process exists to weed out the incompetents and train the managers and researchers for our vast industrial and educational technology. Those who cannot compete in this elitist system are weeded out early; the system has no use for them. Dropouts by the thousands are the victims of an impersonal educational system that subordinates development of the individual, whole person to performance in an equally impersonal technological system. The revolution of black and white students all across the country and the large numbers of students who drop out of high school and college are both the result of a profound and systematic process of competition and alienation. The white, elitist university then becomes the victim of its own sickness when the legislature threatens to cut its budget because the alienation that it produces is turned into rebellion. This top-down game we call education is stacked against anyone desirous of a real education, and the current direction of this University can only serve to intensify this systematic alienation.

There is no question that quality education takes large sums of money, and in that respect we must express unequivocal support for the campaign to restore the budget to its original form. We must, however, re-examine the direction of the University and the procedures by which policy decisions are made.

It seems clear that the budget cut is not a sudden bolt of lightning, but the result of a long history of administrative failure; failure to represent the University to the legislature and to convince public officials of the need for state-supported higher education. That need unquestionably exists, but some doubts can be raised as to the relevance of UMass to meeting that need, given the present course the Administration has steered us on. Try convincing a factory worker in Boston who doesn't have enough money to send his son to college that he should pay taxes for research and expansion that will never benefit him or his son. Try convincing someone from the ghetto that graduate research, astronomical salaries and million-dollar buildings have any relevance to his problems.

One of the items cut from the budget was the CCEBS program. When the budget is submitted by the administration, a "high priority" list is attached. The CCEBS program was NOT on this list, while a similar program at UMass-Boston WAS on their high priority list. The Governor cut the total amount for "disadvantaged" students programs exactly the amount of the CCEBS request.

In the face of all this, the current campaign to get students to line up behind Provost Tippo and the Administration against the Governor and the Legislature has a very hollow ring. Why the massive campaign to convince Dr. Tippo to stay, when the resignation of Mark Noffsinger, one of the few administrators with the interests of undergraduates at heart, passes almost unnoticed? Why all the concern for student support for increasing the available funds when students have absolutely no say in how that money is spent?

These and other questions must be foremost in the minds of students as we participate in the Day of Dialogue to be held today. We must not only participate in these and continuing discussions, but we must re-evaluate our commitment to the administration and use all the influence we can to reorder priorities and make the University more responsive to the needs of quality undergraduate education and the needs of the people of the state.

Robert J. Kentfield

Support Education

As you all know, public higher education in Massachusetts is now being threatened by major budgetary reductions. I am delighted by the unified response of students, faculty, and administration in expressing their concern over these budget cuts. Today, a number of student organizations, on their own time, are sponsoring a day of dialogue to discuss the present crisis. These student groups have invited all other members of the Commonwealth's public higher education system to participate in these discussions. Although the end of the semester, with all its last minute term papers and exams, is close upon us, I hope that all members of the University community will take the opportunity to participate in these discussions.

We must exert every effort to maintain first-rate public higher education in Massachusetts.

John W. Lederle
President

Overreaction?

I am dismayed by the recently distributed Statement of the Faculty Group for Academic Freedom. In tone, substance and -- I would submit -- motive, it is a sadly misconceived document. Judging from the signatures, the statement seems to have drawn several well-meaning and seriously concerned faculty members into a position of intransigence that may well exacerbate those very tensions they presumably seek to allay. I believe that is time for sober second thoughts; I beseech my colleagues to closely read and re-read the statement.

For a piece of writing purporting to uphold rational discourse against passion and irrational emotionalism, it seems to be singularly emotional, full of vague generalities, unsupported and arguable assumptions, slanted writing, a melodramatic vision of human experience. (Who, e.g., would want to be opposed to "academic freedom," and for "violence" and "chaos"?)

Without belaboring these points, let me list a few questions that occurred to me as I read:

1) If one maintains that "idealistic aims (do not) justify repugnant methods," is one obliged to repudiate the American government's use of repugnant methods in the Vietnam War? Or, indeed, the war itself as repugnant? Will all those who signed this statement and support - or have supported - the war, presumably for idealistic motives, be prepared to do so?

2) Will these same people urge that the U.S. "be restrained and prevented from infringing upon the rights or physical security or personal freedom of others" in Vietnam?

3) Will the signers repudiate a university administration (which may be an organized minority) from using violent means to achieve its ends?

4) Does the desire to "create an atmosphere in which attempts at intimidation and coercion will not have a chance" apply to such attempts upon students by faculty, administrators, police, or troops?

5) Does "free communication and the exploration of ideas regardless of their popularity" mean that the positions of, let us say, radical sociologists, economists, historians, political theorists, are adequately represented in those various departments of the university (or, indeed, in American universities generally)?

6) Does the determination to assure our students that "they will not be deprived of their education" and to promote "change designed to improve the quality of the academic experience" mean that all those who signed are in favor of a strong Black Studies program, intensive sensitivity training of our students and faculty, and enlarged student participation in determining the kind of university we will have?

7) Finally, is not the affirmation to press for enforcement of university rules and regulations really a dangerous blank check (as the proposal is worded) for the use of any and all means, however coercive, repugnant or in violation of the spirit and meaning of a university?

I could go on. Even from the cursory analysis suggested above, it is evident that there are in the document disturbing undertones; of hysteria--on this campus, after all, the call to arms is rather premature--as well as fear of students, change, and needed university reform. Furthermore, the bland assumption that we can or should police our own house, as it were, while the society at large permits the twin evils of war and racism to continue unabated (and despite all assertions to the contrary, there is a very respectable argument to be made that it IS precisely that which is shaking academic halls throughout the country) is profoundly mistaken and dangerous. Our duty as scholars and intellectuals is not to recoil at the spectre of "the forces of society" "outside" who might take away our academic freedom in the name of law and order, but to use that freedom to educate those forces in government and elsewhere to stop threatening our very existence by allowing this filthy war and racism to go on.

A statement that is morally and intellectually to the point, and worth signing, is the recent letter by Calvin Plimpton-- "in behalf of an overwhelming majority of Amherst students, faculty and administration" --sent to President Nixon. That document--or one like it--merits our serious concern and support, and not the rather frightened (and frightening) Statement of Purpose of the Faculty Group for Academic Freedom.

Jules Chametzky
Professor of English

P.S.-- A relevant portion of President Plimpton's letter follows:

"We do not say that all the problems faced by colleges and universities are a reflection of the malaise of the larger society. That is not true. But we do say that until political leadership addresses itself to the major problems of our society--the huge expenditure of national resources for military purposes, the inequities practiced by the present draft system, the critical needs of America's 23,000,000 poor, the unequal division of our life on racial issues-- until this happens, the concern and energy of those who know the need for change will seek outlets for their frustration."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF — Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR — Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER — Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR — Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR — Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR — Peter F. Pascarelli '71

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR — Pat Flanagan
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR — Mike Darman
SPORTS DAY EDITOR — John Sullivan
NEWS STAFF — Kathy Rose, Rose Miller

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

STUDENT, FACULTY, STAFF AND ALUMNI SIGNATURE CAMPAIGN

MUST TIPPO FIGHT ALONE?

-LET'S LOOK AT THE FIRST ROUND-

TIPPO vs SARGENT

GOVERNOR CUTS UMASS BUDGET OVER $11,000,000 (20% CUT)

TIPPO RESIGNS OVER BUDGET CUTS

TIPPO vs SCIBELLI

"SHAME ON HIM (TIPPO) FOR SUCH A STUPID STATEMENT, WE'VE DONE MARVELOUSLY BY THEM." (GLOBE-WED. MAY 7)

TIPPO vs BURKE

"WHO WANTS HIM (TIPPO) TO STAY? EVERYONE IS EXPENDABLE." (GLOBE-WED. MAY 7)

MUST TIPPO FIGHT ALONE?

SIGN UP AND KICK IN FOR "CAMPAIGN COUNTER PUNCH!"

$13,000 FOR 3 FULL PAGE ADVERTISEMENTS FIGHTING BACK vs SARGENT, SCIBELLI AND BURKE

* ROUND 2
WE NEED YOUR SIGNATURE PLUS ONE DOLLAR (SUGGESTED FACULTY, STAFF AND ALUMNI CONTRIBUTION $5).

* ROUND 3
BUY SEVERAL COPIES OF EACH PAPER (ADVERTISEMENT) AND MAIL THEM TO YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE AND YOUR STATE SENATOR PLUS THE GOVERNOR, SCIBELLI & BURKE.

* ROUND 4
A COPY OF EACH ADVERTISEMENT WILL BE MAILED TO EVERY HIGH SCHOOL, JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, AND P.T.A. IN THE STATE.

Dickinson Hall Acquires Plaque Honoring Late UMass Graduate

Col. Joseph Bohnak, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Dickinson and Col. Leon J. Friedman admiring plaque given in honor of Walter Mason Dickinson, 1877 UMass graduate.

Amherst, Mass. -- Dickinson Hall, military and air science building at the University of Massachusetts, now has a plaque honoring the soldier for whom it was named, Walter Mason Dickinson, 1877 UMass graduate killed during the Spanish-American War. At the dedication, left to right, Col. Joseph Bohnak, military science department commander; Evan Johnson, Associate Alumni executive vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Mason Dickinson of Amherst; and Col. Leon J. Friedman, commander of the department of air science. Mr. Dickinson is a grandson of Walter Mason Dickinson, who died at El Coney in 1896 while a captain in the 17th U. S. Infantry. The plaque was given in his memory by his college friends and hung for many years in Memorial Hall before its relocation to the military science building.

SPECTRUM

Wants

FICTIONARTICLESPOETRYARTPHOTOGRAPHYART POETRYARTPHOTOGRAPHYFICTIONARTICLESART FICTIONPOETRYARTPHOTOGRAPHYARTICLESART

SPECTRUM is now accepting material for its first issue next year. We're looking for manuscripts, artwork and photography (both black and white and color) to be included in our October magazine. More specifically, short fiction pieces, drama, poetry and articles dealing either with campus issues or general interest.

We'd like the issue to come out in mid-October which means that the bulk of material must be accepted by July.

Our final deadline, though, falls in mid-September. If you wish to submit, leave your material in our mailbox, RSO 102, located in the RSO office, or stop by our office, Franklin Room — right across from the rideboard.

SPECTRUM

RSO 102 Franklin Room - Student Union

Campus Disorders Receive Scant Attention Abroad

The student disorders on the nation's college campuses have generally received scant attention abroad.

Newspapers in Communist China Britain and Spain have given the campus troubles the most prominent displays.

Communist newspapers in Hong Kong and in China have displayed articles on the student troubles with big headlines. A typical account published was from Hsinhua, Peking's official press agency, April 22.

It depicted outbreaks at Harvard, Columbia, Princeton and other institutions and called them examples of "the struggle of progressive American students a - gainst conscription and racial discrimination." The agency said the struggle was "surging forward."

A Peking propaganda campaign directed toward Chinese youth was begun last weekend and was linked to a salute to rebellious youth in the United States, Japan and elsewhere.

A Peking University Red Guard writing in Jenmin Jih Pao, the Peking Communist daily, said that "revolutionary mass movements in Japan, Western Europe and North America have opened a second front, launching direct attacks against imperialism."

British interest in the American student rebellions has been wide spread. The British press has reported and commented on the troubles at length.

Extensive treatment of the disorders has also been given by Spanish newspapers, especially those most closely linked to the Government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Elsewhere coverage by newspapers has been generally slight, with news reports carried inside. Several West German papers, however, carried on their front pages a picture of armed black students leaving a building at Cornell.

Officers Elected By Women's Choir

The following officers were recently elected to the University Women's Choir board for the 1969-70 school year: Martha Seed, Executive Manager; Margaret Schnetzer, Assistant Manager; Marily Caluska, Secretary; Paula Bordewieck, Librarian; Lucille Russell, Wardrobe Manager and Maggie Houghton, Equipment Manager.

MDC

NEWS HOTLINE

5-2550

BE HERE FOR YOW MAY 18

American Drama Presented By MHC Laboratory Theatre

Recently at M.H.C., the modern drama by the American playwright Lanford Wilson, "The Rimers of Eldritch", was presented by their Laboratory Theatre. The story of a constricted, defunct mid-west mining town, this play examines the petty cruelties of idle gossiping and the decay of minds laid to waste like the exhausted ore mines.

The play is given in one continuous piece with most all of the characters on stage the entire time. The focus is shifted from one clustered group or sole figure to another, interrupting the pacing of their lives, listening in on bits and chunks of their thoughts and actions. This technique enables Wilson to also shift the audience's perspective on just what they are witness to and in the last analysis get a complete overview of the lying and pretense that structure the existence of this rotting ghost-town.

Their reality becomes as unstable as the old moviehouse of better days and one begins to see how void of spirit they have all become. Of particular note was David Zucker's (U.M.) performance as Skelly, the ancient "eccentric" seeing-eye of Eldritch, perhaps the only one in the community who could see the rot that had eaten away at their lives.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1961 Oldsmobile Starfire Convertible- with red bucket seats, brand new white top and rear window, all power. Call 527-0171 after 6 p.m. 5-14

1963 VW 8300, R and H, sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise excel. cond. Good for beach buggy etc. 253-3959. 5-14

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, good engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 253-5322. 5-15

1964 Austin Healey 3000, 2 new tires, overdrive, rebuilt carburetors, 6 cylinder, new carpeting, R. & H., exc. condition, guaranteed fun for the summer. $1395. Call Ron 253-3981. 5-14

Dune Monster, Trail Blazer or snow plow Jeep 1961 with new studded tires, battery and clutch. Call 527-9510 after 6:00. 5-8-15-15

1500 sedan, excellent condition; sprintuned; new motor and clutch; American radio; price interesting. Call 549-2746 May 15 or after. 5-15

1966 Chevelle 327 4-speed Craiger mags, S & W sanzes, priced for quick sale. Call 546-5153. 5-15

'61 Dart, 6 cyl., std., radio, heater, snow tires, $350. Call 549-1365 after six. 5-15

WANTED

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Idlewood Press, 543 Frederick, San Francisco, California. 5-15

Wanted — A small refrixerator, must be in working order and dependable. Call Lynn 6-8049. 5-14

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming May 18 2:30 — Student Union Ballroom 5-15

ATTENTION: Would the driver of a black or blue Chev, Bronze taz beginning with X94, that witnessed a truck-bicycle collision on University Dr., on Oct 2, 1968 at approx. 12:15 p.m., please call Crawford & Co., 737-5337, Mr. Apostle. 5-15

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — Male roommate to share large furnished 2½ room apt., $60 per month including all utilities and dishwasher. For summer or longer Call 665-3069 Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 5-15

1 female roommate to share spacious apartment on Nutting Ave, for the summer, $45 per month. Call 546-8515 or 546-8561. 5-15

Wanted — Female roommate, Sept. on - $65 a month, util. inc', furnished, own room. Call 256-6651 after 5. 5-14

Wanted — Female roommate June - August, $60 month. util. inc., furnished, call 256-6651 after 5. 5-14

Female to share modern, air-cond. apt. for summer, 1 mile from Campus. Call 6-6349 or 6-6350. 5-13

1 female roommate wanted to share toy apt., own room, $67 mo. incls. util., summer and/or next year. If interested in only half summer call anyway. Lynn 546-8386. 5-13

Wanted: 2 males roommates to share a furnished house on Phillips St., Sept.- May. and 4 roommates for this summer. Call Bob 549-3597. 5-13

TO SHARE YOUR APT. for summer. Desire apt. in Amherst. Rent under $50. Call Dave Cochrane at 545-0329 (day) or 586-9827 after 9 p.m. 5-14

Summer roommates wanted — beautiful apt. only 3 miles from Campus. Tahiur Inas. Call Joe at 121 Wheeler 545-2412. 5-11

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 rm. apt. in Sunderland for June, July, August. Own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $25.00 pe month. No mistake. Hurry. Call Lou 665-3072 after 6:00 p.m.

WANTED TO RENT

$15.00 reward for information leading to selection of a 1 bdrm. apartment for fall (max. $90/mo. including utilities). Will also consider large house for reasonable price. Call 549-1457. 5-15

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR Soph. or older, fine Maine girls camp. Call 383-9561 5-15

BABYSITTER — Student to babysit for two youngsters Thursday aft, 1-5 own transportation. Call 549-1290. 5-15

MOTHERS HELPER — Need a Jr. and room in Amherst for summer? We will share our home in woods (4 mi. from Univ.) with mature, reliable, female student. Complete room and board plus salary in return for services. Transportation to Campus can be arranged. For details phone 549-6305. 5-15

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Thorp, U'69, 665-3167. TF

Photography: Passports, job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lanz's Photo, 825 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light automotive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 584-9446 or 584-9115. 5-18

FOR SALE

MUST SELL

Portable stereo tape cartridge player, 6 mos. old, ten current tapes, cleaner cartridge, year supply of batteries, battery recharger, all for just $90 or best offer. Perfect for home or outdoor fun. Runs on electric current too. Great sound for a small machine. Call Bob before 9 p.m. 549-1774 or 546-7678 on Campus. 5-13

Parts (or Indiv.) package sale from 1953 Plym. Power "6", new carburetor, battery, generator, muffler, 7 tires, all for $90. Info. call Mike 6-8597 bet. 7 - 11. 5-13

Dark brown natural hair fall, never used, sacrifice, 584-0947 after 5. 5-13

AKAI SF-120 Speakers, excellent condition, 10½ in. woofer, 3½ in. tweeters, were $130, asking $80 for pair. Call Dick Gorman 215 545-6452. 5-15

Mobilehome — 5 rms., furnished, close to Univ., only $70/mo. for land, rent and utilities plus has resale value. Ex. for married couple or single person. Priced new for quick sale, 247-5926. 5-15

1968 Grolier Pub., 20 vol. The new book of knowledge with home and school study and reading guides. $200 value, asking $100. 247-5076. 5-15

Polaroid Swinger with deluxe compartment case, perfect condition. Great for graduation. Orig. $24, now $14. Call 546-8196. 5-14

FOR RENT

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-6076. 5-26

1 bedroom apartment in Colonial Village, $110, with utilities, available June 1. Call 256-6285. 5-13

6 room furnished apartment to sublet from June 1 to Sept 1, Phillips St. Rent includes utilities. Call 546-8631 anytime. 5-13

Please — summer sub-let 2 bedroom apt., furnished for 3 people, $140/mo. all utilities included, 1½ miles to Campus, easy thumb. Call 253-5940 anytime. 5-13

One furnished room for rent, 3 miles from U.M. for summer session, $45 a month. Kitchen privilege if desired. Call 549-3784. 5-13

2½ room apt., dishwasher, utilities incl., $120. Begin June 1st. Call 665-4469. 5-15

Apt. to sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, 5 min. away, Rt. 116, Amherst-Sunderland border, 4 rooms furnished; 2 bedrooms, T.V., $120/mo. Call Japlee. Rm 422 at 5-2305 or 2363. 5-14

Apt. to sublet from June 1 to August 31. Seven rooms, completely furnished, ideal for 4 or 5 people. Three miles from Campus. Garage space available. Call Ken, 549-0216. 5-14

House to sublet — bedroom apt. furnished, swimming pool, air conditioned if desired, sublet until Sept, or stay on a year lease, $148 including all utilities. Call 665-3973. 5-15

2 bedrm. apt, utilities. Option for Sept. $137. Call 256-6687 June 1 - Sept. 1. 5-15

To sublet Juno - Sept. — room for 5. Family room, living room, 2 baths and kitchen, modern facilities. Close to Campus $200 mo. Call Peggy or Marilyn 545-7735, 253-9215. 5-14

Summer sublet — 3½ room apartment, University Park, unfurnished, $137.00 reduced to $130.00, utilities included. Call 256-8002. 5-14

Vacant: Air conditioned 1 room apartment at Crestview Apts. near campus. Rent $130. Call 549-1391. 5-14

Rent for year or summer sublet, 2 bedroom apt, fully furnished, air conditioned, all utilities included, close to campus. Call 549-0101 5-7 p.m. 5-13

Summer sublet — new house in No. Amherst, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, full cellar and 4 car garage, plus front and back yard, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus. Call Dave, Jeff or Joe at 253-9264 after 6. 5-11

Large 4 bedroom house, furnished, 2 miles from Campus, in South Amherst, fits 6 comfortable, from June to Sept. Must sublet, will talk price. Call Bill Amanti or Tom Krek 545-2150 or 256-6346. 5-15

Are you going to summer school? Do you need a place to live? Well, we have it. A house, only 5 minutes from Campus, 7 rooms, 4 b..drooms. Rent: $175 a month, available from June 1 to Sept 1 — call 546-5047 or 546-5053. 5-15

2 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, Colonial Village, 2 mi. to U'Mass., $140 per. Call 253-9435. 5-15

Remodeled 6-room house in Northampton, $220/mo. Skibiski, Realtors, Tel. JU 5-3128. 5-15

Summer sublet, 2 bedroom, furnished apts., Cliffside Apts. Willing to lower rent considerably. Call 665-7860. 5-15

Colonial Village 2 bedroom apt., will sublet for summer or lease for longer period. Regularly $150 per month, will accept $125 per month. Must get rid of it. Furnished or unfurnished. Call Don, 253-7906, leave message at 253-3391. 5-15

2 bedroom apartment, rent includes all utilities, $130/month furnished $125/mo. unfurnished. Available June 1. Call 549-0903. 5-11

An MDC Essay

Graduation Evokes Mixed Reactions

By ROBERT GRANT
Staff Reporter

"I'll remember always Graduation Day." is the main lyric of the traditional graduation song. But some will not remember Graduation Day, and others will dread the day to come.

Yes, fellow seniors, that day of all days is quickly approaching. Graduation Day, the day that marks the culmination of all your schooling years till then. The last four years were hard years weren't they? Just think of all those books you read, or were supposed to have read; and all those papers you wrote, or had someone else write; and all those lectures you attended, or lecture notes you borrowed. It doesn't matter how you did it. You made it. You are graduating. Congratulations!

You will love the graduation ceremonies. You will, that is, if you don't mind sitting outdoors in the football field, while your black graduation gown soaks up the radiation from the sun; and if you don't mind listening to some prominent speaker tell you what a soft life you have had in college, and then urge you to go out and do battle with the challenges that confront you in the outside world. Oh, and another thing, don't bother to invite any guests to your graduation, for they will never recognize you sitting among those thousands of graduates all dressed in similar gowns. The University likes to keep your identity hidden till the very last day.

Graduation Day is often refered to as Commencement Day. Why? Because you are now ready to commence, to go out into the world and make your mark, to fulfill your childhood dreams. No, not you men, just the women. Yes, girls, the future is all yours; go on to graduate school, go on to become teachers, nurses, doctors, or lawyers. But for you men, Commencement does not begin on graduation Day. There is one more test that you must pass. It is called the Draft American Men test, better known by its initials, the DAM test. In order to take the DAM test, the government offers you, free of cost, two glorious years in the jungles of Viet Nam. All you have to do to pass the DAM test is to survive. Only then may you commence and enter the hard cruel world.

Yes, Lare will be many of you that will remember always Graduation Day, but there will also be many of you that will not.

Audubon Society Sponsors Outdoor Nature Conference

Focus: Outdoors, a three-day vacation nature college conference, will be held Aug. 1 to 3 at the University of Massachusetts.

The nature college is sponsored by Massachusetts Audubon Society's Arcadia nature center and wildlife sanctuary and its focus committee, chaired by photographer Leslie Campbell.

Twenty-two experts in natural history, field trips in the Connecticut Valley, the 10th annual Audubon international exhibition of nature photography and three featured speckers will augment the conference.

Dr. Roman Vishniac, photomicroscopist; Harry Pederson, underwater photographer and Dr. James Fisher are speakers.

Emily Dickinson Annual Parade Set for Saturday

The fifth annual Emily Dickinson Memorial Parade will begin at the Jones Library, Amity Street on Saturday, May 17, at 3:00 p.m. Miss Doris Abramson, Professor of Speech at UMass will give a reading of Miss Dickinson's poems. After moving to the cemetary for a short memorial ceremony at Miss Dickinson's grave, the parade will adjourn informally to 73 Main Street for additional readings.

Notices

Meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House. All those who give o damn, please come. We can use your help. If you can't come, but want to help, call Lorna Maynard, 6-6634. Peace.

MENTAL HEALTH INFORMATION TABLE

Tomorrow and Wed. 10m 9-4 in the S.U. Lobby. Contributions appreciated.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

Testimony meeting tonight at 6:45 p.m. in the Worcester Rm. All welcome.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

General Meeting tonight in the Norfolk-Nantucket Rm., S.U. at 7 p.m. Exec. board meets at 6:30 p.m.

SCUBA CLUB

Meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks. Last minute nominations and a vote for next fall's officers will be taken. All members are asked to attend.

HEYMAKERS

The last regular dance will be held in S.U. Ballroom, tomorrow at 7:30 p.m, Farewell party. All welcome.

SCROLLS

Return signed petitions to Scroll mailbox 404 in RSO office by today.

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS

Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication on campus judiciaries, please call 6-7157. Reporters and other staff also needed.

VOLLEYBALL CLUB

Training Tues. and Thurs. 7:30-8:30 p.m. at Sat. at noon in Boyden Gym.

CLASS OF '69

Seniors! Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day; May 30.

SCI-FI CLUB

The last issue of the ZOBEE is now available. Come to the Sci-Fi library and get yours. Limited copies available. Science Fiction library will be open regular hours during finals.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB

Meeting Thurs. at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Rm., S.U. Movies and slides to be shown. Lecture: "How to Crash a Picnic."

PINNINGS

Jaqueline Sabel, '71, Melville, to Stephen German, '70, Washington.

Gail Egan, '71 Alpha Chi Omiga, to Judd Corhart, '71, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Monique Brousseau, '71, Dickinson, to Kevin Kelly, '71, Grayson.

Annebelle Blanchette, '71, Alpha Chi Omega, to Joseph Scavuzzo, '71, Beta Kappa Phi.

ENGAGEMENTS

Joquel Brandt, '68, San Francisco Store, to Marvin Lehrer, '69, Northampton.

Karen Bruni, '69, Thoreau, to Herbert Sullivan, '68, SPE.

Marguerite Gharmley, '70, Alpha Chi Omega, to Thomas LePley, Portuguese Bend, Calif.

Judith Brown, '69, Alpha Chi Omega, to Paul DiDanato, '69, Belknap College.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost - Green Botany notebook. Call Carol in 418, 5-2746.

Lost - Pair of smoke rim glasses. Call 6-9293.

Lost - History notebook with notes on E.A. Ross. Return to 338 Pierpont or call 6-5238.

Lost - Brown leather wallet with leather lacing around edges. Call Bill, 6-9336. Reward.

Found - A variety of valuable items including glasses, jewelry, and books have been found throughout the year in JQA. They will be available at the lobby desk from 7-closing today-Fri. After that they will be disposed of.

Lost - Red wallet belonging to Susan Spooner. If found call 6-9553 or 6-9834 or turn in to S.U. lost and found or Campus Police Station.

Lost - Brown square-shaped glasses. Call Holly, 6-5366.

Lost - Black collapsable umbrella. Call Diane, 313 Mary Lyon.

Lost - A brown Foxhunt raincoat with leather shoulders and belt. Call Jane, 6-7462., Reward.

Lost - Yellow London Fog jacket. Call Bob, 6-5099.

Lost - Part of sky diver's parachute assembly - 2 small chutes tied to blue and red cloth sleeve. Lost in Stadium. Call 256-8059

IMPORTANT MEETING

There will be an important meeting for all DAILY COLLEGIAN staff members Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Collegian Office. All must attend.

MDC

NEWS HOTLINE

5-2550

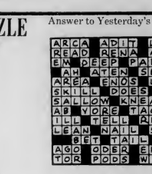
FAA Announces Development Of Silent Alarm System

WASHINGTON (AP) - A silent alarm system enabling the pilot of a hijacked plane to notify ground controllers of his plight without speaking to them is in use now, it was learned Monday.

Because ground stations can be alerted without the pilot speaking, it is hoped that the system may reduce the risk of violent panic reactions by hijackers - or perhaps even offer some opportunity for aborting the air pirate's plans.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said that receipt of the silent distress signal enables the controllers to give the plane immediate clearance for wherever the pilot wants to go. And it makes it possible to order other air traffic out of the way for the protection of the hijacked plane.

"We have not published this information because we did no want it to become common knowledge," an FAA official said.



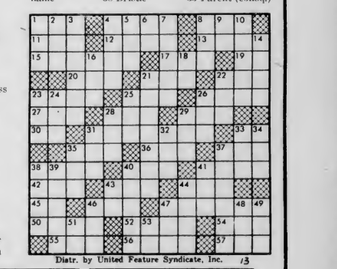
"It has long been generally known in the industry that we can use the normal radio transponder in the airplane, with a separate code, if the pilot has a problem."

The switch to a slightly different code involves only a minor, virtually undetectable finger movement by the pilot. It is unlikely to be observed by the man with the gun, and avoids the need for talk that might alarm a crazed or disturbed individual.

The signal causes the plane to show up on the controller's radar scope not as a normal identification blip but as a double slash signal.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Possessed
4-Bard
8-Moccasin
11-Female sheep
12-Assistant
13-Small island
15-Sell to consumer
17-Pinch
19-Printer's measure
20-Be ill
21-Roman bronze
22-Small rug
23-Part of fireplace
25-Unit of Siamese currency
26-Reveal
27-Sunburn
28-Beverage
29-Cushion
30-Near
31-Overflowed
33-Preposition
35-Strike
36-Electrified particle
37-Hurry
38-Reach across
40-Damp
41-Poison
42-Shade tree
43-Paddle
44-Soak
45-Symbol for tantalum
46-Unusual
47-Glass container
50-Tart
52-Send forth
54-Ventilate
55-Greek letter
56-Wise person
57-Born

DOWN

1-Pronoun
2-Reverence
3-Hold back
4-Bucket
5-Lubricate
6-Man's nickname
7-Doctrine
8-Fruit seed
9-Conjunction
10-Lucid
14-Heraldry: grafted
16-River island
18-Exists
21-Studio
22-Insane
23-Music: as written
24-Stroke
25-Mohammedan name
26-Evil
28-Likely
29-Writing implement
31-Transgress
32-Parcel of land
33-Large cask
34-Number
35-Cut of meat
37-Climbing palm
38-Bristle
39-Set
40-Walks in water
41-Wager
43-Hypothetical force
44-Repetition
46-Room in harem
47-Large
48-Falsehood
49-Before
51-Pronoun
53-Parent (colloq.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 13

Redmen Rip Amherst Nine for Fifth Straight Win

Kitchen Fans 14, Hurls Four-Hitter, UMass Breaks Jinx

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

AMHERST - Big John Kitchen struck out 14 batters enroute to his fifth victory of the season as UMass overpowered Amherst College, 8 - 2, Kitchen's strong four - hit performance gave the Redmen their first victory over the cross-town rivals in the last four years and was the fifth straight for Coach Bergquist's red-hot squad.

UMass' quest for the championship of the Yankee Conference, however, still remains up in the air as Maine defeated New Hampshire today by a 6-4 count. The Black Bears now own a 4-1 conference slate and must lose at least one of their five remaining league contests in order for the Redmen to claim the title with their 9 - 1 league mark. Maine has a rematch with UNH today and play UConn next weekend.

The Redmen batters backed Kitchen with a strong 14-hit attack featuring two singles, a double and a triple by Mitch Salnick and a long three-run homer by Steve Ring. Joe DiSarcina extended his hitting streak to 12 games as he rapped two doubles.

UMass picked up an unearned run in the first inning after two outs. Bob Hansen, who has drawn 26 walks this year, got a base on balls. Tony Chinappi followed with a single to right and, when the relay escaped the Amherst shortstop, Hansen came on to score the first Redman marker.

The visitors added another in the top of the second on a long triple by Salnick and a sacrifice fly off the bat of Tom Semino.

In the fourth Salnick doubled, again to left center, and Semino hit a shot between the shortstop and the third-baseman, bringing up Ring. The Amherst leftfielder was in a step with the eighth batter at the plate, and Ring took the opportunity to unload the long-ball.

He cracked a smash which landed more than forty feet behind the racing outfielder and rolled up a terrace more than 400 feet away. The junior thirdbaseman easily scored after driving in the two runners on board.

Kitchen's shutout bid went down the drain in the bottom of the fourth when Jay Sendzck walked on a 3-2 pitch that just missed and Mike Marino smashed a line drive to right center good for three bases.

Amherst narrowed the margin to 5-2 in the sixth, picking up a gift run. After leadoff singles by Ron Marinucci and Bobby Jones, Kitchen got Sendzck on a force at second which moved Marinucci over to third.

A high fastball put Marino down on strikes, but with runners at first and third, Kitchen balked when the runner at first broke, and each moved up a base.

That was the best the Lord Jeffs could do for the rest of the day against the Chicopee hurler. Kitchen struck out six batters in the last three innings and didn't allow anymore hits.

UMass had another three-run inning in the eighth. With one down, Ray Ellerbrook, who also had two hits, drew a free pass. DiSarcina smashed one just inside third base for a two-bagger. Hansen then picked up his 28th and 27th r.b.i.'s of the season with a hard grounder into right. Chinappi closed out the solid UMass hitting attack with a drive into left center, plating Hansen with the final Redmen run of the day.

JOHN KITCHEN
Impressive fifth victory.

DUGOUT CHATTER: UMass' record now stands at 17-6 overall with three tough games left at home against Springfield, Army and Boston University. . .Salnick is pressing Hansen for the batting leadership. . .The Jersey sophomore's average after a four-for-five day stands at .358. . .Hansen is swinging at a .360 clip while co-captains Chinappi and Di - Sarcina are tied with .333 averages.

MDC
SPORTS HOTLINE
5-0344

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 138
TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1969

Stickmen Face MIT in Tilt Deciding New England's Best

By WALT STACHURA
Senior Reporter

A number one ranking in New England and possibly, the Taylor Cup, symbol of New England college lacrosse supremacy, will be at stake today at Cambridge when the UMass lacrosse team meets MIT in a 4 p.m. game.

The teams will enter the game, last of the season for both teams, with impressive records. The Redmen have won all nine games this season and over a two season stretch have won fourteen in a row. MIT has been almost as good with a 11 - 1 record, the lone loss a 12 - 11 squeaker to Harvard.

UMass is coming off their toughest victory of the year, 7 - 2 over Amherst last Saturday at the Alumni Stadium. Meanwhile, MIT rolled over New Hampshire Friday, 14 - 1, in their last encounter.

Although the Redmen will be prepared mentally for the game, the physical condition of the team is another story. Earlier in the year, UMass lost midfielders Carl Schulthesis and Steve Anderson and defenseman Roy Condon to injuries.

Against Amherst, first mid - fielders Steve Connolly and Gerry Forgit came up with injuries that make them doubtful starters for today's game. Connolly has a bad thigh while Forgit sustained a head injury.

If Connolly and Forgit are unable to play, four of the six original top midfielders will be out of action and throw a great deal of pressure on the less experienced third and fourth midfielders that will fill the gap.

Fortunately, the attack of Tom Malone, Gary Vassar and Kevin O'Connor is in good physical condition and will provide the MIT defense with a strong test. The Redmen offense has 180 goals for the season, a 20 goal average.

UMass coach Dick Garber expects the Engineers to play a similar style of game as Amherst. They play a zone defense, but Garber added that the defenseman will challenge the attackman more than did the Lord Jeff defenders.

MiT's main strength lies in their attack. They are averaging well over 10 goals a game and along with the potent attack of the Redmen the game should be a high-scoring battle.

Top scorers for the Engineers are attackmen Walt Mailing, Ken Schwartz and Jack Anderson. They are all veterans of last year's game against the Redmen, won by UMass, 11 - 4.

Goalie Marc Weinberg and defenseman Steve Reimers anchor the MIT defense while midfielders Carl Browne and John Vliet add their scoring touch and playmaking to the attack.

For 11 Redmen, today's game will be their last in a UMass uniform. Attackmen O'Connor, Vassar, Brad Herling, midfielders Connolly, Steve Anderson, Steve Chambers, Forgit, Parker Simonds, Gregg Stillman, defenseman Tom Tufts and goalie Mark Schlossberg hope to have a victory in their final game and bring home the N.E. Championship.

EXTRA EFFORT - In the first photo of this two-shot sequence, Redman attackman Tom Malone fires a high hard one which is stopped by the Amherst goalie. In the lower picture, Malone has picked up his own rebound and fires it past the goalie's left shoulder. (MDC photos by John Kelly).

Last Night's Intramurals

CAMPUS SOFTBALL PLAYOFFS
Marauders 8, Rnntrs 7
KS B 11, Untouchables 3
Education 29, Lobos 9
Pied Pipers 15, Maroons 5
Colt 45's 8, Senators 6
AEP 14, PMD 10
TKE 10, PSD 9
REGULAR PLAY
Rnntrs 8, Se Boas 1

Lacrosse on Air

WMUA will broadcast today's UMass-MIT lacrosse game live and direct from Cambridge at 3:55 p.m.

Varsity Sweaters

Varsity letter sweaters for hockey, basketball, indoor track, wrestling and swimming can be picked up anytime at the athletic supply room in Boyden Building.

Ten Redman Athletes Cited

Ten UMass student - athletes have been selected for inclusion in the 1969 edition of Outstanding College Athletes of America.

Those chosen are - Mike McArdle, football, Bob Asquith, swimming, Bob Hansen, baseball, Tom Johnson, tennis, Steve Kramer, soccer, Joe DiSarcina, baseball-basketball, Tony Chinappi, baseball, Charlie Lang, cross-country-track, Eric Lekberg, golf and Jeff Sanborn, hockey.

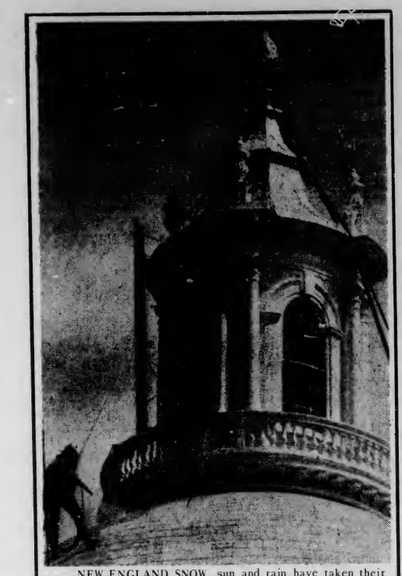
The purpose of Outstanding College Athletes of America is to recognize the all-around abilities of young people who have distinguished themselves in the sports competition of college.

Frosh Nine Blanks Worc. Acad., 4-0

By DICK BACKER
Staff Reporter

WORCESTER - Paced by Tom King's three-hitter, the UMass freshman baseball team turned in a well-played 4 - 0 win over Worcester Academy here today. King was in complete control as he struck out 11 and had only one walk, but the biggest surprise was his game-winning triple which drove in two runs.

It was a tight game throughout until the fourth inning when Stan Baker singled following Al Hubermann's bingle with both runners advancing to third on an infield out. King then stepped to the plate and clouted his triple to left center.



The frosh scored again in the sixth inning as Brian Martin led off with a double. Pete Thompson singled and Chris Lanchansky walked to load the bases. Stan Baker, who is a red-hot nine-for-twelve on the year, got a base hit to drive in the two insurance runs.

It was a pitchers' duel the rest of the way between Cully Ohlson and King.

The frosh played well in the field as they made several spectacular plays. Shortstop Jim Saracino made two good plays in the hole and Hosea Kelly had eight assists and one putout for the day.

This marks the second straight shutout in a row for the Little Redmen and they will be looking to continue the same against Holy Cross away on Thursday.

DUGOUT CHATTER - Baker continues to sting the ball as he was three-for-four today. . .Saracino was also three-for-four. . . Team looked good in the field and at bat, pounding out 10 hits. . . Biggest play of the day occured when Martin was caught for speeding on the Worcester Turnpike as a caravan of cars had to be used because no bus was available to transport the Little Redmen to Worcester.

NEW ENGLAND SNOW, sun and rain have taken their toll once again on the gold on the dome of the Massachusetts State House. It has to be replaced with 23-carat sheets 1/250,000 of an inch thick, or thin. Last done 22 years ago in 1947, this $32,000 job is being begun here by a 'steeplejack' with sandblasting to make application easier. (UPI)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
VOL. XCVII NO. 139 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1969

Day of Dialogue

Student Grass Roots Campaign Planned to Restore Budget Cuts

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

Representatives fro m several Massachusetts State and Community Colleges, meeting here with UMass students, faculty and administrators in a Day of Dialogue yesterday, concluded that a concerted grass-roots level campaign conducted by students, is needed to convince taxpayers and legislators of the importance of supporting public higher education.

The day-long discussion was prompted by the impending cuts in budget requests of all 29 Massachusetts institutions of public higher education, cuts which, spokesmen from all the schools claim would all but cripple the public educational system.

A two-step, grass roots campaign was designed by and for students to aide in the battle against the budget cuts. The plan consists of, first, students talking with local town newspaper editors, explaining the need of public higher education in the state, and asking them to take favorable editorial positions.

The second step involves each State school printing "form letters", stating the reasons why its budget request should not be cut, and students distributing these letters, during summer vacation to their neighbors. Students would them collect the letters, signed by his neighbors, and send them to his local representative.

In this way, the State representatives will be convinced that popular opinion favors support of public higher education, in the face of other "priorities," the students say.

It was stressed by many of the participants in the program that this must be clearly a student movement.

UMass College of Arts and Sciences acting Dean Seymour Shapiro explained, "If the people of the State can see responsible student action in favor of helping budget requests, they will be more likely to respond to their representatives than if the program was sponsored by Administrators."

Most of the participants in the conference agreed that the issue at stake was convincing the State legislators that public higher education should not be severely cramped financially, and that the best way to do this was by having students work to convince the State taxpayers to tell their legislators to support the schools' budgets.

But MLK Executive Secretary Gil Saik disagreed. He said that, specifically at UMass, the School administration was to blame for putting too much emphasis on building and not enough on education. He called for picketing Whitmore Thursday to protest this.

To date, Massachusetts Governor Francis W. Sargent has recommended cutting more than one third of the UMass budget request, a recommendation which would delay the opening of the UMass Medical school for three years. Other State schools have been cut more severely, and two schools will not be able to open if the money cut from their budgets is not restored.

Amherst College Cancels Classes To Discuss Black Dissatisfaction

Amherst College has called another moratorium on classes, this time to consider the specific nature of black dissatisfaction, both within the Amherst community and in the United States at large. There will be no classes today, when Ralph W. Ellison, a writer who has lectured widely on Negro culture, will give an address at Amherst.

This second moratorium marks another phase in Amherst's efforts at self-evaluation; a first moratorium was observed on April 28 and 29. The two-day hiatus allowed students, faculty, and administrators to come together and discuss issues of local and national concern. One of the results of those discussions was the decision that Amherst President Calvin H. Plimpton send a letter to President Nixon expressing Amherst's concern for the relationship between the crisis on college campuses and the larger crisis in America.

Events scheduled as part of the attempt to reach an understanding of black dissatisfaction include: three movies, 'In Search For A Past" (Sunday), "Black World" (Monday), and "Portrait in Black" (Tuesday); three speakers (an Amherst faculty member, a member of Amherst's Afro-American Society, and a graduate student from the University of Massachusetts School of Education) who will address the College on Wednesday morning; ten seminars on Wednesday afternoon, each on the same topics, led by two members of the Afro-American Society; Mr. Ellison's talk Wednesday evening; and a reception for him after his address.

Bernard E. Barbour '72, a spokesman for the Amherst Afro-American Society, explained the need for the special moratorium: "We were disgusted to hear Amherst say it wanted to talk about self-evaluation and then not even consider what part racism or blacks played in the life of the Amherst community. We hoped that Amherst College would take it upon itself to consider these factors. We wanted to stay on the periphery and not goad them into it because we felt any discussion would be more effective if they started it themselves. They failed to do this and now we actually have to ask them."

Gill M. Tyree '72, another spokesman, added, "How can Amherst talk about things like budget and not even stop to think about what effect maintaining the Black Culture Center will have on the budget?"

Speaking about education at Amherst and in the United States generally, Barbour explained, "There is, or should be, an important black side to most disciplines, and we feel that has not been adequately documented. For instance, you don't know that the first man to discover the North Pole was a black - Matthew A. Henson (1866-1955): you don't know that a black, Benjamin Banneker (1731-1806), finished laying out the city of Washington after L'Enfant quit."

"We feel that blacks have been the backbone of America's devel-

(Continued on Page 4)

IN YESTERDAY'S Day of Dialogue a grass roots campaign was planned by students to help persuade legislators of the importance of supporting high education. See story above. (MDC photo by Dave Craig).

DAILY COLLEGIAN STAFF MEETING

Commonwealth Room, Tonight, 6.30 p.m.

All Staffers MUST Attend this Meeting

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate handed President Nixon a significant victory Tuesday by defeating 52-40 a Democratic-sponsored resolution calling on him to delay his plan to shut down 59 Job Corps Centers.

It was the first major test of the year in the Senate on one of the Republican President's policy decisions in the domestic field.

A solid phalanx of Republican votes, with help from Democrats including several southerners, was enough to kill the resolution.

The resolution would not have had a binding effect in any case since it would merely have expressed "the sense of the Senate" that the closings should be delayed until Congress has had a chance to study the entire antipoverty program.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration has picked up more Senate backers for its Safeguard missile system than its opponents have wooed over, the latest Associated Press survey shows.

Nevertheless, opponents of the system now number 48, three votes short of an absolute majority.

Advocates of speedy installation of the limited antiballistic missile system proposed by President Nixon can now count 46 Senate supporters.

Six senators - who held the key to resolving the issue - say they are undecided.

Based on the AP surveys, backers of the system have gained the support of 11 additional senators while opponents have picked up five.

(AP) - Nineteen Brooklyn College students faced criminal charges Tuesday in connection with fiery campus disorders. At the same time, 21 sealed indictments were handed up by a grand jury investigating seizure of a Cornell University building by armed Negro militants.

(AP) - An estimated 1,000 Southern University students rioted on their Louisiana campus Tuesday, exchanging gunfire with police, brandishing flaming torches and hurling fire bombs, rocks and bottles filled with acid. Tear gas failed to quell them.

Gov. John J. McKeithen called up 600 National Guard troops, keeping them on alert about three miles from the Southern campus at Baton Rouge. The school has about 8,000 students.

A university spokesman said 30 persons were treated for injuries, eight of them for gunshot wounds. Several sheriff's deupties received minor injuries.

Cause of the uprising was hard to determine. It coincided with the opening of a state legislative session at the Louisiana capital.

Deputies reported students shooting at police with small caliber weapons, and hurling bottles filled with acid. Police shot back, and also used tear gas.

NEW YORK (AP) - Civil Rights leader Roy Wilkins says that the wave of demands by militant Negro students for schools and courses of black studies is "a lot of nonsense." Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said of Negro studies programs: "They will only amount to black bull sessions."

Negro studies programs, Wilkins said, "are faced with personnel problems because no one is educated enough to teach them."

"If the student s want to study about their ancestors," he told about 500 persons at an NAACP fund-raising dinner Monday night in the New York Hilton Hotel, "they should study them on the side and concentrate school on algebra, calculus, jets and the great world of communications."

"It's not how a black man wears his hair but what he has inside his head," he declared.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Israel has paid the United States $3.5 million as compensation for the 164 U.S. seamen injured during the 1967 Israeli attack on the American communications ship, Liberty, the State Department announced Tuesday.

It was the second payment in connection with the attack by Israeli planes and torpedo boats on the ship on June 8, 1967, about 15 miles north of the Sinai peninsula during the Arab-Israeli war.

An earlier payment of $3.3 million was made May 1968 for the families of the 34 men killed in the attack. The United States reportedly has asked about $7 million for damages to the ship itself.

Press officer Carl Bartch said the second payment was made April 28.

School of Business Administration
INVESTMENT SYMPOSIUM

Topic: "Making Money in the Stock Market - The Professional Way"

Speaker: Donald Farrar, Vice President of Investments Paul Revere Life Insurance Company

Date: Wednesday, May 14, 4:00 p.m.

Place: Room 120 SBA

The Paul Revere Life Insurance Co. has had outstanding success with their investments in stocks and other equity investments. Mr. Farrar has played an important role in this success story. He is representative of the aggressive young talent the insurance industry has recruited in this area. Mr. Farrar is a dynamic speaker and will not be quoting from text books. He's going to tell it how it is. There will be an open period for questions.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Dartmouth Protestors Refused Bail Court Appeals to be Heard Friday

NEW CASTLE, N.H. (AP) - The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declined Tuesday to free on bail 45 young persons jailed for refusing to leave a Dartmouth College administration building taken over to protest ROTC.

But the three-judge panel said it would hear appeals in Boston Friday of the sentences imposed on the youths in Grafton County Superior Court.

The 45 youths, some Dartmouth students and some sympathizers and including five girls, each were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 last week for criminal contempt of court.

Tuesday's motion asked that the defendants motion be released on bail until their cases had been heard in the federal courts.

The judges who heard and denied the motion were Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich and Judges Edward M. McEntee and Frank M. Coffin.

They acted in this seaside community because of a federal judges' conference under way here.

The ruling was made without comment, but Aldrich asked New Hampshire Asst. Atty. Gen. David Souter to provide a shuttle service for defense attorneys to get the youths from six county jails for Friday's hearing.

The youths were sentenced last Friday in Superior Court in Woodsville by Judge Martin Loughlin. He continued the cases of nine others arrested until May 19.

All were charged with violating an injunction, which Dartmouth trustees obtained from Judge Loughlin, forbidding occupation of the building and damage to it.

A group seized the building May 6 and ejected deans and other administration employes. State troopers from New Hampshire and Vermont forced their way into the building the next day and arrested the demonstrators. Contempt convictions cannot be appealed in New Hampshire, so defense attorneys petitioned the state's Supreme Court for writs of habeas corpus.

They contended that their clients' constitutional rights to equal protection under the law had been violated when they were denied delays similar to those given the nine others.

The high court denied the petitions, as did U.S. District Court Judge Hugh H. Bownes when they were filed with him later in Concord.

The cases then were taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals where defense lawyers William Baker and Ridler Page argued their clients had not "effective right to counsel" and that due process of law had been denied.

The attorneys said they had only about 37 hours to interview 15 clients before appearing in Superior Court.

In another development, Dean Thaddeus Seymour, one of those ejected from the building in the takeover, said the college will begin hearings Thursday to determine disciplinary action against students identified as having participated in the occupation.

Dartmouth President John Sloan Dickey announced that a five-member executive trustees' committee voted Monday to begin action to end ROTC programs on the campus by June, 1973.

The committee recommended phasing out the programs "in such a way as to meet commitments to students presently enrolled" and to include those in the class of 1973 already accepted in the military programs.

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences voted 131-60 on May 5 to end ROTC programs.

No All-Points Bulletin was Issued The Day James Earl Ray Shot King

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - There was no all-points bulletin issued to stop James Earl Ray the night he shot and killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and fled Memphis in a white 1966 Mustang.

Police Chief Henry Lux, who for months had the impression that an automatic alarm had been broadcast, confirmed in an exclusive interview that no such bulletin was issued.

The widespread belief among law enforcement officers - and consequently the public - that a bulletin had been issued and that Ray had apparently escaped with ease in spite of it contributed to the suspicion that he might have been part of a conspiracy rather than a lone killer.

The judge in Ray's trial said in an interview afterward he was mystified over how Ray eluded the roadblocks that would have been established following an all-points alert. A hearing on Ray's motion for a new trial is scheduled for May 26.

Since there was no bulletin, there were no roadblocks or checkpoints established at the nearest escape routes to neighboring Arkansas and Mississippi - or in Georgia, Alabama, Missouri, Louisiana, SO bama, Missouri, Louisiana, South Carolina, Virginia, or Kentucky. Or anywhere.

"The first Memphis police radio transmission mentioning a white Mustang was logged at 6:11 p.m., April 4, 1968," said a Shelby County authority with intimate knowledge of the state's evidence.

King was shot at 6:01 p.m. Ray apparently was on the street and on his way within minutes. Had he begun his flight in the Mustang as late as 6:05 p.m., by 6:11 he would have been on the Memphis-Arkansas Bridge leading to Arkansas or no more than 10 minutes away from the Mississippi state line.

Chief Lux, in explaining the failure to issue an all-points bulletin, said: "At this time, we did not know for sure or have any proof that a white Mustang was involved. We had broadcast that the suspect was believed to be in a white Mustang.

"This wasn't enough to put out an all-points. To do that, you usually have to indicate that a warrant has been issued and that you will extradite. Otherwise, the receiving states are not going to act on it."

Another explanation, given by Memphis police as well as police officials in other areas, was that the local situation was hectic and tense and that authorities were concerned about rioting and disorder.

In his trial before the late Judge W. Preston Battle, Ray drew a 99-year sentence March 10 under an agreement to plead guilty. Ray later repudiated the agreement and, following Judge Battle's death, was granted a hearing on his motion for a new trial.

During a series of exclusive interviews just before he died of a heart attack, Judge Battle said there were questions about the Ray case which troubled him, the chief one being Ray's flight.

Ray's abandoned Mustang was confiscated by the FBI in Atlanta April 11, 1968.

Investigation into this question showed that even a year after the slaying there were authorities in some neighboring states who still had the impression there had been such a bulletin.

But in none of these states, or any others, were there any unusual or nonroutine patrol actions, such as the setting up of roadblocks.

Fine Arts Council Ignores Petition, Cuts Band Budget

Apparently ignoring a petition signed by 2684 students, the Fine Arts Council voted last night to disregard the 1969-70 University Bands Budget.

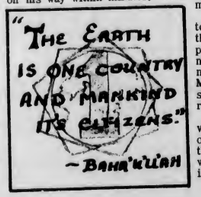
A petition reading "We the students, as tax payers, do hearily request that the F.A.C. accept the 1969-1970 University Bands Budget", which was signed by 2684 students in the preceeding 24 hours, was presented to the Council by officers and representatives of the Bands, at the regular F.A.C. meeting last night.

The Council, which had refused to accept a budget of $25,480 for the Marching, Concert, and Symphony Bands on April 29, last night suggested that the bands submit a revised budget excluding Marching Band. This budget was submitted and again the F.A.C. refused to consider it.

The result of this action, provided the bands cannot find another source of funds, will be that the Campus Community will be without the services of the Marching, Concert, and Symphony Bands.

Students Riot at Southern University Nat'l Guard Near

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



An estimated 1,000 Southern University students rioted on their Louisiana campus Tuesday, brandishing flaming torches and hurling fire bombs, rocks and bottles filled with acid. Police fired tear gas and a few shotgun blasts at them.

Gov. John J. McKeithen called up 600 National Guard troops, keeping them on alert about three miles from the Southern campus at Baton Rouge. The school has about 8,000 students.

Thirteen students and two sheriff's deputies were treated at Lady of the Lakes Hospital. Two of the students underwent surgery to take out shotgun pellets.

Cause of the uprising was hard to determine. It coincided with the opening of a state legislative session at the Louisiana capital.

Police originally said they were fired upon furing the uproar but later said this was not confirmed.

Amherst Tutorial Program will Aid High School Students and Teachers

(Editor's note: The following is reprinted from the Springfield Republican.)

Since the establishment of Amherst Summer Action Programs last fall, much progress has been made in funding, organizing and focusing the three ASAP programs, Prof. Robert C. Townsend said Saturday.

A Better Chance, Smith-Amherst Tutorial Program and English Teachers Institute have been designed by Amherst College students, faculty members and administrators to help disadvantaged high school students and teachers, he said.

Townsend, cochairman of the Black - White Action Committee, said the basic budget objective of $65,000 has been met and exceeded. "We have been awarded conditionally a grant from the National Endowment of the Humanities," he said. "The conditions are that we raise $20,000 to get $20,000.

"So far we have matched only half the available amount, but I think we have a good chance of getting the balance. Recently we received word that the Education Task Force in Springfield has approved a grant of $10,000 to the SATP and ETI portions of the program but that must be approved by two more agencies in Springfield so there is not firm assurance that we will get it."

Townsend also pointed that a total of $90,000 is required to run the programs the way Amherst would like to: ABC would cost $31,500, STP $31,700 and ETI $27,000.

Asst. Dean of Students Henry M. Littlefield said the ABC program, for which he is codirector, will run from June 28 to Aug. 10, and will involve 75 Grade 8 and 9 boys from all over the United States. They will live in North and South Dormitories at Amherst, attend classes in Chapin, have their meals in Valentine and use the college's facilities.

The emphasis of ABC will be upon mathematics and English. Each student will enter a preparatory school, with full scholarship, next fall.

SATP, which will begin June 22 and conclude Aug. 1, will involve 30 students, half of them girls. Amherst and Smith students will be tutors for these Grade 8 and 9 students from Springfield.

There will be a similar group at Smith College and the two groups will coordinate efforts. Tracy Mehr, assistant professor of physical education, will be the faculty member in charge of Amherst's part of SATP. He will also run an Outward Bound program for students which will involve them in camping and similar outdoor activities.

An important part of both and SATP will be a black studies course run by tutors, who also will be allowed to teach their own elective courses.

ETI will be a six-week program involving 30 secondary-school English teachers and para-professionals from schools in the Springfield area. The object is to enrich the teaching of English.

Townsend said, "There is no sense in striving toward obtaining a better background in English; rather we shall ask for a better conception of why English is taught and a better conception of the necessary attitudes for teaching. English as communication is shared by all teachers and students black or white, whereas literature may not be."

Summarizing the scope and effect of ASAP, Prof. Hugh D. Hawkins remarked, "I think this, more than anything else, has done something to fulfill the proposals which have been made here at Amherst. Almost every group has asked for something which has been provided for in this project."

Nixon to Address Nation Will Report on Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon ordered his top peace negotiator Tuesday to speed home for new instructions as the President put final touches on his first fledged Vietnam speech since entering the White House.

Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the U.S. mission at the Paris peace talks, was due in Wednesday afternoon and planned to hurry back to the French capital Thursday in time to present the following day the U.S. response to the enemy's 10-point peace offer.

Nixon's speech - a half hour radio-telecast report to the nation at 10 p.m. - will in itself be a form of reply to the 10-point plan put forward by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front May 8 with Hanoi's backing. The next weekly negotiating session in Paris is due Friday.

Administration officials, speaking not for direct quotation, said the 10 points show some marginal movement by enemy envoys toward serious negotiating. The allies have also set forth proposals ranging from mutual troop withdrawal to political shaping of South Vietnam's future, they added.

Nixon conferred with Republican congressional leaders on his speech and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House GOP chief, told newsmen afterward Nixon had reinforced Ford's "cautious optimism" about prospects at Paris.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the speech will contai n new material and will be of great interest. Asked whether he was cautioning against expecting any dramatic announcement, Ziegler replied, "No, I would not say that." Ford said the speech would not announce any U.S. troop withdrawals.

Daily Collegian Staff Meeting
TONIGHT
Commonwealth Room, 6:30 pm
The meeting will be short, Please try to attend

MAY 31st AFTER GRADUATION

STOCKBRIDGE STUDENT SENATE

will sponsor a

Reception For All Graduates, Family, Faculty, Alumni of Stockbridge, Class of "69."

Reception will be at

The Bowditch Lodge & Farley Hall

on the north side of the Stadium

SEE YOU AT THE RECEPTION

"In case of rain, it will still be at the prescribed location"

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate handed President Nixon a significant victory Tuesday by defeating 52-40 a Democratic-sponsored resolution calling on him to delay his plan to shut down 59 Job Corps Centers.

It was the first major test of the year in the Senate on one of the Republican President's policy decisions in the domestic field.

A solid phalanx of Republican votes, with help from Democrats including several southerners, was enough to kill the resolution.

The resolution would not have had a binding effect in any case since it would merely have expressed "the sense of the Senate" that the closings should be delayed until Congress has had a chance to study the entire antipoverty program.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration has picked up more Senate backers for its Safeguard missile system than its opponents have wooed over, the latest Associated Press survey shows.

Nevertheless, opponents of the system now number 48, three votes short of an absolute majority.

Advocates of speedy installation of the limited antiballistic missile system proposed by President Nixon can now count 46 Senate supporters.

Six senators - who held the key to resolving the issue - say they are undecided.

Based on the AP surveys, backers of the system have gained the support of 11 additional senators while opponents have picked up five.

(AP) - Nineteen Brooklyn College students faced criminal charges Tuesday in connection with fiery campus disorders. At the same time, 21 sealed indictments were handed up by a grand jury investigating seizure of a Cornell University building by armed Negro militants.

(AP) - An estimated 1,000 Southern University students rioted on their Louisiana campus Tuesday, exchanging gunfire with police, brandishing flaming torches and hurling fire bombs, rocks and bottles filled with acid. Tear gas failed to quell them.

Gov. John J. McKeithen called up 600 National Guard troops, keeping them on alert about three miles from the Southern campus at Baton Rouge. The school has about 8,000 students.

A university spokesman said 30 persons were treated for injuries, eight of them for gunshot wounds. Several sheriff's deputies received minor injuries.

Cause of the uprising was hard to determine. It coincided with the opening of a state legislative session at the Louisiana capital.

Deputies reported students shooting at police with small caliber weapons, and hurling bottles filled with acid. Police shot back, and also used tear gas.

NEW YORK (AP) - Civil Rights leader Roy Wilkins says that the wave of demands by militant Negro students for schools and courses of black studies is "a lot of nonsense." Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said of Negro studies programs: "They will only amount to black bull sessions."

Negro studies programs, Wilkins said, "are faced with personnel problems because no one is educated enough to teach them."

"If the student s want to study about their ancestors," he told about 500 persons at an NAACP fund-raising dinner Monday night in the New York Hilton Hotel, "they should study them on the side and concentrate school on algebra, calculus, jets and the great world of communications."

"It's not how a black man wears his hair but what he has inside his head," he declared.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Israel has paid the United States $3.5 million as compensation for the 164 U.S. seamen inlured during the 1967 Israeli attack on the American communications ship, Liberty, the State Department announced Tuesday.

It was the second payment in connection with the attack by Israeli planes and torpedo boats on the ship on June 8, 1967, about 15 miles north of the Sinai peninsula during the Arab-Israeli war.

An earlier payment of $3.3 million was made May 1968 for the families of the 34 men killed in the attack. The United States reportedly has asked about $7 million for damages to the ship itself.

Press officer Carl Bartch said the second payment was made April 28.

School of Business Administration

INVESTMENT SYMPOSIUM

Topic: "Making Money in the Stock Market - The Professional Way"

Speaker: Donald Farrar, Vice President of Investments Paul Revere Life Insurance Company

Date: Wednesday, May 14, 4:00 p.m.

Place: Room 120 SBA

The Paul Revere Life Insurance Co. has had outstanding success with their investments in stocks and other equity investments. Mr. Farrar has played an important role in this success story. He is representative of the aggressive young talent the insurance industry has recruited in this area. Mr. Farrar is a dynamic speaker and will be quoting from text books. He's going to tell it like it is. There will be an open period for questions.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545 2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Dartmouth Protestors Refused Bail Court Appeals to be Heard Friday

NEW CASTLE, N.H. (AP) - The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declined Tuesday to free on bail 45 young persons jailed for refusing to leave a Dartmouth College administration building taken over to protest ROTC.

But the three-judge panel said it would hear appeals in Boston Friday of the sentences imposed on the youths in Grafton County Superior Court.

The 45 youths, some Dartmouth students and some sympathizers and including five girls, each were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 last week for criminal contempt of court.

Tuesday's motion asked that the defendants motion be released on bail until their cases had been heard in the federal courts.

The judges who heard and denied the motion were Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich and Judges Edward M. McEntee and Frank M. Coffin.

They acted in this seaside community because of a federal judges' conference under way here.

The ruling was made without comment, but Aldrich asked New Hampshire Asst. Atty. Gen. David Souter to provide a shuttle service for defense attorneys to get the youths from six county jails for Friday's hearing.

The youths were sentenced last Friday in Superior Court in Woodsville by Judge Martin Loughlin. He continued the cases of nine others arrested until May 19.

All were charged with violating an injunction, which Dartmouth trustees obtained from Judge Loughlin, forbidding occupation of the building and damage to it.

A group seized the building May 6 and ejected deans and other administration employes. State troopers from New Hampshire and Vermont forced their way into the building the next day and arrested the demonstrators. Contempt convictions cannot be appealed in New Hampshire, so defense attorneys petitioned the state's Supreme Court for writs of habeas corpus.

They contended that their clients' constitutional rights to equal protection under the law had been violated when they were denied delays similar to those given the nine others.

The high court denied the petitions, as did U.S. District Court Judge Hugh H. Bownes when they were filed with him later in Concord.

The cases then were taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals where defense lawyers William Baker and Ridler Page argued their clients had not "effective right to counsel" and that due process of law had been denied.

The attorneys said they had only about 37 hours to interview 15 clients before appearing in Superior Court.

In another development, Dean Thaddeus Seymour, one of those ejected from the building in the takeover, said the college will begin hearings Thursday to determine disciplinary action against students identified as having participated in the occupation.

Dartmouth President John Sloan Dickey announced that a five-member executive trustees' committee voted Monday to begin action to end ROTC programs on the campus by June, 1973.

The committee recommended phasing out the programs "in such a way as to meet commitments to students presently enrolled" and to include those in the class of 1973 already accepted in the military programs.

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences voted 131-60 on May 5 to end ROTC programs.

No All-Points Bulletin was Issued The Day James Earl Ray Shot King

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - There was no all-points bulletin issued to stop James Earl Ray the night he shot and killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and fled Memphis in a white 1966 Mustang.

Police Chief Henry Lux, who for months had the impression that an automatic alarm had been broadcast, confirmed in an exclusive interview that no such bulletin was issued.

The widespread belief among law enforcement officers - and consequently the public - that a bulletin had been issued and that Ray had apparently escaped with ease in spite of it contributed to the suspicion that he might have been part of a conspiracy rather than a lone killer.

The judge in Ray's trial said in an interview afterward he was mystified over how Ray eluded the roadblocks that would have been established following an all-points alert. A hearing on Ray's motion for a new trial is scheduled for May 26.

Since there was no bulletin, there were no roadblocks or checkpoints established at the nearest escape routes to neighboring Arkansas and Mississippi - or in Georgia, Alabama, Missouri, Louisiana, SO bama, Missouri, Louisiana, South Carolina, Virginia, or Kentucky. Or anywhere.

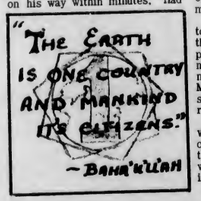
"The first Memphis police radio transmission mentioning a white Mustang was logged at 6:11 p.m., April 4, 1968," said a Shelby County authority with intimate knowledge of the state's evidence.

King was shot at 6:01 p.m. Ray apparently was on the street and on his way within minutes. Had he begun his flight in the Mustang as late as 6:05 p.m., by 6:11 he would have been on the Memphis-Arkansas Bridge leading to Arkansas or no more than 10 minutes away from the Mississippi state line.

Chief Lux, in explaining the failure to issue an all-points bulletin, said: "At this time, we did not know for sure or have any proof that a white Mustang was involved. We had broadcast that the suspect was believed to be in a white Mustang.

"This wasn't enough to put out an all-points. To do that, you usually have to indicate that a warrant has been issued and that you will extradite. Otherwise, the receiving states are not going to act on it."

Another explanation, given by Memphis police as well as police officials in other areas, was that the local situation was hectic and tense and that authorities were concerned about rioting and disorder.



In his trial before the late Judge W. Preston Battle, Ray drew a 99-year sentence March 10 under an agreement to plead guilty. Ray later repudiated the agreement and, following Judge Battle's death, was granted a hearing on his motion for a new trial.

During a series of exclusive interviews just before he died of a heart attack, Judge Battle said there were questions about the Ray case which troubled him, the chief one being Ray's flight.

Ray's abandoned Mustang was confiscated by the FBI in Atlanta April 11, 1968.

Investigation into this question showed that even a year after the slaying there were authorities in some neighboring states who still had the impression there had been such a bulletin.

But in none of these states, or any others, were there any unusual or nonroutine patrol actions, such as the setting up of roadblocks.

Fine Arts Council Ignores Petition, Cuts Band Budget

Apparently ignoring a petition signed by 2684 students, the Fine Arts Council voted last night to disregard the 1969-70 University Bands Budget.

A petition reading "We the students, as tax payers, do hearily request that the F.A.C. accept the 1969-1970 University Bands Budget", which was signed by 2684 students in the preceeding 24 hours, was presented to the Council by officers and representatives of the Bands, at the regular F.A.C. meeting last night.

The Council, which had refused to accept a budget of $25,480 for the Marching, Concert, and Symphony Bands on April 29, last night suggested that the bands submit a revised budget excluding Marching Band. This budget was submitted and again the F.A.C. refused to consider it.

The result of this action, provided the bands cannot find another source of funds, will be that the Campus Community will be without the services of the Marching, Concert, and Symphony Bands.

Students Riot at Southern University Nat'l Guard Near

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An estimated 1,000 Southern University students rioted on their Louisiana campus Tuesday, brandishing flaming torches and hurling fire bombs, rocks and bottles filled with acid. Police fired tear gas and a few shotgun blasts at them.

Gov. John J. McKeithen called up 600 National Guard troops, keeping them on alert about three miles from the Southern campus at Baton Rouge. The school has about 8,000 students.

Thirteen students and two sheriff's deputies were treated at Lady of the Lakes Hospital. Two of the students underwent surgery to take out shotgun pellets.

Cause of the uprising was hard to determine. It coincided with the opening of a state legislative session at the Louisiana capital.

Police originally said they were fired upon furing the uproar but later said this was not confirmed.

Amherst Tutorial Program will Aid High School Students and Teachers

(Editor's note: The following is reprinted from the Springfield Republican.)

Since the establishment of Amherst Summer Action Programs last fall, much progress has been made in funding, organizing and focusing the three ASAP programs, Prof. Robert C. Townsend said Saturday.

A Better Chance, Smith-Amherst Tutorial Program and English Teachers Institute have been designed by Amherst College students, faculty members and administrators to help disadvantaged high school students and teachers, he said.

Townsend, cochairman of the Black - White Action Committee, said the basic budget objective of $65,000 has been met and exceeded. "We have been awarded conditionally a grant from the National Endowment of the Humanities," he said. "The conditions are that we raise $20,000 to get $20,000.

"So far we have matched only half the available amount, but I think we have a good chance of getting the balance. Recently we received word that the Education Task Force in Springfield has approved a grant of $10,000 to the SATP and ETI portions of the program but that must be approved by two more agencies in Springfield so there is not firm assurance that we will get it."

Townsend also pointed that a total of $90,000 is required to run the programs the way Amherst would like to: ABC would cost $31,500, STP $31,700 and ETI $27,000.

Asst. Dean of Students Henry M. Littlefield said the ABC program, for which he is codirector, will run from June 28 to Aug. 10, and will involve 75 Grade 8 and 9 boys from all over the United States. They will live in North and South Dormitories at Amherst, attend classes in Chapin, have their meals in Valentine and use the college's facilities.

The emphasis of ABC will be upon mathematics and English. Each student will enter a preparatory school, with full scholarship, next fall.

SATP, which will begin June 22 and conclude Aug. 1, will involve 30 students, half of them girls. Amherst and Smith students will be tutors for these Grade 8 and 9 students from Springfield.

There will be a similar group at Smith College and the two groups will coordinate efforts. Tracy Mehr, assistant professor of physical education, will be the faculty member in charge of Amherst's part of SATP. He will also run an Outward Bound program for students which will involve them in camping and similar outdoor activities.

An important part of both and SATP will be a black studies course run by tutors, who also will be allowed to teach their own elective courses.

ETI will be a six-week program involving 30 secondary-school English teachers and para-professionals from schools in the Springfield area. The object is to enrich the teaching of English.

Townsend said, "There is no sense in striving toward obtaining a better background in English; rather we shall ask for a better conception of why English is taught and a better conception of the necessary attitudes for teaching. English as communication is shared by all teachers and students black or white, whereas literature may not be."

Summarizing the scope and effect of ASAP, Prof. Hugh D. Hawkins remarked, "I think this, more than anything else, has done something to fulfill the proposals which have been made here at Amherst. Almost every group has asked for something which has been provided for in this project."

Nixon to Address Nation Will Report on Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon ordered his top peace negotiator Tuesday to speed home for new instructions as the President put final touches on his first full-fledged Vietnam speech since entering the White House.

Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the U.S. mission at the Paris peace talks, was due in Wednesday afternoon and planned to hurry back to the French capital Thursday in time to present the following day the U.S. response to the enemy's 10-point peace offer.

Nixon's speech - a half hour radio-telecast report to the nation at 10 p.m. - will in itself be a form of reply to the 10-point plan put forward by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front May 8 with Hanoi's backing. The next weekly negotiating session in Paris is due Friday.

Administration officials, speaking not for direct quotation, said the 10 points show some marginal movement by enemy envoys toward serious negotiating. The allies have also set forth proposals ranging from mutual troop withdrawal to political shaping of South Vietnam's future, they added.

Nixon conferred with Republican congressional leaders on his speech and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House GOP chief, told newsmen afterward Nixon had reinforced Ford's "cautious optimism" about prospects at Paris.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the speech will contai n new material and will be of great interest. Asked whether he was cautioning against expecting any dramatic announcement, Ziegler replied, "No, I would not say that." Ford said the speech would not announce any U.S. troop withdrawals.

Daily Collegian Staff Meeting

TONIGHT

Commonwealth Room, 6:30 pm

The meeting will be short, Please try to attend

MAY 31st AFTER GRADUATION

STOCKBRIDGE STUDENT SENATE

will sponsor a

Reception For All Graduates, Family, Faculty, Alumni of Stockbridge, Class of "69."

Reception will be at

The Bowditch Lodge & Farley Hall

on the north side of the Stadium

SEE YOU AT THE RECEPTION

"In case of rain, it will still be at the prescribed location"

All Campus Barbecue

Yesterday, the annual All Campus Barbecue took place on the field by the stadium. An estimated ten thousand students appeared in the course of the afternoon. Entertainment was supplied by the "Boss Tweed".

The barbeque chicken was enjoyed by most, with the only problem being that you couldn't go back for more.

In walking among the masses there were only a few complaints heard. The first being that there were not enough trash recepticals, so that by the end of the day the acre of ground was strewn with trash.

Also, the students who live on the hill had to walk a great distance to get to Southwest.

Possibly next year two barbeques could be held; one on the hill, and one in Southwest. All in all the picnic was a success, but maybe next year we will get butter with our rolls! (MDC photos by Steve Schmidt)

Hayakawa

Blacks Recruited as "Cannon Fodder In a Revolution Planned by Whites"

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, told a Senate subcommittee investigating campus disorders Tuesday that militant black students are being recruited "to be cannon fodder in a revolution planned by whites."

Hayakawa, who came to national attention when he called in police to break up student demonstrations on the San Francisco college campus, said white revolutionaries who include wealthy people from outside the college community are pushing black militants into the current spate of demonstrations.

"It is certainly obvious that the rhetoric of the black militant stems from Communist classics dating back a half century or more," Hayakawa said. "But whites are doing much more than given them words to recite and arguments to use."

He said Negro students in trouble with police at San Francisco State are usually bailed out promptly and given expert legal advice. He said they are also helped with money, food, jobs, and transportation.

"By these means," Hayakawa told the subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., "Blacks are recruited to be cannon fodder in a revolution planned by whites.

"To use a phrase I detest, but which is in this instance all too descriptive, white revolutionaries, by their largesse, are making 'house niggers' of their black allies."

Amherst College Moratorium. . .

(Continued from Page 1)

opment. They provided cheap labor, if not downright slavery in the South, and America developed in a particular way because of this. I'm not saying that America would not have developed without the blacks, but it would have done so in a different way. For this reason black culture is an important part of American culture and it has been shortchanged in the history books."

Both spokesmen agreed that "we are looking for a firm commitment from Amherst, from the government. We want a commitment based on genuine concern, not feelings of guilt or convenience. Furthermore we stress the urgency of this commitment; we've already waited for hundreds of years. Many people at Amherst think things are just fine here, they don't bother to question themselves about the black man's just place in America. We have to ward off this false self-satisfaction. We have to keep seeking to improve our world."

the pied piper IS

9 E. Pleasant — Amherst

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

SALE STARTS THURSDAY, MAY 15

Thousands of Dollars of current Spring & Summer fashions (i.e. Villager, John Meyer, Glen of Michigan) are to be sold at a fraction of their regular price.

Terms: Cash & Carry.

REDUCTIONS: FROM 25% TO 75%

Dresses ..... $4 to $20 were to $70

Swim Wear ... $7 to $10 were to $24

Skirts & Culottes .... $4 to $14 were to $23

Slax ... $6.90 to $11.90 were to $23

Suits ..... $30 were to $55

Handbags, Scarfs Gloves, Jewelry 50% OFF

Sweaters ..... $5 - $10 were to $26

13 Ski Pants ..... $13 were $30

T-Shirts, Dungarees Hosiery at Fantastic Reductions

All States are Proposing Legislation In Response to Overt Student Unrest

WASHINGTON (CPS) - Fact: Most state legislatures are meeting this year. Fact: Most student uprisings are happening this year.

Conclusion: Legislation is being proposed in states all over the country with responses to student unrest that are overtly repressive, in some cases apparently unconstitutional, and at best overreacting.

In many states this year students are not sitting still for this statehouse activity. They are lobbying to make sure budget cuts, anti-demonstration bills and other measures don't even make it to the governors' desks.

Most of the students doing the lobbying are not radicals, but come from the second line of defense - the liberals. Not likely to participate in takeovers or issue demands, these are the students who nevertheless find reactionary legislation repulsive enough to fight the "establishment" at that level.

The issues vary from state to state, but a clear pattern is evident. Legislators feel a real or imagined threat to the power structure of their state public institutions, and immediately try to pass bills which are, quite literally, reactionary. Students then mobilize in different ways to combat these bills.

Pennsylvania's legislature is down hard on student rights. A recently proposed measure says, "Anyone who annoys, disturbs, disrupts, taunts, assaults or molests anyone on campus, . ." is subject to a three-month jail sentence and/or a $150 fine. Representatives from state campus student governments and a few student newspapers spent a day lobbying against the bill. Governor Raymond Shafer has indicated he's against it.

Indiana students are battling a series of measures thrown their way by the legislature. A confusing bill which prevents student voting in their college towns comes up soon for the Governor's signature. The bill, students say, was a reaction to last spring's Democratic primary, when student voters in college towns significantly altered or swayed the results in many areas of the state.

Officer Candidate Training FOR Naval Aviation

Navy Pilot/Flight Officer interviews will be conducted by Navy representatives at the Amherst Carriage Motor Inn May 15th through 17th.

Qualifying aptitude examinations may be taken without obligation. Transportation is available on request. Call 253-9511 between 9:00 A.M. and 8:00 P.M.

Absent from the Student Senate meeting of Wednesday, May 7th, 1969, the constituencies not represented were as follows:
Flaherty, Hills North
Fritz, Dickinson
Moran, E., Patterson
Cullinan (excused), Lewis
Balboni (Excused), President

Univ. of Mass.
School of Educ.
EDUCATIONAL FILM WORKSHOP,
a showing of the final student productions.
Wed., 7:30
School of Educ. Auditorium

60 OH Students to Participate In Community Living Experience

By MONICA McCARTHY
Staff Reporter

In order to make their education more relevant and pertinent to life, 60 Orchard Hill students will participate next year in Innisfree -- a community living-learning experience.

The purpose of Innisfree is to bring the academic and personal living experiences closer together. Now students attend classes and return to the dormitory where they live with people who have different courses and have little in common in academic experiences.

Innisfree proposes to give students a common academic ground by offering courses within the Innisfree community. The students will be required to take a course in group interaction, and sensitivity.

Some Freshman and Sophomore English classes and some History classes will be held in Innisfree next Fall. These classes will be held on the corridor by faculty members who will spend time on the corridors, getting to know the students personally.

These classes will be the foundation of a common learning experience which should be a springboard for discussions within the community. This could break down the barriers that separate life in the classroom from life in the living community. No longer, it is hoped, will classes end with the ringing of a bell, they will be integrated into the total living experience.

Innisfree will attempt to bring university life closer to the "real world" outside the university. In a "real world" living situation men and women live on the same floor in apartment houses and are free to visit one another.

Innisfree members will live on the 5 North corridor of Eugene Field and the 5 South corridor of David Grayson. Innisfree hopes to have free access between these two corridors and will share a common study area in the link between the two dorms. This is to enable students to relate to one another in an academic and personal sense.

For the future Innisfree is planning more courses. In the Spring they hope to offer a credit course in planning Orchard Hill curriculum.

This will allow the students to plan more relevant courses in which students are interested. It is also hoped that 6 or 9 credit interdisciplinary courses which will consist of 2 or 3 related courses will be set up. This would allow the student to become involved in depth with a subject, rather than diffuse his interest into 5 unrelated courses.

The community, which will include 25 Freshmen, does not plan to increase in size because it is felt that a large number destroys the sense of community, but it does hope to serve as a model for other "living-learning" communities which may be formed on Orchard Hill.

The Innisfree community does not plan to isolate itself from the dormitory and will participate in all regular dormitory activities. However, it does stress individual importance, in an attempt to counteract the anonymity of an impersonal and growing university.

Fifty Nine Professors Granted Tenure

Fifty-nine UMass faculty members have been granted tenure by the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees, Provost Oswald Tippo has announced.

Those named in the College of Arts and Sciences were: Jack L. Benson, professor of art; Rene M. Bernascont and Everett E. Turner Jr., instructors of chemistry; David J. Curran, assistant professor of chemistry; C. Peter Lillya, associate professor of chemistry; Solomon Barkin, professor of economics; Vaclav Holesovsky, associate professor of economics; Ernest H. Hofer and Arthur F. Kinney Jr., associate professors of English; Glen Gordon, associate professor of government; Miriam U. Chrisman, associate professor of history; George E. Kirk, professor of history.

Also: Teng-Sun Liu and Jin-Chen Su, associate professors of mathematics; Robert P. Mortlock, associate professor of microbiology; John A. Jenkins and Ronald A. Steele, assistant professors of music; John G. Robison, associate professor of philosophy; Kandula S. Sastry, Robert V. Krotkov and Morton M. Sternheim, associate professors of physics and astronomy; Jay A. Trowill, associate professor of psychology; Curt Tausky and Eugene B. Piedmont, associate professors of sociology; F. Jane Blankenship, associate professor of speech; William K. Price, assistant professor of speech; Arthur P. Mange, assistant professor of zoology; Larry S. Roberts and Theodore D. Sargent, associate professors of zoology.

Named in the College of Agriculture were: Stevenson W. Fletcher III, instructor of agricultural engineering; Robert M. Devlin, associate professor at the cranberry station; William A. Feder, professor of environmental sciences at Waltham; Haim B. Gunner, associate professor of environmental sciences; William D. McEnroe, assistant professor of environmental sciences at Waltham; Robert E. Levin, assistant professor of food science and technology; Charles R. Stumbo, professor of food science and technology; George N. Agrios, associate professor of plant pathology; Sidney J. Lyford Jr., assistant professor of animal and veterinary science.

In the School of Business Administration those named were: Alexander Barges and Isidore Silver, associate professors of general business and finance; Van Court M. Hare Jr., George B. Simmons and Max S. Wortman Jr., professors of management; James P. O'Connell, assistant professor of accounting.

Named in the School of Education was Ronald H. Fredrickson, associate professor.

Named in the School of Engineering were: Lee H.S. Roblee Jr., professor of chemical engineering; Robert S. Kirk, associate professor of chemical engineering; Robert R. Archer, professor of civil engineering; Melton M. Miller Jr. and Alexander Chajes, associate professors of civil engineering; Frankly G. Umholtz, assistant professor of basic engineering; Duane E. Cromack, assistant professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering.

Named in the School of Nursing were: Virginia Earles, professor; Mary B. Hall and Helen M. Whitbeck, assistant professors; Jane E. Nicholson and Loretta R. Sharp, Associate Professors.

Named in the School of Physical Education were: Arland B. Barber, assistant professor of physical education for men; Carleton L. Beal Jr., instructor of physical education for men.

Youth for One World

SUN GLASSES for the Long Summer Strain

May we suggest a good grey lens. We have them from Bausch and Lomb and American Optical.

They are specially treated for your protection.

DON CALL

Amherst Review Commission To Study Kerner Report

In accordance with a vote taken at the Amherst March town meeting, selectmen have appointed a "Citizens' Review Commission" designed to study the effects of the report of the National Kerner Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. Appointed were: the Rev. Joseph Quigley, William A. Darity, Jr., Harvey Freedman, Jules Chametzky, Mrs. Cynthia Dunbar, Mason Davis, Nelson Woodfork, Mrs. Perry Roberts, Joel H. Winslow, Mrs. Edwin Driver and Miss Ruth McIntire.

Town meeting action called for the eleven commission members to be widely representative of resident races, creeds, levels of age, education and income, and to include members of both sexes. The commission is to conduct investigations and advise the town publicly not later than November 1.

NOTICES

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS
A bus will leave for the last visit of the year for the hospital tonight at 6:30 p.m. from the S.U. and Patterson. All welcome.

NEWMAN CENTER
Ascension tomorrow, Holy Day of Obligation. Masses at 7, 8, 9:15 a.m. and 12:15, 5 and 7 p.m.

ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION
The annual picnic will be this Sat. at 1 p.m. at Dr. Backer's home. All members invited.

S.U. MOVIE COMMITTEE
Elmer Gantry coming Thurs. at 7 p.m.; The Silencers (Dean Martin) playing Tues., May 20 at 6 and 8 p.m.; East of Eden (James Dean) coming Thurs., May 22 at 6 and 8:15 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom.

SCROLLS
Meeting tomorrow. Sophomore Scrolls meet at 6 p.m., Freshman Scrolls meet at 6:30 p.m.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
For our last meeting of the year, we are having a Communion Service with Rev. David Fife tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall. All members please come.

OUTING CLUB
Puffer's Pond outing tomorrow at 4 p.m. Sign-up sheet on Bulletin board.

SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Rm., S.U. Movies and slides to be shown. Lecture: "How to Crash A Picnic."

CLASS OF '69
Seniors: Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day, May 30.

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE: JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication on campus judiciaries, call 6-7157. Reporters and staff also needed.

INORGANIC SEMINAR
Mr. Robert J. York will speak on "B-diketone Complexes of Co (III)" tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 151.

ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. Peter McKinney, Harvard, will speak on "Electrochemistry of Triphenylchloroantimony and some Related Compounds," tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 252.

ORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Prof. Ernest Grunwald, Brandeis, will speak on "Fast Proton Transfer Rates and Solvation" tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 152.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS MEET
The Engineering Society of Western Mass. and the Western Mass. Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will join on Tues., May 20 at Storrowton Barn, West Springfield for Ladies' Night Program. Mr. Wellsey S. Reed, a member of the Musical Box Society, International, will talk on "Music from the Attic." This is the last of the W. Mass. Section of ASME '68-69 activities.

HEYMAKERS
The last regular dance will be tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom. Farewell party.

BIAFRA RELIEF
Meeting today at 4 p.m. in 209 Hampshire House. Please come if you care. If you can't make the meeting but want to help, call Lorna Maynard at 6-6634.

SCUBA CLUB
Meeting at 7 p.m. tonight in Curry Hicks. Last minute nominations and a vote for next fall's officers will be taken. All members please attend.

HILLEL
Fri. services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm. Sat. services at 9:45 a.m.

MENTAL HEALTH INFORMATION TABLE
Today from 9-4 in the S.U. lobby. Contributions appreciated.

PINNING
Jeannie Pound, '71, Alpha Chi Omega, to Rick McInerny, '70, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

MARRIAGE
Pamela Miller, '70, to Airman Stephen Estock, USAF.

LOST AND FOUND
Lost - UMass class ring with initials DPM-BBA. Call Dennis, 217 Wheeler. Reward.
Lost - Long red, white and blue scarf. Reward. Call Sue Bogert or Cathy Conley, 5-0320 or 5-0321.
Found - Outside Arnold House - pair black rimmed glasses. Inscription reads Dr. Joseph E. Cauley, Optometrist, Holyoke, Mass., 532-6258. Call Elizabeth Hadley, Math. and Stwtistics.
Lost - Brown square-shaped glasses. Call Holly, 6 8366.
Lost - Red wallet belonging to Susan Spooner. Call 6-9553 or 6-9834 or return to S.U. lost and found or Campus Police Station.
Lost - Brown leather wallet with leather lacing around edges. Call Bill 6-9336. Reward.
Lost - History notebook with notes on E.A. Ross. Return to 338 Pierpont or call 6-5238.
Lost - Pair of smoke rimmed glasses. Call 6-9293.
Lost - Green Botany 101 notebook. Call Carol in 418, 5-2746.

at THE AMHERST TOWER

purchase 3 pizzas, receive upon request an additional one, plain, free
purchase 6 pizzas, receive upon request an additional two, plain, free
(This offer good only with deliveries)
256-6667
253-7100
FREE DELIVERY
6 - 11

Crisis at UMass

The Massachusetts legislature is understandably upset over campus rioting. A bill to crack down on campus demonstrators who refuse lawful orders to leave college buildings went through the House last week by a two-to-one margin. It proposed five-year prison terms and fines up to $3,000.

But the legislature is less responsive to the financial crisis of the University of Massachusetts - a crisis that may sooner or later feed the sort of discontent and disruption that has torn so many campuses asunder. Although Dr. Oswald Tippo, provost of the university, has submitted his resignation in protest against budget slashes for higher education, Sen. James Burke has been quoted as saying that "No s.o.b. in state service is going to affect a state appropriation by threatening to resign."

The legislature should move cautiously before adopting Burke's point of view, understandable as it may be. Dr. Tippo's resignation may not be an attempt at blackmail. It may be an act of frustration by a devoted educator who cannot in good conscience take responsibility for a major university when he is denied sufficient funds to carry out his responsibility.

A look around the country may be enlightening. Take San Francisco State College for example. San Francisco had many problems that finally erupted in its five-month strike and siege, but one of them definitely was the fact that it was so sorely overcrowded. Classroom after classroom was jammed to the windows. Classes were held in offices, in hallways, even in dressing rooms. The overcrowding was the result of California's policy of providing virtually free college education for all its high school graduates.

Massachusetts does not provide free college education, but the state colleges and particularly the state university are among the best bargains around for those seeking college degrees. The results are seen in the rising tide of applications. In 1959, the university had 5,162 freshman applicants, and enrolled 1,756. In 1968 it had 23,540 applicants (at both Amherst and Boston) and enrolled 4,400.

The university has grown by leaps and bounds, at the cost of millions of dollars, but it still has not kept pace with the demand. Projections show that about 277,000 students are enrolled in two-year and four-year colleges in Massachusetts. The number of potential college students is expected to increase 410,000 by 1980.

By 1975, there will be 60,000 young men and women with no place to go for higher education in this state. By 1980, there will be more than 110,000.

Massachusetts, as Dr. John Lederle, UMass president, keeps pointing out, still is at the bottom of the list in supporting its state colleges and universities - No. 50 among the states.

Yet expenditures for higher education are going to rise dramatically with the building of a new medical and dental school here in Worcester.

The taxpayers and the legislature must get used to the idea that top grade education these days costs a lot of money, but is the best investment that society can make.

(Editor's note: The above is a reprint of an editorial from the "Worcester Telegram".)

Campus Comment

Conservative Replies

A question for Mr. Bromery and his revolution advocates: did you have an unhappy childhood? There must be some yet unfathomed reason for such irrational, stupid, pointless, destructive, idiotic attitudes and behavior. Revolution? For what? Just because your age gives you the privilege of receiving another piece of the Independence Cookie, you have no right to demand the whole jar. Too much good food will give you indigestion, and the resulting gas will go to your heads. Even now something has inflated them. I think that your newly found "intellectual freedom" represents a room full of toys that are too advanced for your age; so instead of using them properly (which you can't do), you are bound and determined to smash every last one out of sheer frustration. Look kiddies, the only reason you can pout this way and get away with it is because Mommy and Daddy aren't around anymore to slap your wrists. Somebody else should. Keep acting up, and somebody else will. Student unrest? I think it's diaper rash.

But maybe I'm being too hasty in passing this judgement--perhaps you have grown up and have begun to think rationally. Maybe it's just that you've had your sculls bashed too many times, and this is now affecting your judgement. Maybe the whole lot of you are asleep. If you will wake up for just a moment, perhaps you will realize that a social order developed over 200 years or so can't be ALL bad. It also can't be perfect, but that doesn't mean that we stop trying. Even so, change in this particular order is, by necessity, slow--it was purposely designed that way in order to avoid the destructive fanaticism that you would like to substitute. Whether you like it or not, evolution is a slow process, and the current majority is basically content with the direction of that evolution. Even the majority is annoyed that change is so slow, but thank God that they have the sense to see the logical, sensible, peaceful road to change. Your radical proposals are frowned upon here. While your right of dissenting opinion is recognized, I feel that I am not alone in kindly wishing that you would shut up. Don't make waves. We've seen how the other systems operate, and we feel that we have the best one going in spite of its faults. If you are not content to live in this country, with its high standard of living, economic prosperity, educational opportunity, and great job potential, you may leave at any time. Go live in Cuba or Red China if you wish. You will be treated royally until you no longer serve a purpose. Only then will you see what you are so devoutly supporting. It is my guess that you would then come crawling back, begging forgiveness.

As for instigating campus violence, who the hell are you to say how a university should be run? Non-negotiable demands, seizure of buildings, molesting of officials verbally and otherwise, vandalism, use of weaponry, and physical violence have no place in an institution devoted to intellectual stimulation in an environment of peace and harmony, to use your own words. You have no right to deny other students access to the education they came to college to get. If I had my way, violent protestors would not only be removed from buildings, but from the academic community as well. Campuses don't need this kind of grief. The administrators have more important things to worry about.

In closing, I would like to quote a well-known "revolutionary" of past years, Mahatma Gandi: "If you think that the world is all wrong, remember that it contains people like you." Put that in your press and print it.

Arthur L. Lupien

Withdraws Support

I find myself in the awkward position of having to withdraw my name from the SLAP petition which came out in the form of a broadside last Thursday. The petition, essentially calling for a referendum vote on the new Senate Constitution, was, and still is a good one.

Unfortunately, I cannot subscribe to the write-up which accompanied the petition, nor had I any knowledge of said write-up or the form of the broadside when I signed the petition.

The write-up itself was a misrepresentation of the situation and fallacious in its factual presentation. I resent the fact that my name appeared on the SLAP broadside, inferring that I had endorsed anything more than the petition itself.

George Child
President, IFC

"Regulate"

Fooey to klutzes who cloud issues, hankies to sobbing student senators, bouquets and orchids to S.L.A.P., and words of caution to interested students:

The publication of Publius was a good beginning toward arousing student awareness of the proposed new Student Government Constitution. Big bellyaching over inaccuracies of parts of extemporaneous quotes in Publius is, just as SLAP says, "a common ploy to divert attention from the real issues."

To be sure, individual rights seem well provided for in the "Bill of Rights" section (Article III).

However, we are concerned with the generous assortment of powers which the Senate awarded itself in Article II. If this section is accepted, every organization on campus will be explicitly under senate control.

According to Webster, the work "regulate" means "to govern or direct according to rule." "Regulate" appears four times in Article II and applies in varying ways to class government, dorm government, area government, summer government -- and indirectly to every other organization.

For example, ". . .the senate shall have the following powers. . . to REGULATE the financial policies of the class administrations. . . to provide for the constitution and the REGULATION of area and residence government." Under the present constitution the Senate is not explicitly empowered to either regulate dorm and area government or class expenditures after a budget is passed.

THE GUN BEHIND THE DOOR

The major threat of all is a seven-letter word appearing before the phrase, ". . .the constitutions of ALL student organizations".

(Continued from Page 7)

FROM OUR SIDE

Provost Tippo Should Withdraw Resignation for Compromise

Last week UMass Provost Oswald Tippo brought his case before the people of the Commonwealth. In a move meant to focus public attention on the monetary plight of UMass, he submitted his resignation to President Lederle. This resignation was to remain in President Lederle's hands until the legislature restored that which had been cut from the proposed budget, eleven million dollars, twenty percent of the total.

Much has happened since last week. The campaign has been carried to the people, to the voters. The resignation alone caused an uproar to eminate from certain prominent politicians. The publicity received from this, combined with the advertising campaign that is now in progress, should make the public aware of what is happening. Tippo's resignation has served its purpose, his protest has become public.

The first phase of the campaign is completed, we cannot leave it up in the air, it is necessary to proceed to the next step. Provost Tippo should now withdraw his resignation. The protest has been registered; there is nothing more that can be gained from resigning, and everything to lose. By withdrawing his resignation, Provost Tippo can show the legislature that he is willing to compromise. At the moment, compromise is the only hope that UMass has. Eleven million dollars have been cut, only an extreme optomist could even hope for significant restoration of funds through the campaign alone. The withdrawal of the resignation will remove the pressure of "blackmail" from the legislators. There will be no threat hanging over their heads; however, the issue will still be there.

In compromise a first move has to be made. Provost Tippo should take this first step; it will appease the wounded egos at Beacon Hill. There are times when it is necessary to submit a little and bend with the wind, this is one. There is nothing wrong with bending, with appeasement, if through it one gets that which he wants.

Moreover, UMass cannot afford to lose an administrator of the caliber and dedication of Provost Tippo. Few would have been willing to make themselves the sacrificial lamb as he did; few would have put their careers on the line. Now we ask Provost Tippo to make one more sacrifice, to withdraw his resignation. Without the full budget, UMass will need his services even more than before.

the editors

Plan Warrants Senate Approval

The Faculty Senate tomorrow will consider a plan to revise the general physical education requirement. The program calls for the reduction of the requirement to four semesters from the present eight, the awarding of credit for completion of the requirement, and also an option as to how the requirement is to be fulfilled. We think that its passage should be a must.

Presently, the general physical education requirement is a tedious, and often-times useless ordeal. It forces all students to take activity courses that they are sometimes neither equipped for nor interested in. The revision provides for a classroom course to fulfill requirement for those not wishing to take activity courses, but also will retain a large selection of activity courses for those so inclined.

The revisions are an excellent compromise between advocates of the present requirement and those desiring no requirement at all. The revisions will also allow for greater teaching and more experienced instructors than the present large number of graduate instructors.

It is a plan that has been approved by the Academic Matters Committee of the Faculty Senate; it is a plan that should be palatable to all students. We urge the Faculty Senate to heartily endorse it.

the editors

A Fable for Our Times

Once upon a time there was a Gopher who lived and worked with others of his kind in a colony in a field. The Gopher felt he was the best gopher in the whole colony and he let everybody know it. He often gave his neighbors advice and interfered in their affairs. His neighbors, for the most part, did not appreciate this but they tolerated his behavior because he could give them protection.

However the Gopher was not the only gopher who felt he was the best. There was another gopher, on the other side of the colony, who felt HE was the best. As a result there was a bitter rivalry between the two gophers.

One day the Gopher heard some of his neighbors talking about his rival. It appeared that his rival was building a huge mound in order to be the only gopher to be able to see far into the distance. The Gopher knew that his rival would receive Glory and admiration for his feat. Not to be outdone the Gopher was determined to build an even bigger mound so to achieve even greater Glory than his rival.

The next day he emerged from the network of tunnels beneath the ground, which was his home, and began working on his mound. He worked on his mound for two months and neglected everything else.

Finally he was finished. Perched atop his gigantic mound he could see far into the distance and the Glory he felt could not be described. However, his house, which was once the envy of all his neighbors, was crumbling under the weight of the mound and because the Gopher was so far above the ground he could not hear or see it crumbling.

His neighbors were amazed at the height of the mound but they were more amazed that the Gopher ignored his house and used the dirt to build his mound instead of strengthening his house.

Of all the things gophers are proud of the strength of their house ranks first. The Gopher however, ignored his house, which was becoming weaker and weaker as each day passed. Instead he prided himself on his mound and on the Glory he felt sure he was receiving from his neighbors.

His neighbors, however, knew that his rival had all the Glory. His rival had stopped building his mound long ago and instead used the dirt to strengthen his house until it was the strongest and safest in the whole colony.

The gophers admired the rival's sensibility but mocked the Gopher who was perched atop his mound.

One day the inevitable happened. As the Gopher was sitting atop the mound, basking in the Glory he felt, his house began to give under the weight of the mound. In one sudden moment the network of tunnels, which was his house, buckled and the mound crumbled to the ground. The Gopher was buried alive under the weight of the dirt.

Moral: One Gopher's Glory can destroy his house, but another gopher's house can be his Glory.

Doug Packer
Editorial Staff

Campus Comment

(Continued from Page 6)

The word is "suspend" and if the new constitution passes, the Senate will be empowered to suspend ANY organization's charter.

This is virtual death to any organization since: 1) its funds are frozen; and 2) it loses RSO status and privileges. While this is a "gun behind the door" threat, the avenue is open for individual senators to bully an organization into submission.

Even worse, there are not any checks provided on the senate since the constitution does not list specific conditions under which the Senate may "approve, reject, or suspend the constitutions of all undergraduate student organizations". It may make the rules to fit the case. Floating justice?

BALONEY

To say that there are substantial checks in the form of judicial review is false. The article on review reads, "The General Court of Justice may review any action of the Senate under due judicial process, and if it is found to be IN CONFLICT WITH THIS CONSTITUTION, it shall be void". Sounds fine and dandy except that every conceivable action which might be taken against an organization is provided for IN the constitution. And we government majors know that a CONSTITUTION can't be declared UNCONSTITUTIONAL by any court.

The only time that judicial review would be effective is in cases where the Senate violates individual freedoms. But if two or more individuals become an organization, they're out of luck.

NO DUMB BUNNIES HERE

Finally, I believe that our student body is qualified to vote for its president if access to information and issues is permitted. The senate doesn't believe this. The universities of Connecticut and Michigan elect their own, and even the citizens of Massachusetts - not the legislature - elect their own governor.

The proposed constitution has a number of positive points, but the bad stuff is written between the lines. And you don't HAVE to take the bad with the good.

Wayne M. Thomas
President, Class of '69

Club Works For Budget

With regard to the item in Friday's Daily Collegian stating that, "The Young Republican Club has dissolved itself and is donating the $31 left in its budget," we would like to make a correction. The Young Republican Club has NOT dissolved itself. We liquidated our treasury with the hope that other organizations would follow suit in support of the ad campaign. It is our intent to work as hard as possible to apply whatever pressure at our command and whatever labor available to the cause of restoring the University's budget.

We further endorse efforts on the part of the student body to organize programs which would acquaint the citizens of the Commonwealth, the Legislature, and the Governor with the urgent need of continually expanded support of public higher education. Specifically, the current budget must provide for proper development of the CCEBS program, the expansion of the library facilities, and the timely opening of the medical school. However, we feel that it would be a grave miscarriage of justice if these efforts were to be used as a basis for expounding philosophies not pertinent to the problem at hand.

It is not enough to provide a token installment to the educational facilities of the state. The past few years have seen an admirable expansion of efforts in the realm of support to higher education, but this year's cuts are such an insult as to cause serious morale as well as fiscal problems. In order to implement our stated policy, we will send a letter to the Governor and all Republican legislators asking that they originate and support efforts to reinstate all cut monies.

William R. Johnston
President
William A. Perkins Jr.
2nd Vice President

Second Thoughts

Please remove my signature from the list of those supporting the "Statement of Purpose of the Faculty Group for Academic Freedom." A copy of the document was presented to me, out near Parking Lot #3 at the end of a particularly trying day, by one who urgently argued that the names of faculty known to be "liberal" would effectively counteract and rigid "Law and Order" implications the "Statement" might otherwise have. In my fatigue, I was willing to let his urgency and tone of conviction override my caution about reading very carefully, And thus I signed, but not in my full or usual mind. I have since read the "Statement" much more carefully, and I find its implications repugnant to my sense of freedom, academic or otherwise. I heartily regret that I offered my name so haphazardly, and that it should have become, ever briefly, a support for what seems, on balance, to be an indiscriminate, beforehand judgement of how freedom rings.

Thank you for expunging my name from the list of those supporting the "Statement."

Robert G. Tucker
Associate Professor of English

Redefinition Of System

The drastic cutback in state funds for higher public education has been advantageous, for it has polarized those of us in the public educational system around political action. With the organization of a strong university coalition, around a central issue, stereotypes begin to founder, antagonism between the community ends and political action begins.

Sargent's cutback in funds has therefore become the catalyst for meaningful action in the educational system. The coalition, can, and most, work for the restoration of the original educational budget, yet who gains if this is not accompanied by the change in the educational system, surely not the students. If we go after money alone, we will have lost one of the few chances when meaningful change could come about without violence.

The budget is controlled by the state government, therefore any educational change should be affected with the education of the populis. Being a public university, it is necessary for the formation of a grass roots organization that can educate and gain support of the citizens to the radical change. We are here through the grace of the people of Massachusetts, therefore we should feel obligated to educate the people as to why we spend the money in the way we do.

Therefore the restoration of 12 million dollars should be but a small outcome of the coalition. If we get anything from the coalition, it should be the complete, radical redefinition of the educational system and the formation of a strong grass roots organization to support us in the search of better public education. We need the money, yes, but it will be of little benefit without a radical change in education, that can avail in a meaningful educational system, with people in the state who support it.

Bob Davidson

University Concert

The Southwest Assembly has been attempting over the past several months to arrange a University concert for the coming academic year to raise revenue for various projects having to do with the life of the residents of Southwest. To date we have been unable to find out the scheduling policy of the Calendar Board or any reliable idea of plans for the coming year. Further we are not able to understand the role of RSO in scheduling policy and priority determination. Our only recourse at present seems to be to state our intention of arranging a University concert for November 15 in the Cage.

Funds realized from revenue producing activities in Southwest are used for the following purposes:

Library space

Improvement of academic facilities in Southwest.

Infirmary service and activities.

Mid-week and weekend social activities.

Orientation program for incoming freshmen.

Athletic and recreational equipment and construction projects.

The undersigned would be glad to receive comments or objections about the intention of the Southwest Assembly to arrange a University concert as outlined above.

Larry Kravitz, Pres.
Southwest Assembly
PHONE 5-1552

Women's Page

The Women's Page in The Daily Collegian seems to me to contradict itself. Several of its articles have concerned women's liberation and the need for women to become fully integrated members of society as well as fully developed human beings. The contradiction which occurs to me lies in the contrast between these liberal-radical ideals and the implications of having a "Women's Page" at all. Why set us apart with a special section of news just for females? I'm hoping the men on this campus are reading those articles on women's liberation too, because women's roles are largely determined by the expectations of men. Women's Pages to me have associations with recipes, bridge clubs, and engagement announcements, all of which imply a parasitical life in the suburbs. I suggest that the articles now appearing in the Women's Page continue to appear as an integral part of the news but that the special section be discontinued.

Roberta Moore

Cheated

A number of students who donated money to the BOSTON GLOBE advertisement of May 12, 1969, have been cheated. When we signed our names to the list at the donation table, we understood that the advertisement was supposed to be a series of open letters to Representative Scibelli, to Senator Burke, and Governor Sargent. We agree that the budget cuts should be restored, and that the idea of the advertisement was excellent. Our main objection is that these plans were replaced by the "Silent Majority" advertisement.

The advertisement was finished in its final and radically changed form late Friday night. When we paid our money and we signed our names, in effect, we gave the student committee a blank check for power. The committee used our names to slap the hand of every student in this country who demands an end to University hypocrisy. Every student who signed the petition was used to create the impression that he is satisfied with THE STATUS QUO of education today. Do you really believe that students "riot, carry guns, and take over buildings" for the hell of it? Think about it.

Jeffrey Bodmer
James Wooten

Groves Of Academe

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF - Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR - Joel D. Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER - Frank Wandrey '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR - Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR - Mark A. Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR - Peter F. Pascarelli '71
PHOTO EDITOR - Kenneth D. Emery '71

Asst. Managing Editor - Jan Curley '69
Advertising Mgrs. - Kris Mackey, Janice Palmbach '71
Education Editor - Richard Story '69
Fine Arts Editor - Ray Taylor '69
Women's Page Editor - Helen Kensick '70
Student Govt. Editor - Paul Anderson '70
Editors Emeritus - Peter Hendrickson '66, Lbester Weinerman '68, J. Harris Dean '69
Issue Editors - Jan Curley, Pat Flanagan, Janet Howes, Sue Gerson, Richard Baucher, Sharon Samuels
News Staff - Neal Novack, Jean McAndrews, Margaret Andrews, Rose Miller, Karen Thompson, Susan Sherman, Donna Wadsworth, Lou Dimanaco, Anne Hillerman, Anne Gardino, Sharon Twombly, Claudia Homberg, Pat Lampert, Brenda Gaveia Laura Smith, Al Sirota, Susan Heluse, Drew Stergis, Kathy O'Donnell, Paul Harold, Susan Spatrick, Holly Fell
Senior Reporters - Bill Dickinson, Ron LaBrecque, Dick Lane
Editorial Staff - Kathy Biggane, Michael Darman, Marc Landry, Dave Baskin, Nancy Bourgoin, Doug Packer, Ernest Reis, Steven Friedman, Diana Landry, Edward Bryant, Harold Koltin
Fine Arts Staff - Susan Schmehl, Gale Sakaris, Clifden Banner, Nancy Gillis
Ad Staff - Sharon Raum, Theresa Wanczyk, Edna Newwirth, Diane Cormier, Diane Little, Maureen Ladd, Sherry Morse
Photo Staff - Ken Stevens, Wayne Lillystrom, Gunnar Myrbeck, Ara Dadekian, Bob Gaszminski, Bob Mangiaratti, Damien Kuffle, John R. Kelly III, Ann VerPlank, Brad Iverson, Rolland Jolicoeur, Steve Schmidt, Rich McIntyre, Dave Craig
Sports Staff - John Sullivan, Steve Shamban, Ray Esenis, Jan Curley, Mike Curran, Walt Stachura, Glenn Briere, Ken Schwartz, Steve Ross, Dave Evans, Barry Rubenstein, Bob Ganley, Dick Backer, Metawampe
Women's Page Staff - Marsha Galle, Margie Short, Suzanne Larkin, Judi Werby

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITORS - Sue Gerson, Janet Howes
COPY EDITOR - Laura Smith
EDITORIAL - Marc Landry
SPORTS - Steve Shamban
ADVERTISING - Edna Newwirth
DARKROOM TECHNICIANS - Brad Iverson, Bob Mangiaratti

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. Unsigned editorials represent the views of the editor. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Faculty Senate will Consider Student Centered Degree Program

The faculty senate will consider Thursday the institution of a Student Centered Degree Program which is designed to propose an alternative within the present University of Massachusetts educational system. This program provides a structure which is flexible to the needs of the individual student allowing the freedom to assume responsibility for his own education.

In order to facilitate the exercise of this freedom, core requirements will be waivered. They are to be replaced by the counseling and evaluation groups (C/E groups) which will be the focal point of the program. In the event that an individual student should not wish to participate in a C/E group, resource people will be made available to facilitate counseling and evaluation on a one to one basis.

The C/E group consists of seven students selected at random, one group techniques trainer, and two resource consultants. In some cases one or both of the resource people may be trained in group techniques eliminating the need of a trainer, while still providing for a dynamic relationship among participants.

The resource consultants will have the knowledge of where to find resources and of alternatives available for educational experiences, and of the requirements of graduate schools, industry, and other forms of employment. They will then be in a position to advise the students of the learning experiences probably necessary and/or helpful for these positions.

While the programs of the C/E group will evolve, their projected function will be to help each student set his educational goals, plan his course of study, and help him evaluate his progress by discussion of these goals and plans. This group will also help each student member to set short term goals, from week to week, providing reinforcement for successful follow through each succeeding week.

The group, in addition to facilitating interpersonal feedback situations, will provide a context within which students can begin to identify their particular styles of learning and learn to use such knowledge to advantage.

Entering freshmen will be fully informed of the Student Centered Degree Program along with regular University orientation this summer, and information for upperclassmen regarding the program will be made available at fall registration. All those immediately interested may contact the following people: Ruth Yanka - 546-6677, Hedy Kaplan - 546-6887, Celia Mendel - 546-6887, or Ken Rosenthal - 546-9746.

THE VELVET UNDERGROUND

The Velvet Underground possesses no characteristic, whether musical or personal, not unique or worthy of investigation. Their drummer is not a chick, she's a girl. Their lead singer, who wrote "Heroin" when the Beatles were holding each other's hand, isn't by profession a doper but a musician. They are not a creation of Andy Warhol, nor still another product of the Factory. From their formation late in 1965 until their one personnel change three years later, they have produced a sound consistent, integral and almost without parallel in rock.

They sing about the simple items on any New York social calendar maintining, balling, hookers, junkies, queens, the usual collection of creeps, freaks and divinely accented characters closer in temperament to the world of Genet than that of the good guys From the beginning they were a gathering-point for hip people. They did the cafe Bizarre and starved a little. At the film-maker's Cinematheque they played behind the screen while Barbara Rubin's Christmas on Earth unwound. They were the only rock band to be graced by Warhol's light show, and made the mixed media move a scene before the New York Times had ever heard of Bill Graham. They toured as part of the exploding Plastic Inevitable: lights and movies by Warhol, dancing by Gerard Malange, Nico on occasional "chanteuse." They played the Dom before the Electric Circus moved in and hosted a party at the Gymnasium.

Through two albums the Velvets persevered in their creations. The first album reflected many of the influences, the involvements and the concerns of the band and particularly of Reed. "Waitin for My Man," "European Son," "There She Goes Again" – the entire album is, as Reed once described the band's performance at the Cinematheque, "a dog whistle for all the freaks in the city."

The Velvet Underground, who had explored with Warhol, at one time or another, every deranged evasion of contemporary society – the under-surface of the city, the subterranean conduct of its men and women, their sexual inclinations and dishonesties, their psychological dependencies and experiments – now had come before a reality perhaps more ugly. This time it was no freaked-out head or raging dike who took the trip – it was Andy, who works hard, says little and feeds, as best he can, his sheep. Warhol's intimacy with pain and death, beyond image and speculation, could not fail to be a signal event for the people whose lives touch his at so many common points.

Their latest album is technically perfect and substantially different from the music of the first two. Reed's songs are self aware, not self-conscious; his singing is predictably superior to most rock vocalizing; the band plays with a care, a punctuality and a self-assurance too often undetermined by Cale's flamboyant figures. Their third lp, with "Candy Says" (the Velvets singing "doo-doo-wahl wahl"), "Pale Blue Eyes" (a successor to "If I fell" and "Love Minues Zero: No Limit"), "I'm Beginning to See The Light" (rock'n roll music in its pure state) is matter-of-factly stunning in the deoth and normalcy of its emotion, in the care of its execution and in the perfectly realized self-conception it reveals. The Velvets are passing beyond the cities they live and play in and rising to the occasion of consistent and almost easy brilliance.

from Fusion, 4/14/69

THE WOODROSE BALLROOM
MAY 16-17 $2.50
and also appearing
COUNTRY FUNK
LIGHTS BY THE ROAD
RTE. 5, DEERFIELD

From the people who brought you Vietnam:

The anti ballistic missile system.

They're mad.
They're absolutely mad.
Everyone can see that things at home are getting worse all the time, and that little or nothing is being done about it.

The last thing in the world we need is to spend six or seven thousand million dollars for the down payment on an anti ballistic missile system.

But what can you expect from the type of mind that got us into Vietnam in the first place, and that keeps plunging us back in for one-last-victory-try every time it looks as though we might finally extricate ourselves.

Mr. Nixon and Secretary Laird and their advisors in the Pentagon seem to have lost touch with reality.

There are bombs going off in our cities, but they're not coming from China or the U.S.S.R.

The air we breathe is being poisoned, but it's not being done by enemy agents.

Many Americans no longer believe what the Government tells them, but it's not because they listen to Radio Moscow.

The gold in Fort Knox is, for all practical purposes, no longer our own–but the job wasn't done by Goldfinger or Smersh.

The war and weapons people have become so obsessed with International Communism, they fail to see that they themselves are laying the groundwork for a state of home-grown anarchy.

A few observations on the A.B.M.

The figure they use is six or seven billion dollars. But this is just the well-known foot in the door.

Experience with Pentagon procurement in the past indicates that actual costs run two or three times the original estimate.

Furthermore, there is every likelihood that the "light" ABM system will get heavier and heavier as it goes along, and would ultimately cost over fifty thousand million dollars.

All this for a "Maginot Line in the Sky" (as the N.Y. Times described it in a recent editorial), that would most likely be obsolete by the time it is operative, and wind up as surplus electronic junk on Canal Street.

Meanwhile, back in the U.S.S.R., do you think "their" hawks would be standing still for this?

What can we do about it?

Unfortunately, the Pentagon doesn't seem to be able to learn from experience, but we wouldn't give up hope for the U. S. Senate.

There are a lot of Senators–including conservative Republicans–who feel they were "had" by the infamous Gulf of Tonkin resolution, and this time they don't seem to be buying the Pentagon's big public relations campaign on the A.B.M.

This thing can be stopped in the Senate. But it will take the kind of grass roots' effort that did so much to change the political climate on Vietnam last year.

Our marching song has come again.

SANE Phone: 889 3442
381 Park Avenue South. New York N Y 10016
Here is my contribution
$100 ☐ $50 ☐ $25 ☐ $10 ☐ $_____
☐ I want to participate in your work. Let me know if there is anything I can do. Special skill_____
☐ Send_____poster size reprints of this ad @ $1.00 each
Name_____
Address_____
City_____State_____Zip_____
Make checks payable to SANE

It MUST be stopped
It CAN be stopped

Congress will vote on ABM in a few days.
The vote will be close... very close.
Express your opposition now.
Your letter or postcard can make the difference.
This time, write as if your whole world depended on it.
It does!

Phone a telegram – special rate to Congressmen – 15 words for $1.00. Do it now!

Write to:
BROOKE - Senate Office Bldg.
Washington, D. C.
Conte, Morse, Philbin,
McCormack, Heckler, Burke,
Keith – House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Sponsored by the Martin Luther King Social Action Council

Here is What to Do "If You Are Arrested" . . .

(Editor's note - the following is condensed from a pamphlet "If you are arrested, prepared by the State attorney general's office, and is printed as a public service.)

What is it?

The law says that arrest is "taking a person into custody" so that he may be held to answer for a crime.

What can you be arrested for?

Specific law violations for which you might be arrested are far too numerous to list here. However, law violations have ramifications that are useful for you to have if arrested. Felony is the name for the most serious violation. Examples of felonies include murder, rape, and armed robbery. Less serious violations are called misdemeanors. Examples of misdemeanors include motor vehicle violations, rioting and disorderly conduct.

When can you be arrested?

1. One can always be arrested by a policeman with a warrant for arrest. A warrant is an order issued by a court. It is made on someone's complaint and it charges that you committed a crime, which charge must be listed. It directs the policeman to make the arrest and to bring you before the issuing court. You have a right to see and read the warrant when arrested. The arrest warrant is not the same thing as a search warrant (see below).

2. A policeman may arrest you without a warrant in the following situations:

a. If he sees you commit or try to commit a violation of the law.

b. If he knows that a warrant for your arrest for a misdemeanor or felony has been issued and is effective at the time.

c. If a felony was committed and he has reason to believe that you did it.

3. A private person other than a police officer may also arrest you without a warrant if you have actually committed a felony.

4. In addition there are special rules governing arrest in particular cases, such as for drunkenness, shoplifting, vagrancy, or certain motor vehicle offences.

What if you are innocent?

Even if you think you are not guilty, it is a crime to resist an officer who arrests you lawfully. Respect him. The policeman who arrests you also has his job to do. He stands for law and order, and he has a duty to his community. Do not talk back or be disorderly. If it turns out that you have been arrested illegally, you can sue the policeman for false arrest. But remember: your arrest may be lawful even if you are innocent.

Can the policeman use force to arrest you?

If you resist a lawful arrest, the policeman can use all necessary force to arrest you. After you have been restrained, he cannot continue to use force, except to keep you under arrest or to search pursuant to a search warrant.

Can you be searched?

When you are lawfully arrested, your person may be searched. In addition the place of your arrest may be searched within limits considered incidental to the arrest. Otherwise a warrant is needed, which is an order issued by a court on someone's complaint, directing an officer to search someplace for contraband. The warrant must describe the place to be searched and the articles to be searched for, and it directs the officer to bring the articles and the person in whose possession they are found before the court.

When do you go before a judge?

After arrest and booking, unless released, you must be taken before a court without unnecessary delay; this is almost always a district or a municipal court. If the court is not then open, you may be held in the police station until it is.

What do you do in court?

You will be brought before the judge. The clerk will read the charge to you. If you do not understand it, you may ask him to read it again. You will be asked to plead either "guilty" or "not guilty." If possible you should have a lawyer with you at this time. If you ask the judge, he will allow you a reasonable time to get a lawyer. You may, of course, try your own case yourself.

How do you get a lawyer?

If you are charged with a felony and cannot pay for a lawyer, you may ask the judge to appoint one for you. In the municipal or district court he may appoint one; in the superior court he must.

What does the judge decide?

The judge must hold a hearing at which witnesses (the policemen or others) will tell what happened. You yourself have a right to tell the judge what happened, but you do not have to say anything. If you do talk you must tell the truth. You can ask that this hearing be delayed until your lawyer can be present.

For some charges, including all serious felonies (except forgery and breaking and entering, under certain conditions) for which the punishment may be more than 5 years in prison, this first hearing is only a preliminary hearing. It is to decide whether you were properly arrested and whether it is sufficiently likely that you committed the crime so that you should be held for a later trial or for consideration of the charge against you by a Grand Jury. You may waive this hearing if you wish.

In many cases, however, this first hearing is the actual trial to decide whether or not you are guilty. In these cases the judge, after considering what has been said, may dismiss the charge against you, or he may find you guilty. If you are found guilty you may be put on probation or given a suspended sentence, or you may be fined or sentenced to jail for as much as two and a half years on each charge.

What are your rights of appeal?

If convicted in the District Court you have an absolute right to appeal to Superior Court and to have a new trial there. However, any appeal must be made immediately. If you pleaded "guilty" in District Court, you may appeal only as to the amount of the fine or the length of the jail sentence. Both where you elect to appeal to the Superior Court and where you are held for the Grand Jury, bail must be obtained all over again at additional cost, in order to permit your release from jail pending trial in the Superior Court or consideration by the Grand Jury.

What does the Grand Jury do?

The Grand Jury will either dismiss the charge against you, or will indict (accuse) you. If it indicts you, you must then stand trial in the Superior Court. If you learn that the Grand Jury is considering your case, you should not ask to appear before it without your lawyer's advice.

What happens after you are arrested?

The police may want to question you without making an arrest, and it may be in your interest to cooperate rather than to be arrested. If you are arrested and taken to a police station, a record of your arrest and the charge against you must be reported without unnecessary delay in the "arrest book". Before questioning you, the police must tell you the charge. Where required by law, you will be fingerprinted and photographed. After your arrest you have the right to the aid and advice of a lawyer.

Do you have to answer questions?

After identifying yourself, you do not have to answer any questions or sign any statements about what happened, if you do state that you are relying on your constitutional right not to do so. Neither a policeman nor anybody else can force you to answer questions or sign statements. If any force or threats are made against you, report it promptly to the police official in charge, to the court, to the District Attorney, and to your own lawyer.

The promise of a policeman to help you to intervene with the court in exchange for a confession, is not binding.

Can you notify your family or lawyer?

On being held you may always ask to use a telephone and the police should normally grant you permission to communicate with your family or friends, or to arrange for an attorney. In any event you have a legal right within one hour after booking to use a telephone for these purposes at your own expense.

What happens to the money you may have with you?

You should be given an itemized receipt for all money and property taken from you when you are booked.

Can you be released on bail?

You are allowed to apply promptly for bail. Bail permits you to be released from jail, if an amount of money or other security is deposited with the proper official to make sure that you will appear in court.

After arrest, but before you appear before a judge, the amount of bail is fixed by the clerk of the court or by a bail commissioner or some other specially designated officials before whom you are to be brought. You have a right to have bail set without delay. Later the court may reduce or increase the amount of bail initially fixed. If you are charged with murder, as a practical matter bail is not permitted.

So you think the campus cops are a two-bit bunch of night watchmen, do you? No real power - just men playing policemen?

Well guess again, my friend. The campus police have the same power and authority as any other law officers. They may arrest you for any of the usual reasons, and this arrest will be as valid as one performed by a state trooper.

One question which causes extra trouble for some students is whether or not a campus policeman has the right to request to see your student ID. Most students believe he doesn't.

But if a campus policeman asks to see your ID, you should produce it immediately. If you refuse, and are acting suspiciously in his opinion, this act in itself may be enough to warrant your being taken into custody. Your ID is proof that you at least belong on this campus. It is verification of your identity. Only in extreme cases will it be taken from your person.

And contrary to popular belief, the campus police never "turn someone over" to the Amherst police. As there is no cell block on campus, it is necessary to use the one in the Amherst police station.

It is important, therefore, for all students to realize that a campus arrest is a bonafide arrest, and that as such all the laws of the Commonwealth pertaining to arrests also apply to it - i.e., you are not required to answer questions, you may make a phone call, etc.

The campus police are here to protect the student body as well as University property. And whether you have criminal tendencies or not, it will be to your advantage to know your rights in the event you are arrested.

Students Protest Northeastern Univ. SDS Demonstration

BOSTON (AP) - With a faculty escort, an estimated 45 students left a Northeastern University lounge they had occupied about five hours to protest ROTC.

Approximately 1,000 persons, many of them opposed to the protest takeover, were outside the building, but the exiting students refused police protection.

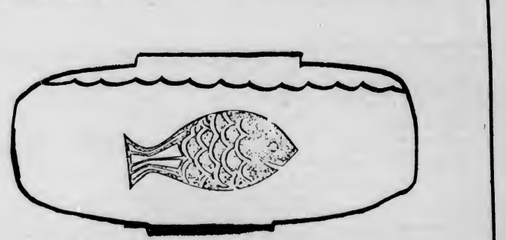
At least four fights broke out in the crowd outside during the occupation, and in front of the building, the Ell Student Center, was pelted with eggs aimed at the occupiers of the second-floor Interfaith Lounge.

A group calling itself "Concerned Students' distributed anti-SDS pamphlets and buttons.

The students who had taken over the lounge and locked themselves in were led by members of Students for a Democratic Society.

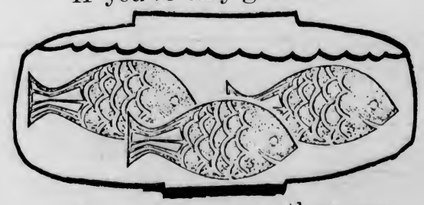
University President Asa S. Knowles told the crowd outside the building that the students involved in the sit in would be punished.

The SDS denied disturbing a class and said the occupiers left they building so they would not disrupt a class.



POWER HUNGRY?

Does that phrase describe the Student Senate?



Listen to the issues this Thursday at 9 p.m.

Call in and voice your opinion. . . on

WMUA - - 91.1 FM

If you've only got one...

and you want more than one...
Have it XEROXed.
at GNOMON COPY SERVICE

Room 214 Student Union

4¢ for first copy
2¢ for copies of same page
FREE COLLATING
Legal Size & 3-hole Punch at NO EXTRA CHARGE

Dean Gentile Appointed Head of Crash Housing Study

Pres. John W. Lederle, has named Arthur Gentile, acting dean of the graduate school, as chief coordinator of an intensive crash study of housing problems of the university community, Sen. Arthur Teixeira, chairman of the housing committee announced at the Monday night meeting of the Graduate Student Senate.

The decision was made at a meeting of Lederle, Gentile, Teixeira and David Yelton, president elect and incumbent vice-president of the Graduate Student Senate last Thursday morning. The meeting resulted from a request by the GSS which was prompted by the recent spate of rent raises for Amherst area housing. Teixeira's announcement was made as part of his report of the activities of the senate's housing committee.

Other major events at the meeting included the adoption of the budget for the academic year 1969-70, an address by outgoing president Thomas Minogue and the granting of $200 to the campaign to restore cuts proposed in the university's budget.

Teixeira said that President Lederle agreed that the study would develop complete engineering-architectural cost-analyses for apartment units for married students. In addition the study will present a cost-benefit comparison between university sponsored and privately sponsored units.

The possibility of trailer parks on university land was recognized by Lederle and Gentile as the most practical feasible and effective short range measure to supply the heavy demand for married student housing, Teixeira reported, though neither administrator endorsed them.

Teixeira reported that Gentile expects to confer soon with university planning officer John Littlefield on choosing the personel necessary for the study. The study will be monitored representatives of the Graduate Student Senate. Teixeira also reported that Gentile had already accumulated substantial material on married student housing.

Teixeira also reported that early returns from a petition drive among residents of Amherst in favor of naming Mrs. Emily Simpson to the vacant seat on the Amherst Housing Authority has been heartening. The petition seeks to name Mrs. Simpson to the seat recently vacated by Edward Buck. Other authority members together with the board of selectmen will fill the vacancy until town elections next February at which time both that seat and a regularly scheduled five-year seat will come up for election.

Paul Killam, a member of the housing committee, reported that conversations with housing coordinator West over the development of procedures and policies for admission to Lincoln apartments have so far been satisfactory.

The budget for the 1969-70 academic year was set at a total of $2,500 against an expected income of a little over $3,000. The budget will include a grant of $200 to a loan fund for foreign students administered by Mrs. North Burn of the office of the coordinator of international studies, and a travel fund of up to $500. This year's budget is expected to be in surplus by over $1,200 according to outgoing treasurer and chairman of the financial committee Ethan Roberts.

Outgoing president Minogue thanked the Senate and its officers for their cooperation the past year, He mentioned accomplishments of this year's Senate, highlighted by its parking report, its advocacy of a campus-wide police review board and its recent campaign to increase the supply of local off-campus housing. He brought forward a proposal to grant $200, about the equivalent of a fifteenth of the Senate's total annual income, to help pay for the campaign to press for restoration of the cuts to the university's budget which were made by the governor of the commonwealth and the committees of the state legislature.

The Graduate Student Senate heard a report from Mrs. Irene Ajiri, its representative to the SUG board on the Board's activities for the year. She reported that the SUG Board has taken action so that next year graduate students will have representation commensurate with the amount of funds they contribute towards its amortization of the Student Union and the new activities center.

Incoming president Yelton announced that he expects to call monthly meetings of the Graduate Student Senate over the summer.

Highlander High School Band To Perform at UMass Friday

The Highlander High School Band from Berkeley Heights, New Jersey will perform in Bowker Auditorium on Friday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. The concert, sponsored by Tau Beta Sigma and Kappa Kappa Psi, will include performances by the Highlander Symphonic Band and the 14 piece All-Girl Bagpipe Band.

The Band appears at football games, school assemblies, parades, an annual Winter Pops Concert, Spring Concerts, and provides instrumentalists for the school's musical production. It has performed at the World's Fair and has received the award for the best appearing band at the Clark Tercentenary Parade and the Stirling 100th Anniversary Parade.

The Band is presently on tour in western Massachusetts and members will be guests of the University Bands from Friday until Sunday.

For the first part of the program the 103 piece Symphonic Band will play FESTIVE OVERTURE by Dimitri Shostakovich, ODE by Ralph Hermann, INCANTATION AND DANCE by John Barnes Chance, and John Philip Sousa's MINNESOTA MARCH. After intermission the Highlander Girl Pipers will perform. The public is cordially invited to attend.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1963 VW $300, R and H, sunroof, new tires, car has been hit on left side, otherwise excel. cond. Good for beach buggy etc. 253-2959. 5-14

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, good engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 253-5577. 5-15

1964 Austin Healey 3000, 2 new tires, overdrive, rebuilt carburetors, 6 cylinder, new carpeting, R. & H., exc. condition, guaranteed fun for the summer, $1395. Call Ron 253-3281. 5-14

1500 sedan, excellent condition; springtuned; new muster and clutch; American radio; price interesting. Call 549-3746 May 15 or after. 5-15

1966 Chevelle 327 4-speed Craiger mags, N & W gauges, priced for quick sale. Call 546-5153. 5-15

'61 Dart, 6 cyl., std. radio, heater, snow tires, $350. Call 549-1365 after six. 5-15

1950 MGTD, excellent cond. $700.00. Contact Mary Tel. 546-9630. 5-14

1962 Ford Falcon, good condition, 25 m.p.g., $150. Call 253-2864 between 5-7 p.m. 5-15

WANTED

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology. Include stamped envelope. Idlewood Press, 543 Frederick, San Francisco, California. 5-15

Wanted — A small refrigerator, must be in working order and dependable. Call Lynn 6-8049. 5-14

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.O.W. is coming May 18 2:30 — Student Union Ballroom 5-15

ATTENTION: Would the driver of a black or blue Chev, Bonnie tag bearing with X94, that witnessed a truck-bicycle collision on University Dr., on Oct 3, 1968 at approx. 12:15 p.m., please call Crawford & Co., 737-5337, Mr. Apostle. 5-15

Y.O.W.
Youth for One World
Student Union Ballroom 5-15

Europe and/or Asia — I am looking for someone to hitch around with this summer. No, if you want to do something really fine, give me a call at 6-3417 or 6-3706, it's best to call after 11 p.m. 5-15

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted — Male roommate to share large furnished 2½ room apt., $60 per month including all utilities and dishwasher. For summer or longer Call 665-3069 Cliffside Apts., Sunderland. 5-15

1 female roommate to share spacious apartment on Nutting Ave. for the summer, $45 per month. Call 546-8515 or 546-8661. 5-15

Wanted — Female roommate, Sept. on - $65 a month, util. inc., furnished, own room. Call 256-8651 after 5. 5-14

Wanted — Female roommate June - August, $40 month, util. inc., furnished, call 256-6653 after 5. 5-14

TO SHARE YOUR APT. for summer. Desire apt. in Amherst. Rent under $50. Call Dave Cochrane at 413-6329 (day) or 586-6977 after 9 p.m.

Summer roommates wanted — beautiful apt. only 3 miles from Campus. Taking less. Call Joe at 121 Wheeler 545-2412. 5-14

$35 a month on So. Pleasant St., 2 miles from Campus, June 1 to Sept. 1. Call Sue 545-0145 or 549-0693. Be persistent. 5-15

Female roommates wanted to share 3-bedroom furnished apartment for summer North Amherst. Great view. Rent $60/mo. incl. util. Call 545-1342 or 549-0614. 5-15

Wanted — 4 upperclass male, female, and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 room apt. in Southwood for July, August, own room, modern, and furnished. Pay only $25.00 per mo. No mistake. Hurry Call Lou 665-3072 after 6:00 p.m. 5-15

WANTED TO RENT

$15.00 reward for information leading to selection of a 1 bdrm. apartment for fall (max. $50/mo. including utilities). Will also consider large house for reasonable price. Call 549-1437. 5-15

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR
Soph. or older, fine Maine girls camp. Call 253-9501 5-15

BABYSITTER — Student to babysit for two youngsters Thursday aft. 1-4 own transportation Call 549-1296. 5-15

MOTHER'S HELPER — Need a job and room in Amherst for summer? We will share our home in woods (4 mi. from Univ.) with mature, reliable, female student. Complete room and board plus salary in return for services. Transportation to Campus can be arranged. For details phone 549-6369. 5-15

Wanted for summer — Mother's helper, live in or out, full time or part-time, if need to take summer course. Call 253-9625. 5-15

PERSONAL

Is Glenn a Creep? 5-14

Betts, I love you. Please don't go to Florida. — Ken. 5-14

Whoever borrowed three helmets from the barn party last Friday, please return HKO, no questions asked. Reward. 5-15

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. and w. photos, portraits in color and b. and w. w/in 2 wks. Steve Therp, UM '69, 665-3167. XP

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Lane's Photo, 825 Main Street, Amherst, Tel. 253-3148. 5-19

Freelance automotive repairs — periodic servicing and light autor ive repairs realistically priced. Labor charges based on a rate of $2.50 per hour. Call us for lube, oil, tune-ups, brakes, etc. All foreign and domestic makes considered. After 5:30 p.m. call either 586-9416 or 584-9118. 5-16

Typing: service, 35c - 50c/page. 256-6055. 5-15

FOR SALE

AKAI SP-120 Speakers, excellent condition, 10½ in. woofer, 3½ in. tweeters, were $130, asking $60 for pair. Call Dick Gorman 215 545-6452.

Mobilehome — 8 rms., furnished, close to Univ., only $70/mo. for land, rent and utilities plus has resale value. Ex. for married couple or single person. Priced now for quick sale. 247-5095. 5-15

1969 Grolier Pub., 20 vol. The new book of knowledge with home and school study and reading guides. $200 value, asking $100. 247-5095. 5-15

Polaroid Swinger with deluxe compartment case, perfect condition. Great for graduation. Orig. $24, now $14. Call 546-8498. 5-14

— 670x15 Tires, excellent tread to snow time, 3 tires, 1 rim, $15. 665-2168. 5-14

FOR RENT

2½ room apt., dishwasher, utilities incl., $170. Begin June 1st. Call 665-4495. 5-15

Apt. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 256-0876. 5-26

Apt. to sublet June 1 - Aug. 31, 5 min. away, Rt. 116, Amherst-Sunderland border, 4 rooms furnished; 2 bedrooms, T.V., $170/mo. Call Jackie, Rm 422 at 5-2307 or 2303. 5-14

Apt. to sublet from June 1 to August 31, seven rooms, completely furnished, ideal for 4 or 5 people. Three miles from Campus. Garage space available. Call Ken, 549-0216. 5-14

Modern 2 bedroom apt. furnished, swimming pool, air conditioned if desired, sublet until Sept. or sign one year lease, $148 including all utilities. Call 665-3072. 5-15

To sublet June — Sept. — room for 5. Family room, living room, 2 baths and kitchen, modern facilities. Close to Campus $200 mo. Call Fezzy or Marilyn 545-2735, 253-9215. 5-14

Summer sublet — 3½ room apartment, University Park, unfurnished, $147.00 reduced to $110.00, utilities included, Call 256-8002. 5-14

Vacant: Air conditioned 1 room apartment at Crestview Apts. near campus. Rent $130. Call 549-1391. 5-14

2 bedrm. apt. utilities. Option for Sept. $137. Call 256-6087 June 1 - Sept. 1. 5-15

Summer sublet — new house in No. Amherst, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen, living room, full cellar and 4 car garage, plus front and back yard, fully furnished, 1½ miles from Campus. Call Dave, Jeff or Joe at 253-9264 after 6. 5-14

Large 4 bedroom house, furnished, 2 miles from Campus, in South Amherst. Fits 6 comfortable, from June to Sept. Must sublet, will talk price. Call Bill Amanti or Tom Krok 545-7150 or 256-6316. 5-15

Are you going to summer school? Do you need a place to live? Well, we have it. A house, only 5 minutes from Campus, 7 rooms, 4 bedrooms. Rent: $175 a month, available from June 1 to Sept 1 — call 549-5047 or 546-5053. 5-15

2 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, Colonial Village, 2 mi. to UMass., $140 per. Call 253-9435. 5-15

Remodeled 6-room house in Northampton. $235/mo. Skibiski, Realtors, Tel. JU 5-3478. 5-15

Summer sublet, 2 bedroom, furnished apts., Cliffside Apts. Willing to lower rent considerably. Call 665-2869. 5-15

Colonial Village 2 bedroom apt., will sublet for summer or lease for longer period. Regularly $150 per month, will accept $135 per month. Must get rid of it. Furnished or unfurnished. Call Don Paul, 253-7966, leave message at 253-3391. 5-15

2 bedroom apartment, rent includes all utilities, $130/month furnished $125/mo. unfurnished. Available June 1. Call 549-0883. 5-14

Completely furnished 2 bedroom Colonial Village Apt., includes 2 cable TV's, available June 1st. Also avail. (unfurnished) in fall — enough room for 3 or 4. $145/mo. Call 256-6629 6-7 p.m. 5-15

7-room house to rent, 3 bedrooms, fireplace. On bus line in Hadley. Available Sept. 1. Skibiski, Realtors, JU 4-3478. 5-15

3½ Room Apt. — June to Aug. 31, furnished or unfurnished. Swimming pool and tennis courts, I'll take a loss, $135/mo. Call 665-3093 in Sunderland after 4. 5-15

Apt. to sublet June thru August, $150 per month, five minutes from Campus. 2 rooms. Call Norm 546-9196 or Bob 546-7110 on North Pleasant St. 5-15

Female roommates needed for cottage in Falmouth. Good location. $175.00 for the season. Call 546-9093. 5-15

Amherst — central location, large comfortable 3 room apartment. Private partially furnished, available from June 1st - Sept. 1st. Call 253-7564 after 4 p.m. 5-15

House, summer sublet, 4 bedrms, 3 baths, 2 sundecks, adjacent to campus, 546-7687. 5-15

3½ room all electric Cliffside Apts., Rte 116, 5 miles from Campus, $118 mo. furn., $135 mo. unfurn. All utilities included. Call 665-4987. 5-15

To lease or sublet 2 bedroom apt., all utilities included, full kitchen plus dishwasher 253-3288. 5-15

Available June 1, 2 bedroom, kitchenette, living room, fully furnished, electric heat, 10 minutes from Campus, $185 a month. Call David 586-2502 after 8 p.m. 5-15

Rugby Splits with BC, 'B' Backfield Excels

Saturday the UMass Rugby Club faced the Boston College Rugby Club in a dual match here. The surprisingly large group of spectators were treated to two fast moving games. In the first game, the UMass A's lost 11-5 but the UMass B's copped the second contest, 8-3.

The "A" game was basically a good hustling effort that just lost steam. The Redmen scored early in the game on a try by Frank Desiata.

The backfield, led by scrumhalf Brian Leach, combined good speed and quick ball handling to constantly keep the Eagles under pressure. Playing a tight defense, the A's were able to keep the ball deep in Eagle territory for much of the first half.

The Redmen scrum won a majority of the line-outs and battled BC's scrums evenly on rucks and scrum-downs. The success of the scrum and backfield soon dwindled in the second half and saw the Eagles tally 11 straight points.

Standouts for the "A" team were C. Reider and Gino Caso in the scrum, and Kent Hubbard and Bob Coutore in the backfield.

The "B" game featured a strong scrambling defense and a fast offense. UMass never allowed the Eagles to mount a significant scoring drive and maintained possession of the ball for most of the game.

Bob Laurence, playing supposedly his last game, scored all of the Redmen's eight points by kicking a conversion, a penalty kick and driving five yards for a try.

Kevin Burke, Bob Grossman and Larry Cox, playing in a backfield maintained by scrumhalf Fred Thimmel, showed Boston College now Rugby is played. The scrum, led by Laurence, played well behind strong efforts by Paul Wojtkowski and Bob Joyce. Both the backs and the scrums combined their speed and fine tactics to outmaneuver the Eagles in most every aspect of the game.

FIND THE CELEBRITY! HINT PROVIDED. (MDC photo by John Kelly)

Captain Action is the Darkhorse

BALTIMORE (AP) - Captain Action, a Maryland-bred who finished out of the money in three of four starts on the state's half-mile circuit, returns home Saturday for a shot at the $150,000-added Preakness.

The likes of the Kentucky Derby winner Majestic Prince, Arts and Letters and Top Knight may have scared off some faint-hearted opposition but not Jimmy Conway, trainer of Captain Action.

"I have respect for Majestic Prince, and Arts and Letters ran a good race in the Derby," Conway said Tuesday, "but I'll take my chances with the rest, although I'm not discounting them. Maybe on good form or racing luck we can give it a shot."

Although Captain Action has won only four of 14 starts and has a career money winning total of just $36,057, Conway doesn't view his Preakness start as a surprise.

"This is not a sudden thing," Conway said. "Captain Action ran decently through the winter and got stronger in the cool spring weather. He seems to be improving with every race."

The 3-year-old son of Rash Prince won his last two starts at 1-1/8 miles - an allowance at Aqueduct April 8 and by eight lengths in the Survivor Stakes at Pimlico April 26. Kenny Knapp, who rode him for the first time in the Survivor, will be aboard in the Preakness.

"He handled the track especially well in the Survivor and won easily in good time," Conway said. "He's done well in training since, so we decided to take our chances in the Preakness."

Captain Action has scored two of his four victories at Pimlico, where he is unbeaten. When he goes to the post Saturday in the 1-3/16 mile Preakness, it will be on the first anniversary of his initial start and victory at Pimlico in a five-furlong dash.

After finishing ninth at Monmouth and eighth at Saratoga, Captain Action completed his sophomore campaign at Timonium, half-mile tracks, ending the year with earnings of $6,520.

A victory by Captain Action Saturday would help make up for Conway's 1963 Preakness disappointment when Chateaugay lost to Candy Spots for his only defeat in the Triple Crown series.

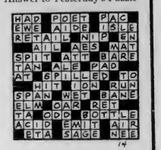
Conway is not overwhelmed by Majestic Prince, but he has high regard for the unbeaten son of Raise a Native.

"Majestic Prince is not a super horse," Conway said. "But he's done everything he's been asked to do."

Captain Action is due at Pimlico today and Conway plans a final blowout on Friday of about a quarter-mile.

Jay Ray, the California Derby winner, was scheduled to arrive late yesterday, Al Hattab and Greengrass Greene tomorrow, and Glad's Flame early Saturday.

Majestic Prince, Arts and Letters and Top Knight, the only Preakness starters on the grounds were calloped yesterday.



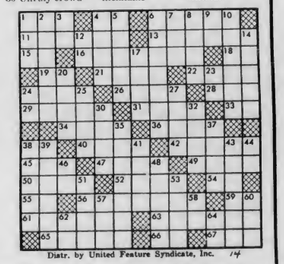
Post time Saturday is 5:40 p.m., EDT. The race will be nationally televised.

Free Play

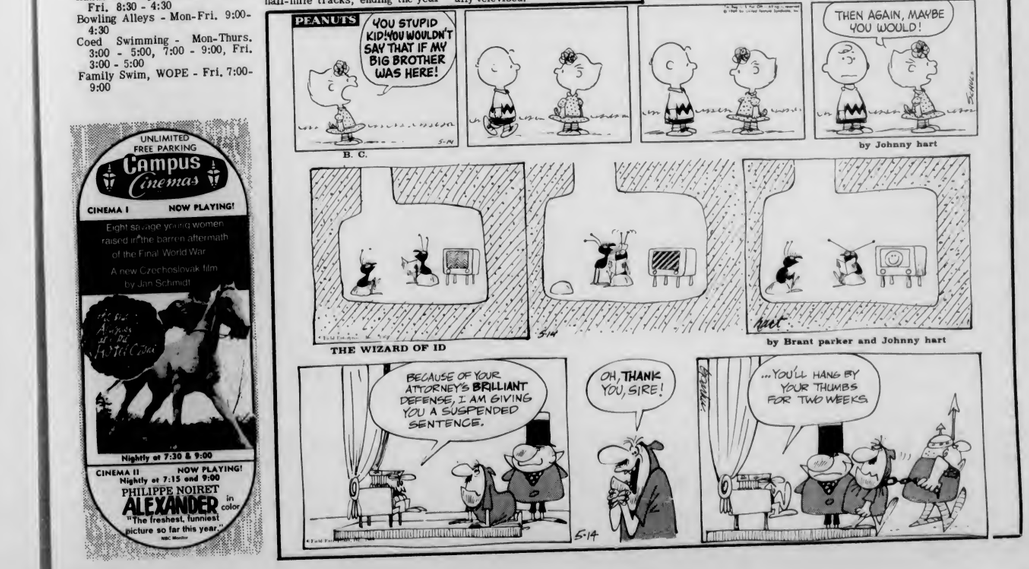
Weight Training Room - Mon-Fri. 9:30 - 4:30
Handball & Squash Courts - Mon-Fri, 8:30 - 4:30
Bowling Alleys - Mon-Fri. 9:00-4:30
Coed Swimming - Mon-Thurs. 3:00 - 5:00, 7:00 - 9:00, Fri. 3:00 - 5:00
Family Swim, WOPE - Fri. 7:00-9:00

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS



1-Simian
4-Conjunction
6-At that place
11-Choose
13-Feast
15-Parent (colloq.)
16-Significance
18-Cutting tool
19-Note of scale
21-Strike
22-Satiate
24-Narrow, flat board
26-Slay
28-Pronoun
29-Chemical compound
31-Shakespearian king
33-Delirium tremens (abbr.)
34-Levantine ketch
36-Pierce
38-Symbol for tellurium
40-Baker's product
42-Wipe out
45-Anger
47-Cravats
49-Wife of Geraint
50-Planet
52-Small rugs
54-Printer's measure
55-Exists
56-Heavenly bodies
59-Negative
61-Loss
63-Christian festival
65-Bind again
66-Pair (abbr.)
67-Exist

DOWN

1-Snake
2-Gems
3-Spanish article
4-High cards
5-Stem
6-Three-base hits
7-Chicken
8-Urges on
9-Sun god
10-Puffed up
12-Printer's measure
14-Put in vigorous action
17-Metal fastener
20-Dines
23-Exclamation
24-Compass point
25-Rip
27-Tardy
30-Unruly crowd
32-Unusual
35-Average condition of weather
37-Poison
38-Coy
39-Rubber on pencil
41-Spare
43-Transgressor
44-Man's nickname
46-Teutonic deity
48-Precipitous
51-Barracuda
53-Heavenly body
57-Burma native
58-Steamship (abbr.)
60-Native metal
62-Symbol for iron
64-Symbol for tantalum

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 14

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
CINEMA I NOW PLAYING!
Eight strange young women raised in the barren aftermath of the Final World War
A new Czechoslovak film by Jan Schmidt
Nightly at 7:30 & 9:00
CINEMA II NOW PLAYING!
Nightly at 7:15 and 9:00
PHILIPPE NOIRET in ALEXANDER in color
"The freshest, funniest picture so far this year."

UMass Stickmen Stop MIT, 12-9 to Cap Perfect Year

Offense, Defense Shine; Taylor Cup Likely

By WALT STACHURA
Senior Reporter

CAMBRIDGE - Paced by season long standouts, Kevin O'Connor and Tom Malone, the UMass lacrosse team trimmed MIT, 12 - 9 here yesterday, to clinch first place in the New England Intercollegiate Lacrosse league and most, likely, The Taylor Cup, presented to the best New England lacrosse team.

The record breaking Malone had five goals and two assists while O'Connor, finishing his career with a great game, scored four goals and added three assists.

However, the offense was not the entire story in the Redmen victory. The defense, despite giving up a season high of nine goals, was equally outstanding, especially goalie Mark Schlossberg who made some sensational saves in the second half.

Malone gave the Redmen an early lead with an unassisted goal five minutes into the game. He moved in from the right side of the net and fired a high shot that sailed over MIT goalie Marc Weinberg's shoulder.

Just nine seconds later, O'Connor tallied his first goal on a bouncer from in front of the net after taking a fine set up pass from Malone.

Midfielder Dave Peterson scored the first MIT goal midway through the quarter as he received a deflected pass in front and scored easily.

O'Connor gave the Redmen a two goal lead again, just a minute later, when he took a Gary Vassar pass from behind the net and sailed his shot from about twenty feet directly in front of the net.

Nine seconds later, MIT cut the margin back to a single goal on a Chris Davis goal, a bouncer that caught the far post and deflected into the net.

Malone finished off a hustling effort by midfielder Bruce Gannon to give the Redmen a 4 - 2 margin. Gannon broke up field after a play around the UMass net and as he crossed midfield, launched a long pass that found Malone all alone near the net and he scored easily.

The Engineers closed the gap again on a Jack Anderson goal but midfielder Steve Connolly, who played a great game on an injured leg, gave UMass a 5 - 3 first quarter edge with a long shot from in front which threaded its way through a half dozen players.

49 seconds into the second quarter, O'Connor fired in the sixth Redman goal from the right side after receiving a Malone pass.

Malone scored less than a minute later on one of his patented long shots from the right side to give UMass a 7 - 3 advantage.

After Malone's goal, MIT appeared to score their fourth goal but it was nullified after a long conference between UMass coach Dick Garber and the referees because of a whistle blown to call a UMass penalty just before the goal.

During this part of the quarter, the Redman defense was outstanding as they played short two men for almost a minute. One particular play featured a huge pileup in front of the UMass net with Schlossberg making a diving save to deflect the ball which was about to roll into the net.

The Redmen appeared to tire near the end of the half, and MIT took advantage to score two goals and narrow the UMass lead to 7 - 5 at halftime.

MIT appeared to be fired up at the start of the second half but O'Connor killed some of their spirit with a bouncer through the goalie's legs. Gary Vassar picked up an assist on the play.

MIT bounced right back with a goal by top scorer Walt Maling, who had an open net to shoot at after a fine pass from Anderson.

Vassar got the goal for UMass as he scored on the end of a fast break. O'Connor made the play work as he had a shot but passed over to the unguarded Vassar who shot into an empty net.

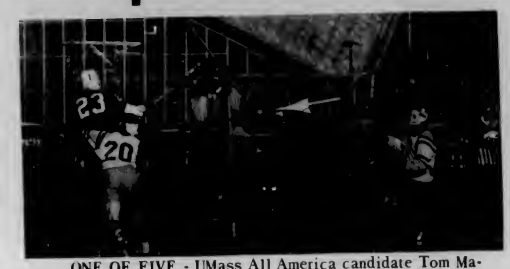
by Maling to cut the UMass lead to four but Malone scored the game clincher on a hard shot into the lower corner after a good fake.

The Engineers made the score close with two goals in the last minute but by this time the Redmen were coasting to their well earned victory.

Garber said that the victory was the biggest of his coaching career. He heaped praise on all his players but singled out the seniors on the team for making an outstanding effort in their final game of the season.

Connolly put the Redmen into double figures with his second goal of the game. He took a pass from O'Connor and cut towards the goal and fired a long shot into the middle of the net.

Malone closed out the scoring in the third quarter on a great individual effort. He took a long pass from O'Connor and moved towards the net, faking a low shot then jumping into the air and firing a shot over the goalie's shoulder.



MIT got a quick fast break goal by Maling to cut the UMass lead to four but Malone scored the game clincher on a hard shot into the lower corner after a good fake.

UMass concluded the season with a perfect 10 - 0 record while MIT has a 11 - 2 card with a game left against Norwich.

One regret for the Redmen was that they were unable to prove their ability against top caliber teams like Maryland and Navy. They may get their chance next year when the NCAA sponsors a national lacrosse championship for the first time.

DO YOU HEAR FOOTSTEPS GEORGE? - MIT defenseman George Hustak (27) chases ball in his own zone, seemingly unaware of the fact that Redmen Gary Vassar (60) and Kevin O'Connor are in hot pursuit. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

ONE OF FIVE - UMass All America candidate Tom Malone fires in third period goal despite desperate effort of MIT goalie Marc Weinberg. In addition to his five goals, Malone had two assists. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

STRAIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE - Steve Connolly scores goal to put Redmen ahead 10-6, also in third period. UMass coach Dick Garber praised Connolly and the other seniors for outstanding efforts. (MDC photo by John Kelly).

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 139
WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1969

Shades of UMass

Cubs Rock Padres, 19-0

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Cubs tied the highest shutout score in the modern National League history yesterday when they bombed San Diego 19-0 on a three-hitter by ex-Padre Dick Selma, who fanned 10.

The Cubs of 1906 beat the New York Giants 19-0 and the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1961 humbled St. Louis by the same score. The American League record is 21-0 by Detroit over Cleveland in 1901 and New York over Philadelphia in 1939. The all-time high shutout was 28-0 by Providence over Philadelphia, Aug. 21, 1883 in the early days of the National League.

It was the third straight shutout by the Cubs' staff, extending the scoreless string to 28 innings by Ken Holtzman, Ferguson Jenkins and Selma.

Ernie Banks tied the season high in the majors with seven runs batted in on two three-run homers and a double before leaving the game after six innings. Nate Oliver and Don Young also hit home runs in the Cubs' 15-hit attack. Billy Williams slammed a pair of triples.

Banks, the Cubs' 38-year-old first baseman hadn't homered since his two on opening day against the Phillies, but he connected against loser Dick Kelley in the first and Leon Everitt in the fifth, each time with two on.

Selma, acquired by San Diego from the New York Mets in the expansion draft and traded to the Cubs in late April, gave up infield singles to Jerry DaVanon in the first and eighth and a double to Nate Colbert in the second.

Andretti Preps at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) - Mario Andretti continued his drive yesterday toward the 175 miles per hour speed he predicts is needed to win the pole position for this year's Indianapolis 500.

His practice lap of 171.494 m.p.h. was the fastest by a piston engine car in the history of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Only turbine cars have gone faster.

Andretti already owned the fastest lap of the year at 170.197 m.p.h. on Monday. A. J. Foyt is next with a speed of 169.237 m.p.h., and Foyt was over 169 in two practice runs Tuesday.

Andretti repeated Tuesday his prediction that 175 m.p.h. will be the top speed on the opening day of qualifying Saturday.

Foyt's teammate, Roger McCluskey, driving a car identical to Foyt's with a turbocharged Ford engine, had the third fastest speed of the day, 168.287.

Warren P. McGuirk a Happy Man; Redmen Retain Keaney Trophy

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Editor

No one likes to win more than Warren P. McGuirk. Therefore, the UMass Director of Athletics enjoyed the past year no end.

Of course, there were some bad moments but as the year progressed, things got better and better. It was all capped off by what the Dean called, "the best spring in many, many years."

"I was delighted", McGuirk said, "by this spring and especially the past couple of weekends, which were the most pleasant, because we clinched another Keaney Trophy."

The Keaney Trophy is emblematic of Yankee Conference supremacy in all sports. The Redmen have now won the trophy five straight years and six of the last seven. It was not an easy job for UMass however. As McGuirk said, "For a while I thought we might have to return that trophy. It is an honor that I think is most significant, because it shows that we have a balanced program."

McGuirk went on to say, "We are looking toward formalizing a program that has some interest for all. I am especially happy that we (the athletic department) are including crew next year. I am looking forward to it and under coach Mike Faherty, it will improve."

High on McGuirk's list of priorities in the next few weeks will be the annual Yankee Conference meetings. While no radical changes are now foreseen, pertaining to the operation of the conference, there will be, according to Mc Guirk considerable discussion about expansion, an idea that has been flying around for a couple of years.

The UMass athletic Director, however, said, "I don't really know what will be done about the scholarship formula. There have been changes the last two years, but whatever further changes in this meeting, if any will be done, is indefinite. In the past these meetings have seen significant, but I don't have a crystal ball, and can't really predict what will happen this year."

The Dean went on to touch on the convocation center proposal, saying that he is somewhat disappointed that there has not been any action taken by the Student Senate due to the Senate's preoccupation with budgets and other matters. However, McGuirk added, "I am slightly impatient, but I also realize that nothing should be done in a hurry to jeopardize the whole project by last-second hurrying.

"If need be," he added, "we can spend the summer preparing an in-depth presentation to give the Senate next fall concerning the center."

Another disappointment was the inability of the UMass track to get off the ground. However, weather played a large role, as the filled in land was not settled enough to take the all-weather surface that is hoped for. McGuirk quoted a contractor who said that if this was Florida, the track would have been built a year and a half ago.

THE DAILY COLLEGIAN

VOL XCVII NO 140 THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1969

NIXON PROPOSES 12-MONTH GRADUAL WITHDRAWAL FROM VIET

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon proposed Wednesday night a 12-month gradual withdrawal from SouthVietnam of all outside troops - American, U.S. - allied and North Vietnamese. He said if his peace quest fails, he will "expect the American people to hold me accountable."

Nixon called for mutual withdrawal of all outside troops under international supervision and suggested that step be followed by internationally guaranteed free elections in the South.

The chief executive outlined what he termed new initiatives in a major policy address for live broadcast to the nation by television and radio networks.

Administration sources billed Nixon's peace proposals as the most comprehensive, flexible and conciliatory ever advanced by the U.S. Government.

"I would stress," the President said, "that these proposals are not offered on a take-it-or-leave it basis. We are quite willing to consider other approaches consistent with our principles."

Underlying his peace plan, however, was a statement of determination to avoid unilateral withdrawal from South Vietnam or "a disguised defeat." He said:

"Let me be quite blunt. Our fighting men are not going to be worn down; or negotiators are not going to be talked down; our allies are not going to be let down."

The Nixon package will be presented to Communist negotiators in Paris Friday by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, White House sources said.

While concentrating on ideas for presentation in Paris, Nixon also said, "The time is approaching when South Vietnamese forces will be able to take over some of the fighting fronts now being manned by Americans."

Sources said some U. S. troops would be withdrawn from South Vietnam - regardless of what happens in Paris - as soon as such a move is deemed a responsible one by the administration, and one that officials felt would be regarded as a sign of confidence in the allied military position.

While declaring there will be no easy or quick solution to the war, Nixon said in an appeal aimed directly at his homefront audience:

"Nothing could have a greater effect in convincing the enemy that he should negotiate in good faith than to see the American people united behind a generous and reasonable peace offer."

Recalling a campaign pledge to end the war in a way that would promote lasting peace, Nixon said:

"I am determined to keep that pledge. If I fail to do so, I expect the American people to hold me accountable for that failure."

Besides proposing a phased and supervised mutual withdrawal of troops and guaranteed elections in the South, Nixon said also the United States is prepared - if Saigon and the Communist negotiators are willing to participate in a political as well as military settlement in the South.

Nixon said the United States also would ask that North Vietnam withdraw its forces from Cambodia and Laos in accord with a prescribed timetable.

Stating that his plan has the approval of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, Nixon said, "I believe this proposal for peace is realistic, and takes account of the legitimate interests of all concerned."

At the outset, the chief executive said it might be easy and popular for him simply to withdraw American forces from the war. However, he argued that whatever the reasons for initial American involvement, "If we simply abandoned our effort in Vietnam, the cause of peace might not survive the damage that would be done to other nations' confidence in our reliability."

Senate Debates Class Budgets In Final Full Meeting of Year

By JOEL FOX
Managing Editor

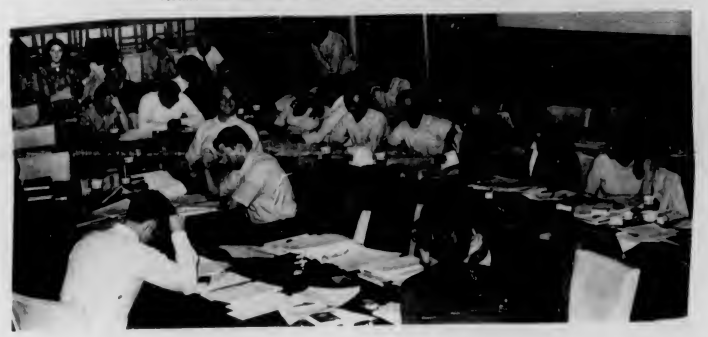
Meeting as a whole for the last time this academic year, the Student Senate went into a session of the Constitutional Convention to discuss the budgets of the classes, '70 through '73, in early action last night.

However, before taking up the budgets, the Senate rescinded a move it had made at a previous session, by returning the Metawampe Award selection power back to the classes. The Award is given every year to some member of the faculty or administration who the selection committee feels has done an outstanding service to the University.

Following this decision, the Senate took up the budget of the Class of 1970. This year's '70 budget brings about an innovation for the senior class with a proposed Career Week. The week was proposed to bring on campus, professionals in certain areas that may interest students who major in the College of Arts and Sciences and achieve a B.A. degree. It was felt by the class officers that this would offset, somewhat, the industrial and engineering recruiting that takes place at the University.

In answering Senator Kentfield's amendment to strike funds that would be used to sponsor Career Week, the class' Vice-President, Ina Goldstein said, "If you go to the placement office you have to know exactly what you're looking for before you go there. This wouldn't be anything specific." She cited as an example bringing in a sociologist or social worker to explain what his field is like. Kentfield argued that the placement office could take care of this or that the faculty, an untested source to find out about jobs, could be asked to give talks. Kentfield's amendment was defeated in a hand count vote of 17 in favor, 37 against, and 2 abstentions.

Past Vice-President Rick Hartwell made an amendment to cut the class tax from eleven dollars to ten dollars, and cut money from the food services category to do away with senior day with SATF funds. He stated, "Briefly, I don't believe we should subsidize senior week, senior day or anything of the sort."



Senator Sue Bacon opposed Hartwell and said that she didn't think one dollar was too much to pay. Hartwell's amendment also met defeat.

The class also added to its budget a concert for the senior class. It will be given late in September, with the Supremes already signed for the show.

An attempt to cut the alumni fee category from the budget was soundly defeated, and the budget was then passed by the

(Continued on Page 2)

The eight column format of today's DAILY COLLEGIAN, the last of the semester, is an experiment, and we would appreciate any comments or reactions to it. Have a good vacation.

The Student Senate met in full session last night for the last time this semester. (MDC photo by Ara Dedekian)

Baha'i Association to Present "Youth for One World" Festival

This Sunday beginning at 2:30 the Baha'i Association of UMass will present "Youth for One World" in the Student Union Ballroom. The program proclaims the Baha'i teaching that "the earth is one country and mankind its citizens" through a series of continuous events in a festival of experiences.

Three main attractions will highlight the "Youth for One World" program: folksinger Claire Segue, a dramatic presentation on racial prejudice, "As Our Cities Burn" by Susan Leich and Joseph Mydell, and the presentation of four films by experimental film maker Mark Sedan. Other highlights will include discussions and a short presentation on the Baha'i Faith.

Claire Segue, folksinger and a capella soloist will appear at 2:30 p.m. Sunday beginning the series of programmed events.

Miss Segue was born in North Carolina and later moved to New York City where she began her career in singing. While singing in the Borough-wide Junior High Chorus she was awarded a scholarship and sang with the glee club at New York City Community College of Liberal Arts. Upon graduating from junior college Miss Segue received a second scholarship and matriculated at Bishop College in Dallas, Texas as a psychology major. One summer vacation she met with UBIQUITAS and traveled and performed with that group in New York.

A member of the Baha'i Faith for three years Miss Segue states, "I hope to use my writing and singing abilities as teaching tools for the Baha'i Faith."

YOW DAY FESTIVAL
Youth for One World
Program
STUDENT UNION
BALLROOM

2:30 Singer Clair Segue
3:30 "As Our Cities Burn"
One Act Play
Susan Leich and Joseph Mydell
5:00 Baha'i Presentation and Discussion
6:30 Break
7:30 Folksing, Clair Segue returns
8:00 Film-maker Mark Sedan
"The Other World of Patrick Sullivan"
"Laughing Bear"
"Whispers"
"Memories of My Father's Scrapyard"

"As Our Cities Burn", a one-act play by Susan Leich and Joe Mydell will highlite the afternoon program of "Youth for One World." "As Our Cities Burn" has lines taken from the Baha'i writings, Malcolm X's autobiography and speeches, and Eldridge Cleaver's book, "Soul on Ice." The play deals with the problem of racial prejudice in America and its alternatives and consequences. Baha'is believe that racial prejudice is the most challenging issue facing America today.

Susan Leich is currently working with Andre Gregory's repertory group, located at NYU where she received an MFA in acting last June. She has appeared in several summer theatres in the Middle West and New England, including Pennsylvania, New York, and most recently, Harvard Summer Repetory Theatre in Massachusetts. Miss Leich is a Chicagoan, but attended Stanford U. for five years, where she worked with their resident professional theatre.

Joseph Mydell is an actor at NYU School of the Arts. Originally from Savannah, Georgia, he has appeared in several productions around New York City, including three summers with the New York Shakespeare Festival, Harlem Repertory Theatre, and most recently the off-off B'way production of ISOLATION at Theatre Genesis. Mydell, a Baha'i of eight years, attended Morehouse College in Atlanta, appearing in, among other plays, THE TRIALS OF BROTHER JERO.

Mark Sedan will show four films Sunday evening at 7:30 completing the day's program.

The films to be on the program are as follows: "Laughing Bear" - a dilicate smiling study of a young boy and his mother, of curiosity and humor, two days before she gives birth to another baby boy. This film was the winner of 7 American film festivals last year as well as being one of the official U.S. entries at the Oberhousen experimental film festival in Germany this year.

"The Other World of Patrick Sullivan" - This film presents the strange and haunting world via the assemblages that Patrick Sullivan himself has created. There is an accompanying musical score especially written for the film by John Herbert McDowell. This film received a special 'Film as Art' award at the San Francisco International Film Festival.

"Whispers" - a dream film in black and white using a dance

(Continued from Page 2)

Fall "Moratorium" Meeting To be Held Friday in Mahar

SARENC, Summer Action Research for Encouraging Necessary Change, a program of research and proposal development leading to a three- to five-day workshop on restructuring the University, probably to be held the third week of school next fall, will have its first organizational meeting, Friday morning, at 10:00 in mahar Auditorium. SARENC will be similar to the moritoriums held at Amherst, Smith and M.I.T., with the difference that three months of research and proposal preparation will hopefully lead to far greater involvement by all segments of the University community than in the usual spontaneous version. In addition to doing the necessary research, help is needed to organize support for such a workshop, and the necessary halt in classes, throughout the University, including people willing to engage in direct negotiations with the administration.

104 students have already signed up to work in the effort. Friday's meeting will be to break into research teams, plan the summer's effort, and delegate responsibilities. Most students will be working on their projects while at home for the summer, but a limited number of free rooms are available for those wishing to work on their research in Amherst. Friday's meeting will be short. All interested are urged to attend. For further information call Mark Cheren, 549-0851 or Manny White, 546-5313.

The acronym SARENC was originally derived from the resolution in response to college disorders recently passed by the American Association of University Professors encouraging Association members to: "seek appropriate remedies, encourage necessary change, and discourage disruptive action."

Health Services Poll Sees High Drug Use Here

By MARK SILVERMAN
News Editor

The level of drug usage on campus is not as high as the news media makes it out to be, but is still "significantly high", according to a study done by students of the UMass public health department.

More than a third of the undergraduates on campus have smoked marijuana at least once, and of these, most are "regular users", that is they have smoked more than 25 times. Of the students who have never smoked, only 1.7% have used stimulants, and none have taken LSD.

The first time students smoked, according to the survey, they were usually in a small group of 3-6 people. The study claims, "this group size is . . . conducive to the feelings one is to experience while smoking."

The study claims that large pot parties are unpopular because a large group lacks the unity needed . . . (and) it can also be dangerous . . . since the people present may be unfamiliar to the first-time user.

Also, large parties are more susceptible to a legal threat. Curiosity, the report states, was the major reason for trying all drugs, although many respondents failed to answer this question.

The use of LSD on campus was, the report states, "lower than was expected." Many of the students, responding to the survey, (85%), claimed that they would not experiment with LSD because they felt it had the potential to damage chromosomes.

Students living off-campus generally were more frequent drug users than students living on campus. The study states that one possible reason for this is the strong, psychological demands living on campus exerts on students, and that a combination of living conditions, called "dorm life" may contribute to a reluctance to use drugs on campus.

The classes of 1969 and 1970 ranked highest in drug use, the class of 1971 placed in the middle and the class of '72 was the lowest.

The report hypothesised that drug use would be highest among the Freshman class because of the widely spread rumors of rampant drug use in high schools. This, however, is not the case . . . students are socialized into drug use once they are in college.

Students majoring in the social sciences and the humanities tended to be heavier drug users than students in other academic majors. People in Arts and Music had the largest percentage of drug use.

The study also carries a test of student's knowledge on drugs, their make up and effect.

Only 19.15% of the students responding scored better than 70% on this test, and the study concluded, "That this illustrates that there is a drastic need for education on the subject of drugs at both the high school and college level. But unless the students want to learn about drugs and drug problems, they will not learn anything from such a source."

The objectives of the study were to learn the extent of drug usage on campus, the proportional distribution of drug users off campus, and the relative amount of knowledge about drugs. It was done to fulfill a requirement of a University public health course, and the data was gathered through a random sample of University students, through the mail on IBM forms.

Police confiscate drugs in what is known among regular drug users as a "drug bust."

MOON FLIGHT PLANNING — The Apollo 10 astronauts, John W. Young, left, Eugene A. Cernan and Thomas P. Stafford, discuss their flight plans that will take Cernan and Stafford within 9 miles of the moon's surface in the Lunar Module Landing Craft. Young will remain in the command ship during the rendervous. The launch is scheduled for Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

Apollo 10 Astronauts Briefed On Moon's Geologic Formations

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - One of America's scientist-astronauts Wednesday showed the three Apollo 10 astronauts what lunar features they should search for when they fly around the moon next week.

Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, an expert in astrogy-logy who is expected to be one of the first scientist-astronauts assigned to land on the moon, met with Thomas P. Stafford and John W. Young to discuss lunar landmarks and topography. He then briefed Eugene A. Cernan about photographic targets.

During the eight-day Apollo 10 flight, scheduled to begin Sunday at 12:49 p.m., Air Force Col Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Cernan plan to twice swoop down in a lunar module LEM - landing craft to within 50,000 feet of Apollo 11's intended landing site near the crater Moltke in the Sea of Tranquility.

"We'll probably be able to see craters 30 feet in diameter - things that could give a lunar module a hard time" during the Apollo 11 touchdown, Stafford said. "If there's any boulder fields around, we can see that."

Two Apollo 11 pilots plan to set foot on the moon's surface July 20.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) - The government assumed powers bordering on martial law Wednesday in a move to curb racial fighting between Chinese and Malay mobs that has claimed an estimated 200 lives.

The new edict was announced as a 24-hour curfew blanketing Kuala Lumpur and the states of Selangor and Penang was extended to Negri Sembilan State.

He spoke as police reported new fighting between Malay and Chinese youths at the government-sponsored Malay College on the outskirts of Kuala Lumpur.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) - Police clashed with 500 students Wednesday demonstrating against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit here on his Latin-American swing.

Students shouted "Rockefeller go home."

The clash occurred while Rockefeller was conferring with President Oswaldo Lopez Arellano two blocks away.

The New York governor began his 23-nation tour Sunday as a special envoy for President Nixon.

ADAK, Alaska (AP) - A severe earthquake Wednesday in Alaska's Aleutian Islands rocked Navy and Coast Guard stations at Adak and an Atomic Energy Commission site at Amchitka.

There were no reports of major damage or injuries.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey observatory at Adak said the quake hit at 9:33 a.m. Bering Daylight Time, 3:33 p.m. EDT with an intensity of 6.5 to 6.7 on the Richter Scale. Aftershocks continued for several hours at intervals of 2 to 3 minutes.

(AP) - Israeli gunners shelled the strategic northern Suez Canal city of Port Said Wednesday and tried to attack the city from the air, Egyptian sources said.

Israeli planes also swung over Jordan Wednesday, striking at a suspected guerrilla base.

Witnesses said several buildings and houses were destroyed or badly damaged in the Port Said barrage. There was no word immediately on casualties.

There was no confirmation of the Port Said shelling from Egyptian military headquarters or from Israeli military authorities.

LONDON (AP) - The head of a clan in the Scottish highlands sounded a protest Wednesday against a plan to hunt down the Loch Ness monster in a yellow submarine and pluck out a piece of its hide.

"I'm all for observing the monster, but I'm against molesting it," said Lord Lovat, 59, a famed commander leader in World War II. "I think it's just damnable to bully the creature."

the pied piper IS
9 E. Pleasant — Amherst
GOING OUT OF BUSINESS
SALE STARTS THURSDAY, MAY 15
Thousands of Dollars of current Spring & Summer fashions (i.e. Villager, John Meyer, Glen of Michigan) are to be sold at a fraction of their regular price
Terms: Cash & Carry.
REDUCTIONS: FROM 25% TO 75%
Dresses ..... $4 to $20 were to $70
Swim Wear .. $7 to $10 were to $24
Skirts & Culottes .... $4 to $14 were to $23
Slax ... $6.90 to $11.90 were to $23
Suits ..... $30 were to $55
Handbags, Scarfs 50% Gloves, Jewelry OFF
Sweaters ..... $5 - $10 were to $26
13 Ski Pants ..... $13 were $30
T-Shirts, Dungarees Hosiery at Fantastic Reductions

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Offices of the DAILY COLLEGIAN are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phone are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three times during the academic year except during vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879 as amended by the act of June 11, 1943.

Considerations of Campus Disorder . . .

Northeastern Votes to Retain ROTC

BOSTON (AP) - More than four-fifths of the students who voted in a campus referendum favor retention of ROTC at Northeastern University, a spokesman said Wednesday.

A group of dissident students led by the Students for a Democratic Society have demanded immediate abolition of ROTC at the school. Some 40 students staged a sit-in Tuesday at the Student Center to emphasize the demand.

The student-conducted referendum called for a vote on three questions and gave these results:

Abolition of ROTC - 733

Retention of ROTC without curriculum credit - 1,535

Retention of ROTC with credit - 1,535

A university spokesman said the 3,803 total vote represented about 39 per cent of the full-time on-campus day students who would have been available to vote.

The university has a total enrollment, including part-time and night students, of approximately 34,000.

President Asa S. Knowles said he is forming a committee of students, faculty and administrators to determine what should be done to tailor an ROTC program for Northeastern.

His announcement Wednesday came after he said he had received word from the Pentagon that universities and colleges will be allowed to tailor ROTC programs to their particular needs.

Injunction Continues at Dartmouth

HANOVEP, N.H. (AP) - John Sloan Dickey, president of Dartmouth College told some 2,000 Dartmouth students Wednesday that he will not ask discontinuance of a court injunction forbidding occupation of the administration building until he feels "the atmosphere of coersion and disruption is at an end."

The court order was issued last week to end the occupation of the college administration building by rebels who wanted an immediate end to ROTC on campus. Technically the order is effective until September.

Dickey, seven college trustees, representatives of the faculty and representatives of various student groups met with a large group of the student body for a general discussion of the situation at the Hanover campus.

During the 2-1/2 hour meeting, Dickey said he didn't know how long the college will support the court order or when it will ask that it be terminated.

Last Friday 45 young persons, most of them Dartmouth students, were jailed and fined for criminal contempt in seizing the building May 6. Judge Martin Loughlin, in Grafton County Superior Court at Woodsville, sentenced the 45, including five girls, to serve 30 days and pay $100 fines.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday denied bail to the group, but the judges left the door open for defense counsel to renew the bail request when the court hears appeals Friday in Boston.

Baha'i ...
(Continued from Page 1)

by the young choreographeress Jeanette Stoner and dancers from the Henry Street Settlement house and Nickolai Dancers. An exploration of the creation of a new film language via effects.

"Memories of my Father's Scrapyard" - an autobiographical film, in documentary style. Made in 35 mm color - as a result of Sedan having won an all school script writing contest. This film he directed at New York University using an all student crew in its production.

Mark was born in New York City and moved to Syracuse with his family at the age of eight. He left for Israel at the age of 17, after completing high school, and spent five years there working as a farmer, fisherman, shepard, actor and director. Currently completing his graduate studies at the film and television division of New York University, he has become one of the more widely known experimental film-makers in the United States.

While in Israel Mark heard of the Baha'i Faith and visited the world center of the Faith in Haifa. He declared himself after returning to this country in 1965. After becoming a member of this new religion he found in the teachings of the Baha'i Faith a direct relationship to his work as an artist.

"Youth for One World" conveys the promise of the Baha'i vision of a world united, free from racial prejudice, war, poverty, and international strife. Focusing on the most universal principle - the oneness of mankind, there is only one race, the human race.

The Baha'is are moving towards the unification of mankind. It is said that the Baha'i communities are one of the few places left today where the Arab and the Jew, and black and the white hominess, are living in a meaning of the hearts of men toward one universal goal.

This is accomplished by the independent investigation of truth. Baha'is believe that each should learn to "see with his own eyes, and not through the eyes of another." There is no clergy in the Baha'i Faith, and each Baha'i has the responsibility of teaching through his personal contact with others. Thus proclamation is not an attempt to convert or proselytize, but to foster true communication and dialogue. Public meetings planned by groups of Baha'is serve the same purpose, as do programs like the one this Sunday, which is open to the public, and a collection will be taken, or admission fee charged.

Senate ...
(Continued on Page 1)

Convention. The class of '70 budget calls for $58,047.00. Each member of the class will be asked to pay an eleven dollar tax which is up two dollars from what the present senior class had to pay.

Next, the Convention debated the Class of '72 budget and got allots for $53,784.00 to cover the activities of next year's sophomore class. Each member of the class will pay a four dollar tax which is the same as the present sophomores are paying.

The Class of '71, which entered the Convention with a $3,800.00 deficit because of losses on the Soph Banquet and S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend, asked for a budget of $72,712.00. This budget funds both Winter Carnival and the Miss University pageant. The projection for the Winter Carnl budget runs at least $10,000 for the Friday concert and $25,000 for the Saturday concert, plus whatever the committee decides to put on Sunday.

Muskie Supports Federal Aid Amid Unrest

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said Wednesday night that enactment of proposals to cut off federal aid to students and schools involved in demonstrations "will help no one but the trouble-makers."

"Enact such measures," Muskie said, "and we will weaken the hand of central administrators who want to work with young dissenters to improve the system.

"We will begin to build sympathy for ringleaders who deserve expulsion and punishment," he added.

Muskie's remarks were in a speech prepared for the Lotos Club here.

He said "the impact of representative legislation will not stop there.

"A police officer who has been taunted and stoned is not going to inquire whether the next man he swings at is a Young Republican," the Maine Democrat continued.

"He's going to swing - and some spring evening, one of those swings is going to bring down the American university system around our heads," he said.

Muskie added "For the same reason, I hope we refrain from new levels of government involvement with university administration," including such things as mediation services, White House commissions and the like.

"The objective of our efforts," he said "must be a university system, intact, integral and in the hands of dedicated administrators, teachers and students."

Takeover Ends at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - Approximately 40 Negro students Wednesday voluntarily left the Springfield College administration building which they had taken over nearly 13 hours earlier.

The students were led from the building by Dr. Jesse Parker, a Negro professor at the college.

The group had forced its way into the building Tuesday by saying the seizure was aimed at forcing the administration to grant immediately a number of demands, including larger Negro enrollment.

The college has about 1,800 students, including approximately 50 Negroes.

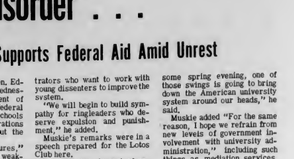
Officials said the building was left "very messy" but appeared undamaged.

College President Dr. Wilbur Locklin said he would have no statement on the occupation until all the facts were available.

Cornell Demonstrators Charged

(AP) - Eighteen of the Negro students who staged an armed takeover of the Cornell University student union building last month were charged Wednesday with criminal trespass.

About 100 Negro Cornell students occupied the student union building April 19. They left 36 hours later carrying rifles, shotguns and knives. The incident aroused national concern, and led the New York State Legislature to ban firearms from college property. Cornell has about 14,000 students.



Harvard Ponders Discipline

CAMBRIDGE, Mass (AP) - A special committee of Harvard faculty and students began closed hearings Wednesday on possible disciplinary action against students allegedly involved in the recent seizure of University Hall.

The Harvard-Radcliffe Students for a Democratic Society picketed the meeting at Holy Ox Center and tried to parade witnesses not to enter.

The subcommittee is one of three committees making up the Committee of 15, formed as an aftermath of the disturbance. The committees are concerned with the problems of discipline, causes of the unrest, and recommendations for restructuring Harvard's government.

Construction Progresses on Campus, Herter Hall to Open in September

The University is changing. Students may blast the abuse of grass on campus, but come hell or high water, the mud will fix the grass and the dust will blow in the summer for some years to come. This is progress.

If you don't believe it, consider this: while it may seem that two-thirds of the campus is torn up (it probably is) Herter Hall, three years in the making, will be opening for business in September. It is scheduled to be the new home of the History department.

Herter Hall is the edifice located directly north of the fort and due east of Bartlett Hall. Herter Hall had been affectionately known as Bartlett East by the court hears appeals Friday in Boston. students, "if Bartlett is dissolving the team with the COLLEGIAN. He went on to add, "We are here to stay. We want to do more than march around."

The Redmen are in their second year as the University drill team and Walters feels that some changes should be made. And first among these is the "ROTC stigma" as he put it.

Currently the Flying Redmen are operating from Dickinson Hall (the ROTC building). They also have Army and Air Force officers as advisors (Maj. Ramille Rebello, U.S. Army and Capt. Robinson, USAF). Walters indicated that team is presently attempting to get out of Dickinson and also acquire civilian faculty as advisers.

Walters explained that the organization is not anti-ROTC but that it is in fact not strictly ROTC and the ROTC image affects recruitment of new members and Student Senate support of Redmen budget requests. "Almost half the team is civilian and it is unfair to those on the team who are civilian," he said the commanding officer of the ROTC label.

UCF Minister To Leave UM

The Rev. Franklin Dorman, president of the United Christian Foundation, announced today the resignation of The Rev. David Purdy, campus minister with the Foundation, effective the end of June. Mr. Purdy has been at the University for the past 5 years working first with the Wesley Foundation and for the last year with the Foundation itself and the Students for Ecumenical Action.

Mr. Purdy has been active in numerous campus programs, he helped formulate the old University Reform Committee, worked with a group of students and faculty last year to draw up a 42-page curriculum proposal which was submitted to the Provost, and has worked with the Metropolitan Action Seminar among many recent activities.

Mr. Purdy gave personal reasons as his cause for leaving the university community. It is believed that he will take a position in the future working directly with urban affairs and the Church. Mr. Dorman said that no plans have currently been made for seeking Mr. Purdy's successor.

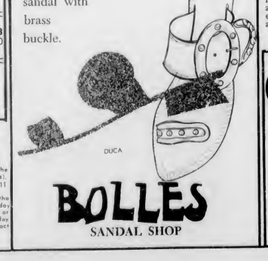
Fellowships Awarded

Two University of Massachusetts pre-doctoral graduate students in food science and technology have been awarded fellowships for 1969-70 by the Institute of Food Technologists, according to W. B. Esselen, department head.

They are Rodney J. Croteau of Springfield and Elizabeth A. Gullett of Ontario, Canada. The team won a $4000 General Foods Fellowship and Miss Gullett has received a $8000 Pillsbury Fellowship.

The purpose of the fellowships is to encourage further study in the field of food science and technology.

Open Letter
Rosenberg Resigns from Fine Arts Council, Indicates Coercion by Student Senate



To the Fine Arts Council:
I, Stan Rosenberg, wish to formally announce my resignation from the Fine Arts Council. In doing so, I would like to present the reasons behind my decision, the most important of which is the fact that the Council, which must act be under any outside politi-cal-power control if it is to function effectively, is, in fact, controlled and dominated by the Student Senate. The fact that on several different occasions I have been warned that I would be removed from the Council, by the Student Senate, if I did not vote the way I was instructed to, by the above mentioned Student Senate, makes me wonder why the Senate does not just appoint five puppets. The fact that I was told that I will not be reappointed tonight simply confirmed the threats. The fact that the reason I will not be reappointed tonight is directly related to the fact that since, 2684 students signed a petition requesting reconsideration of the University Bands budget and since, I consider myself more directly responsible to them, as taxpaying students, than to the Student Senate power block (who has a budget of its own, and who gave up all rights to the University Bands when it stripped them of their R.S.O. status), and not vote the way I was instructed to by that same Senate power block on the Fine Arts Council,

I would, however, like to strongly recommend, since the Fine Arts Council is supposedly representative of the tax-paying students, that the student members of the Council be selected by a campus wide election rather than by a Student Senate appointment. This is essential if the Fine Arts Council is to function effectively as a true representative of the students who contribute directly to its support.

I am very pleased that in spite of the obvious drawbacks in the present arrangement, the Fine Arts program has developed as far as it has and it has been a pleasure for me to be able, in some small way, to contribute to aids development. I wish the Fine Arts Council every possible success in continued growth and development.

Stan Rosenberg

For cool fashion try DUCA. Beautiful Italian made sandal with brass buckle.

DUCA
BOLLES
SANDAL SHOP

Collegian Photo Staff
— NOTICE —
ALL COLLEGIAN EQUIPMENT is to be returned by
THURSDAY — 6:30 p.m.

Under its' newly-elected officers -- (l-r) Deborah Barlow (Sigma Sigma Sigma), Rush Coordinator; Marion McNeil (Chi Omega Upsilon), Publicity Chairman; Beverly Richardson (Sigma Sigma Sigma), Treasurer; Heidi Hartley (Chi Omega), President; Terrilyn Gear (Lambda Delta Phi), Vice-president; Michele Chenard (Chi Omega), Junior Panhellenic Coordinator; and Judy Reulbach (Sigma Kappa), Secretary -- the Panhellenic Society of the University of Massachusetts has completed plans for an unprecedented Fall Freshman Rush this September.

Flying Redmen Emphasize Civilian Status, Drill Team to Increase Community Service

By RICHARD LANE
Senior Reporter

The Flying Redmen is the official drill team from the University of Massachusetts. This semester the 12 member marching unit won five trophies in competition and marched in the Cherry Blossom Festival Parade. The Flying Redmen are the only civilian unit sanctioned drill team east of the Mississippi River.

But despite these credentials, acting commanding officer and senior Mike Walters is not completely satisfied with the role of the Redmen.

"Our organization can do a lot for the university and the

MLK to Hold Final Coffee

Tuesday, May 20, will be the last of this year's regular Meet the Administration Coffee Hours sponsored by the Martin Luther King Jr. Social Action Council. The guest will be the Acting Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Seymour Shapiro. As usual, the coffee hour will be held in the College Lounge of the Student Union between 10 am and 2 p.m. All interested members of the University Community are invited to attend, and free coffee will be available to all.

The Social Council hopes to continue the program next year, and is seeking comments and criticisms on this year's program. Any suggestions or requests for specific guests to be invited should be sent to the office of the King Council in 207 Hampshire House, Univ. of Mass., Amherst, Mass.

Currently the Flying Redmen have 78 members (including five girls working as secretaries with a 12 man marching drill unit) but are still looking for more. "We want people of all kinds of background," said Walters. "They do not even have to march to be in the organization."

CO Walters emphasized that along with their competition in drill meets, providing service to the university community is the function of the Flying Redmen. Ushering at home football games, car washes, selling notes for professors, showing movies, are among those things done by the team. Walters added that the Flying Redmen would also like in the future to aid in registration, counseling of courses and work with underprivileged children through the Belchertown Volunteers and also provide scholarships.

The above services have also presented the Redmen with the opportunity to earn as much as one-half their total budget request on their own ($3200 of $6800 this year and perhaps three-fourths for next year with a smaller budget request.

Next year or the year after the team hopes to be independent of the senate.

Library Hours

Goodell Library will be open 24 hours a day for the initial half of the Reading and Exam period, May 18 through May 22. During the remainder of the exam period, May 23 through May 28, the library will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 2 a.m.

Through-out these hours, the Library's collection of books, bound periodicals, microfilms, and reference material will be available for consultation or circulation.

The current periodical collection can be consulted between 8:30 a.m. and midnight during the entire exam period.

Notices

CHESS CLUB
If you would like to participate in next year's interesting activities please attend the meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the New Hatch.
KING COUNCIL SUMMER CAMP
Meeting cancelled. If we do not have your summer address, please leave it at 207 Hampshire House.
NES
All tutors this semester and last NES has sent certificates of thanks to the King Council office, 207 Hampshire or call 6-0649.
PRE-MED SOCIETY
Elections will be held, followed by two films. All members are urged to attend. Public also invited, tonight at 8 p.m. in Morrill Aud.
HILLEL
Fri. services will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Worcester Rm, Sat. services at 9:45 a.m.
NEWMAN CENTER
Ascension today, Holy Day of Obligation. Masses at 7, 8, 9:15 a.m., and 12:15, 5 and 7 p.m.
MECHANICAL ENGINEERS MEET
The Engineering Society of W. Mass. and the W. Mass Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will join on Tues., May 20 at Stonybrook Farm, W. Springfield for Lodge Night Program. Mr. Wesley D. Reed, a member of the Musical Box Society International, will talk on "Music from the Attic." This will be a private Ma W. Mass. Section of ASME '68-69 activities.
ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. Peter McKinney, Harvard, will speak on "Electrochemistry of Tyghevrolchloroacrimony and Some Related Compounds," today at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 252.
ORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Prof. Ernest Grunwald, Brandeis, will speak on "Fast Proton Transfer Rates and Solvation," today at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 132.
INORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Dr. Robert J. York will speak on "B-Diketone Complexes of Co(III)," today at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 131.
SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE JUDICIAL AFFAIRS
Anyone interested in becoming Editor-in-Chief of DOCKET, the semesterly publication on Campus judicialries, please call 6-2152, Reporters and other staff needed.
CLASS OF '69
Seniors: Don't forget to make your reservations for Senior Day, May 30.
SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB
Meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Rm., S.U. Movies and slides to be shown. Lecture: "How to Crash a Picnic."
INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
For our last meeting of the year, we are having a Communion Service with Rev. David Fife tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall. All members please come.
SCROLLS
Meeting tonight. Soph. Scrolls meet at 6 p.m. President at 6:30. S.U. MOVIE COMMITTEE
"Elmer Gantry" will be shown tonight at 7 p.m., "The Silencers" (Dean Martin) Tues., May 20 at 6 and 8:15 p.m., in the S.U. Ballroom.
ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION
The annual picnic will be this Sat. at 1 p.m. at Dr. Barker's home. All members invited.
OUTING CLUB
Puffer's Pond outing today at 4 p.m. Signup sheet on bulletin board.
LOCAL #1776
AFL-CIO Union meeting May 20 at 7:15 p.m. on the S.U. Unit #2 service-maintenance.
FINDINGS
Holly Pall, '70, Melville, to Mike Sotera, '70, Dartmouth.
Eileen Manning, '70, Coolidge, to William Evans, '71, Phi Sigma Kappa, Rochester Tech.
Koren Rinker, '69, Leach, to Chris Sullivan, '69, Washington.
ENGAGEMENT
Kathleen Miller, '71, Fitchburg State, to Cameron Temple, '72, UMass.
LOST AND FOUND
Found - Pair of prescription sunglasses, call Nancy, 6-8572.
Lost - Green Bursary 101 notebook, call Carol, 5-2745.
Lost - Pair of smoke rimmed glasses. Call 6-9292.
Lost - Brown square shaped glasses, call Holly, 6-5366.
Found - A variety of valuable items including glasses, jewelry and books have been found throughout the year in JQA. They will be available at the lobby desk from 7-closing until Fri. After that items will be disposed of.
Lost - Brown leather wallet with leather lacing around edges. Call Bill, 6-9336. Reward.
Lost - History notebook with notes on E.A. Ross. Return to 338 Prescott or call 6-5238.
Lost - Class ring, dinner style initials CAM. Call Carol, 6-9844. Reward.
Lost - Brown glasses, call Sue, Rm. 223, Call 5-2511. Reward.
Found - Pair of black rimmed glasses. Inscription reads Dr. Joseph E. Seeley, Optometrist, Holyoke, Mass. 532-6258. Call Elizabeth Hadley, Math. and Statistics.
Lost - Long red, white and blue scarf. Call Sue Bogert or Cathy Conley, 5-2020 or 5-0731. Reward.
SPANISH
Students interested in taking 2nd year of Spanish, evenings next year at community college - call Frank, 584-7398 after 5 p.m.

THE GLASS ONION appearing
THIS FRIDAY NIGHT
BOLD
and from Brown University,
THE JOBBERWOCKS
Berkshire Commons 8:00

"New Republic" Calls for Campus Discussions To Formulate Answers to Society's Problems

The NEW REPUBLIC magazine, distressed by "our national mistakes and neglect," called upon universities to set aside two days during the first week of the fall term in order that students and faculty members might debate "the major social and foreign problems of our society" and formulate changes.

In a cover editorial, the weekly independent magazine of opinion published in Washington, declared, "The enemy is not a young delinquent but a delinquent society.

"The young shout, picket, occupy buildings, because they feel powerless to do much else," the editorial said. "They are capable of responding in other ways, they will give at least guarded trust - if, in turn, they are given leadership with the audacity, honesty, compassion and impatience to match their own. They responded to Eugene McCarthy and to Robert Kennedy. They responded to the Peace Corps. It will be harder now than before for any leader or cause to win that same respect, but it can still be done."

The editorial also called upon the churches to hold public discussions on critical issues in the same manner as the universities, and notably Amherst College which recently held two days of open faculty-student talks. "The clergy - Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, should do likewise - gathering the same week in cities and towns to decide what needs doing if we are to regain our self-respect as a people. If these institutions do not take a firm hand in setting the conditions for civil peace and the restoration of confidence, who will?"

"The universities must speak plainly about our national mistakes and neglect. They must, for they and the churches are the institutions which still have some semblance of moral authority."

New Legislation Allows Loans for Non-Residents

New legislation which makes it possible for a college or vocational student to help meet his educational expenses by borrowing from his school under the Guaranteed Student Loan Program - regardless of his State of residence - has gone into operation, the U. S. Office of Education has announced.

The new type of loan activity is authorized by recent amendments to the Higher Education Act of 1965.

In most States, before the amendments were enacted, loans to non-resident students could not be insured. The amendments permit the Federal Government to insure loans made by an eligible college or vocational school to a student who, by reason of his residence, does not have access to a State or a private non-profit loan insurance program.

The amendments also open the way for such organizations as commercial lending institutions, insurance companies, and pension funds, many of which operate on an interstate basis, to become eligible to make Federally Insured loans to students. Many of these organizations had been willing to make student loans but had not been able to locate a source of guarantee.

Announcing activation of the new legislation Dr. Preston Valien, Acting Associate Commissioner for Higher Education of the U. S. Office of Education, said that Yale University is the first educational institution to avail itself of the new provisions.

"This new phase of the program should go far," Dr. Valien said, "toward filling a serious gap in our efforts to see that every student who needs to borrow has access to an insured loan to attend the school that is best for him, regardless of where he may live. We hope that other institutions throughout the country will follow Yale's example so that many more students may benefit from the program."

The Guaranteed Student Loan Program is administered by the Insured Loans Branch of the Division of Student Financial Aid, of the USOE's Bureau of Higher Education.

'Collegian' Rated First by ACP

The DAILY COLLEGIAN has been awarded a first class rating by the Associated Collegiate Press for the fall semester, 1969. The award, presented by the editorial advisory service of the Associated Collegiate Press, is based on the over-all quality of the newspaper, taking into consideration reporting, make-up, production, editorial, sports and feature pages, and public service.

The newspaper has received First-Class ratings since it became a daily in the fall of '67. This is the second highest out of five ratings given out by ACP. Separate ratings are given for dailies, weeklies, and monthlies.

The critical guide stated that the DAILY COLLEGIAN just fell short of the top dailies in the nation.

"This," according to Editor-in-Chief Donald A. Epstein, "is a great accomplishment when you consider they we've only been a daily for two years."

Epstein called the establishment of an 8:00 a.m. campus delivery as the greatest achievement of the year. "We now are able to supply the fastest and most comprehensive news dissemination this campus has ever had," he added, "and we're aiming for an earlier delivery next year, with an increase to 12 pages a day."

Summer University Credits Offered at Nantucket

For anyone looking for three weeks on a private, half-mile beach, we suggest the University's Workshops on Nantucket. Classes are held in a baronial estate bequeathed to the University. Bikinis are permitted in class, the surfing is good, and the housing is co-ed.

The Technical Writing Workshop (June 30 - July 18) is open to all upperclassmen and to graduate students. The Imaginative Writing Workshop (June 9 - June 29) is open to all who can satisfy the admissions committee that they can write prose fiction, (Submit a short story or 20 pages from a novel.)

Openings in each workshop still exist, and the credits may be earned on both graduate and under-graduate levels. Application forms for-in-the-mm are available from Prof. John Mitchell, Dept. of English, Bartlett #477.

GOVERNMENT or GUARDIAN?
Is the Student Senate assuming too much power?
Decide for yourself tonight at 9:00 as WMUA presents a discussion of the issues surrounding the new SGA Constitution.
Former Daily Collegian editor Jack Dean will host an hour-and-a-half show featuring student leaders from various areas of campus life.
Call in your opinions.
TONIGHT-
9:00 pm-WMUA-91.1 FM

TREAT yourself to Hatch Specials this Sunday

Hatch Steak Dinner with onion Rings FR. FRIES tossed Salad Rolls & Butter $1.49 PLUS TAX
Chicken in the Basket with FRENCH FRIES Rolls & Butter $1.19 PLUS TAX
SERVED 11:30 AM. - 2:30 P.M. 4:30 P.M. - 7:30 P.M.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

It was Quite a Year

It was quite a year.

ROTC, Nixon, Afro-Am, Henderson, Boyden, the Snow Storms, Dow, SDS, Minsky, Hunsberger, the History Department, the stolen letter, Daily Collegian referendum, Shapiro, Thurmond, Noffsinger, HHH, Tippo, Redfern, the $50 room deposit, ABM, SLAP.

It was a year of action and change, some for the good, some for the bad. It was a year when we became aware that our University is not excluded from the problems of society. It was a year when we decided that the University must change in order for society to change.

However, we differed on the means to bring about the change:

The Afro-Am society sought to bring about the change they desired by means of negotiations and discussions with the administration, faculty and student body. It took an orderly, dignified and effective march to Whittemore to start the negotiations, but here was the perfect example of how a legal demonstration can be effective. At this date, the discussions are continuing.

The Whitmore sit-in by S.D.S. protesting Dow Chemical in February was an example of a demonstration which in our opinion backfired. The DAILY COLLEGIAN condemned the illegal demonstration and supported the administration's action in calling for the State police to remove them. We were bitterly attacked by many students who claimed we gave in to the other side. Our rationale was that the 34 students who were sitting-in were intransigent. They wanted to be arrested for publicity purposes. They got what they wanted, at this date, the cases of the 34 students have been continued and in all probability the charges against them will be dropped in June.

The demonstrators wanted to ban Dow Chemical from the campus. They argue that the University should not be involved in recruiting. A Daily Collegian referendum several weeks later disclosed that the majority of students favor an "open recruitment policy" with no company being prohibited from coming to campus.

The Strom Thurmond incident should not be forgotten. No matter how repugnant his views are, the man had a right to express them without being harrassed. Charges were never made against the students who were on the stage during Thurmond's speech. We believe they should have been. Action must be taken so that the incident will never be repeated on this campus again.

We are losing several valuable people this year. Dr. Mark Noffsinger (no, it's not Loffsinger) associate Dean of Students, leaves this July. He has been a good friend of students for many years. His total dedication to improving student life on this campus will be appreciated for many years to come.

It is not often when we single out a departing faculty member, but in the case of Dr. Robert Stanfield of the Sociology department, we think it necessary. Over the past few years, he has spent innumerable hours outside of the classroom, working and talking with undergraduates. Inside the classroom, he has tried to make the educational experience more meaningful by encouraging students to participate in their own learning experience. We wish him the best of luck in his new post at the University of Vermont.

As of now, the resignation of Provost Oswald Tippo is still in the air. We consider the Provost to be inexpendable and urge him once again to withdraw his resignation.

In recent months, we, along with others, have criticized the Student Senate. The Senate has become bogged down in often inane discussion due to the over extended influence of a relatively small number of students who like to play "professional legislator." Some Senators, who pride themselves on representing their constituency should learn that their constituency is back in the dorms, frats or offcampus and not in the Senate office.

It's been quite a year. We hope that from both the good and the bad a better University will result.

Donald A. Epstein
Editor-in-Chief

Campus Comment

Priorities

We felt that it was important to determine why the budget had been cut before racing madly and aimlessly about trying to restore it. We felt that our attention had been misfocused on the State by our Administration in an attempt to cover its own failure.

The Administration failed the CCEBS program by not including it on its unofficial priority list which accompanies the budget request to the Governor.

The Administration failed to properly represent the University and public higher education to the Legislature.

The reasons for these failures, we believe, are that the Administration is primarily concerned with building a "status" institution which, like all other institutions, is built on the reputation of the Graduate School.

We considered the following in reaching this conclusion:

1. The massive drive launched by the Administration to persuade Provost Tippo - whose job is to help obtain research grants and "name" professors - to stay. 2. The drive NOT launched to persuade Dean Noffsinger - who sees his job as supportive of undergraduate students - to stay. 3. Dean Allen telling the Student Senate that we need to build a University which is the "biggest and the best" in the nation, using as models Berkeley, Chicago, U.C.L.A. Those models do not equate the biggest and the best with a quality undergraduate education. Reputations are built in terms of quantity of research, and quality of research, and 6. The reputations of our Administrators grow with the reputation of our grad school.

We felt that the Administration had been selling grad schools to the State to feed their own dreams of grandeur.

Priority reordering is essential. We can no longer tolerate our University being represented by administrative decision rather than administrative policy. We must determine, openly, in a truly tripartite process where students are heard rather than merely being allowed to speak, what this institution is all about. Then we must see that the Legislature is accurately informed of that policy.

We must demand that our administration make decisions which accurately reflect the policies we determine. We can no longer allow our administration to misrepresent us to the Legislature when that misrepresentation costs us 11.4 million dollars.

We have the obligation to ask our administration to justify its decisions to the policies of our University and to us. In order to accomplish this, we see two major conditions which must precede all administrative actions from the departmental level on down through Whitmore:

1. All administrative actions and decisions shall be determined at administrative meeting s with public minutes kept.

2. No administrative actions resulting from those meetings shall go into effect until objections, if raised, are dealt with at a public hearing.

Finally, I did NOT call for a demonstration Thursday, nor did the majority group for which I was speaking.

Gilbert Salk
Peter Torode
Deborah Cleaves
Peter Thiffault

Publius II

Having read the inappropriately named "PUBLIUS II," we would like to point out some slipshod slapping (try to say that one fast). First, it is our belief that YAHOO, SPECtrum, and WMUA have relatively little to complain about, as they all seem to have received extremely fair treatment with regard to next year's budgets. YAHOO, in fact, has received more money and POWER than it has ever had in the history of the University. With regard to the various RSO groups on campus, they are paid for with STUDENT monies, and for that reason cannot have the great amounts of freedom and power that they would have were the y to be independently financed. We as students would far prefer the Student Senate to any other group when it comes to dispensation of our tax money, and feel that they should have the say as our representatives about how that money is spent. This is not a power-grab as indicated by the cartoon, but merely continuation of present practices that we feel are, in general, justified.

With regard to the new Constitution: first, unless you refuse to call the United States Legislature democratic, the SLAP statement regarding power to amend ("This is a luxury enjoyed by no other democratic body in the world") is a blatant travesty of journalistic integrity. Second, to imply that the Senate voted to vote the Constitution on a referendum as the RESULT of the committee action is absurd. The Constitution was to have gone on a referendum April 24, but did not because, despite several months of planning, a quorum for the Constitutional Convention was lacking. Conspicuously absent were certain class officers, some of whom signed the Petition for Referendum. Third, a popularly elected student body Presidency is great if you want the guy who throws the best parties representing YOU and your duly elected Senator to the Trustees and to the public. Mickey Mouse lives in the minds of SLAP.

As far as SWAP is concerned, we can't really cry about their existence. SWAP has become in past years a great, all-expense-paid beer bash, paid for by every one of us through the student tax; and the right to participate, by some admissions, is absolutely nil. With regard to the COLLEGIAN, it is extremely doubtful that any type of censorship, particularly such absurd binding clauses, will be approved by the Senate. What the Senate will ask, is why does the COLLEGIAN want to buy a brand-new car with student money? We don't see why a standard shift is inadequate, which is the major reason for their request.

Lynne Thomas' contention that the Student Senate can amend the Constitution at whim, is also absurd. Wynne must be long winded, be the amending process requires two YEARS! The only way that this can be done more quickly is by means of a referendum, which seems to be what SLAP is upset about.

Finally, we wish that the persons involved in SLAP would attend Senate meetings before making accusations. The originality, engineering, natural and physical sciences, etc. The constituency of the projects, and know what the Senate is doing. We do this because we are concerned with the University, with academic policies, with the Student Activities Tax Fund, with social change, with student power, and other topics of importance to us as students. And we feel that the Senate as a whole is working damned hard and damned well to effect needed change. Absurd amendments and bills will always be proposed but there is a great deal of difference between the proposal and the act. The easiest thing to a power grab we've seen in the Senate was the grab for coffee at the end of one 7:00 p.m. - 7:00 a.m. meeting. All we can say is that if you don't like the Senate, at least attend meetings before issuing unfounded, misinformed, condemnations.

Ken Mosakowski
Debbie Cleaves
Dave Stevens

Betrayed

I'm not sure whether I should feel insulted or betrayed. After all, I signed that statement, and Mr. Chametzky would have his readers believe that such signatures are provided only by dupes and conspirators.

The one possibility that he ignores--that academic freedom is important in the academy--is what motivated me. If he thinks academic freedom is unimportant that's OK by me. But I wish he'd argue his case on its merits and omit innuendo and rhetorical flourish.

As for "implications", which concern Mr. Tucker as well as Mr. Chametzky, I can only say that it seems to me that they've done some beavy work in the explication of this text.

G.P. Barber
Sociology

Contemporary U

The preliminary plans for establishing the Contemporary University Program at UMass are such as UMass have been completed and will take effect in September 1969. The Contemporary University which is a new concept in higher education involving student initiated research and investigation was developed by Joseph Rhodes, a Senior at California Institute of Technology. The program will be financed by the Ford Foundation.

Twenty student each from UMass, Federal City College in Washington D.C., and the University of South Carolina will work full time for one semester on a research project that they design and develop with the advice and direction of faculty members from the three schools, and the Director of the Program, Stuart C. Gelbrayth. Students who successfully participate in the program will receive 15 credits which may be applied to university graduation credits or to major department credits if an arrangement is reached with the individual departments involved.

Selection for full-time participation in the program will be based on a personal interview and completion of a final application. Decisions will be made by the Selection Committee consisting of two faculty members, and two graduate students in the School of Education, and two undergraduates. If any student has further questions concerning the program or is interested in obtaining an application for admission, he should:

(1) contact one of the members of the Selection Committee listed below:

Nat French 545-1537	Sally VanCamp 549-0283
Robert Woodbery 545-1535	Marie Witwicki 545-6665
Mark Cheren 549-0851	Robert Henderson 253-3300
Chad Sotorne 549-0538

(2) attend an open meeting in Thompson 104 on Friday, May 16th at 2 p.m.

The preliminary plans for establishing the Contemporary University Program differs from the usual research project or honors thesis at UMass in the following ways:

1. Any interested student, not only "honors" students may be considered for participation in the program.

2. Students involved will be highly mobile and need not restrict their resources to those located on their individual campuses. Utilization of resources beyond the university such as federal agencies, foundations, and organizations will be arranged by the Director and his assistants.

3. Students may devote all their time for one semester on their projects without being concerned with carrying the usual academic courses at the same time.

The selection process for full-time researchers will be on a University-wide basis and will be completed by May 1st. A committee of faculty, graduate and undergraduate students from the School of Education will comprise the selection committee; their decision will be based primarily upon the completion of the final application for participation in the program. If any student is interested in full-time participation in the program for next semester or if he has further questions concerning the program, he should fill out the preliminary application below and return it to Marie Witwicki.

Statement of Purpose of the Faculty Group for Academic Freedom

Prompted by the recurring news of campus violence across the country, the undersigned faculty members decided to establish the rudiments for an organization that could play a constructive role should a crisis erupt on this campus. It is our strong belief that the moderate majority of teachers who, though opposed to violence, intimidation and obstruction, failed to take a stand for the freedom of academic life. We do not believe that there is any dispute, problem, issue or grievance on the campus at present so burning and intensely unjust that it can be resolved only by violent or coercive means. Nor can we accept the proposition that idealistic motives (in any event difficult to determine, as all motives are) justify repugnant methods. Nor can we find the position tenable that campus violence is merely a symptom and that, therefore, rather than dealing with the symptom one should focus exclusively on the root causes. Disruptive and violent behavior of groups and individuals is ALWAYS a symptom of some underlying cause, yet before the cause is established, let alone remedied, the violent individual or group must be restrained and prevented from infringing upon the rights or physical security or personal freedom of others.

In an essentially peaceful environment, such as the university, the non-violent and reasonable majority tends to be particularly helpless and vulnerable when confronted with any organized minority willing to use violent means to achieve its ends. With these considerations in mind, it appears to us that moderates - contrary to their inclinations and temperament - must seek a measure of organization and effective solidarity. they must also find some ways to make their views known and their weight felt. They must create an atmosphere in which attempts at intimidation and coercion will not have a chance, a climate of opinion that deprives the extremists of moral and psychological support. It is our task to uphold rational discourse at a time when the prevailing cult of passion and irrational emotionalism prepares the ground for, and provides a logical legitimization of, concrete acts of violence. Faculty and students alike must take a clear stand in support to the values, standards, and procedures which are the basis for the continued function of educating and of advancing knowledge. Essential to these ends are free communication and the exploration of ideas regardless of their popularity. It is the duty of the University Administration to safeguard these rights and procedures related to these goals.

Our general purposes may be summarized as follows:

1) To create a sense of solidarity and mutual awareness among faculty members and students concerned with the maintenance of academic freedom;

2) To impress on this academic community the indivisibility of academic freedom (a single disrupted class is a threat to all of us, teachers and students alike);

3) To affirm our support of university rules and regulations pertaining to disruptions or actual violence and to press for their enforcement;

4) To confer also with students in ensuring that they will not be deprived of their education and in promoting change designed to improve the quality of the academic experience;

5) To assist where appropriate in resolving campus disputes and conflicts.

In conclusion, we stress the compelling need at this particular period for the academic communities themselves to prevent anarchy, violence or extremist intimidation if they wish to avoid the intensification of outside pressures on the university. Should the chaos on campuses continue, academic freedom will soon be threatened, not only from the inside by extremist groups, but also from the outside by the forces of a society increasingly preoccupied with what is perceived to be the breakdown of law and order on campuses.

Faculty Group for Academic Freedom

Fine Arts

In response to an article in the May 14 issue of the Daily Collegian concerning the Fine Arts Council's action in cutting the 1969-70 Universi-/ Bands Budjet, I would like to add the following information. The reasons why the Fine Arts Council did not consider the request were two: 1) a good portion of the budget does not pertain to the development of a good Fine Arts Program on this campus, and 2) the Student Senate has requested the Fine Arts Council to refer the Band to the Senate. Although both the Fine Arts Council and the Student Senate derived from Student taxes, the Council did not feel that it was appropriate for a Marching Band to be contained within a University Fine Arts Program. Unfortunately, the Band has refused to go to the Student Senate for funds and, in essence, has hindered its own program.

Raymond Taylor
Chairman of
the Fine Arts Council

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union University of Massachusetts — Amherst, Mass.
BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Donald A. Epstein '70
MANAGING EDITOR	Joel Fox '71
BUSINESS MANAGER	Frank Wardley '70
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Keith M. Bromery '71
NEWS EDITOR	Mark Silverman '71
SPORTS EDITOR	Peter F. Pascarelli '71
TODAY'S STAFF
ISSUE EDITOR	Claudia Hamberg
EDITORIAL DAY EDITOR	David Baskin
SPORTS DAY EDITOR	Jan Curley
NEWS STAFF	P. Lampert, B. Gouveia

A Leftist View

The Revolution of Liberation

(Editor's Note: I am writing this article as a clarification and elaboration on my recent editorial published in the Mass, Daily Collegian under the head Cornell: A New Phase in Revolution.)

In my article of 8 May 69 published in the Daily Collegian, I expounded that the use of weaponery at Cornell was a new era in the revolution of means toward the eventual total revolution.

From my point of view, a revolution in its initial stages is not a totally planned movement. It evolves as the expectations of the masses increase, and as the supression of these masses by the "unfit majority" continues. It gradually increases as the reactionary movement of certain of its members gain momentum in response to the increased militancy on the part of the supressed masses. Out of this extremely tense situation, sporatic outbursts occur of extremely unorganized and violent temper from which will come or evolve planned revolts with leaders and targets. Gradually we will see the phasing out of the disorganized types of revolutions with the highly organized ones taking their place. This is when the revolution will be well underway, and stopping it will be as impossible as stopping the sun from shining.

As for leaders and organizers of the revolution, there are many now, and there will be many more when or if the revolution evolves to a degree where more are needed. The mistake that many now make is that by not seeing leaders they assume that they don't exist. This actually couldn't be further from the truth. The revolution's leaders do exist, but fortunately for them, they have the common sense to exist underground. These are the ingrained leaders; the true revolutionists; the ones who will be around to assume leadership when the time comes, not in jail or in a consentration camp before the fact. Well-known leaders such as Eldridge Cleaver, Hewy Newton, Stokley Carmichael, H. Rap Brown, Bobby Seale, Dave Dellinger, and Jerry Ruben have all either been jailed, indicted, forced underground, or brainwashed into pacificism by the unfit majority." All of these people have had an advantageous effect on the supressed masses, but because of this effect, they incured the wrath of the "unfit majority" in whose hands rests the power to vent ultimate annihilation. (Remember Martin Luther King). Those who are presently in jail serve little purpose other than the inspiration they give the masses before their censure. And it is my expressed opinion that Eldridge Cleaver is completely powerless in his present position through many would disagree with me. To me it is certain that the FBI, CIA, or what ever gestapo "law enforcement" agency the "unfit majority" has seen fit to send after Cleaver; they know where he is. One must always keep in mind that we are not dealing with amateurs. We are dealing with an establishment more expert in its suppressive agencies than those under Hitler and with a police system more thorough and directioned than that of the world including the famed Nazi Gestapo. From such an awesome system no one is safe and most of all no one can escape. There can be no doubt in my mind that the system knows where Eldridge Cleaver is. And as long as he keeps his nose clean, he will probably be allowed to remain as is though constantly watched. In such a system as ours, jails are little more than miniature prisons within one big prison. The system contains and releases those whom it wishes to contain or release. Such a system keeps men like Eldridge Cleaver in while it lets men like James Earl Ray get away. And no one will ever convince me that it is any different.

Finally, probably the most often asked question is, what do the revolutionists expect to replace the present system with? What will come in place of our present system? The answers to these questions are not to a system to replace our present one, But so far, no one has come up with a completely satisfactory replacement. Even so there are certain basic facts about political institutions that the revolutionists do know. One is that capitalism with all its suppression and exploitation is completely out of phase, no matter what the guise, with what the revolutionists believe to be even close to a "right" system. They also know that a system such as the Communists have in Russia which consist of troys completely the individualism and freedom of the people is not "right" either. Both of these systems are equally suppressive and debumanising. Maybe it is as was pointed out to Joseph A. Califano in his article in the WASHINGTON POST by a young foreign student revolutionist who put it in the words: "We do not know what kind of society we would replace them (present governments) with, but they must be destroyed. To find out what kind of society will come out of this destruction, we must go through the experience of the revolution. Perhaps we will discover that we must remain in a constant state of revolution." Possibly this young revolutionary is right. Maybe man WAS made to exist as he did originally, free , uncovered, unrestricted, and unsuppressed. Maybe a state of constant revolution is the only system man can adequately abide by. If so we have learned well from the mistake of Che Guevara who carried his campaign to the countryside instead of to the cities, and from the success of Mao Tse Tung who took his campaign directly to the people giving them the intelligence due them in seeing their own way to freedom. We have learned also equally well from their mistakes in the beginning stages of the revolution. Hopefully now we will move forward-strong, united, and powerful with liberation our goal and a God-known ultimate success.

Keith Bromery
Executive Editor

Concert Assoc. Plans Long Series For Next Year

The University of Massachusetts Concert Association has announced plans for its 25th Anniversary season. Celebrating this event in 1969/70 with a year-long list of musical activities, the Association announced today that two new series will be added to the Concert Association's standard series providing a well balanced musical fare.

Ted Gistas '70, newly elected manager of the Concert Association released the names of artists engaged for the three series. The Concert Association will present seven pairs of concerts in Bowker Auditorium at the University's Amherst campus including Misha Dichter, pianist; Zara Nelsova, cellist and Grant Johannesen, pianist; Carlos Montoya, Flamenco guitarist and Henryk Szeryng, violinist. In addition, The Bach Aria Group; Die Reihe a Viennese avant-garde group and The Boston Ballet Company will appear on this series.

The Concert Association will also sponsor four week-end popular music programs in Bowker Auditorium for the 1969/70 academic year. These will include Mothers of Invention; Nina Simone, Odetta and the Doc Severinsen Orchestra.

The University's Chamber Music Series will consist of five performances in Bowker Auditorium and will include visits by the Juilliard String Quartet; Philadelphia Orchestra Woodwind Quintet, New England String Quartet (In residence at the University of Connecticut); The Guarneri String Quartet and the Boston Symphony Chamber Players.

Season subscriptions, as well as single tickets, will be soldto students, faculty staff and members of the community for these events and a brochure describing the series in depth is now being published. At its annual meeting on May 8th, the Concert Association held elections for officers for the ensuing season. In addition to the election of Mr. Gistas as manager, Tom Baillieul '71 was elected Assistant Manager; Kathy Kelly '70, Hospitality Committee chairman; Christopher Smarzo, '71, Technical Director and Robert Willis '70, Ticket Comptroller. Faculty Advisors are Julian Olevsky and Terry C. Schwarz. An intensive drive for new Concert Association members will take place in the fall.

Valley Brook Stables Offers Program in Horsemanship

Attention horsey - minded people! Now that Spring is here, hay rides, trail riding, riding instruction, and cookouts are ideal pastimes for recreation.

The Valley Brook Stables and School of Horsemanship located at the foot of the Berkshires on College Highway in Southwick, Mass. offers these activities.

Mrs. Nell Deveso, mother of the owner, commented that "By avoiding the heavily traveled highway, you can get aside all cares, smell the sweet aroma of the hay, listen to the braying of the harness bells and enjoy the companionship of others." On your return, hot chocolate or coffee can be served, marshmellows toasted over the bonfire, and dancing or a social hour can follow in the Stable Room. This heated room, panelled with pine boards cut on the farm, and lighted with antique wagon wheels, can easily accommodate 40 persons. You will be seated on padded mail bags, decorated milk cans from the farm dairy, and wooden benches.

For those interested in trail riding, Mrs. Deveno says, "We have gentle, well - mannered horses which will leisurely walk trot, or canter at your command over 150 acres of wooded trails."

Riding instruction in hunt seat or stock saddle seat in private or group classes is in session from April through November. John Deveso, owner of the Valley Brook Stables, is the instructor. Well known as an equestrian, trainer, and judge, he has shown his quarter horses and jumpers extensively in New England, New York, and Texas, where he has represented Massachusetts in interstate, regional, and national activities. He has served as youth chairman of the New England Quarter Horse Association and has held top showman awards at Eastern States Exposition.

University System Threatened

Sociologists Predict End of Liberalism, See Reaction to Campus Disorders

Leading French and British sociologists attending an international conference at Princeton University on student power have forecast the doom of liberal universities as they were known in the West before dissident students rose to challenge the Establishment.

The conference sponsored by Nuffield College of Oxford University, the National Foundation of Political Science, Paris, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton University, ended today.

The concluding lecture, given by Stanley Kelley Jr., professor of politics at Princeton, strongly defended the right of American students to participate in decision-making processes of their universities. Professor Kelley is chairman of the committee on the restructuring of Princeton University, which has been under pressure from various student groups to change it s organization and policies.

Prof. Francois Bourricaud of the Sorbonne, Paris, reached his conclusion that liberal universities were doomed after an analysis of the great student uprising in May, 1968. He said this marked a rapid decline and its present form, said:

"Either we are going to see a disastrous head-on blowup of the older liberalism of the universities or perhaps there is a possibility of seeing a greater differentiation in the educational system."

The analyses offered by the two scholars appeared applicable to all the Western countries, including the United States, where the dissident student challenge to what they describe as the "legitimacy" of universities seems to be growing in dimensions.

Replying to some American scholars who were apparently taken aback by his pessimistic conclusions, Mr. Halsey told one questioner:

"There is no monocausal theory to explain what has been happening."

Mr. Halsey said that in his view one of the important facts in the current student turmoil in the Western world was the "character of the culture we are transmitting."

"Students," he contended, "rejected the legitimacy of universities which are part of the system that is maintaining capitalist society."

Without naming the United States, Mr. Halsey said pointedly:

"It is extremely dangerous for a society that gives lip service to racial equality and equal opportunity not to translate its slogans into reality."

Contemporary University Branch to Begin On Campus for 20 Students Next Fall

Plans for establishing a Contemporary University Program with a branch at UMass have been completed and will take effect in September 1969. The Contemporary University is a new concept in higher education developed by Joseph Rhodes, a Senior at Cal Tech, and is to be financed primarily through a Ford Foundation grant.

Twenty students each from UMass, Federal City College in Washington D.C., and the University of South Carolina will work full time for one semester on a research project that they design and develop with the advice and direction of faculty members from the three schools and the Director of the Program, Stuart Gelbrayth. Students who successfully participate in the program will receive 15 credits which may be applied to university graduation credits or to major department credits if an arrangement is reached with the individual departments involved.

The students will be highly mobile and their projects will be extremely flexible. Ten students from UMass, USC and FCC might, for example develop a research project in the area of nutritional problems of impoverished rural people in South Carolina. They would work at the individual schools, in the field and in Washington with HEW and the Agriculture Department. Occasionally they would present research seminars to the other research stations wherever they are working and in central locations. Although this sample project may be classified as the "social action type," other research projects may be more concerned with areas of investigation in the humanities, fine arts, natural and physical sciences, etc.

In additio n to the 20 active research students from UMass there will be 60 part-time members of the program who will register for a single course in the School of Education. These part-time students will:

1. Assist the active research students in gathering background information.
2. Participate in occasional seminars with the active researcher members.
3. Develop their own course of seminars and research that is either directly or indirectly related to the research of the active research student. More information concerning this phase of the program will be available in the Fall.

Selection for full-time participation in the program will be based on a personal interview and completion of a final application. Decisions will be made by the Selection Committee consisting of two faculty members, and two graduate students in the School of Education, and two undergraduates. If any student has further questions concerning the program or is interested in obtaining an application for admission, he should:

(1) contact one of the members of the Selection Committee listed below:

Nat French 545-1537	Sally VanCamp 549-0283
Robert Woodbery 545-1535	Marie Witwicki 545-6665
Mark Cheren 549-0851	Robert Henderson 253-3300
Chad Sotorne 549-0538

(2) attend an open meeting in Thompson 104 on Friday, May 16th at 2 p.m.

Fraternity-Sorority Park to Launch New Era In UMass Greek System Outlook, Style

Fraternity-sorority park
By Patti Francis

The traditional campus Fraternity Row may soon be on the way out, if the latest building project at UMass is successful. The members of the Greek letter societies have decided to replace their present scattered houses with a Fraternity-Sorority Park.

Located on a 55-acre tract just northeast of campus, the Park is designed to provide a new image for the present structures, which are fast becoming inadequate, eyesores and potential fire and health hazards.

Thirteen of the University's 28 Greek Chapters have already joined the Fraternity-Sorority Park Corporation. The Board of directors includes a local architect, banker, attorney and real estate men.

Each chapter becomes a corporation member on payment of $50,000 of which $30,000 covers the cost of the lot and preliminary development, and $20,000 buys the chapter's shares in the corporation. Plans call for each member to have an equal vote in the corporation.

Some chapters will receive aid from their national organizations, or from alumni; others expect to raise money from the sale of the houses they now occupy.

Ground was broken for the first house at the Park in March 1969. The corporation's schedule calls for occupancy by early 1970.

Exteriors of the new houses will range from wood to brick to poured concrete. Each will be set on a 1 1/2 acre lot.

Generally the houses allow sleeping quarters for about 50, dining facilities for up to 80, a recreation room, chapter room, head of residence apartment, and kitchen.

Although some chapters will maintain the traditional two-man rooms, others are planning a suite-arrangement, which includes a bedroom for two or three, with an adjoining living room-study. In at least one house, there will be single-occupancy rooms, intended for seniors.

The better of the present chapter houses will be used by new chapters that are building up their membership by those awaiting completion of construction.

Most of the Greeks are enthusiastic about their Park. They see it as an advantage, in competing for membership with the University's Southwest (high rise) Residential complex. The Park is also viewed as a way to circumvent over pres-sent conditions.

There has been some apprehension over the fate of the Greek system at UMass, but proponents of the Park foresee no problem in filling all of the 23 available building lots, with one new house scheduled to open each year. One Greek joked that, if the worst should happen, the University would have a ready-made dormitory comple x at its disposal.

But no one is expecting that possibility to arise.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday s s uzzle

ACROSS
1-Newts
5-Still
8-Trade for money
12-Blood individuals
17-Profited
19-Skid
20-Musical instruments
21-Former Russian ruler
23-Take one's part
24-Dance step
26-Woodworking machine
28-Cut
31-Pald notice
32-Enemy
33-Pronoun
34-Farm animal
36-Aquatic mammal
38-Article of furniture
39-Tattered cloths
41-Outer garment
43-Backbone
45-Partners
48-Giggle
50-Irritate
51-Toward shelter
52-The self
54-Listen to
55-Girl's nickname
56-Small child
57-Sea eagle

DOWN
1-Urges on
2-Frustrate
3-Characteristics
4-Dispatches
5-Affirmative
6-Teutonic deity
7-Number
8-Satiated
9-Reverence
10-Told falsehood
11-Young boys
16-River dark
18-Great Lake
22-Floats
23-Precipitous
24-Moccasin
25-Pans
27-Small child
29-Be in debt
30-Marry
35-Pens
36-S-shaped molding
37-European capital
38-Improve
40-Poker stakes
42-Wash
43-Pierce
44-Hasp
46-Verve
47-Withered
49-Soak
50-Negative
53-Proceed

AS FINALS DRAW NEAR tension mounts. Papers have piled up and take home exams crowd the week before exams. An almost non-existant reading period crams study time for finals into four or five days for the many students who have their exams early in the period. As a result, many students are kicking the bucket. (MDC photo by Ken Stevens)

Deerfield Drive-In
Route 5 and 10, North Deerfield
Tel. 665-4766
FRI., SAT., SUN.
Joanna
Showtime 8:15
Sun. JOANNA 8:15

ALSO
THE TOUCHABLES
JUDY HUXTABLE ESTHER ANDERSON
MARILYN RICKARD KATHY SIMMONDS
DAVID ANTHONY
Color by DeLuxe
Cinema

SU MOVIE
THURSDAY, May 15 — 7 p.m.
ELMER GANTRY
Burt Lancaster
TUESDAY, May 20 — 6 and 8 p.m.
THE SILENCERS
Dean Martin
THURSDAY, May 22 — 6 and 8:15 p.m.
EAST OF EDEN
James Dean
SU Ballroom 50¢

AMHERST Cinema
NOW 7:10 - 9:10
Sat., Sun: 1:30, 3:30
5:05, 7:10 & 9:10
A GLIDE IN THE ART OF LOVE!
THE MIRACLE OF LOVE
Next WED. "THE KILLING OF SISTER GEORGE"

UNLIMITED FREE PARKING
Campus Cinemas
CINEMA 1 NOW PLAYING!
Eight savage young women raised in the barren aftermath of the Final World War
A new Czechoslovak film by Jan Schmidt
CINEMA 2 NOW PLAYING!
Nightly at 7:15 and 9:00
PHILIPPE NOIRET
ALEXANDER
The freshest, funniest picture so far this year.

The picture on the front page of yesterday's MDC was mistakenly sai.' to be of a discussion during the day of dialogue. It was, in fact, a discussion held Monday night after Jerry Rubin's talk in the ballroom. We apologize for this mistake.

4-H Club Acts

Amherst, Mass.--State 4-H Club members will campaign against highway litter Saturday, May 17, designated "Hit Litter Day," according to assistant state 4-H Club leader Mildred Howell at the University of Massachusetts.

On Saturday from 12to1 p.m., 4-H teams will be stationed at each of the 25 Howard Johnson restaurants in the state. They will pass out auto litter bags to motorists leaving the restaurants.

HEADSTART - (In photo left) A beleaguered enemy goalie makes a heads up play to thwart a UMass goal attempt.

HOT DOGS ON A COLD DAY - (In photo above) UMass baseball team members frolic in the Vermont snows.

GIVE ME THE GREEN LIGHT, BABY - (In photo left) Tony Chinappi looks toward Coach Dick Bergquist in the foreground for a sign.

DANCE OF THE ELEPHANTS - In photo above, Steve Connolly (44) battles M.I.T. foes for a loose ball during N.E. championship game.

DEFENSIVE WIZARD (In photo below) - Bob Hansen (23) UMass leftfielder shows the form that make scouts drool over his hitting.

MDC Photos By John R. Kelly III

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE — AUTOMOBILE

1967 Mustang, automatic, power steering, 6 cyl. engine, tires, vinyl top, low mileage, low price. Mike 582-5826. 5-15

1966 sedan, excellent condition; sprint, 1800cc engine, 4 speed, bucket seats, radio; price interesting. Call 549-7922 after 5 p.m. 5-15

1966 Chevelle 327 4-speed Craiserr mate, A & W gauges, priced for quick sale. Call 549-2157. 5-15

'61 Dart, 6 cyl., std., radio, heater, snow tires, $150. Call 549-1765 after 4:30. 5-15

1967 Ford Falcon, good condition, 6 cyl., std. trans., $150. Call 253-7664 between 5-6 p.m. 5-15

Dune Monster, Trail Blazer or modified Jeep 1961 with new studded tires, battery and clutch. Call 277-5508 after 5 p.m. 5-15

Austin Healy 3000 Mk II 1965, excellent condition, new tires, new clutch, trans., all good. Must sell immediately, $1200 or best offer. Call Steve 549-6896. 5-15

WANTED

POETRY WANTED for cooperative Poetry Anthology for-bide stamped self-addressed envelope. Idlewood Press, 943 Frederick St., San Francisco, California. 5-15

MISCELLANEOUS

Y.D.W. is coming May 16 — T.W.— Student Union Ballroom 5-15

ATTENTION: Would the driver of a black or blue Chev., Bronze 1967 Mustang with X04, that witnessed a bicycle collision on University Dr., on Oct 2, 1968 at approx. 11:35 p.m., please call Crawford & Doc, 545-2257. 5-15

Y.D.W. 1 month for Her World Student Union Ballroom 5-15

Lifeguard and/or Asia — I am looking for someone to hitch around with this summer. So, if you want to do something else, call me, I may be home. 549-5061 or 8-5366. It's best to call after 11 p.m. 5-15

Freelancer native for 1 or 2 years. Ill. home, Lighthouse Realty, Ill. 5 & 10, south Deerfield, 665-2166 — 665-7511 and 665-3553. 5-15

ROOMMATES WANTED

Wanted Male roommate to share studio apartment for summer. Completely furnished 2 bedroom apt., $90 per month including all utilities and dish-washer on a rate of $15.00 per boy. Call 549-5009 (Office). All furnished and domestic duties can be handled. 5-15

1 Female roommate to share spacious apartment. After 5:30 p.m. call either 549-6896 or 549-6897. For summer. 5-15

Roommates native for 1 or 2 years, $45 per month. Call 549-6825 or 549-5104. 5-15

4th month on No. Pleasant St., 5 mins from Campus, June 1 to Sept. 1. Call Sue 549-6115 or 549-6065. Be private. 5-15

1 Female roommate wanted to share 4 bedroom furnished apartment for summer. North Amherst. Great view. Reasonable. Call 549-1347 or 549-7611. 5-15

Wanted — 1 upperclass male, female, for married couple or single person and/or graduate students to share beautiful 8 room apt. in sunderland for summer. Call 665-2672 after 5 p.m. 5-15

Wanted — 2 roommates to share 8 furnished cottage in Falmouth. Completely renovated with a beautiful location. Call Brian 545-0670 or see June 19 at 720 Russell St., Hadley, for further details. 5-15

1 Female Roommate wanted for summer — call Carol or June 549-6811. 5-15

Female Roommate Wanted for Summer. Own area starting in Sept. to share apartment with three other girls. Interested call Donna at 586-7121. 5-15

WANTED TO RENT

$15.00 reward for information leading to selection of a 2 bdrm. apartment. Call 584-7444. $90/mo. including utilities. Will also consider large house for rental. Call 549-1137. 5-15

HELP WANTED

SAILING COUNSELOR — Girls camp, Maine, 18 to 24, for Water Skiing, Sailing, Crafts, Dramatics, Tennis, Riding, Archery, Gymnastics, Swimming, Canoeing, Dance. Write Camp Director, 1 Fuller Road, Wellesley, Mass. 02181. 5-15

MOTHER'S HELPER — Need a girl to live in and help with 2 children. Will share our home in woods (4 miles from Univ.) with mature, reliable, female student. Complete room and board plus salary in return for services. Transportation to Campus can be arranged. Call 549-1346 after 5 p.m. 5-15

Mother's helper, live in or out, full time or part-time. If need is take summer course. Call 253-9693. 5-15

BABYSITTER — Student in Sabbath for two roommates Thursday aft. 1-5 p.m. — Burt Cureton, 3-1127. 5-15

PERSONAL

Whoever borrowed three brownie from Mass. $140 per. Call 253-9436. 5-15

Remember 8-room house in Northampton? 549-5259 Shkhakl, Realtors, 253-5311. 5-15

WANTED TO BUY

One motorcycle or moto-bike/cycle in good condition, any condition considered. If price is fair. Call 253-9076. 5-15

Soc. 101 & 256 Notes

All lecture notes for Soc. 101 and Soc. 256 will be on sale in Melzar Asid, Mon., May 19 & Tuesday, May 20 from 1 to 5 p.m. — Burt Cureton, 3-1127. 5-15

SERVICES

All types of photography: portraiture, photos for theses and term papers, copies and enlargements of color and b. & w. photos, portraits in color and b. & w. w/in 5 wks. Steve Thorp, UM 6, 665-3497. 5-15

Photography: Passports, Job applications taken — 24 hour service. Discount prices on film and processing. Call Campus Pharmacy, 253 Main Street, Amherst. Tel. 253-5346. 5-15

Freelance automotive repairs — personalized auto service and light automotive repairs reasonably priced. Labor charges $3.50 per hour. Call Chris Garmon 253 545-6601. 5-15

Mobilemaper — 8 rms., furnished, 4 mi. Univ., only $70/mo. for land, rent and utilities plus free trailer. Ex. 5-15

Wanted — 2 roommates to share 4 bedroom furnished cottage in Falmouth. Completely renovated with a beautiful location. Call Brian 545-0670 or see June 19 at 720 Russell St., Hadley, for further details. 5-15

1 Female Roommate wanted for summer — call Carol or June 549-6811. 5-15

FOR RENT

Sept. to sublet for June 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1969, 2 bedrooms, furnished or unfurnished at Colonial Village. Call 586-9072. 5-15

Modern 2 bedroom apt., furnished, wall-to-wall carpeting, pool, air conditioned, stove, rubbish removal, all utilities included, all except phone. Call 665-3073. 5-15

3 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, Colonial Village, 2 mi. to Campus. Call 549-6897. 5-15

Luxury 1 bedroom house, furnished, 4 miles from Campus. In South Amherst, private & countryside, from June to Sept. Quiet cabin, will talk price. Call Bill Bennett or Tom Kral 549-5126 or 586-4346. 5-15

Very nice setting in summery woods! Room & board, plus $1072 Well, we have room & board, only 5 minutes from Campus. 5 rooms, 3 bedrooms. Rent: $175 a month, available from June 1 to Sept 1 Call 586-3687 or 549-5053. 5-15

3 bedroom apt. to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31, Colonial Village, 2 mi. to Campus. Call 253-9436. 5-15

Remodeled 8-room house in Northampton, $210/mo. Shkhakl, Realtors, 253-5311. 5-15

Summer sublet, 1 bedroom, furnished apts., Cliffside Apts. Willing to lower price considerably. Call 665-2866. 5-15

Colonial Village 2 bedroom apt., will sublet for summer or lease for longer period. Regularly $156 per month, will accept $145 per month. Must get rid of. Furnished or unfurnished. Call Dan, 253-7906, leave message at 253-6212. 5-15

Completely furnished 2 bedroom Colonial Village Apt., includes 4 cable TV's, available June 1st. Also avail. (unfurnished) in fall — research room for 2 or 4. $240/mo. Call 256-6023 6-7 p.m. 5-15

3-room house to rent, 2 bedrooms, fireplace. On bus line in Hadley. Available Sept. 1. Shkhakl, Realtors, 253-5311. 5-15

Room, Room Apt — June in Aug. 30 per month, five minutes from Campus. Call Norm 586-0596 or Bob 586-7318 on North Pleasant St. 5-15

Trunk roommate needed for cottage in Falmouth, good location, $175.00 for summer. Call 549-5009. 5-15

Amherst — central location, large 2 bedroom apt., unfurnished or partially furnished, available from June 1st - Sept. 1st. Call 253-7564 after 4 p.m. 5-15

Owner, summer sublet, 4 bedrms, 1 baths, 2 studios, adjacent to campus. 549-7987. 5-15

2½ room all electric Cliffside Apts. Rte 116, 3 miles from Campus, $100 month. Call 665-4033 or 665-2866. All utilities furnished. 5-15

To lease or sublet 3 bedroom apt., all utilities included, full kitchen plus dishwasher. 253-5396. 5-15

Available June 1, 3 bedroom, kitchenette, living room, fully furnished, electric heat, 10 minutes from Campus, $160 a month, Call David 586-5951 after 4 p.m. 5-15

Available June 1, 2 bedroom, kitchenette, living room, fully furnished, electric heat, 14 minutes from Campus, $160 a month, Call David 586-5951 after 4 p.m. 5-15

Very nice 2 bedroom apt. for rent available now or June 1st. Call 665-4496 any time 5-15

Summer apt. for rent available now or June 1st, 2½ mile from campus, utilities included, $130/mo. 549-6425 or 549-4496. 5-15

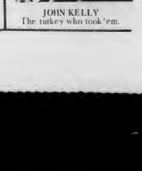
BAHA'I THING

YOUTH for ONE WORLD

UMass. Baha'i Assoc.

Sunday - May 18

Student Union Ballroom



LET 'EM RIP - (In picture above) Steve Stanford strains to pick up a grounder during recent diamond action.

College Relations Director
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008
Please send me a free Sheraton Student I.D. Card:
Name: .....
Address: .....
.....

We're holding the cards.

Get one. Rooms are now up to 20% off with a Sheraton Student I.D. How much depends on where and when you stay.

And the Student I.D. card is free to begin with. Send in the coupon. It's a good deal. And at a good place.

JOHN KELLY
The turkey who took 'em.

That Was the Year That Was. . . .

Afro-Americans Speak . . .

Dow Demonstration

Former Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey

Sen. Strom Thurmond

And my Special appreciation to the following people who took pictures for me:
Bob Mangiaratti
Ara Dedakian
Steve Schmidt
Brad Iversen
Ann Ver Planck
Rich McIntyre
Rolland Jolicoeur
Dave Craig
Wayne Lilystrom
Gunnar Myrbeck
Pat Lempart
Damian Kuffler
John Kelly
Gus Gosiminski
Ken Stevens
and Mike Alpert
Wayne Sawchuk - photo center

Ken Emery
photo editor

And the Beauty Queens . . .

Diamond Men to Close Out Regular Season Schedule Against Army, Springfield, BU

By STEVE SHAMBAN
Staff Reporter

Springfield College, Army and Boston University provide the opposition as the Redmen close out their regular season schedule with a three game homestand which starts this afternoon versus Springfield. If you want to find out just how strong your baseball team was, you wouldn't be able to locate three tougher opponents.

Springfield is New England's number one small college nine and BU, with a 12-3-1 record, has been UMass' top challenger for Division 1 honors. Army, meanwhile, though only 9-7, upset Cornell, 4-3, Tuesday to knock the Big Redout of first place in the Eastern Inter - collegiate League which is composed of the so-called Ivy League schools, Army and Navy.

Today's 3 p.m. game will be a battle of unbeaten pitchers. Curve ball artist Don Anderson will be seeking to extend his record to 8-0 while Springfield's Tom Badcock will be out for his fifth win.

Badcock, a lefty, reportedly has a good fastball and a lot of breaking stuff. He has a tricky motion and has pretty good control - a rarity among opposing starters so far this spring.

His ERA is a sparkling 1.65 as he has allowed only seven runs in 38 innings. In that stretch he's struck out 44 and walked only 17. Badcock has started five games and completed two. He could be tough although he will be pitching for the first time in 13 days. In his last outing against Colby, he went six innings, striking out 13 and walking only one.

The rest of Springfield's lineup is nothing to sneer at either. The top threat is Juhan Laurits, a speedy centerfielder, who is batting .392 with 19 stolen bases. He has scored 30 runs and can really fly. Cnet Ragno in left and Carl Pavano, a .321 hitter in right, complete the outfield.

Shortstop Al Putz is the top run producer with a .338 average and 25 RBI. Steve Steitz, a sophomore, is at third. He's swatting at a .329 clip with 19 RBI. Both Putz and Steitz have been drafted by the pros. Bob Ceal, .266, is at second and Bill Denehy, .275, is at first. Either Kurt Ascherman or Joe Avezzie will be behind the plate.

Springfield has an 18 - 5 mark which includes a 14 - 2 Northern record. Trinity College, Tuesday, stopped the Chiefs' 13 game winning streak with a 5 - 3 upset victory.

Springfield likes to run a lot, and the arm of UMass catcher Tony Chinappi is certain to be severely tested. The Chiefs could well offer the Redmen one of the biggest challenges they've faced thus far.

Tomorrow's opponent, Army, has been hot and cold all year and has no common opponents with UMass. On paper, the Cadets are a fairly well balanced team with some good hitting.

The squad as a whole has a .276 average with five of the eight fi[illegible]ers at .308 or above.

Bill Crane at second base, leads the pack at .362 with 21 hits. First baseman Fred Zilian is next at .348 with catcher Larry Fettis at .317. Outfielders Pete McCall and Dennis Haydon are tied at .308.

Other starters for the Cadets are shortstop Bob Merkle, third baseman Tom Pyrz and outfielder Steve Lindell.

Doug Rogers is the leading pitcher with a 2-1 record and a 2.35 ERA. Wakefield's John Scott has done quite a job in relief, producing a 2 - 0 mark and a 0.00 ERA. He got credit for the Cornell win, pitching the last two scoreless innings.

Lou Colabello, who shutout Williams, 3-0, a week ago, will get the nod in this one for UMass. He'll be shooting for his third win in four decisions.

Service teams such as Army are usually fairly well drilled to keep their mistakes at a minimum, and they will be catching the Redmen in the middle of a tough series. With UMass facing Springfield today and BU Saturday, the Cadets could have a psychological advantage.

Game time tomorrow will be 2 p.m., not 3 p.m. as previously listed in the athletic schedule.

Saturday's big game with BU, although having little or no bearing on the Division 1 playoff situation, could nevertheless, be a harbinger of things to come. Both squads have been looking to this one for a long time and they should be sky-high.

The Terriers will be pitching their ace, righthander Joe LaSorsa. He is rated New England's top pitcher and has a hard fastball and a good slider.

He has struck out 69 batters in 47 innings but on occasion has had control problems as evidenced by his 30 walks. Obviously, however, his 0.96 ERA indicates that he can pitch his way out of jams. LaSorsa's record is 6-0.

The Terrier offense emphasizes speed and hustle and although three men are batting in the high .300's, the team average is only a so-so .257.

Second baseman Herb Wakabayashi is presently hitting .378 and plays well afield. He may be more familiar as a stellar center on the BU hockey team.

Football players Bruce Taylor and Reggie Rucker are batting .365 and .339 respectively. Taylor is in left, Rucker in right, and both have good speed on the bases. Paul Fontas, .190, is in center.

Terry Cotton at first, 1255, Bob Leverone, .233, at third and Greg Stone, .140, at short complete the infield. Bob Matocco, .208, will do the catching.

UMass coach Dick Bergquist has tabbed John Kitchen as his starter in this one. Kitchen is coming off a good performance against Amherst and should be strong. He'll be seeking his sixth win.

On paper the Terriers do not appear to match up completely with UMass on a position for position basis. LaSorsa, however, is the great equalizer so there is no doubt about this being a contest between the two top major colleges in New England.

UMass and BU will most likely square off again later in the Division 1 Playoffs. The team that wins this will get a big morale boost for that time when everything will be on the line. Game time Saturday is 1:30 p.m.

Daily Collegian
Sports
VOL. XCVII NO. 140
THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1969

Major League Scouts to Watch DiSarcina, Hansen, BU Players

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

When the UMass Redmen take the field Saturday at 1:30 to do battle with Boston University for New England baseball's number one ranking, a good dozen "interested spectators" will be on hand.

UMass' stands will play host to the greatest influx of pro scouts since the field was opened two years ago. The men with the stop watches and scratch pads are very interested in some of Coach Dick Bergquist's personnel and two of BU's nine.

Lennie Murello, a central agency scout who is affiliated with the Chicago Cubs, thinks that Redman shortstop Joe DiSarcina could go high in the draft. "He's a major league fielder right now and a clutch player," adds Merullo, who also calls outfielder Bob Hansen, "the best hitter in New England."

Buzz Bowers, a Los Angeles Dodger watchdog, thinks that "probably three or four of the UMass players will go in the June draft. DiSarcina is drawing the most attention right now," according to Bowers.

A Kansas City Royals scout, Tony Williams, who is best known to Redman fans as an assistant basketball and baseball coach at UMass, calls Hansen, "one of the best hitters in the East," and DiSarcina, "a major league fielder to - day." Williams also feels that first baseman Ray Ellerbrook's "raw talent and natural ability,' make him pro material.

Williams likes the way John Kitchen "throws the curve and fast ball with the same motion" and feels "the development of a good slider would make him a pro hurler."

Charlie Fitzgerald, a Cincinnati Reds man, likes Hansen's hitting and DiSarcina's glove. About Ellerbrook he said, "he gets down the line in a hurry and speed's a very important thing in baseball."

Other scouts who think highly of these Redmen and will be on hand Saturday are Frank Seyboth, Baltimore Orioles; Bob Innis, Seattle Pilots; Red Fazio, New York Mets; Harold Hesse, New York Yankees and Stan Benjamin, Houston Astros.

Three UMass sophomores, who are not 21 and therefore not eligible for the draft, have been complimented by the pro birddogs.

Don Anderson, the 7 - 0 righthander, who was drafted out of high school by the Pittsburgh Pirates but didn't sign, has impressed many with his major league cur eball. Anderson could be on his way to a professional career.

Mitch Salnick, UMass' linedrive hitting centerfielder, has been ripping the ball with authority of late. Those who've seen him play also know he's no slouch in the outfield. He covers ground with confidence and poise.

Fans should take a close look at the opposition Saturday, too. The Terriers boast what many call "the areas top pro prospect" in smoking righthander, Joe LaSorsa. Well known to the scouts for his work at Rollins College and in the Cape League, LaSorsa's performance against the hard-hitting Redmen could go a long way toward telling just how high the Milford native will be drafted.

Second baseman Herb Wakabayashi, a hockey standout at BU, has shown potential after being away from the game for two years. The Canadian-born athlete is batting .378 andmakes a major league pivot on the double play.

Speedsters Brian Taylor and Reggie Rucker are also getting the once-over from the birddogs.

Joe Di Sarcina

REDMAN ATTACK – Tom Malone (23) and John Orr (43) attack an Amherst player in Saturday's 7 - 2 win for UMass. (MDC photo by John Kelly.)

10-0 Stickmen Emerge League Champions

By BOB GANLEY
Staff Reporter

Undefeated season. League Champions. 19.2 goals per game. Undoubtedly the best team in New England and probably one of the top ten in the nation.

These are the accomplishments of the UMass lacrosse team. It posted a 10-0 record during the official season and also had a clean slate on the spring trip, which carried the team to the heart of lacrosse country, New Jersey and Maryland.

Redman coach Dick Garber was quite optimistic about his team's chances for a successful season when he was interviewed before the season, but the team's performance during the year was even more than he hoped for. "I didn't think we'd score as much as we did," Barber said. "Ten or 12 goals a game is very good but 19 is exceptional. We didn't try to run up the score on any team we played and we still scored 50 goals more than last year and in one less game."

The Redmen were tested early in the season on their spring trip when they met perennial Ivy League champs, Princeton. "I don't think they were up for us the first day, and we beat them," Garber said, "they had a meeting before the second scrimmage, and they were ready for us and we beat them, 8 - 4. We also knocked off Bowling Green, which is undefeated in the midwest this year, by an 11 - 4 score. I think we played exceptionally well on the trip and it should help us in our national rankings. We should be in the top 10 and hopefully higher."

The stickmen breezed through the regular season and were only challenged three times. Garber felt that the Middlebury, Amherst and MIT games were similar. "They all came to play and had nothing to lose," the coach said. "The UMass game is getting to be the big game for most of our opponents. It's a feather in our hat that we won them all. Amherst played control ball against us and we were tense, but the team bounced back. In fact, in all my years of coaching, I've never seen a team reverse it's form like we did in the second half of that game."

Kevin O'Connor, Steve Connolly, Tom Tufts and Mark Schlossberg have been nominated to play in the North-South game at Navy in June. However, a school can only send three players, all of whom have to be seniors. Tom Malone, a junior, has been nominated along with the other four for Little All-American. Garber felt "From what I've seen all five of them should make the team. I wouldn't have nominated them if I didn't think they belonged there."

Malone and O'Connor led the Redman attack all year. Malone wiped out most of the UMass scoring records as he scored 40 goals and assisted on 44 others for 84 points. Fox was close behind with 39 goals and 30 assists. Both players had their highest scoring game against UNH. Malone scored eight, and O'Connor had seven in the 30-3 romp. However, they were by no means the only firepower UMass had. Carl Schultheis, who played three games before bowing to a knee injury, had nine goals in addition to doubling as midfielder and an attackman. Gary Vassar filled in for the injured Schultheis and scored 50 points, including 26 goals. The Redman middies also helped out. Connolly had 15 goals, Jerry Forget had seven and Steve Anderson, who missed half of the season with a separated shoulder, scored eight.

The coach, who now has 103 victories, was very ahppy for the players on the team. "We had a 20-man team, and each one made a contribution to our fine season. The best thing about the season was that they are a great bunch of guys and they deserved it."

Maine Black Bears Cloud Baseball Hopes For District One Tournament Play-offs

By MIKE CURRAN
Senior Reporter

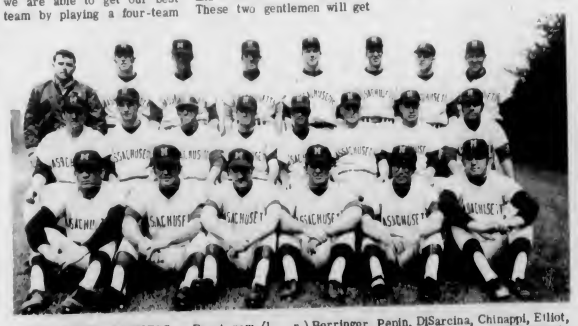
The post-season tournament picture remains cloudy for Coach Dick Bergquist's Yankee Conference (co?) champion Redmen. Maine rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to defeat UNH, 4 - 3, and that gives the Black Bears a 5 - 1 series against UConn and Vermont.

Meanwhile, the District One tournament committee is looking over the field for the regionals which would probably be held the last weekend of May. As of now, only Boston University at 12 - 3 is assured of a playoff berth.

One other position has been designated for the Yankee Conference Champion, either UMass or Maine. A four game sweep of their remaining YanCon games by the Black Bears would force a one game playoff for the league title and the record berth. After that, it's anybody's guess as to the participants.

The winner of the Eastern League gets a bid to the regionals in its locale. Army, Navy and the eight Ivy League teams comprise the Eastern League. If a team outside New England wins that conference, they gain a berth in the District Two playoffs.

With Tuesday's 5-4, 10 inning victory over Yale, Dartmouth, at 5-0, is leading Cornell at 5-1 in that league. The outcome of that race will not be decided until May 24, when those two clubs meet at Ithaca N.Y.



If Dartmouth takes the crown, it means a third team for the District One regionals. An added complication is that the selection committee, headed by Northeastern Coach John Connolly, seems to favor a four-team set up.

Connolly has been quoted as saying, "In New England, we have a short season, so I think we are able to get our best team by playing a four-team double elimination tournament." Who would the fourth team be?

Providence is the only other possibility and their credentials leave something to be desired. They own a modest 7 - 5 mark and a victory over B.U. Rainouts have plagued the Friars, and they'll be playing at least five more games this season. A blazing finish, however, could qualify Providence for the regionals.

The selection committee also includes Ted Connor of UNH and Brown's Bill Livesey. These two gentlemen will get together with Connolly either Sunday or Monday, in what promises to be a very unproductive meeting.

If UMass is in the tournament, it's a good bet the playoffs will be right here in Amherst. The Redmen have the best facilities of the prospective clubs and a central locale. Two seasons back, UMass entertained Holy Cross in the first round of the regionals and a week later played host to the eventual winner, Boston College in the finals.

BERGQUIST'S BOMBERS - Front row (l - r) Berringer, Pepin, DiSarcina, Chinappi, Elliot, Kitchen. Middle row (l-r) Mason, Stanford, Semino, Salnick, Engliotta, G. Anderson, Ellerbrook, Hansen. Back row (l-r) Manager Coonan, Newell, Ring, Bernardo, Sulzicki, Colabello, D. Anderson, Coach Bergquist.

Intramural Statistics

	TEAM	INDIVIDUAL
CROSS COUNTRY	APO	Dick Meyer, TSP
TOUCH FOOTBALL	Hills South, HiLo's	Wayne Higney, Passer Rick Fredericks, Scorer Jim Blair, Receiver Pete Woodcock, Pass Rusher PMD, Defense HiLo's, Offense
TUG OF WAR	TKE
TENNIS SINGLES	Grayson Aces	Dick Furber, Grayson Aces
BASKETBALL	Drakesters	Mike Ohlson, Scorer Mike Ohlson, Rebounder Bob Curtin, Foul Shooter
HAND BALL	BX	Carlos Loscouty, BX
BOWLING	PLP	Gary Daman, Average Chuck Webster, Single Gary Daman, High Three
SQUASH	AEP	Mike Katz, AEP Carlos Loscouty, BX
HANDBALL (Small ball)
VOLLEYBALL	AEP
WRESTLING	PMP	Paul Perreault, 128 lb. Brian Abbot, 137 lb. Dick Randall, 147 lb. Jim Peters, 157 lb. Mike Bissel, 167 lb. Paul Ruga, 177 lb. Ron Young, 187 lb. Dan Kelley, 197 lb. Dick Donlin, Unl.
SWIMMING	TC	David Conroy, 50 yd. Free Ted LaRochelle, 100 yd. Free Ron Leveton, 50 yd. Butterfly Mike Ohlson, 50 yd. Back Brian Leach, 50 yd. Breast SPE, 200 yd. Free relay TC, 200 yd. Medley
SOCCER	PSD	Bill Bean, Diving Tony Lauria, Scoring Abdon Thyra, Scoring Art Segaloff, Goalie
BADMINTON	LCA	Steve Lowe, LCA
SOFTBALL	Hamlin Pied Pipers	Mike Ohlson, Hitter Bubine, Pitcher Cunliff, Pitcher Joe LaGrosso, Art Gugleht
TENNIS DOUBLES
OLYMPUS CUP	PMD
PROVOST'S CUP	BX
PRESIDENT'S CUP	Chadbourne, Maroons
ATHLETIC CHAIRMEN		Warin Dexter, TKE Lester Sherman, Maroons Mike Dietz, BX

Little Redmen Nine Boasts 6-2 Record, Two Games Left

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Staff Reporter

"I have absolute respect for this group of kids," was the number one thought expressed by freshman baseball coach Arlan Barber as he reflected upon the '69 frosh season which concludes with an away game against Holy Cross today and a doubleheader against Springfield here Saturday.

The Little Redman nine, owners of a fine 6- 2 record, have played excellent baseball as of late in winning three straight games by counts of 12-4, 5-0 and 4-0 against AIC, Rhode Island and Worcester Academy respectively.

The latter two shutouts, hurled by lefties Bryan Martin and Tom King and backed by a defense which has committed but one error, have been the peak performances in what has been a satisfying, though short, campaign for Barber's boys.

"I'm very happy with our record," the coach commented: his only regret is that the season ends so abruptly on Saturday afternoon. It is Barber's wish, reflecting on the frosh's play of late, that the season be extended an additional month.

Abandoning such wishes in favor of a review of the frosh's performance to date, the coach's conclusion was that "King and Martin pretty well spell our season."

The facts bear him out. King leads the club with three victories. He has hurled a total of 37 innings, allowing 13 hits while walking 21 men. More impressive are the facts that he has given up only one earned run and has struck out 56 opposing hitters.

Martin's record is also highly distinguished. He has won two games and, in 21 innings, has surrendered only eight hits and two walks, while fanning 22 men. No earned runs, as yet, have been scored off the smooth southpaw.

On the offensive side of the freshman ledger, the most pleasant surprise has been Stan Baker's .650 batting average. Jim Saracino, by virtue of some solid hitting as of late, boasts a .368 batting mark.

Mike Lanchansky's .318 places him as the third leading batsman, followed by Martin's .303. Pete Thompson holds a .265 average.

Hosea Kelly, a highly inspirational performer, has suffered a season-long slump which is vividly apparent in his .188 mark. His defensive play and basepath antics, however, have identified him as a highly valuable cog in the frosh machine.

In a final windup statement concerning the '69 edition of the Little Redmen, Coach Barber just about repeated his opening thought, when he remarked, "This has been a great bunch of kids to work with."

Varsity Golfers Wind Up With Sixth Place Finish

By RAY ESONIS
Staff Reporter

The UMass varsity golf team concluded its season when it placed sixth in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Championships last weekend, and then went on to outscore Amherst College, 5-2, in the last match play competition of the year Tuesday.

The squad thus completed the season with an impressive record of 11 wins and four losses.

Last Friday at Taconic Golf Club in Williamstown where the Redmen finished sixth out of the 36 team field, two men qualified for match play that was held Saturday and Sunday. Eric Lekberg, who shot a 78 Friday, eliminated Norwich's Al Doyle in the first round of match play, 1 up, but then lost to the eventual winner, Dana Quigley of URI, in the quarterfinals, 4 and 3.

The other qualifier, Ed Puzas, eliminated Northeastern's Ken Diskin 2 and 1 Saturday morning, and in the afternoon match, Puzas played superlative golf to eliminate Wesleyan's Pat Kelly, 5 and 4.

But in Sunday morning's semi-final match, Puzas met head on with Quigley, who had earlier eliminated UMass' Lekberg. Puzas stayed right with Quigley and after nine holes he was only 1 down. But on the back nine, four straight bogies by Redman Puzas enabled the URI ace to close out the match on the 15th green, 4 and 3.

In Tuesday's match with Amherst College, however, the squad concluded the season in a winning vein.

Although first man Puzas shot a fine 73, he was defeated by Amherst's Delapp 3 and 1, who had a 71. Capt. Lekberg finally found the winning ways after a string of several tough losses, and defeated Wardly, 1 up on the 19th hole.

Third and fourth positions, held down by Dave Salter and Dick King respectively, also provided points for the Redmen. Salter squeezed by Rogers, 2 up, and King, who shot a 72, breezed to an 8 and 7 victory over Lee.

Rounding out the scoring, Redman Mark Mills dropped a close one to Quill, 2 up, Paul Johnson defeated Hendricks of Amherst, 4 and 2, and Doug Burr won his match by forfeit.

The finest golf of the day was played by UMass' sixth man, Paul Johnson, who shot a 2 under par 33 for the last nine holes.

In assessing the season, Coach Page said, "All in all it turned out to be a very good year for the Redman varsity golf squad. And with only two seniors on this year's team, the Redmen could be even stronger in another year."

Sports Banquet to Honor Hall of Famers, Athletes

The first annual UMass Hall of Fame banquet will be held tomorrow night at the Student Union, in conjuction with the athletic department All-Sports Banquet. The 7 p.m. affair is also being sponsored by the Varsity 'M' Club.

The first Hall of Famers will be Harold "Kid" Gore and Jouis Bush Sr. Also to be honored will be various current Redman athletes.

Included will be Charlie Lang, winner of the ECAC Merit award, Joe DiSarcina, recipient of the Samuel Crossman award for excellence in two sports, and the Oswald Behrand Award to Mike McCardle for an outstanding student-athlete. Also there will be the first awarding of the Chet Gladchuck award and the Dennis Dell Piana Award to a deserving baseball player.

As of press time last night, no one had identified the mystery celebrity on page 11 of yesterday's Daily Collegian. Hint: the arrow is the sign of the Turkey.

Massachusetts Collegian

SECTION 2 ALUMNI

Vol. XLIX — AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1938 — Z—288 — NO. 6

Football and House Parties Co-Feature 47th Amherst Week-end

319 GUESTS TO VISIT COLLEGE THIS SATURDAY

Eleven Fraternities Take Part in Round-Robbin Dances

SMITH LEADS

Coeds Trail Girls From Other Colleges in Number Attending

By Lloyd Copeland

Three hundred and nineteen couples will be on hand Saturday night to celebrate a victory or to drown a defeat. Guests are expected from nine different states, including Texas, Ohio, Penn., and Maryland.

Among the guests the Massachusetts State co-eds place third with 83, compared to 97 visitors from other campuses, and 138 visitors not affiliated with any college. For the second consecutive year the Smith girls rank first among the other colleges with 33 guests, followed by 15 young ladies from Mount Holyoke. Third place results in a tie among Radcliffe, Rhode Island State, Conn. College for Women, and Wellesley. Thirty-one other colleges are to be represented.

Round-Robin

All eleven fraternities are having dances this Amherst weekend. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is holding its dance at the Hills Memorial Club house, celebrating a fraternity anniversary. A:

Continued on Page 4

R.O.T.C. PROMOTIONS RELEASED TUESDAY

Appointments to Cadet Second Lieutenants, Sergeants Are Made

Appointments and promotions in the R. O. T. C. unit at Massachusetts College for the coming year were released Tuesday by the military office.

Lieutenants

Those to be Cadet Second Lieutenants are: Cadet Master Sergeant Gardner Andersen, Cadet First Sergents Ralph Foster, Seaton Mendall, George Benjamin, and Charles Griffin; Cadet Staff Sergeants, Robert Cole, Robert Muller, Frank Healy, and Lloyd Copeland; Cadet Sergeants George Bischoff, Donald Cadigan, Robert Cain, Donald Calo, Donald Cowles, Everett Eldridge, Emerson Grant, George Haylon, Lawrence Johnson, Clifford Lippincott, George Pereira, Everett Roberts, Vincent Schmidt, and Raymond Smart.

Sergeants

Appointed to the rank of Cadet Sergeants are: Cadet Corporals John Blasko, James Buckley, Frank Daley, Robert Dunn, Williard Foster, Harold Griffin, Frederick Hughes, Albin Irzyk, John Merril, George Pitts, Leroy Prouty, Winslow Ryan, Evi Scholz, John Serex, Edgar Slater, Arthur Sullivan, Gerald Talbot, George Tobey, Howard Wetherell, Wilfrid Winter; Cadets Glenn Boyd, Gerald Dailey, Franklin Davis, Charles Powers, William Richards, John Swenson, and Warren Tappin.

JEFF LEADER

Hartley Joys

CALDWELL KNOCKS CHAMBERLAIN IDEA

History Professor Holds Policy at Fault on Two Counts

Dr. Theodore A. Caldwell, State College professor of history, condemned the British and French foreign policy of recent years on two counts in his address at convocation today. Surveying the recent war scare and the events leading up to it, he expressed the convictions that Chamberlain's "stand and deliver" policy encourages further aggression, and that the policy offers nothing sound for future international peace.

Dr. Caldwell tried to answer the question "Why did Hitler feel so sur-

Continued on Page 2

STEFF ELECTED BY SENIORS TO '39 PRESIDENCY

Hager Leads Junior Ticket and Burr Heads Sophomores as Voting Ends

Howard Steff '39, Myron Hagar '40, and Clement Burr '41, have been elected president of their respective classes, it was formally announced by the Senate today. Complete election results are as follows:

Class of 1939

President, Howard Steff; Vice-President, Contance Fortin; Treasurer, Robert Glass; Secretary, Dorothy Nichols; Sergeant-at-Arms, Charles Rodda; Captain, John Bemben.

Class of 1940

President, Myron Hagar; Vice-President, Marjorie Smith; Secretary, Irma Malm; Sergeant-at-Arms, James Payson; Captain, Lawrence Reagan. Robert Sheldon and George Pitts are tied in the office of treasurer, and there will be a revote in two weeks.

Class of 1941

President, Clement Burr; Vice-President, Jean Phillips; Treasurer, Ronald Streeter; Secretary, Barbara Critchett; Sergeant-at-Arms, Dana Frandsen; Captain, John Gould.

Steff

Howard Steff elected president of the senior class, has been captain of his class for three years. He was elected to the Maroon Key, and is a three letter man—basketball, football, and baseball. He belongs to Theta Chi.

Miss Fortin

Constance Fortin has kept an unbroken record by her fourth election

Continued on Page 5

STATE CAPTAIN

Clifton Morey

SENIORS' PICTURES WILL START MONDAY

Winn Studios of Boston Will Photograph For Yearbook

It was announced today by Charles Branch, business manager of the Index, that senior portraits will be taken at the Mount Pleasant Inn, beginning next week Monday. The photographs will be taken by the well-known Winn studios of Boston. As in the past, seniors must make a deposit of two dollars when the picture is taken.

Instead of drapes, each girl is requested to wear a dark sweater and a string of pearls.

Since anyone who fails to keep his

Continued on Page 3

JEFFS FAVORED IN TOWN TITLE TILT SATURDAY

Amherst Undefeated to Date With Wins Over Tufts, Rochester, and Wesleyan

POOR PASS DEFENSE

Maroon Pins Hopes on Fact That Purple Can't Stop Air Attacks

By Art Copson

Heavily favored by virtue of an undefeated record this season, the Lord Jeff eleven will play host to State, Saturday, in the 47th annual football classic. Supported by a lone win in five engagements this year, the Maroon hopes will be pinned on the will of the team to win in the face of definite odds.

Chalked up to the credit of the Amherst juggernaut are victories over Tufts, Rochester, and Wesleyan, and a tie against Springfield. State emerged ahead in its opening encounter with American International but lost to Bowdoin, Conn. State, Rhode Island, and Worcester Tech, in the next four games on the card. Since the two teams have failed to meet a common foe, there is little opportunity to rate comparative strengths.

Watch Pattengill

The sterling performance of Vic Pattengill in the Purple backfield throughout the season, will make him the man to watch in Saturday's

Continued on Page 6

JAPS DON'T WANT TO FIGHT THE CHINESE

Miss Felton Gives Japanese Side of Oriental Battle

"The common people of Japan did not want war with China any more than the people of the United States would want war with Canada," said Miss Felton in her talk yesterday at the Old Chapel. "Because the vast majority of the Japanese people were unorganized in their desire for peace, they were forced by the upper classes into the only alternative—war!"

The lesson we Americans should learn from the Sino-Japanese conflict, said Miss Felton, is that people opposed to war should have a strong organization capable of making known its will. Giving the causes of the war in China, she showed that the "fifteen families" of Japan and the army have coerced 90% of the people into the war. The entire Christian church in Japan and all the intellectuals are opposed to the war, but are stringing along with the government so that they may keep their heads on their shoulders.

Miss Felton, who spent one whole year in Japan and who had obtained her authority from the highest and lowest Japanese officials in her travels, was sponsored by the International Relations Club, the Christian Federation, and the American Student Union. This was one in a series of talks on foreign affairs to which all are invited.

Japanese Schoolboy Appearance Again on Campus to Capture New Bug Species of Jitter For Ent Friend

EDITOR'S NOTE: Stanley Flower, former managing editor of the Collegian, was asked to to bring his now-famous Japanese School boy back to life for the Jeff week-end edition and Toktayo really comes back to life.

by Stanley Flower

To Hon. Editor of Collison:

Are disgusted, In fac, as you make to say in America, are terring.

Perhappens it are of some minute to explanation overburst of emotion. But of late date, Japanese Schoolboy are become attack from all fronts. First are people say, "Jap are menac to World not to take notice of Universe." Make one to feel very bad. Are harmless. Even when are stewdent at Hon. M. S. C., never make to harm fly. Exception for ent numbr 26.

But international sitchyouation are now place behind curtain. Are ignore for time.

"Soffies"

As royal alumnus of herebefore said M. S. C., are look forward to return for big game with other-side-of-towners tradishionl menaces. But are unsure now that game will be so much, since see in Hon. Collison that stewdents of old Alms Matter are apparent to become as you make to say in America, "soffies." Evident from lac of Razz Nite.

Now when Japanese Schoolboy are stewdent, things are make to be diffrent. As are say in west of America, "Men were men and women glad of it." In fac, if at leastest seven (7) feshmen do not receive laceration of leg and have 3 sq. inchs of skins remove from Hon. puss it are considered very poor Razz Nite. That is what are happen outside of phy ed buildg. After, down on other side of alum field, even more worser thing make to take place. Here, if six (6) sophomores do not kick in stomach and three (3) more have entire wardrobe remove, it are considerd poor show by spectatrs. All this are mere incident.

But as have repeat, all above are in good old days when hash house serve meet almost raw. Now, are inform by peeple in know, that influx of coeducationals make men to forget duty in line of Razz Nite.

"Free For Everybody"

However, are still interest in return to campuss for Amhurst weakend. In old day, weakend begin Fri. evening with rally at two colleges ended by free for everybody at one. Have see day when stewdents go mad and throw everything and everybody into pond except maybe overlook Dean Burns. Relly are wild time. Ghool post too usually take beating one way or nuther.

Then dawn Sat. afternoon when big game are progress very fast and twenty-two (22) men fight with might in attemp to push over ball on white line. Always thought most silly, because no cooperation. Half of men try to stop other half. How expect are to produce ghools with such action?

Between halfs of big game, always —that are, always in day when men are men—see freshmens try to grab green cap from other side of field.

Continued on Page 4

BEAT AMHERST

Adelphia Rally

Friday Night

Parade from Lambda Chi to Bonfire

Speakers-Cheers-Singing

Everyone Out to Back the Team